No injuries reported in local shooting case

Three individuals were taken into custody Sunday afternoon after gunshots were reportedly fired in a residential area on East 5th Street.

Authorities were initially summoned to a residence in the 300 block of East 5th at about 5 p.m. Reports indicated a fight involving weapons was in progress, Chief Deputy Tommy Binford said.

While deputies were en route to the scene, a second call was fielded by the sheriff's department dispatcher. This call reported that shots had been fired.

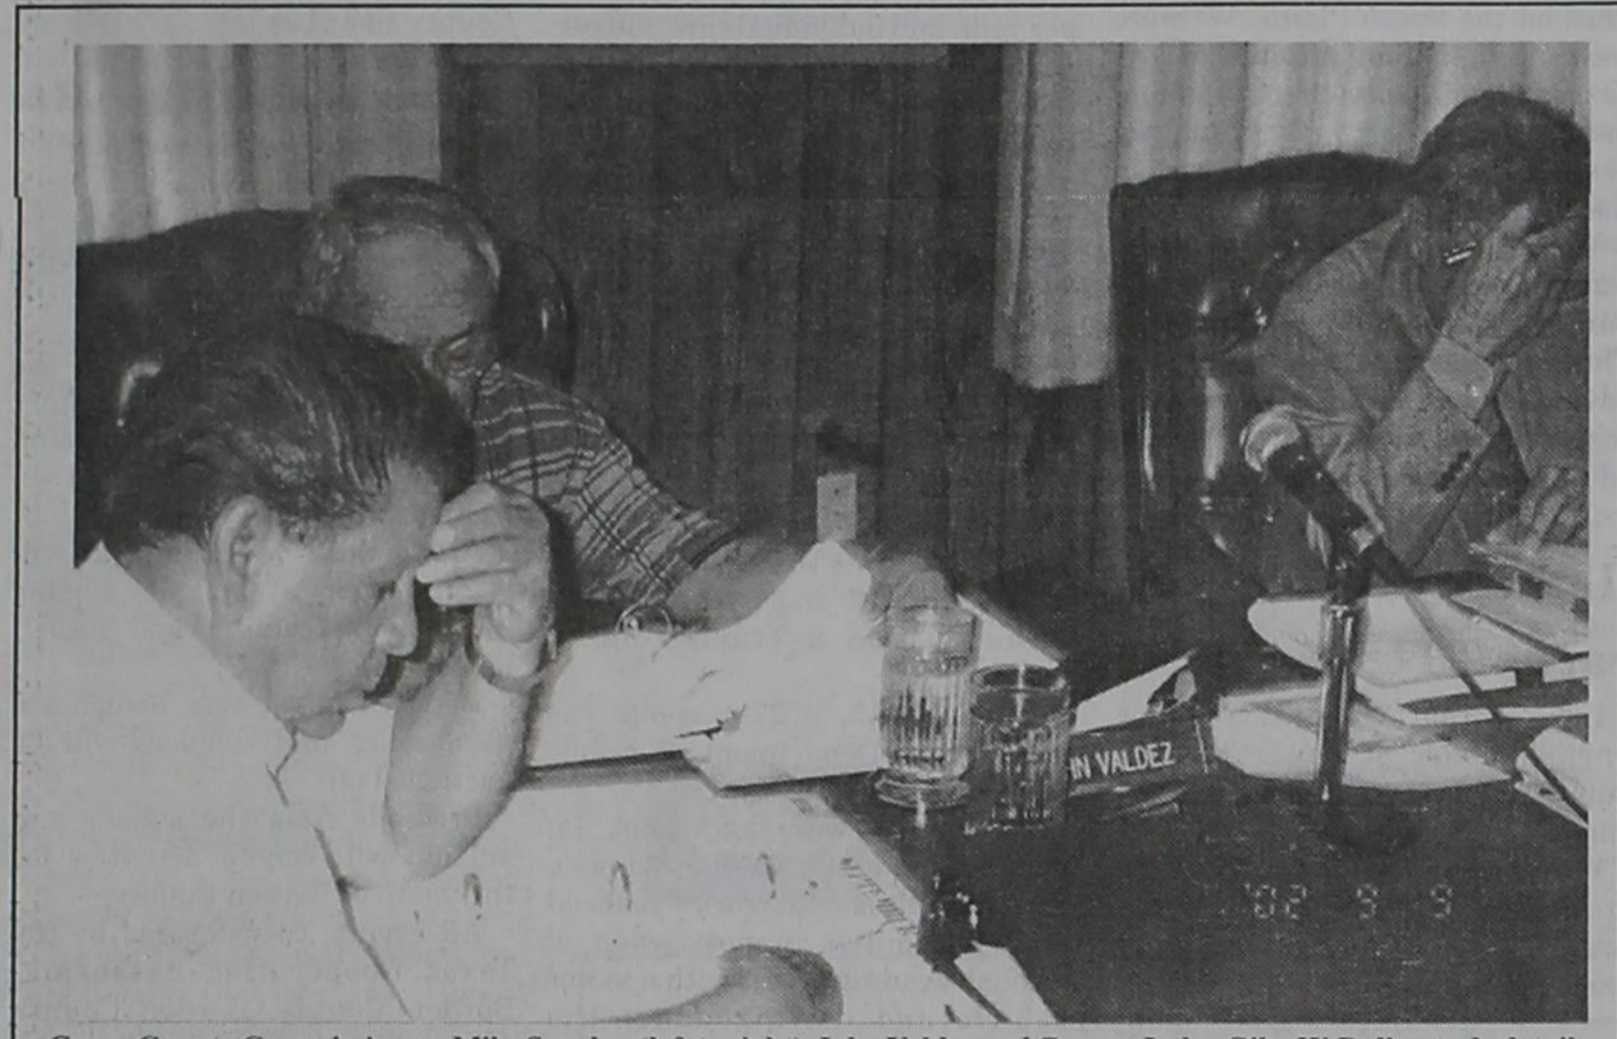

Upon arriving at the scene, deputies encountered approximately 30 to 40 individuals whom Binford described as "very agitated."

"The situation was out of hand," the chief deputy said. "It took several minutes to control and identify the individuals responsible." At least two weapons were involved in the shooting, which caused no injuries.

Three members of the crowd were taken into custody, Binford said. Each was charged with disorderly conduct and discharging a firearm inside the city limits.

The shooting appears to have stemmed from an "incident that occurred the previous night and escalated from there," Binford said.

The incident remains under investigation, and deputies continue to work to obtain statements from all those who witnessed the shooting.

Garza County Commissioners Mike Sanches (left to right), John Valdez and County Judge Giles W. Dalby study details of the proposed budget for 2002-2003 expected to be approved at Monday's (9/23/02) regular meeting.

County works out $2.7 million budget

Garza County Commissioners will vote Monday on adopting a new budget and tax rate.

Under the proposed $2.7 million budget, the department requiring the largest apportionment is the sheriff's department, which has more than $648,000 earmarked for the coming fiscal year. The general administration department budget ranks second in size, with more than $412,000 set aside.

Social and shared services will require almost $240,000, and the Lake Alan Henry constable and lake budget will require more than $202,000 from the coming year's general fund.

Other planned departmental spending proposals include the county clerk's office, $136,301; the county judge's budget, $96,311; the district court budget, $70,499; county attorney budget, $80,897; county treasurer budget, $74,054; tax assessor/collector budget, $110,401; building maintenance, $114,366; juvenile probation, $62,534; Department of Public Safety, $9,000; city/county park, $33,999; community center, $30,732; extension department budget, $85,681; and summer recreation program, $21,000.

Several grants, including four pass-through grants, will address issues such as community supervision, drug and alcohol substance abuse and 9-1-1 addressing.

Founders' Day Celebration October 4-5

Plans are well under way for this year's Post Founders Day activities, set for Oct. 4-5.

The celebration will kick off with a free street dance conducted in the downtown area on East Main Street from 8 p.m. to midnight Friday, Oct. 4.

On the following day, the downtown area will be buzzing with activities all day long. Street vendors, a barbecue cook off, live music and a tractor parade are just a few of the many events planned.

Sidelining the Saturday, Oct. 5, activities will be the dedication of the "Chief Runkles" Room at the Post Historical Museum, 119 N. Ave. N. That event is set to begin at 4 p.m.

That evening, a dance will be held at the Old Mill Trade Days amphitheatre, featuring Post's own Thrift Store Cowboys. The BYOB event will run from 8 p.m. to midnight, and cost will be $8 per person or $15 per couple.

Another big take from highway fines reported

by Wes Burnett

Garza County and the State of Texas collected another $29,484.16 for traffic fines in August, according to reports of the two Justices of the Peace courts. The fund raising program, operated by county and state agents, takes advantage of travel victims who violate state commercial transportation codes.

JP Court 1 reported $14,526.50 in August with JP Court 2 showing $14,957.96 for the same month.

State and county code enforcement officers are "just doing their jobs" by enforcing the traffic code, although that code is limited to regulating commercial transportation. What was sold to the public in the 1920s for "safe" roads, is now a huge money-making machine for corporate governments.

But the question about the lawful nature of the transportation code needs a bit of exploring. The following research is offered for the reader's consideration:

by Timothy W. Burnett

The laws of the land were established in the United States of America and in Texas for the foundational purpose of protecting the life, liberty, and property of the people within. One example of this is traveling. Traveling is a very personal element of life, liberty, and property. Some modes of travel include walking, bicycle, tricycle, motorbike, automobile, horse and carriage, etc. In other situations people prefer paying someone to carry them from one point to another. Or they may pay for their goods to be carried.

These entities paid to carry for another are known as carriers. Carriers use the public highways and roads to transport people and goods in various types of motor vehicles. The question of whether a Driver's License is required in Texas applies both to the traveling public and transportation. And can be answered by a precise study of the Texas Transportation Code.

Before addressing this question, it should be noted that the only right way to interpret the law is to allow it to interpret itself within the letter of the law. Allowing the letter of the law to interpret itself makes it possible for the researcher, juror, and judge to clearly see the correct meaning and scope.

Similar to God's word of grace and salvation, the laws of the land are of no private interpretation. The big difference between God's word and man's word is the author. Unlike God, man is unable to back his word consistently. So the people of this country developed a protective checks and balances system that included justice. They agreed to elect or have appointed certain people who would serve as official interpreters of the laws and related rules.

During the 1950's the Court of Criminal Appeals of Texas ruled in various cases that there was no such license known to Texas law as a "driver's license." These

Post ISD offers tax-free savings plan to employees

Employees of the Post Independent School District can take advantage of a tax-free college savings plan thanks to action taken by district trustees Sept. 10.

During their regular monthly meeting, trustees approved a proposal to allow district employees to participate in 529 college savings plans, which enables employees to make pre-tax contributions to collegiate savings funds.

In other business, the board approved the continuation of an agreement with the Borden County school district and the Region XVII Technology Consortium; approved teacher appraisers and the appraisal period for the 2002-2003 school year; and opted to take no action on the purchase of a walk-in freezer for use in the school cafeteria.

Following an executive session to discuss personnel, trustees voted to approve the substitute list and one student transfer.

The board's next meeting will be Sept. 24 with Dr. Bob Thompson, the consultant hired to assist district officials in hiring a new superintendent. Dr. Bobby Bain, current superintendent, recently announced he will retire at the close of the 2002-2003 school year.

Post Commerce & Tourism Bureau reports major events

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a recent letter from Wanda Mitchell, manager of the Post Commerce & Tourism Bureau, written to local merchants and citizens.)

We are beginning our new year for the Post Commerce & Tourism Bureau on Oct. 1, 2002, and we want you to be a part of our program.

We have seen some major happenings this past year. We have received attention from articles in Saddle Baron magazine, Texas Highways and various regional publications. We received wonderful publicity on Channel 11 on Aug. 2 when they aired their newscast at 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. from our courthouse lawn. Many people turned out for this event, and we came off as the most enthusiastic and progressive town on the South Plains. We were recognized in San Antonio at the Texas Commission of the Arts annual meeting for our part on the "Uniquely Texas" video and had a major part on the program to talk about Post, Texas.

We have our new Web site up and running, and all members of the bureau are listed on our Web site. This is a great tool for you to take advantage of, linking with us at no cost to members. The Web site address is www.posttx.com. Take a look.

PUBLIC NOTICE
BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF PROPOSED
CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Special Election
NOVEMBER 5, 2002

Explanatory Brief for HJR 2
HJR 2 would amend the constitution to allow the commissioners court of a county to declare the office of constable dormant if that office has been vacant for at least seven consecutive years. The records of a constable office that is declared dormant will be transferred to the county clerk. If the office is declared dormant, the previous officeholder does not continue to hold the office. The office may not be filled by election or appointment unless the commissioners court votes to reinstate the office or a majority of votes cast in an election held on the issue favor reinstatement. The reinstatement election may be held if the commissioners court on its own motion orders such an election, or the reinstatement election must be held if the commissioners court receives a petition signed by 10% of the registered voters of the constable precinct.
The proposition will appear on the ballot as follows:
"The constitutional amendment authorizing the commissioners court of a county to declare the office of constable in a precinct to be dormant if the office has not been filled by election or appointment for a lengthy period and providing a procedure for the reinstatement of the office."

Post Rotary Club continues program featuring PHS seniors

The Post Rotary Club is getting acquainted with PHS seniors again this school year.

Each month, at least two seniors attend the club's Tuesday luncheons, thereby enabling the students to learn about the principles and activities of Rotary. Additionally, the Rotarians learn about the accomplishments and ambitions of the students.

Kenda Josey and Brice Easterling were the PHS seniors recognized during the month of September.

Josey, daughter of Kyle and Diane Josey, has been a member of the National Honor Society for three years, class officer for three years and a state qualifier in UIL cross-exam debate for two years. She has been recognized as an outstanding student in English I, speech and pre-calculus.

Her interests include photography and participating in UIL competitions for informative speaking and accounting. Although she remains undecided regarding a study major, Josey said she wants to attend either the University of Texas, Abilene Christian University or Texas A&M.

Special sale announced

Homier Mobile Merchants will roll into Lubbock Sept. 19-22 at the Caprock Shopping Center, 5001 Boston Ave.

Beginning at 10 a.m. each day, Homier Mobile Merchants will offer thousands of quality, name brand tools, general merchandise, furniture and collectibles - from bookcases to wrenches, air tools to umbrellas - at prices 30 percent below that of the competition.

Realizing that a company is only as good as the service it provides after the sale, Homier Mobile Merchants has made an uncompromising commitment to customer service. Unlike transient vendors that are often "here today and gone tomorrow," Homier has a "no questions asked" policy for returns and refunds, along with a toll-free customer support line. This ensures that long after Homier has left the area, the customer will be able to contact the company should there be any problem with his or her purchase.

Homier also offers an "online" catalog at www.homier.com.

The mobile merchandising concept was the brainchild of the company president and CEO Chuck Homier. Instead of building and operating "bricks and mortar" sites at a limited number of locales, Homier decided that he could take his shows on the road and eliminate the overhead costs.

"Our concept was to eliminate the middle man and then pass those savings directly to the consumer," Homier said. "As an added bonus, the Mobile Merchandising concept ensures that everyone throughout the country, at one time or another, has a chance to share in the Homier savings."

"Our concept is innovative, and people tend to get excited about new and innovative things. It's our job to keep them excited, and I think our pricing and the constantly new and evolving line of quality products does exactly that."

Easterling enjoys working with computers, repairing and designing motors and automobiles and putting stereo systems into cars. He participates in tennis, football, basketball and UIL calculator competitions and has been an All-

District tennis selection for the past two years.

The son of James and Amy Easterling, he plans to major in either engineering or computer technology at Texas A&M or Texas Tech University following graduation from Post High School.

New electronic guide available at NRCS

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) recently unveiled the new electronic Field Office Technical Guide (eFOTG), a technology that supports the president's management initiative on expanding e-government while supporting the farm bill's implementation and program delivery at the local level.

"Using this technology, we will be able to provide more timely information and data to more people nationwide than previously has been available," said NRCS Chief Bruce I. Knight. "This is a major step forward in providing conservation information and scientific technological resources on the Web in an easy-to-use environment."

The project makes the scientifically proven and time-tested NRCS conservation technology available online to anyone who uses the technical resources in the FOTG. The old FOTG was a traditional, paper-based reference used in NRCS field offices to organize technical resources and activities for conservation, but the electronic technical guides make NRCS technical information available instantly to anyone with Internet access.

The electronic guides are linked to 8,000 NRCS Web pages and external sites, including the latest material on the 2002 Farm Bill. Content includes data in technical handbooks and manuals, scientific tools that help generate conservation alternatives, conservation practice standards, conservation effects case study reports and other electronic tools for evaluating the effects of conservation technical assistance.

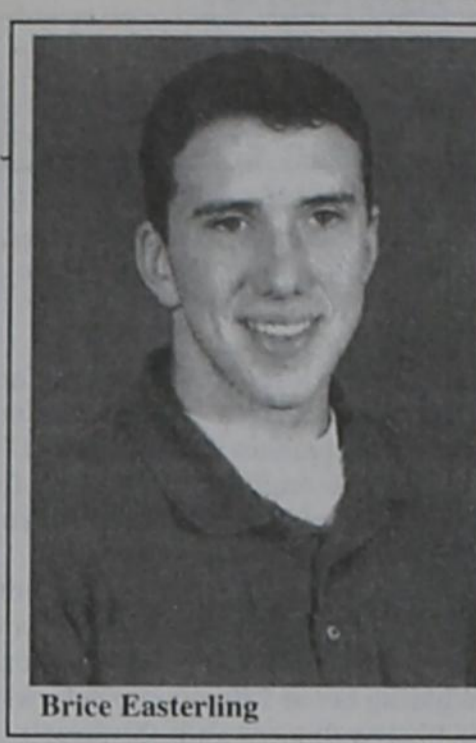

"The electronic technical guide will become a staple for America's farmers and ranchers in managing their land," Knight said. "Landowners, technical service providers, conservation planners, students and others can use the material on their home, school or office computers. The data will be updated electronically on a regular basis."

During May and June, 10 states - Texas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Missouri, Nebraska, Pennsylvania and South Dakota - pilot tested the guides. All states are developing electronic technical guides and have varying amounts of material available.

To access electronic technical guides, visit the NRCS Web site at <http://www.nrcs.usda.gov>. Look under Technical Resources for eFOTG and select a state.

Judge Schildknecht completes judicial training

More than 615 Texas judges, including the Hon. Carter T. Schildknecht of the 106th Judicial District Court, attended an advanced judicial training that provided fresh perspectives and tools for the role of administering justice fairly.

The 2002 Judicial Section Annual Conference was held at the Marriott Rivercenter in San Antonio Aug. 25-28.

The four-day conference, the only statewide gathering of the state's appellate, district and county court-at-law judges, encompassed an education program that centered on administrative and legal questions confronting the judiciary. The Texas Center for the Judiciary, an Austin-based non-profit judicial education group, developed the education program for the conference.

The event featured general sessions on judicial independence, bioethics, genetics and law and case updates on the Texas Supreme Court and the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Specialty track topics included issues of competency and insanity, the collaborative relationship between judges and county auditors, family group decision-making, court's charges, water litigation, interpreters in the courtroom, the role of the ad litem/parental notification, criminal law, cultural consideration in family violence, access to justice and other topics.

A diverse faculty of Texas and other state court judges, attorneys and well-informed professionals in various fields taught the sessions.

8th grade wins

The eighth grade Post Middle School Antelopes pulled off a 26-16 road win over Friona last week.

On the opening drive, Zach Perez recorded a 60-plus yard run for a touchdown. The two-point conversion attempt failed.

The team's second touchdown was made on a pass from Wilson Cash to Edgar Garay. Again, the two-point attempt failed.

Cash passed to Perez for a 60-yard touchdown, followed by a good two-point conversion by Perez. The score was 20-8 at the half.

For the 'Lopes' final score of the game, Cash ducked into the end zone from one yard out.

"The entire team played very well," said Coach Nick Dickson. "Our defense stepped up on their first possession and recovered a fumble."

"Overall, it was a good game." The team's next game will be tonight against Merkel.

7th graders win

The seventh grade Post Middle School Antelopes lost to Friona 6-0.

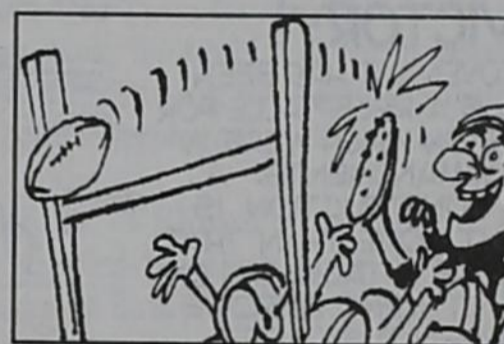

Friona drove down the field in the second quarter for the only score of the ballgame.

Post's offense, led by Pat Reiter, only had the ball once during the first half.

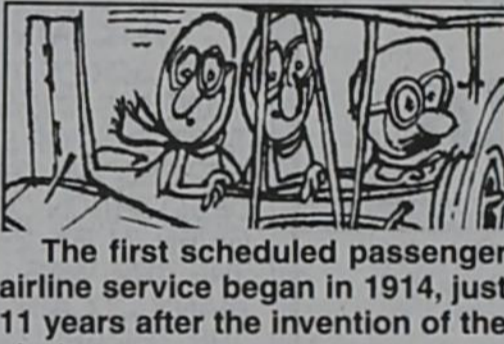

The defense came out strong in the second half and continued to stop Friona's offense, said Coach Steve Peña. The offense followed their example and executed plays better, "mixing in a passing game," he said. The Chieftans' defense held tight, however, and kept the 'Lopes out of the end zone.

"The kids did great," Peña said, "and we saw a lot of good things and a lot of things that need improving on. Overall it was positive for both coaches and athletes, and we expect good things out of this bunch."

The team will host the Merkel Badgers tonight.

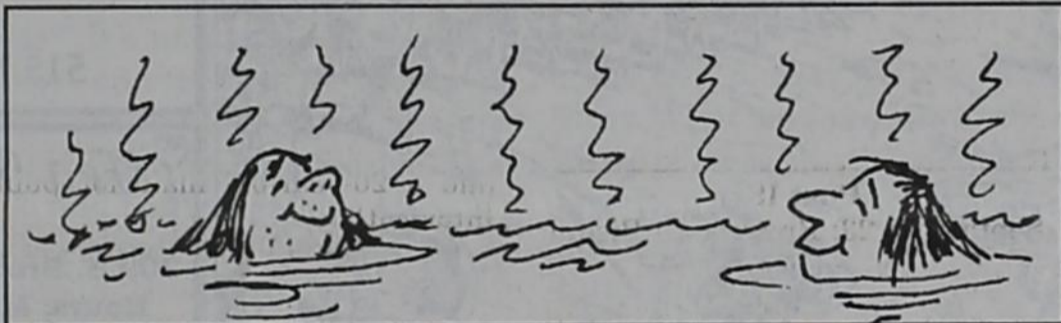

The only person ever to score more than 2,000 points in his football career is George Blanda. Over 26 seasons, Blanda scored nine touchdowns, and kicked 335 field goals and 943 points after touchdowns for 2,002 points.

The True Jesus Christ of Nazareth Is Not Here In Person!

"Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." (John 14:1-3)

"For yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry." (Hebrews 10:37)

I What Will Not Take Place When The True Christ Returns:

1. He will not run newspaper ads announcing His appearance!
2. He will not set up His headquarters in some secret hideaway! (Matthew 24:26).
3. He will not have an advance publicity man who appears on radio talk shows and TV telling the world that Christ is now here!
4. His feet will not even touch the planet Earth! (1 Thessalonians 4:17).
5. He will not appear on TV or radio, not even by satellite!
6. He will not be interviewed by newspapers!
7. He will not hold public meetings to spread His message!
8. He will not meet with heads of state and world leaders!
9. He will not perform healings and miracles!
10. He will not try to solve the famine, economic troubles, injustice, and other problems of this world!
11. He will not set up a kingdom here on this Earth! (John 14:2,3).
12. He will not try to unite all the religions and governments of the world!

II What Will Take Place:

1. The true Christ will appear SUDDENLY in the heavens in an awesome display of splendor and glory! (Matthew 24:27; 1 Thessalonians 4:16).
2. The true Christ will resurrect all the sleeping saints of God! (1 Thessalonians 4:16).
3. The trumpet of God will sound! (1 Thessalonians 4:16; Matthew 24:31).
4. The true Christ will send His angels throughout the world to bring His living saints to Him! (Matthew 24:31).
5. The true Christ will appear unexpectedly! (Matthew 24:42, 44; 1 Thessalonians 5:1,2).
6. The true Christ will take all the living and resurrected saints back to Heaven with Him for 1,000 years! (John 14:2, 3; Revelation 20:4).
7. The true Christ will INSTANTLY change the mortal bodies of the saints into glorious, immortal bodies! (1 Corinthians 15:50-54).
8. The true Christ will be accompanied by the Heavenly Father and the angels of God with all their glory! (Matthew 16:27).
9. The wicked will be destroyed by fire when the true Christ returns! (Matthew 13:40-42; 2 Thessalonians 1:7, 8).
10. Every person in the world will see the true Christ instantly! (Revelation 1:7).
11. Those who crucified Him will be resurrected to see the true Christ return! (Revelation 1:7).
12. The world as we know it will be destroyed by fire when the true Christ returns! (2 Peter 3:10).

A big thanks from MDA

I'm sending a huge "thanks" to Post for its generous support of the Muscular Dystrophy Association on Labor Day weekend! Because of your help, our MDA Telethon raised a record $58,276,118 in contributions and pledges.

It was heartwarming to see people across the country - from celebrities to unsung heroes - coming together to help families affected by neuromuscular diseases. As our nation marks the first anniversary of Sept. 11, it's clear that we remain true to our most cherished values.

I want to thank you not only for calling in pledges, but for supporting MDA programs throughout the year, including Shamrocks Against Dystrophy sales, MDA Lock-Ups, and Fill-the-Boot drives by fire fighters. Your support makes it possible for MDA to keep the engines running at full speed on worldwide research seeking treatments and cures.

We've made so many significant gains in recent years! Besides research, your donations fund other vital programs, including some 230 clinics, help with medical equipment and - the favorite of "my kids" - summer camp.

If you'd like to get involved with these great MDA programs year-round, check your local MDA office; call our national headquarters at (800) 572-1717; or visit our Web site at www.mdausa.org. Post, you're the best!

Thank you from the bottom of my heart!
Love, Jerry Lewis National Chairman

One year later...

Doesn't seem possible that a year has gone by since the horrendous incident in New York on Sept. 11th of last year. It was a crime of such magnitude that I'm not sure what to think. I suppose I have mixed emotions about it. I am sad for the families that had people in the buildings and on flight #93 in Pennsylvania. God rest the victims souls. My strongest feelings are for the children of the families who lost loved ones.

I believe my strongest emotion will be that I am mad all over again. In my opinion, I believe the government knew more about this was going to happen than we will ever be told.

I would guess that the Sept. 11th incident probably had some similarities to the Dec. 7, 1941 bombing of Pearl Harbor. In my view, I believe the government knew this was going to happen, but may not have known when, or where. I guess I would say that I have a strong disappointment in our government. God may punish me for pointing fingers at our government, but I do have a strong lingering suspicion that the U.S. government could have probably did more to keep that fateful day from happening.

I am disappointed in our government that they have allowed the terrorist organizations around the world to get their roots so firmly in the ground.

I do believe the world is a little bit more on its toes and a bit more alert now that we have the Sept. 11th wake up call.

I am convinced that George W. is taking every measure possible to prevent any further chaos, but the terrorist groups have been allowed to get to solid of a grip on the world, and its gonna be hard to bring 'em down.

I have faith now that the Bush Administration is doing their best to bring terrorism under control, but I believe it can and will happen again somewhere in the world. Maybe not on American soil, but somewhere. (Something similar to Sept. 11th)

And as far as Iraq is concerned, if Mr. Bush wants to take them out, start in the morning will be alright with me. That country has been extremely evil ever since biblical times, where it was called Assyria. They need to be dusted.

I thought the anniversary of the Sept. 11th tragedy was over done. It was turned into a celebration instead of a ceremony. But the good thing about living in a free country, the rights are in place to do it how ever one wants to do it. Personally, in my non-practicing alcoholic life, I don't care to dwell to much on the past, it will eat me up. I only want to keep enough of the past on my mind to help me remember that I don't want any more of it.

I can do nothing about the past anyway, I only live in the "now" and today. And I suppose I am like what Ben Franklin once said "I don't have much faith in prophecy or predictions, especially if it has anything to do with the future."

Although I get disgusted and disappointed with the government, I can think of nowhere else in the world I'd rather live than the good ol' U.S.A.

God bless America.
My opinion and as I see it only.

THE ARK GOING BEFORE--- MEANT VICTORY!

THE ARK OF THE COVENANT HAD BEEN MADE SPECIFICALLY AS A RECEPTACLE FOR THE TABLES OF STONE ON WHICH WERE INSCRIBED THE TEN COMMANDMENTS. A DESCRIPTION OF ITS CONSTRUCTION IS GIVEN IN EX. 25. BUT MORE THAN THAT, THE ARK WAS USED AS A TALISMAN ON MANY OCCASIONS. IT WENT BEFORE THE ISRAELITES WHEN THEY LEFT MOUNT SINAI EITHER IN THE VAN OR AS THE EXPRESSION MAY DENOTE, "LIKE A KING IN THE MIDDLE OF HIS TROOPS," LEADING AND DIRECTING THE MARCH, WHILE THE PRIESTS WHO HAD ACCOMPANIED IT SIGNALED THE ORDERS OF YAHWEH, HIMSELF. IT WENT IN ADVANCE OF THE PEOPLE, WHEN THEY CROSSED THE JORDAN RIVER, IT WAS CARRIED IN THE MIDDLE OF THE HOST FOR SEVEN DAYS AROUND JERICHO, BEFORE THE WALLS OF THE CITY FELL DOWN. (JOSH. 6:1-20) MORE AND MORE, SUCCEEDING GENERATIONS OF ISRAELITES CAME TO ANTICIPATE COMPLETE VICTORY WHEN THE ARK WAS BROUGHT OUT ONTO THE FIELD OF BATTLE, PARTICULARLY IN THEIR MANY BATTLES WITH THE PHILISTINES. SO MUCH SO THAT BEFORE A BATTLE TOOK PLACE.....

...THE ISRAELITES, WITH THE ARK IN ATTENDANCE, RUSH OUT TO MEET THE PHILISTINES ON THE FIELD OF BATTLE - CONFIDENT OF A FULL AND COMPLETE VICTORY!

THE ARK REMAINED COVERED AT ALL TIMES

Will Americans pay a "world" tax now?

by Daniel New

The United Nations is conducting a conference in South Africa, as I write this, which calls for the American taxpayer to be forced to contribute to relieving third-world poverty.

A noble goal, this war on poverty. I recall that we declared war on poverty when Lyndon Johnson was President. I remember him saying, "The haves are going to give to the have-nots." Seems to me that welfare did not eliminate poverty, it stimulated it.

Now Kofi Annan and the other leaders of the world are preparing to impose a similar solution, with world taxes. Former Chief Justice John Marshall said, "The power to tax is the power to destroy."

The time has come for local governments and state governments to send a message to our own national leaders, who seem prepared to go along with this Marxist program for redistribution of our wealth. Voters in Grant County, Oregon, recently passed a referendum declaring their county a "UN-free Zone."

A similar ordinance is pending in Lincoln County, New Mexico, and several other communities have it on the agenda. This is a growing movement of resistance, by lawfully constituted authorities. The idea is that locally elected servants have a sworn duty to uphold the U.S. Constitution, not the U.N. Charter! Ordinances and resolutions that create red tape (how appropriate!) may or may not stop this push for a One World Government, but it will most definitely send a message to congress how people back home feel.

If we don't get their attention, our own national sovereignty will be a thing of the past.

Congress holds the key, and they're asleep at the wheel. This is an election year — ask EVERY candidate if he supports international taxation of your hard-earned wages. And vote accordingly.

For a sovereign Republic, once again.

Every generation has its time...

by Wes Burnett

Last week, one of the top notch men of my generation (and the Brownsville High School class of 1959) took a detour from his return from Ohio to his home in Brownsville, stopping by our house for a visit.

True to his life-long character, my very good and trusted friend John Toland spent his final days on this earth helping a friend. Arriving Tuesday afternoon, looking very frail and undernourished, but with the standard smile on his face that he always carried with him, he launched right into solving computer and technical problems for us.

We had a grand ole time, making plans for the future and sharing concerns of today. As in our younger days, we aired political and philosophical views until the wee hours.

Thursday afternoon he got a haircut and vacuumed his car. He came by the office and complained about how tired he was from such little effort. I did not consider the impact of his statement. He took out his handy little soldering iron and with a steady hand, carefully trimmed wires and repaired a microphone connection for our radio equipment.

He fell in love with Post, and began making plans to move here and help with our radio and television operations.

Later that night we watched a movie and at 1 a.m. Friday, he awoke us, complaining of pain in his upper chest. He said it was probably indigestion. At 2 a.m. the Post EMTs arrived, treating him with utmost care and attention. I followed them to University Medical Center emergency room.

Doctors and staff there pulled out all the stops, but John's frail heart had suffered too many trials and tribulations. He survived multiple by-pass surgery, but his weakened condition deteriorated until death took him quietly about 6 p.m.

I was blessed to have been John's friend, and he mine, and I am thankful to God that I was able to be with him in his final days in this earthly existence. As they rolled him down the hall, I said, "My friend, I'll see you on the otherside." He replied, "Okay compadre." It'll be a grand reunion!

Why America's become sissified

by Walter E. Williams

"America: A Sissified Nation" was the title of an August 2002 column that brought in hundreds of favorable responses, mostly from American men and women who were not sissies. In that column, I argued that we Americans have become sissified and are meekly giving up essential liberties in the name of fighting terrorism in exchange for trivial amounts of security.

Instead of allowing the war on terrorism to provide political cover for taking our liberties, the president ought to give credible notice to countries who harbor, aid and abet terrorists that they will face massive military retaliation which would not exclude nuclear weapons should our intelligence resources discover them to be the origin of a terrorist attack.

Allow me to speculate on how we became a sissified nation. In a word or two, we've become "Oprahized" and "Springerized." You say, "Williams, what do you mean by that?" It's simple: We've become a nation increasingly ruled by emotions and feelings — in a word, feminized. Men and women have different psychological make-ups.

Women tend to be more nurturing, sensitive and submissive. They demonstrate greater feelings of love and tend to exhibit grief to a greater extent than men. On the other hand, men tend to be more competitive, aggressive and hostile than women. Female characteristics are vital to a well-ordered society, for they exert a civilizing influence.

I'd never want to live in a society where women didn't have a major role in the rearing of children and management of the household. However, sensitivity, nurturing and a capacity to exhibit grief are not the best characteristics for political leadership. We've just finished an outpouring of sensitivity, emotions and exhibition of grief on the first anniversary of a terrorist attack that's been compared to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, which ushered us into World War II.

But let's compare the one-year anniversaries of both attacks. Jennifer Harper writes in her article "No Time for the Mawkish" in the Sept. 11 Washington Times. She says, "Nobody was for 'healing' on Dec. 7, 1942 and 'closure' was the last thing anybody wanted," adding, "no flowers, no teddy bears and no exploration of the national angst."

No presidential admonitions to think of Shinto as a religion of peace, no appeals to understand the frustrations that drove the misunderstood Nazis to rape Poland and bomb London." First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt told Americans why she opposed any commemoration of Pearl Harbor: "It is not a date for a holiday; it is a date that should make us work."

Back then, Americans of my generation hadn't become sissified and controlled by emotion. We wanted blood and vengeance that ultimately saw the complete, merciless, devastating destruction of the evil Axis powers. Harper writes, "The Americans of that era, now fading swiftly into the unremembered past, had no time for such navel-gazing."

The Dec. 8, 1942, New York Times wrote: "We have no instinct for glory. What we do surely have, collectively, is a determination to put all we possess into this necessary and unpleasant task. Our emotions are deep and not noisily expressed, (but) we know that we are destined to play a decisive part not on this continent alone but throughout the world. That knowledge steadies us, and brings us together." I have just as much sorrow for the victims and their families of last year's Sept. 11 attack as any other American.

Rather than last week's commemorative celebrations, emotional outpouring, not to mention political showboating, not doing anything publicly would have spoken volumes. But if we just had to do something to mark the occasion, we would have honored ourselves and the victims more by a full-scale air and sea attack on Iraq.

The real solution to business misconduct

by Sheldon Richman

The way people talk about the need for new regulation of business, you'd think it was 1930. Have we not already lived through the New Deal with its pervasive regulation of corporations? Have we not lived through the regulatory explosions of the 1970s, 1980s, and 1990s?

Are not the transgressions of a few businessmen already illegal? Something is wrong with this picture. Maybe government isn't the answer after all. This is distinctly the minority view. But many truths began that way. Maybe it's time to think outside the box, or connect the dots, or whatever the vogue saying is this week.

If a little poison is bad for you, then a lot is worse. Maybe government regulation is a poison. In broadest terms, it certainly lulls everyone into a state of unwariness about crooked businessmen. Why be wary? Government watchdogs are on the case. Right.

Wanna buy a bridge? The truth is that the government pulled the teeth out of the best corporate watchdog there is: the hostile takeover. Beginning with Adam Smith, economists have been concerned that the corporation suffers from what is called the principal-agent problem. Stockholders own a firm, but they don't manage it.

Instead they hire managers. But the owners don't have a strong incentive to monitor the managers closely. So the managers are able to get away with things that the owners wouldn't tolerate if they knew what was going on. Even if the typical stockholder gets wind of problems, he might find it more to his interest to dump the stock than to try to change things.

This indeed is a problem. But as usual, the marketplace generated its own solution: the corporate takeover. If managers are misusing a corporation's assets, there will be profit opportunities for the alert investor who figures it out, buys up a controlling share of stock, and replaces the managers with better ones. This is a hostile takeover.

But notice that the only people who would be hostile are the inefficient or corrupt managers. The stockholders who freely sell their shares at attractive prices surely have no hostility. The takeover is a key tool in what Henry Manne, the great economist and former dean of the George Mason University Law School, long ago dubbed the market for corporate control. As Manne wrote recently in the Wall Street Journal, "New scandals will continue until we bring back the most powerful market mechanism for displacing bad managers: hostile takeovers."

So why hasn't this check on bad managers worked? Because the federal and state governments have done all they could to prevent corporate takeovers. In 1968 the federal government enacted a law forcing anyone who acquires a specified amount of a corporation's shares (today it's 5 percent) to disclose his intentions to the Securities and Exchange Commission. Obviously, if someone announces that he intends a takeover, the stock price will rise, wiping out the profit in the takeover.

That was the point. Why did the government pass such a law? Because managers who feared losing their jobs lobbied Congress and the president. It was special-interest, protectionist legislation all the way. It hurt the public, as we can see today. In the 1980s the states and state courts enacted even harsher anti-takeover measures. The result?

"The number of hostile tender offers dropped precipitously and with it the most effective device for policing top managers of large, publicly held companies," Manne writes. Have you heard anyone in public office call for repeal of all laws inhibiting takeovers? Of course not. The politicians' reflex is to call for more government (surprise, surprise), even though that is what got us into this mess in the first place.

And don't fool yourself. Republicans are no different from Democrats. Look at what President Bush said in his high-profile speech on Wall Street. "From the antitrust laws of the 19th century to the S&L reforms of recent times, America has tackled financial problems when they appeared. The actions I'm proposing follow in this tradition."

But those problems were created by government intervention in the first place. The real solution back then was to repeal the interventions, not to pile more on the old ones. That's the solution today too.

FFF thoughts for the week

"The central idea of the law in the nineteenth century was the importance and, derivatively, the inviolability of the free individual will. But the law has come increasingly to involve itself not only in protecting human life but in assuring to the individual a productive and satisfying life." — Donald M. Dozer

"In a world in which we are exposed to more information, more options, more philosophies, more perspectives than ever before in our history, in which we must choose the values by which we will live our life (rather than unquestioningly follow some tradition for no better reason than that our parents did), we need to be willing to stand on our own judgment and trust our own intelligence — to look at the world through our own eyes — to chart our life-course and think through how to achieve the future we want — to commit ourselves to continuous questioning and learning — to be, in a word, self-responsible." — Nathaniel Branden

Card of Thanks

The Post Elementary Faculty and Staff would like to thank the following businesses for donating door prizes for our Open House. We greatly appreciate your contribution, and thank you for supporting Post ISD. Holly's Drive-In, Jerry's BBQ, Rick & Carolyn's Burgers & Fries, Hudman Furniture, and Pam Gorman-Mary Kay consultant.

We offer our most sincere and deepest appreciation to the Garza County Sheriff's Department and Post EMTs for their prompt, professional and personal care during the crisis at our home last Friday morning (9/13/02). A very dear friend visiting us from Brownsville, Texas suffered a heart attack and was rushed to UMC emergency room, where he underwent open heart surgery. He arrived at the hospital smiling and thanking our EMTs. Unfortunately for us, his heart could not sustain life and John Spencer Toland quietly passed this life in the UMC Surgical I.C.U. Friday at approximately 6 p.m.

9th graders whip Friona

The freshmen Antelopes won their first game of the year at home, defeating a tough Friona Chieftan team 32-14.

The 'Lopes dominated the Chieftans on defense and had their strongest offensive outing of 2002, the coach said. Sterling Smith, Eric Reyna, Chris Reed and Jace Pollard had good games offensively.

The defense was led by J. McGregor, Josh Lee and Israel Beggs.

The team's next game will be at Merkel Sept. 19 beginning at 5 p.m.

J.V. shut out

The Post Junior Varsity Antelopes lost 18-0 last week to the visiting Friona Chieftans.

The ballgame was a physical, hard-hitting contest, the coach said. Andrew Espinoza and Trent McDonald had strong offensive games. The defense was led by Brant Guthrie and Theo Paiz.

The 'Lopes' loss puts their season record at 1-2.

The team's next ballgame is away against Merkel Sept. 19.

'Lopes come from behind to win 21-10 at Friona

by Wes Burnett

Proving the game isn't over until it's over, the Post Antelopes overcame a 10-0 halftime deficit at Friona last Friday night, ripping off 21 unanswered points in the second half to win their third straight game this year.

"Stopping them late in the second quarter and forcing a field goal made a big difference," Antelope head coach Richard Gorman said.

"Our boys never faltered, and had confidence that they could win the game."

The Chieftains surprised the 'Lopes in the first half with a wishbone offense that clicked, and a strong defense against the 'Lope running game. The 'Lopes threatened deep into Chieftain territory, but couldn't convert a fourth down inside the 20 yard line.

The second half was an entirely different story. "Our defense held them to only three first downs in the second half," Gorman added.

The 'Lope offense rallied, scoring late in the third quarter with a sustained drive that featured hard running by fullback Mitchell Mills, tailback Jett Lott, Kris Hernandez and quarterback Brody Robertson, along with key passes to Jarrett Vickers. Hernandez got the touchdown on a four yard run to the end zone, behind outstanding blocking on the left side.

Trailing 7-10, the 'Lope defense forced the Chieftains to punt and the offense went to work again, taking the lead at 14-10 when Lott scampered the final six yards to paydirt. Bryan Looney's extra points put the finishing touches to the touchdowns.

Late in the fourth quarter, after the 'Lope defense held Friona on a desperate fourth down effort, the offense pounded away at the Chieftains. Robertson faked a handoff to Mills, then burst out of the pack at the 33 and raced untouched to the end zone to cap the scoring.

An evenly balanced attack by the 'Lopes included Lott with 11 rushes for 45 yards, Hernandez with eight carries and 43 yards, Mill at 12 rushes with 41 yards and Robertson with 11 runs and 94 yards.

Robertson completed six of 12 passes for 96 yards, four to Vickers for 62 yards, one to Lott for 25 yards and one to Mills for nine yards.

The win sets up an important test this Friday when they host the AAA Merkel Badgers at homecoming.

"Merkel is by far the best team we've faced this year," Gorman observed. "They are big, fast and experienced." The Badgers are expected to put seven to nine men on the line of scrimmage and challenge opponents to throw the football. "They've got real quickness and speed in their backfield," Gorman added, "and we're going to have change our game plan to move the ball against them."

Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Antelope Stadium.

Those unable to attend the game will be able to follow all the live play-by-play action on KPOS Radio (97.7 FM in Post or www.postcityradio.net on the internet). Post City Television will air a video tape of the game with live play-by-play announcing by Steve Mason, on Classic Cable Channel 12 at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday by Post City Television.

There's some new faces at Arroyo Country Motors, Inc. and they bring a long list of experiences and special training to the service department. They are Robert Benavidez, Johnny Riojas, Wayne Barber, Charles "Huggy" Johnson, Tommy Gonzalez and Leroy Demming.

One of the highlights of the OS Steer Roping and Art Exhibit again this year will be the appearance of Johnny Gimble, accompanied by C.W. Slick. Johnny has been quite busy since his appearance last year, and has just completed a movie with Clint Eastwood, entitled "Honky Tonk Man".

Jody Palmer was this week's lucky jackpot winner at La Posta this past Saturday.

Highway traffic fines

official interpreters of the law were in agreement on how the law interpreted itself. In 1953, the Appeals Court gave the opinion that "an information charging the driving of a motor vehicle upon a public highway without a driver's license charges no offense, as there is no such license as a driver's license known to the law." [Brooks v. State 158 Tex. Crim. 546; May 27, 1953].

A 1951 case appealed the charge of driving a motor vehicle while license was suspended. Judge Woodley gave the following opinion:

"The prosecution appears to have been brought under the provisions of Art. 6687b, Vernon's Ann. Civil Statutes, commonly referred to as the Texas Drivers License Law, Sec. 27 thereof in part providing that no person whose operator's, commercial operator's or chauffeur's license or privilege to operate a motor vehicle in this state has been suspended shall operate a motor vehicle during such suspension.

"The information against appellant fails to allege that appellant had been issued either an operator's commercial operator's, or chauffeur's license, or that he drove a motor vehicle while such a license was suspended." [Holloway v. State 155 Tex. Crim. 484; March 7, 1951].

This case indicated that the driver's license was not known to the law and furthermore that the operator's, commercial operator's or chauffeur's license was known to the law. Here Judge Woodley keenly distinguished between what the law did not say, and what it did say.

Mr. Holloway was charged with driving a motor vehicle while "driver's license" was suspended. According to the appeals court, no crime was committed because 1) there was no such license as the "driver's license" known to the law, and 2) the prosecution did not show that he was issued an operator's license.

Later, Judge Mary Lou Robinson presided over a criminal appeals case in which Judge Woodley insisted, "This court has held that there is no such license known to Texas law as a 'driver's license.'" [Callas v. State 167 Tex. Crim. 375 1959].

Today the Transportation Code still requires a license to operate a motor vehicle on the highways of Texas. In Subchapter B. General License Requirements, Section 521.021 it reads, "A person, other than a person expressly exempted under this chapter, may not operate a motor vehicle on a highway in this state unless the person holds a driver's license issued under this chapter."

Please note how the statement "may not operate" is conditional upon holding a license. Through word crafting, the insertion of the term "driver's license" creates the illusion that a license is required to drive. Section 521 also includes various examples such as operators of "Certain School Buses," "Junior College Buses," and "Restrictions on Certain Common Carriers."

Notice there is nothing included which remotely includes the traveling public. Yet the Transportation Code does use the term "traveling public." Maybe the "traveling public" is not known by the law to be operators of motor vehicles.

"To this day, the Code does not require any person to hold a license to 'drive.' No person traveling on the public highways is required to have an operator's license unless he is using the roads for the privileged purpose of 'transportation.' The letter of the law agrees.

In law enforcement, the enforcing agent must have a clear understanding of the scope of the law. Without a clear and precise understanding of the law's scope, the agent faces the risk of time consuming lawsuits and life threatening confrontations with law-abiding people.

Inherent in a sworn oath of office is the authority of law enforcement officers to refuse the filing an affidavit of information on any person found driving without a "driver's license."

Why? Because this type of license is unknown to the law.

Freedom of travel has a whole different meaning when it comes to the pocket book. It's a wonder travelers bother to use the highways here, considering the high cost of travel in Garza County.

Most, if not all of these victims of highway theft, have no idea that they are part of a gigantic legislative scheme, which considers all who travel to be doing so within certain boundaries of an incorporated area, therefore the "subjects" are required to follow the corporation's rules.

The traffic code is one example of the corporate form of government imposed on Texans, in violation of the guarantee of a republic form of government.

"The Transportation Code" is not even a law, it does not have the constitutionally required Secretary of State certification of publication as part of the statute. Perhaps that omission is based on the fact that there is no constitutional authority for corporate government to enforce corporate rules in violation of basic constitutional guarantees, such as liberty, the right of travel from one place to another.

Although most Texans think of themselves as free to move about as they wish, they discover their true status as corporate "citizens" once they become victimized by the corporation's policy enforcers.

A Showcase of the Texas Spirit by Tumbleweed Smith

Three Tagoo Birds Sighted in Eldorado

It was totally tongue in cheek, fired by the imagination of one Jim Runge, an ex-Eldorado high school track star who came back home to see what mischief he could create.

I first met Jim Runge in Dallas in 1998. Someone told me about this guy who portrayed different Texas heroes and had a dozen disguises (Elvis, Sam Houston, Batman and others) and who took people on tours of Texas.

I've yet to find out how Jim makes a living, but I know one thing for sure: he has fun. I've admired some of the events he has staged during the past four years. I went to Fredericksburg where he had a llama kissing contest as part of the "Barn to Yarn" activities. Vendors sold things made of yarn spun from animals that roamed about the place (camels, sheep, goats, etc.).

Then I showed up in Art, Texas, one April first where Jim staged an April Foolishness festival. He had everything from a trivial pursuit contest to snipe hunts.

Jim has the same clever wit as Hondo Crouch of Luckenbach fame. In fact, Jim has an outrageous structure near Luckenbach (his getaway weekend home) made of logs, canvas, tin and anything else he can find.

It even has a lookout tower. Jim's headquarters is an old service station at the only traffic light in Eldorado. He has signs out proclaiming the location to be the EOBOC, the Eldorado Olympic Bid Organizing Committee. "We're gonna try to get both the winter and summer Olympics," says Jim. "Some of the water events will be farmed out to Big Lake. Skiing, bobsled and luge events will be held on Safety First Mountain in Iraan. Right now we're trying to raise some bribe money."

In February during the Ididerod in Alaska, Jim plans to stage a Goatarod in Eldorado featuring goats pulling carts. During Pamplona's Running of the Bulls, Jim plans a Running of the Bull in Eldorado...a liars contest.

But today was about the Tagoo Bird and Claudie Spencer, a retired city employee who supposedly saw a strange bird in 1958 called the Tagoo bird (that's what it's called because that's its name, says Claudie). Nobody else has seen it. That is, until the dedication of the Tagoo Refuge and Sanctuary during the Tagoo Festival.

Jim, acting as master of ceremonies, called out a two-page list of 72 different types of Tagoo birds. Among them were the Double Breasted Tagoo, the Double Crested Tagoo, the Double Infested Tagoo, the Double Nested Tagoo and the Double Rested Tagoo.

Claudie called the Tagoo bird. In fact, about 40 people called right along with Claudie. And wouldn't you know it. Suddenly three giant birds appeared. These are the two-legged human species who were wearing costumes made to look like birds. They were colorful. Fluttering in from the mesquite were the Texas Rainbow Coocootagoo, the Yellow Breasted Red Crown Tagoo and the Looney Tagoooney Tagoo. Most everyone there was amazed and amused.

Claudie says Tagoo birds have a wide habitat. "Sometimes they go north, other times they go south."

According to ancient Greek mythology, whoever wore Aphrodite's girdle immediately became the object of love.
