Black history exhibit at local historical museum By Rosa Latimer She met Abraham Lincoln at the

News Editor

Pat Cruse of the Garza County a special exhibit commemorating of the exhibit is three African early pioneers in United States history. Cruse's sequence for presenting the history of black Americans is logical. Without the ors Elizabeth "Bessie" Coleman early work of these individuals and others like them there would be no successive chapters in the history of African Americans in TX. Known as "Queen Bess,"

USPS 439-620

Cruse is also leading research efforts to put the Post chapter of black history together. She, with the help of others, is collecting pictures and information about Lincoln Elementary and principal/teacher, Zata Reece Pennie as well as students who attended the school on the east side of our community. While this information is not quite ready for publication, a quick review of the information reveals a very interesting chapter in the development of life in Garza County.

One of the three historically significant black women highlighted in the exhibit is Sojourner Truth who was born into slavery in New York. After being freed, in the late 1840s she connected with the abolitionist movement, becoming a popular speaker. Ten years later she began speaking on women's suffrage issues and delivered a famous speech, "Ain't I a Woman?," at a women's rights convention in Ohio. During the Civil War this energetic black woman raised food and clothing contributions for black regiments.

White House in 1864. Truth made her home in Battle Creek, Historical Museum, has created MI during the mid 1850s and returned there in later years, where Black History Month. The focus she died in 1883. If you stand facing the C. W. Post mausoleum American women who were in Battle Creek, Sojourner Truth's gleaming white tombstone can be seen just beyond. The museum exhibit also hon-(January 26, 1892 - April 30, 1926) who was born in Atlanta, TX and grew up in Waxahachie, she was the first African American to become an airplane pilot, and the first American of any race or gender to hold an international pilot license.

The third woman featured in the display is Harriet Tubman, a runaway slave from Maryland who became known as the "Moses of her people." Over the course of 10 years, and at great personal risk, she led hundreds of slaves to freedom along the Underground Railroad. This undercover organization was a secret network of safe houses where runaway slaves could stay on their journey north to freedom. Tubman later became a leader in the abolitionist movement, and during the Civil War was a spy for the federal forces in South Carolina as well as a nurse.

This museum tribute to Black History Month includes information on these women, photographs, a large framed print and a tapestry depicting African American culture. Cruse has also displayed figurines from her private collection depicting historical characters.

Pat Cruse of the Garza County Historical Museum is shown with a special exhibit commemorating Black History Month. The exhibit will remain at the museum for several months.

The Black History exhibit will be on display at the Garza County Historical Museum beyond the month of February. The museum, located at 119 No. Avenue N, is open Tues. - Sat., 10 am to Noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. For more information call 495-2207.

A Diamond Heavy Haul truck travels east in the west bound lane of Main Street. This hauler has been making this trip down the historic brick streets of Post several times each month.

Oversized truck travel sparks concern for safety

By Rosa Latimer News Editor

Since East Main Street in Post is also a portion of State Hwy. 380, many trucks travel this route daily. However, several times each month, we experience an extreme situation that some are calling dangerous.

Diamond Heavy Haul, based in Ohio, sends its heavy haulers down Main street several times each month. The difference with this truck and its cargo is that altogether it stretches the full length of a city block and, in order to make the turn east off of Hwy. 84, this enormous vehicle must turn into the west bound lane. The trailer-truck continues eastbound in the westbound lane, maneuvering between parked cars until it reaches the railroad tracks. At that point it can return to the eastbound lane as it hits the highway.

There are times when the Sheriff's department can dispatch an escort for this monster truck; however, more often, it continues its chosen path with an "Overload" escort pickup traveling in front and behind.

There is great concern by many Post citizens because of the damage caused to our brick streets by these trucks. In the case of Diamond Heavy Haul, who chooses to make Main Street a one-way, eastbound street, there is added concern for safety.

These concerns are shared by the City Council who has pursued for some time a truck bypass that would direct heavy load traffic traveling east on Hwy. 380 away from Main Street. The proposed bypass extends across Hwy 84 at George's Restaurant, with a left curve at the depot, joining back onto Hwy. 380 at the railroad tracks east of the downtown area. Ric Walton, City Manager, recently explained, "The engineering and design is complete for the bypass. Actually, the project fits the description 'shovel ready' that we've been hearing lately." This status puts the bypass project potentially in line for some of the federal stimulus funds that are earmarked for state "shovel ready" infrastructure projects. At this point, no one really knows how much of the stimulus money will be available by the state or how the money will be distributed. The City may have to pursue other funding options to complete the bypass.

On the other side of this issue are those who believe that any truck bypass will also be used by (Continued on Page 2) passenger vehicles. If this scenario develops to a great extent, businesses on East Main Street would surely suffer a loss of traffic and potential customers. These circumstances would result in a lifeless downtown area with beautiful, well-preserved brick streets.

Regardless of how long it takes to complete the bypass project, or whether it is ever finished, in the mean time surely there is an alternative route for these monster heavy haulers. An alternative route that would keep them traveling on the right side of the street.

This week in Post City

By Rosa Latimer

Last week was the week each month when I have several meetings to cover and some that I attend as a participant. I counted the number of individuals involved in these meetings and was surprised that the total was 96. That's just one week and doesn't begin to include all of the civic organizations, non-profits and government entities that help make decisions about Post and Garza County.

In addition to the number of people who attend these meetings, I was struck by the lack of involvement by other citizens. Most were public meetings that anyone can attend, make comments, or at least hear what is happening first hand. Yet hardly anyone was there to show support or contribute. I'm certain there are many in our community who have opinions or suggestions.

Anyone can ask to be on the agenda for a public meeting. At the end of the City Council meeting each month, there is time for citizens to speak to the council. You don't have to call ahead, just show up and you'll have 3 minutes to talk. No action can be taken on any issues brought up during this time, but it is your opportunity to communicate with this group.

Besides attending meetings, there are many other things we can do to effect change or show support for our elected officials. You could write a letter to the editor of this paper. You can write a letter to those who represent you on the city council, in the county commissioner's court, on the school board. Or, send an email, make a telephone call. It simply is not a good idea to make your opinion known to your family, your neighbors, your coffee buddies and not communicate with those who are making decisions about our future.

One reason to communicate with those that we've elected to represent us is so they will know how their decisions and actions are being perceived within the community. These guys (& gals) spend a lot of time and effort to study issues and problems and decide which course of action is best. The least we can do is give them our support, if we agree. If we disagree, it is important to let them know that, too - with respect and civility.

If you don't like the way things are going, consider running for office yourself or encourage someone to run who better represents your views. Volunteer to work with one of the many community organizations that need your help. In other words, get involved.

At the very least, when we hold the May elections for city, health care board and school board, vote! This is such a simple concept that it is a great mystery why so many ignore this right to make your opinion

The Post Area Chamber of Commerce will have a Voter's Forum before early voting begins for the May election. Last year's forum was very well attended. Be sure you attend this year - it's free and will give you a better idea of which candidates will best represent you. Be there to support the candidate of your choice and to support your

The alternative is to buy car deserves a new car anyway? deodorizer called "new car smell." But it just doesn't work. Even with your eyes closed, you know you're not driving a new car. The smell isn't even close.

Only twice in my life have I owned and driven absolutely new cars. In my mind's nose, the 1973 MG is a bit hard to remember. Maybe that's because I drove it so much with the top down that those lovely odors dissipated all too soon. A faint clean grease smell mixed with some nice whiffs of rubber come to mind - sort of like my grandmother's new 1953 Plymouth.

But the memory of my new 1994 Ford Aerostar is etched in my olfactory recall forever. What a car! What a smell!

By contrast, I also remember my old 1984 Nissan Pulsar. When I bought it, the odometer showed 93,000-plus miles. Whether those were town or highway miles, I don't know.

Russell Graves Outdoors

Your Guide to Choosing the Perfect Camera By Russell A. Graves

Nearly every day I get e-mails from folks wanting to know how to choose the right camera for taking photos of everything from their outdoor outings to pictures of the kids. I love helping people out because each question is a bit different and challenges me to come up with creative answers each time I respond. So this week's column serves as my open forum to help you think about a few things when it comes to photography.

What do you want to achieve?

This is an essential question on figuring out which camera is best for you. Are you an aspiring pro who dreams of seeing your images in the pages of magazines one day or are you happy just snapping shots of friend, family, and everyday life?

Let's say that you are an aspiring photographer who wants to get better but need a place to start. In that case, I'd suggest an entry level Digital Single Lens Reflex (DSLR) like a Canon Rebel. These cameras are simple enough so that even absolute beginners can start making great images and as your skills advance, > you can switch over to manually manipulating the camera settings for ultimate creative control.

If your interest is to just shoot snapshots, the new crop of digital point-and shoot cameras are amazing. I have a Canon G9 camera that shoots beautiful images. When I pair the G9 with an inexpensive underwater housing, it becomes a go-anywhere camera that's also capable of shooting video.

Two good starter lenses

If you take the DSLR route, you may be wondering which lens to buy. After all, camera manufacturers and third-party lens makers offer dozens of lenses that will fit your new camera and the choice can be intimidating. In the beginning is to start with a couple of lenses like a wide angle 28-70mm and a telephoto zoom that ranges from 70-300mm. This basic set up is very versatile and the modularity of the camera allows your system to grow as your skills increase.

One last note about lenses: Always buy the best you can afford. A good lens on a starter camera will always take shaper images that a top-of-the-line camera with cheap lenses. The must-have feature

The cool thing about modern cameras is that they have all kinds of features and, one could argue, that they all fall in the must-have category. However, one camera feature stand out as one I believe every camera should have: modularity Modularity speaks to the ability to add components to your system as your skills grow. With DSLR cameras, modularity (at least to some degree) is a given. However, with point-and-shoot cameras, modularity isn't always the rule. However, if you do you homework and research all of the possible accessories that go with a particular camera, I think you'll be surprised. Even my little point-and-shoot Canon G9 has a couple of different add-on lenses and even flash units. The internet is the ultimate consumer research tool and I encourage you to look at different camera models and read their on-line reviews from real people.

Now this is simply a primer to get you thinking about cameras and capturing your outdoor experiences. In the coming year I'll be exploring more topics as it pertains to outdoor photography. In the meantime if you have any questions, feel free to write.

There is a stimulus to the U.S. economy and it really doesn't cost anyone a dime, but it could make U.S. companies billions.

If every American bought American-made products only, what impact would that have on the economy? It has been done before.

Believe it or not, there are thousands of items made right here in the states. Check out stillmadeinusa.com or madeinusa.org and you will find a ton of companies making quality products, many of which can be found right here in town.

made a conscious effort to support American-companies making and selling American products, our economy would thrive. Such an effort would create more

If the residents of this country demand for U.S. products which would help create jobs, etc. At the same time, our trade deficit would shrink dramatically. It might force U.S. retailers into replacing foreign goods with domestic goods in their stores, but that's okay as well. Retailers know how supply and demand works.

It would also be nice if some of the stipulations from the government concerning the use of stimulus package funds included money for U.S. goods and services only. In other words - make sure the only people and companies benefitting from U.S. taxpayer money are from the U.S.

Consider this: Our deficit in goods and services trade was $677.1 billion in 2008 and $700.3 billion in 2007. Those figures are close to the new stimulus bill.

Don't wait for the government to stimulate the economy when there are things we can do right here at home to improve jobs and help companies make ends meet. We all win when we support the home team first!

Weather

We've had some nice weather just a little windy. The guys are starting to put down chemical getting ready for planting season which is just around the corner. We are still in need of some moisture so keep rain in your daily prayers.

All of us out here send our sympathies to the family of Mary Ethridge. Mary passed away early Monday morning. Anyone who ever drove up and down west 380 will miss seeing Mary out working in her yard. Our prayers are with her entire family.

I noticed they were digging holes beside the road on 399 Wednesday morning, hopefully we are fixing to get our new speed zone signs. That means all you lead footed people better slow down... I'll let ya know next week if they are up or not.

VISTORS

Josh Bush and his daughter Barbi came out to visit while here last week. Chan Thomas brought his girls Lee Robin and Lacy Mei by to visit on Monday. The girls were out of school on Monday work. Travis Lancaster stopped in on Tuesday to take a break from the blowing dust.

I didn't get any reports of anyone being sick this week so everyone eat your wheaties and stay

I also don't have very much news this week, I guess we've been kinda boring out here. I hope everyone has a great weekend!

Don't forget our Ragtown Folks in the nursing homes; Doug and Claudine Tipton in Post and so they farmed with dad while mom, Jamie was at Carmen Abraham in Lubbock. Keep our troops in your daily prayers and check out our blog at http://closecitycoopgin.blogspot.com don't forget to send me your recipe's so that I can post them

Be sure to call and let me know about any happenings going on, birthdays, anniversaries or any one that may be sick. If you don't tell me, I don't know to write about it.

FLYER ONE

By: Michael F. Taylor

Milton, a Bishop in the United Brethren Church was very excited about the upcoming Annual Methodist Conference in Indiana in the year 1870.

Milton was also a Professor of Theology at the Hartsville College and wanted to give the congregants his vision of the near future.

When the appointed time came, Milton was called on by the presiding Bishop to speak. In his discourse, Milton shared his enthusiasm about living in exciting and innovative times.

The presiding Bishop then asked Milton exactly what he believed was going to happen. Milton responded by saying, "I believe that we are coming into a time of great inventions. For example, I believe that in the near future, men will fly through the air much like the birds!"

To which the Presiding Bishop stated, "That is heresy! The bible teaches that flight is reserved for angels. We will have no such talk about things like that here!"

Disappointed, but not discouraged, Milton returned to his humble home and to his two year old son, Wilbur. A year later Wilbur had a new baby brother and Milton named him Orville. Have you guessed it, yet? Milton's last name was Wright.

On December 17th, 1903, at 10:30 A.M., Orville and Wilbur shook hands and then Orville climbed into their flying machine dubbed Flyer 1. Orville then took off into the air for the first recorded flight of man into the sky's like a bird just as his father Milton had predicted in 1870. What a wonderful account of one man's vision for a bright future.

Did you know that God also has a vision for our future today? It is a vision of forgiveness, love and blessing. Romans 8:38 tells us that, "For I am convinced that neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither the present nor the future, nor any powers, neither height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord." NIV.

Scripture also speaks to the very thing that Milton Wright envisioned about mankind flying into the air. Now granted, it speaks to spiritual flight but I still love what Isaiah 40:31 tells us "31 but those who hope in the LORD will renew their strength. They will soar on wings like eagles; they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not be faint." NIV.

This week, are you ready to soar on wings LIKE EAGLES? My vision for each of you is very bright and glorious! God is with you and nothing can separate you from HIS love in Christ Jesus.

Let's take a look at what God instructed Moses to tell the Children of Israel in Exodus 19:3-6, "3 Then Moses went up to God, and the LORD called to him from the mountain and said, "This is what you are to say to the house of Jacob and what you are to tell the people of Israel: 4 'You yourselves have seen what I did to Egypt, and how I carried you on eagles' wings and brought you to myself. 5 Now if you obey me fully and keep my covenant, then out of all nations you will be my treasured possession." NIV.

Did you know that this very week you are God's Treasured Possession? What an exciting vision God has for each of us today. Have a great week and don't forget to fly on Eagles Wings much like the Wright Brothers did on that historic morning in 1903.

USDA reminds producers about need for insurance

(POST, TX) – Feb. 12, 2009 Victor Ashley, Executive Director of USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) in Garza-Borden County reminds agricultural producers of the need for insurance coverage for crops in order to be eligible for the agency's Disaster Assistance Programs. Application closing date for coverage on forage sorghum, peas, sunflowers, millet, and pecans is March 16, 2009.

Producers must purchase at least catastrophic (CAT) level of insurance for all insurable crops and/or FSA's Noninsured Crop Assistance Program (NAP) coverage for non-insurable crops to be eligible for the USDA Farm Service Agency Disaster Assistance Programs.

"Crop insurance is an important risk management tool for farmers, but it's not available for all crops. That's why NAP is so important," said Ashley.

NAP is a federally funded program that provides coverage to producers for non-insurable crops when low yields, loss of inventory or prevented planting occurs due to natural disasters.

Crops eligible for NAP coverage are those for which crop insurance is not available, including but not limited to fruits and vegetables, aquaculture, pecans, turf grass and forage crops. However, crops that FCIC deems as ineligible due to practice or yield are not covered by NAP.

"Producers must apply for coverage before a disaster strikes," said Ashley. "Like regular crop insurance, once an application syrup, fruit, milk period closes, the opportunity to obtain coverage is gone."

un-n-Facts for Brain-iacs Constitution

The Iramework of Our Democracy

It was the summer of 1787, America was a new country. A Constitutional Convention was called at Independence Hall in our nation's largest city, Philadelphia. Later, the delegates would go down in history as our Founding Fathers. But for now they had the daunting task of determining the course of our nation and the freedom of its citizens. As the men debated and compromised Ben Franklin stared at a carving of a half sun and wondered if it represented the sun setting or a sun rising on America. Luckily his optimism won out. On September 17, 1787 the US Constitution was signed.

There are 3 parts to the Constitution: The Preamble (introduction, shown below) the 7 Articles which set up the three branches of government: Judicial (Federal Judges and Supreme Court), Legislative (Presidency), and 27

(Congress) and Executive Amendments (changes) The first 10 of which are known as the Bill of Rights. The only amendment to ever be repealed was the 18th, Prohibition. For 4 months, 6 days a week, the delegates convened behind closed windows and locked doors---they wanted discussions (and arguments) to remain private until the final document was Every state sent a delegate except Rhode Island. All 13 states eventually ratified

The oldest person to sign the document, was 81-year-old Ben the youngest delegate 26-years-old. The US Constitution

'Love Letters' Opens Tonight at the Garza Theatre

By Rosa Latimer News Editor

Two Garza favorites, Jacqui Neal and Jon Steele return to the stage here this weekend in "Love Letters," directed by Christy Morris.

The play, written by A.R. Gurney, tells the poignant story of childhood friends Andrew Ladd and Melissa Gardner whose lifelong correspondence begins with birthday party thank-you notes and summer camp postcards. The story unfolds as the couple continues to exchange letters through boarding school and college years. Through marriages, children, divorce, and career changes Andrew and Melissa's attachment to each other remains strong and they continue to keep in touch.

Their letters make it eloquently clear how much they really meant, and gave to, each other over the named Texas AgriLife Extension Service's administrator for the South Plains district effective March 2. The announcement came from Dr. Darrell Dromgoole, AgriLife Extension associate director for county programs at College Station.

The new administrator will be headquartered at the Texas AgriLife Research and Extension Center at Lubbock. He will be responsible for all administrative duties in the 20-county district.

Dabovich earned a bachelor's degree in agricultural Extension and education from New Mexico

Miles Dabovich has been State University in 1988 and a master's degree in agricultural education from Texas Tech University in 1994.

Since 2007, he has served as the AgriLife Extension agriculture and natural resources agent in Wichita County. He currently program leader and county coordinator. In that role he plans and implements county and area-wide agricultural educational programs in commodities and natural resources including wheat, forages, cotton, beef cattle, horses, meat goats, wildlife and range and Dabovich has earned numerous awards and recognitions throughout his career including the Texas County Agriculture Agents Association's new agent recognition award and result demonstration handbook award; Kent County 4-H Appreciation Award, Crockserves as the county's agriculture ett County Commissioners Court Outstanding Service Award, and the Andrews County Employees Award. He is also a graduate of the San Antonio Leadership Extension Program and of AgriLife Extension's Master Marketing Course. Dabovich fills the position formerly held by Jett Major who recently retired.

Bit-sized rodeo today in Post

A bit-sized rodeo will take place Friday at 10:30am at Windham SPCAA Head Start in Post as the closing activity to a week of learning about the West.

Seventeen 3-and 4-year-olds dressed as cowboys and cowgirls will participate in barrel racing with stick horses, roping, and have the opportunity to meet real goats and a calf.

Crystal Osborn is the Family Support Worker at Windham SPCAA Head Start and says activities like these are meant to provide practical applications to what the children are learning in class.

"Our theme this week has been cowboys and cowgirls. Even though we live in a small town, many of the kids don't get to see real farms and farm animals," Osborn said. "We hope they have fun and see things they don't normally see."

South Plains Community Action Association Head Start and Early Head Start will begin enrolling children in its 32 preschools for next year on April 1. These preschools are located in 12 counties and provide free education, health, disabilities and family support services to children who qualify based on income.

The SPCAA Head Start is looking for volunteers to help in classrooms, offices, and in other areas to support the program in providing quality services to children and families. If you are interested in volunteering or enrolling a child, please call (806) 894-2207 or 1-800-658-9632
