'Tis The Season To Give Thanks

Getting back to the true meaning of the holiday

By STEFFI SCOTT

When you think of the word Thanksgiving, what comes to mind? Is it the Dallas Cowboys and an afternoon nap, or is it the thought of being surrounded by the ones you love? Do turkeys and sweet potatoes dance in your head, or does the sweet thought of all that you have been blessed with consume your thoughts?

Don't get me wrong, many of us love the Cowboys and turkey and all the fixings, but there is more to Thanksgiving than food and football. Sometimes we get so caught up in the hustle and bustle of the holiday that we forget the real reason we actually celebrate Thanksgiving.

The first Thanksgiving celebration held in America occurred in 1619. On December fourth of that year, 38 English settlers arrived at the Berkeley Plantation in Virginia. Part of their original charter stated that they would set aside that day every year and observe it as a day of Thanksgiving. Due to the hardships of those early times and various other factors, the celebration turned out to be a short-lived occurrence.

The next recorded celebration is the most famous and probably the one you were taught about in Elementary School. Plymouth, Massachusetts, 1621. The first winter the Pilgrims had in the "New World' was a brutal one (nearly half of those who came over on the Mayflower died). Times did eventually grow easier on them though, the following harvest season was so bountiful in fact that the Pilgrims decided to hold a feast for celebration and thanksgiving.

This "festival', which lasted three days, included the participation of nearly one hundred Native Americans. Governor William Bradford had invited the natives to show them appreciation, for helping his colony survive through the harsh weather conditions.

In 1668 the Plymouth General Court tried to bring some order to the celebration by declaring November 25th to be Thanksgiving. It was a proclamation that only lasted within the colony for five years.

The day worked it's way on and off local calendars until 1789 when George Washington made the first Presidential proclamation declaring Thanksgiving a national event. The first Thanksgiving held under this proclamation occurred on November 26 of that year. The pattern was set.

When it was Thomas Jefferson's turn as President, he decided against the idea of Thanksgiving. At this time, many were against the idea of taking a day to honor the hard times of a few pilgrims. And so it went for nearly 60 years, until Sarah Josepha Hale came to bat.

Hale wrote to anyone and everyone who would listen to her case that we needed to set aside a day to give our appreciation and thanks unto him from which the blessings flow. Hale finally caught the attention of the right man, Abraham Lincoln.

Lincoln set aside the last Thursday of every November for "a day to give thanks."

So this Thursday when you sit down to a home cooked meal with your family and loved ones, take time to actually give thanks for all of the blessings the Lord has given you. Even if you think you have nothing to be thankful for, you can most certainly give thanks for your life and living in a free world.

With that being said, I would like to thank everyone who has welcomed me with open arms into this position as your Editor here at The Post Dispatch. All your support and kind words have meant the world to me and I look forward to continue serving you in anyway I can.

I hope you and yours have a very Happy Thanksgiving!

By STEFFI SCOTT

Every year the Junior League of Lubbock puts on a wonderful fundraiser called, "Holiday Happening," to help feed hungry kids.

This year Post had two vendors of their own featured in Holiday Happening. Donna Degan of Plum Crazy and Mary Norman of Caprock Heirloom.

Not only was this a great way for Post vendors to get their merchandise seen it was also a great way to show people in other surrounding cities how much great stuff Post has to of-

The Junior League of Lubbock, Inc. is an organization of women committed to promoting voluntarism, developing the potential of women, and improving communities through the effective action and leadership of trained volunteers. Its purpose is exclusively educational and charitable.

The Association of Junior Leagues International (AJLI), Inc. reaches out to women of all races, religions and national origins who demonstrate an interest in and commitment to voluntarism. To learn more about the Association of Junior Leagues International Inc. visit the website www.ajli.org.

The Junior League of Lubbock, in association with the South Plains Food Bank (SPFB) and Lubbock Independent School District (LISD), has created a Signature Project called Food2Kids (F2K) which is modeled after America's Second Harvest Backpack Program. Sacks of food will be sent home on Fridays with children identified as being potentially at high risk for suffering from hunger during the weekend.

Don't forget to stop by and see Mary and Donna as well as our other unique stores this Friday after Thanksgiving for lots of Black Friday sales! Happy shopping everyone!

It all starts with observing temperature differences dethe current situation. The National Weather Service operates a widespread network of observing systems such as geostationary satellites. Doppler radars, and automated surface observing systems that constantly monitor the current state-of-the-art numerical computer models to provide a glimpse of what will happen next - ranging from hours to days. The models are then analyzed by NWS meteorologists who use their experience and expertise to write and disseminate forecasts.

Winter Weather Watches, Warnings and Advisories-What do they all Mean?

The National Weather Service uses specific winter weather terms to ensure that people know what to expect in the coming days and hours. A Winter Storm Watch means that severe winter conditions, such as heavy snow and/or ice, may affect your area, but its occurrence, location and timing are still uncertain. A winter storm watch is issued to provide 12 to 36 hours notice of the possibility of severe winter weather.

A winter storm watch is intended to provide enough lead time so those who need to set plans in motion can do so. A watch is upgraded to a Winter Storm Warning when 4 or more inches of snow or sleet is expected in the next 12 hours, or 6 or more inches in 24 hours, or 1/4 inch or more of ice accretion is expected. Winter Weather Advisories inform you that winter weather conditions are expected to cause significant inconveniences that may be

On an interesting note, while visiting with Jack Trammell at Texas Treasures, a group of eight women from Childress strolled in. They were as surprised to

I don't have to tell you what you have here in Post. The rich history, the dynamic people, the incredible businesses, the ranching history, the oil and gas presence, the rugged beauty ... it's a special place indeed.

Steffi Scott and Liz Moreno, my staff at The Dispatch, take their jobs seriously and I'm proud of them. They lack experience, but are gaining it weekly. They are getting a basic understanding of what we must provide our readers there: a publication which reflects how unique Post and Garza County are while keeping you informed of the news.

Fun By The

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Beginner

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Well, we have an early deadline this week so I don't As JW Payton put it ... "only at the gin" have as much news as I would like but here's what I do know ... Monday it was wet and cold so the guys that have cotton couldn't get in the field but we had enough cotton on the yard to gin all day, our bale count as of Monday was 594.

Because it was so wet and foggy out I had an office full of farmers Monday morning. I love listening to them when they get to talking about "old times" They talked about everything from playing dominos in the gin office, till someone got mad and shot a hole in the floor; the old Pool Hall downtown; Hamilton Drugstore; hanging out at the Gulf Station and Saturday being the day everyone went to town to do all their shopping and errands. It's hard to get any work done when they are all talking, but they really are interesting to listen to. If y'all can imagine there are other stories told that I probably shouldn't print, haha.

Teresa and I want to thank Angel and her crew; Brailey, soon! Boog, Chelsey, Kenedi and Anniston for the wonderful Banana Nut Bread they made and brought for us to taste. We always welcome yummy goodies out here!

Don't forget our Calender project Nancy and I have going on. If you have a picture or idea you would like included let us know, we will have them ready to order the first part of December.

Not Silent Read Esther 4:12-17

Who knows but that you have come to royal position for such a time as this?

- Esther 4:14 (NIV)

Esther faced a difficult, life-threatening decision. She could decide to insert herself into the situation of her people, or she could stand aside. Mordecai told her, "If you remain silent at this time, relief and deliverance . . . will arise from another place" (v. 14). Esther chose to be an instrument of God. If she had not made that decision, however, God could have worked in another way, through another person.

Even today, I might be called on by God just as Esther was. It is unlikely that I will be asked to intervene for a nation, but I might be called on to serve God in a way that is just as scary to me. I know that God is working all around us every day, and I want to be ready to step up to the task if God needs me. I don't want to remain silent. I don't want God to have to work in another way. If God chooses me, I want to be ready--at all times.

Dalen E. Keys (Pennsylvania, USA)

Prayer: Dear God, tune our spirit to your leading and your will. We want to be your messengers today. Amen.

Thought for the day: Each of us is God's first choice for the task of bringing love into the world.

Thanksgiving is finally in my life here in Post. upon us and as we reflect on the year and our thankfulness, derful people of Post and I want to share a couple of my surrounding areas. You have before, but don't worry, I own. Don't worry this won't made my dream of having a be long or sappy! I am a guy vet clinic come true. be eternally grateful Thank you to my friends who have come to my aid the moment I call. They may not have known what they were getting into, but no the less jumped in to help regards of what it entailed. Just last week I had been trying to pull a calf for about 2 hours. My arm was tuckered out and I needed help. How do you call someone and ask for help in this? "Hey, can you come up to the clinic and stick your entire arm into an animal? I know you've never done this talk you through it. Oh, and wear something that can be plastered with anything that might come out the end of a cow." Yup, those friends are keepers. I owe you supper Shad & Jeff...and probably some new clothes too!

When I started writing for the paper, my first article was of a Thanksgiving memory my family remembers every year. I'd like to re-issue this story for all the new readers I've accumulated and wish you all a Happy Thanksgiv-

Phone calls, Assumptions, & a Thanksgiving Tur-

"Kerry. Kerry, wake up." my wife nudges me awake. Looking at the clock I see it's only 10pm, but it feels like 2 in the morning. It's Tuesday before Thanksgiving, and I was the lucky 'newbie' to be on call all week for the Thanksgiving holiday. After a long day of seeing over 50 patients, handling 3

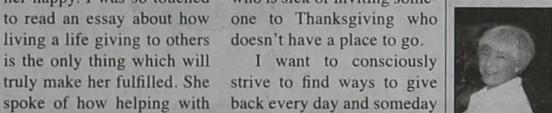

after-hour emergencies, and getting home at 9pm, I was plain tired. Skipping supper, I headed to bed only to have my wife waking me 30 minutes into peaceful sleep. "It's the answering service" she says handing me the turkey vs. puppy. The client

"Dr. Wink, I have a man on the phone with an emergency. Would you like me to transfer?" I answered yes while thinking 'what now'? On the line is a man saying a turkey fell on his dog and he's rushing the dog to me. In his panic he hung up without me being able to ask anything. That's it? As I dress to head back to the clinic, I'm telling my wife about the call. We are chuckling as we picture a German Sheppard getting caught eating the Thanksgiving turkey and pulling it off

Assuming this was going to be something fast & easy based on what I had already pictured in my head, I was surprised when it turned out to be a 4 month-old Chihuahua puppy no more than 2 pounds! Now throw into the equation the turkey was 18 pounds & completely FRO-ZEN! (Two very important facts left out of the earlier phone conversation.) You don't have to be mathematicians to figure out the odds of explained they were unpacking groceries and the frozen turkey fell off the counter ... on top of the puppy. I'll never forget going back home and the look on my wife's face when I told her the dog didn't make it. What is it they say about the word 'assume'?

I learned a valuable lesson from this. I'm not afraid to ask over a dozen questions nor am I in a hurry to get off the phone, even if it is 2am in the morning! The more information I can get firsthand enables me to make a better judgment, prepare for treatment, and overall be confident in my decisions. So fair warning....I may ask a barrage of questions if you call with an emergency. On a personal note...my family has never looked at Thanksgiving turkey the same since.

Thanksgiving Today We have all heard the story of the very first Thanksgiving of our great countries first settlers. On December 21, 1620 the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth rock. Through the dead of winter the colony struggled with poor and meager food, strenuous labor, a biting wind that chilled to the bone, and the ravages of disease. Nearly half the 102 Mayflower passengers did not live to see Spring refresh Cape Cod Bay. But God sent Indians--Samoset, Squanto, and Massasoit--to help the English settlers plant and hunt and fish. The bountiful harvest that autumn led Governor Bradford to invite the Indians to celebrate God's goodness. Ninety tall braves accepted the invitation to join the Pilgrims in a feast of Thanksgiving to God for His blessings. The Pilgrims lived close enough to the soil to know how dependent they were on God's Providence. They had learned to thank God in the midst of the bitterness of winter past. And they were quick to thank Him during abundant blessing, too.

Thanksgiving's purpose has evolved several times since the initial harvest festivals. In 1777, George Washington proclaimed a "thanksgiving" in honor of the American defeat of the British at Saratoga. For generations, Thanksgiving was not an annual holiday but a sporadic celebration marking years of prosperity, and it wasn't until Abraham Lincoln's 1863 proclamation of a national Thanksgiving Day on the final Thursday of November that the U.S. celebrated the holiday with much regularity.

"It is the duty of nations as well as men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God: to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon; and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and prov-tions are blessed whose God is the Lord. We know that by His divine law, nations, like individuals, are subjected to punishments and chastisements in this world. May we not justly fear that the awful calamity of civil war, which now desolates the land, may be a punishment inflicted upon us for our presumptuous sins, to the needful end of our national reformation as a whole people? We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us. It has seemed to me fit and proper that God should be solemnly, reverently, and gratefully acknowledged, as with one heart and one voice, by the whole American people. I do therefore invite my fellow citizens in every part of the United States, and also those who are at sea and those who are sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November as a day of Thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the heavens." - Abraham Lincoln, 1863

In 1939, Thanksgiving was again manipulated for social and political purposes when President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in hopes that an earlier Thanksgiving would increase spending during The Great Depression, declared that Thanksgiving would be a week earlier, allowing for en by all history, that those na- more shopping time before the winter holidays

Thanksgiving as grown into a rich tradition of turkeys and gravy and pilgrim hats. Seasoned stuffing hot from the oven. Green bean casserole, candies yams, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie. Uncles and aunts and cousins to play with. Grandmothers and grandfathers with family gathered round. Football on TV and kids playing with friends and relatives, free from scholarly duty. A day to relax and maybe rake leaves in the afternoon. Black Friday Shopping for deals and gifts. All a part of the American Thanksgiving but how much will our celebrations on Thanksgiving have to do with giving thanks anymore? I think we all need to remember Abraham Lincoln and the reasons he layed out for this most honored of American traditions. Thanksgiving Day is a time to reflect and be thankful for all that God has given us. Of course, we should do what we can to make the most of the day we call Thanksgiving, but wouldn't it be a shame if the only time we reflected on our blessings was that one Thursday in November? So let's do our best to be aware of the many great gifts that we have each and every day of the year.. Check out the song "Life of Praise" by Casting Crowns or view it directly through You

I am thankful for all the blessings God has given me. I live in a great community, work in a great school, and have the chance every day to use the lessons we learn in athletics help kids reach their goal and live the American dream. I have a family to love and friends to enjoy. I also enjoy teaching young student athletes to be thankful for all the opportunities we have in our great nation to pursue our life's goals with honesty, integrity, and hard work. I hope and pray you all have, not only a happy Thanksgiving, but have a truly Bold Gold Thanksgiving.

Kindergarten learns about Native Americans

By: Kim Reiter

Kindergarten started learning about Native Americans this past week. November is Native American month. Native Americans lived here in American before anybody else did. They helped the Pilgrims when they came to America. They taught the Pilgrims how to grow corn, because they didn't have com in England. We bet you didn't know it, but

Native Americans invented popcom! They would throw an ear of corn into the fire and catch the popcorn when it came flying out of the fire! We wanted to try it, but our teachers said

On Friday, Steven LeBlanc came and talked to us about Native Americans. He had so many neat things that he let us touch and pass around! He put on his Native American outfit. It was made out of real DEER skin and he said it was really hot! He had feathers from a real Bald Eagle. He said it was against the law to have eagle feathers if you didn't have a special piece of paper saying it was okay to have eagle feathers. We got to see the Native American knives made out of a special rock called flint and a lot of really pretty things made out of colorful beads. It was AWESOME!

The National Center for Educational Achievement (NCEA)

The National Center for Educational Achievement (NCEA), a department of ACT, Inc., recognized Post High School as a 2011 NCEA Higher Performing School. Post High School received Higher Performing (HP) recognition in the following areas:

· Grade 10 Social Studies had 100% passing rate and 56% commended.

 Grade 11 Social Studies had 97% passing rate and 76% commended. The Higher Performing Schools (formerly known as Just for the Kids Schools) are identified by two measures: consistent improvement in student achievement from previous years (growth) and/ or absolute student achievement using the school's Commended Performance results on the spring 2009-2011 TAKS (Texas Assessment of Knowledge and Skills) test. NCEA's higher performing methodology controls for school and student demographics to allow for an apples-to-apples comparison of school achievement and to demonstrate that with the commitment of educators, all schools can have success no matter the zip code. NCEA provided award certificates to each Higher Performing School and the district.

I am writing this letter to extend my personal thanks to Mr. Blackburn, the editor, and or anyone else involved with the recent policy change to Speak-Up. In my opinion you have performed a great service for our community

What ever happened to American indoctrination?

IcDonald

The United States has been referred to as a melting pot for decades, but is it anymore? Are we still melting ... becoming one?

We've become so culturally sensitive, that we spend more time trying not to offend someone than celebrating the fact that we are free citizens of a great country.

Nearly every American has roots from another country. Only descendants of Native Americans, which is a very small percentage of the general population, can trace their an-

With that in common, it is paramount that our new citizens be indoctrinated into our culture. But, what does that mean exactly?

cestry to this country.

In my opinion, it means that immigrants to this country should learn our laws, pledge, anthem and do their best to learn English.

Once upon a time, that's how it worked. You didn't bring your country to the U.S.A. You left your country for this country and pledged your life and your allegiance to that end.

Does that mean you forget where you came from? Of course not. Does that mean you forget your pride in being from China, or Mexico, or France? Not at all.

But, at the very least, is should mean you made a lifetime decision to become an American and join our society and all it offers.

By CHRIS BLACKBURN For 30 years we've had multiculturalism and political correctness placed at the forefront. We're so busy trying to show are that we've forgotten who we (collectively) are. I think it's wonderful to learn about other cultures, but we have our own culture here and this country works when our citizenry is geared to the greater

one another how different we

good of this country. This country has had dark and terrible days. Some of our history has been filled with things we'd all like to change and forget. We can't. We must learn from the lessons history has taught us and become better.

Over the past several years we've had our pride hurt. We've been told how bad things are here and frankly, we've suffered from a lost identity.

We do have serious issues. Guess what? We've always had serious issues. We will likely always have serious issues.

Still, through it all, we are still here. There are still people wanting to come here. And despite all you hear about China and their rapid growth, we're still number one.

You don't see millions of people trying to flee the U.S. for greener pastures. You don't see oppressed and starving people because we take care of our own. Sometimes it's not pretty and our system is slow to evolve, but to discount this country and have a defeatist attitude about it is preposterous.

In 1621, long before there nize all that entails.

was a United States, Pilgrim Edward Winslow expressed his gratitude: "God be praised, we had a good increase of corn ... by the goodness of God, we are far from want." Winslow also said: "Our harvest being gotten in, our governor sent four men on fowling (turkey hunting), so that we might after a special manner rejoice together after we had gathered the fruit of our labors."

The Pilgrims invited Chief Massasoit and his tribe for three days of feasting, games and celebration. The good relations the Pilgrims (and Puritans) enjoyed with the Natives lasted some 50 years. That is the tradition we honor with Thanksgiving Day.

It is up to us, the citizens of this country, as to where we go from here. We are what we are. Live, learn and get better. That, in itself, is all we can ask for and how we evolve as a country.

Every single day we should get up, give thanks, and work to do better than the day before. I promise you, if that were truly the case, you would see this country make the necessary strides we need to make to continue build a more perfect union. One that the world continues to see as a beacon of freedom and a place where hard work can make dreams come true.

I would like our leaders to stress unity while embracing individual freedoms. Appreciate your neighbor and their heritage, but recognize that if you are here, you are an American and you are expected to recog-

Even in the most challenging times, we cannot forget the most important things for which we are most thankful.

From our family to yours, Happy Thanksgiving.

Renewal Of Registered Marks Extension Extras for November 21, 2011 And Brands Continues

Once per decade, according to the law, owners of 2012, any brand that is not Applications can be found registered livestock brands and marks should consider renewing them.

In accordance with Ar-Agriculture Code, Wednesday, on August 31, 2011 the renewal process of the recording of marks and brands began at the Garza County Clerk's office.

Deputy County Clerk Terri Laurence reports that there have been 101 brands and or marks renewed so far.

Brand owners will have until Wednesday, February 29, 2012 to renew their brand registration. Marks and brands must be renewed within the registration period regardless of the date it was originally registered.

Weather Service offices. The NWR network has more than 425 stations, covering all 50 states, adjacent coastal waters, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and U.S. Pacific Territories.

Weather radios come in many sizes, with a variety of functions and costs. The NWR network has been further advanced by the implementation of Specific Area Message Encoding (SAME) technology. The SAME allows the user to receive warnings only for their specific location. SAME receivers are a live-saving tool, providing audible alert tones for any weather warnings. A NOAA Weather Radio is a useful and potentially life-saving gift idea this holiday season.

What is Wind Chill?

One of the gravest dangers VEHICLE of winter weather is wind chill. · Blankets/sleeping bags and The wind chill is based on the extra clothing, including mitrate of heat loss from exposed tens and hat skin by combined effects of

· Cell phone, radio, flashlight, extra batteries, booster cables

· First-aid kit

· High-calorie, non-perishable food and bottled water · Sack of sand or cat litter for

kit, tow rope and shovel EMERGENCY TIPS FOR HOME

If heavy ice on the lines cuts utility service, be extremely careful using generators or gas powered equipment. Carbon monoxide (CO) is invisible, odorless, deadly and can build up in a matter of minutes. Do not use generators, charcoal grills or gas grills inside the house, garage or other enclosed space. Do not try to heat the house using a gas range or oven. Be prepared at home or work with these supplies:

· Battery-powered NOAA

weather radio, extra batteries · Emergency supplies of food, water, medicine, medical supplies and items needed by babies or the elderly

· Heating fuel for areas where fuel carriers may not be able to get through

· Properly ventilated emergency heating source such as a fireplace, wood stove or space

· Fire extinguisher and smoke detector
