Chamber egg hunt set Saturday

The Chamber of Commerce will be sponsoring an Easter Egg Hunt, Saturday, April 10th at the City Park. There will be four divisions in which the children will be able to enter. Pre-school, Kindergarten through 2nd, 3rd through 4th, and 5th through 6th.

The schedule will be as follows: 8:00 a.m.-9:00 a.m. pre-school; 9:30-10:30 a.m. Kindergarten through 2nd; 11:00-12:00 p.m. 3rd through 4th; 12:30-1:30 p.m. 5th through 6th. Prizes will be awarded.

Due to the Chambers limited resources, we are asking any individuals or businesses that would care to donate some eggs to please feel free to contact the chamber. Also anyone wishing to volunteer with the dying and hiding of the eggs should contact the chamber. You may call 928-5722, 928-5017 or 928-5407 for information.

The Chamber is asking all parents to please call the Chamber to register children for the hunt so that they will have an idea of how many eggs will be needed to insure enough for everyone. This registeration is not required, but would be appreciated to help the Chamber make the necessary arrangements.

Taylor Electric annual meet April

Middle parents get questionnaire

Merkel Middle School has prepared a questionnaire that was sent to the parents of all Middle School students on Monday, April 5, 1982. These questionnaires were hand carried by the students and should be returned to the school office by Friday, April 9. If a Merkel Middle School parent did not receive a questionnaire, extra copies are available and may be completed at the school office.

The purpose of this survey is to give the parents an opportunity to express their opinions concerning various school activities and procedures. For more information call David Laman at the school office, 928-5521.

Good voter turnout, wildflowers, golf tourney, Fred, brucellosis...more

by Cloy A. Richards

Merkelites should be proud of themselves considering the heavy voter turnout in the city and MID elections.

That type of turnout, 562 in the school and 342 in the city races, is a good record, one that local election officials would love to see every year. By the way, we had some phone calls asking where the rest of the candidate's responses to questions from the Mail were. The answer is simple.

We printed all of the responses, unedited, that we received.

Man o' man the wildflowers around College

Station are downright gorgeous. My dad's land was on fire with color in certain places, and at least one transplanted Merkelite is really enjoying the flowers.

My brother's fiance, Suzy Rister, has been taking evening walks and stopping to pick a fresh bouquet of adian paintbrushes and pink and purple flax.

March showers bring April flowers...or something like that.

You know where I will be this weekend. Merkel's first men's tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Merkel Country

Don't forget the brucellosis meeting being held Monday night at the Merkel FFA building. Area ranchers need to attend to find out what the state programs are to fight this disease. More information is available from the Merkel veterinary clinic. I never said to anyone at anytime that I knew that much about the cattle business.

It seems a gentleman rancher here seems to think I said I did in last week's paper. He didn't like the ten tips to keeping a brucellosis free herd in the Mail. Those tips would drive me broke. One thing I have learned about the USDA, or the federal government. They seem to have answers on some problems before people even realize how serious the problem might be. That's their job. Later, when the problem is more popular, and a lot more study has been accomplished, better solutions to the problem may be identified. Right now, the best plan to eradicate brucellosis from your herd is the plan of the USDA, the plan the Texas Agriculture Commission endorses. Area ranchers and cattle producers have a chance to get that information first hand Monday night at the Merkel FFA building.

Ranchers that have experienced quite a few aborted calves this spring would do themselves a favor by attending.

Animal health commission releases tips on brucellosis

Commissioners of the Texas Animal Health Commission are launching a statewide program aimed at encouraging livestock producers to vaccinate their animals for brucellosis control.

"Vaccination is a key element of the Texas brucellosis control program. We can build up immunity in the Texas cattle population by vaccination of all eligible heifers," John Armstrong, Kingsville, chairman, Texas Animal Health Commission, explained.

He noted these are other advantages for vaccination: 1. Vaccinated cattle can move more freely in accordance with brucellosis regulations:

2. Vaccinated cattle have more value. "Financial assistance is available. You should contact your veterinarian or area Texas Animal Health Commission office for details," Armstrong said. The program to encourage vaccination is a part of the ongoing efforts of the TAHC in this phase of the Texas brucellosis program. Recently, a statewide committee, made up of several livestock organizations, recommended that the TAHC pursue an educational program among livestock producers and the general public informing them of the economic advantages of vaccination.

'In the past three years, Texas cowmen have shown their awareness of the need for vaccination for brucellosis. In 1979, about 20 percent of the eligible calf crop in Texas was vaccinated; in 1981, this figure had increased to almost 32 percent. This is a good record, but we need to improve it," Dr. John W. Holcombe, executive director, TAHC, said. He said a 70 percent level of vaccination of eligible calves is needed to significantly reduce the disease.

Vaccination ages for heifers as official vaccinates are 4 to 12 months of age. A one-time vaccination is normally sufficient for the life of the animal. Bulls are not vaccinated. The reduced dosage of Strain 19 vaccine is recommended.

"Although vaccination alone is not the single answer to the Texas' brucellosis problem, it is the single most important thing cowmen can do not in their efforts to control brucellosis," Armstrong said.

Heavy turnout approves Bingo, elects Byrd, Smith, McKee

MERKEL

A heavy voter turnout in the Merkel City elections found Bingo passed by a 2-1 margin and returned two incumbents to their seats as well as elected James McKee to council. Jerry Byrd and Ted Smith were also re-elected to council.

Merkel's total vote cast was 342, about twice higher than normal elections.

The total vote cast was 221 for and 115 against in the Bingo election.

The vote breakdown in the city council election was Jerry Byrd with 251, Ted Smith with 242, James McKee with 233, Jeff Jones with 113 and Elinor Dagestad with 101.

MERKEL ISD Ronny Doan defeated two challengers in a fairly heavy voter turnout as 562 votes were cast. Doan garnered 267 votes, 235 from the Merkel box and 32 in Tye.

Challengers Bobby Toliver garnered 128 in Merkel and 45 in Tye for 173 votes and J.C. Sims received 99 in Merkel and 26 in Tye for 125 votes. James Boyd, running unopposed had 401 votes in Merkel and 87 in Tye for a total of 488. CITY OF TYE

Tye voters, in a light turnout, re-elected their mayor and voted in two council members. 168 of 505 registered voters cast ballots.

Jim Snowden defeated A.L. Ries 85 to 78 for the mayor's race. There were two additional write-in

In the Place 2 city council race, Ruby Kennedy was elected with 55 votes. LuAnn Goodgoin had 41, Booth Childers had 35, Dean Sipes 32 and Louise Carroll had 1.

Ernest Tyler was also elected to council as he easily outdistanced Melvyn White 121 to 45. Tye voters approved Bingo by an overwhelming 115 to 34 margin.

The Railroad Commission today set the Texas oil production rate for April 1982 at the market demand factor of 100 percent for the 62nd month in a row and the 118th time since the Commission first went to the ceiling level in April 1972.

Chairman Jim Nugent and Commissioners Mack Wallace and Buddy Temple directed the continuance of the maximum statewide allowable after receiving and reviewing purchaser nominations for Texas oil in April totaling 2,420,367 barrels per day, a decrease of 39,025 barrels daily when compared with March 1982 buyer requests. April 1981 nominations totaled 2,590,116 barrels

Next month's permissible rate of output is calculated to average 2,990,139 b-d with actual uction estimated at 2.415 million b-d. The maximum allowable applies to all but 10 fields in Texas that are assigned lower legal rates of flow for conservation purposes. Actual production in April 1981 was 2,463,100 barrels daily.

Nugent reported that April 1982 nominations for the purchase of Texas gas totaled 23,350,693 Mcf-d (thousand cubic feet per day). Gas nominations for March amounted to 24,523,689 Mcf-d. April 1981 gas nominations totaled 24,237,960 Mcf-d.

The next statewide oil and gas hearing will be held Tuesday, April 20, at 9 a.m. in Midland at the Holiday Inn-Country Villa (Holidome).

If the home owner wishes to landscape, or to build a driveway, carport, patio, porch or another room, the home owner should have a written and signed agreement with the park owner that improvements may be removed legally by the home owner, or that the park owner will reimburse the home owner for such improvements if the home owner is required to move.

Recently a mobile home owner from the Valley brought a problem to the attention of my office. She had lived in a mobile home park for several years and had made many improvements to the lot which she was renting. The park ownership changed. The provements. mobile home probably will break up if moved. In fact. the lot owner could raise the question of whether she could legally remove the addition which is attached to the land. More than 200 other people live in this park. Moreover. the new land owner could have brought the land to use for another purpose and required everyone without a lease to move in 30 days. In this case, the Attorney General's office can do very little other than to alert mobile home owners that such a situation could occur.

The cost of buying and repairing mobile homes is becoming more expensive, as is almost everything else. Any number of problems may be created by moving a mobile home. Council says cotton exports up

Cotton growers, as well as producers of other agricultural commodities, find themselves in the position this spring of "sorely needing the ability to see today with the eyes of tomorrow."

That's what Frank M. Mitchener, Jr., chairman of the National Cotton Council's board of directors, told American Cyanamid's 65 Club at a meeting in Washington, D.C., March 17.

Mitchener, s Sumner, Miss., grower, said there's a bright outlook for cotton producers in the years just ahead.

The Council official pointed out that U.S. cotton's markets have changed tremendously in the past decade. While American textile mills ten years ago were consuming an annual 8 million bales or so, now 6 million is more normal, he said. While exports were averaging 4 million bales ten years ago, now they're 7 million.

Mitchener noted that domestic market losses were more than offset by the growth in exports. Indications point to market growth for cotton both at home and overseas in the next few years, he said. In the '70s, cotton's losses to man-made fibers were halted when consumer preference swung to natural fibers and promotion efforts financed by the producer check-off program were greatly stepped up. Cotton consumption held at a fairly steady level for a few years until the overly strict cotton dust standard led to substitution of man-made fibers for cotton and cost producers "roughly a million bales of market a year," Mitchener stated. Cotton textile and apparel imports made chiefly of foreign-grown cotton also hurt domestic consumption. The Council chairman said a modest growth in the domestic market now appears possible in the next five years because (1) most of cotton's losses to man-made fibers and the cotton dust standard seem to be behind the industry now, (2) a more reasonable cotton dust standard is under consideration, and (3) textile import losses may be reduced as the result of trade negotiations that call for more orderly sharing of market growth.

Overseas, Mitchener said, it appears that a promising new growth era in terms of both population and per capita fiber consumption is opening up. This is especially important, he added, since cotton markets depend on these two factors. Population experts are predicting that the world will have 420 million more people in just five years, and 90 percent of them will live in the less developed countries. This is encouraging because when income increases in those countries, much of the extra money is likely to be spent on clothing needs, Mitchener added.

He said cotton exports should average at least 7 million bales a year over the next five years and could be even more if the need arises to build stocks to accommodate growing consumption abroad or if foreign yields flatten out.

To turn cotton's potential into actual sales, the Council official said, will require additional export credit, and especially appropriations for the revolving fund that was authorized in the new farm law. Also needed will be intensified research to make new gains in production efficiencies so cotton growing will become more profitable, find out why cotton yields have stopped advancing like those of most other crops, and figure out how to make better use of scarce energy and water supplies.

MHS sophomores get job information

Merkel High sophomores were exposed to their first career workshop this week as biology teacher Andy Cummings and Merkel High Counselor Barbara Nealy aided the students in looking at different career fields.

The student used a variety of audio-visual aids and could look up information on hundreds of career fields.

Merkel High Counselor, Barbara Neely, told the Mail she wanted to make the career workshops an annual event for students below the Senior level. She said it was most beneficial to the students because the information provided included technical as well as vocational professions. In the descriptions of profession, students learned what skills or eduction would be needed to perform that particular job.

Merkel High Teacher Andy Cummings said it would help the students to know the number of careers that are available, as well as the education requirements to perform those jobs.

The Mail talked to a few of the students involved in the workshop. Gary Love told the Mail he wanted to be an electrician and he was busy looking up information on that subject. Ray Walters told the Mail he wanted to be a science teacher or an electrical technician and he hoped the workshop would help him know what is required of him to perform those tasks.

The counselor told the Mail she would be very interested in obtaining the help of local business people and professionals to discuss their occupation with students.

place. Mrs. Ed Sandusky, Conservation chairman, won first place with home energy check program and a project for landscaping at the new community center. Two divisions of conservation also took honors. Mrs. Don Hart won first place in the Energy Division and Mrs. Aaron Sudderth won a second place in the Beautification Division.

Mrs. Cecil Brown, Chairman of Texas Heritage Committee took two honors. Her committee won first place in the over all program with a total of nine programs on Texas Heritage including historical people, places and things, Texas Tales, "Memories of the past - Ghost towns". Her committee was awarded a second place for its con' rouing program on historical people, places and things, a part of which was presented at each meeting as a historical tour of Texas

A second place award went to the Public Affairs Committee, Mrs. S.C. Dixon, chairman, for it's over-all program.

Top award for the club was the naming of it's nominee as the Woman Of The Year for the District. Mrs. Andy Shouse, club president, received the award for the club's over-all programs and for its project of writing a brief history of Merkel, "Merkel, Texas - 100 Years" which was completed in July and published by the Merkel Chamber of Commerce. All members of the club participated in collecting and writing the history which was edited by Mrs. Comer Haynes, Avis Deavers, Bess Dixon and Mrs. Shouse

Attending the Mesquite District Convention were Mmes. J.W. Hammond, a district officer, Orvel F. Hill, Allen King and Mrs. Shouse of the For nightly Study Club and Mmes. H.A. Holt, president, Goldia Malone, Patty Hackney and Willo Ramsey of the Trent 81 Club.

DPS cracking down on uninsured

The 90-day DPS warning period for the new mandatory liability insurance law expires this week. After midnight Wednesday, March 31, state troopers will begin issuing citations to drivers who fail to show proof of insurance when such information is requested.

The law, which became effective January 1, 1982, requires all drivers to carry minimum liability coverage for bodily injury of $10,000 per person ($20,000 for two or more persons) and property damage of $5,000.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director, said the law is encouraging more drivers to obtain the required coverage.

"DPS figures show that during 1981, approximately 73 percent of drivers involved in reportable accidents had the insurance," Adams pointed out. "That number increased to 81 per cent for the first two months of this year.

Drivers who fail to carry the required coverage risk being fined from $75 to $200 for the first offense and from $200 to $1,000 for subsequent violations. In addition, a conviction under the new law will result in the suspension of the violator's driver license and motor vehicle registration unless the violator establishes and maintains proof of financial responsibility for five years from the conviction date.

MISD athletic dept. apologizes for Jr. High late arrivals

Merkel ISD athletic director Eddie Lang told the Mail he was sorry the Jr. High Track team didn't get home until 2:45 Saturday morning and he suggested that anyone upset about that time should write a letter to Austin.

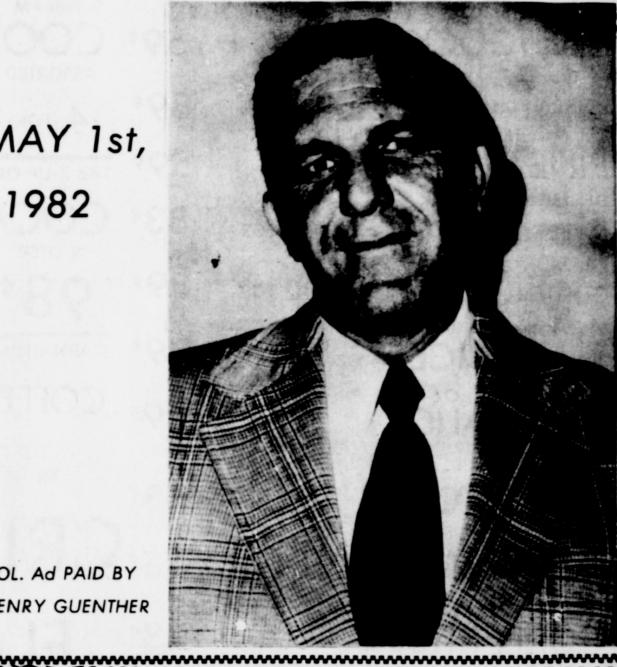

It seems a new UIL rule prohibits track meets for junior high students starting before 2:30.

Lang said that starting time rule, and the combination of so many teams entered in the C-City meet, led to the late arrival of the teams. He said the Badger teams were actually at home before the track meet ended in C-City.

Lang said a letter to the UIL, Box 8028, University Station, Austin, Texas 78712, might go a long way in that rule being considered for change at the next UIL meeting.
