WHITTLIN'

BY DOLPH MOTEN

Whassa matter nobody is growing a beard for Bull Town Days?

This time a year ago, the whiskers were making a lot of good Bovina men look like their faces needed washing.

We think, but can't get anyone to agree with us, that there should be a starting time for the beard growers and that all who are going to enter the contest should check in with a beard contest secretary on a certain date... clean shaven.

In other words, you would kinda need to get a permit to grow a beard as well as a permit not to grow one. A rule such as that would make out-of-towners all but ineligible to win the contest, and we think they should be... ineligible.

But, no better beard than we can grow, they don't let us talk much in beard-growing conversations. That's the reason we have to write our opinions here, so we won't be interrupted by some hairy-looking somebody who is potentially a beard-growing champ.

There's some talk around about forming a men's slow-pitch softball league to begin after the boys baseball program is completed in July.

Operated on an economy basis, it could be a lot of fun for the participants and more important, would keep the ballpark concession stand in business for another 30 days or so. In that length of time, the concession stand could make some badly needed money to pay on the ballpark indebtedness at the bank.

One idea is to have eight teams in the league and have the schedule run for four weeks with each team playing twice a week -- a doubleheader four nights a week.

Quite a bit of organization would be needed to get the league in action, but it can be done if there's sufficient interest.

In slow-pitch softball, we understand, it's necessary for the pitcher to throw an arching ball, sort of an ankle-over type deal and that makes hitters out of almost all the batters.

Since businesses support the boys program, we think it would be a good idea for organizations to sponsor teams in this suggested league. The cost would be almost nil if each team would furnish one ball for each game.

For less than $5 per player, a lot of people could have a lot of fun and some much needed money could be made through the concession stand at the same time.

Dub Mayhew, who moved from here to Gruver a few months ago, came by over the weekend to renew his Blade subscription. He was highly complimentary about the paper and said he didn't want his subscription to run out.

His kind remarks were appreciated almost as much as the renewal.

He said that some of the people on the North Plains aren't Democrats and that makes him appreciate a Democratic paper all the more.

A. M. Wilson, just home from a vacation trip to the West Coast, is demanding equal time in this column to tell about the baseball stadium in San Francisco, Candlestick Park, to offset the comments made here a couple of weeks ago about the Astrodome at Houston.

The space request was granted, but we think he was kidding. The column wasn't in by its assigned deadline.

There's been some talk around about the use of "farm truck" license plates on pickups. Probably the talk has been created to some extent by highway patrolmen in the county who have pointed out to some just how farm truck license are supposed to be used.

The law is unknown to us. We don't know if all farmers are entitled to use them on their pickups. And if they are, do they have to use the pickups a certain way?

Answers to that question, and

PIPE STRIKES CAR-- Accident Hurts Mrs. McCain

Mrs. Leslie McCain was injured in a freak auto accident late Wednesday afternoon on FM road 2290 just west of town.

Mrs. McCain's car was meeting a truck which was coming east, into town, when a 20-foot joint of five-inch irrigation well casing slid from the truck, and struck the car on the left side of the windshield. In the car with her at the time of the accident were her sons, Benny and Butch, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. W.C. Cain of Littlefield.

The Bovina woman was taken to Parmer County Community Hospital in Friona where she was confined until this week for treatment of lacerations and torn ligaments in her neck. Her mother-in-law was not injured. The boys got glass particles in their eyes from the broken glass but were released from the hospital after treatment.

Just like in the major leagues, the top team was knocked off by the cellar-dweller in Bovina's Little League Friday night as Oklahoma Lane's Eagles upset the high-flying Bovina Gin-Generalgas team, 8-5.

The upset had no bearing on the league standings, however, as Bovina Gin-Generalgas remains in the top spot and Oklahoma Lane is still in fourth place in the four-team league.

Teams in the boys baseball program have shown vast improvement, it seems to us, in the first two weeks of the season.

And there's going to be some pretty good country baseball played in the Pony League this summer. Pony League age boys are getting old enough to know how to really play the game.

Don't lack for entertainment any Monday, Tuesday Thursday or Friday night. There's plenty of it available right up at the ballpark on either of those nights.

ALEXANDER ORLOWSKY--

Exchange Student Leaves Monday

By Sue Moten
Alexander Orlofsky, exchange student from West Berlin, Germany departed Monday for a series of visits before his final trip home.

Alexander made his home for several months with Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Charles, prior to their moving to Parsons, Kan. Following their move he lived with Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Caldwell and family.

Alexander noted that the moves were interesting and he enjoyed it as he learned more about American families this way.

He said that the school term here was easy for him and that he enjoyed all the activities of school life and the friends he made in school.

Comparing American teenagers and Berlin teenagers, Alex noted that the youth of Berlin do not have as much money to spend and that they do not have cars of their own. He pointed out that one couldn't obtain a drivers license in Berlin until he is 18 years old, thus the problem of driving doesn't occur as early.

Alex visited various places in Texas and also visited with an exchange student in Iowa. In comparing Texas living to that of Iowa he said he felt that Texans spend more money whereas the people in Iowa are more conservative, even though they perhaps make as much money.

Living in a small town didn't seem to be too great an adjustment for Alex. He said he enjoyed it. He said that the one thing that was different to him at first was the fact that everyone seemed to be acquainted with everyone else. Such is not the case in his native Berlin.

Alex said he wasn't anxious to return to Germany as he liked to travel and meet people. He noted that returning to Berlin and its being a political "hot spot" didn't bother him as he had become used to the situation. He pointed out that living in America and reading American papers had acquainted him more with actual American politics.

"It was a very enjoyable and interesting year," says Alex. He also wishes to thank the people of Bovina for their help in making his stay a pleasant one.

Alex left Bovina Monday for Teague, near Fort Worth, where he will be the guest of the Methodist Minister at a ranch for a week. He will travel to Oklahoma City, Okla., following his visit there and stay a few days with an exchange student. He will journey to Parsons, Kan. to spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Charles before proceeding to Chicago, Washington, D.C. and New York where he will depart for Berlin. While in New York he will visit the World's Fair.

Alexander, who will be 18 June 27, will return to Berlin for another term of school. He noted that grades permitting he will go on to college. He said that due to the number of foreigners he probably wouldn't go to a University in Berlin but another city in Germany.

There is a song in which the first time denotes that "Summertime, when the living is easy," that seems completely unmoded. Nowadays, summertime is such a busy time that one needs an appointments secretary.

Mothers have to run a chauffeur service to swimming classes, church school, little league games and practice. This leaves father at home with a sandwich for most meals. It seems that feet are just something to put shoes on the youngsters have to be driven most places.

The Drivers Education courses that are offered in connection with public school today are a real good thing. It helps youngsters learn to drive without having to go through all the trying times of having a member of the family teach them. Can remember learning to drive and the job was mostly the responsibility of two older brothers. After an hour or two they were thoroughly disgusted and lessons came to a halt for a time. The drivers course eliminates this. Even though the instructor feels like calling a halt to the lessons, he is obligated to carry through.

The most wonderful thing has happened to dish washing detergents. Now they are supposed to make your hands look rose petal soft if you will just wash dishes. Now we realize that we are skeptical about too many things but really, can you imagine your hands looking better for having scrubbed the chicken skillet. If this detergent were as great as it is cracked up to be then the lotion manufacturer's would be in sad shape.

Will cease to predict when Pat's Patter will return as we were somewhat off on our prediction for this week. But at any rate, Sawdust will return again this week due to fact that we must enroll in school soon . . . for a six-week's session.

Foot-Rot Disease In Wheat

by Joe VanZandt

Foot-Rot has appeared in several Parmer County wheat fields since May 20. The first indications farmers have noticed is that small spots in their fields are shorter than normal and wheat plants are either dead or dying in these spots before the rest of the field has ripened.

In our West Texas area foot-rot disease is caused by fungi. Although the disease often is not apparent until plants begin to die near maturity, the infection takes place at the time seedlings emerge in the fall. The fungi invades the roots, crown and base of the stalks of the plant. Roots are reduced or destroyed by the fungi.

Early season symptoms of foot-rot include stunting, non-thrifty plants, reduced seedling growth and extreme susceptibility to dry moisture conditions.

Near maturity, one or more tillers or entire plants are killed and appear as "white heads" throughout the field. Affected plants may occur singly, in small circular spots, or in large areas in the field. The base of each stem has a dark, rotted appearance as well as the roots.

Dead plants can be easily pulled up while normal, healthy plants are hard to pull up. This is due to the fact that the roots have rotted in the foot-rot infected plants. What little grain there is in affected plants will be shriveled and will lower yields and test weight.

Control of foot-rot is difficult. Seed treatments with organic mercury compounds will help, but will not control the disease where foot-rot organisms are living on infected straw. Plow under straw as soon as possible so it will rot quickly. Infected fields should be summer fallowed.

Crop rotation with non-grass or board leaf crops will be of some benefit. Cotton or soybeans would be good for the next crop to be grown on infected fields. These are recommended because they are a low residue, non-grass crop. Grain sorghum would not be a good crop to follow with but it would be better than planting wheat as the next crop. Only as a resort should wheat follow wheat on infected fields because the producer will certainly be inviting trouble from foot-rot.

There is no chemical or resistant variety or other dramatic practice to control the foot-rot disease. Just follow some basic good farming practices of clean tillage and crop rotation as an aid to foot-rot control.

Before using any pesticide, be familiar with the directions. If applying pesticides, know what pest needs controlling, find out what material will control it, and apply the correct amount at the right time.

If anyone needs assistance with a foot-rot problem on a wheat field, contact the County Agricultural Agent, Joe VanZandt in Farwell.

Although foot-rot or root-rot in wheat is often not apparent until tillers and plants begin to die near maturity, the infection takes place at the time the seedlings emerge. County agricultural Agent Joe VanZandt examines one of the infected plants on the Grady Herington farm. Not the height of the infected plants which are scarcely knee high to VanZandt who is 5'10".

"This wheat (in right hand) (infected with foot rot) would have looked like this (non-infected)" said County Agricultural Agent Joe VanZandt as he stopped to examine some of the plants on the Grady Herington farm, where the wheat is heavily damaged by the foot-rot fungi this year. The infection in the plants did not become apparent until around May 20, says Agent VanZandt who explains that the disease is more prevalent when a field is seeded to wheat for several consecutive years.

Demonology is the study of evil spirits.

Selective Insecticide For Use On Cotton Fields

A selective insecticide that distinguishes between good and bad insects will be used extensively this year to clobber fleahoppers and plant bugs when they invade cotton fields. Moreover, it does not harm the beneficial predators and parasites when used according to directions. This leaves the way clear for nature to destroy destructive pests.

Fleahopper and plant bug infestations are most common in the cotton belt when squaring begins. These pests puncture the squares and cause them to fall from the plants.

To protect the crop, growers frequently treat the infestations with a non-selective application. It kills the pests but also destroys the beneficial insects. Then, early and frequent treatments are needed.

By preserving the predators and parasites, the grower enlists nature's aid in fighting destructive pests.

The beneficial insects, by feeding on and parasitizing eggs and larvae, delay the need to apply treatments to control the bollworm complex for as long

On The Farm In Parmer County

By JOE VANZANDT County Agent

During the past week we have noticed several cotton fields that showed thrip damage. To get the most benefit from thrip control measures, insecticides should be applied at the first sign of thrip damage. Thrip damage on newly emerged cotton is characterized by wilted, wrinkled, blackened leaves and terminal growth. Silvering of the lower leaf is also a common sign. Heavy thrip infestations can delay plant maturity from a few days to a few weeks.

Insecticides recommended for thrip and fleahopper control are as follows: 1. Dieldrin DDT, 2. Guthion, 3. Strobane-DDT (2-1 mixture), 4. Sevin, 5. Toxaphene - DDT (2-1 mixture), 6. Heptachlor + DDT, 7. Endrin + DDT and 8. Bidrin. For more information on cotton insect control, come by the County Agent's office.

WEEDS IN SORGHUM
Chemicals recommended for weed control in emerged sorghum are Atrazine and 2,4-D. Atrazine must be applied before weeds are 2 inches tall at the rate of 1 pound per treated acre plus a surfactant.

2,4-D can be used at the rate of 1/2 pound per acre to control broadleaf weeds once the sorghum is 6 inches tall but before flowering. Hybrids containing Wheatland parentage should not be treated with 2, 4-D, because serious yield reductions and lodging may occur. Best and most profitable results will be obtained if weeds are treated before they are 6 inches tall.

All 2,4-D formulations may drift from the intended weed target. Movement of spray mist by wind during spray application can cause serious damage to sensitive crops such as cotton. Spray drift is minimized by using high gallonage (10-20 gpa) and low pressure (15-20 psi.). Volatilization is vaporization of 2,4-D from weeds or soil where it was applied. Once 2,4-D has volatilized, it may be blown to sensitive crops. Amine formulations are least volatile, followed by

County Agent VanZandt continues to discuss some of the reasons for wheat fields becoming infected with foot rot while standing in a patch of non infected wheat, which lies adjacent to an infected patch, on the Grady Herington farm east of Farwell. 4-H Horse Show

The First Parmer County 4-H Horse Show will be held Saturday, June 12 in the Bovina Roping Arena. All entries are due in by 9:45 a. m. and the show is scheduled to start at 10:00 a. m.

"We expect around 40 members to participate in the Show" states Joe VanZandt, County Agricultural Agent.

There are presently about 50 members enrolled with a Horse project and nine adult leaders have devoted a lot of time and energy to getting this 4-H Horse Program started.

This County Show will climax five months work by the leaders who have been responsible for this local Horse program. They are Jack Templar in Lubbock; Pete Meason and Homer Linderman in Friona; Delbert Garner, Pike Jordan and Mitz Walling in Farwell; C. E. Trimble, Robert Read and Wendol Christian in Bovina.

The judge for the show is Herb Howell. Although there are no specific requirements for a 4-H Horse judge, Herb is an AQHA approved judge. Entries in the 4-H Horse Show are limited to Parmer

WHEAT DISEASE
We have heard of about 15 farmers who have had some foot-rot show up in their wheat since about May 20.

If you have spots in your field that are stunted or shorter than normal and these places are dead now before the rest of your field is ripe, we suspect you have some foot-rot.

We would like for you to call the County Agent's office in Farwell, 481-3619 so we can determine just how wide spread this disease has hit this year.

On affected fields we recommend you turn your wheat stubble under as soon as possible leave it as lay-out ground for one or more seasons and do not plant wheat on it for 2 or 3 years, if you can plant a crop rotation system to allow this. If you can, plant cotton or soybeans as the next crop on affected fields.

WHY PLANTS ACCUMULATE NITRATES
Most investigators have associated nitrate poisoning with plants that are grown in soils with a high nitrogen content; such as in areas that once were livestock pens, where the soil is rich, or where the soil has been fertilized. High nitrate in the soil will increase the amount of nitrate in growing plants. Also, when nitrogen alone is applied to soil the nitrogen in plants is higher than when nitrogen is applied in conjunction with phosphorus. Trace minerals in the soil may also have an effect on the accumulation of nitrate in plants. There has been no attempt to blame nitrate poisoning on the use of commercial fertilizer. Plants usually accumulate nitrate when there has been some stress on the plant, such as growing in the shade or on certain soil types, suffering from lack of moisture, or suffering from physical damage, such as being trampled or blown down during a storm. Nitrates are used to build proteins in the plant. The enzyme nitrate reductase is important in this building process and requires light to function. This may explain why nitrates accumulate more rapidly in shade or reduced light.

Better Diets Needed For Older People

Better diets are needed for older citizens.

Patsy Reynolds, Texas A&M University specialist in family life education, says that "overweight, inadequate diets and inappropriate use of extra vitamins" are some of the major diet problems of older people.

Recent research, conducted by U. S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists in Rochester, N. Y., revealed that slightly less than half of the households interviewed had diets providing enough nutrients and calories to insure good health.

Research in Texas indicates a similar situation, Miss Reynolds says.

Many people believe that a full table insures good health -- and fall to make wise choices of foods necessary for a balanced diet adequate for their age and activity levels, the specialist adds.

Approximately one-third of the persons interviewed -- including more women than men -- were overweight. They obviously consumed too many calories, while possibly neglecting other essential nutrients.

Many senior citizen groups in Texas are working on programs to improve health of their members through better eating practices. If you'd like more information on the subject, contact your county home demonstration agent or your local Committee on Aging.

"HOW DOES YOUR GARDEN GROW?" Vicki Kaltwasser, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kaltwasser is in charge of the family vegetable garden. She has been raising a garden to supply the family with fresh vegetables for the past three summers. Favorites with the family are corn, English peas, radish, and green beans. Vicki is shown cleaning away bothersome weeds from the English pea vines. This is a fine way to get and keep a good tan, smiles Vicki.

The chicken is the world's most abundant kind of bird and its numbers approximate those of man -- around 3 billion.

Needed: 15,570 Home Economists Annually

There's a critical shortage of home economics graduates -- and many jobs seeking them are unclaimed.

About 15,570 home economists are needed each year to fill new or vacant positions

In the United States, according to a report just issued by the Federal Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Opportunities for employment in home economics fields are tremendous, says Mrs. Florence W. Low, assistant director for home economics with the Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University, who is immediate past president of the American Home Economics Association. She urges all agencies concerned to tell girls of these career opportunities and the challenging work.

About 700 new home economists are needed each year to fill Extension positions alone, the report indicates.

A total of 10,296 degrees were conferred in home economics in 1964. This represents 1.7 per cent of the total degrees conferred in all fields, the report reveals.

Other report facts include: Recent estimates indicate 90,000 persons were employed in home economics occupations in 1962. Approximately 50,000 of these were teachers, 28,000 were dietitians, from 5,000 to 6,000 were with private business firms, and 5,000 in Co-operative Extension work.

Beginning salaries for home economists are among the top for women. Only women in fields such as engineering, physics, chemistry, math and biological sciences tend to receive higher starting salaries. Fifth-eight per cent of the home economists in AHEA earn more than $5,500 annually -- or $600 more than the median full-time annual salary for women in professional and technical occupations in 1962, the report says.

Better diets are needed for older citizens of Texas, says Patsy Reynolds, Texas A&M University specialist in family life education. "Overweight, inappropriate use of extra vitamins and generally inadequate diets" are some of the major problems of older people, she says. Many people believe that a full table insures good health -- and fall to make wise choices of foods necessary for a balanced diet adequate for their age and activity levels.

At Home In Parmer County

By CRICKET B. TAYLOR
County HD Agent

The tornado disaster in Hale Center should be a reminder to all of us of the need for more trained people in every County and community capable of rendering first-aid.

A County Committee, headed by Mrs. J.D. Sanders of Friona, has made some contacts with the Doctors in Parmer County and discussed the possibility of teaching classes on self-help medical care. As yet nothing definite has been done. This has to have more support and concern of the people in Parmer County if it materializes.

Counties all around us have carried on programs of "self-help and first-aid" in case of disasters. These people have the knowledge and information in case of need. If such a program is provided for people in Parmer County more interest must be shown, and People's willingness to spend some time organizing the program and taking training. When disaster strikes its too late. Mrs. Sanders and their Committee will welcome your help and interest.

It has been said that "more people would be successful, if they were not so busy making a living," perhaps that why interest in "survival in case of a disaster," is lagging behind -- are to busy making a living.

erals so needed for vim and vitality. Really we may well "take our medicine", the enjoyable way by eating a wide variety of the green and yellow type of vegetables. Some times it may take a "change in attitude toward food in order to add some new foods to our diets that we are not accustomed to eating. In other words we must cultivate the taste for new foods.

In early civilizations, celery, for instance was credited with high medicinal value. Some use it as a blood purifier. The Greeks cited celery's sedative effects.

Today, celery seed oil is still used in sedatives. But most of us enjoy celery because it's so flavorful, so "eating good." The good supply of celery from Florida is in all markets now and there are so many varieties of uses for this, other than as an appetizer, that you may want to get out of a rut and try new dishes using this vegetable and others too. For Louisiana's famous creole cookery, especially in seafood sauces celery is a natural ingredient.

4-H NEWS

Groups in clothing project work are really getting off to a good start. Most groups have finished lessons on pattern selection, color harmony, and fabric selection and are now getting into construction of garments. Wardrobe Planning for Unit 2,3 & 4 was discussed and demonstrated to 20 girls in Clothing projects and nine leaders and mothers in Oklahoma Lane Community Center last week.

The County Dress Revue, the big event climaxing the project work of 4-H clothing members will be held July 13th. County Home Demonstration Council will assist the 4-H work by planning for the Dress Revue.

Mrs. Wendell Garner, Clothing Leader of Bovina had six members in her home recently for a lesson in their clothing Unit. Mrs. Milt Fitts showed the girls how to care for their hair, face & hands. Good grooming is a part of the Clothing project. Two other adult leaders were present also.

BAKE SHOW TRAINING

The training for leaders and members for the County bake Show, another big event for 4-H will be given June 16th for Laz-buddie, Oklahoma Lane and Farwell. Leaders may need to do some shifting of plans in order to attend this with those girls who plan to enter. Girls must have been enrolled in a food group in order to enter Bake Show.

Need a better time management technique? Then train your other hand to become a full-fledged helper -- whether you are right-handed or left-handed, say Mrs. Wanda Meyer, home management specialist at Texas A&M University. Time and motion studies indicate that ambidexterity in some tasks can nearly double efficiency -- that is, it can cut work time almost in half. It takes practice, however, she says.

SCARE CROW --- One of the best ways to keep birds away from a garden is by using a scare crow, explains Mrs. Edmund Kitten as she displays some of the fine vegetables growing in her garden. Vegetables in the Kitten garden (for summer enjoyment and to store for winter use) include beets, lettuce, English peas, beans, radish and many others. Mrs. Kitten is a member of the Oklahoma Lane HD Club.

Try This Technique For Better Time Management

Here's a technique for better time management for homemakers.

Train your other hand to become a full-fledged helper -- whether you are right-handed or left-handed, suggests Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Texas A&M University Extension Service home management specialist.

Time and motion indicate that ambidexterity in some tasks can nearly double efficiency -- that is, it can cut work time almost in half.

It takes practice, however, cautions Mrs. Meyer. The "secondary" hand may never become as efficient as the primary one -- but most adults who have any manual dexterity at all are capable of teaching it to help.

Efficiency is developed in two ways. The first is in jobs requiring rhythmical motion -- where both hands can be doing the same thing at the same time. The second is in jobs requiring real elbow grease -- where one hand is normally used at a time so that the dominant hand is able to rest while the other takes over for a while.

The first category, says Mrs. Meyer, includes such tasks as washing large mirrors or windows. Hold a sponge or cloth in each hand, dip each in thick soap or detergent suds or in a paste of fine scouring powder and water. Use both hands to coat the glass in rhythmical swirls.

Then let both hands wield damp rinse cloths and dry polishing cloths, until the glass sparkles. The same techniques applies to washing walls or any other large area.

Chores which require energetic attention to smaller areas, such as polishing and waxing furniture, also can be adapted to the dual-hand technique.

The Texas Forest Service was the first southern state to make extensive use of planes in detecting forest fires.

"While there are others who voice approval, cotton merchants are the only ones really advocating a direct compensatory payment plan in cotton legislation."

So reports Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. He continued that: "If they are successful in getting payments made directly to farmers and a low loan level -- or no loan at all as their testimony clearly shows they would prefer -- most producers believe they will have cut their own throats along with that of the commercial cotton farmer."

Johnson has just returned from House Agriculture Subcommittee hearings on H. R. 8149, the new cotton bill introduced by Senator Harold Cooley of North Carolina. The bill would give cotton producers a choice between a non-recourse loan at the current level or the market price plus a direct payment and would cut the minimum national cotton acreage allotment from 16 to 14 million acres. Producer groups are of the opinion that the loan-payments choice is merely a "gimmick" whereby they are being wooed to take the first step toward acceptance of direct payments.

In his further analysis of the producer consensus, Johnson said: "Producers feel that direct payments and reduced acreage would be the beginning of the end for commercial cotton production on a profitable basis, and they are unwavering in their opposition to such features in any cotton bill." Producer groups contend that no law Congress could pass which involved direct payments to farmers would be adequate to prevent severe limitations being placed on the amount of payment any one farmer could receive. This sooner or later would be done from the floor of Congress through the agricultural appropriations bill. Such limitations, they say, would stifle incentive, encourage the inefficient and ruin cotton's chances for lower production costs and greater markets.

"Without a chance to regain markets lost to foreign grown cotton and manmade fibers," Johnson stated, "United States cotton as a textile fiber would be a dead issue."

The philosophy of the Cooley Bill apparently is toward production below consumption. Carried to its logical conclusion this philosophy would snowball cotton down the hill to the bottom of the fiber market. Producer philosophy, on the other hand, calls for a cotton bill designed to increase consumption above production, leading to greater markets and eventually to increased acreage and better profits. "This was what producers had in mind when they supported the Agricultural Act of 1964 which made cotton available to our domestic mills at a more competitive price," Johnson says. And he pointed out that estimates of the increase in domestic cotton consumption during the 1964-65 marketing year range from 900,000 bales to 1.1 million, with the bill only in effect 10 months.

Asked about merchants and their attitude, Johnson quoted Gerald L. Dearing, well known columnist on cotton. "The cotton shippers and the futures brokers have been won into an alliance with the Freeman forces in the hope that such a program (direct payments) will bring greater marketing opportunities," Dearing wrote. Johnson went on to say that merchants claim a low loan level with direct payments would move cotton into the market instead of into the loan. "But," Johnson said, "there are no facts to support this claim. It is based purely on an assumption, although that assumption is often stated as fact when shippers seek support for direct payments."

Merchants state that the producer's income would be the same under the low loan, direct payments plan they propose; that more cotton would be sold; that less cotton would go into the loan, and therefore the government's cost would be less. Johnson says producers find fault with this statement in two places. First, they state that limitations would be inevitable under a direct payment program, therefore the producer's income would not be the same. Second, producers cannot see how a low loan, or a high loan for that matter, would affect the amount of cotton going into the loan or being sold to mills. Johnson says: "A loan of 23 cents plus a direct payment of 6 cents brings a farmer the same per-pound price for a bale of cotton as a 29 cent loan. And by the same old-style arithmetic a 29 cent loan minus 6 cents makes cotton available to the mill at the same per-pound price as a 23 cent loan with the 6 cent difference being paid to the producer."

"It's the dollar-and-cents price, along with other factors, that determines whether cotton is sold or goes into the loan," he states, adding, "There is no particular magic in a direct payment to the producer which would necessarily move cotton into the trade. The trade will not be buying cotton under any system unless that cotton can be sold to consuming mills. And that's why Plains

Hogs, like humans, are affected by high temperatures. With the thermometer climbing toward summer levels, it is time to consider plans for keeping all classes of hogs cool and comfortable, says Donald Osbourn, assistant Extension animal husbandman, Texas A&M University.

Under high temperatures, Osbourn explains that feedlot gains will suffer, that milk flow from lactating sows will decrease and the breeding efficiency of boars will decline. But of more importance, he adds, is the possibility of death losses in the swine herd due to excessive heat.

Cotton Growers and other producer groups aren't buying the story that a direct payments program will keep cotton out of the loan."

According to Johnson, neither the House Agriculture Committee nor the Department of Agriculture is totally committed to the Cooley proposal and both remain open to suggestions. With this in mind, the Cotton Producers Legislative Committee, composed of representatives of producer organizations in seven of the top cotton producing states, are continuing to work with the Department. It is hoped that a proposal can be developed which would be satisfactory to growers and at the same time accomplish the Administration's stated objectives of reducing cost and cotton carry-over.

The specialist notes there are several acceptable ways to cool different classes of hogs but few are better or more economical than a system which utilizes plastic pipe. He says it works well on hogs in the feedlot or on pasture.

He suggests the use of half-inch plastic pipe strung either on posts or through trees four feet above the ground. After the pipe has been placed, a small hole should be punched in the underside of the pipe with a straight pin at four to five feet intervals. Under pressure, these holes will produce a fine mist and will do a good job of cooling, he says.

Generally, he adds, the small amount of water required will not result in mud holes being formed. However, if mud should become a problem, Osbourn suggests moving the pipe to another location. Moving, he adds, can be done with little trouble.

The cost of a plastic pipe system is small compared with the benefits. The loss of one animal will usually more than pay for the needed pipe to say nothing of the increased efficiency in the feedlot or of the breeding herd, Osbourn says.

In general, many growers who used Dylox, reported that fewer insecticide applications were needed throughout the season because the predators and parasites were allowed to build-up and help keep the cotton clean. Entomologists caution that no chemical should be applied until field checks show that treatment is necessary.
