Revolutionary coaster to roll

The first-ever "flying" roller coaster was unveiled Tuesday at Paramount's Great America in Santa Clara, Calif. The coaster lifts riders off their seats, rolls them onto their knees and inverts them — over and over again — for two miles.

What makes the as-yet-unnamed coaster different from all others is the egg-like seat, which cups riders into a flying position, holding their knees and upper bodies in place.

As a result, riders spend most of the ride on their backs and fronts, sailing down the inversions. Gayle Ando, general manager of the amusement park, said the roller coaster took four years to plan and build, and won't be ready for passengers until March 2000.

"This has never been attempted anywhere in the world," she said. "We'll set a new standard for the new millennium."

The course includes a 66-foot vertical loop, a double-inversion corkscrew and a horseshoe that inverts the track to about 110 degrees.

Huevos Spamcheros win cookoff

Rocky Mountain Spam balls, Spam chowder, Spam and eggs and raw Spam were among the delicacies at the Manly Men Festival and Spam Cook-off.

The event drew hundreds of participants and thousands of spectators for the weekend festival, which included a parade, a tool belt competition and a street dance.

Of the 11 cooks in the Spam contest, Andy Lopez won first place for the Manliest Dish with his Huevos Spamcheros, which was also the spiciest.

"People only get one sample and I want it to open their taste buds," Lopez said. "It hopefully prepares them for a cool beverage." Spamoni ice cream was judged the best recipe, and a shrimp and Spam gumbo was voted the People's Choice by spectators.

City considers seeking permit for new landfill

By RONN SMITH
Editor

The Muleshoe City Council is getting ready to consider seeking a permit to build a new landfill, and City Manager Rick Hanna gets excited just talking about it.

Hanna, who has overseen landfills before at Post and Lorenzo, expressed optimism Thursday that the council members will support the proposal once they know all the details.

After being tabled at last Tuesday's meeting, the permit application issue is expected to appear on the agenda for the July 20 council meeting.

The landfill would be built on 25 vacant acres at the old landfill. City officials estimate there is enough space to accommodate the city's needs for 25 to 30 years.

Hanna has estimated that the total start-up costs for a new landfill at $237,000. He has prepared an itemized list showing both the initial costs ("We feel these figures are high," he said.) and the annual operating expenses ($114,720) associated with the project.

He estimates that tipping fees (the charge for dumping at the landfill) will produce $174,720 a year and that the project will pay for itself within five years.

He thinks a tipping fee of $24 per ton will cover the costs, and suggested that the council members consider offering surrounding towns a chance to pay a year's tipping fees in advance at a re-

Lenau residents express traffic concerns to city

By RONN SMITH
Editor

Residents around East Dallas Street in Muleshoe's Lenau Addition have petitioned city hall for more traffic controls and lower speed limits in their area.

Dana Bartholf, who presented the residents' petition, said she knew of five near-accidents that have occurred recently in her area.

She said all but six Dallas residents signed the petition, and in some cases the others didn't sign simply because she did not catch them at home.

She said drivers often cut through the neighborhood as a short cut to the country club. And, she said, "If you have ever been to a ball game at Roger Miller Park, then you know how people speed down Birch," she said.

Residential streets without posted speed limits automatically have a 30 mph speed limit. "We think 30 mph on that street is too fast," Bartholf said.

She added that the narrowness of Dallas and other streets gives drivers less time to react to children darting out than they might have on wider streets.

City Councilwoman Sharon Grant said she drove through the neighborhood recently to see for herself whether there is a problem.

Grant said that at one point she was going about 18 mph, with cars parked on both sides of the street, and a Suburban was waiting to back out into the street. At that point, she said, a child on a bicycle came out from behind the Suburban.

"If I had been going 30 mph, I could have hit that child," Grant said.

Councilman Cliff Black said that as a resident of the Lenau Addition, he is aware of the difficulty created by the narrow streets.

"I think 20 mph is also too fast," he said.

And, Bartholf said, a couple more street lights would improve motorists' ability to see children. She also asked for signs that state "children playing" or some similar warning

Lazbuddie's Jerry Don Glover honored at North Plains Ag Day

ETTER — Jerry Don Glover of Lazbuddie was one of two men honored recently at the North Plains Ag Day held here.

Karl Johnson of Morse joined Glover in being recognized as growers who exemplify cooperation and support for research and demonstration projects sponsored by the Experiment Station at Etter, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Thomas Marek, superintendent of the North Plains Research Field, a unit of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station near Dumas, made the presentations before a crowd of growers, consultants, scientists and students during the noon program.

The research unit bestows the appreciation awards each year at this annual event.

Glover, executive director of the Texas Corn Producers Board, has farmed for 38 years in Deaf Smith, Parmer and Bailey counties.

He farms 3,600 acres of irrigated land in Parmer County, growing corn, cotton, wheat, green beans and cattle.

"Jerry Don is not only a Panhandle grower but an advocate of our programs and efforts at the North Plains Research Field," Marek said. "His personal and professional goal is, and always has been, to improve agriculture and promote our nation's farmers."

Glover, a third-generation farmer, is active in National Farmers Union, the American Agriculture Movement and National Corn Growers Association.

He has testified before Congress on multiple agricultural issues and was instrumental in the release of additional USDA Loan Deficiency Payments on corn silage and aflatoxin-contaminated corn in 1998.

Currently, he is involved with efforts to amend federal risk management policy.

Marek said Texas High Plains corn growers owe Glover a debt of gratitude for his service.

Johnson is a Texas A&M graduate and longtime research and Extension program supporter. He was one of the first cooperators in the North Plains Potential Evapotranspiration network of weather stations, 10 of which are now operating across the Panhandle.

Gene Watson to bring uniqueness to Muleshoe

By RONN SMITH
Editor

One of the most haunting voices in country music will perform in Muleshoe on July 2.

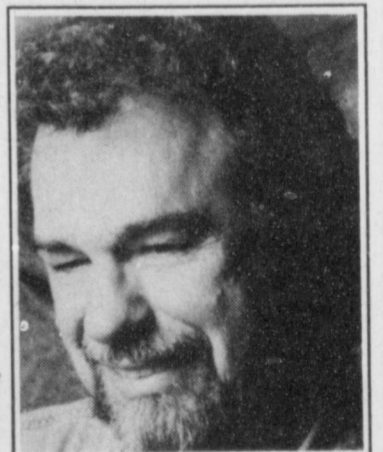

Gene Watson, whose "Farewell Party" has inspired many a session in self-pity over a period of many years, is scheduled to give two performances at Joe's Boot Shop as part of the community's Fourth of July festivities.

Shows are set for 2:15 p.m. and 3:15 p.m.

Country music critic Robert K. Oermann once wrote of Watson: "The world stops spinning when he sings. In his voice is all the ache of existence."

Country music fans tend to love a story of a hardscrabble existence turned to stardom, and Watson's life is one of those.

Born in Palestine, Texas, he was one of seven children of an itinerant sawmill worker and crop picker.

He quit school in the ninth grade to go to work, and then married at the age of 17.

In the 1960s, he began singing in Houston honky-tonks and developed a local following.

In 1974, his single of "Love in the Hot Afternoon" on the little Resco label was picked up by Capitol Records

AROUND MULESHOE

Events added to Fourth festival

Activities continue to be scheduled in connection with Muleshoe's Independence Day celebration, most of them on July 3 in keeping with the "Eve of Freedom" theme of this year's festivities.

The Old Settlers' Reunion is scheduled for 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on July 3. Refreshments will be served and six door prizes (meals at Leal's Restaurant) will be given away.

Entertainment is to be provided by Sally Messenger, who will sing. New officers also will be elected. The reunion is to be held at Muleshoe State Bank.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has scheduled a bike decorating contest for July 3.

Entrants are asked to meet at the Boy Scout grounds at 9:15 a.m. ready to ride in the 10 a.m. parade. Cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will be awarded.

Former Muleshoe resident Misti Prater Wilbur has scheduled an art show in the garden of Kay Mardis. The show will be open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 3 and 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. July 4.

"Art in the Garden" will take place at 624 W. Avenue D.

A list of events scheduled earlier is available from the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, 218 Main St.

Purdy serves in preceptor program

Dr. Bruce Purdy of Muleshoe recently volunteered in the Texas Academy of Family Physicians' statewide preceptorship program, serving as preceptor for Texas Tech student Brian Haseloff.

The program is designed to bring pre-clinical Texas medical students to work in the offices of experienced family physicians, usually for a month at a time.

The program is supported by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board and utilizes state funds.

More energy assistance available

South Plains Community Action Association has received additional funding from the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs to operate the Comprehensive Energy Assistance Program.

Priority will be given to eligible households containing one or more residents age 60 or older, a handicapped individual or children under the age of 6.

More information is available by contacting Janie Posadas or Leonor Daniel at 272-7537 or 804 W. American Blvd., 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

County joins unemployment network

Bailey County is among 57 Texas counties that will join the Texas Workforce Commission's Tele-Center network July 1, making it easier for citizens to apply for and inquire about unemployment insurance.

The program consolidates more than 100 offices around the state into seven call centers, where claimants or employers will get faster service with a toll-free telephone call.

SPC to stage 'Oklahoma!'

The South Plains College fine arts department will stage the popular musical "Oklahoma!" in the school's Theatre for the Performing Arts on July 7-11.

The musical, based on a 1931 Lynn Riggs play titled "Green Grow the Lilacs," is a recognized hallmark in the evolution of the American musical theater.

Set in Indian Territory (now Oklahoma) just after the turn of the century, the play highlights the rivalry between local farmers and cowboys.

Shows will be at 8 p.m. July 7-10 and 2 p.m. July 11. Admission is $6 for adults and $4 for students. Tickets are available by contacting the SPC box office at (806) 894-9611, ext. 2266.

duced rate of $23 a ton.

He also suggested that it might be possible to cut the city's trash-collection rates as a result of cutting out the cost of hauling the trash to Clovis.

Hanna said Thursday that he "has some concerns about the port of entry" at the New Mexico state line, based on reports from the city's hauling contractor, and would prefer to get away from interstate transportation of Muleshoe trash.

Some members of the Clovis City Commission, on the other hand, have endorsed the idea of reducing Clovis' tipping fee from $26 a ton to $21 a ton in an effort to persuade Muleshoe and Portales to stay on as customers.

That proposal has not been scheduled for formal discussion yet.

According to figures presented during a landfill discussion at Clovis on Tuesday, other area landfills' tipping fees are as high as $41 a ton (at Plainview).

Hanna has expressed confidence that the process can be completed in a year to 18 months, with much of that time allowed for preparing the application and allowing the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission time to study it.

Councilwoman Sharon Grant asked Hanna, "After the permit is issued, what kind of time frame are we looking at to be in operation?"

He said "60 days."

Mayor Robert Montgomery said he wanted to make clear that the only change being considered is the landfill itself.

"This does not regard anything except where we dump our trash — it doesn't affect our contract with Duncan" to haul the garbage.

Montgomery also asked, "Do we want to accept the liability of trash from some other town?"

"I feel the risk is extremely small," Hanna said. "It would

How About a New Movie Rating? "J" for Junk!

Take two very rich, very manipulative, and very spoiled step-siblings, add more than a little touch of lust and incest, and have them enter into a high-stakes bet as to whether or not the brother can defile the virginity of the only halfway appealing character in the film and thus keep his sports car and at the same time consummate his lust for his stepister, and you've got the recipe for a movie

It, which is not, as far as I know, affiliated with any overtly Christian group, says that "the only apparent reason for this trashy piece of entertainment is apparently to cash in on the recent explosion of teen-related, box-office success." But none of the actors playing teens are teens. They are, ScreenIt says, performers "too old for their parts" playing characters "too young for their behavior and dialogue."

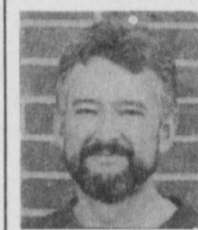

Most of their characters are creeps of that sorry variety that oozes from the money without morals, cool looks but crummy character, slime. And I wonder if actors who would want their names associated with this kind of movie are almost as shallow and slimy as the characters they portray.

Folks, I'm an English major. I love literature. I love well-crafted characterization and delightfully twisting plots. And I don't for a moment think I must agree with the actions or the morality of all the characters of a story (or a movie) for it to be wonderfully entertaining, enlightening, and fun.

But I'm not interested in a steady diet of, in this case, movies, whose main characters are pathetic jerks and the sum total of whose "message" mocks everything I believe holds real value. I wonder how many scads of movies of this sort (rate them J for utter Junk) a sick society will vote with their wallets to continue to allow sicker film-makers to churn out.

Regarding this movie, ScreenIt says, basically, "Flush it!" The advice is worth more than the movie.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

that should move movie-goers straight to nausea.

And even if the plot wasn't sick enough, the movie itself, Cruel Intentions, aside from its total lack of any redeeming value, could be labeled, "Mediocre Movie."

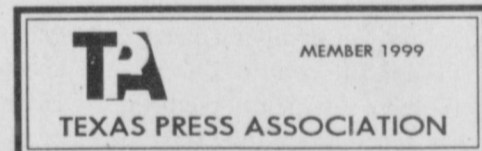

All I've seen are the previews, and they were more of this movie (now on video?) than I care to see. But, just out of curiosity, I logged on to a very interesting movie/video web site, ScreenIt.Com. They grudgingly give the movie a 3.5 out of 10 (and they're a great site for anyone who wants to check out a movie before taking out the loan necessary to afford to go and see it—bring an armored car for popcorn). They rate it as "Heavy alcohol/drugs," "Extreme" on disrespect/bad attitude, "Extreme" on profanity, and "Extreme" on sex/nudity. Screen-

Weather helping plants that don't like dry heat

By RONN SMITH
Editor

Anyone who's been gardening here for several years has probably noticed that many plants are appreciating the fact that for the most part our temperatures have been flirting with 90 instead of 100, as they might be at this time of year.

Even the watermelons, known as hot-weather lovers, are off to an unusually good start — and the temperature would seem to be the main factor. Since we have to provide moisture for them when it doesn't fall, I can't see where rainfall could make the difference I'm seeing.

The back yard at the Smith/Herington homestead also has several kinds of flowers that usually are restrained in their growth and this year are threatening to eat the house.

Each year for the past 40 or so, there have been a few volunteer larkspur come up, and in recent years I thought they were suffering "burnout" because they seemed to get shorter and shorter.

This summer, they're chest-high and look pretty healthy.

The bleeding hearts are usually looking pretty rough by now and preparing to go dormant by late summer, but this past weekend I noticed some of them are still putting on new growth.

There is also a tall species of thalictrum that usually gets about chest or shoulder height; this year its already more than 6 feet tall and the buds are just appearing. If the bloom sprays get a foot and a half long, which would not be unusual, it'll be pushing 8 feet tall. Since the foliage looks like a columbine on steroids, it's a pretty noticeable plant for anyone who knows flowers.

Leah Bell of Muleshoe recently asked me whether there's a common name for that species of thalictrum, and I said I didn't know one — except that the whole thalictrum family is commonly called meadow rue.

The very next day, I was thumbing through a catalog and noticed that the plant in question is called lavender mist, which I had heard but my feeble mind hadn't retained it. "Lavender mist" comes close to describing the effect of the cloud of flowers that forms at the top of the plant's stalks.

Most people probably would agree that lavender mist is easier to say than Thalictrum rochebrunianum, its proper name.

Another perennial that's outdoing itself this year — and if any reader knows a common name for this, let me know — is Strobilanthes purpurea, which forms bushes of big, tropical-looking leaves with stalks of odd-shaped, deep purple flowers.

This strobilanthes is only a couple of feet tall at this point, but usually at that size it's begun to bloom, and there's not a bud in sight yet.

And as final evidence that this has been an exceptional spring and early summer, I can only say that the old reliable known as obedience plant may get its name changed to Johnson grass if it continues to terrorize the neighborhood the way it has for the past couple of months.

This is the plant I use to explain why I refer to Latin names whenever I write about something more than watermelons or tomatoes.

Traditionally, it was known as "obedience plant" because the stems can be twisted or bent for flower arrangements and stay pretty much in position.

But many people also call it false dragonhead, and I've recently noticed a catalog listing it as dragonflower. When my family brought it down from my sister's place in the Ozarks, we knew it as lavender-and-old-lace because that's what it was called in the Ozarks.

I don't mind using any of those names because as long as I point out that we're talking about Physostegia virginiana, there should only be one of those and the name is the same the world over.

Next week we'll think about what to plant for late-summer vegetable crops and which seeds need to be ordered now for a fall garden — which can start going in the ground in less than a month.

Happy planting!

Only Ewes Can Prevent Wildfire

We have long known the sheep to be a two purpose animal; meat and wool. Now the Nevada extension service is finding another purpose; fire control.

Practicing a technique successfully used in California and British Columbia, the Nevadans are using high density - short duration grazing to mow the fire-prone grass and sagebrush.

Their motto is "Only ewes can prevent wildfire."

When I first heard about the project involving sheep used in fire control, I had a moment's difficulty picturing the scene. Were they flying in low and dropping woolly beasts on hot spots? Were they fitting them with gas masks and shovels then parachuting lambs into the forest? Or were sheep serving some useful function at the base camp? Waiting tables, perhaps nursing wounds or simply offering comfort to the fire fighters in the form of a shoulder or fleece to lean on?

No! Of course not. The sheep simply eat everything in sight so nothing is left to burn.

ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

Pretty clever, these Extension Service people. I understand they might apply for a grant to examine other alternative uses for sheep. I've come up with some possibilities they might test.

A replacement for the waterbed. Sleep on a bed of sheep. When trail riding or camping just bring 3 or 4 head along. They can reduce fire danger and you can count them at night.

How about sound proofing. When a teenager pulls up beside you in traffic and his Hi-Fi-whale communicating care stereo is so loud it makes seismic waves in your 7-11 styrofoam cup, you can immediately dial 922-BRING-A-EWE. An emergency crew will be dispatched, arrive on the scene and stuff sheep inside the teen's car until the sound is properly muffled.

Or how 'bout a safety device in automobiles to replace the airbag. In the event of a crash, a Bag o'Sheep explodes from the dash absorbing the impact then escapes out the broken window.

In a hurry at the airport, but don't have time for a shine? Try the Basque sheep buffer. Two strong people from Boise drag a ewe over your boot toes, side to side. They glisten with lanolin and in a hot dance hall when the grease starts steaming, no tellin' what can happen.

Other things come to mind like a large drain stopper, a self-propelled sponge and a place to store your extra Velcro.

But the alternative use for sheep that may have the greatest potential: Q-tips for elephants.

Chicken pox vaccine being tested for prevention of shingles in elderly

A stronger dose of the chicken pox vaccine is being tested in elderly adults to see if it can prevent shingles.

Baylor College of Medicine in Houston is one of 21 medical centers testing the vaccine as part of a national Veterans Affairs Cooperative Study.

Shingles is a painful skin and nerve infection caused by the varicella-zoster virus, the same virus that causes chicken pox. Most children get chicken pox and recover from the widespread blisters it causes, but the virus then hides out in groups of nerve cells next to the spinal cord. At various times after chicken pox, most commonly in late adulthood, the varicella-zoster virus might reactivate the travel down nerves to the skin, where it causes a painful rash on one side of the body, such as an area of the back, chest, or face.

The shingles rash usually heals within several weeks, but extreme pain from damaged nerves can persist for years.

"More than half of all cases of shingles occur in patients who are 60 or older, and half of the people who live to age 85 will get the disease," said Dr. Wendy Keitel, principal investigator for the Baylor site. "Although there are effective antiviral medications to treat shingles, patients could be spared the whole ordeal if we had a vaccine to prevent the disease."

Volunteers for the study must be at least 60 years of age and must have had chicken pox or lived in the United States for at least 30 years, which would make them likely to have been exposed to the varicella-zoster virus. People who have already had shingles are not eligible

About 37,000 people are needed for the national study, a collaboration of the Department of Veterans Affairs, the National Institutes of Health, and Merck and Company, which manufactures the vaccine.

Volunteers for the shingles prevention study can call (713) 798-3793.

TOPS NEWS

Muleshoe Church of Christ was the scene June 17 for the TOPS #34 meeting which was presided over by Laverne James.

Last week's minutes were read by Janie Hughes and Alma Robertson led both the opening and good night songs.

Leader James read a Richard Simmons article about taking care of our bodies. Simmons suggested trying a variety of workouts until you find the one that best suits you. He also said that a never changing diet can be as boring as the same old exercise, and he mentioned that just because we're eating less, it doesn't mean we have to enjoy it less.

Fourteen members weighed in at the meeting. We had one guest, Jennifer Hart, who attended with her grandmother and TOPS member, Lucille Harp.

Betty Jo Davis and Polly Otwell were the weight recorders. The best loser was Molly Davis with Polly Otwell and Rose Sain tying for first runner up. Tying for second runner up were Linda White and Alma Robertson. Laverne James had two straight losses and received a gift.

The next meeting will be a weigh in meeting only! It will be held June 24 at 6 p.m. in the auditorium of the Muleshoe Church of Christ. The regular meetings will resume on July 1 when the announcement of the six month best loser will be made.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

ANCIENT IDOLS!
 THE PROPHETS IN THE BIBLE VILLIFIED THE PAGAN WORSHIP OF FALSE GODS, ALL OF WHOM WERE REPRESENTED BY SOME FIGURE IN STONE, OR WOOD, OR SOMETIMES BY PRECIOUS METALS. WHEN THE IDOL WAS METALLIC IT WAS FASHIONED BY RUNNING MELTED METAL INTO A MOLD, IN WHICH CASE THEY WERE CALLED "MOLTEN IMAGES." WHEN OF WOOD OR STONE THEY WERE MADE BY GRAVING TOOLS AND NATURALLY CALLED "GRAVEN IMAGES." THE WHOLE PROCESS OF MANUFACTURE IS SATIRICALLY DESCRIBED IN ISAIAH (44:9-20). SOME WERE SMALL OBJECTS, ESPECIALLY THOSE DESIGNED FOR USE IN THE HOUSEHOLD, SOME WERE AS LARGE AS A HUMAN BEING (1 SAM. 19:16) AND SOME WERE COLOSSAL LIKE THE HUGE GOLDEN IMAGE THAT WAS ERECTED BY NEBUCHADNEZZAR IN THE PLAIN OF DURAI--WHICH ALMOST CAUSED THE DEATH OF SHADRACH, MESHACH, AND ABERNEGO. GOOD EATS! YA'LL COME!

The more your business cares about how we do in school the more we will.

You can help students everywhere and help your business at the same time. How? By asking potential employees for their high school records.

84% of high school students say they'd work harder if they knew that employers would look at their transcripts.* Thousands of businesses are already requesting records.

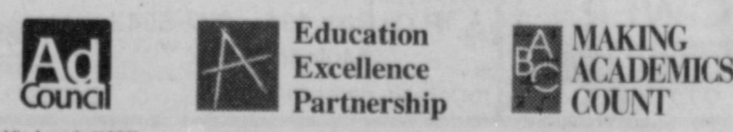

When you ask, you'll be sending a powerful message to students: "How you do in school can help determine what kind of job you'll get, how much you'll earn, even how far you'll go."

What does your business gain? Better students make better entry level workers; they have lower failure rates and require less skills training. You can learn a lot about a student from a school record: grades, courses taken, attendance, and extracurricular activities.

So start now by logging on to www.makeacademicscount.org for information on making academics count.

Make asking for student records business as usual.
