

Memorial Day time to honor those who served

By Congressman Larry Combest (R-Texas)

In the quiet of cemeteries, the peace of this Memorial Day is owed to the 1.1 million Americans we honor who gave their lives for this country.

Tradition has it that Memorial Day observances began with two women of the Civil War who met while placing flowers on the graves of family members.

Thereafter, flowers were spread on gravesites without regard for whether they were Union or Confederate dead.

Originally known as "Decoration Day," the observance began with the hope that it would continue as long as a survivor of that war remained alive to honor the memory of his fellow soldiers.

In fitting tribute, Memorial Day has continued to live on for all who have died for our freedoms.

For their families who mourn, Memorial Day observances cannot heal their sense of personal loss. However, our solemn recognition of this sacrifice renews faith that their loved ones gave their lives in battle so that future generations could live in peace.

Civil War Era minister Henry Ward Beecher's words of profound comfort is for all generations of families: "It was your son, but now he is the Nation's. He made your household bright, now his example inspires a thousand households."

One week ago, flags that were half staff for 30 days in honor of President Nixon returned to fly again at the top of their flag poles.

On Memorial Day, those flags return to half staff in honor of Americans who died that we may have freedom and peace.

In his last book, Beyond Peace, Richard Nixon concluded that our greatest challenge in the era beyond peace is to learn the art of national unity.

The former president wrote "If we fail to meet that challenge, our diversity, long a

Summer food program cancelled

By Helena Rodriguez

A Summer School Food Service Program scheduled to begin May 31 to serve free breakfast and lunches to children ages one to 18, has been cancelled.

The program, which is sponsored by the Texas Department of Human Services, was to be administered by the Muleshoe Independent School District at DeShazo Elementary School.

According to Jim Clinton, contract manager for the Texas Department of Human Services in Lubbock, the application by MISD was approved for the program. However, Clinton said he later learned that an employee of the school's food services, ARA, not a school employee, attended a training workshop that is required to administer the program.

Clinton said that federal guidelines require that a school employee attend the training. Clinton said he spoke with MISD officials, including Food Services Director Laine Meek and Buck Johnson, assistant superintendent of operations to try to work something out and allow them to make accommodations and possibly have an employee take self-paced training. However, Clinton said MISD chose not to have it this year because of a lack of time to get someone

Study: Organic cotton production offers advantages

AUSTIN—A study funded in part by the Texas Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Diversification Program has concluded that organic cotton production in the High Plains offers economic advantages to farmers and to the state's economy, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said.

Along with paying farmers about twice what they receive for conventional cotton, organic cotton production also generates additional economic activity in the state.

On average, an acre converted from conventional to organic production results in an additional $419.50 in demand for goods and services within the state, according to the study done by the University of Texas' Natural Fibers Research and Information Center in Austin.

Of the 13,300 acres of organic cotton planted for the 1992-93 season, the 11,000 bales harvested earned $5.5 million directly in farm-gate value. Organic cotton farmers on average earn about $1 per pound for organic cotton, compared with about 50 cents for a pound of conventional cotton.

However, the total impact to the state was an additional $5.6 million in economic activity.

"This study shows that organic cotton production is a viable alternative for farmers to explore, especially in the High Plains, where Mother Nature has given our farmers a comparative advantage with a climate that discourages large insect populations and where freezes naturally defoliate cotton before harvest," Perry said.

The shift to organic cotton production increases economic activity by moving production inputs from chemically intensive items that are generally imported into the state to local inputs and labor-intensive methods.

Economic activity also is increased because organic cotton brings a higher export price.

The study found that on average, an organic cotton farm requires an additional $2.51 in inputs per acre of cultivated land, and one job is created for every 1,000 acres converted.

Even though the average organic cotton yield is 13 percent lower than conventional cotton, added revenue per acre for organic cotton is about $190. This added revenue impacts the Texas economy by generating demand, income and jobs in other sectors of the economy.

The study noted that the Texas High Plains is an ideal

Dillman Library to be open in summer

In an effort to continue allowing Dillman Elementary School students to use the books in the library to allow reading practice during the summer, the Dillman Library will be open on Tuesday of each week.

Parents may bring children to the library and browse with them to find books for summer reading. The Tuesday hours will be 9 a.m. to noon.

Parents will need to be with children who come to use the library as there will not be a planned program during these hours.

Several parents have asked about the possibility of using the library during the summer in order to build on reading skills learned in the Success For All reading program at the school.

This summer will serve as a trial period to see if this is something that is needed to expand in the coming years.

If parents wish to have Dillman students check out books during the summer, remember to come to the school on Tuesdays for some good reading materials.

PPW sponsoring writing contest

AMARILLO-Panhandle Professional Writers (PPW) announces June 15 as the deadline for its 1994 writing contests, which are open to all writers, said Lou Ann Garrett, vice-president for contests.

Last year's winners came from New Mexico, Oklahoma and throughout Texas.

Contest categories include children's stories, poetry, short stories, book-length manuscripts and two sections for non-fiction articles. The Amarillo Observer, a local magazine looking for entries suitable for its publication, will sponsor and judge a "Feature Article" contest.

The only restriction on who may submit entries is that first-place winners from 1993 are not eligible to enter the same category this year. They may, however, enter other categories. Each contest will be judged by a competent authority in that field, Garrett said.

Winners will be announced and prizes awarded August 6 at the Frontiers in Writing (FIW) Conference at Amarillo College.

Anyone who would like a copy of contest rules and/or FIW Conference information may send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to PPW Contest Chairman, P.O. Box 19303, Amarillo, TX, 79114.

Johnson said, "It was a technical deal. We couldn't respond to their desires and we weren't able to get things done in a timely manner."

"Had they come across to us in a timely manner, we would have got somebody to get the training. But we didn't find out until yesterday and we were set to start serving meals on Tuesday," Johnson said.

Johnson also said that he was not informed that the school's application was approved. Johnson said that MISD intends to apply again next year to try to administer the summer food program.

"We tried, but we just couldn't make it work this time," Johnson said. Clinton said it was a communication error because the person who attended training from Muleshoe asked if they had to be a school employee and people at the training were not aware of the requirements.

location for organic cotton production because the cattle feedlot industry provides a local source of animal manure for fertilizer; freezing temperatures kill and defoliate cotton plants in time for harvest; and the area's relatively dry and cold climate creates few weed and insect problems.

Texas is the nation's largest producer of organic cotton with an estimated 18,000 acres of organic and transitional cotton expected to be planted this year.

Transitional cotton is a crop that is undergoing TDA's organic certification process, which requires cotton to be free of synthetic pesticides and fertilizers for three years. About 45 farmers are involved in organic cotton production in the state.

The study, funded by an $18,000 grant from TDA, was conducted by Dr. Mina Mohammadioun, senior economist and manager, with the University of Texas' Natural Fibers Research and Information Center.

Stevens celebrates 90th birthday

A reception honoring C. Roy Stevens was held on May 15, 1994 in the Fellowship Hall at First United Methodist Church in Littlefield in honor of his 90th birthday and long-time service as an educator in Bailey and Lamb counties.

The event was hosted by his wife, Hazel Stevens, and daughter, Janice Miller.

Cake, coffee and punch were served by Yvonne Maxfield and Helen Bassett, former students of Mr. Stevens, and Charlene Blume, a former teacher of Amherst.

Otis and Pat Bennett and Wauldene McKinney were also hosts for the event. Amanda Muller, granddaughter of Stevens, registered the guests. His mother, Annie Stevens, made an antique table cloth used to cover the table.

Out of town guests were Steve and Mary C. Robertson from Shreveport, La., James Earl and Carolyn Stevens of Trent, John and Barbara Stevens of Trent, Mary Honeycutt of Clyde and Minnie Cunningham of Whitehouse.

Stevens received his bachelor of science degree from Abilene Christian University in 1929. Prior to that time, he attended Hardin Simmons and Texas Tech Universities on athletic scholarships.

In 1933, he and his late wife Thelma came to Muleshoe as teachers. He was also hired as football coach.

While employed with Muleshoe Independent School District, he successfully coached the Mules to a state championship in 1937. In 1939, he earned his master's degree from Texas Tech and left Muleshoe to take a position as principal in Amherst.

In 1942, he was called into the Air Force. During the war, he was stationed at Shephard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls, where he taught math to cadets.

At the end of the war, he returned to Amherst and served as superintendent of schools. In addition, he owned and operated the theater in Amherst for several years.

In 1962, he was appointed to the position of Lamb County School Superintendent. He served in that position from 1962 to 1979.

He is a member of the First United Methodist Church and of the Lamb County Retired Teachers Association and is a third degree Mason.

Weddings

Isaac, Bayouth are united in marriage

Debbie Isaac and Charles Bayouth were married Saturday, May 7, 1994 at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Muleshoe. Father Joseph Augustine officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Isaac of Muleshoe and Dr. and Mrs. Ed Bayouth of Leakey.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white silk satin sheath gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline heavily beaded. It had a pearled basque bodice with Renaissance sleeves that formed the petal point cuffs.

The front of the slim skirt adorned with beaded Alencon lace appliques that enhanced the pearl-beaded lace hemline. Her detachable satin cascading train from waistline was sprinkled with Alencon lace appliques that were beaded and pearled to form open love fan windows and a delicate satin back bow completed her attire.

Her silk illusion tiered veil with a rolled pouf was attached to a pearl and iridescent-beaded tiara grouped with tiny rose bud leaves and enriched with miniature pearl filaments and crystal bugle beads.

Her bouquet was a cascade of stargazer lilies, stephanotis, sweetheart roses, freesia, gypsophilia and English ivy. Something new was her wedding dress. Something borrowed was a rosary that belonged to her paternal grandmother. Something old was pennies minted in the year of their births and the traditional blue garter.

Cindy Fitzgerald of Lewisville was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Elizabeth Isaac, Christine Isaac, sisters of the bride; and Liane Rogers, Casey King and Misty Maxfield. Veronica Isaac of Dallas, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Dr. Ed. F. Bayouth of Leakey served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Frank Bayouth, Mark Bayouth and David Bayouth, brothers of the groom; and John Isaac and Dr. Michael Isaac, brothers of the bride. Ring bearer was Cameron Joyner, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Dr. Nordie Bayouth, cousin of the groom; and Zach Granberry, Hollis Lynch and Byron Hulsey.

Dr. Michael Isaac and Frank Bayouth were candlelighters. John Isaac and David Bayouth read the liturgy. Music was provided by Laura Leal and Jonessa Brockman. Guest registrars were Kris Osterberg and Cindy Hoppe.

Members of the house party

included Lynn and Tim Campbell, Nancy and Tony Barrier, Lisa and Don McElroy, Melba and Joe King, Anita and Homer Allgood and Jeanine Gunstream. Special guests were Barbara Joyner of Corpus Christi, the groom's maternal grandmother; and Eva Moore of Wescalo, the groom's maternal great-grandmother.

The bride is a graduate of Muleshoe High School and Colorado State University. The groom is a graduate of Coronado High School in Lubbock and Texas Tech University. He is attending Texas Medical School in Galveston.

After a wedding trip to Cancun, Mexico, the couple will make their home in Galveston.

"Texas" begins its 29th season on June 8

The sights and sounds of "Texas" are set to take the stage in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park near Amarillo and Canyon. The 29th season opens June 8th and runs nightly except Sundays through August 20th.

This year is especially exciting as it marks the 100th birthday of the late author Paul Green. A number of Green's relatives will be on hand for the centennial celebration.

Green's grandson is concert pianist Frederick Moyer. He will perform at a welcome reception scheduled for opening night, 5 to 7 p.m., at the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon. His recital is made possible by a $500 grant from the Paul Green Foundation.

Showtime is at 8:30 p.m. It all begins with the stirring sounds of a lone bugle from high atop the canyon wall. Nature slowly brings down the lights. Two horsemen, bearing American and Texas flags, appear on the canyon rim, and a cast of 80 performers takes to the stage to open the 29th season of "Texas".

During the next two and a half hours, spectators will watch the unfolding of a spell-binding tale woven from the magical threads that pit men and women against nature and each other. The romance of "Texas" is intricately interwoven with the realities of hardships and hard work that were staples in the lives of the early settlers who came to tame the land called Texas

"Texas" is the late Margaret Harper's gift to the Panhandle. She, along with Bill and Margaret Moore and the first board of directors, dreamed of a play in the canyon and a large economic boost for the area. It worked!

More than two and a half million people from every state in the nation and 100 foreign countries have seen the show. Each evening a chow call triangle is awarded to the person travelling the greatest distance.

For reservations to "Texas, write P.O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015, or call (806) 655-2181.

Taming the Tongue Is a Most Difficult Task

I was playing a game of Trivial Pursuit--not taking a class in physiology--when I learned that one of the most powerful muscles in the human body is the tongue.

James, the New Testament writer, would not be too surprised by that. He has a lot to speaking evil of our neighbor as one of the deadliest of sins. But he comments, "Scripture would say that it is one of the worst of sins" because when we wag our tongues wantonly, we break the law of God which tells us to "love our neighbors as ourselves."

That kind of love almost certainly does not include roasting them with fire from our tongues!

When we chew one another up verbally, we not only break God's law, we usurp His position as the one Lawgiver and Judge.

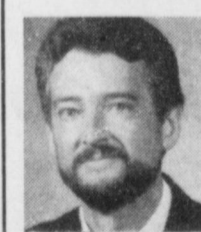

"Who are you," James asks, "to judge your neighbor?"

None of us is immune to the poison of the human tongue. None of us is so good that he is never tempted to use this feisty organ to envenomate his foes. It was, after all, to very ordinary Christian people that James wrote, "Brethren, do not slander one another." Simple advice. Easy to hear. Hard to apply.

Morris Mandel writes, "Gossip is the most deadly microbe. It has neither legs nor wings. It is composed entirely of tales, and most of them have stings."

James would agree.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & Avenue D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

say in his book about this small but powerful organ.

Anyone who can tame the tongue, James says, is "a perfect man, able to keep his whole body in check."

This little organ, James writes, is like the bit which makes an animal obey its rider. It is like the rudder which steers an entire ship. And it can be like the spark which sets a whole forest blazing, setting "the whole course" of an individual's life on fire, itself "set on fire by hell."

Is James overstating his case? From hard experience, most of us know that he is not.

William Barclay is probably right when he says that most of us would be unlikely to count

Bikers welcome to ride in Tour de Taco

Ridin' With the Wind: That's what area bicycle riders will be doing during this year's Tour de Taco. This is the 4th annual Tour and will be held June 5th in conjunction with Pioneer Days Rodeo, in Clovis, N.M.

This year's Tour will have four different routes that riders will be able to choose from. There will be a 10 mile, 25 mile, 50 mile and 100 k ride.

The 10 mile basically goes around the city of Clovis, while the 25 mile route goes to the Portales entrance of Cannon Air Force Base, Route 467, and then comes back to town.

The 50 mile ride goes all the way to the Taco Box in Portales and then comes back. The 100 k goes to the same route as the 50 mile but continues on for about 6 miles and turns around at Route 480. All four routes will begin and end at North Plains Mall east parking lot in Clovis.

Tour de Taco is not a race, but a ride where people can go at their own pace.

In-line skaters are invited to participate in the tour and must comply with all rules and regulations the riders do.

Entries must be received or post marked no later than May 28th. Last year more than 175 riders registered for the tour.

For more information, interested riders can contact the Taco Box in Hilltop Plaza, Clovis, NM or call (505)769-1898.

Vacation Bible school is slated

Exciting activities and Bible-centered classes are planned for the annual Vacation Bible School which begins Monday, May 30 at the Muleshoe Church of Christ.

Teachers and workers have been preparing for this special event for a number of weeks, around the theme, "Son Country Farm." Classes each day will feature lessons about the fruit of the Spirit, as noted in Galatians 5 of the New Testament.

Bible songs, skits, crafts and memory work will be shared daily by dedicated Christian women and youth of the church who are leading the classes.

Classes will be conducted Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. each day. Wednesday evening will feature the annual Family Night at 7:30 p.m. when the parents and family will have an opportunity to share the songs and activities with the students.

The week of Bible study and fun will be concluded by a picnic on Friday at noon.

Children ages two through 5th grade are welcome to attend this special week of activities. For more information call 272-4256.
