First National joins Norwest Corporation

Rumors were laid to rest last week when Norwest Corporation and First United Bank Group, Inc. announced that they had signed a definitive agreement for Norwest to acquire First United. First United has 1,900 employees in its commercial banks in New Mexico and west and central Texas including the First National Bank of Post.

In addition to the Post bank, First United banks are located in eight other Texas cities including Lubbock, San Angelo, Borger, Canyon, Waco, Crane, Plainview and Denver City. First United, the parent company of First National Bank of Post was formed on March 25, 1993 when the Ford Bank Group merged with United New Mexico Financial Corporation.

First National Bank of Post President Charles Hardin is pleased the merger will bring new products and services to FNB customers, while maintaining the community bank atmosphere. No operational or personnel changes are anticipated.

"We really don't anticipate any changes," said Hardin. "The same holds true for here as the bank in Lubbock."

What the move does do for First National Bank of Post is bring it under the umbrella of Norwest Corporation, a $47.8 billion organization that provides banking, insurance, investments and other financial services through 2,116 locations in all 50 states, the 10 Canadian provinces and the international community.

In addition to its banking operations in neighboring Colorado and Arizona, Norwest has had a presence in New Mexico and Texas for a number of years. In Texas, Norwest has 48 locations of Norwest Financial, its consumer finance subsidiary, 42 locations of Norwest Mortgage and two Norwest Insurance locations.

The consummation of the transaction, which was approved by the boards of directors of both companies, is subject to approval by First United's common and certain preferred stockholders, certain federal and state regulatory agencies and the satisfaction of other certain conditions.

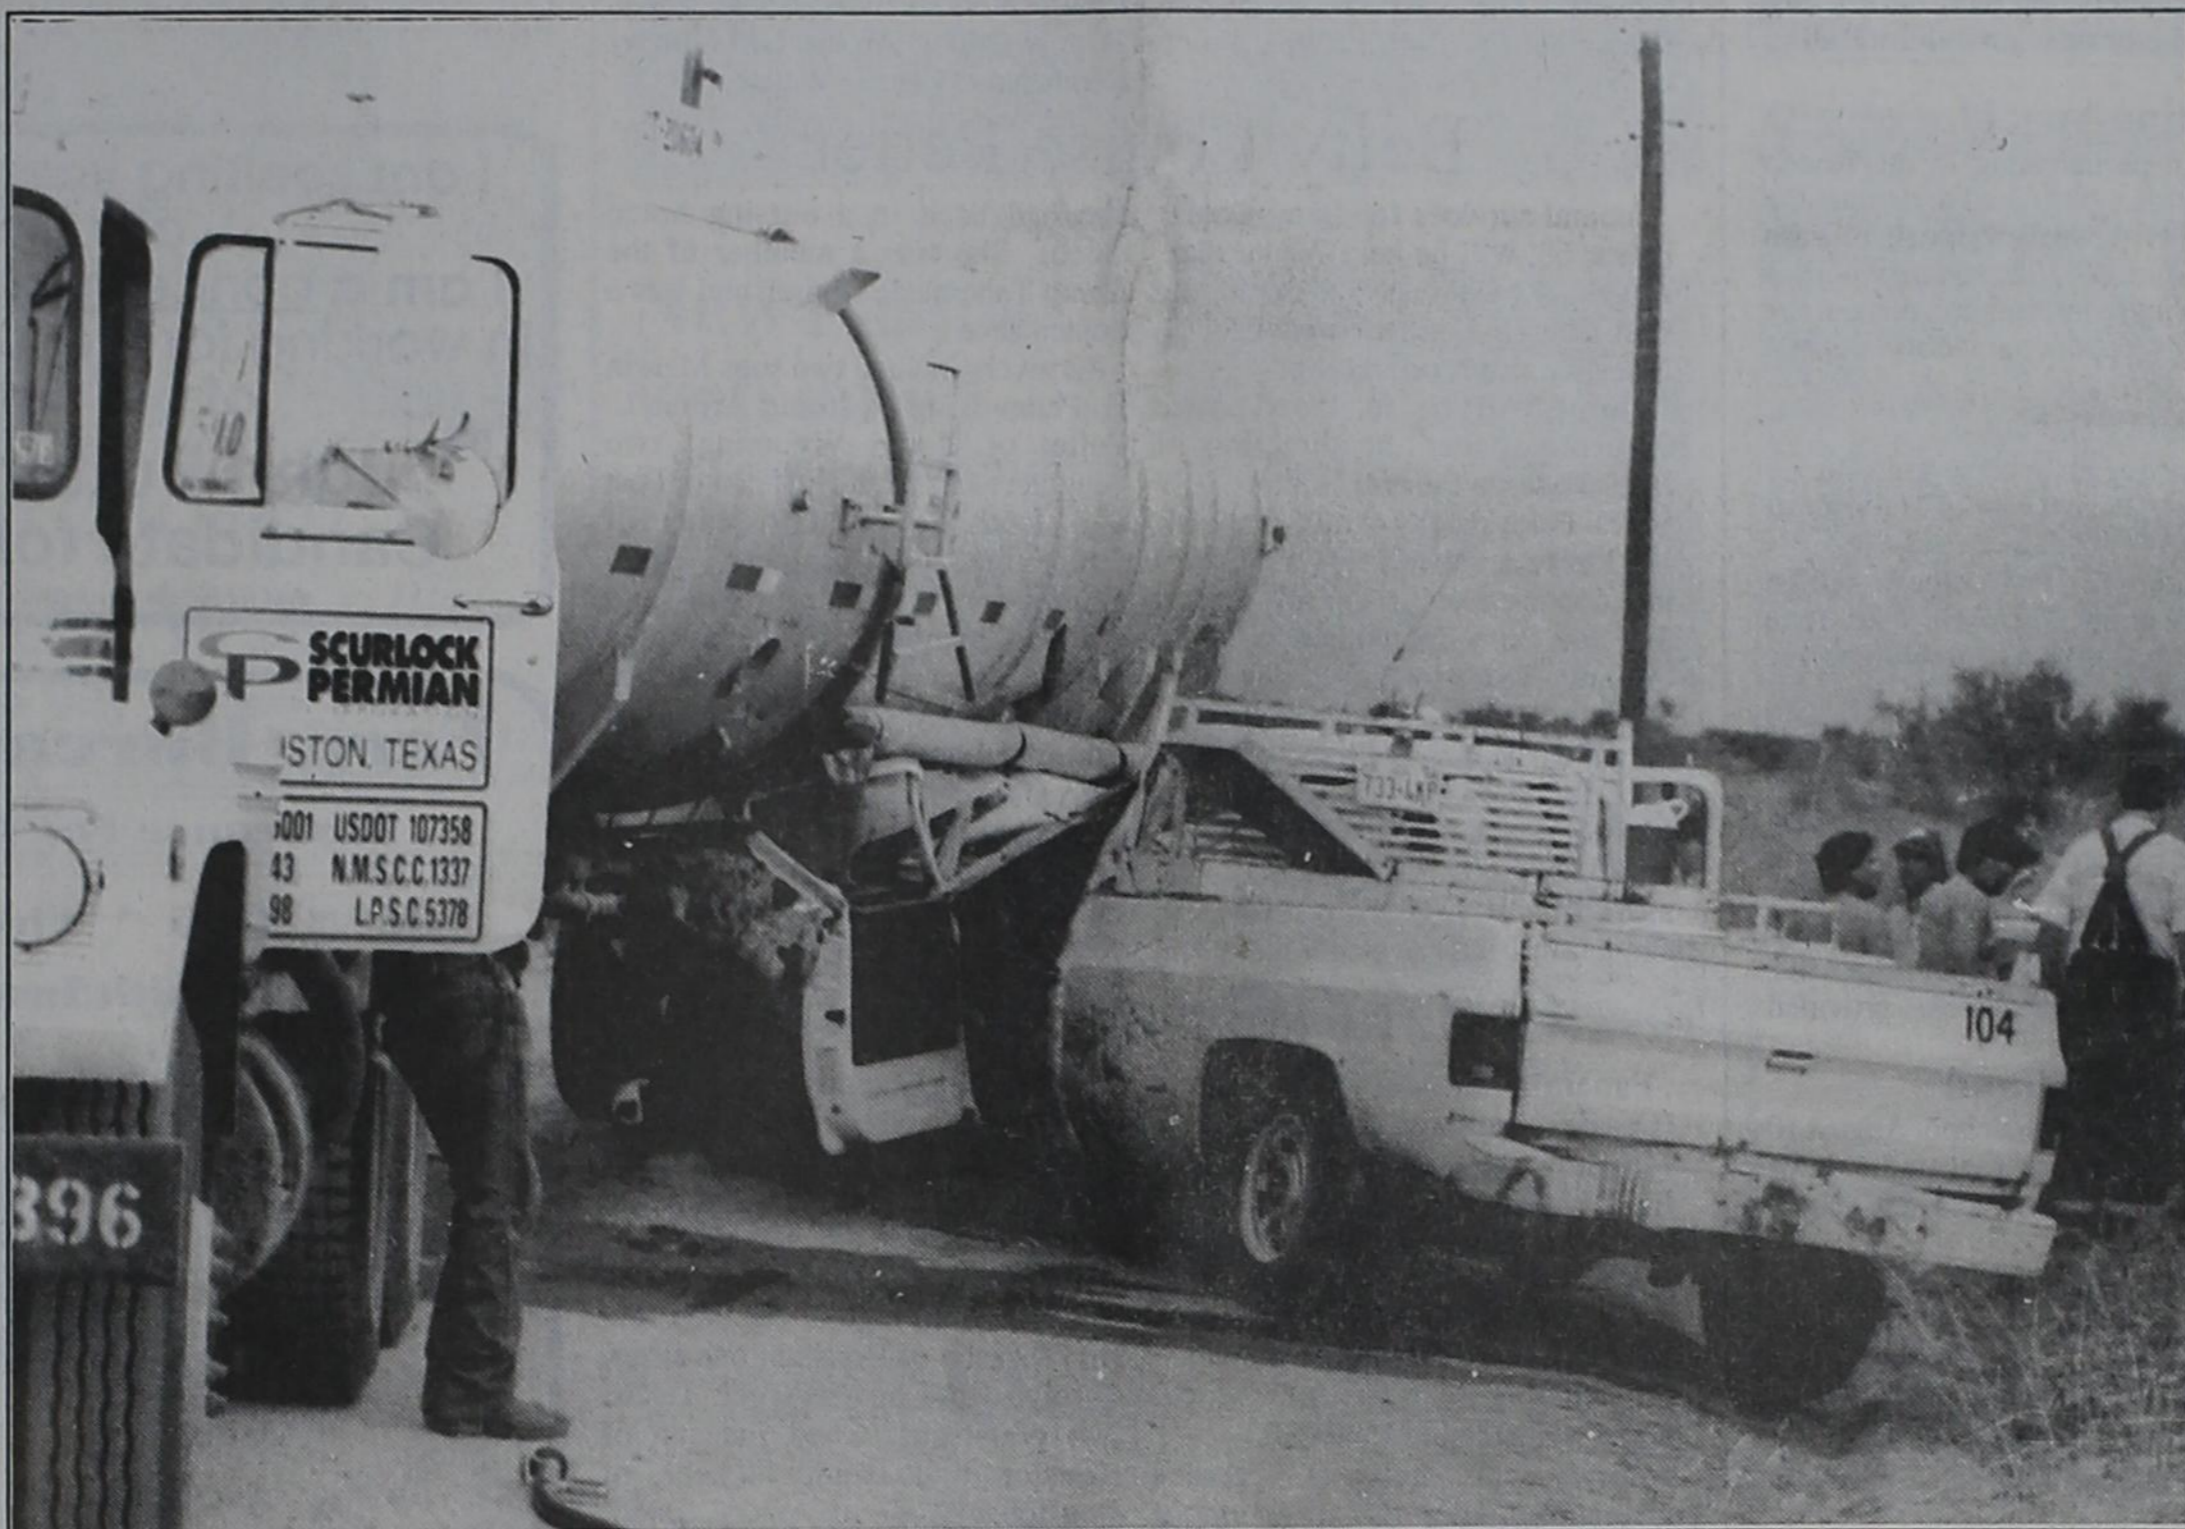

Gerald J. Ford, First United's chairman and chief executive officer, is expected to be elected to the Norwest Board of Directors following the acquisition.

"We believe the merger of First United with Norwest provides the shareholders of First United with stock ownership in one of America's most exceptional companies," said Ford. "We are also pleased that Norwest is committed to the community banking philosophy to which First United has been dedicated."

This idea of community is a theme that has been stressed by officers of Norwest since the acquisition was made public last Tuesday (July 27).

Norwest's executive vice president Ken Murray has been quoted as saying "Our loan decisions are made by our community banks. Our type of banking

Three injured in morning truck accident

Three men were injured, one seriously, early Tuesday morning when the Chevrolet crewcab pickup they were in became wedged under the rear of a oil transport tanker truck east of Justiceburg on Farm Road 2458. A fourth passenger in the pickup escaped with bumps and bruises. The driver of the oil transport truck escaped injury.

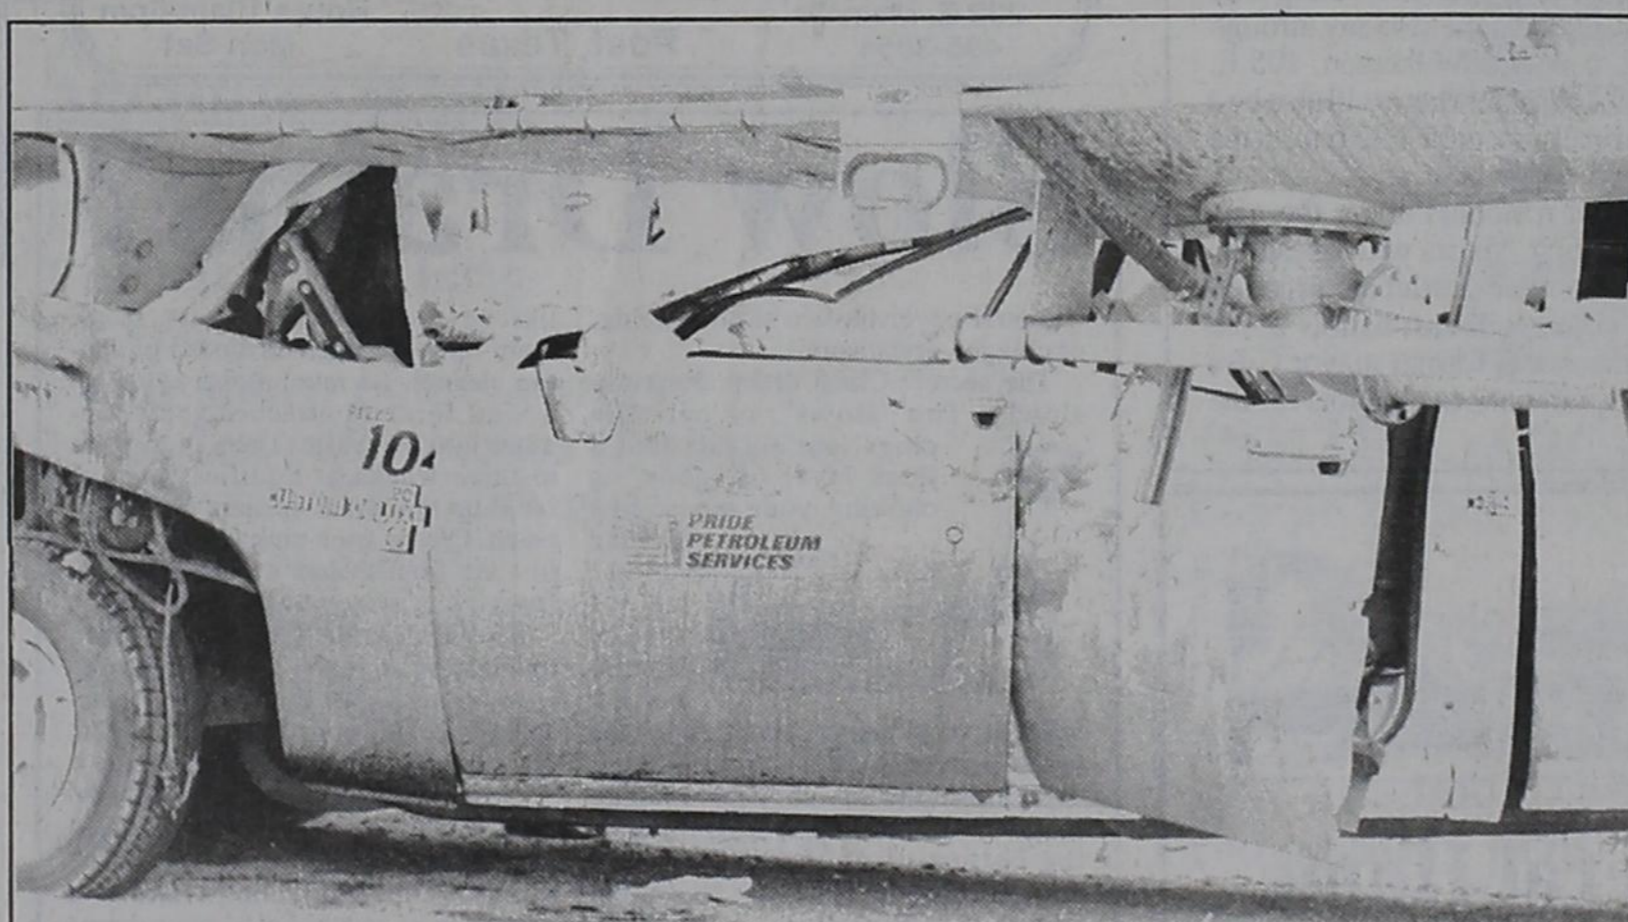

The seriously injured party, a 33 year old hispanic man, was airlifted to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock by helicopter. The names of all parties were being withheld until the investigation was complete.

Details of the accident were incomplete at press time. Based on information available, the pickup belonging to Pride Petroleum Services was north bound on the farm road and was entering a curve when it and the southbound oil transport truck collided at approximately 8:15 a.m. Tuesday, August 3. The pickup became lodged under the rear of the trailer portion of the truck belonging to Scurlock Permian Corporation out of Houston.

Incredibly, the driver of the pickup escaped serious injury even though he was trapped in the vehicle for a short time. The seriously injured party was in the rear seat behind the driver.

Post volunteer firemen, EMT's and Garza County Sheriff's officers responded to the scene. The accident was investigated by Jerry Cannon from the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Citizens Bank reveals Post branch plans

by John Cordsen

Citizens Bank of Lubbock County has announced plans to open a branch office in Post. The Slaton bank began the official process of opening the branch this week with the publication of legal notices in the Post Dispatch.

According to Citizens Bank Sr. vice president Blake Boyd, the new Post bank will be located at 210 N. Broadway. Blake said construction on the new facility will begin as soon as the legal comment period is completed and the expansion is approved by banking regulators.

"We're hoping to open December 1," said Boyd. "Everything has to be approved by the banking regulators though. They can deny it (the application) but I don't see any reason why they would."

If approved, the Post branch will employ five people at first, including branch manager Fred Myers. Myers, a vice president with Citizens Bank is no stranger to Post residents. He has 15 years of banking experience in Post both at the First National Bank and the savings and loan outlet that used to be here.

"He's a cowboy (roper) and knows all of the people here," said Boyd of Myers.

Boyd said the new outlet will be a full service bank, providing the same services that the parent Slaton bank provides. He also said the branch office will provide extended banking hours and Saturday service. The teller lines (drive up) will remain open until 6 p.m. and the office will open from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

Boyd reported the Slaton bank had been considering branching out in Post for some time, but the recent Norwest acquisition of First National Bank of Post's holding company cemented the deal. Boyd said he was "told to get on with it when we heard Norwest was going ahead with their plans."

E.W. Williams, owner and Chairman of the Board of the Citizens Bank of Lubbock County, like Myers, is no stranger to Post. According to Boyd, Williams was raised in a Post and was a former owner of the First National Bank of Post from January 1955 until October 1970. He currently owns a ranch between Crosbyton and Post.

The branch office building itself will be constructed to match the architectural theme prevalent in many of Post Main Street buildings.

"It will be much like the downtown buildings," said Boyd. He added that the ranch style building will "look like a ranch house."

City election less than two weeks away

In less than two weeks, Post voters will go to the polls to elect a mayor and five city council members. It is important that all eligible voters take time and vote.

Voters have a choice on when and where they want to vote. They can decide to vote early by taking advantage of the early voting period that began July 26 and concludes August 10. All they need to do is stop by city hall and fill out a ballot. If they don't have time to fill out the ballot while they are there, a voter can request a mail in ballot. These must be returned to city hall by August 6. There will also be a special absentee voting session August 7 from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Voters who choose not to vote early can wait and go to their district polling place and cast their ballot.

Post is holding elections under a new ward or district system, meaning voters living in one of the five new wards created recently will only vote for a candidate who lives in the same ward. Gone is the old system of electing an entire council of at-large candidates.

The new system was adopted by the current council to meet voting rights guidelines created in the mid 1960's. The new system can be confusing, especially for those who live on the borders of the newly created districts. The easiest way to get eliminate the confusion is for voters to take a couple of minutes and either call or stop by city hall and ask where they vote.

Election day will be a full day for many Post residents, as the annual Post Stampede Rodeo winds down

The sound of country swing will beckon during rodeo dance

by Laura Puma

In the distance, the sweet country sound of Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys will be beckoning all boot scooters to come down and out of those stands, stroll on over and get ready to dance as each of the three Post Stampede Rodeo performances August 12 - 14 draw to exciting finishes each and every night.

Next door to the rodeo grounds, on the "biggest covered slab in West Texas", as described by Post Stampede Rodeo President Ken Young, the tuning of instruments and warm-up will begin about 9:30 each night with dancing getting underway at about 10. Dancers are assured of an evening of pure country fun and enjoyment. Nix and his talented group have become a tradition in Post.

"This band has been a part of the Post rodeo for the past six or seven years," reflects Young.

Nix, a west Texas native, grew up and still resides on the Gail Highway in the country near Big Spring. With drumsticks in his little hands when he was two and his own set of drums at the tender age of four, it is understandable that he was a regular in his dad's band, the West Texas TRADITION comes to life as Jody Nix draws the bow across the strings of his fiddle. Fifty years of western swing have sprung from the instrument once owned by country swing legend, Bob Wills.

Cowboys, at the exceptionally young age of eight. This ambitious youngster was playing drums professionally five nights a week and still managed to learn how to play the fiddle by age 11. Obvious talent and a definite love of music have bonded him to his chosen profession for the past 33 years.

This dedication came naturally to Nix. His father, Hoyle Nix, played his fiddle on the Texas circuit with his West Texas Cowboys band from 1946 until his death in August of 1985. Jody explained, "He just overworked. He never really would slow down."

The heart attack that ended his father's colorful career at age 67 prompted Jody to reorganize the band.

"I didn't to just use his name and ride on his coattails, but I wanted it to be similar," recalled Nix.

He was determined to keep going and make his own mark.

With the band renamed, (Nix dropped West from the old name), Jody moved from the drums to center stage, singing and playing the fiddle. Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys have been entertaining folks for the past eight years throughout the five state area of Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Arkansas. In 1989, the band's popularity growing, this swingin' group played to a capacity crowd in Washington D.C. at the Texas State Society of Washington's Black-Tie and Boots Inaugural Ball during President-elect George Bush's inauguration. This sellout ball was billed as the "most Texans under one roof since the LBJ inauguration."

The Texas Cowboys consist of a congenial group of musicians whose music philosophy, style and talent blend to form a unique unit with a great western swing sound. The mix of pure traditional western swing and true country produces a sweet sound that appeals to all ages.

"The swing is a mix of big band, jazz, blues and country all together," defines Nix, "like 'San Antonio Rose' and 'Faded Love' - music for dancing".

This sound was created by country swing legend, Bob Wills and Hoyle Nix in the 40's and 50's and absorbed by Jody from the inside out. Not only did he learn well, he continues the tradition by playing the very fiddle the legendary Wills played for 35 years. Nix, dedicated to continuing the tradition, proudly plays the autographed fiddle sold to him by "the king of country swing".

Today's demand for the pure country sound has Nix and his band keeping a busy schedule with over 200 performances a year. With band members from several different west

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slowly. The "slows", or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. Just like the "ring" sticks to the side walls of your bathtub, this gook sticks to the inner side walls of your pipes.

Old-fashioned drain openers cannot remove this build up. They run along the bottom of your pipes. Even a small tunnel in the gook lets them flow out to the sewer, leaving the gook behind!

Now you can make your pipes run like new with Plumb Clean®. Not a drain opener, it's an advanced plumbing cleaner. Its revolutionary one-of-a-kind formula attaches and penetrates into the waste. Then, in just one to three weeks, it liquifies years of build up that drain openers can't even reach. Cleans from sink to sewer, not just the trap. Plumb Clean® is so effective it is money-back guaranteed!

SAVE MONEY. Because drain openers can't reach the gook on the sides of your pipes you have two choices. Call a plumber and spend $60-$120, or save money and use Plumb Clean®.

Now don't be fooled by look-alikes. Their label has safety cautions instead of a guarantee. And since they aren't as strong, their directions have you use twice as much. So, if your drains have the "slows", get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean® today!

Living on the Edge of the Caprock

Oxygen depletion surfacing in ponds

Recent calls concerning rapid and heavy die-off of fish in local tanks have brought to light a new problem, created by the recent string of hot, dry weather.

Everyone is familiar with the effects of this weather on lawns and crops but, fish have started to show symptoms of the unpleasant weather.

Loss of fish due to oxygen depletions is a very common cause of fish die off in Texas. The causes are most often associated with several factors including improper weed control, over feeding or over fertilizing, exceeding the carrying capacity, season and weather conditions.

Our recent problems are probably the result of a couple if not a combination of factors. Oxygen depletions occur in warm weather, usually June-September. Warm water holds less oxygen than does cool water. In addition fish experience a faster metabolism and growth rate in warmer water and therefore require more oxygen.

Another factor that can lead to depletion is the weather conditions we have experienced. Hot, still weather with little or no rainfall can worsen the problem. The lowered water level in our tanks can create a situation where the oxygen demand by the fish can exceed the rate which the oxygen is being replaced, if it is being replaced at all.

A third factor in oxygen depletion is the carrying capacity of a tank. A good rule of thumb is not to exceed 1,000 pounds of fish per surface acre. This figure is in relation to the lowest water level of the year, which is now. If a proud new tank owner stocks fish in the fall of the year and allows fish to mature to approximately 3 years of age and spawn annually, this can create quite a popular fishin' hole. However, when these fish reach maturity, hot dry weather sets in, tank water decreases and you are confronted with a situation where you have the same number of fish living in a smaller tank with lowered water level, thus oxygen depletion can occur.

Oxygen is normally at its lowest level at daylight, therefore tank owners suspecting oxygen depletion are advised to observe fish early in the morning. If fish appear at the surface and swim sluggishly, this may be a sign that oxygen depletion is occurring. A change of water color may also help

John Senter
Garza
County
Extension Agent

give an indication that oxygen is becoming low.

The old adage of "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" holds true in this case. Pay close attention to your tank and if these signs occur, the following steps may help:

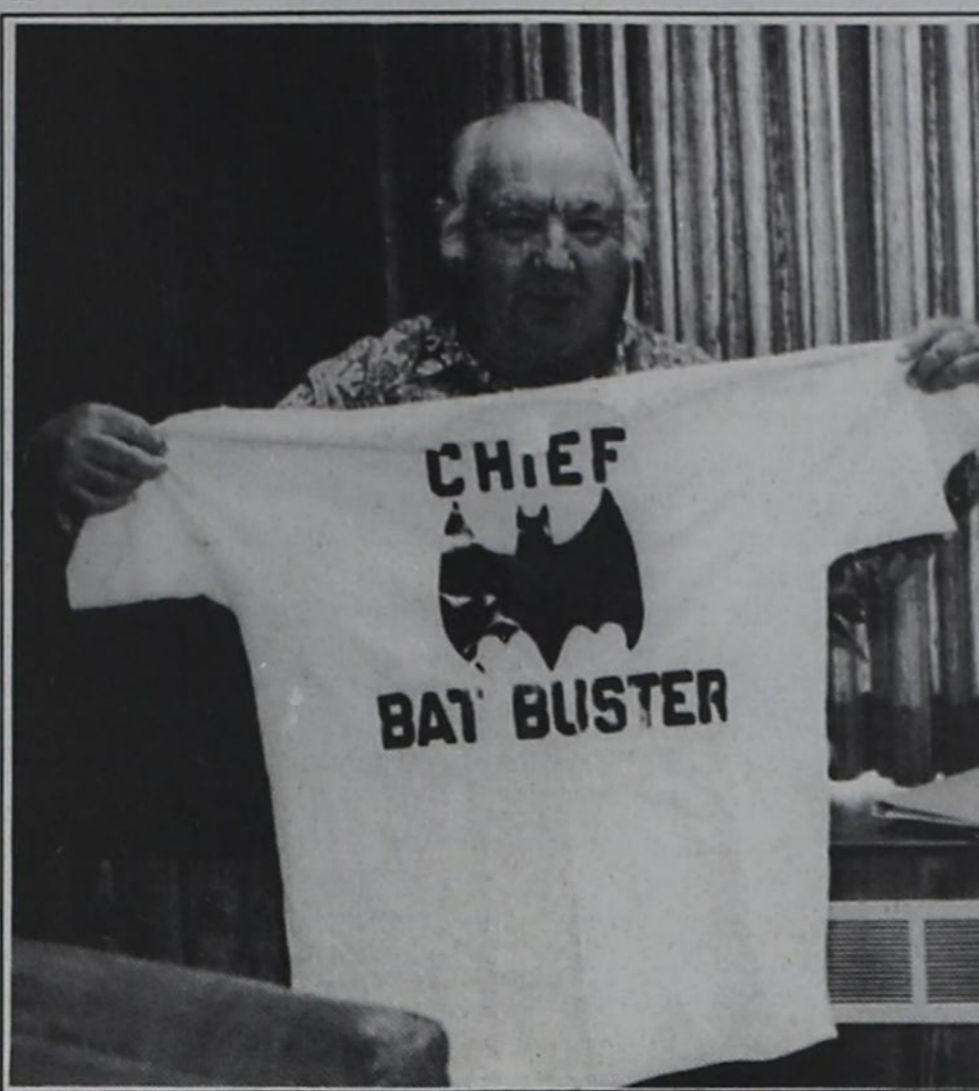

- Aeration - to increase pond oxygen, the water must be brought in contact with air. Pulling water from the surface and spraying it back into the tank can aid in depletion.

- Running an outboard motor can increase oxygen. Running an outboard motor in a fixed position such as on the trailer or against a bank will create a pronounced circulation pattern in the tank. Simply driving a boat back and forth across the water will not help the problem.

- Adding water - fresh water from near the surface of another tank or well can lessen the effect of depletion. If this option is used, make certain that this water is sprayed upward and allowed to land on the surface, not just pumped into the problem tank.

These corrective measures are usually only temporary and will help little if the cause of the depletion is not corrected. However, until we get some much needed rainfall, they can save your prized fish and help make certain that the only cause of fish loss is "hardware" disease from a favorite spinner bait!

The magazine also says based on a survey of 300 banks across the country, Norwest was ranked at the top in overall performance.

According to First National Bank of Post vice president and cashier Linda Waldrip, Murray will be making a visit to the Post bank sometime in the near future. Waldrip said the employees at the bank were looking forward to the visit.

EPA cancels registrations for cotton pesticide

The Environmental Protection Agency has accepted the requests of Elf Atochem North America of Philadelphia and Voluntary Purchasing Groups Inc. (VPG) of Bonham, Texas to voluntarily cancel their registrations for pesticide products containing arsenic acid used as a cotton desiccant.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is the state's lead agency for pesticide regulation, working with EPA, TDA registers all pesticides used in Texas and re-evaluates registrations as new data become available.

EPA granted the request of ELF Atochem and VPG to distribute and sell their existing stocks of arsenic acid for use on cotton until October 31, 1993. Retailers and distributors may also sell and distribute the buy-back program for purposes of disposal or relabeling. Growers will be permitted to use existing stocks until December 31, 1993.

Elf Atochem will begin buying back products after December 31, 1993 and continue its buy-back program through March 31, 1994. By February 1, 1994, VPG will notify customers that they can return leftover product to the company within 45 days from the notice date for a refund.

Cotton growers with questions can contact the TDA pesticide program at 512-463-7543 or the EPA pesticide program at 703-308-8033.

Texas towns, practice sessions can be quite a challenge. These dedicated musicians do their rehearsing mostly on the bus and before their performances.

The talented stick man, Ken Kelly, versatile in both country western and western swing, is the group's energetic drummer. His father, Bob Kelly, is not only the exceptional steel guitar player for this group, he is an accomplished songwriter and is credited with writing and charting "Merry Christmas Strait to You" and "Last Time for the First Time" recorded by George Strait. This talented duo hails from Odessa.

The multi-talented Mark Douglas, from the big city of Lubbock, skillfully plays bass and also sings harmony with Nix. Rounding out this diverse bunch is Jason Roberts, all the way from Lampasas, expertly playing the twin fiddle and the mandolin.

Jody Nix has recorded several albums of his own for listening enjoyment including "Two Empty Glasses" - Jody Nix and Chuck Carson, "New Road" - Jody Nix, "The Key's in the Mailbox" - Jody Nix and a special Bob Wills album "For the Last Time" - United Artists. On the Wills album, Nix was honored by being one of two artists to participate who were not part of the original Texas Playboys.

The covered slab will certainly be filled with plenty of dancers and listeners all three nights to enjoy the stage show and country swing dance music of Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys. Nix explains, "Good clean family entertainment and solid Texas dance music are becoming more and more popular throughout the 90's. Hope everyone will come out to the dance, we'll be there to entertain them."

Recent veterans whose military skills don't readily transfer to civilian jobs may now get help from a new federal training program that will pay certain costs to participating private employers, said Lois High, director of the VA regional office in Waco, Texas.

The Service Members Occupational Conversion and Training Act (SMOCTA) is aimed at veterans discharged after August 1, 1990, who have had difficulty getting steady work. Jointly implemented by the departments of Defense, Labor and Veterans Affairs, the program will pay wage reimbursements up to $10,000 to employers who establish approved training and offer prospects of long-term employment. Reimbursement of up to $12,000 is available for training certain disabled veterans.

"This program not only provides jobs for veterans, but it also provides an excellent opportunity for employers, including small businesses, to add employees to their workforce and get help in offsetting training costs at the same time," said Dr. High.

VA will perform program administration activities along with the Department of Labor. VA will also provide educational, vocational and readjustment counseling to qualified veterans who are interested in these services.

The Department of Defense is funding $75 million earmarked for employers who provide jobs to qualified veterans.

To qualify, a veteran must have been honorably discharged from active military service after August 1, 1990, and served for more than 90 days, unless discharged earlier because of a service-connected disability. Eligibility is then based on either the Defense Department's determination that the veteran's primary or secondary military occupational specialty is not readily transferable to the civilian workforce, or the veteran is unemployed at the time of application and ND for at least 8 of the 15 weeks immediately preceding application.

Eligibility is then based on either the Defense Department's determination that the veteran's primary or secondary military occupational specialty is not readily transferable to the civilian workforce, or the veteran is unemployed at the time of application and for at least 8 of the 15 weeks immediately preceding application. Eligibility also is extended to veterans discharged after August 1, 1990 who have a VA service-connected disability rating of 30 percent or more.

Employers can apply to participate in SMOCTA by contacting the nearest employment or job service office for details, applications and assistance in establishing approved training programs. Veterans also may contact their nearest employment or service office for assistance, or call their nearest VA regional office toll-free at 1-800-827-1000.

To The Memory Of Charlene Nelson

I feel sure at age 12, Charlene's life was changed forever. Its beyond ones comprehension to lose a father, mother, brother and sister in a tragic accident.

How traumatic it must have been to cope with such a loss to one so young. The heartaches, disappointments and adjustments plus the aches and pains she suffered resulting from the accident would have overwhelmed most anyone, but in spite of it she persevered.

If Charlene could tell us today, to quote Robert Frost, she would say that she had miles to go before she slept, but by the stroke of the Master's hand, it was not to be.

Charlene, the love we shared will strengthen me and those of us left behind will miss you.

In loving memory,

ATTENTION VOTERS

I encourage each citizen to exercise your right as an American citizen to vote in the August 14 city election. The mayor and council elected this month can lead this community toward a better place in which to live. Post can be a better place if we as the people will join hands and work together and not pull apart.

When I became mayor two years ago, I sensed that the citizens of Post wanted a change in city government. After more than 25 years, we are finally complying with federal law in electing council persons from your neighborhood rather than citywide.

Two years ago, the city landfill failed to meet state or federal environmental standards. With the support of the city council and through cooperation from commissioners court and use of local workers, we now meet environmental standards and have a permit for a new landfill in focus. This has been accomplished with local employment and saved the taxpayers over $80,000.

We have been awarded grants to launch a waste recycling program. Five used oil containers will soon be located throughout the county to collect waste motor oil. A trailer is now being built to collect separated paper, plastics, and cans for the recycling industry, rather than fill the city dump.

The city employees now have a better retirement program with Texas Municipal League. Relations with White River Municipal Water District have been improved. Terrace Cemetery has been enlarged, beautified, and staffed with a live-on custodian. The Garza Airport has new paved runways and a family living on the premises. These are some of the accomplishments of the past two years. I hope to see many other things done using local talents and capabilities if I am re-elected your Mayor.

The only way anything can get done is by working together and putting our minds to work. I have truly enjoyed being your mayor these past two years and would very much like to be your mayor another two years. We are not through by any means; we have only started.

While we failed to get a community development block grant for improved housing last year, we are trying once again to get a grant for housing for 1994. Hopefully we will receive this and other grants in the future.

I encourage each one to go vote.

WIC offers immunizations

Texas ranks highest among all the states in case numbers of vaccine-preventable diseases. That is a distinction which the Texas Department of Health (TDH) plans to change.

Citing as "intolerable" the fact that 14 Texas children younger than 5 have died from measles complications since 1988, Dr. David R. Smith, Texas Commissioner of Health, said, "We're better at vaccinating our cattle in Texas than immunizing our children."

This month, TDH has begun a new tactic to improve immunization rates among children. The statewide WIC program (Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children) now offers free immunizations at most of its locations, to children of any age, regardless of whether they participate in WIC.

"Mothers already are bringing infants into our clinics for WIC benefits," explained Debra Stabeno, Chief of the Bureau of WIC Nutrition. "In the past, we've referred these children to other health care providers for their shots," she said. "Now we'll directly supply the shots. We expect to save our clients time while ensuring more kids' vaccinations. At least 400,000 children younger than 5 come through the state's WIC clinics each year."

The WIC effort is part of Commissioner Smith's "no more excuses" plan to immunize all Texas children before age 2. According to Dr. Smith, only about 30 percent of 2-year-olds in Texas' urban areas are fully immunized. "In addition to the preventable toll in human suffering, illness and death, the costs endured by Texas families are enormous," he said.

He added that hospital costs for each of the recent measles outbreaks in South Texas, Houston and Dallas have exceeded $2.5 million. "We could have immunized these thousands of children for a fraction of that cost."

The mind of man is capable of anything—because everything is in it, all the past as well as all the future.

St. Mary's acquires new system for treatment of kidney stones

St. Mary's of the Plains Hospital announces the acquisition of a LITHOSTAR Lithotripsy system for the treatment of kidney stones. The system, which utilizes a self-contained shock wave generator, making it unnecessary to immerse a patient in a water bath to break up the stones, is the only one of its kind in the South Plains area.

The LITHOSTAR system, supplied by Siemens Medical Systems, Inc., Iselin, NJ, provides a multifunctional lithotripsy system. It was up and running Monday, June 21, 1993, was used in seven cases the first week.

"Combined with our laser lithotripter, the LITHOSTAR system allows us to offer the only hospital-based full service urology program on the South Plains," said St. Mary Hospital Assistant Vice President David Weil.

Hailed as one of the decade's most important medical breakthroughs in terms of patient comfort and safety, lithotripsy offers an alternative to surgery for patients with kidney stones.

The lithotripsy therapy system generates low energy shock wave impulses which are focused on the kidney stone, causing it to break into tiny particles. These particles can be passed naturally from the urinary system.

"The new system is state-of-the-art for mechanical stone degradation," said Lubbock Urologist O. Lynn Avant, M.D. "It offers numerous advantages to patients—it requires no general anesthesia, allows for same-day discharge and delivers low rather than high energy resulting in less chance of renal tissue damage."

How Much of Your Money Does the FDIC Protect?
Fast answer: less than you expect. And changes to take effect on December 19, will limit protection on retirement accounts.

The basic rules protect $100,000 per person per banking institution. Joint accounts get $100,000 coverage of their own, as do revocable trust accounts for spouse, child or grandchild. Thus a family of four could conceivably have four individual accounts, four carefully named joint accounts, and six different revocable trust accounts with $1,400,000 total coverage. But note that joint accounts with the same person are covered only up to $100,000 total.

Until December 19, IRA and Keogh accounts can be insured for individual owners in addition to any other accounts in that bank. After that date, there's a limit of $100,000 per person total for all IRAs and self-directed Keoghs at that bank.

As savings mount up, the bank won't warn you if funds are at risk. Keep an eye on your totals; move some money elsewhere if you must.

"If your church is not mentioned in this please send us their information"

From the Pulpit How is your vision?

Christian vision is a subject one hears little about these days. Yet it runs throughout the word of God. I wonder, could the reason that Christians do not seem to have a vision today be because they are simply too busy? Or, because they fail to spend enough time investing in the lives of others for God?

There are several things about Christian vision that are vital.

•First, Christian vision always comes from God, and never any other direction.

•Second, Christian vision never contradicts the word of God, the Holy Bible.

•Third, Christian vision will never be harmful to anyone, including other people.

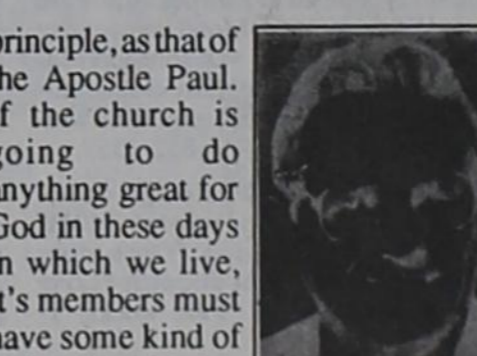

•Fourth, Jesus as our example, had a vision for the church and His people.

•Fifth, before anyone may receive a Christian vision, they must first be a Christian.

Paul, the Great Apostle, had a vision that was given unto him by God. And as he stood before King Agrippa, he made this statement, "I have not been disobedient to the heavenly vision."

The Apostle Paul's obedience brought about miracles wherever he went. Men and women, boys and girls, entire families were changed. They found deliverance from the powers of darkness in the glorious blood of Jesus Christ. One jailer even came to him and asked, "sir, what must I do to be saved?"

May God grant you and I the same Christian vision, at least in principle, as that of the Apostle Paul. If the church is going to do anything great for God in these days in which we live, it's members must have some kind of vision from God to give them direction and purpose in building his kingdom.

The Christians in the Book of Acts in the New Testament were so successful that it was spread around that they were turning the world upside down wherever they went. Of course, you and I know, that they were simply turning it right side up. Satan turned it upside down in the Garden of Eden when he convinced Adam and Eve to sin and rebel against God.

When Paul said that he was not disobedient to the heavenly vision given unto him by God, he was simply testifying that his life as a Christian was one of victory and success. A life that was right side up.

Is your life a life of victory and success for God. It can be if only you will allow God to give you a vision that brings fulfillment and purpose. How about it? Let Jesus have his way with you, right now!

Remember, Christian vision: 1, always comes from God. 2, it never contradicts the word of God. 3, it never brings harm to anyone. 4, Jesus is our example. 5, you must first be a Christian.

May God grant his blessings and his vision for us all.
