PUSH Group Entertains With Puppet Show

The PUSH group arrived at the Calvary Baptist Church in Muleshoe on Sunday afternoon, July 12. The Jennyslippers were waiting with ice-cold lemonade, tea and homemade cookies.

The young men were taken to the school for showers and then back to the New City Park for a hamburger cookout, (with brownies, too).

What was said to be an excellent puppet show depicting what it is like to be differently-abled...blind or retarded, was presented by the group. The assembled group had many questions for the puppets.

Buck and Carolyn Johnson hosted a pool party for them and they were also able to watch themselves on Channel 6 and the interviews which Magann Rennels made at the park.

The group then went back to the church where they spent the night.

This was the second year in which Calvary Baptist has welcomed the young men of PUSH.

Monday morning at 6:00 found the Jennyslippers busy in the kitchen preparing mounds of pancakes for the group. Breakfast included breakfast casseroles, orange juice, milk and coffee.

At 7:30 the group assembled outside the church and had a special prayer, before they were on their bikes and headed for Lubbock. Their ETA in Lubbock was set for 1:30 p.m.

"Their visit was enjoyed by everyone and we look forward to their visit next year as they travel to help the disabled," said Nelda Merriott. "They are a very fine group of young men."

Chad Coltrane of Colfax, N.C. was the coordinator for the group. He rode a bike last year and was the only one who was here last year.

Others making the trip included: Shayne Daugherty of Inman, SC; Mike Ashe of Knoxville, TN; Jason Dull of Georgia; Andrew Klee of Springfield, VA; Chris Orr of Seattle, WA; Jeff Thomas of Jamestown, NC; Tim Shippmann of LaGrange, GA; and Chih-H Shih of Orange, CA.

Day 15--Thursday, June 18

Our day started out peaceful enough. We ate breakfast at 7:15 and left the hotel by 8. Instead of leaving from Edinburgh, we left from Glasgow. This was about an hour drive and we arrived about 9:30. One of the three groups left immediately, but our plane was to leave at 1:55, so we knew that we would have a long wait. We said goodbye to Jan and the rest and settled in to wait. We went to check in about 11:30 and found that our flight would be delayed approximately two hours because of the weather in Chicago, plus the fact that this would cause us to miss our plane from Dallas to Lubbock. They gave us the choice of overnight in Chicago or Dallas so I picked Dallas as it was closer to home. They changed Esther's flight so that she could fly directly from Chicago to San Antonio. We finally left at 4:15. We even still had people shopping in the airport. Our flight was scheduled to arrive at 11:40 Scotland time which was Cont. Page 6, Col. 1

Open Letter To The Public

State of the nation in mid 1992
In this year of our Lord 1992 three presidential hopefuls are talking about each other and how the problems of our country could be solved were they to be elected president.

To solve a problem it must first be identified. My belief is that the primary and basic problem in the U.S.A. today is the decay of the moral and spiritual values on which our great nation was founded. Most of the problems we see today are merely the symptoms of the one basic problem, the decay of moral and spiritual values.

The primary purpose of government is to protect and preserve the lives and property of its citizens. This is not being accomplished today because of the rampant crime of murder, rape, robbery, riots, unreasonable lawsuits, all kinds of white collar skullduggery and many offenses of government employees. This proves the loss of moral values and moral values never last long unless associated with spiritual values.

Prompt and certain punishment is the only deterrent to crime. Capital punishment should be less restricted and mutilate crimes should receive proportionately more severe punishment.

The unrestrained, consistent deficit spending for nearly a quarter of a century is robbing our children, grandchildren and future generations of things that rightfully should be theirs. Deficit spending should be stopped now, not in some near or distant future.

Taxes of whatever nature, under whatever name they are called are taking the life blood of businesses and individuals. They should be scaled down to equal prudent government spending.

Voluminous regulations are strangling businesses and individuals. Congress should prune out many of the most undesirable ones quickly and diligently.

Education can best be served by placing only state and local communities equally responsible for education. Competition between schools for excellence is more practical and effective than trying to make schools in widely dispersed areas just alike.

It amazes me that with the demise of the U.S.S.R. that this country is following so many of the socialist practices that have proved destructive. As has been said many times, government should not do for its citizens what they could and should do for themselves. Although it was not original with him, President Kennedy was right on the mark when he told the American people and I quote "Think not what your country can do for you, think what you can do for your country." Individual initiative produces more than regulations.

Beginning in the Bible times, through the time of the Roman Empire, the middle ages and modern times, history records that when a nation, great or small, permits its moral and spiritual values to decay, sooner or later, that nation will decline or fall, of which the Roman Empire and the U.S.S.R. are prime examples. Could that be the future of the U.S.A.?

Labor Pains

Twenty-seven babies born in Levelland during April, 1992, are assured of a college education.

South Plains College there has guaranteed them a $1,000 scholarship if they graduate from high school and enroll at the Hockley County institution.

College officials said they decided on the unique gift because they wanted to make a profound statement about higher education and community colleges.

"Higher education should be a birthright, just as public education is," Stephen John, the school's director of college relations and originator of the project, said.

John Keane, pub owner in Ireland, commenting on Catholic bishop who fathered child:

"He (the bishop) used to say the hardest cross we make is the cross we make for ourselves and he did just that."

Tips For Emergency

No one plans on having an emergency, but statistics show that each year more than 77 million people receive treatment in emergency rooms across the country. Knowing what to expect in such a situation can prove helpful in a time of crisis.

When faced with an emergency, people are sometimes unsure whether a trip to the hospital is needed. According to Chuck Barton, M.D. medical director of Methodist Hospital's Emergency Room, when in doubt, it's always best to seek emergency treatment. "A medical emergency exists anytime a person feels they are in need of immediate medical treatment," Barton said.

When calling for emergency help, give the dispatcher the following information:

*telephone number
*an exact location

Do not hang up, the dispatcher might need additional information.

If there is time available before going to the emergency room:

*gather up all medications the patients currently is taking

*try to obtain a signed medical authorization form if you are not the patient's legal guardian *locate all medical insurance policies

Upon arrival at the emergency room, remember that patients receive emergency care in order of the severity of the injury or illness, not in the order of their arrival. A member of the emergency department team will briefly evaluate the patient's injury or illness to determine how quick treatment is needed. Be prepared to relate information concerning any and all symptoms, how and when the emergency happened, and all medical histories which relate to the present condition.

FW. de Klerk, president of South Africa:
"We're on one ship. If it sinks, all of us drown."

Leonard Gillingham, Methodist minister from New Mexico:
"Dealing with a very diverse church they took the middle way," commenting on United Methodist General Conference delegates refusing to end the church's condemnation of homosexual life.

Cystic Fibrosis Climb for Cash Benefit Set

Cathy Mathis and Sue Franklin of Lubbock announce the 5th annual Climb for Cash benefiting the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is scheduled for Saturday, August 1 beginning at 8:30 a.m. at the north side of Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center at 4th and Indiana in Lubbock.

In Muleshoe, Priscilla Orozco is a victim of Cystic Fibrosis.

The Climb for Cash is a stair climbing event to raise funds for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Sign up your friends and neighbors, anyone who is willing to sponsor you on the Climb.

Prizes will be awarded to climbers based on two criteria. First prizes will be available through the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation based on the amount of donations a person brings in.

Second prizes have been donated by local merchants for those individuals who climb the most stairs.

In addition, a corporate award will be presented to the top team. Prizes will also be awarded to winners of the alternate events.

There will be a walk track (for those of us who can't handle all those stairs), a Tricycle Race and a Buggy Brigade.

Bring your tricycle or decorate a wagon or baby buggy and join in the fun. There will be other activities for kids. And, of course, food to keep up our energy.

Cystic Fibrosis is a fatal disease that attacks the respiratory and digestive systems of its victims by producing abnormal amounts of mucus which interferes with breathing and digestion. Only half of the children who have the disease now live to be twenty-one.

But while there is not yet a cure, there is hope. Scientists have isolated the gene that causes Cystic Fibrosis, and research goes on daily, looking for the final answer. They have succeeded in prolonging life and improving the quality of life with various medicines. Money raised at the Climb for Cash will go to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation for national programs and medical research.

Cystic fibrosis is the number one genetic killer of children and young adults in this country. The symptoms are diverse, vary in severity and are often confused with pneumonia, asthma or other respiratory problems.

Approximately 30,000 people in the U.S. have cystic fibrosis. A child with CF must inherit two CF genes, one from each parent. Twelve million Americans (one in 20) are symptomless carriers of the CF gene.

Cystic fibrosis causes a thick sticky mucus to clog the lungs. The abnormal mucus leads to infection and lung damage and also interferes with digestion.

In 1955, when the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation was founded, few children with CF lived to attend elementary school. Today, more than half of those with CF are living into their late twenties-- still an unacceptable fact.

The sweat test diagnoses CF by measuring the amount of salt in the sweat. An abnormally high level of salt indicates that a person has cystic fibrosis.

Many of the Foundation's specialized care centers are testing new therapies to improve the quality of life for people with CF. These centers are also evaluating new drugs to combat medical problems such as life-threatening bacterial infections and chronic inflammation.

You help is needed to insure that the rapid pace of CF research does not lose momentum. The cost of this important research continues to escalate as sophisticated, new technology must be developed.

By investing in CF research you are investing in the lives of those with cystic fibrosis. Working together we can give the children and young adults with CF the quality of life and the future they deserve.

The Foundation has established and funds:

*an extensive network of multidisciplinary research centers located at major universities across the U.S. and Canada;

*specialized care to children and young adults with CF through 120 care centers located in major hospitals and university medical centers.

You can contact the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation at 6931 Arlington Road, Bethesda, Maryland, 20814. Phone: 301-951-4422 or 1-800-FIGHT CF. You can also call the Lubbock office at 806-741-6362 or Dolores Orozco at 272-3867.

Donae Parker, Smith Repeat Vows

Mrs. Donae Parker became the bride of Scott Smith in a double ring ceremony at First Baptist Church of Canyon at 3 p.m. July 18 with Curtis Shelburne officiating.

Parents of the couple are Don and Jean Parker of Maple and Shirley and Barbara Smith of Canyon.

Vows were exchanged before an arch and spiral candelabra decorated with garlands of greenery and peach tulle.

Musical selections were "Everything I Do," "Through the Eyes of Love" and "Make Us One." Soloist was Cindy Collier.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a gown of white satin by the designers from the house of Bianchi. The traditionally styled gown featured a sheer yoke with a wedding band collar. Pearls and sequins accented the bodice of the gown. A single row of white pearls finished the hemline of both gown and train. Flowers were a cascade of white and peach roses accented with babies' breath and trailing greenery.

Mrs. Vicki Robinson of Canyon served as matron of honor. She wore a teal tea length dress with lace covered bodice. She carried a free formed bouquet of peach carnations and white daisies.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Karen Watson, cousin of the bride of Austin; Mrs. Donna Jordan, sister of the groom, of Alva, Oklahoma; Shelley Sain of Amarillo; Jennifer Jordan, niece of the groom of Alva, Oklahoma. They wore dresses identical to the matron of honor's.

Jim Fischbacher of Canyon served as best man. Groomsmen were Ken Stanley, Monty Platt, James Ferguson, all of Canyon and Brad Jordan of Alva, Oklahoma.

Ushers were Larry Casey of Amarillo and Tom Cook of Canyon.

The bride's mother wore a teal linen suit. Her corsage was of daisies, carnations, pearls, and peach ribbon. The groom's mother wore a peach suit and her corsage was the same as bride's mother's.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church. The reception house party consisted of Cyndi Starkey, Tammy Keene, Caron Collier, Sandra Cox, Rena Adams, Charlotte Morris, Annetta Byrd, and Beverly Turney.

The bride's table held a three tier cake with peach roses, surrounded by four heart shaped cakes. The bridal bouquet was the centerpiece. The tablecloth was made by the bride's grandmother.

The groom's table held a German chocolate double heart cake.

The bride's traveling outfit was a white linen city short suit.

After a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe the couple will be at home in Canyon.

The rehearsal party was held at the Country Home Bed and Breakfast on July 17 and was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Smith.

The bride is a graduate of West Texas State University with a B.B.A. in accounting, and a B.A. in Ag Economics. She is employed by Cargill, Inc.

The groom is a graduate of West Texas State University with a B.B.A. in accounting and he is employed by Laurence C. Casey, CPA.

Happiness Is Do-It-Yourself

"Happiness is a Do-It-Yourself Project" will be a workshop sponsored by the District 2 Association of Extension Home Economists and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. Custom design your life for balanced living and happy endings, says Wallene Dockery, speaker for the workshop.

The workshop is set for August 6 from 2-5 p.m. in the Ft.-Worth-Arlington Room of the Lubbock Plaza.

"Stop the 90's I want to get off" Have you ever felt this way? Without quitting your job, trading in your family, or dropping out of the human race, you can achieve the balanced living and happy endings you deserve.

Wallene Dockery shares a surprising discovery, shaped by extensive research and her own personal experiences-that, regardless of the circumstances, true happiness from balanced living is an art anyone can master.

Against a backdrop of vivid slides and a content driven manual, you will learn simple techniques that will make your professional and personal life more productive, satisfying and rewarding. In the end you'll create a breakthrough in your life as you make responsible choices that result in a renewed joy, balanced living and long lasting happiness.

You will learn how to:

- *Develop the power of responsibility for personal and professional life

- *Identify five ways the blame game sabotages choice

- *Transform your worst enemy into your own best friend

- *Utilize words that create new productivity

- *Invent the ending first

- *Balance your life and career for purposeful living

Please call the Bailey County Extension Office to register for this workshop at 806-272-4583. Deadline is July 24. Cost is $10. Make your check payable to District 2 Association of Extension Home Economists, says Kandy K. McWhorter.

ORIGIN OF THE TOMATO

Like potatoes, corn, pumpkin and tobacco, tomatoes were an American gift to the world. The first cultivation was in Central America, then it was introduced into Mexico. (They were never grown by North American Indians because of extremely cold climate.

Cortez and Columbus were instrumental in introducing "tomalt" or "xtomalt" seed to Europe. Tomatoes quickly gained in popularity by adding a succulent flavor to cooking.

To this day, people argue about the tomato as being a fruit or vegetable. It is very confusing but you must admit, it is quite a conversation piece.

What is it? A vegetable or fruit? It's both! Fruits are a result of a fertilized flower blossom. Example: tomato blossoms, cherry blossoms, orange blossoms. Vegetables are a functioning part of a growing plant such as the root, leaf or stem. Potatoes-roots; spinach-leaf.

Culturally, we use tomatoes as a vegetable; botanically, it is a fruit! There are some hybrids of tomatoes that are exclusively grown for fruit-such as the "Tree Tomato."

Adding to the confusion and controversy, are all the functions, uses and varieties of the tomato.

Career Dressing Liberation Day Celebrated

With more than 56 million women in the work force today and 80 percent of women aged 18 to 49 expected to be working by the year 2000, the role and image of the working woman is undergoing a revolution. Accordingly, the restrictive dress code that women placed upon themselves to project an image of professionalism is also changing. To mark this change, Cotton Incorporated and the National Association for Female Executives (NAFE) recently joined together to celebrate "Career Dressing Liberation Day." More than 4,500 consumers from the Wall Street area attended the Women's Career Apparel Fashion Show/Press Event staged in the rotunda of the World Financial Center Building in New York City. The show highlighted new, 100% cotton or cotton-rich workwear options available from designers Isaac Mizrahi, Lauren Sara, Cynthia Rowley and Charlotte

Neuville, as well as merchandise from retailers Tahari, Ports International and Ann Taylor. "The notion of dressing fashionably or individualistically has been a given for women in creative or fashion industries for some time," says Mary Louise Hawkins, senior director of fashion marketing for Cotton Incorporated. "But you know this change has really taken place when you see similar trends in traditionally conservative industries such as the financial community. Women overwhelmingly buy cotton sportswear for weekendwear because comfort is their number one priority."

5:45 Chicago time. The jet lag will be awful. The plane was rather small--seven across. The service was excellent and we had a good meal. The flight took seven and one half hours. It was never dark, so it was hard to take a nap. We had a beautiful view of Chicago as we flew in. We landed way out on the field and buses came to take us to customs. This actually did not take long, but O'Hare is a huge airport. Here we checked in and made sure our families knew that we would not be in. Scotland had called all of the families and I thought this was very nice. Esther caught her plane at 9 and then we found that our plane would be delayed. This ended up being a two-hour delay. We left Chicago at 11 and arrived in Dallas about 1:30.

Day 16, Friday, June 19

We finally had our luggage and the Holiday Inn picked us up. We were in our rooms by 2 a.m. 1 really don't think I slept a wink. We ate breakfast and left the hotel at 8:00. One humorous note on this difficult day is that two of our hotels in the British Isles only had a single passenger elevator so we had to climb the stairs. Well, here we were at the Holiday Inn North in Dallas and had rooms in the Cabana Suite. Would you believe it, no elevator so we had to walk up. Also after so many quaint rooms, these rooms looked bare and plain. When we were back at the airport, I checked with American as we had a room voucher but not a breakfast voucher. All they would do at this time was give us a voucher for meals at the Lubbock airport. We caught the plane--I believe the only one that did not present a problem--and were in Lubbock by 10:40. From Lubbock to Dallas to London, then from Glasgow to Chicago to Dallas on to Lubbock, we flew approximately 9,000 miles. We were a very tired, but happy group to see our friends and relatives. Roy did not get the news of our flight delay so this was his second trip down. We all picked up our suitcases and then went back into the airport and had lunch on American Airlines. It was fun to sit and visit and talk to our relatives and with each other. I loved the trip and think it was outstanding. Now to get over the jet lag!!

Lee Horsley Stars In 'Bodies Of Evidence'

Lee Horsley, who calls Muleshoe his hometown, is portraying the part of a crabby police detective in the new CBS summer series "Bodies of Evidence."

Horsley grew up on horseback in Colorado and is accustomed to working outdoors and admits to becoming agitated when filming moves inside. Most of the new series is shot on a soundstage.

He admits to getting a little claustrophobic. According to Horsley, he loves it when they get out on location and have a little breathing room.

Following a stint in New York musical comedies, Horsley co-starred with the hard-edged Conrad in the 1981 series "Nero Wolfe," his first television role.

"William Conrad's a rough, gruff man who chewed up people and spit them out," Horsley said. "But he took me under his wing."

That might explain how Horsley's sullen attitude as Lt. Ben Carroll on the cramped set of "Bodies of Evidence" might come naturally.

gunfighter who has to take charge of his sister's children.

Because Jacobs also was the creator and executive producer of "Paradise," there's a bit of cross-pollination with the new show. Ben Carroll for example, was the name of one of the children on the show. And Horsley's character was Ethan Allen Cord in "Bodies of Evidence" Carroll's son is named Ethan.

After completing "Guns of Paradise," Horsley starred in the NBC movie adaptation of Danielle Steel's "Palomino."

Horsley originally went to Los Angeles to test for "Gangster Chronicles," but was passed over. He then passed on a role in a New York-based soap opera to return to Los Angeles and test for the "Nero Wolfe" sidekick role.

Although the show ran less than a full season in 1981, it transformed Horsley into a Hollywood fixture. He has worked steadily in films or television ever since.

Vin Weber, Minnesota Congressman (R):
"It's terrible that Jack has been relegated to a back seat up to now."

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and corrected.

Donna Kirk, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Nelda Merriott reported on the July 4 races. There was a good attendance and everyone had a good time.

A report was also given on the PUSH organization by Mrs. Merriott.

The next Jennyslipper meeting will be on July 27 at the Putt Putt Course. Everyone is asked to take ice cream or goodies. This is family night, the entire family is welcome to attend.

A report was also given on the District Chamber of Commerce Womens Division meeting that is scheduled.

Checks were presented to representatives of Prescription Fund and the Law Enforcement Fund.

It was reported that Lucille Raney, sister of Evelene Harris, had died, and Ruby Garner had had an accident.

It was reported that Eddie Lou Wood sold 80 tickets on the Mule Print Picture. Ms. Wood sold more tickets than anyone.

A Big Thank You to everyone who helped to make the Walkathon-Bike-a-thon a terrific success. We especially thank the youngsters and their parents for their participation and the sponsors for donating to our annual 4th of July Fireworks project. The huge crowd thoroughly enjoyed them. Sincerely,

MONEY

Dollars, dimes, nickels, pennies... imagine the fine things these coins will buy. A cute new hat for that special anniversary, or curtains for the boys' room, perhaps a new tire for the car, even the down payment on that washing machine which has been sorely needed.

In another case, these same coins might be the exact amount for the fare back home to visit loved ones we have so longed to see. They might buy food for a hungry family. Start a forgotten man on the road to rehabilitation. Buy medicine... or a toy for a sick child. Or be the means to heat a cold and lonely house.

And yet, whatever their shiny value might be; whatever wonderful worldly possessions they may buy or how much temporal good they might do... these coins, as money, are absolutely worthless toward buying the one thing most important to man. Only through God can we all have the bountiful riches of eternal life... begin today, this very minute, making plans to go to His House. Be in your church tomorrow.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Summertime Is Funtime

Now that school is out, parents might want to remember the "summer ABC's." Always Be Careful.
 "Summer is a time for children to have fun, but there are certain dangers to be aware of," said Dr. Joan Shook, an assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "Each year, we see a dramatic increase in the number of drownings--most of them preventable."
 Drownings are most common among children ages 1-5 and often result because parents fail to adequately observe their children in the water.
 "Some parents think that if they give their young children 'water babies' lessons that they are waterproof," Shook said. "But these kinds of lessons only teach them how to swim; they do not teach them good judgement. You cannot expect 2-year-olds to know what to do if they fall in the water."
 Shook suggests that parents place barriers around the family pool and visit and inspect other pools in the neighborhood likely to be used by their children. A portable phone for conducting business or answering calls can help keep parents by the poolside.
 Other common summertime hazards include motor vehicle accidents, bicycle-related injuries, heat stroke and sunburn, fractures, insect, dog and snake bites, and jellyfish stings.
 "Bicycles, in particular, are another big cause of injuries during the warmer months," Shook said. "Kids are out more and taking more chances, and they often forget to wear helmets."
 "Helmets do not prevent injuries, but they help reduce the number of serious head injuries which cause 80 percent of bicycle-related deaths," she said.
 Approximately 600 children are killed in bicycle accidents each year. An estimated 400,000 children require hospitalization for bicycle-related injuries.

 Car accidents among teenagers also increase during the summer months. Shook said she sees more and more cases of injuries caused by under-aged drivers. Car accidents account for almost half of all fatal childhood injuries.
 Another potentially lethal summer-related danger is heat exposure. Shook urges parents to be careful when taking infants outside on hot days.
 "Babies do not sweat like adults," she said. "They do not perspire as efficiently and can dehydrate faster. Being left out in the sun uncovered or, worse, in a locked car with the windows up, can be fatal in a surprisingly short amount of time." Other summer-related hazards and prevention tips include:
 *Shook suggests teaching the children about sunscreen lotions early and making sure there is plenty on hand when playing outdoors. Sunscreens of sun protection factor (SPF) 15 or higher should be used to prevent sunburns.
 * Summer rains can increase the number of venomous snakes. Children should be careful around creek banks, ditches and lakes during time of high water when snakes are more prevalent.
 *Rafts, water wings, inflatable dolphins or dinosaurs and other pool toys can entice children into deeper water with false assurances. These are not considered safety devices.
 * Parents should learn cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). Courses are available in most communities.
 Shook urges parents to take extra care during summer months to inform their children about possible dangers, and that they receive adequate supervision.

 "For two-career families, a reliable solution for how to watch children out of school is accredited summer day camps offered by the YMCA, churches, public libraries and other organizations," Shook said. "Relatives and friends may also help to keep the summer months safe for your children."
