So if you have a short fuse, don't read it. Here goes:
Someone played an unrecognizable tune on the trumpet and we said the "Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag." One of the older students asked us to bow our heads dents asked us to bow our heads while he or sne thanked the Lord for the beautiful day. Then we all said the "Lord's Prayer" together. The Principal gave a few announcements a Once in class, the teacher picked out one pupil to come up front and You wanted to have that vers. memorized early in the week in case you got called on. Then we took out our school books and got do work.
That was public school in Abiene, Texas in the 1940s. This country was literally oozing with family values back in those days. Things have changed.
Prayers in school aren't allowe anymore and you wouldn't dare suggest memorizing a Bible verse Though I see no reason why would be any different from asking the students to memorize a paragraph from any other piece of litera are which had stood the test of

Last June the Supreme Cour banned prayers at high school comcase in Oklahoma where the pening prayer at high schoo ootball games has been chailenged So pre-game prayers in that state have been suspended. That's getting pretty close to home. I don't think hey'd have much luck in the Texa Panhandle. For one thing, attendance at football games is voluntary. You dont have to go and listen This thing is getting totally hand. The Constitution guaran ees us freedom of religion as wel as separation of church and state. But freedom FROM religion is what is being established by these recent court cases and is not what our founding fathers had in mind at

The absence of mentioning any religious diety at all can, in itself, be construed as a religion. So the people who bring these cases to nither to nti-religion religion, which in turn denies us our right to the freedom of our own faith. Are you follow ing me here. It is time for the silent majority to get up some class action suits of our own and chalsues all the way to the Supreme

Melons Are Provided To Food Banks ck-up truck loads of watermelons and cantaloupes that would have spoiled in the field have been harvested and distributed to food banks, teers from the Texas Department of Agriculture Seed Lab.

The melons were grown under a TDA contract with the U.S.
Department of Agriculture to determine whether the seeds prodece fruit true to variety.
Couldn't see letting all this good fresh produce go to waste, so we decided to give it away to folks who Commissioner Rick Perry. Twenty TDA volunteers picked and delivered melons to Community Food Distribution of Burton; Combined Community Counties: Lee and Bastrop School of Lincoln; St. Paul School, Serbin; Sacred Heart School, LaGrange; Immanuel Lutheran School, Giddings; Hennesey Nursing Home, Giddings; and the Lee County Sheriff's
The Texas Youth Commission at Giddings, which provides land to out program, was given first choice of the harvest and hauled off two truck loads of melons.
TDA is required by law to take samples of seed sold in Texas and analyze the samples for truth in labeling. Seed is then planted and grown out to make sure it accurately reflects labeling information.
