Founders' Day ends for 1994

by Bill Galusha

The weather started out wet and gloomy, then the sun began to come out from behind the clouds and 100s of people seem to come from out of nowhere. The 8th annual Founders' Day had started. Tents and booths lined the streets and the smell of barbecue and popcorn filled the air. A train pulled by a three wheeler gave scores of children rides around the square and the Texas Gunslingers fought outlaws in the streets.

The Plainsmen were set up in The Algerita Park giving hatchet and knife throwing demonstrations. Being dressed in authentic buckskin and cooking over an open fire added to the atmosphere of the park. Coffee was always on the fire in a big tin pot and the Plainsmen were there to tell stories of past rendezvous they attended during the year. "We all work in regular jobs but on weekends we try to go to as many as we can. We try and stay within 150 miles of Post," said Connie Key, from Big Spring.

This year was the first year for the Texas Gunslingers to give a live performance in the streets. Morris Smith, Vernon Groce, Gene Groce, Jarod Smith, Howard Bruns and Eddie Crow dressed in western attire complete with six-shooters and shotguns battled outlaws in several performances during the day.

The Texas Gunslingers put on their authentic performances for audiences all around the area.

The Rendezvous of the Arts Western Art Exhibit & Sale was going on at the Post Community Center all day. There was western art and sculpture from over 20 artists from as far as New Mexico and Oklahoma on display. The exhibits included paintings, sculptures and bronze of every imaginable shape and size. This was all sponsored by the Cultural Caprock Association of Post.

There were photography exhibits and art sales all day and Tex West and Friends gave hourly performances at the Tower Theatre. The O.S. Museum had on display, "A Glimpse of Antiquity."

The Garza Historical Museum gave viewers a glimpse into the history of Post. The Blue Knights motorcycle club had its annual poker run beginning from the United Supermarkets parking lot at 9:30 a.m. The awards were at the Post VFW at 2:30 p.m.

The Nifty fifties antique car club was here with vintage cars of yesterday. There were station wagons, convertibles and trucks of many shapes and sizes. One car on display was a 1953 Allstate, manufactured for Sears by the Kaiser Frazier Corporation.

The Black Tie and Boots Celebration and Dance was held at the Post Mill Friday night with the auctioning of many items, including the Duward Campbell painting of the train station and train, purchased by Norwest Bank. Music for the dance was furnished by Riata.

The Founders' Day Ranch Competition was held at the Post Stampede Rodeo Arena. A dance was held after the competition with music by Cow Jaz.

The first Interdenominational Church services were held Sunday morning at the Post Stampede Rodeo Arena. The Garza Theatre had a performance of Arsenic and old Lace

Close Up goes to Washington

Each year the Close Up Washington foundation invites students from schools across the nation to attend the Close Up Washington program. In the 1993/94 school year, approximately 28,000 students and educators from more than 3,000 schools participated in Close Up programs in Washington.

Once arriving in Washington the students experience and develop a better understanding of government through direct contact with government leaders. Students are paired with peer leaders from Washington who escort them to meetings, speeches, and points of interest. They attend congress and the Senate hearings and experience our government in action.

Speeches they attend are on the hot topics of the time. "Last year we heard speeches on topics like overseas diplomacy, human rights, firearms and sexual harassment," said Keely Cahill. Cahill was the only student from the Post school district who attended last year. "It's a definite learning experience. We saw President Clinton, Senator Kennedy and the Prime Minister of Ireland," said Cahill.

"It is well worth the expense of the trip, you get to learn from first hand experience how our government works. We stayed in a Holiday Inn, went to a nice dinner theatre and saw lots of sights," she said.

The cost of the trip is about $1,050 and leaves from Dallas. It is open to juniors and seniors who are doing good in school and want to ask questions. "They want the students in-put, they want to hear wh? you

The time it takes to get to an emergency medical facility can make the difference between life and death:

Aero Care Helicopter takes a heart attack victim to Lubbock

by Bill Galusha

A heart attack can strike anyone at any time. They often come without warning or reprieve. In one man's case he was, if you can call it lucky, lucky enough to have advance warning of an impending heart attack. Thanks to a helicopter, (Airborne Critical Care Transport), "Aero Care", the Garza Memorial Hospital and fast responding law enforcement officers, the man is alive and stable.

A middle age man traveling North on highway 84 suddenly became nauseous and began experiencing chest pain. The Lubbock resident, not familiar with the area did not know where the nearest medical facility or hospital was located. A Garza County Sheriff's Deputy, happened to be traveling the same highway.

Deputy Randy Johnson, on routine patrol, saw the man motioning for him to stop. Pulling off to the side of the road the man informed Johnson he thought he was having a heart attack. The deputy offered to transport the man in his patrol car, but the victim stated he would drive himself if the officer would lead the way.

Wasting no time arguing Johnson immediately returned to his car and began leading the man toward Post. Not sure of the severity of the man's condition, Johnson called for assistance from Texas Department of Public Safety officer, Kyle Edwards. With one patrol car in front and the other in the rear, the two law enforcement officers lead the man toward Garza Memorial Hospital.

Deputy Johnson then called his dispatcher, Deputy Ramon Holguin and advised him of their situation and requested him to advise the hospital of their impending arrival. After arriving at the hospital a call was placed to the Lubbock, "Aero Care", Communications Center. A helicopter was immediately dispatched to the Garza Memorial Hospital.

The escorting officers had barely enough time to block the traffic on 6th street before the helicopter arrived on the scene. The flight time from Lubbock to Post took just over 13 minutes.

Having 20 years experience flying, pilot Greg Gust landed the state of the art, BK-117 helicopter on the landing pad one foot from dead center.

The victim was still in the hospital being examined and stabilized for transport when the helicopter landed. "It's not unusual for us to arrive before the patient is ready for transport," said Gust. Once the patient is ready for transport they are loaded into the craft from the back and the special stretcher securely anchored to the floor. The inside of the helicopter is equipped with the equivalent of a high tech emergency room.

"We have ventilators, defibrillators, life support of all types, including all the drugs that are available to support life in an emergency room," said Gust. The personnel aboard each flight includes a registered nurse, flight paramedic and pilot. Other care specialists, including physicians, therapists, or a wide variety of other medical specialists may be on board, depending on the patients needs.

Each nurse has at least three years experience in critical care emergency and some may hold advanced board certifications. The EMT-paramedic has at least three years experience in advanced life support with an extensive background in management of on-scene situations. Each pilot has a minimum of 3,000 hours flight time and is experienced in flying medical patient missions.

The Aero Care is responsible for the saving of many lives through the expedient transportation of not only critical care patients, but they also transport donated organs used in transplant patients. In many cases a transplant recipient and the donated organ are many miles apart. A person's life often depends upon the

by Terri S. Cash, CPA

THE DOCUMENTS YOU NEED TO KEEP

Anyone who's had to prove a tax deduction knows the benefits of saving important financial records. Here's a rundown of what's what:

- Tax returns should be saved forever, but supporting documents usually can be tossed three years after the filing date. The IRS can't audit beyond that, unless they have evidence to support a suspicion of fraud.
- On your investments, save all trade confirmations and dividend-reinvestment statements to prove cost bases. But you can toss monthly statements from brokers and mutual funds as long as the annual statement shows all transactions. Save annual statements forever. If you inherit assets, save records that document your basis.
- Save IRA records, especially for non-deductible contributions.
- Save real estate documents such as the title on your home, deed of purchase, mortgage contract, sales contract and receipts for capital improvements to minimize taxes on capital gains when you sell.
- Keep receipts for jewelry, furs and other big-ticket items for insurance claims or proof of casualty loss values.

Kirkpatrick awarded recognition for book

by Ruth Lewis

"From the day I wrote the first word until I had the finished book in my hands was 7 years and 1 month", Zoe Kirkpatrick said about her book, Wildflowers of the Western Plains.

At the annual Meeting and Symposium of the Native Plant Society of Texas (NPSOT), held in Corpus Christi, the NPSOT honored Kirkpatrick by awarding her the Carroll Abbott Memorial Award. This award is given for excellence in writing in the popular vein on Texas native plants.

Kirkpatrick's book not only provides vast amounts of information about the flowers she loves, but also includes an occasional recipe and over two hundred photographs that Kirkpatrick has taken of the flowers. "I started taking pictures of the plants and flowers around our home in the 60s", she told us. "I have taken several thousand photos through the years, but I was only able to use a small portion of them in my book." Kirkpatrick says that sales of her book are going well. "When I did the first book signing here in Post, 477 books sold!" smiled Kirkpatrick. "That is the second all-time biggest signing ever of a book published by the University of Texas Press".

Kirkpatrick is actively involved with the NPSOT, serving as a banquet speaker at past annual meetings as well as having presented a paper to the NPSOT last year.

expeditious delivery of a donated organ. "We cruise at 140 mph and go as far as 200 miles out in the helicopters. We go as far as Mexico and Canada in the learjet," said Gust. It would seem the expense of transportation in an emergency that calls for helicopters or learjets is trivial compared to the consequences of not having the option to use them.

In the case of the man having the heart attack symptoms, at last report he was listed as stable. If he would have gone into full cardiac arrest, he might possibly have been kept alive by the equipment, personnel and the speed in which they arrived and delivered him to a major medical facility.

Bull sale prices down from previous year

by Bill Galusha

Started in 1975, the annual Double U Bull sale has become a tradition in Post during Founders' Day. The sale began as a means of selling off extra registered bulls and registered heifers. In 1978 the ranch started selling commercial heifers, but continued selling only registered bulls.

The sale has adopted the atmosphere of a large family barbecue. Large pits are filled with brisket and sausage and tables are lined with potato salad and all the trimmings. People from all walks of life attend the event and come from as far away as Mexico and New York. Members of the Post

Montgomery family attend the event and help to celebrate the founding of their ancestors town.

"With the drought over the last couple years and the drop in cattle prices the average sale price of the bulls and heifers was down about $500," said Kenneth Marts, manager of the Double U Ranch. In the past bulls have brought as much as $1,800 and heifers sold for as much as $1,300.

This year 85 heifers sold at an average price of $768 each, and 45 bulls at an average price of $1,252 each. "We have sold bulls and heifers that went to several states across the country, some even went to Mexico. I don't think any left the state this year," said Marts.

The church was decorated in the bride's chosen colors of burgundy, hunter green and white.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white satin schiffle lace with a jeweled neck, long tapered sleeves and a split tiered back bow. The chapel length train was adorned with appliques of jeweled sequins and seed pearls. The dress was designed by Mori Lee of Dallas. The veil consisted of a v-shaped pearl drop headpiece with flowers and seed pearls on the right side. It was hand trimmed and puffed to the waistline. The bridal bouquet was of a free style, cascading design. The main focus were three satin Calla lilies surrounded by white silk tea roses. Tulle tufts and stephanotis highlighted the bouquet with streamers of hunter green and white seed pearls. Burgundy lilies were placed in the center of the bouquet.

Patty Kirkpatrick and Barbara Babb played "Theme from Ice Castles" as the wedding party entered the church. Benny and Paula Jackson sang "I Cross My Heart" as the bride entered.

Holy Communion was celebrated by the couple, wedding party and guests. As communion was served Benny Jackson sang "The Lord's Prayer". The communion bread was baked and presented to the bride by Stanley and Pauline Mathis of Post.

Benny and Paula Jackson sang "In this Life" as the couple lit the unity candle.

Carol Faychok, aunt of the groom, was the wedding coordinator. Photographs were taken by Voda Gradine and Ronnie Gradine videotaped the ceremony.

A reception, held in the fellowship hall, followed the ceremony. The tables were decorated with white tablecloths with overlays of burgundy. The bride's table, attended by Vanessa Williams

The groom's table featured an assortment of cheeses, fruits, chocolate dipped strawberries and coffee. Jane Spears, sister-in-law of the groom and Lesli Tubb of Levelland attended the groom's table.

One sad thing that freshmen students learn in the university is that, unlike high school, the blame for poor performance is no longer shared by parents and teachers; failure becomes the sole possession of the student. (It's called learning responsibility!)

Brad Lawson #24 slips past a Chieftan player and goes for the touchdown as Saul Martinez #32 comes in from the side to clear the way to the goal.

Varsity rolls over Crosbyton 44-0

The Bold Gold Antelopes overcame a steady downpour and a pesky young Crosbyton team to the tune of 44-0.

Post opened the scoring when tailback Brad Lawson dove into the endzone from 1 yard out. Bodie Simpson's PAT was good and the Lope lead was 7-0. Post capitalized on a Crosbyton miscue only to miss a 37-yard field goal that was wide left. The Lopes apparently had scored but were penalized for a clipping penalty that led to the attempted field goal.

The Bold Gold put another score up in the first quarter when wingback Casey Hart threw a perfect strike to the tight end Javier Saldivar. The play was good for 15 yards and the touchdown. Simpson's PAT was wide left and the Lope lead was extended to 13-0.

The second quarter saw the Antelopes extend their lead to 27-0. Saul Martinez broke a trap play up the middle for 15 yards to account for the third touchdown of the night. Simpson's PAT was good. Late in the second quarter tailback Brad Lawson ran for the fourth Lope touchdown.

Simpson's PAT was good and both teams retired to their dressing rooms for halftime.

The third quarter saw the Lope offense crank up for two more touchdowns. Fullback Martinez scored on a 10-yard jaunt with 7:31 showing on the clock. Simpson's PAT was good and the lead was extended to 34-0. Post scored its last touchdown with 4:40 on the clock. Tailback Alvin Reed scored from 1 yard out. Simpson's PAT was good. The score now read 41-0.

The Chieftains battled valiantly, but could muster little offense until their final two series when the Antelope coaching staff gave the reserves some playing time.

Crosbyton's longest play from scrimmage was a total of 20 yards. The Chief fullback ran off-tackle, broke into the clear for 15 yards before he was hit. Then, the ball came out and rolled an additional five yards before rolling out of bounds to end the play.

The Lopes took over and drove deep into Crosbyton territory where coach Dewayne Osborne elected to try a 22-yard field goal. Simpson's kick was true. The final score Post 44 - Crosbyton 0.

THE $51 PER BALE ADVANTAGE FOR COTTON PRODUCERS

More than $51 per bale paid in cash for the 1993 crop.

Your local and regional cotton cooperatives offer a vertically integrated system that takes your cotton from the field to the textile mill. It's a system that adds valuable income to your farming operation. Ginning, warehousing, marketing, textile manufacturing, and cottonseed processing all work to increase the value of your cotton crop every step of the way. For the 1993 cotton crop, combined cash payments from the local and regional cotton cooperatives averaged $51.62 per bale, over and above the value of your lint cotton. Thus, the more cotton you send through the cooperative system, the more you can add to your net profits. Consider the cooperative advantage for your cotton crop. From your local cooperative gin to the warehouses, the oil mill, the marketing association and the denim mill - it's just good business. See your local or regional cotton cooperative today.

Eighth grade skunks Crosbyton

The eighth grade played Crosbyton Friday night at the Antelope Stadium winning the game 20-0.

No score was made by either team in the first half of the game. It took most of the third quarter and 14 plays to make a 72 yard drive. Charlie Bell had a 30-yard run and he later scored from 2 yards out. There was no conversion point. The score was 6-0.

In the fourth quarter after six plays for 64 yards a touchdown was made by Andrew Martinez after catching a long pass from Albert Armendarez. The pass and the run play went for 55 yards. The extra point was kicked by Ramon Perez. Later in the quarter a touchdown was made by Ramon Perez in a 40-yard play. Perez then came back and kicked the extra point. The final score was 20-0.

According to coach Radle, "We had a good second half due to a better effort." J.C. Stelzer, Chris Dawson, Isaac Perez, Roy Soto, Ramon Perez, T. J. Gaydos, Tim Quintana, Andrew Martinez, Jared Pittman and Clell Knight, all played well on defense.

Radle said a good effort was made by Daniel Fluit, Mike Felts, Jeremy Aguilar, Mike Holbert, Albert Armendarez, Clay Ashley, and Brent Justice. "Clell Knight did a good job of holding on to the ball for the extra point kicks. Perez kicked two out of three," said Radle.

J. V. beat Shallowater

The Post J. V. improved their record to 6-1 by defeating a good Shallowater J. V. 21-12 Thursday. Post trailed 12-8 at halftime but came back for the victory in the second half, taking control of the game.

In the second quarter, Israel Perez scored from 1-yard out. The PAT was also made by Perez making the score Post 8 and Shallowater 6.

In the third quarter Quarterback, Josh Grisham scored from 12 yards out on an option to keep. The PAT failed to add to the score making it 14-12, Post.

In the fourth Grisham scored from 35 yards out. Armando Ayala picked up one more point in the PAT making the final score Post 21, Shallowater 12.

Area cowboys strut their stuff

The Post Founders Day Ranch Rodeo may have seemed a bit unusual to some of those in attendance. The key here however, is in the name - Ranch Rodeo. All scored events in this rodeo represent things the working cowboy does on a regular basis.

All calves on a ranch are branded to designate ownership. Although this is ordinarily done with a heated branding iron, the rodeo teams used chalk to brand their cattle Saturday night. Taking first place in the Team Branding event Saturday was the group from Spur Headquarters.

In most aspects of ranch work, the cowboy's horse plays a very important part. But nowhere is it quite so apparent as when roping is involved. The Pasture Roping event required the two man teams to first cut the correct steer out of the herd, then rope opposite ends, (called "Head and Heel" roping). The competitors then had to turn and face each other stretching the steer between them. Winning this event was the team from Borden Spade Ranches.

Cowboys often carry horses and cattle from place to place in trailers. And, as the teams made up of two women showed during the Sugar Booger Backup event, backing one of those things up through a gate is not necessarily as easy as it looks. Taking first place in this event was the team from Macy Ranch. The pick-up truck used by all teams was provided by Mac's Oldsmobile in Slaton.

Mugging, as it refers to cattle, is not an arrestable offence. Mugging is the practice of roping, wrestling to the ground and tying three of the animal's legs together. The mugging team consists of two people, as the animal must be cut out of the herd and roped, and then tied. The wrestling to the ground part can really be interesting! Doing a great job from start to finish to win this event was the team from Pitchfork Land and Cattle Company.

The ratio of cowboys to cattle on the range is always small. This being the case, cutting, (singling out), a selected steer or steers from the herd requires a real team effort on the part of the cowboys. In the Team Sorting event, a team of cutters had to sort a group of cattle in numerical order. Each animal had to cross the penalty line in the proper order, and penalties occurred if they went back across the line or crossed the line out of sequence. Doing a fine job, and taking first place in this event was the team from Macy Ranch.

Points were awarded for each event based on total time and penalties. When the dust cleared and all the points had been tallied, in first place overall was the crew from Borden Spade Ranches. The remainder of the teams placed as follows: second place, Macy Ranch; third place, Spur Headquarters; fourth place, Lon Davis Ranch; fifth place, Four Sixes Ranch; sixth place, Pitchfork Land and Cattle Company; seventh place, Post Montgomery Estate (UU Ranch); eighth place, Dalby Cattle Company; ninth place, Beggs Cattle Company; and tenth place, Ronnie Hart Ranch.

Freshman win over Petersburg 16 -0

Post Freshmen won over the Petersburg J. V. with a score of 16-8.

The first score came after Post recovered a fumble on the 36-yard line. Anthony Gomez, left tackle, took the ball across for the touchdown. Gomez went on to score a two-point conversion making the score Post 8 Petersburg 0.

The second score came after seven plays and 87 yards. On an option to the right Jamie Hernandez cut back and went the 50 yards for the score. Chris Guerrero scored the two-point conversion making the score 16-6.

Petersburg picked up their other two points on a safety after the defense held them out from first and goal from the 2-yard line.

An interception by Toby Torres with two minutes left on the clock stopped another threat of Petersburg scoring.

Gardening in Garza "Our special world"

Landscape Time in Texas

Even as we are refreshed by the cool fall days and look forward to new projects, plants also can renew themselves. Thus we see the flower gardens more colorful, grasses greener, and new leaves on shrubs and perennials. It is a time for many plants to grow more roots and store energy for the winter and spring. So for gardeners and plants the fall is definitely the best time for Texas landscaping.

Dr. Steve George, a landscape specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, gives further insights into what we know is common sense for our area. He says that due to lower temperatures, transplants are not as susceptible to transplant shock and research indicates that fall-planted materials enjoy almost a full growing season's advantage over plants not put in until the next spring. When winter does come, root establishment continues even though the top of the plant is dormant. A good feeder root system can become established without being subjected to the severe stresses of wind, heat and drought.

When selecting new transplant materials, Dr. George advises to avoid plants that are not winter hardy. Each county extension office can provide a list of adapted plants for their county. He also says when you are transplanting anything, whether a pansy or an oak tree, choose plants with a good vigorous root system and a healthy stem or trunk. An abundance of leaves and flowers is not as important. When planting trees and shrubs use the native soil to backfill around the root ball to assure even moisture distribution from the disturbed soil to the surrounding area soil, then apply a mulching material so as to create a blanket three inches thick in a four foot diameter circle around the base of the tree. Dr. George's complete article can be found in the July/August 1994 Texas Gardener magazine.

Consider native plants in your landscape. Did you know that native trees grow just as fast as imported trees when they are cared for properly? And when they are established, they can take care of themselves. Slowly, but surely, people are turning to native plants for their landscaping needs. Low maintenance is the strongest selling point of native plants. I was surprised to learn that there are approximately 1,000 trees and shrubs native to Texas, and almost half could be used as ornamental plants. The plants most adapted to our local growing conditions are those that still grow in undisturbed pastures and water ways, however we are not limited to just those plants. Since Garza County has an abundance of sandy, fast-draining soil, many of the trees and shrubs from West Texas could do well in your yard. And the Trans-Pecos has some of the most diverse and beautiful trees and shrubs in the state.

Bebe Boren Certified Master Gardener

Texas Agricultural Extension Service

The trick is to choose plants that naturally grow in a habitat similar to the locations where you will plant and in the same temperature zone in the state. Plants must be transplanted to a location as similar as possible to their natural habitat to take advantage of the hardiness and low maintenance of natives. So you would plant shade-tolerant species in the shade, drought-resistant plants in fast-draining areas and moisture-loving shrubs and trees in low areas or clay soil. Willow and cottonwood are beautiful trees in Garza County that, as you can see, would be very high maintenance choices in our yards if we supply the constant moisture that trees require to remain beautiful.

Incorporating native plants into a landscape can be accomplished in a variety of ways. At the lowest investment level, select a native tree instead of a non-native species. Cedar elm, hackberry, soapberry, Texas red oak, and Mexican pinion pine are fairly easy to find in nurseries. Similarly, you could compliment existing beds with native species. Many native perennials make ideal border plants. These wildflowers can improve dramatically in appearance under cultivation, where they no longer have to compete for moisture and nutrients. At this level, plant selection has been modified, but placement is similar to that in a traditional design.

Proud to be Texan!

First National Bank of Post is now Norwest Bank Texas, Post!

Texas, the "Lone Star" state, has a history and heritage that many envy. The stories of this giant land are rich and colorful. In every story it is the people of Texas and their bold independent spirit that shines through. It is a similar spirit that has guided Norwest on its way to becoming one of the nation's leading financial institutions. Even though Norwest Bank is new to this great state, our employees are not. Inside all Norwest locations scattered across Texas you'll find people who are your neighbors, your friends and fellow Texans. All are a part of the Norwest team that will continue to make their decisions locally. Everyone is committed to providing service that exceeds customer expectations, providing innovative new products that respond to customer needs and lifestyles, and supporting the civic and charitable work of their cities. That's what community banking is all about!

We hope we'll have the opportunity to tell you more about Norwest. In fact, consider this an invitation to call or come by any of the 18 Norwest Bank Texas locations. We promise a friendly face will be ready to tell you about Norwest. That's because our people are pretty proud about being a part of the Norwest family. But, no one is as proud as Norwest Bank is about being a new Texan.

The Company proposes to increase its customer charge by 89 cents per month with no other changes to its gas rate schedules. The change would apply to General Service (residential and commercial) and Small Industrial Service. The Company also proposes the following increased service charges:

Reconnect delinquent service or service temporarily off at customer's request	29.50	39.00

From the Pulpit
The "buzz" about Post

As I sit here in my office this morning I am still on an emotional high from our Community Worship Service this past weekend. Aside from the opportunity to be a participant rather than a leader in worship, and aside from the power and enthusiasm generated by Chrystal Lyons, and aside from the probing questions asked and challenges given by Evangelist Glenn Smith, the experience was a real spiritual joy. I am wondering why the joy beyond the normal factors just mentioned is so great. I am a relative newcomer to Post and still have a truck load of things to learn about this business of ministry as well as about Post itself. But there seems to be a "buzz" about this place, something haven't seen in other small county seat towns, and I think it's more than simply a will to survive, or even of community pride, although these are not small insignificant things. Truly any town with these elements will survive if there is motivation to go with them. I wonder if maybe the "high" I am experiencing has anything to do with the twelve to twenty men from several different denominational flavors who meet each Tuesday at 7 a.m. to encourage, pray, share ideas, and minimize the differences which separate so many of us. Or maybe it's the several church groups which gathered at a neutral location, at a common time, with a common purpose, which was simply to offer praise to the one God and Lord we all have in common. Or maybe my "high" is because I can literally see the Holy Spirit working in the community, in businesses, in our school, in the various organizations such as Lions, Rotary, Chamber of Commerce, Women's C or C, the City Council, the Cultural groups, even the churches (if you can believe it). Or maybe it's just that I can see Him working in my own life, and that of my church, and I get so excited that I just hope I can hold on. I don't know what it is but there is something going on here in Post that I have never experienced before and I like it. I am glad to be here and maybe even a part of it, or at least have a chance to witness it first hand.

Maybe you have noticed what I am talking about. I hear others talking about this "buzz", and they seem to feel the same as I do about it. But then, come to think about it, most of those who have talked to me about it are also relative newcomers to Post. I wonder if maybe we have just had a chance to witness something that has been going on for a long time. It might even be that this "something" that has been going on for a long time is so familiar to you who have lived here for many years that you don't notice it like we newcomers do, or that you have grown accustomed to it and suppose that all small towns are like this. Or maybe you are so caught up in the business of survival that you haven't noticed the thing that's so obvious to some of us. Maybe it's like the crew of cowboys who are so busy branding and working cattle all day long that they have no idea how many they have taken care of and are surprised at the end of the day to see their accomplishment. Or maybe the country doctor working day and night over a lifetime, going about his daily routine seething broken bones, delivering babies, healing sicknesses, etc. and never really knows the difference he has made in the world, and hasn't taken the time to take inventory. And probably would be embarrassed if someone pointed it out to him.

I sit in this grand old building where a goodly number of Christians meet to worship and I can hear the spirits of saints gone by who had a vision many years ago. They built a building and equipped it with all that was necessary to worship our Lord Jesus Christ, and their ancestors and newcomers have kept it up, and filled it with people to continue the vision. I look around and see church buildings all over this beautiful town that were built by people with a vision, for the purpose of worship, and teaching about, and giving service and glory to the same Lord. I wonder why it was so important to these early settlers of Post to establish places, traditions, and opportunities for worship of this Lord. I wonder if maybe that was a major priority for them because they knew that unless "the Lord built the house, business, city, those who build it labor in vain. Unless the Lord watches over the city, the watchman stays awake in vain." (Ps. 127:1-2)

Perhaps we have been so busy going about our business building, providing, surviving, that we have forgotten what those who went before us knew. But the Lord has not forgotten. He has been here all along doing what He had promised to do, and it's us newcomers that can see Him working. Or then maybe He has just recently placed his hand upon Post. Regardless I believe He is here and wants to be a part of all that exists in Post. I feel it; I hope you do too. Maybe we need to talk about that a little more, and even open up and let Him be more involved. The weekend, and especially the Combined Worship Service, was a lot of fun, and I believe it was good for Post, too.
