VOL. I

HEDLEY, DONLEY COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1911

NO. 47

Come to Hedley, the Town with a Future, Situated in the Famous Farming Country

THE COUNTY FAIR WAS A GOOD ONE

The editor attended the Donley county fair at Clarendon Saturday, and was agreeably surprised at the excellence of the fair. It was splendid, for the first fair. The farm products and poultry were shown in a large store building; the art exhibit in the court house; and the stock in a yard.

In the poultry line the county is up with any when it comes to high class poultry.

In the farm products exhibit could be seen the finest kind and the greatest variety ever shown. Fine corn, kaffir, maize, cane, wheat, oats, rye, cotton millet, pumpkins, potatoes, watermelons, all kinds of vegetables, fruits and in fact every thing that will grow in this climate, were placed in pleasing style where visitors could see. A sum of money was made up to send the exhibit to the State fair, which is a good thing to do.

Fine stock was shown and Donley county is not behind when it comes to fine horses, mules, hogs, etc.

A large crowd visited the fair both days and everyone seemed well pleased. We feel sure Donley county will reap splendid benefits from the fair, and next year every man, woman and child in the county should take an interest and help to make our fair the best in county fair in the State.

Gus Johnson and children were down from Clarendon Sunday visiting. He ordered the Informer to be sent to him every week.

R. B. JONES CAPTURES A BRIDE AT LUBBOCK

Last Sunday at 10:30 a. m. at the home of W. E. Cope in Lubbock occurred the marriage of his daughter, Miss Alice, to Mr. R. B. Jones of near Hedley. Immediately after noon the newly wedded pair boarded the train and arrived in Hedley on the 9:05 train Sunday night.

The bride is spoken of in the highest terms by those who know her as a young lady of accomplishment and number her friends by her acquaintances.

The groom is a prosperous young farmer of this community who stands high in the regard of all who know him. He is now building a neat cottage on his farm southwest of town in which they expect to make their home.

The Informer joins the many friends in offering congratulations and best wishes.

Every new road laid out where it will add convenience to any part of a section, every bridge and culvert erected or improved, every hill graded, every road widened or straightened, every breaker removed, adds value to the whole country about. The desirability of a community is made up of all the advantages, conveniences, improvements and wealth of the different parts comprising it, and every possibility for betterment left neglected or undone is a resource undeveloped for the community. The improvement of highways is a golden key that will unlock to the people all the good things that make life happy and pleasant, comfort, convenience, culture, wealth and elegance.

HEDLEY LEADS AS COTTON MARKET

Our neighboring towns have been heretofore making some of the Hedley territory farmers think they had the only cotton markets, and Hedley had none. We will admit that for a while the town south of us would catch a man from near Hedley there with a bale of cotton and give him a good stiff price for the staple, making it appear that their buyers had better limits than Hedley buyers. But now their bonus cotton money must be running short for Wednesday, we are informed, one of our farmers took a bale to that town and only received $9 10 per hundred while bale after sold here for $9 25 that day. Tuesday Hedley paid $9 30 and the other only $9. All week long we've been leading in prices, and it seems to us that our farmers are beginning to find out that Hedley is a live one as well as others, not only in being a cotton market but a place to buy goods as well.

The Hedley gin is now running day and night, having two sets of gin crews and the farmers can now get their cotton ginned without any unnecessary delay. This means quite a saving in time for the farmers, and time

REPORT OF COTTON CROP CONDITIONS

The government report of cotton crop conditions on Sept. 25 is given as follows for the United States:

The 10-year average is 66.5 per cent; 1910 condition was 65.9 per cent; and for 1911 is 71.1.

The average yield per acre for years from 1901 to 1910 was 182.4 pounds.

Estimated acreage planted 1911 is given at 35,004,000 acres; Texas having the highest, 10,868,000 acres; Georgia comes second with 5,119,000 acres.

Imperial Shop for Barbering.

is money during the fall season. The gin is now turning out from 50 to 60 bales every day and night and that is going to give this town a lot of cotton this fall.

A buyer in one of our neighboring towns when told that Hedley was beating them on cotton prices remarked, that the buyers were foolish to be paying more than the market price. As a matter of fact all the towns in this section of the Panhandle have been paying as much as the quoted prices of the seaports, which goes to show that the towns are striving to give the people what is their due.

PUTTING IN ELECTRIC DYNAMO AT THE GIN

W. L. Lewis & Son are having a dynamo installed at the gin to furnish light so they can operate the gin day and night if necessary to keep up with the cotton coming in. Since a little bad luck last week with their pump, which kept the gin idle a day or so, the gin has been ginning a lot of cotton.

NOW HAVE WATER FOR THE TEAMS OF FARMERS

Tuesday pipe was laid from Hornsby's well to the Cicero Smith yard where a large watering trough has been placed. The trough is now kept full of water for the benefit of each and every farmer who has a team to water when he comes to town.

Those who have shade trees to replace or new plantings to make will find it advisable to prepare the lands some time before the trees are to be transplanted. To wait until the trees arrive and then expect to get hard land in good condition for the trees is responsible for many failures. The trees deserve a better fate. The land should be well pulverized though the holes need not be dug until later. Where trees are to be set along the street or in hard ground on the lawn, the land may be dug up with a spade or mattock, taking care to dig deep and pulverize the land well. A much larger space should be dug than the roots of the tree will occupy. And if the soil is dry the land should be irrigated if possible. When the land is prepared as advised no difficulty will be found in transplanting the trees when they are delivered. They can be easily set and will begin growth promptly.—Farm & Ranch.

PUBLIC SCHOOL STARTED MONDAY

Public school opened Monday with a good attendance. This promises to be the best school year in Hedley's history, under the instruction of the capable superintendent and his able assistants. The Informer would be glad to have some one in school act as school reporter for the paper.

Frank Kendall moved down from Clarendon Wednesday and is domiciled in the residence recently vacated by J. M. Killian. Frank is stepping high these days; his baby took the blue ribbon at the fair last week. The Informer welcomes this splendid family to our town.

Several Denver railroad officials paid Hedley a visit yesterday. They were very much pleased with the growth of the town and the good crops in this section. This is their first visit here in some three years.

What is true of highways in relation to nations and states is true of them in relation to the smaller communities, counties and townships. Wherever the means of transportation are best the people are more prosperous and the values are highest. The evolution is the same as with the homes. First, a mere track through the wilderness, then out of necessity, the road. Where the travel is great, the turnpike or macadam road follows, and they in turn in the cities and suburbs, give way to roads of brick and asphalt. Good roads will operate as a check against exorbitant charges for transportation, both of person and goods. There can be no exorbitant charges for transportation with such facilities in competition.

It lays with the people of every community to provide improvements for themselves. To obtain them, the people each community must not hinder, but encourage every proper means for progress in their development. Money intelligently spent for betterment of the highways is a gilt edge investment for all the people of the community.

While in Clarendon Saturday it was our pleasure to meet the new editor of the News, Mr. Warren, and we are confident that he is going to make Clarendon sit up and take notice. The News deserves the united support of that town and with that support can accomplish great things for town and country. Any newspaper that stands up for its town deserves more than it usually gets.

In the onward march of civilization, there has been no factor of greater importance than that of transportation or the getting of the people from one place to another. The people of isolated places, from whatever cause, and whether these places have been nations, states, counties, townships or small communities, have always brought up the rear in the advance of progress in everything that pertains to the necessities, comforts, culture, wealth and luxuries of life.

A lawyer charges a man $10 for ten minutes conversation. The man insists on paying it. A doctor charges one dollar for a prescription and the patient says, "Oh, pshaw! is that enough?" An undertaker charges $100 for conducting a funeral, and he is just perfectly lovely with everybody inside and outside the family. A man buys a gold brick and apologises for not having bitten before. An editor walks a mile in the sun to get facts of a death or wedding or social function and spends three hours in writing it up and telling lies praising people until he hates himself. Then if he makes an insignificant omission or charges five cents straight for three extra he is a stingy good-for-nothing old cuss who never gets anything right, and charges four times the price of the city papers twice as large.—Eagle Investigator.

It is not possible to make stronger the proof that good cultivation is profitable. There are still a few so-called farmers who ridicule the "scientific farmers," but the evidence of the past years have made the intelligent part of the farmers to know that there is much of science in their occupation, and that scientific farmers are doing better work and reaping better rewards than those who fail to learn. Even the boys who placed themselves under direction of the department of agriculture made several times as much as did their fathers. The fact that by good methods farmers may even double, and triple the values of their productions has tended to solve the land question. When one acre with proper methods produces as much as three acres with improper methods, the area of the farms is tripled without adding acres on top. For the man who will not learn there is little hope; but his son may after all be the better man, the better farmer and the better citizen.—Farm & Ranch
