A fire at Colorado Wednesday night, destroyed the law office of Leslie & Thurmond and Hughes' photograph gallery.

Under the new law, a saloon keeper who violates the Sunday closing law not only forfeits his license to sell liquors, but also forfeits his right to do any more business in his line for five years.

The lynching of three Texas cattlemen at Ada, and a pitched battle between Texas cowboys and Osage farmers would indicate that somebody in Oklahoma "had it in" for the Texas cowman. Somebody is in the wrong in this matter, and they had better get right before there is more trouble.

It seems now that the Orient people have gone to work in earnest to complete the gap between Angelo and Sweetwater, thus giving a direct route to Kansas City. In doing this the Orient put a task on San Angelo that, perhaps, no other city would stand. After putting up bonus after bonus, and playing almost a half decade, these people are required to invest $50,000 in bonds of the road. Angelo will put it up if it takes the best hen on the place. But, even if she does this, it will be the making of her, for it will make her one of the biggest things in the west.

Governor Campbell got mad last week and said things to the legislature. Among other things, he asserted that a powerful lobby was there to block needed legislation, and darkly hinted that the legislature had been corrupted by the lobby. Now, since we come to think of it we have a law against lobbying, and we elected Mr. Campbell to enforce our laws. We have armed him with money, guns, rangers and authority to deal with lobbyists, with horse thieves, sabbath breakers and drinkers of beer. The law has been violated, for he said so himself, and we believe what he said. Then, if the law has been trampled on as he says it has, why in the Sam Hill don't Governor Campbell get busy and go after the rascals like a bit of snot? Why don't he put the rangers after them, instead of raising sand with the solons, and chase them away from Austin so our representatives can do business?

SKELETON KEY A MYTH.

"There is nothing to the skeleton key idea we hear so much about," said an Indianapolis safe and lock expert. "Such a thing as a skeleton key that will unlock all locks does not exist. The locksmith is supposed to have such a key, and we have been made to swallow more than one robbery story told on the theory that there was such a thing as a skeleton key, which, by some magic trick of construction, would unlock all sizes and conditions of locks. The idea is all rot.

"For hotels the lock factories manufacture a series of locks for one floor, for instance, which can be unlocked by a master key. Of course, every lock on the floor has a separate key, and no one of these keys will unlock any door on any floor of the hotel. But it is readily understood that all the locks in a particular hotel series are of similar construction, and the matter of furnishing a 'master' or 'grand master' key is comparatively simple."

A NEW INDUSTRY

J. E. Beavers Makes A Discovery That Might Be Worth Millions To The Great Southwest

J. E. Beavers, who lives near Konoahasset, and who was once a professor in civil engineering at the University of Arkansas, exhibited a piece of rope here last Monday which he had made of the fiber of "bear grass," which is plentiful all over West Texas. The fiber from which this rope is made is exceeding strong, as well as soft to the touch and seems admirably adapted for making of the finest quality of rope and other cordage where smoothness and great strength are required. It is a well known fact that the Indians once manufactured stake ropes, fishing lines and other cordages, of this material, of such strength and durability as compared with the airt, hemp and manny that no old timer failed, when possible, to secure a lasso

A BIG STRIKE

A discovery of a new bonanza was made a few days ago by A. J. Kellis, who, after taking in all the country around the famous Salome bonanza, went out to the Big Horn district and compared notes with the result that he uncovered some ore that is startling in richness. He brought in two sacks of the rich stuff and to say that it is merely high grade is putting it highly. When broken, nuggets, varying in size from a grain of wheat to the size of a pea, come tumbling out. It comes in a splendid looking quartz. One claim shows a two-inch vein of ore that will run up into the thousands of dollars per ton, judging from the amount of the yellow metal that shows up in the rock. An adjoining claim shows a three-foot vein that gives up ore that can be conservatively estimated at worth $500 per ton. There has already been some prospecting done on the ground of this make; but it is now a lost art and few remember having ever seen a "bear grass" rope. Mr. Beavers informed us that after a good deal of experiment, he had discovered a method by which the fiber could be separated and made ready for the spindle at a comparative small cost, and that he would make an effort to interest manufacturers of cordage to take hold of this new product and see what there is in it. The fact that all the country lying west of the Colorado to the deserts of Arizona is practically covered with "bear grass," it would seem that the supply is unlimited, and it would bring a big bunch of wealth to the people of the West. Then, too, the plant takes kindly to cultivation, and when the plains and waste places are denuded of "bear grass," it might pay to raise it, for it will grow anywhere in West Texas and on any kind of soil.

and splendid ore has long been known to exist, but it was not until now that closer prospecting revealed the unusual richness of the ground. The general formation of the country seems to be rhyolite, felsitic diorite and silver schist, and the vein matter a diabase and red oxide of iron with considerable lime. A. J. Kellis and Chris Short returned to the strike Friday evening and will establish a camp and put a few men to work at once to do some development on the property. Already a number of men are outfitting to go out there and some have already gone. The strike has created quite a stir and from the present indications there will be a rash in there before another week passes by, however there is a large area of ground in the same formation in which there is more than a probability of good discoveries being made. The samples of ore brought into the Miner from the strike has been attracting a great amount of attention. -Wickenburg (Arizona) Miner.

GREAT SALE OF FINE CATTLE

Note: Since this was first published the date of the sale has been changed to MAY 4th and 5th. There will occur in San Angelo on April 12th and April 13th two big auction sales of thoroughbred to be conducted by prize winning breeders whose names are the synonyms for success in cattle raising in Texas.

April 12th 65 head of Durhams, Pole-Durhams and Herefords belonging to the well known breeders, William Angon, D. T. Yaws and Lee Brothers will be sold under the hammer. Some of these cattle will also come from the picturesque Blomark farm.

This sale of April 13th will be held at the San Angelo Fair Grounds. It will begin promptly at 12 o'clock on the day mentioned. Preceding it, however, there will be a grand barbecue which begins at 11 o'clock. Tallyhos will be furnished gratis to all who wish to attend the sale. These tallyhos will gather the crowds at the Landon Hotel and Nimtz House.

There will be another sale the next day, April 14th, when 75 head of thoroughbred, aristocratic Herefords will be sold under the hammer. At this sale, J. L. Ely will disperse his entire herd of high class Herefords including his Wilton Cows, his Premier Bull and Champion Steers. C. H. and J. C. Powell will also contribute to this sale four thoroughbred Hereford Bulls, and Lee Brothers the well known proprietors of Leedale Stock Farm, will sell eight bulls. All of these cattle are registered, and come from the ribbon winning herds of the Southwest. This sale of April 13th will be conducted at the Ely Farm, known as the old J. M. Cox place, and located six miles east of San Angelo. This sale will also begin at noon April 13th, and will be preceded by a grand free barbecue. Transportation in tallyhos from the Landon Hotel and the Nimtz House will be furnished free.

It is hardly necessary to dwell at any length upon the manifold advantages of this double sale of thoroughbred cattle. All of the offerings will be in the best of condition and ready for immediate use. Buyers who are needing bulls at this time, will find that these two sales of April 12th and 13th will afford them just what they want. Be sure to be in San Angelo on those days and attend the two sales.

BITTEN BY A SKUNK

While Rev. J. B. Atkinson was asleep at his sheep camp, last Monday night, a skunk crawled into his bed and bit him on the hand.

Q. B. Graham took the victim to San Angelo Tuesday in time to board the afternoon train for Austin, where he is now under treatment at the Passer Institute. So far, Brother Atkinson is getting along nicely, and, no doubt, will be ready to return when brought with the course of treatment.

A WICKED WAG

An old man in Georgia named Jack Baldwin, having lost his hat in an old dry well one day, hitched a rope to a stump and let himself down. A wicked wag named Ned came by just then, relates the Atlanta Journal, and quietly detached a bell from Baldwin's old blind horse, approached the well, bell in hand, and began tinging. Jack thought the old horse was coming his way and said: "Hang the old blind horse; he's coming this way, sure, and he ain't got no more sense than to fall in on me—whoo, Bal!" The sound came closer. "Great Jerusalem! The old blind fool will be on top of me in a minute—whoo, whoa, Bal!" Ned tacked a little dirt on Jack's head and Jack began to say: "Oh, Lord, have mercy on—whoo, Bal!—a poor sinner, I'm gone now—whoo, Bal!—Our Father who art thou—whoo, Bal!—hallowed be thy—gee, Bal, gee! What'll I do—name. Now I lay me down to sl—gee, Bal!! (Just then more dirt fell in) Oh Lord, if you ever intend to do anything for me—back, Bal! Whoo—Thy kingdom come—gee, Bal! Oh, Lord, You know I was baptized in Smith's mill dam—whoo, Bal!—Ho—up—murder—whoo!!

Ned could hold in no longer and shouted a laugh which might have been two miles, which was about as far as Jack chided him when he got up.

A NEAT JOB OF SURGERY

Among a lot of pure bred Jerseys purchased from the St. Cloud Farm, last winter, by Fisher Bros was a fancy cow which they bought at a reduced price on account of a defective udder. On one side of a teat was a hole from which the milk leaked. E. F. Fisher, who is quite a veterinary surgeon, conceived the idea of erasing this defect by a surgical operation. Accordingly, he purchased a silver tube and other suitable instruments for the operation. He threw the cow, split the teat, scarified the edges of the hole, inserted the silver tube and neatly stitched the wound—taking care to cleanse it and apply antiseptics. He also wrapped the teat with an adhesive plaster. On the 9th day after the operation the wound was nicely healed, the stitches taken out, and the cow is now perfectly sound.

We relate this incident to show that in many cases a valuable animal may often be saved by using a little diligence and common sense.

PLEDGE.

"Pledge" is the word that Dr. Murray is now engaged in tracking down for the purposes of his monumental dictionary—not "pledge" in the pawnbroker's sense or the tectofaller's either, but in its old-time canonical significance—"Let me pledge you in a glass of wine." Quotations of the word in this sense are to be found in Shakespeare and other old authors, and they go as far back as 1551. Most lexicographers are content to accept the anti-poison or anti-assassination theory or tradition—that the drinker is safe for the time being—but Dr. Murray wants something more conclusive than this. He will not be satisfied until he has historical evidence as to the nature of the pledge and what the drinkers pledged themselves to.
