Post Notes

GCJLA meeting Oct. 24

The Garza County Jr. Livestock Association will meet Tuesday, October 24, at 7:00 p.m. at the Show Barn. This will be following the Goat/Sheep Validation and Steer Rate-of-Gain Weigh-In.

Sheep/Goat Validation

October 24 is the deadline to purchase sheep and goats for the 2001 Garza County stock show. All sheep or goats must be ear tagged and those advancing to "Major" shows must be validated on October 24, 4-7 p.m. at the show barn.

Steer Rate-Of-Gain Weigh-In

Ownership deadline for purchasing steers for the 2001 Garza County stock show has been set for October 24. Those wishing to participate in the "Rate-of-Gain" competition must weigh their steers in at the show barn between 4 and 7 p.m. on that date.

Youth weight lifting program

Mad Dads Inc. and Vibes Fitness Center are offering a weightlifting program for youth, ages sixth grade and older. The training will be held on Monday and Tuesday evenings from 5:30 to 7 p.m. There is a $3 fee for the first day and $2 for the second

Lynn County hospital offers health fair

The Lynn County Hospital District is offering free screenings during its Health Fair October 20 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the the center, 1400 Avenue K in Tahoka. Free screenings include cholesterol, glucose, blood pressure, oxygen saturation, lung functions, hemoglobin, vision and hearing, glaucoma and spinal health.

Hunter safety course Oct. 23-25

A hunter safety education course will be held at Mason's Farm & Ranch Supply from 6-9 p.m., Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 23-25. The Wednesday session may take longer. The $10 registration fee may be paid at the first session, but it would be helpful if interested people would call earlier, 495-2776 or 495-4029. Benjie Smith will serve as instructor. Anyone born after September 2, 1971 is eligible to attend.

Benefit set for Atkinson

A special benefit by the VFW and the Ladies' Auxiliary VFW to assist cancer patients Don and Glenda Atkinson, will be held October 21 at the VFW. Those interested in donating money or helping should contact JoAnn Stelzer at 495-3393 or Ruth Walls at 495-2173.

Substitute teachers sought by Post ISD

There is a shortage of qualified substitute teachers for Post ISD. Applications are available at the school administrative offices. These are excellent part time positions.

Methodist Church helps ACS

The First United Methodist Church is working with the American Cancer Society through October by collecting caps or hats for children through adult ages who have lost their hair due to cancer treatments. Donations of caps may be dropped off at the church office Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon or at 123 N. Ave. K. October is also national breast cancer awareness month. For more information or to have your donation picked up, call the church at 495-2942 or Pixie Grisham at 495-4154.

Post ISD trustee wrestle with insurance dispute

An ongoing disagreement between the Post Independent School District and Hartford Insurance was discussed at last week's school board meeting.

During the Oct. 10 meeting, trustees received an update from the superintendent regarding Hartford's continued refusal to "total" the roof damage done during a May 1999 hailstorm. District officials maintain that the damage should not be patched, as suggested by the insurance company; instead, they maintain the damage was extensive enough to require new roofs be put on the buildings.

The school district is working with a roofing consultant to get an outside evaluation of the damage, Superintendent Dr. Bobby Bain said.

To date, no interior water damage has occurred in any of the roofdamaged buildings, Bain said, "but the (roof) damage will get worse with time."

All of the Post ISD buildings were damaged in the hailstorm, the superintendent said.

In other business, trustees:

'Dracula' gets rave reviews

by Louella Bilberry

The beginning of the play in full darkness is intriguing. The setting is in an English manor home with decorative gray stone walls complete with coat of arms. One wing of the home is an asylum for the mentally deranged. One tormented, distraught patient keeps escaping into the home, ranting and raving.

Our characters are Dr. Seward, his learned friend Abram Van Helsing from Holland, Dr. Seward's frail fiance, Jonathan, Hennessey — the get away!) asylum attendant who keeps chasing Renfield the deranged patient, and, of course, the sinister Dracula.

Thank goodness Jeremy gave us for casting Laura Bryan to portray levity to this serious play. Mitchell Talk about chewing the scenery! They 495-4005.

My congratulations to Jeff Conner for never losing his accent as Van Helsing. Jessica Culwell is perfectly cast as the daughter slowly slipping into the clutches of the sinister Dracula. In the closing scene, Dr. Seward, Abram and Jonathan attempt to hold Dracula but he disappears before our eyes! I've got to check that out with director Christy Morris! (No, they daughter, Mina, and her worried did not turn the lights off for him to

You know, when I was a young mother I thought nothing could be worse than having a sick baby that could not tell you what was wrong.

Well, let me tell you what is worse. Having a new grandbaby that is really sick and you can't do a thing about it. You are worried for her and her mom and dad.

Thank all of you so much for all of the calls about Kenley, Kerri, Robby, Kaylyn and Kylee. Everyone has been so nice to call with concern, offers of help and prayers. This little family has had a rough past 2 months but thank the Lord, things are looking up. Kenley is home, hopefully to stay, until they run the test again at 3 months. Maybe everything and everyone will get back to normal now. Again, thank you for all of your concern.

Email-Re: Heaven

After a long illness, a woman died and arrived at the gates of Heaven. While she was waiting for Saint Peter to greet her, she peeked through the gates. She saw a beautiful banquet table. Sitting all around were her parents and all the other people she had loved and who had died before her. She could hardly wait to get in.

Her friends and loved ones saw her and began calling greetings to her. "Hello" "How are you?" "We've" been waiting for you" "Good to see you!"

When Saint Peter came to her, the woman said to him, "This is such a wonderful place? How do I get in?"

"You only have to spell a word", Saint Peter told her. "Which word?" the woman asked. "Love"

The woman correctly spelled it and Saint Peter welcomed her in Heaven. About six months later, Saint Peter came to the woman and asked her to watch the gates of Heaven for him that day. While the woman was guarding the gates, her husband arrived.

"I'm surprised to see you" the woman said. "How have you been?" "Oh, I've been doing pretty well since you died", "I married the beautiful young nurse who took care of you while you were ill. And then I won the lottery. I sold the little house you and I lived in and bought a big mansion. And my wife and I traveled all around the world. We were in Hawaii today and while I was water skiing, I fell. the ski hit my head, and here I am. How do I get in?"

"You have to spell a word" the woman told him.

"Which word?" her husband asked.

Prevent a Cold

Well, our first cold snap has hit and that means a lot of sickness is soon to spread. The most common of these sicknesses is the cold. On average, people catch a cold six times a year. Good news to all of you dreading the cold season, there are a few things you can do to prevent colds. The first way to prevent a cold is to understand how colds are spread. Cold viruses grow mainly in the nose where they multiply in nasal cell and are present in large quantities in the nasal fluid of people with colds. The highest concentration of the cold virus in nasal fluid occurs during the first three days of the cold. That is when the infected person is most contagious. Nasal secretions containing cold viruses contaminate the hands of people with colds as a result of nose blowing, covering sneezes, and touching the nose. Cold viruses can also be found on surfaces of the environment of the cold sufferer and in the air as they cough and sneeze. The cold virus can be transferred from one person to another through very brief periods of contact with that person and/or their environment. As one can see, it is very easy to spread a cold and, unfortunately, not so easy to stop one.

There are a few precautions you can take to avoid catching a cold. To prevent a cold, limit contact with known cold sufferers, especially during the first three days of their illness when they are most contagious. Practice preventive measures which keep cold viruses from entering the nose such as, washing hands frequently, especially after contact with known sufferer or their environment, keep fingers out of eyes and nose, and try to avoid cold sufferers coughs and sneezes. Of all the precautions, hand washing is the most important. Hand washing removes the cold viruses from the skin and fingers. It is important to note that germicidal hand lotions do not reliably kill rhinovirus, the most important cold virus.

To prevent the Flu an immunization may be necessary. The Extension simply overwhelmed by all the good Office has tentatively scheduled a Flu Shot Immunization Day which will be held November 17, 2000 at the Extension Office from 9:00am - 3:00pm. In visiting many organizations and agencies around Post, I have been works and great things of our organized groups. There are so many people involved and so many working hard to "make Post a better place."

The City of Post has appointed the Millennium Commission to honor those organizations and to recognize their contributions to the community. We believe that everyone should know about these organizations and agencies and be aware of what they do and the contributions they make to the entire community and population. Not only do we all need to give lots of "pats" on the backs of our hard working groups, we also need to know what's available in Post.

As Millennium Commission chairman, I am urging all organizations to submit papers describing your mission, purpose and activities. We won't know what you do unless you tell us. See the ad in this week's paper.

In order to recognize efforts, accomplishments and contributions of Post's organizations and groups, we need to know the following: what you do and what you have done these past 15-16 years "after the mill corner, a lot of families are making routine with your children, just in plans for costumes and activities that case their clothes catch fire. Sheriff's Department has some suggestions that will help make Halloween activities safe.

Sheriff offers Halloween suggestions

The following tips have been

- · Plan costumes that are bright and reflective.
- Make sure that shoes fit well and
- prevent tripping. • Consider adding reflective tape
- or striping to costumes and trick-ortreat bags for enhanced visibility. Secure emergency identification
- information (name, address, telephone number) within the costume or on a bracelet.
- Because masks can limit or block eyesight, consider non-toxic makeup and decorative hats.
- · Think twice before using simulated knives, guns or swords. If such props are used, be certain they do not appear authentic and that they are soft and flexible so as to prevent injury.
- Teach children to call 9-1-1 if they become lost or have an emergency.

- With Halloween just around the Review the "stop, drop and roll"
 - · Openly discuss appropriate and inappropriate behaviors.
 - · Eliminate tripping hazards on your porch and walkway. Check your property for low tree limbs, support wires or garden hoses that might prove hazardous to young children rushing to and from the house.
 - In addition to making things safe for your family members, the sheriff's department also has a few Halloween safety tips for pet owners.
 - Don't leave your pet out in the yard on Halloween. There are plenty of stories of vicious pranksters who have teased, injured, stolen or even killed pets on Halloween night.
 - Trick-or-treat candies are not for pets. Chocolate is poisonous to a lot of animals, and tin foil and cellophane candy wrappings can be hazardous if swallowed.
 - · Don't dress the dog in costume. It puts a lot of stress on the animal. And even the sweetest dogs can get
 - · Too many strangers in strange garb can be scary for your pets. Be careful your dog or cat doesn't dart out through the open door.

Golden Plains Care Center News

by Sandy Smith

Did someone say BUG? Well, we don't want it! We had our share this week. Everyone had the ole stomach virus and it was one more rough week for everyone. Almost everyone was in bed at least two days.

The flu had better beware - we are going to fight it with all our might! As soon as the flu shots are available to us the first of November, we want to take every precaution we can to prevent our loves ones at Golden Plains from this year's flu.

As the week wore on there were enough players Friday to play Bingo. Johnnie Melton was very excited. It had been a while since she had luck on her side. Lena Bland had beginners luck. It was her first time to play ever. I did enjoy a visit with Lena as she told me of her childhood. When asked what she remembered the most, with a broad smile she quickly replied, "Being a tomboy!"

I just learn so much talking with these fine folks and I cannot wait until Christmas to share all of their stories with you! We may have to do another Chicken Soup book following this one.

We began our hats and masks for Halloween and they are really looking good! We have had more laughs and more fun with these. Faye Ogel said she hoped we don't scare off all the children.

We will also have our pumpkin-carving contest and we are in hopes that Mrs. Christopher's 8th grade Life Skills class will be able to join us. I will keep you posted.

Here is a Halloween joke for ya: Knock, knock. Who's there? Boo. Boo who? Don't cry. Oh, never mind the bad joke, just keep smiling!

> It's indisputably beyond question that black Americans have a level of loyalty to the Democratic Party and its biggovernment policies second to none. They connect political power with economic power.

But the evidence that I see is that individual application and effort are far more important determinants of socioeconomic progress than dependence on government.

If anything, government is the primary source of handicaps suffered by a large segment of the black community. Let's look at one of those handicaps, Quality education is a serious problem for black Americans. There's little dispute that government-operated schools deliver grossly fraudulent education to most black students. The quality delivered to white students is nothing to write home about, either.

By any measure of academic achievement, black students score at or near the bottom. It's typical for some black high-school seniors, with a record of A's and B's, to have an academic achievement level two, three or four years behind their white counterparts. At many predominantly black high schools, it's common for Scholastic Assessment Test scores to average 600 or 700 out of a possible 1600. Four hundred points are awarded simply by taking the test. Low academic achievement means that admission to even second- and-third tier colleges requires admission standards lower than that for other students. In an increasingly high-tech world, fraudulent education is a growing barrier to upward mobility. What do black Americans do about the systematic academic destruction of our children? We surely don't hold those responsible for that destruction accountable. To the contrary, we generously support those responsible, in the name of "saving public education." Personally, I care much more about saving children than saving public education. I support any method of education delivery that provides high quality education, whether it's parochial schools, private schools — both religious and non-religious — and public schools.

When people's primary concern is about individual children, they shouldn't focus on repeated failed attempts to save a particular system. Instead, if schools are failing to educate, they should try to provide means to get children out of problem schools into succeeding schools. That's done by empowering parents, not the failed school system.

For four decades, the education establishment has made one promise after another that more education dollars would improve education. School budgets have skyrocketed, but educational achievement has declined. Now the "solution" proffered is to hire 100,000 more teachers so as to

Here's my guarantee: Like nostrums of the past, this will not make a bit of difference in black academic achievement, and in five or 10 years we'll that dollar. Indeed, his running mate, Sen. Joseph Lieberman, said that see the academic destruction of black children unabated out of failing schools? It's George Bush and the Republicans who support educational vouchers, a mechanism whereby poor parents have some of the options of non-poor parents, namely removing their children from unsafe and failing public schools.

The children of the black "leadership," politicians and those of many teachers will be spared this tragedy; their children attend private and suburban schools, not the dangerous, poor quality inner city schools.

Sen. Lieberman learned this when he signed on as the vice-presidential candidate. He had to recant his earlier support for education vouchers. Black politicians can't even demand getting rid of incompetent teachers, dumbed-down education and elimination of harebrained education schemes that are destroying their constituency's children, lest they lose teacher is subject to change at any time. union political support and campaign contributions.

That's a good deal for black politicians but devastating to the people for whom they make a pretense of representing. To find out more about Walter Williams, and read features by other Creators Syndicate writers and cartoonists, visit the Creators Syndicate web page at www.creators.com.

On the occasion of the October moon

by Vin Suprynowicz

Halloween approaches, the day when many an American parent will suit up the little ones in black robes, matching 17th century conical hats, and oversized warty noses, sending them off to delight the neighbors with this impersonation of a witch, as traditionally represented from 17th century Austrian paintings of the Hexensabbat right up through Disney's "Snow

Even the newspapers generally play along, running the results of polls that ask Americans how many actually believe in such mythological creatures as ghosts, trolls and witches.

But witches are not mythological creatures, of course. They were the very real practitioners of a religion which pre-dated Christianity in Europe, and which had coexisted quite peaceably with the new Christian church for more than 1,000 years, from the Council of Nicaea until the fateful year 1484 A.D. under the quite sensible rule of the Canon Episcopi, which instructed Christian clerics through all those years that — in cases where sorcery or commerce with the devil was charged but could not be proven —it was the accuser, not the accused, who was to suffer the penalty for those crimes. Needless to say, this held false charges to a minimum.

All that changed after 1484, when an ambitious but ethically challenged Dominican friar and embezzler by the name of Heinrich Kramer managed to convince Pope Innocent VIII to set the Holy Office of the Inquisition onto the witches, using torture to extract confessions, authorizing anonymous accusations without any right for the accused to face her accuser, and granting the soon-busy witch-hunters the rights to seize and divide the estates of the accused (who were always found guilty), an invitation to systematic legal looting so foul that it was never allowed again in Western history ... until our current War on Drugs, of course.

Millions of persons — some doubtless practitioners of the Old Craft, but many, especially in later years, just as doubtless falsely accused - were burned or hanged before the burning times faded away with a kind of embarrassed shrug in the early 1700s.

The crime of which they were accused? Worshipping a female deity, a goddess of the earth, and her male consort, the goat-horned male god of Christian clerics, themselves mostly illiterate, called this female deity "the abomination," which has subsequently been interpreted to mean the horned devil of Hebrew tradition. But practitioners of a fertility cult would have had little reason to mock the late-comer Christianity by hanging crosses upside down or reciting masses backwards. "Satanism," to the extent that it ever existed (and I suspect more black masses were chanted on London film sets in the 1960s and '70s than anywhere in the four centuries preceding), is a very different thing.

Why should we care about the fate of the witches? For starters, it appears the witches stressed not the superiority of either sex over the other, but rather a balance between male and female principles — an obvious notion for early agriculturalists trying to come to a metaphorical understanding of the germination of crops in the "mother" earth thanks to the intervention of those primeval "male" agencies, the sun and the rain.

But the culture which destroyed the witches was not merely male-dominated. The history of our European ancestors of the 16th and 17th centuries presents a spectacle of bloodthirsty intolerance, a perverse catalogue of self-flagellation and repulsion at sexuality which found outlet only in the frenzied drive to subjugate and enslave both the natural world and any other culture that presented itself. No matter how we may celebrate their competitive superiority from a safe distance, this was clearly a bunch of sick puppies.

Was it the plagues, which quite often left the continent literally in the certainly the more consistent collectivist. hands of teenagers? Whatever the reason, using their superior technology of sail and cannon, and helped mightily by bacteriological allies to which they had developed at least partial immunity, the Europeans didn't merely conquer the indigenous populations of the Americas, they ruthlessly eradicated whole cultures, and with them any medical or other knowledge they might have had to offer, sweeping all aside as the "spawn of the devil."

Meantime, European women were being stripped of their property and (www.fff.org) in Fairfax, Va., and editor of Ideas on Liberty magazine. other rights (many "witches," curiously, were widows of independent means), at precisely the time when their presense in the councils of church and state might have maintained some semblance of sanity.

The Europeans of the time adopted little of our hypocritical modern-day pretense of being horrified at "drug use" per se - they happily imported coffee, tobacco, opium, and cocaine. In fact, they forced the opium trade on China when it proved to be the only thing for which the Chinese would trade silver

But while they reveled in novel forms of drunkenness, what did horrify those brave conquerors was the use of any hallucinogenic substance as a means to religious revelation, a superstitious dread of alternative paths to spiritual enlightenment which still hangs on in our aforementioned and thoroughly irrational "War on Drugs."

(Which drug is involved in more incidents of spouse battery and interfamily murder by a factor of millions-to-1: alcohol or LSD? Which will get you 20 years in the federal pen, while the other now comes in convenient "widemouth 12-packs"?)

The wholesale eradication of the cultures of the Aztecs and the Incas was justified not because of their practice of slavery and ritual slaughter — Pizarro and Cortes would have found those familiar enough - but because they were found to be using peyotl, hallucinogenic mushrooms, and ololiuhqui (a variety of morning glory seed) in their religious rituals, sure signs of "witchcraft," and coincidentally a method of seeking direct revelations from the gods which really delivered the goods — hardly fair competition for the modest little Spanish communion wafer.

Why did the conquistadors relate such practices to the witches back home? Because the witches, too, in a triumph of empirical science (Northern Europe has no reliably safe natural hallucinogens), had found ways to turn such normally deadly poisons as henbane, monkshood, and belladonna into an externally-applied ointment which would promote religious revelation by inducing a sensation of flying, followed by ecstatic visions.

(The stuff worked best when applied to the mucous membranes with a smooth wooden rod or staff - the "witch's broomstick" of our modern Halloween.)

This was the great evil of the witches, and the justification for destroying millennia of the (start ital)materia medica(end ital) which they had gathered - the traditional folk knowledge of medicinal plants which was largely destroyed with the Wise Women of 16th and 17th century Europe, and which we are only painfully piecing together again today.

The $9 Trillion Federal Budget

by Sheldon Richman

George Bush would spend more on a tax cut for the wealthiest 1 percent than he would spend on Social Security, health care, education, and the armed forces combined.

Vice President Al Gore said that, or something like it, hundreds of times in the debates and on the campaign stump. Just once I'd like to see Governor Bush say to the American people, "Apparently, Vice President Gore cannot understand the difference between cutting taxes and spending money. If he cannot make even that elementary distinction, how can he be entrusted with the presidency?"

Alas, Governor Bush can't say it because he himself doesn't understand the point. That's the mess we find ourselves in. It doesn't get any more basic that this, folks: Government can spend your money or it can let you keep it. The first option is called "spending," the second "tax cutting." The categories logically cannot overlap. Government either takes that hard-won dollar out of your pocket or it doesn't.

That's not what happens in Al Gore's world. For the veep, when the government abstains from taking a dollar from you, that is a form of spending, which competes with all other possible forms of spending. It may well decide that there are better uses for that dollar. Gore thinks there are plenty of uses better than whatever purpose to which you would dedicate "spending" the money on a tax cut would "be a waste of that money." In his own debate with GOP vice presidential candidate Dick Cheney, Lieberman said the wealthy shouldn't get a tax cut because "they don't need it." If only Cheney had turned to him and said, "When did this country enshrine Marx's Which candidate and party advocate giving all parents the chance to opt principle "to each according to his need"? (Actually, the answer is: "Long ago.") I guess that would have been criticized in the media as a meanspirited attack.

The implications of Gore and Lieberman's outlook are astounding. If cutting a tax is equivalent to spending money, then it must be true that the It's impossible for Democrats to support competition in education; they government is also spending whatever money it does not now take from the taxpayers. After all, it could have taxed that money and used it in other ways. Therefore, its decision not to tax it is, in Gore's logic, an expenditure. In other words, the government's real budget is more than $9 trillion, the gross domestic product of the United States. The government owns all income and graciously lets us keep some of it. But the amount we may keep

There is one problem with the Gore worldview: the money he wants to spend belongs to someone! Surely, his mother told him during his privileged childhood that money doesn't grow on trees. It's the result of effort and ingenuity. Adollar taxed is first a dollar earned by someone. Is that producer to receive no consideration in the matter? Gore and Lieberman may respond that the wealthy don't need their money, but no self-respecting American, who aspires to be wealthy, would accept that shameful answer.

I wish I could say that Governor Bush understands what Vice President Gore does not. Alas, he shows almost no sign of such understanding. When he says, "the surplus is the people's money," it sounds as though he understands. But "the people's money" can also be interpreted in a collectivist way. Al Gore responds to Bush's slogan by saying, "It's also the people's Social Security and the people's health care and the people's education." I haven't heard Bush's rebuttal. But he'll have a hard time coming up with one, since he too believes the government should provide pensions, health care, and education. If two people accept the same premises, the most consistent one will tend to win the arguments. Gore is

But contrary to the vice president, the government does not have first claim on the wealth that Americans create. Nor does it have the right to usurp the right of each of us to live according to his own purposes. Has the welfare state so corrupted the American spirit that we are willing to embrace those profoundly un-American ideas?

William Johnson, a professional photographer with 19 years of experience, will serve as juror for the event. He has taught photography for 12 years, including seven years at the University of Missouri. He continues to produce fine art photography which has won national and international awards in addition to being widely published and collected. He is a founder and past president of the Botanical Photographers of North America and served on the board of directors for the Society for Contemporary Photography. Today, he heads the creative team behind photoResource Magazine, an Internet magazine that has won 45 industry awards for design and content in its three-year existence.

Sidelining the exhibit will be a workshop conducted by Johnson on Oct. 28 at the Lubbock Garden and Art Center, 4215 University, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The workshop will stress some of the professional "tricks of the trade" as they apply to 35mm photography, with an emphasis on technique and composition. Those attending will have the opportunity to discuss equipment and methods of improving their photography. Free coffee, soft drinks and doughnuts will be available. Cost for the workshop is $15 and openings are limited. It is not necessary to exhibit to participate in the workshop. Those attending should bring their 35mm camera and standard equipment. Contact the exhibit chairman at 806-996-5435 or 269-7002 to reserve a spot.

'Lopes demolish Jackrabbits 55-0

by Wes Burnett

It's as if a sleeping giant woke up from a long nap, took a look around and then pounced on the nearest rabbit to make a statement about who's in charge. That's about the way it went at Antelope Stadium last Friday night when the Post Antelopes dominated the visiting Ralls Jackrabbits in a 55-0 opening district game.

No better Homecoming game could have been planned, as Post fans licked their wounds from the first five losses and started seeing trophies down the

Both the Post offense and defense shined brightly in the contest. The 'Rabbits were held to 47 rushing yards on 28 carries. The defense, which looked a bit sluggish following the opening kickoff, got a handle on the Ralls passing game and shut down the visitors handily.

the Post Antelopes in their 55-0 win over Ralls last Friday. "We played really well," coach Richard Gorman comments, "and I was particularly pleased with the way our defense played, making adjustments to the Ralls wide

Looking ahead to Friday's trip to Sundown, Gorman observed that the Roughnecks have the best defense Post will have played this year. "They have a set of seven defensive players that are really top notch," the coach said. "They are big, aggressive and very fast."

Last week Idalou surprised the Roughnecks in what many consider an upset. "Sundown had some things go wrong," Gorman said, "and Idalou took advantage of it."

played outstanding defense," Gorman emphasized.

The coach also heaped praise on the young sophomore offensive line for their execution. "These guys work really hard, and it paid off," the coach said. Offensive linemen are Seth Redman, Eilenberger, Bryan Looney, Noah Gutierrez and Zach Engledow.

"We can run the ball on them," he added, "but we'll have to be patient and look for our opportunities."

The 'Lope offense, led by a young sophomore line, ripped through the Ralls defense and set a season record by leading 28-0 at halftime.

The Antelopes racked up 471 yards offense on 44 plays, mostly on the ground, but throwing the ball helped loosen up the Ralls defense. Quarterback Michael Huff ran the option well, tucking the ball in and getting first downs when receivers were covered.

The 'Lopes held penalties to a minimum, as they demonstrated their ability to play all aspects of the game with precision.

Sharing the running chores were Tyrone Jefferson, who led the team with 200 yards offense, one touchdown and 125 carries. Huff picked up three touchdowns on 51 yards and Jonathan Curtis ripped off 76 yards with two touchdowns on just four attempts.

Jeremy Baker and Mitchell Mills also ran strong, each getting touchdowns. The scoring opened up in the first quarter with Huff picking up the final eight yards on an impressive offensive drive. Roland Castaneda hit all but one extra point attempt.

Zubia set up the second touchdown with a huge punt return to the Ralls nine yard line. Jefferson got the call and Castaneda's kick made it 14-0. Later in the second quarter Baker rammed into the end zone from 10 yards out and the 'Lopes led 21-0. With only eight seconds left in the half, Huff pulled the quarterback option to perfection with an 11 yard scamper. Castaneda's kick put the 'Lopes out front 28-0 at halftime.

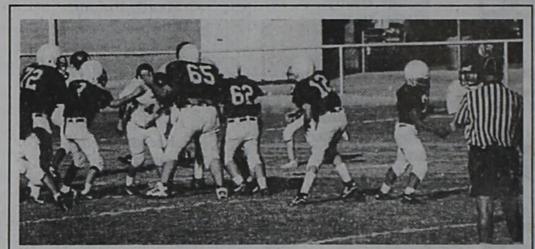

The second half was more of the same. The 'Lopes took the opening kickoff 43 yards, then two plays later Mills roared into the end zone from three yards out for a 35-0 lead after Castaneda's kick.

A stout defense shut the 'Rabbits down consistently, giving the 'Lopes great field advantage.

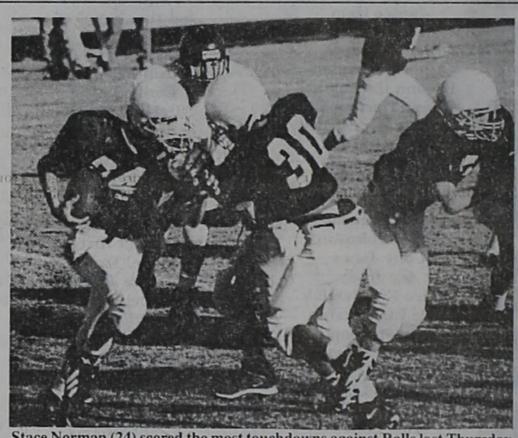

With 6:13 left in the third quarter, Huff pulled the option again on a two yard burst to paydirt, and with Castaneda's kick the score stood at 42-0. A fumble recovery set up the next touchdown with Jonathan Curtis outracing defenders 25 yards to the end zone. Castaneda's kick made it 48-0.

Late in the fourth quarter, Curtis did it again on a 26 yard run, Castaneda put the cap on the scoring at 55-0.

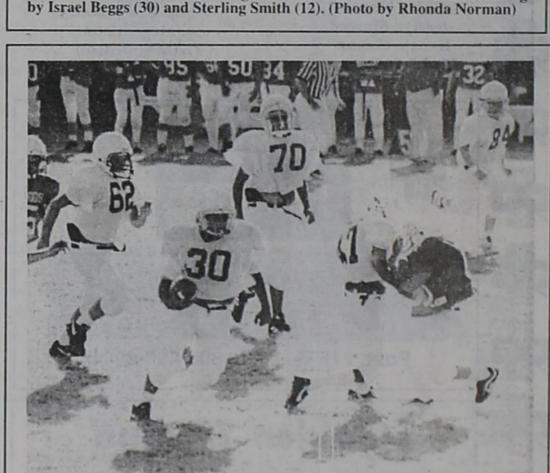

It was a complete football game for the Post Antelopes, who travel to Sundown Friday for a crucial encounter with the district rival Roughnecks. Sundown, who had been picked earlier as the district leader, fell to dalou last Friday.

The district meet is scheduled for Oct. 23 in Lubbock.

The Post eighth grade Antelopes rolled over the Ralls Jackrabbits last week by a score of 66-32.

The breakdown of scoring plays was as follows: Jett Lott, six-yard touchdown run; Lott, one-yard touchdown run; Randon Blacklock, 65-yard kickoff return for a touchdown; Martin Garcia, 25-yard touchdown run; Lott, five-yard touchdown run; Garcia, 15-yard touchdown run; Quinton Odom, 16-yard touchdown run; and Lott, 44-yard pass interception for a touchdown.

The squad was 6-9 in two-point conversions after touchdowns scored in the home game.

Coach Mike Martin described the Antelope effort as an "outstanding offensive game," citing the play of Lott, Garcia, Odom and the entire offensive line. The team earned a total of 393 yards.

Martin also lauded the game played by the special team squad, including Blacklock, Vorgel Landa and Jared Grisham. Steve Rivera, Ryan Babb, Tony Garay and Theo Paiz were singled out for their outstanding defense game.

The team will face Sundown tonight in an away game.

The seventh grade Post Antelopes blanked the Ralls Jackrabbits at home last week by a score of 38-0.

The team's first touchdown came on a 35-yard pass from Sterling Smith to Kenneth Garay.

The second score was a 14-yard touchdown run by Stace Norman. The third touchdown came on a 21-

Rounding out the scoring plays was a 50-yard run by Norman for touchdown #4, a six-yard run by Jake Fluitt for #5 and a two-yard run by Eric Reyna for #6. Reyna's run into the end zone capped a 70-yard drive which was fueled primarily by Reyna, according to coach Steve Peña.

"This was a good all-team effort by the seventh graders," the coach said. "Outstanding defensive players were Israel Barbosa, Brandon Bratcher and Robert Apolinar. Offensively, Stace Norman and Eric Reyna ran the ball effectively."

The team raked in a total of 230 offensive yards.

"Put Bryan Dee Justice in Law Enforcement"

With the upcoming November elections coming up, the time has come for us, the citizens of Garza county to determine how law and order will be upheld in our community the next four years. As a voter and a citizen, you may find yourself asking these questions about the Garza County Precinct 2 Constable write in election.

• Is there a need for a second constable?

Yes. If elected I will work closely with Constable precinct 1 and the sheriff's department, being beneficial not only to the public, but helping lower law enforcement expenses.

• What does it take to be Constable?

It takes a genuine interest in the community. As a life long resident of Post, I have witnessed the progress we have made and the problems we have faced as a community. I have been very fortunate to know most of the people, therefore I will take the duties of this office personally. This leads to my open door policy, one consisting of unquestioned around-the-clock service and guaranteed privacy.

· What about my age?

Many view my age as a handicap in this election. However, I view it as a tool. I am 23 years old, young enough to relate to today's youth, and to identify with the problem's they face. Yet, mature enough to handle the office and it's responsibilities.

•What about experience?

Though lacking experience in the field of law enforcement I do have experience as a hard worker in other areas. If elected I will attend SPAG law enforcement academy and become a certified peace officer.

On November 7th write in Bryan Dee Justice, a sincere man, running for Constable Precinct 2, to serve the people, and make a career of law enforcement. Your vote will be greatly appreciated.

Acting your age has real meaning

They are one hundred and seventy years old, when you add their ages. Somehow this gives one perspective, combining the years like that. They have a cumulative live-experience that is four times my age. Even at that I had trouble all night keeping up with them both physically and mentally. This is the story of my dad, 84, and the Governor, 86, and our journey to the Nebraska-Texas Tech game this past weekend.

Of course I am referring to Governor Preston Smith (yes, he is alive and well) whom I befriended over the past three years since going into practice on the south side of Lubbock. We met on a professional basis and saw each other daily for six weeks. That story had a happy ending and since then "The Guv" has come to be a regular visitor at KingsPark two or three times a week.

Last week he popped in and invited my dad and Ie to be his guest in the Chancellor's box at the Tech game. He and my folks have gotten to know each other a bit and I like to get them together when I can. For Dad and me this sounded like a great idea. Football outdoors viewed from indoors with food and all the coke you can drink! "Shazaam!", as Gomer used to say. While this wouldn't exactly be "our crowd", Dad promised to be on his best behavior. As it turned out, he was most charming and collected during the whole deal with me the one spilling nacho cheese on my pants after bumping into the visiting Chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

Public humiliation put the dampers on my quest for social distinction and I slowly sank into the background and started watching these two old men, who with grace and poise developed through years of battle-tested nerves, calmly took on all comers and swept them off of their feet.

It occurred to me, why would they be nervous or feel out of place? This was merely a football game and they were surrounded by the rich and famous. It was not Guadalcanal or Cebu in the South Pacific, teeming with Japanese and dug into a foxhole for weeks at a time. Just a football game. Not the turbulent years of the late sixties and early seventies when the President's ship was taking on water and had too many holes in it to repair.

Forced busing was the order of the day and the real heroes in government were going against their own cultural bias, passed down through generations of Southerners, to begin the beginning of the end to racial strife in Texas and in our country. This was just a football game. A social blunder or two? No problem.

It was then that I struck me what these two great men had in common, other than both having dodged cancer and needing pacemakers to keep things ticking along. Me. Son to one and doctor to the other. In their own ways, they were both responsible for my life having found its way to this unusual setting to see an outside football game from inside. (This still seems a bit odd to me.)

Dad encouraged me to go to medical school at a time in my life when such a notion seemed absurd, if not impossible. Too many obstacles. Too many poor grades from that first two years of college, not to mention that little problem with the Judge back in Abilene. But the biggest obstacle from my perspective—too much time. It would take ten years to get through it all and I was already 32. Dad responded that when I was seventy years old, I would look back and wonder what I had done with all of that time anyway. Might as well put it to good use, said he.

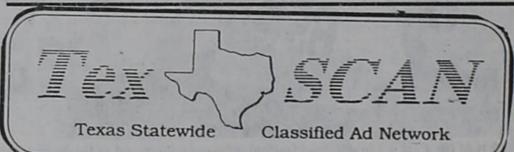

Meanwhile, Governor Smith worked for years to convince legislators that West Texas needed a School of Medicine. Back then, all of the Medical Schools were east of Interstate 35, It took great effort and no doubt much political wheeling and dealing to make the Texas Tech School of Medicine a reality. It recently celebrated its 25th anniversary.

And so, my father gave me life and then taught me not to waste it. The Governor, through his vision and political savvy, gave me a place to learn my craft, and then allowed me to use it to assist in his recovery from the brink of serious illness

So what if I spilled nacho cheese on my lap and that Nebraska slipped by the Raiders. (I am in constant denial over this team). I got the opportunity to see two very dear old men, both great heroes of our country, enjoy themselves, the game and the whole experience of being the center of attention

You'll pardon the lack of a medical point to all of this. I just thought you would want to know about these two men. They are no different than the Fathers and Grandfathers in your town who gave the best years of their lives so we could worry about things like health care for the common man. Tell them thanks. Do it today.

Thank you for spending this time with me. Winston Whitt, MD

FIREMAN'S HAT JUST FITS

Fire Chief Robert Cato is seeing if one of the fire department's new hats will fit Dick Wood, who retired a few years ago after 37 years as a member of the Post Volunteer Fire Department. The hats and other uniform accessories "came along" after Wood's retirement.—(Staff Photo.)

From The Post Dispatch Oct. 13, 1960

Harold suffered his first heart attack June 8, 1962, just as he entered Post from attending the state postmasters' convention in Austin. His failing health forced his retirement for disability on Dec. 31, 1965, when A.J. McAlister was appointed the new postmaster. Harold was a member of the First United Methodist Church, serving on the board for many years and was head usher for 15 years and a member of the choir before becoming an usher.

He was a member of the Post Masonic Lodge and received his 50 year membership recognition in 1987, he also served as past master, Harold was also a lifetime member of the Post V.F.W.

His wife, Arbeth, died August 3, 1978.

In his later years Harold enjoyed visiting the Senior Citizens Center, enjoyed baseball games, but he really loved the company of his granddaughters, Arimy and Vondi.

He had been a resident of Golden Plains Care Center the final one and one-half years of his life.

On December 31, 1946 he was appointed postmaster at Post, when Phil Bouchier retired. During his tenure as postmaster, Harold supervised the moving of the post office three times.

It was also during his time as postmaster that city home delivery was begun here.

Wayne Thomas, who was transferred from Lubbock, was joined by Jimmy Redman and Roy Josey who served as the first three city postal carriers.

Ibey Metcalf, former bank president, and Harold designed the bank building and the Post Office block.

Cars to be Sold for $99 Rain or Shine

Chris Oar, Automotive Writer How do you dispose of over 200 new and used vehicles in just one day? You slice the price on every one ... with some sliced as low as $99. It's called the "The Super Slicer Sale", the biggest one day event in the history of Bob Brown Motors and it happens this Saturday. Here's how it works: Gates open at 10 AM Saturday morning. Customers are urged to get here early. Customers pick out the car or truck they want and get behind the wheel. The price that's on the windshield will be sliced hundreds or thousands of dollars right before your eyes. New cars and trucks that sell for $20,000... $15,000... $10,000 will be drastically sliced in price. Used cars that normally sell for $4,000 ... $5,000 ... $6,000 ... may be sliced as low as $99. Change your plans if you have to, the "Super Slicer" has been instructed to slice the price until someone

Starting Friday afternoon, all vehicles will be displayed in a special fenced off area for customer inspection. This is a great opportunity to get a sneak peek at some real bargains. It will also help customers spot their #1 choice so they can grab it first thing Saturday morning. Why such radical price slicing? General Manager Shannon Pierce. "Over the years, Bob Brown Motors has been a strong supporter of the Lamesa community and the community has supported Bob Brown Motors. We're a local business and we would like to give back to the community. This is a sale where everybody wins ... During the months of August and September our lease returns and one owner used car trades have been stacking up with all time highs being recorded ... this event allows us to reduce our overstocked used car inventory and the customer to save thousands of dollars. Customers can expect to find prices sliced at or below public auction pricing, without the hassle and related auction fees. We're slicing used car prices as low as $99 because we are packed wall-to-wall with too much used car inventory. If you need room for the whole family, we've got pre-owned Toyotas, Mazdas, Ford Tauruses and Astro vans.

If you're looking for sports cars, we've got Chevy Camaros and Pontiac Grand Ams, Chevy Cavaliers and Ford Thunderbirds. We have a great selection of used cars from model year '87 through '00. Plus a great selection of latemodel trucks, like S-10 Blazers, Chevy Tahoes, 4WD pickups and Jeeps ... You name it, we've got 'em in stock, and this one day sale is your chance to save hundreds, even thousands on used cars with prices sliced as low as $99. The Super Slicer sale is a revolutionary way to sell new and used vehicles and allows everyone to get a great deal. People in the market for a top quality used vehicle will have the ability to buy more car for less money than at any other time. With vehicles starting at just $99, there will be something for everyone, regardless of budget."

Lenders from around the state, as well as wholesale buyers, are expected to be "on-call" in order to provide incredible financing and great trade-in values. And "Concerns regarding credit are of no concern to us," Lee Roberts said. If you've had credit problems in your history, don't worry about it. During this sale you can still get a car you desire for a great price. All you have to do is bring in a current payroll stub, valid drivers license, and a utility bill.

Special finance and credit analysis will be provided. Prequalification for credit begins at 7:30 AM. Official appraisers will be on hand to pay top dollar for any and all trade-ins. All trade-ins will be accepted, paid for or not. This is your chance to get out of the old car you've been driving and trade up to a newer model at significant savings.

While selection of both new and used models is fantastic, customers are urged to arrive early ... the best equipped vehicles are sure to go first. Refreshments will be served all

The "Super Slicer Sale" is being held this Saturday only, gates open at 10 a.m., at Bob Brown Motors, 202 South 3rd, Lamesa, . TX 99331. For further details call the "Super Slicer Hotline" at (806) 872-2144.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the Editor Policy: We require all letters to be signed, however, names may be withheld from publication by request. Letters may be edited for brevity, grammar and punctuation.

Thanks for band boosters

The Pride of Post Band and Band Boosters would like to thank everyone who came out for the taco supper last Friday evening. We would especially like to thank Sonic for donating cups, lettuce and tomatoes, Babb's BBQ for donating tea, Subway for donating lettuce, United Supermarket for donating beans, the Methodist Church for donating ice, Dairy Queen for donating carry-out boxes, and BOF for donating ice.

Amazed at dog treatment

I am sending this letter to the editor because I cannot get it to the woman who deserves it. You know who you are, you were east of Post, Texas, in a white SUV and put your family pet out of the car and then accelerated rapidly when you thought I had seen you and would say something to you. You were right. I declined a high speed chase for the safety of myself and you and anyone who might have been in the car with you.

What you did was to take a trusting family pet for a ride in the car, and abandon him on a busy highway. All he gave you was total love and loyalty, and what you gave him was either sudden death at the wheels of a car or starvation. Either way, his future is bleak. I know of his dedication to you because when I tried to talk him into my car, all he wanted to do was run in the direction you went. I was forced to leave him out there because I could not catch him.

I did alert the sheriff's department in Post, and they said they would go out there and try to find him.

I hope you have trouble sleeping nights, because you deserve it.

If this does not get to the person who did this thing, but does get to someone who is thinking about doing the same thing, I hope it will make you think. Just because we have dominion over the beasts of the earth, it is not a license for cruelty.

Sonny Tittle, Lubbock

Not happy with code enforcers

Recently I was an unfortunate tourist passing through your borough. Besides being a financial fiasco, I must commend you on having the most rude and illmannered group of subhumans ever collected, working with your sheriff's office. You can rest assured that I will never spend another dollar in Post, Texas. W.B. Mietzer, Port LaVaca, Texas

The right not to be harrassed

On October 10 a lady came into my store downtown and said she was campaigning for (Sheriff) Kenny Ratke. She asked me if I was going to vote for Ratke and I said "no." She asked why, so I gave her my reason.

The next morning (Oct. 11) a deputy sheriff came to the store and questioned me about my conversation with the lady the day before, asking me again my reason for not voting for Kenny. I feel like this is way out of line, questioning anyone's right to vote their conscience. This kind of action makes me very fearful for our rights and who will uphold them.

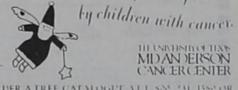

I feel I had a good reason for my decision. I made no character accusations or derogatory remarks about Mr Ratke and there should not have been anything more from our conversation, certainly not being questioned by a deputy. Dee Stamps
