consider choosing design builder

During their regular meeting last week, board members for the Garza County Health Care District (GCHCD) continued hearing proposals for building a new hospital here. At the conclusion of a briefing by Bryon Corp. representatives, board president Mike Travis announced that the board would meet in secret session January 2 to make a decision about which of three design building contractors would be selected for the proposed project.

Post city officials met last week to open bids relating to the municipal water project. In a memo to the mayor and council members, City Manager Fred Stephens indicates the bid opening resulted in the following:

For supply line -$1,892,106.50 • For tanks -$1,190,620

Total for the two bids listed above is $3,082,726.50. That figure added to a previous bid of $867,000 for pipeline materials plus approximately $400,000 worth of professional fees to date boosts the project total to $4,349,726.50, according to Stephens' memo.

"There will be additional unanticipated expenses," the Dec. 19 memo states. "There will be more surveying and inspection fees for sure, but as of today our expenses are about $4.4 million."

The Post Independent School District board of trustees will meet twice in January.

The first meeting, set for 7 p.m. on Jan. 8, will involve a closeddoor discussion on superintendent applications. Any action deemed necessary in the closed-door meeting will be taken in open session.

The board will meet in regular session the following evening at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 9. Trustees will discuss the proposed covered walkway at the elementary school and will observe a closed session in which personnel - substitutes and the superintendent will be discussed.

Both sessions will be conducted in the administration office.

• Annual family fee - $100 Annual boat sticker — $10 • Annual senior fee — $20 Although Dalby said he was not familiar with the specifics regarding the proposed fee changes, he did say he believes Garza County residents also should be afforded some sort of cost break.

"I certainly intend to bring it up," he said.

Lake Alan Henry, constructed almost a decade ago as a future water source for the City of Lubbock, lies primarily in Garza County.

The Myth of GOP Conservatism The Ugly Truth About the #### Republican Party

"An elective despotism was not the government we fought for." -Thomas Jefferson

"Degrees do not matter... one does not bargain about inches of evil." -Ayn Rand, Atlas Shrugged

As a paleoconservative, I find myself these days looking back at the Clinton Administration with a sort of warm, golden nostalgia. Much has changed since those days...and not for the better. To anyone with even a basic understanding and respect for the Bill of Rights, the United States, since September 11, 2001, has begun a nightmarish descent. To put it simply, the Bush White House has put the Constitution on the chopping block in ways the Clintons would have never dared to attempt.

The US public-naive and obedient as always-blithely sucked up the maudlin flag-waving and crocodile tears that accompanied the passage of the Patriot Act and the Office of Homeland Security. Authorities can now invade homes without warrants, arrest people without charges, and jail people without trials.

The Feds have declared <I style="msobidi-font-style: normal">Posse Comitatus obsolete, and they are creating hordes of military police to be unleashed upon the country. A new branch of the military is now on the drawing board, to deal with "domestic threats"-i.e., common American citizens.

Despite the fact that we are not at war, the government continues to hold hundreds of military prisoners in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and apparently will deal with them using military tribunals. People in the Press continue their ongoing demonstration that there's no lie the Federal government can tell that they are willing to expose, and no usurpation of power that they will ever find objectionable. Even the United States' 'shadow government' has been openly discussed-and no one dares to criticize the concept. Orwellian newspeak abounds.

The government continues to turn the word Treason on its head with its unconstitutional treatment of the public and its illicit treatment of 'enemy combatants' like Yaser Esam Hamdi and Jose Padilla. In the latter case, the 'terrorist' is an American citizen being held without any charges, denied all legal representation, denied the right to defend himself, and the right to face his accusers.

No one in the Imperial Media cares. Machiavellian plotting to establish armies of secret police and citizen informants goes on unabated, despite the fact that these measures did not pass Congress. The small public outcry generated by the TIPS plan is swept aside...a citizen informant system will be implemented anyway. Why?

Because the Attorney General says

Apparently, Mr. Ashcroft learned a very valuable lesson from his predecessor, Janet Reno: The Attorney General is-absolutely and without question-above the Law, and is capable of creating policy by fiat, just like the President does. We now have a modern triumvirate of entities that create policy, and answer to no one: the Supreme Court, the President, and the Attorney General of the United States. All Americans are subservient to their whims.

The abuse of liberties in the name of safety goes on. The government continues to push for National ID cards and a computer chip implant tracking program for children-it would appear that human privacy is just as irrelevant now as human liberty. Only human 'safety' is important, even if it's the safety of the gulag.

The New York Times published an article suggesting that the Feds have built concentration camps within the United States...there was no real denial from the Executive Branch. Media talking heads have actually asked citizens if they think torture of 'terrorist suspects' is a good idea-as if to suggest that favorable public opinion would legitimize such tactics. In the War On Terror, no potential abuse of civil liberties goes unconsidered.

One gets the queasy feeling that once official Washington has finished off what is left of the Constitution, they will revive the Inquisition and go after the Magna Carta next.

It is time for a realistic assessment: We are living in a Police State right now. Not six months from now. Not ten years down the road. Not if someone we do not like gets elected President. Not if all our guns are taken away. Right now.

been essentially stripped away. The Independent Counsel Act is dead, thereby making it much harder to investigate the Executive Branch. The FBI is rewriting its own rulebook to make Federal whistleblowing a dangerous and difficult thing to do. The Freedom of Information Act has essentially been nullified-to protect our "national security". The Fourth Amendment is effectively dead until the USA-Patriot Act is repealed, or until it is declared unconstitutional by a high court.

The Patriot Act's deadly provisions do not sunset, despite government misinformation to the contrary. Most of the other nine amendments of the Bill of Rights have been ignored for years. They will certainly be ignored now that the Federal government has voted itself unlimited power and control over our domestic liberties in the name of security.

Meanwhile, we are inches away from full-blown Martial Law, and in constant danger that it will be put into effect at the slightest new terrorist provocation. Unfortunately, these changes are pretty much unknown to the typical indolent, unfocused US citizen. While the average American was lazing around, stuffing his face with potato chips, and watching "Big Brother"on TV, the Federal Government became Big Brother in real life. Sadly, it requires effort-like reading and thinking-to see that our liberties are being threatened from within; this is apparently beyond the scope of most modern Americans.

has been little outcry is because there has been very little information disseminated by the official state propaganda corps we once euphemistically called "the Free Press". The biggest problem, however, is not the fat, lazy American or the many goose-stepping little Goebbels of our news media-the big problem is that these changes have been wrought by a Republican President who was elected by millions of gullible conservatives. There is no "lesser of two evils" or philosophical core to the Republican Party, and the inarticulate Mr. Bush is and seem only interested in discussing the joyful topic of going to war in the Mideast again, and killing more fleeing Iraqi soldiers.

There are no philosophical principles behind the policies of the Bush Republicans; they simply want to seize as much Federal power as possible, and make war. The 21st Century conservative movement is not just an intellectual wasteland..it has become a primary threat to our freedoms as well. However, the real reason the Republican Party is a threat to liberty is not because conservatism itself is an errant philosophy. The reason is because the Republican Party never stood for conservative values in the first place, and is lying to the public whenever it attempts to co-opt the values of conservatism.

Ronald Reagan and Barry Goldwater were never the standard bearers, or the rule. They were the exceptions to the rule, at least when they were at their best, and were not being manipulated by empire builders themselves. The real Republican Party is and always has been an arrogant political body, dominated by snobs and big business people who are more interested in Robber Baronism than honest capitalism

They have always been ready and willing to use Big Government to enforce their schemes, to hand out corporate welfare to them, and to protect their investments-particularly in the case of petroleum. The Republican establishment backs the Federal Of course, another reason why there Reserve, the IRS, and other unconstitutional agencies while giving shifty-eyed lip service to the concept of small government and lower taxes.

> Such people have no populism in their soul, and no concern for the constitutional rights of the little people-and they couldn't possibly care less about the size, scope, and intrusiveness of the government. Snotty corporate monopolist wannabes and closet socialists are the true heart and soul of the GOP ... not the poor, misled middle-class voters who believe "that government is best which governs least" radio are now silent about civil liberties, masses have proven beyond any shadow of a doubt that they are every bit as much a bunch of partisan lemmings as the Clintonistas were.

> And they have also disproven-with their popular President, who is treated with kid gloves-their own long-held contention that the elitist news media is liberal. On the contrary. The elitist news media is a whore, dancing to the tune of those with power and influence-and if it is firmly anything at all, it is firmly Anti-Liberty and Pro-Big-Government. How fortunate for the Bushies that their beloved "President 911" stands for exactly the same things. The word 'conservative' implies preservations of values and important traditions. In America, our most important traditions would be embodied in the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence. By this standard, the most conservative Americans around today are libertarians, not Republicans. However, very few libertarians today would willingly claim the word 'conservative'..and I can hardly blame them.

What is called 'conservative' today is warmongering 20th Century statism drummed to a flag-waving beat. The common diatribe used by liberals-that Republicans are still living in the 1950s'-is incorrect; they are actually living in the 1940s, instead. It is very telling, for example, that Rush Limbaugh is a huge fan of the Spielberg film "Saving Private Ryan", and had nothing but praise for Tom Brokaw's book "The Greatest Generation". How apropos that Limbaugh calls himself the "Doctor of Democracy"

If Republicans pine for the histrionic days of World War II, they are nationalists-not conservatives. They are longing for the nostalgic trapping of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's world, not a conservative culture. FDR was both a Communist and a liar, but, additionally, he was also a very effective warmonger and militarist.

War, apparently, is very important to the Republicans-they do not worry much about little things like rights or liberties; they want to be fantasy heroes with a gun, like Rambo or Dirty Harry. The star-spangled clock that selfproclaimed conservatives like Rush and Hannity and O'Reilly and Kristol wrap themselves in is a fabric of biggovernment nationalism and military expansionism. If boot-stomping nationalism is all conservatism really stands for, the warmed-over '60s peacenik academics who have called

Then what about Bill Clinton's acknowledged political mentors -formerArkansas Sen. J. William Fulbright and formerArkansas Gov. Orville Faubus — who were both rabid segregationists? Yet the former president highly praises Fulbright and bestowed upon him the Presidential Medal of Freedom Award.

Just a couple of years ago, Byrd lectured us on the floor of the statement titled, "The Southern Manifesto," condemning the Senate that "there are white niggers. I've seen a lot of white 1954 Supreme Court decision of Brown vs. Board of Education and

The poor child looked frightened and insecure. Was it the TV camera or just being in the same room with her nutty parents? I went on television the next day and said I thought Whitney make a statement by shunning the diva. Houston's lifestyle and conduct could be seen as child abuse. I interviewed a few child-care experts, and they all agreed that a parent abusing drugs and alcohol in front of a child is committing abuse. They all agreed that becoming intoxicated in a place where little kids are living is damaging to children almost every time. And they all agreed on one more thing: That no action should be modern America, that many kids don't have a chance. Groove on taken against Whitney Houston. The experts hemmed and hawed, but the consensus was that Ms. Houston and her husband probably loved the little girl, and that was enough to override any emotional damage the child might sustain living in a home with two parents who embrace intoxication. 1991—Soviet Union falls and Cold War ends. NATO faces abolition and U.S. military-industrial complex faces massive reduction in budget and

1991 — Saddam contends that neighbor Kuwait is stealing Iraqi oil through slant drilling and is also violating contractual agreements in OPEC. Saddam signals partner U.S. government of intention to invade Kuwait to resolve dispute. U.S. government, through U.S. Ambassador April Glaspie, expresses no objections, stating, "We have no opinion on your Arab-Arab conflicts, such as your dispute with Kuwait ... . Kuwait is not associated with America." See: Whatever Happened to U.S. Ambassador April Glaspie? by Carleton Cole

1991 — Saddam invades Kuwait to resolve slant-drilling and OPEC dispute. President George H.W. Bush turns on partner Saddam and declares him to be a new "Hitler," effectively dissolving the long partnership between U.S. government and Saddam. Bush declares intention to attack Iraq with UN assistance to repel Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

1991 — Persian Gulf War. UN forces, led by U.S. government, defeat Iraq and oust Iraq from Kuwait. UN and President George H.W. Bush leave Saddam in power but require him to dismantle his nuclear facilities and chemical and biological weapons.

1991-U.S. government attempts to oust Saddam from power through UN-enforced military-economic blockade, also known as "sanctions," against the Iraqi people, which continues to the present. According to UN officials, sanctions contribute to the deaths of multitudes of Iraqi children. with estimates ranging from hundreds of thousands to a million. 1998-2000 — High UN officials resign posts in protest against deaths of Iraqi children from sanctions. See: Squeezed to Death by John Pilger 2001 — September 11 terrorist attacks on World Trade Center and Pentagon. U.S. government declares perpetual "war on terrorism" and begins indefinite campaign to restrict rights and freedoms of the American people. NATO is reinvigorated, military spending soars, and militaryindustrial complex expands, all for the indefinite future.

2002 — President George W. Bush repeats President George H.W. Bush's 1991 declaration that former U.S. government partner Saddam is a "Hitler" and that therefore he must be ousted from power, 12 years after the Persian Gulf War. Bush claims that former partner Saddam hates America for its "freedom and values." Bush cites former partner Saddam's acquisition of nuclear components and biological and chemical weapons (including those obtained from the United States) as proof that Saddam presents a dire threat to the United States.

It is hard to argue with that thinking. The Department of Health

Card of Thanks

We, at Meals on Wheels, would like to express our heartfelt gratitude for the generous donation we received from the Lord's Acre event supported by our loving community.

This type of support enables us to help the elderly of our community have healthier, happier lives.

May God bless each of you as you share the love of our savior with others.

THANK YOU!!!

We would like to thank all of our friends in this great town of Post for loving and caring for us during the loss of our father and grandfather, Elwood Gradine. Your visits, cards, calls, food, thoughts and prayers helped us get through this time. A special thanks to Dee & Janet Justice, De. James Bell, & Lloyd Stice. Thanks also to all the ladies of the Methodist Church for feeding us, and for Joann Miller, Zoe Kirkpatrick, Pat Bilbo, Shirley Stice, Linda Couch & Jane Odom for serving. Elwood never lived in Post, but he considered this home the last sixty years. God bless all of from the United States. Abraham Lincoln was the ultimate booster of Federal power and the ultimate propagator of War. He was the summation and the embodiment of the essence of Republicanism. There is nothing new about this; it is how things have always been. Republicans in authority have almost always kowtowed to corrupt business interests and marched the US to war for greedy causes, just like Lincoln did.

Any list of historically prominent GOP leaders is predominantly a list of globalists and elitists who have believed in a strong, centralized government. There is no grand and glorious history of GOP conservatism ... GOP conservatism is a sham. They are not capitalists or constitutionalists; they are statists.

And that is the ugly, untold truth of the Republican Party. Kevin Tuma (NAPS)-Help often comes when you need it most and expect it least.

There are ways single parents can find friendship and support.

When my wife told me she wanted to end our marriage, the news hit me very much by surprise. I became sick both emotionally and physically. I couldn't deal with the notion that after nine years of marriage, five of which included kids, I would have to leave my family.

A few months after the separation, a friend suggested I contact a group called Parents Without Partners, Inc. (PWP). Reluctantly, I took his advice.

It turns out joining PWP was the best decision I ever made. The members I met made me feel comfortable and right at home. Many of those people were in the same situation as me and could relate to my feelings.

Also, I could hardly believe how many events were planned. Not only were dances, parent educational and social functions scheduled, but there were also many activities geared toward the children of PWP members.

I recommend PWP to any parent who has become single through separation, divorce, death of a spouse or simply never married. For more information, visit the Web site www.parentswithout partners.org.

• Mr. Weiss was president of the Greater Northeast Chapter of PWP. He is now married and no longer a single parent.

(NAPS)-The Centers for Disease Control estimates that tens of thousands of Americans are killed each year by drug-resistant bacteria picked up in hospitals and other medical facilities. Thousands more die from infections picked up at home, at work, on vacation, etc. In The Killers Within: The Deadly Rise of Drug-Resistant Bacteria (Little, Brown, $24.95), leading journalist Michael Shnayerson and worldrenowned ethnobotanist Dr. Mark J. ### Top Tips To "Deck Your Desktop"

by Katie Brown (NAPS)—My PC is the best tool I've found to make life work dur- those I've mentioned here, also I want a train. I am a good boy. ing the holidays. And just like a make great holiday gifts for active kitchen, a useful PC must have all the right ingredients and supplies to keep things moving smoothly. I've developed a few tips on how to "Deck Your Desktop" for the busy season T ahead. These tips will help you see Katie Brown your PC in a whole new light. Happy entertaining. Make Your List and Check it Twice. Before I even sit down at my computer, I do my prep work-just like I do in my kitchen. I figure out my holiday tasks and decide what software and other tools I'll need to get them done. This way, I know my PC will be as ready for the holidays as I am. • Fill Your Holiday Toolbox. Once I've decided how I'm going to use my computer during the holidays, I find the right software to help me. The best approach I've found is to rely on several different programs to build holiday lists, research holiday traditions and turn holiday snapshots into keepsakes. Strike a Holiday Pose. I'm a stickler about getting my holiday cards out early, so that's always the first thing on my todo list. But, to me, sending a store-bought card is a little like serving stuffing out of the boxit's never as good as homemade. The easiest way I've found to edit my photos and make my own cards is with my favorite pictures and Microsoft Picture It! Digital Image Pro. Say goodbye to red eye. • Find a Few Favorite Things. Before I plan a menu, I like to check with my guests about their likes and dislikes. That way, I can almost always guarantee my dinners will be a success. I do the same thing when making my holiday gift lists by encouraging my family to create online holiday wish lists. Popular Web sites such as Amazon.com are a great place to start. Discover Traditions. Some people can't imagine celebrating the holidays without cranberries. I can't imagine the holidays without celebrating some of our nation's wonderful cultural traditions. I like to incorporate traditions I find in Microsoft Encarta Reference Library into my party themes, menus and even my cocktail chatter. Create Festive Folders. To keep my sanity during the holidays, one of the first things I do is create folders on my desktop for each of my holiday tasks. This way, everything I need is right at my fingertips. · Get the All-Purpose Holiday Tool. In my kitchen, my stand-mixer is the all-purpose tool that does almost anything. With everything I have to juggle between Thanksgiving and New Year's Eve, I need a software program that lets me do it all, from tracking my to-dos to organizing recipes to building my guest list to managing my budget-the list is endless. Microsoft Works Suite helps me do all of that plus give my holiday party guests door-todoor directions.

Software programs, such as

Extension programs serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

The holiday season is here, and it is easy to get rapped up in social holiday events, buys gifts, Christmas plays, church parties, and decorating for the season. Just remember to stop and enjoy the things that matter. Take time out to sing Christmas carols and bake cookies with your kids/ grandkids, to spend time with those who mean the most to you, and remember to be thankful for the blessings that are so often overlooked.

Here is wishing you and your family a Merry Christmas and joyous Holiday!

The Night Before Christmas-Texas Style: author unknown "T'was the night before Christmas, in Texas, you know. Way out on the prairie, without any snow. Asleep in their cabin, were Buddy and Sue, A dreamin' of Christmas, like me and you. Not stockings, but boots, at the foot of their bed, For this was Texas, what more need be said, When all of a sudden, from out of the still night, There came such a ruckus, it gave me a fright. And I saw 'cross the prairie, like a shot from a gun, A loaded up buckboard, come on at a run, The driver was "Geein" and "Hawin", with a will, The horses (not reindeer) he drove with such skill. "Come on there Buck, Poncho, & Prince, to the right, There'll be plenty of travelin' for you all tonight." The driver in Levi's and a shirt that was red, Had a ten-gallon Stetson on top of his head. As he stepped from the buckboard, he was really a sight, With his beard and moustache, so curly and white. As he burst in the cabin, the children awoke, And were so astonished, that neither one spoke. And he filled up their boots with such presents galore, That neither could think of a single thing more. When Buddy recovered the use of his jaws, He asked in a whisper, "Are you really Santa Claus?" "Am I the real Santa? Well, what do you think?" And he smiled as he gave a mysterious wink. Then he leaped in his buckboard, and called back with a drawl, "To all the children in Texas, Merry Christmas, Y'All"

8th grade girls edge New Deal 33-28

Post Middle School's eighth grade girls pulled out a 33-28 win over New Deal last week.

New Deal led scoring in the first period 10-9, but the Lady 'Lopes rebounded to take a 16-12 lead into the half. The Post girls continued to carry the momentum throughout the game.

"This was a very hard-played game," the coach said. "The girls were behind at the end of the first quarter and really came back the rest of the game and played hard. "Kylie Easterling had a great game offensively. She had some really good moves under the basket and ran the floor well. Steffi Norman had a very good defensive game. She came up with 4-5 steals in the game."

Easterling had 10 points in the game to lead scoring for the Lady 'Lopes. Gabby Paiz and Rachel Gray each scored five points, Keisha Odom and Jackie Hays, four apiece, and Sarah Kirkpatrick had three points.

New Deal trounces 7th grade girls

The seventh grade girls from Post Middle School dropped a 31-9 game to New Deal Dec. 16.

New Deal grabbed an early lead, logging an 11-3 first period lead that stretched to 21-5 at the half.

"New Deal is a very tough team," the coach said. "They ran the floor well and got a lot of easy buckets from us not hustling down the floor. They played using a zone, and we needed more people to step up and shoot the ball and drive to the basket.

"After the break we have a tournament in Lubbock, so we will be working hard until then."

Samantha Hoover was Post's leading scorer with six points. Lori Jones added three.
