EASTLAND, TEXAS, THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1953

PRICE FIVE CENTS

AROUND THE SQUARE

Residents of Eastland have witnessed a double tragedy this week in the passing of Mr. and Mrs. Milton J. Gaines. Many have wondered as to the cause; a few have arrived at a conclusion that they agree with the Apostle Paul that we do not know.

Maybe it is better this way, and again we can not say. Our wisdom may be very small as compared to the Wisdom of God. Christ's love is with all understanding.

In our weakness, we are bound, as are all humans. Limitations of character, circumstance even life itself are not understood. We live and die without understanding our final destiny.

As being true, it might be wise to accept God's Word when we find ourselves facing great problems. If we have faith to believe and to accept His gift, He has promised to be with us all the way, even unto the end of the world and then throughout eternity. Should we ask more?

We have work to do, and this in no way conflicts with that of God. He has understanding—we do not. Let him judge.

The coronation has passed into history, and everybody is happy unless it should be the new queen. She will be alright in a few days, but she certainly did undergo a lot of punishment during the eleven-hour ceremony. At this time she has some six hundred million she can do some big things with that much help.

She has almost four times as many subjects as the United States has citizens, but it must be remembered that there is quite a difference between subjects and citizens. To make her country all that it should be, she should import at least a couple of Texas Rangers and a small group of Boy Scouts.

One of Eastland County's outstanding citizens is J. M. Cooper, county agricultural agent. He works while others are sleeping, and all of this work is to help you. Fact is Mr. Cooper is too good for his own good—he works too hard. It's his job to see that our farmers grow good crops, even under unfavorable conditions. He tells them, in a scientific manner, when to plant and what to plant for best results. He tells stockmen about modern methods of handling livestock. What kind of hay to feed and when and where to buy it.

He carried with him, wherever he goes, an unlimited supply of general information, so valuable to farmers and others.

And all of this reminds us of an old slogan used many years ago by the Texas Farm and Ranch. "Civilization begins and ends with the plow." This is quite true, and any county with a live County Agent can see the results of his work. We salute Mr. Cooper.

Automobile inspections are in style again, though the requirements this year are not so stringent. Fact is the old law was worse than a crazy quilt, and wax as resplendent as it was crazy. New cars, fresh off of the floor, couldn't meet the requirements—and most of them were unnecessary.

The only good thing about the law was that of opening up many avenues of graft, and these most likely existed from "insurance policies" down to the mechanic and his left handed monkey wrench.

It was so "raw" that people went up in arms and refused to obey it. Ordinarily such would have been a very bad policy, but under the circumstances, it is doubtful.

When the legislature discovered that it had given the public a dose of ipecac, rather than a shot of soothing syrup, it made amends. This time there is an examination of five parts, and all have to do with safety in driving. We need good lights and brakes. We need good steering gear and windshield and windshield wiper. That's all to be examined. This law should be respected and enforced.

Under the old system a slick garage mechanic might talk you into buying a couple of hundred dollars worth of parts. In a way you may have needed them, or could have used them, though they had little or nothing to do with safety. You were afraid not to buy because your permit was in jeopardy.

Under the new ruling these dishonest mechanics will pay heavy fines if they merely suggest that you stock up on a charge of needless parts. We are improving.

BRECK RODEO SET TO OPEN ON WEDNESDAY

The Tenth Annual Stephens County Rodeo will be held in Breckenridge on June 10-13. Four night performances will be given beginning at 8:15 p. m. in the rodeo grounds just east of the City.

Events include bareback bronc riding, Jr. calf roping, old timer's roping, cowgirl sponsors contest, yearling tie down, and children's pony show. In addition, there will be both National Cutting Horse competitions and Stephens County cutting horse contests.

One of the outstanding features of the rodeo this year will be a match roping each night between "Stingin' Sammy" Baugh, now ranching at Rotan, and Nig Wright of Breckenridge. Each will get three calves nightly.

A mammoth street parade will officially open the rodeo on June 10 at 5:00 p. m. The newly formed Breckenridge Buckaroo Riding Club will make its first public appearance at that time. All riding clubs are invited to participate.

P. M. Faulkner, mayor of Breckenridge, issued the following invitation: "The people of Breckenridge cordially invite all of their friends in neighboring towns to come over and spend the day during Rodeo Week. Bring your picnic lunch and enjoy the day in our beautiful $250,000.00 Youth Center, nine acres of park right in the center of the city. Plan to take a swim in the magnificent 75'x170' pool in the park and let the little folks play and wade in the specially built kiddies pool. There are plenty of picnic tables and an 18-hole miniature golf course. We know you'll enjoy our big amateur rodeo to finish off your day. All of you are looking forward to seeing us."

Rodeo headquarters are in the Burch Hotel. Tickets are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce in Breckenridge.

Billy Graham Crusade Draws Big Attendance

Despite the highest temperature of the year, Evangelist Billy Graham began his month-long Greater Dallas Evangelistic Crusade on Sunday, May 31, with a crowd of 8,500 persons who braved the scorching hot 96-degree afternoon sun to listen to a message on the need for revival if the American way of life was to be preserved. The young evangelist was enthusiastic in his reaction to the opening meeting, and the crowds in attendance during the nightly meetings of the first week seemed to justify his enthusiasm. The Crusade has already begun to assume the proportions ascribed to it in advance by the local Crusade committee.

Delegations from neighboring communities, and from stores and factories have sparked the evening meetings, highlighted by the group of more than 2,500 from Tarrant County headed by their Congressman, Hon. Wingate Lucas, who flew from Washington on Tuesday night to sit with his delegation.

The meetings are continuing nightly at 7:30 in the vast Cotton Bowl Stadium in Fair Park. Facilities have been provided for a 100 crib nursery where children up to three years of age are accommodated free of charge. There are no Monday night meetings.

Little Items Of Local Interest

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Kelly left Wednesday for Dallas, where they are to make their home. The Kellys came here from Dallas a few months ago.

C. Melvin Rathel, pastor of the First Baptist Church will preach in a revival at Thornton, Texas, June 5th through June 14th. He will go by bus Friday morning and meet Rev. Truman Caldwell in Waco.

Mrs. C. M. Rathel and Dale will drive to Crosbyton, Texas, to spend a few days with her parents and Dale's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Huddleston and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Rathel.

Much Activity Is Reported In Area Oil Fields

The No. 1 J. C. Henry, located six miles west of Rising Star, has been abandoned at 1,858 feet, it was announced this morning.

The failure, a project of Sells Petroleum & Ace Oil Co. (formerly F. R. Hanrahan et al), is located in the H. P. Genoway Survey.

A completion and a failure also were reported over in Stephens County.

The Texas Company No. 65-A J. W. Parks, NCT-1, Section 3366, TE&L Survey, 3 1/2 miles southeast of Breckenridge, has been completed as a new producer with a gauge of 28.75 barrels of oil in 10 hours.

The well flowed through 9-32 choke with 320 pounds on casing and 150 pounds on tubing from open hole at 2,416-25 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 1,490-1.

Terrell Petroleum Co. No. 1 Gardenhire Heirs, Section 23, Block 6, T&P Survey, wildcat 3 1/2 miles south of Caddo, has been abandoned at 4,372 feet.

Two new projects in the Brad and Grafton vicinities of Palo Pinto County were announced late Wednesday.

Boase Well Servicing Co., Breckenridge, staked No. 4 C. H. Belding as a Belding Strawn Field project 3 1/2 miles northeast of Bradman 982 feet from the north and 1-100 feet from the east lines of the northwest quarter of Section 14, Block 3, T&P Survey.

It is slated for 1,950 feet. Wesley Stephens, et al, Graham, spotted No. 1 Laura E. Hinkson as a 1,800-foot cable tool venture eight miles west of Grafton, 3,120 feet from the northeast and 150 feet from the southeast lines of the west half of P. Miller Survey, A-312.

USDA Changes Approved, Are In Effect Today

In Washington the House stamped final approval Wednesday on President Eisenhower's plan of reorganization for the Agriculture Department, thereby permitting it to take effect today.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson put out a statement expressing his gratification. He said "no radical" changes would be made in the immediate future but that each branch of the department will be studied to determine whether shifts are needed.

The plan creates three new assistant secretaries and gives Benson authority to centralize control over department functions. The plan had the announced purpose of aiding efficiency and cutting expenses.

Benson said new assistant secretariats are expected to go to John H. Davis, present head of the department's commodity marketing and adjustment group, Romaine E. Short, director of the foreign agriculture service, and Richard D. Aplin, present head of the department administration group of agencies.

The plan was the second of 10 Eisenhower reorganization proposals to be accepted by Congress. The first plan set up the new Department of Health, Welfare and Education.

RETAIL FOOD PRICES RISE

The government reported today retail food prices rose six-tenths of one per cent between mid-April and mid-May.

The rise was attributed mainly to higher pork prices. Pork chops advanced 11.3 per cent, bacon 8.1 per cent and whole hams 3.8 per cent.

Meats, poultry and fish were up as groups. Prices were higher for lamb, veal, poultry and canned meat and fish. Prices for fruits and vegetables rose seven-tenths of one per cent and cereals and bakery products were up four-tenths of one per cent.

Largest decrease was for dairy products, down 1.5 per cent, as fresh milk prices declined more than 2 per cent. Prices for eggs and beverages also declined.

HERRINGTON ONE OF FIRST AREA FARMERS TO PRODUCE EGGS FROM CAGED CHICKENS

Eastland County is rapidly becoming a highly productive and more prosperous diversified farming area.

Scores of progressive farmers and stockmen in the vicinity are adopting new and scientific methods in their crop, poultry and livestock operations. And in the years to come, poor, scrubby land will be made rich and highly fertile, fat animals will weigh more and bear choicer flesh, and a new future agricultural prosperity—a sound, stable source of income—will filter into the surrounding environs mutually aiding and benefitting business and professional interests as well as industry.

On the subject of new, scientific methods—consider the very interesting experiment now in progress out on the busy, modern farm of Felton Herrington, located seven miles north of Ranger in adjoining Stephens County.

Herrington's new and revolutionary project—caged chickens. New and revolutionary for this section of the nation and the world is now a full-scale invasion of that newest technique in poultrydom has been launched here in the United States. Already there are millions of caged chickens in California.

Out on Herrington's farm, the ardent poultry enthusiast has erected a large aluminum-topped shed which covers 500 cages.

These cages, suspended from simple pipe racks, are each 10 inches wide, 18 inches high and 18 inches in length. And in each is a laying hen. The cages are of simple wire construction and hang about three-feet off the earthen floor.

Sheet metal feeding troughs and an automatically controlled fresh water system have been installed to supply the necessary food elements for the birds.

Now—why caged chickens? Briefly, here are some important points:

1—Caging makes it possible to keep the laying flock accurately culled. Each hen is thus positively identified and may be regularly and easily checked.

2—Feeding can be positively and scientifically controlled, and the birds when caged are kept free from contact with worms, blue bugs, lice and other pests.

3—The birds when caged are kept free from contact with worms, blue bugs, lice and other pests.

Herrington says he spends only about one hour each day attending his caged flock. The shed—to be enclosed on the sides late next fall prior to the arrival of cold weather—is equipped with electric lights. The glowing bulbs, switched on during the dark early morning and late evening hours, keep the hens "awake" a prescribed 14 hours each day.

The aluminum roof was used instead of usual sheet-metal types because it repels heat and provides a cooler temperature for the caged chickens during these hot days.

How's production? Well, Herrington's cages aren't all filled yet. He only recently got his ambitious new project under way.

But—thus far—127 hens have been laying between 80 and 100 eggs per day.

Herrington's project is being watched with great interest by neighbors and also by county agricultural workers and feed dealers. His caged chickens may spur new interest in the poultry industry in Eastland County.

In addition to his new poultry project, Herrington has about 1,000 turkeys which he'll market late next fall.

He also has 30 head of dairy cows which account for tidy additional income.

Felton Herrington, like other progressive farmers and stockmen in this area, is looking ahead to a more secure and prosperous future. And he's doing something about it today!

Nimrod Boy Is Delegate To 4-H Roundup

West Central Texas Extension Service agents have designated most of the 4-H Club boys and girls from the area who will get to attend the Texas 4-H Roundup at College Station June 10 and 11.

Youngsters, one boy and one girl from each county, are selected on the basis of their all-around 4-H Club accomplishments and leadership.

Purpose of the Roundup is to provide the boys and girls with inspiration and information for high quality living now and in the future; to offer an experience in group thinking and action by individual participation; to contribute to their knowledge for responsible citizenship and service in their communities; to give a wider outlook through contact with youngsters from all parts of the state.

The theme this year is: "From Here—Where?"

Delbert Taylor, Tarrant County, and Dorothy Foltyn, Lamb County, will preside over the special sessions of the Texas 4-H Council, which will convene ahead of the Roundup. Other members of the executive committee are Jo Jon Hall, Martin County, secretary; Johnny Halbert, Neaogoches County, and Agnes Warren, McLennan County, publicity co-chairman.

The Roundup opens June 9 with a get-acquainted party for 4-H members at the Grove on the Texas A&M Campus, and for 4-H leaders in the ballroom of the Student Center.

The formal session begins at 8:45 Wednesday morning, June 10, in Sbia Hall, with Dr. George C. Baker, chaplain, SMU, making the keynote address. Then in smaller groups the members will take part in a "Texchange" or discussion.

The afternoon will be spent in working as they further discuss the future of youth and what 4-H can contribute. A chuck wagon supper and pageant will be held in the rodeo arena in the evening.

Thursday's program will include a tour of Texas A&M, and presentation by each group of their discussion sessions, ending with a 4-H banquet sponsored by the Sears Foundation.

Eastland County's boy delegate will be Rennie Bostick of Nimrod, a member of the Scranton 4-H Club.

An estranged couple, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Latham, were fatally shot with a .22 caliber pistol about eight miles east of Breckenridge on U. S. Highway 180 about 8 o'clock Wednesday night.

Latham, about 31, died about five minutes after arrival at a Breckenridge hospital, where he was taken by a brother, Lester. Mrs. Latham died instantly.

Justice of the Peace L. T. Woodall said Wednesday night he would enter a verdict of murder and suicide. Woodall said his investigation showed Latham shot his wife five times and then turned the gun on himself.

The couple had been separated about six or seven months, officers said.

Stephens County Sheriff Tom Offield and his deputy, Al Ramsey, and Justice Woodall investigated the deaths.

Latham's survivors include a daughter, about 5, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Latham of Breckenridge; three sisters, Miss Lener Mae Latham and Mrs. Rosa Belle Beauchamp, both of Breckenridge, and Mrs. Ed Osborn of Throckmorton County.

Latham was a veteran of World War II and was employed as a mechanic at 431 North Breckenridge Ave.

Murder she ye led

By Joseph Stallie

XXXIII

I BEAT it out of the office, pulling the snap-lock shut behind me, and pounded across the cinders to Cottage 9. Kitty Lane was lying on her bed, staring at the ceiling. I closed the door and sat down beside her.

"You're right," she said dully. "I just phoned a lawyer. I don't get a dime."

"That's tough," I said. "It was a good try."

Her eyes rolled listlessly toward me. "What do you mean?"

"Baby, it's no use kidding each other at this late date. I know you went to see Eddie yesterday morning and put the hook into him."

"You're so clever, aren't you?"

"I mean getting Eddie to tell the fairy tale about Al's last words. A good try. It really deserved to work."

"I don't know what you're talking about."

"It doesn't matter any more, Kitty. We're both in the same fix as far as Al's money is concerned—we're both out in the cold without any cold cream. You can talk to me, Kitty. How did you pressure Eddie?"

"He had a weak spot," she said wearily. "Roslyn. Is that what you want to know?"

"Yes. And what did you do with that?"

"I just told him I knew he was covering up for the little tramp. I hadn't been suspicious till she came to my room and put on that act about accusing me. Then I saw the whole thing. I knew she'd had a fight with Al—Al told me himself. I knew what her hot temper could make her do. I told Eddie all that. I also told him I knew something else: That car story was a fake."

"What car story?"

"You know what car story—it was in the newspaper. Eddie said that after he was hit he heard a car speeding away. Well, there wasn't any car. I know, because some jerk saw me home after the dance, and hung around the cottage handing me a line, and I was outside the whole time till you came over to the office. If a car had gone out the driveway, I'd have noticed it."

"Go on."

"That's all. When I showed Eddie how I knew he was covering up—when he saw what I could do to Roslyn—he was really sweating. He was ready to say anything I wanted him to—the will, anything. . . ."

I tried to feel suspicious, but her story hung together too well. If Kitty had been the one who wielded the ax, would she have been foolishly enough to call attention to herself by trying to get Al's dough? And even if she were willing to take the chance, wouldn't Eddie have called the cops instead of going along with her story?

I WENT outside, my brain creaking around like a ferris wheel in winter. It certainly looked as if Eddie had stuck his neck way out for somebody. And if that much were true, the rest was clear:

It's 2:30 a. m. Roslyn can't sleep. Eddie had told her he'd be staying at the office, talking business plans with Al, and he's still not back. She sizzles at the thought of how hard he works and how Al pays him off in peanuts. Al just can't do this to Eddie. Or her. Al laughed off her bluff about Eddie getting TV cifiers. Just laughed in her face. The dirty rat. She leaps out of bed, flings on a dress and rushes over to the office. You again says Al. Scram! You stop cheating my husband, she yells. Al yells back. She grabs the nearest thing handy and swings at him. Al goes down. You've killed him, Eddie moans. She wants to run, but Eddie says no, no—maybe people saw me here with Al—they'll think I did it. You'll have to knock me out, too—make it look like robbery. Here, hit me on the head with the blunt end of the ax, then clean out our pockets. Hit you? she gasps. It's the only way, he says. I'll tell them I heard a car speeding away. And don't forget to wipe your fingerprints off the handle. Go ahead, sock hard. She swings—Eddie goes down—she runs. . . .

Faking the will could have come as an afterthought to her. Or maybe brother-in-law Dave had the idea first. But he would have needed help—he didn't know the setup well enough around here. Sticking in my name and Chris Witmer's as camouflage would have been her doing. . . .

It all held together. But how about Rocky Silone's counterfeited dough? And the blackmail letter? Could I pin all that on her, too?

THE phone was ringing when I got back to the office. It was Healey. He was all a-bubble. "Just wanted to tell you we're getting somewhere, thanks to you," he said. "Your pal Torchy is still sticking to the innocent act, but he's come across with the names of some of the guys who were staying at his place and we'll probably be able to dig a witness out of them. And that's not all, Dave Fields is starting to crack."

"How?"

"You remember in that statement you got from him, he said nobody else knew about the fake will? Well, he's just admitted Roslyn Fields knew about it."

"Uh huh."

"You're not surprised?"

"No."

I put the phone back on the window sill. I stayed there, watching for Roslyn and Eddie. She was taking her time bringing him back to this unhappy shore, where nothing ever went right and all the birds sang false notes.

Along the cinder path from Chicken Alley now came the sweetest little bird of them all, Midge Burnett, in going-out clothes. No halter and shorts, but a real dress, pale green linen with short sleeves, and a grass-green straw hat and gloves. Even a green alligator bag.

This Wasn't Ed's Lucky Day

MILWAUKEE — A "lost and found" ad in the newspapers here seeking the return of $1,500 told only part of the bad luck of Edward Ratz, a tavernkeeper.

Ratz lost the money—in bundles of $500 on his way from a bank to his bar where he planned to cash paychecks for workers from nearby factories. A search for the money was fruitless.

That evening during a quiet period in the bar, three men entered, held up Ratz and escaped with more than $900.

. . . The auto family had a casualty toll of two million. Deaths totaled 37,600. Speed killed 13,430 and injured 600,000 more. Drivers under 25 had 24% of the fatal accidents but constituted only 15% of the total drivers. Statistics show that of every car owner who had one or more accidents in 1952 would decrease that number by one, car insurance would be cut in half in 1954. Let's all try it.

PRODUCER BASE MILK PRICE $6.20 PER HUNDREDWEIGHT

Producers delivering base milk to the Central West Texas Marketing Area will receive $6.20 per hundredweight for 4.0 per cent milk (subject to location adjustments) for the month of April 1953, Byford W. Bain, Market Administrator, announced today. The price producers will receive for excess milk is $3.65 per hundredweight. The producer butterfat differential for April is 7.8 cents per point for both base and excess milk. Producers will be paid on base and excess deliveries for the months of April, May and June.

Trap Rain And Increase Yield

Trap that rain! Hike that yield! These phrases may wax heavy with the refrains of the familiar spiritual, "Ole' Man River," but they carry more expression for the experienced winter wheat grower.

Growers who started to farm in the last 10 years, have known the lush years when it was easy to make a crop, says Capper's Farmer. But it takes a lot more skill to get the job done when rains are less favorably spaced and smaller in total.

Wheat farmers who have been at it a quarter of a century know that in years with less rain the best yields come from land that has been managed to trap water from all big rains that fall before wheat is sowed.

They say you can trap rain by keeping four or five inches of top-soil loose and cloddy, ready to grab an inch of rain that pours down in 30 minutes. Only the water you trap does you any good.

And the old timers say stubble is one of your best helpers. Keep it on top. It will break the force of driving rain-drops; keep them from running soil particles together.

Don't discount wind. Air in the plains country is dry, ready to take up any moisture it touches. So stubble is needed to stop air movement on the ground.

Stubble also makes shade. That reduces the number of weeds that sprout and keeps the soil cool. Hot soil turns water into vapor, so it can pass off into the atmosphere. All the moisture that can possibly be trapped in fallow is needed to make the following year's wheat crop.

Average daily producer deliveries for April were 289,704 pounds as compared with 286,781 pounds in March and 267,427 pounds in February. This is an increase of 1.02 per cent over March and 8.33 per cent over February. Of the 8,691,106 pounds of producer milk received by handlers during April, 79 per cent was classified as Class I (fluid milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk and cream) and 21 per cent classified as Class II, or milk used in manufactured products. During April there were 546 producers delivering milk to handlers in the Central West Texas area, as compared with 549 in March and 553 in February.

Handlers received 1,231,834 pounds of milk, skim milk, cream and other products from sources other than producers in April as compared with 1,389,238 pounds in March and 1,085,883 pounds in February. Of the total receipts of other source milk in April 678,313 pounds were utilized in Class I products and 553,521 pounds were utilized in Class II products.

The average daily Class I sales in April decreased 1.39 per cent from March and 3.44 per cent from February.

June Is Dairy Month

Chicago TV actress Adrienne Falcon celebrates the advent of June Dairy Month and raises a toast to the U. S. Dairy industry, with a refreshing glass of milk during a "break" in recent rehearsals. Dairy Month, June 1-30, a star in its own right on the American scene, is being staged for the 17th consecutive year by over 10 million Americans who gain livelihood from the production, processing and distribution of dairy foods such as ice cream, milk, butter, cheese, evaporated milk and dry milk. The dairy industry contributes annually at least 10 billion dollars to national commerce. Adrienne keeps trim by following the newly developed scientific diet for weight reducing, or ideal weight maintenance, which includes liberal portions of dairy and other basic foods in the menus.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Butler of Olden, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Coen White of Texaco, were guests Saturday in the O. T. Hazard home.

Warn Against Dangers During Bike Season

There are detergents advertised on today's market for practically any cleaning job—from cutting stubborn grease on a mechanic's hands, to discouraging fleas on the family poodle.

They work too, in most instances, but State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox has this word of warning: "Make sure you follow the directions to the letter." Otherwise you could end up with a discomforting case of "housewives eczema."

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Crosby had as guests Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Foreman and children of Olden, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Crosby of Eastland, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fonville of Desdemona.

Mrs. Blanche Sims spent Friday night in Ranger with her daughter, Mrs. Bob Blackwell.

These so-called "soapless" products have found wide favor with housewives for washing clothes and dishes. No doubt a good bit of their popularity is due to high powered advertising, including the decorative boxes featuring happy ladies hanging the washing or putting up dishes which the product has cleaned all by itself.

Dr. Cox identifies the active ingredients of these products as chemical compounds which act to lower surface tension of water, making it more penetrating and able to get through grease and dirt to break it up and keep it from resettling.

Many brands contain special purpose ingredients, such as ammonium salt, which make the compound bactericidal.

A duck is supposed to sink like a rock in water containing some of these detergents, probably because the "wetter" water gets through the oil in the duck's feathers—which is the reason a duck is ordinarily water proof and able to float.

It stands to reason, Dr. Cox points out, that if these compounds will cut through grease and film, and there is no doubt that some of them will—they will also penetrate the natural oils of the skin and cause irritation and discomfort if the condition is neglected.

The health officer's recommendation? Keep some hand lotion within easy reach and apply it liberally after using detergents for household cleaning or laundry.

Fine Powders May Improve TV in Future

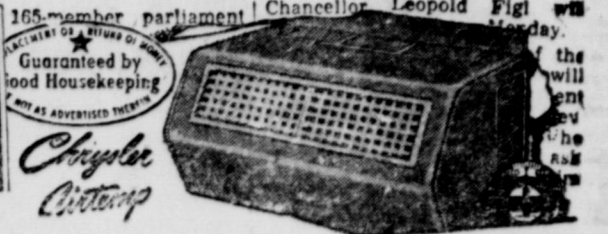

Superfine powders, which someday may give greater detail and brilliance to television pictures, are objects of General Electric Co. experiments.

The powders are so small that 1,000 particles could line up single file across the head of a pin. Since standard sieves won't sift out such small grains, the powders are separated by a stream of air that blows the lightest and smallest powders into a container.

Dr. Lewis R. Koller, a GE researcher, thinks the powders may be used in the thin, luminescent coating inside TV tubes. The thinner the coating, Dr. Koller believes, the better the image. And, he points out, the finer the powder from which the coating is made, the thinner that coating will be.

Eastland Memorial Hospital Has First Anniversary Tea Sunday 3-5

By MRS. SAMUEL BUTLER

"Somebody said it couldn't be done, but he with a chuckle replied that 'maybe it couldn't,' but he would be one who wouldn't say so 'til he tried. So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin on his face. If he worried he hid it. He started to sing as he tackled the thing that couldn't be done, and he did it."

The Women's Auxiliary of the Eastland Memorial Hospital will be hosts at the hospital Sunday, June 7, from three until five p. m. This will be a silver tea celebrating the first anniversary of the opening of the hospital. The public is invited.

Mrs. John Turner, tea chairman, has announced the following committees: Refreshments,

Mrs. Frank Castegerry, Mrs. Fred Davenport, Mrs. Victor Cornelius, Mrs. R. C. Ferguson, Mrs. R. B. Vickers, Miss Norma Vickers, Mrs. Billy Walters, Mrs. W. E. Brasher.

Telephone Committee — Mrs. Herbert Weaver, Ida Harris, Tommy Alford, Milton Fullen, M. H. Perfy, Mrs. John Nix, Mrs. Frank Lovett, Parks Poe, Robert Perkins and Inez King.

Publicity — Mrs. Samuel Butler, Mrs. Don Parker and Mrs. James Horton.

Yes, one year ago we were happy in knowing the building was completed. Today we are happier knowing this same hospital is rendering the valuable service for which it was built.

We are deeply grateful to the Superintendent, Mrs. Grace R. Reed, and her efficient staff. They have done and are doing a splendid service and the many friends of the hospital are evidence of this.

Mrs. James Horton, president of the Women's Auxiliary, especially urges all new citizens of Eastland County to visit the hospital and be tea guests.
