latter after the sides of the barrow have been removed. The basket can be fastened, if so desired, so that it will not fall off, but ordinarily this is not necessary. Such a device will hold nearly three times as much as an ordinary wheelbarrow, and will be welcomed by gardeners. The basket itself is light, and when filled with grass that has just been cut or dried leaves makes a load not nearly so heavy as a load of dirt, yet saves many trips that are otherwise required to remove the litter from the lawn.

FRESH AND ROTTED MANURES

Careful Study of the Effects of Both Will Determine Which is Best to Be Used.

(By H. H. SHEPARD.) There seems to be a difference of opinion as to the value and use of fresh and well-rotted manure, Almost all authors on gardening recommend the use of "well-rotted" manure for all plants.

That well-rotted manure is the safest and best for immediate results in general farm and garden practice is admitted.

But large quantities of this fertilizer are difficult to secure, while fresh manure is plentiful and may be secured at all times. Beside, manure has rotted in heans properly handled, has lost a large share of its best fertilizing properties. The greatest objection to the use of fresh manure for immediate plant growth is that it burns the crop unless the growing season is very wet. This, too, will be admitted is the usual case, yet the bad effects from the use of fresh manure arise from improper methods of applying the manure and the working of the soil after the application. Fresh manure may or may not heat in the soil and injure plants according to the way it is worked in the soil. Fresh manure of course undergoes decomposition and produces heat in the process and the more of it there is in one place the more heat there will be given off. Then to overcome the bad effects of the heat to growing plants fresh the stump. The furnace may be turned manure should be well scattered and well mixed with the soil so that no large amount will remain in any one The soil should be deeply harrowed nothing but deeply buried roots, and and disked, or both, so that all the sometimes the flames will burn these manure is thoroughly incorporated with the soil particles, leaving a uniform mixture. Then the decomposition will be slow, hence a less amount of heat evolved.

BURNING OUT LARGE STUMPS

Satisfactory and Inexpensive Way is to Place Galvanized Furnace Over Object.

A satisfactory and inexpensive way of burning out stumps is to place a galvanized furnace, as shown in the sketch, over the stump and allow it to burn at leisure, writes Mr. Wooley in Popular Mechanics. This furnace is cylindrical and is made of sufficient size to cover the stumps. An ordinary joint of stove pipe is used for the smoke. for this character is steadily on the increase. With this great demand for mineral lands, the price has accordingly gone up, and the state is getting some fancy prices for this land, which, however, is believed to be cheap at the price. It was only a few years ago that mineral lands could be purchased in Texas for $15 to $25 an acre. but now it is nothing unusual for the state to sell this land for $50 and $75 per acre. Indeed, Land Commissioner Robinson said recently that he had just received an application to purchase about twenty-one acres in Brewster county, and for this particular tract he fixed a price of $100 an acre. This land has been proved to contain certain precious metals. There are some other tracts, however, which can station by Elmina Temple brass band be purchased for a somewhat lesser

The state has adopted the policy of not renewing the leases for lands when such leases expire, and instead of releasing the land it is placed on the market for sale. The fact that the movement for the reclamation of millions of acres of fertile land in Texas from overflows is under way, is another reason assigned for the demand for land, and the price for which it is is held longer than that time that Twenty-Sixth District Court, in Aus- party will occupy a fourth car. STERLING CITY, - - TEXAS

It seems to be the fate of men to get angry, but it is poor business. One never makes by it. If God ever takes sides, it is with the victim of an angry tengue, says Ohio State Journal. There ary few eternal things-like candor. kindness and truth-and getting mad hurts these. Emerson suggests that after ten years let a club or company of intelligent men reassemble and what a confession of insanities would come up!" All our fierce words in behalf of the causes we have espoused. how like clatter they would seem. The sincere word is always temperate and kindly. The man who gets wild and brandishes his opinion with gesticulation and vociferation thinks he is pressing the truth home, but he is only scaring it away. To make a real friend of it, he must treat it gently, and those, too, whom he would imoress by it. Just as soon as the angry word is spoken, truth wants to get away and roost off in some dead tree. Of course, a person may be earnest and vigorous of expression, but he must watch closely lest he let hate. prejudice, envy get into his earnestness and spoil it. There was a man who differed with another about polltics, got mad at him and would hardly speak to him. What a low kind of politics it must have been. There was ity and the most aranother man who spoke in terms of dent Rooseveltian bitterness on account of another's religion. He should be born again.

That thrifty element which likes to see the poor "work for what they get" will be gratified at the system in Frankfort-on-the-Main, where the Association for the Poor contracts with property owners to clean their side- and the Navajo buck who has neither walks and sprinkle the streets. Last year about $12,000 out of the society's total budget of $80,000 was expended in wages for these street cleaners, while the contracts with the property owners netted the society about $20,000. The main difficulty with plans of that sort in this country is that such employment of the poor would merely serve to throw out of employment and seller. Naturally the father of a quite an army of men who get living marriageable girl feels that she is wages rather than relief wages for the worth 160 acres of land to him. If work.

When he returns home, after marketing his wool, or visiting the nearest trading store for a supply of tobacco, or giving chase to the nimble jackrabbit, or sojourning for a time with another wife, he gives warning of his approach by a loud "ki-yi," and the old lady scurries to cover, remaining out of sight as long as he is in the neighborhood.

NEED NOT BE THROWN AWAY

Mayonnaise That Has Curdled in the Making Can Easily Ee Put Right.

That mayonnaise, curdled in the making, can be set to rights at once by the addition of a tablespoonful of very cold water is the useful discovery of one housewife. Whether this would be effectual in all recipes for making the epicurean dressing has not been ascertained, but it never fails to be so in her formula, which is a delicious one, as follows:

One raw yolk, one hard-boiled one, both very cold, mixed in a bowl with the addition of a little salt, and if liked a saltspoonful of mustard. Stir in at least half a pint of pure olive oil, afterward thinning to the desired consistency with vinegar or lemon juice. The oil may be put in by the dessertspoonful and stirred very quickly, contrary to the usual laborious process of adding it drop by drop. If all the ingredients and bowl and spoon are well chilled it will not curdle. If this accident should ever occur through any mischance add the cold water and it will be rectified.

MOTH PESTS IN THE FALL Solution of Carbolic Acid Will Help Housekeepers in Fighting Their Enemy.

Many housekeepers, even experienced ones, feel that if they have succeeded in outwitting the voracious moth during the summer months there is nothing more to fear from him. In point of fact, the fall months are dangerous, particularly where a town house is not opened until late.

If one finds moths around in the fall and does not wish to go to the trouble of getting more camphor or tar balls for a comparatively short period, let them try the carbolic acid curé.

Wipe off the wood work, shelves and floor of closet or wherever danger of moths lies, with a solution of carbolic acid. Be careful in doing this that none gets on the hands, as it burns badly when too strong.

After wiping down the woodwork a little of the acid may be put in the cup of a small alcohol stove. The heating causes the fumes to rise through the closet and helps in the moth fighting.

Paper Bags. To keep lettuce fresh, put it in a paper bag, twist the end tight, place this in another bag, and put in a cool place. If troubled with ants, place cake in a box, put this in a strong paper bag, and hang from a hook. If you have to work in the kitchen in a long sleeved waist, slip a paper bag over each arm, making a hole just large enough to admit the hand. This will protect the sleeves and be easily slipped on and off in case the door bell rings. It is an excellent protection in blacking a stove. Put paper bags over canned fruit and the color will be preserved.

Medical Advertising In Japan.

In future no licensed medical practioner will be permitted to advertise in Japan details of methods of medical treatment or the history or success of such methods. Doctors and dentists connected with hospitals or engaging in general practice will not be allowed to advertise any information beyond that indicating their degrees and specialties. In this respect the ordinance approximates perhaps more to the American idea of what is legitimate, for it is quite common to find in transatlantic journals small rectangular spaces containing the name, address and telephone number of some practitioner, with an indication of the branch or branches of work in which he claims to be especially adept and instructed.

Male Chatterboxes.

Are not men in the mass more inveterate gossips than women? Shakespeare's citizens do the real gossiping in his plays, even though he followed tradition in personifying rumor as a dame-"if my gossip report be an honest woman of her word." You will find as much lively and inane chit-chat in any man's clubhouse as in any woman's. The hotel and theater lobbies seethe with the gossiping of men. No village sewing society or mite society can equal the incessant buzz at the grocery store, and when it comes to downright, earnest, unflaggin, dissection of reputation and pernicious tittle-tattle there is no body of women in the land that can hold a candle to the foolish adult chatter. boxes at any political headquarters.

Not Altogether a Treat.

Coming out of one of the large department stores two well-dressed women saw a group of street urchins gazing at their automobile and one little girl was heard to say: "Wish I could have a ride in it." The women smiled and then the child was asked if she would really like a ride and was helped into the machine after assuring the women that she would not be missed at home. Her companions set up a cheer as the machine started and it returned half an hour later, bringing back the little girl. The women congratulated themselves on having given the little one an extraordinary treat, but were disenchanted when she told them that her father was a chauffeur and that she liked his machine "a great deal better."-New York Tribune.

Throughout the country men convicted of "black hand" crimes are receiving exemplary punishment. Which is quite as it should be. The offense is most cowardly, cruel and detestable. It is evident that the authorities and the courts perceive the necessity of dealing sternly with the perpetrators, and in this they are backed by public opinion. By using the law effectively the "black hand" business, which is a very undesirable importation, can be suppressed and those who come to this country to better themselves may learn that it can not be done by such abhorrent methods.

In the midst of the rapid historymaking nature of the times it is interesting to have our attention distracted for a space from the busy things of earth to learn from scientific experts that there is a difference of opinion about there being water on Mars. Consequently, we are left in harrowing suspense as to whether the men on Mars are digging those famous canals for waterways or merely to pass the time.

The long and severe winter has some features which it may put forward as a plea in abatement. The western wheat growers say the grain undoubtedly will be benefited by the blanket of snow that has covered the fields.

Opinions to the effect that the hookworm is a myth are encouraging, but not fully verified.

Hall to the rabbit as our deliverer from the hands of the meat trust

As might be anticipated, neither the rich nor the poor of the Navajoes are at all pleased with the rumors that have reached them of the government's ultimate intentions. They are well satisfied to take their land allotments, but if any attempt is made to compel them to live upon their lands there will be trouble. They have been accustomed to wandering wherever the spirit moved them-driving their flocks and herds before them and stopping wherever water was abundant and pasturage good. To be corralled in fenced-in farms and compelled to live year after year in the same place will prove intolerable. To confine a Navajo on a 160-acre farm will work as great a hardship on him as to shut a white man up in a six by ten prison cell.

The Navajo reservation comprises an area of perhaps 15,000,000 acres and estimates of the number of tribespeople vary all the way from 18,000 to 28,000. It might appear, then, that their reservation was big enough to give them all elbow room. The Navajos have never thought so and pay not the slightest heed to reservation limits. Without so much as saying "by your leave," they have taken possession of the major part of the reservations of the Hopis of Arizona and the Zunis of New Mexico. Then they are scattered all over southern Utah, southwestern Colorado An-i-mal. and the public lands of northern New Mexico and Arizona. They occupy an area larger than the entire state of Pennsylvania and will do a lot of grumbling at any attempt to curtail their liberty of movement. Baked Mutton Stew.

Remove the fat from the meat you usually get for your mutton stew and brown in a hot greased frying pan. Add two cups of water or more and pour all into a beanpot. Add a stalk of celery and a carrot cut into small cubes with whatever seasoning is desired. Cook two hours or longer in a slow oven and you will have an inexpensive dish of well-flavored meat.

Tomato Mustard.

One peck of ripe tomatoes skinned, six red peppers, boil one hour; then strain through sieve. Add half pound pepper, two of ginger, one of allspice; boil all together one hour and a half. When cold mix half pound of ground mustard in one pint of vinegar; put all together, stir well and bottle, and it is ready for use.

Potato Hint.

When preparing scalloped potatoes, macaroni, in fact anything in the scalloped line, with milk, instead of pouring the milk over all, make a cream sauce not too thick and pour over warm about half an hour before putting in the oven. This does not take as long to bake and you are always sure of having the potatoes or macaroni the right consistency.

Quick to Learn Music.

The talent of the negro race for music is shown by the experience of the bandmaster of a regiment of native troops in Jamaica. When he took charge not a man in the command knew a single note. Only one or two could paly an instrument even a little. Yet in six months he had selected his musicians and taught them enough to appear in public. Two or three years later their fame had spread to England and they were invited there to give a series of concerts. Their tour was highly successful.

The Grand Canyon.

It is, of course, possible that the Grand Canyon of the Colorado may have been a "crack" in the earth caused by earthquake action, but in the books of geology we are given to understand that it is the result of the wearing down of the strata by the action of the waters of the river. It it impossible to get at anything like a definite conclusion as to the age of the Grand canyon. The figures of the geologists differ, but all agree that the mighty gorge has been many tens of thousands of years in the making.

Egg Mystery Has Led to 20 Fights

Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the rec-ognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, musclemaking materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. > Hinduism is awakening to the fact that if the great sub-strata of Hindu society known as the depressed classes be raised by Christianity, the whole structure of Hinduism is theatened with overthrow. This awakening is being followed by efforts in various parts for the improvement of these poor people. The latest is a movement in Ahmedabad. In that city, on August 29, a meeting was held at which the attendance of the depressed classes was encouraged and in which they were allowed to sit beside caste people. Resolutions were passed for the formation of a Central Hindu association, which should have for its objects the raising of the depressed classes and their readmission into Hinduism after being converts to foreign faiths. As to the means to be adopted for realizing these objects, the following suggestions were made: (a) Starting schools, clubs and associations; (b) establishing preaching missions; (c) publishing papers, periodicals, magazines and leaflets; (d) adopting such other means as may be conducive to the above objects. In all its forms, among all ages of horses and dogs, cured and others in the same stable prevented from having the disease be conducive to the above objects.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? We can furnish positive proof that it has made many remarkable cures after all other means had failed.

Women who are suffering with some form of female illness should consider this.

As such evidence read these two unsolicited testimonial letters. We guarantee they are genuine and honest statements of facts.

Cresson, Pa .- " Five years ago I had a bad fall, and hurt myself inwardly. I was under a doctor's care for nine weeks, and when I stopped I grew worse again. I sent for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it as directed. and now I am a stout, hearty woman." - Mrs. Ella E. Aikey, Cresson, Pa.

Baird, Wash.-"A year ago I was sick with kidney and bladder troubles and female weakness. The doctors gave me up. All they could do was to just let me go as easily as possible. I was advised by friends to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. I am completely cured of my ills, and I am nearly sixty years old."-Mrs. Sarah Leighton, Baird. Wash.

Evidence like the above is abundant showing that the derangements of the female organism which breed all kinds of miserable feelings and which ordinary practice does not cure, are the very disorders that give way to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are afflicted with similar troubles, after reading two such letters as the above, should be encouraged to try this wonderfully helpful remedy.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to erself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass,
