MAD DADS shows off improvements at vouth center

The local MAD DADS facility, now in its fourth year, recently received a facelift. The front portion of the teen center underwent a complete remodeling over the summer, according to Rodney Tidwell of MAD DADS.

About 1,200 square feet of ceramic tile was installed, the facility's office was reworked, and furniture and games in the front area were relocated to make best use of space.

"New walls, new floors — we just got a brand new look," Tidwell said. With a generous outpouring of community support, both financially and with in-kind services, the remodeling project was completed at a cost of about $2,300.

Tidwell said he estimates the project would have cost about $50,000 had it been contracted out. The project took all summer and required the closure of the teen center. "We wanted a new look, but we hated to close for the summer," Tidwell said.

"But it was something that needed to be done. There was just no good time to do it. "The back portion of the facility, which was painted and decorated by local youths last summer, was left untouched.

A project which remains under way is the addition of a volleyball pit behind the building, Tidwell said. Last weekend was the first time the center has been open since the remodeling.

About 50 youth spent time at the center. "We were closed all summer, "Tidwell said, "so I know the numbers will pick back up." Those assisting with the remodeling effort included Terry Morris and son, Justin; Robert and Stephanie Smith; Karen Palmer; Deana Gunn; Diana Poe; Anita Morris; Amanda Workman; Noah Gutierrez; Mark McCallister; Kyle Gunn; Jason Powell; Wayne McKim; and Jeff Redman. Supplying tools to complete the tile, floor and wall work were J.W. Jolly III, Palmer Construction, Phil Mathews and Delton Osborn.

Providing financial assistance were Patti Kirkpatrick, Joe and Peggy Smith, Dennis and Debbie Mason, Post Auto Parts, Estha (Penny) Rains, Barry Morris & family and Bob and Debbie Macy.

A special word of thanks is extended to those teens who were so patient while the remodeling project was completed, Tidwell said. The center is open after school from 3-5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays for students from third grade and up. Evening hours are reserved for middle school and high school-aged students are are as

Shelly Bertrand, Charles Boehler exchange wedding vows

Shelly Nicole Bertrand and Charles Barton Boehler were united in marriage at 4 p.m. Aug. 18, 2001, in the First Christian Church in Lubbock. Greg Haseloff, the former youth minister of the bride, and Father Gene Driscoll officiated the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Ronald and Betty Bertrand of Lubbock and granddaughter of Mozelle Hutchins. Parents of the bridegroom are Ken and Marge Gaidziunas of Euclid, Ohio. Three large candelabras entwined with greenery accented a large stained-glass window above the altar of the Pews were marked with white flowered markers tied with white streamers of satin ribbon. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her wedding a long formal gown of white satin accented with seed pearls, sequins and rhinestones.

Long petal-point sleeves of tulle accented the dress, which featured a cathedral train. The bride also wore a double tulle veil trimmed with white satin ribbon tied by a band of pearls and sequins. She carried an arrangement of white roses and greenery accented with pearl necklaces belonging to the paternal and maternal grandmothers.

Serving as matron of honor was Devin Halford of Post, the bride's cousin. She wore a long formal black gown with a satin bodice and matching bolero. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Other bridesmaids were Lezlie Warren of Temple, Misty Rodgers of Crosbyton, Mandi Akens and Amanda Catlin, both of Lubbock, and Betty Carter of Houston. Each wore a dress identical to that worn by the matron of honor. They, too, carried bouquets of pink roses.

Jeff Kriegbaum of Detroit, Mich., served as best man. Other groomsmen were Aaron Lambright of New Hartford, Conn.; Russ Flannery of San Diego, Calif.; Mike Skahan and Tadd Donohue, both of Dallas; and Mike Retseck of Raleigh-Durham, N.C. Ushers were Eric Pfeifle, Greg Binns and Dean Reed, all of Dallas.

The Ellsworth Quartet provided music for the ceremony. Scripture readers were Ashley Allen-Pearce and Ashley Abington. Following the ceremony, a reception was conducted in the Baker Building in Lubbock.

There, a dinner and dance were held. The bride's cake was a three-tiered lemon cake decorated with roses. The groom's cake was chocolate and decorated as an open law book. Three of the bride's aunts — Jane Odom, Connie Bertrand and Jill Warren - and a cousin, Rebecca Warren, assisted with serving the guests.

Following a honeymoon trip to Saint Lucia, the couple will be at home in Dallas where the bride is a third-year law student at Southern Methodist University's School of Law. She holds a BBA in accounting from Texas Tech University, which she received in 1998.

The bridegroom is a corporate attorney with Thompson & Knight, L.L.P., of Dallas. He is a graduate of the SMU School of Law and Purdue University. A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was held Aug. 17.

A lingerie shower was thrown for the bride-elect April 1 in Lubbock The event was hosted by bridesmaids Amanda Catlin and Mandi Akens. A bridal luncheon, hosted by the bride's aunt, Jane Odom, and cousin, Devin Halford, was held recently at Sugarbaker's in Lubbock.

Judy's Jabberin' By Judy B. Bush

If you ventured out this weekend to Old Mill Trade Day's you witnessed a huge mass of people!! I think that was the biggest bunch of folks on Saturday that I have seen in awhile. It still amazes me to see that many visitors in Post.

The weather was great too. With the rain in the evening and cooler temps during the day it was great for shopping. Sunday while working out there I met a couple from Denver City. They had such nice things to say about Post and what our city has done to bring in "guests" to our town. They often visit Garza Theatre and think that "Ms. Morris" is quite a hero. I agree. Point is, I think it is wonderful that folks from the "outside" tend to agree with the "insiders" about Post!

I visited with Alma over the weekend and she is slowly but surely getting around. I am happy to see her doing so well and hopefully she will be out and about real soon. Blonde on The Sun

A Russian, an American and a blonde were talking one day. The Russian said, "We were the first in space." The American said, "We were the first on the moon!" The Blonde said, "So what, we're going to be the first on the sun!"

The Russian and the American looked at her and shook their heads. "You can't land on the sun, you idiot! You'll burn up, said the Russian. To which the Blonde replied, "We're not stupid, you know. We're going at night!"

Got a Minute???

J & Y Cellular 111 West Main

Remember that last cellular contract you signed? The one where you got a gazillion minutes for that low price? Then you found out some of those minutes could only be used on the weekend, some only at night, some were peak hour minutes and non-peak hour minutes and some could only be used on a leap year!!! And...to top it off you were being billed a full minute time you made a short call.

At Caprock Cellular ALL minutes are anytime minutes. You use them when you need them.

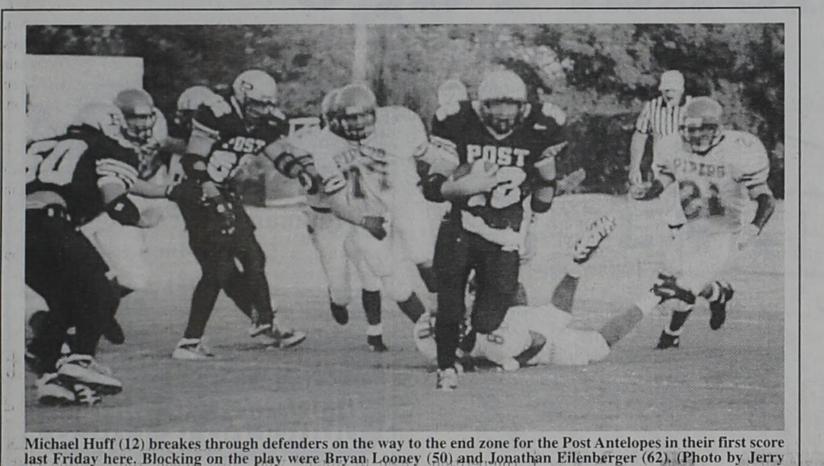

No daytime, nightime, peak, nonpeak, or leap year minutes. You use them when you need them. It's all the same.

And if you have to make a 12 second call home to tell them you're on your way...that's all you're billed for. We bill in six second increments.

Even on Leap years!!!

"We were disappointed about giving up those big kickoff returns," coach Richard Gorman comments about last Friday's 22-11 loss to Hamlin, "but we believe we can overcome those kind of mistakes and get better each

The Antelopes will have to work without quarterback Brody Robertson for a couple of games, he is out with what looks like a strained tendon. Michael Huff, who shared quarterback duties last week, will take charge of Gorman said that Jett Lott and Roland Castaneda will share time at the tailback position while Robertson recovers.

"We just made some mistakes at the wrong time," Gorman also observed about the opening game. "We really outplayed Hamlin except for those two big plays.

The Antelope head west Friday to take on the Class AAA Denver City Mustangs, always a strong opponent. "They're returning seven offense and seven defensive players," Gorman says, "and they are big."

The Mustangs use their linebackers on blitzes, "and at times that's going to make us look bad, but it also gives us some great opportunities to break out into the open," Gorman adds.

"Our backs are going to have run tough and break through the line, and we're going to have to execute to keep the ball moving." Gorman concludes. The team will leave Post right after 3 p.m. for the trip to Denver City, game time is 7:30 p.m. Those who can't attend the game can get all the live action on Post City Radio, beginning at 7:15. Time magazine: "Scientists no longer doubt that global warming is effective and being honest." happening, and almost nobody questions the fact that humans are at least partly responsible." U.S. News & World Report chimed in, saying in Michael Fumento's "Science Under Siege": "We've got to ride referring to the United Nation's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) as, "The most definitive — and scary — report yet, wrong, we'll be doing the right thing, in terms of economic policy and declaring that global warming is not only real but man-made."

According to the July 2001 Consumers' Research article "Global Warming Science: Fact vs. Fiction," written by Mark LaRochelle and Peter Spencer, the media have it all wrong. The news media have leaped to erroneous conclusions from a summary of a yet-to-be-released 3,000-page report. A follow-up study on global warming was released June 2001 by the National Research

MIT Professor Richard Lindzen, one of the NRC panelists and lead author of the IPCC report says: "Our primary conclusion was that despite some knowledge and some agreement, the science is by no means settled. We are quite confident (1) that global mean temperature is about 0.5 degrees Celsius higher than a century ago; (2) that atmospheric levels of carbon dioxide have risen over the past two source of wholesale death and misery for mankind." centuries; and (3) that carbon dioxide is a greenhouse gas whose increase is likely to warm the Earth. But — and I cannot stress this enough — we are not in a position to confidently attribute past climate change to carbon dioxide or to forecast what the climate will be in the future." Adding, "That is to say, contrary to media impressions, agreement with the three basic statements tells us almost nothing relevant to policy discussions."

That conclusion shows just how much confidence we can have in what the media and environmental radicals tell us.

You say, "Williams, are the environmentalist lying and deliberately year 2000." frightening us?" That's part of their strategy. Consider what environmentalist activist Stephen Schneider said in a 1989 issue of Discover: "We have to offer up scary scenarios, make simplified Creators Syndicate writers and cartoonists, visit the Creators Syndicate dramatic statements, and make little mention of any doubts we may have. Each of us has to decide what the right balance is between being Here's what former Sen. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., was quoted as the global warming issue. Even if the theory of global warming is environmental policy."

Dr. Fred Singer, president of The Science & Environmental Policy Project in Arlington, Va., says there are four different independent data sets for measuring temperature. First are thermometers at weather stations around the world. They show warming over the past 30 years, but not in the United States. The second are weather satellites. They show no warming. The third are weather balloons. They show no warming. The fourth are called proxy data — tree rings. ice cores, lake sediments, etc. They show no warming.

Basing public policy on erroneous observations and predictions can be very costly in terms of human welfare and economic growth. Environmental activist predictions have been dead wrong. In the July 1975 issue of National Wildlife, Nigel Calder warned that "the threat of a new ice age must now stand alongside nuclear war as a likely

In the same issue, C.C. Wallen of the World Meteorological Organization warned, "The cooling since 1940 has been large enough and consistent enough that it will not soon be reversed."

In 1968, Dr. Paul Erlich, author of "The Population Time Bomb" and environmentalist guru, predicted that the Earth would run out of food by 1977 and that the Earth's 5 billion population would starve back to 2 billion people by 2025.

Erlich also warned Britain's Institute of Biology in 1969, "If I were a gambler, I would take even money that England will not exist in the

Is it for safety...or for money?

by Wesley W. Burnett

The recent furor over aggressive enforcement of the state transportation code, especially the state police "wolf pack" which sets up shop at an abandoned cotton gin just east of the railroad tracks here, has once again demonstrated the tyranny that comes when government assumes powers beyond its constitutional limits.

Local trucking companies, oil field service related companies and their drivers are understandably incensed about the heavy handed tactics and extortionate fines levied against them by these "safety inspection" raids.

Truth is, the inspections have little to do with safety and a whole lot to do with money. The easy money derived from these raids are critical revenue sources for the DPS and their political cohorts in Austin and Garza County. Every trucker on the road knows exactly what's going to happen when they are hauled into that yard.

No matter how meticulous the driver is, that truck is going to be found with some kind of violation. And the money raked in from those "safety inspections" often turns on a very thin line between "safety" and the ridiculous. Such things as "mud on license plates" and one mud flap longer than another one are not uncommon.

But the whole point of these raids is clearly designed to raise money to fill the state and county coffers. It is also an example of the current power government holds through legislative tyranny.

In cooperation with the big insurance companies, the state legislature has created a huge regulatory system which stifles competition and destroys hard working truckers and truck owners. In the name of the "good of society," these socialist managers have taken over ownership of the trucking industry.

Regulating that industry is big business, and as we've said before on these pages, every piece of legislation ever written has a money trail. The beneficiaries of the regulation of course are the big guys, the ones who can afford to pay their drivers when they happen to get caught.

The big trucking firms and insurance companies who control legislative action have used the transportation code and the DPS enforcers to limit and stifle competition. It's been that way since the first regulatory codes were written 75 years ago.

Who owns the property? That's the question. Truck owners should take a close look at their "vehicle" ownership. They have what are called "certificates of title." The real title is held by the state. The collusion between insurance companies and state government is even more insidious . insurance companies will refuse to insure "vehicles" which do not have state approved "certificates of title."

It's a closed circle, where real ownership of property by an individual is impossible to maintain. Therefore, owners of commercial trucks are at the mercy of the insurance companies and the state regulators. So, they either pay the extortion or they stay off the road.

In Garza County many local companies have found it economically sound to stay off the road. In the end, that will be the ruin of our local economy. As is the case in all socialist systems, the productive among us are taxed (or fined) out of existence. As the number of productive people declines, government resorts to higher and more aggressive fines and taxes. Eventually the system consumes itself out of greed for more money.

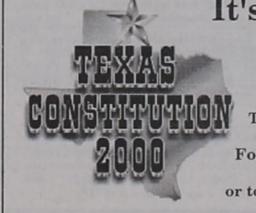

Just ask any truck driver or commercial truck owner what happens when they find out the "wolf pack" has arrived and set up shop here they radio all their trucks and order them off the road until the raiders leave town. It's less expensive for the company to stop work than to take a chance on being put out of business by the state.

But that is counter productive, and steals earnings from truck drivers who get paid only when they're on the road.

It's time Texans stood up against this kind of tyranny and demand that their political leaders defend the right of property ownership, instead of supporting the continued theft of property and earnings in the phony name of "safety."

As Thomas Jefferson so eloquently wrote in the American Declaration

"That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these Ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its Foundation on such Principles, and organizing its Powers in such Forms, as to them shall seem most

Lanny Burnett presents poetry at National Cowboy Symposium

Cowboy poet Lanny Joe Burnett of Bonham will be one of the featured performers at this year's National Cowboy Symposium at the Lubbock Civic Center. Burnett will perform Saturday at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Born and was raised on a ranch in Fannin county, Texas, Lanny is the son of fourth generation Texans. He uses his talents to illustrate the spiritual as well as the sometimes questionable philosophical ideals of the cowboy. Lanny's love for Texas' land and people was developed at a very young age.

He performs at gatherings of all types including churches and schools and at such faraway places as Central Asia and West Texas. His two main goals in life were to play baseball and be a cowboy. Having accomplished the former in Little League, he continues to pursue the latter. He is proud to drive a pickup truck that makes car wash employees run for cover.
