HEDLEY SCHOOL

CLOSED FRIDAY

Hedley public school closed last Friday night. Misses Horne, Allison and Akers gave an entertainment to a packed audience in the auditorium. The program was good but owing to the uncomfortable crowded condition it was impossible to give the best attention to the rendition of the program. The auditorium is entirely too small for the crowds that attend, and when it was built it was considered ample for years to come.

Misses Allison and Akers have gone to their homes and Miss Horne is teaching an extra session, having quite a number of pupils.

REV. DUBBS DELIVERED GOOD LECTURE

Rev. E. E. Dubbs of Clarendon delivered his lecture "Pioneer Days in the Panhandle" at the church last evening under the auspices of the Baptist and Methodist missionary societies. A large crowd listened to his talk and at times were held breathless in hearing his recital of personal experiences with the buffalo and the Indians.

The lovers of Indian tales and of adventure cannot help but be interested in his lecture.

He shows how the hand of God seemed to aid the pioneers in overcoming those great difficulties of conquering the savages and opening up the way for the settlement of the greatest country on earth—the Panhandle. His story of reconstruction days is highly interesting and interspersed with humor. All who did not hear him missed a treat.

Mrs. E. H. Willis returned Sunday from Cook county where she attended her father's funeral. She left Rosston Saturday evening just a few minutes before the cyclone struck the town which destroyed about a dozen houses and killed lots of stock but no people seriously hurt.

Grandma Johnson returned home Monday after a three weeks visit with her son in Clarendon.

I will be in Hedley next Wednesday and Thursday, May 1 and 2 to do Dental work.

Dr. J. F. Tomlinson.

Jewelry and Watch repairing, anything that is broken I can do up in first-class shape, if it can be fixed at all. Baird, Jeweler.

L. D. Clark has started a residence in north Hedley on lots he bought from E. C. Kerley. Hedley keeps growing, and yet there is always a demand for more residences.

RING

The young people all report a nice time at a candy breaking at the home of Tom Stallings and wife.

Miss Minnie Busby is able to be up after being confined to her bed several days.

J. F. Davis and son Dudley carried their last bale of bolls to town Monday.

Bro. Horn filled his regular appointment at Ring Sunday.

Willie Allen attended Quarterly Conference at Marelo Saturday.

O. A. Crow and wife spent Sunday with Dell O'Neal and wife in the Lillie community.

Grandpa Fincher of Amarillo is visiting his son in our community.

Farmers are busy planting corn and maize and listing land.

Elmo Bunting, who spent the winter in the mountains of N. M., has come back to stay.

Neal Stewart is helping Tom Stallings farm.

Olliver Busby is at home after attending school at Wellington.

The prospects for a fruit crop is fine.

Several of the young people of the Ring community attended singing at Mr. Abbott's Sunday evening. They report a fine singing.

Mrs. Harrison is expected home this week. She has been visiting her parents who live in Childress. Mr. Harrison has been batching during her absence.

T. E. Arnold went to Memphis Saturday for some repairs for the windmill, while he was gone some one came along turned the mill loose and several pieces were broken before it was shut off.

Mrs. A. C. Arnold was on the sick list last week but is reported to be getting along fine now.

AN OBSERVER.

GEMETERY ASSOCIATION

There will be a call meeting of the Cemetery Association on Saturday April 27. Everybody is earnestly requested to be present.

By order of
Mrs. S. L. Adamson
President.

Mrs. G. A. Wimberly and children went to Wise, Jack and Parker counties last week to visit relatives and old friends. She arrived there Saturday only a few hours after the cyclone had passed through. And she attended the funeral of Mrs. Richardson and her three children who were killed in the storm in Parker county.

McKNIGHT

News is quite scarce this week as most of the men are at court.

Mrs. Sallie Lewis is visiting her parents, J. X. Miller and wife, this week.

Some are talking of planting cotton next week.

The Gimlet attended the old soldiers reunion at Clarendon last Tuesday and had a big time. The soldiers could not use the rifle like they used to do.

Quite a large crowd attended our prayer meeting Sunday night.

Miss Richie Watkins is visiting her brother, Cal Watkins, at Lakeview this week.

THE GIMLET.

B. W. M. U.

Met with Mrs. P. C. Johnson April 23. Lesson subject, Christian Stewardship. Bible study, The message of Malachi. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. J. C. Wells May 14. We invite all to attend these meetings and help to make each meeting more interesting.

Corresponding Secretary.

The Methodist District Conference is in session at Claude. Quite a number of delegates from here are attending and will try to secure the next session. If they do it will mean something for Hedley.

The Annual Confederate Reunion meets at Macon, Ga. May 7th 8th and 9th. The rate from Hedley about ley will be $23.65

LELIA LAKE

Lelia Lake is still progressing nicely. Two new residences are being built. The farmers are busy preparing their land for another crop.

Miss Mayme Griffith spent Sunday in Memphis with friends.

Miss Ruby Quisenberry of Goodnight has been visiting Miss Jessie Cook this week.

There was quite a number of young folks went to the box supper at Sunnyview Saturday night. All reported splendid time.

Mrs. O. H. Albert and son Bill left last night for New Mexico on a visit.

G. A. Wimberly of Hedley spent Sunday in Lelia Lake.

G. T. Adams and daughter Miss Tommie spent Sunday in Clarendon.

Miss Mabel Dodson returned to Memphis Monday night. We hope that she will teach here again next year. She had great success this term.

Nick Fryar spent Sunday in Southard.

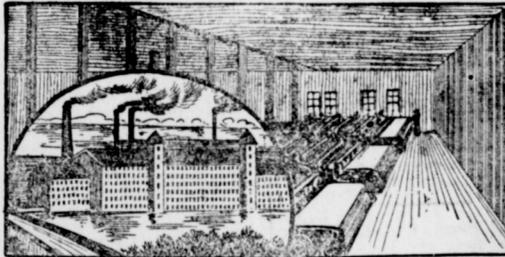

School closed here last Friday.

JACK AND JILL.

A. A. Beedy lost a corn crib and about 25 bushels of corn by fire Monday. It is his belief that a match was stepped on which lighted some shucks near the crib, but was not discovered until the crib and corn were on fire. About 75 bushels were saved.

Dr. J. F. Tomlinson of Memphis will do Dental work in Hedley May 1 and 2.

Cotton Mills

WE MANUFACTURE ONLY ONE BALE OUT OF EVERY SEVENTY PRODUCED.

The factory is the farmer's market house and he must travel until he reaches it and pay the freight to destination. The Texas farmers ship their crop ten thousand miles to reach the factory. We have 15 cotton factories in Texas valued at $2,229,000. We manufacture approximately 60,000 bales of cotton per annum. Building factories in Texas to manufacture the cotton we produce would require an investment of $350,000,000. To gain control of the cotton industry, we must build factories.

The Texas Velfare Commission is investigating the Fabrication of Cotton into Cloth and the establishment of Cotton Mills. O. E. Dunlap of Waxahatchie is chairman of the sub-committee having the investigation in charge.

OUR LEATHER GOODS

Are the very best made and you cannot help but say so too when you have given a thorough trial to our harness, saddles, bridles, collars, etc. Call and see our line of goods and get our prices.

KENDALL & GAMMON

NAYLOR

Spring seems to be here in earnest; the fruit trees are loaded with blossoms and if we don't have any more freezes we will have lots of fruit.

Mrs. McReynolds came in from Denton last Saturday to visit her brother T. N. Naylor and nephew, B. F. and T. L. Naylor, and niece, Mrs. Roy Kendall.

There were several of the Naylor citizens met at Hedley last Saturday at the call meeting. Every one in Naylor is interested for we need a phone line in our neighborhood.

T. F. Gregory has a bunch of men gathering up the big RO steers and are holding them here on Lake creek until ready to ship.

The young folks of this community met at the home of T. L. Naylor last Sunday evening and spent a few hours singing for the benefit of grandpa and grand-ma grant.

O. A. Hefner and family visited the home of Dr. Fields Sunday.

Mrs. Greer, wife and daughter Ethel visited the family of T. N. Sunday.

Mrs. J. R. Kirkwood left Friday for her home at Stratford after a weeks visit with her sister Mrs. J. S. Hall.

The Naylor school will close Friday after a successful six months term.

The people in this neighborhood are all about through boiling their cotton and they are preparing the ground for a new crop.

N. T. Hodges went to court this week, but he begged off and came back home.

K. W. Howell of Hedley was in Naylor Monday shaking hands with the old farmers, bowing to the ladies and kissing all the babies. We are sure he would be the next county judge if the ladies could vote.

Ed Jennings and family and Miss Ruby Johnson attended church at Bray Sunday.

The Raughlie man was in the community Tuesday and so far we are well pleased with his goods.

J. S. Hall had the misfortune to get his finger cut off Monday while crushing feed. It has proved to be a painful member ever since.

AUNT JANE.

The young folks will put on a play, Tony the Convict, this Friday night. It will likely be good as they have spent considerable time in preparation.

The Albright Drug Co. has the best assortment of drugs and sundries.

TEXAS HOSPITALITY

We Shake Hands With 250,000 Tourists and Welcome 69,000 Immigrants Annually.

True Southern Hospitality abounds in Texas. We frequently visit each other at our homes, shake hands with 250,000 tourists and welcome 69,000 immigrants annually to their new Texas homes, and royally entertain many National conventions. We have many parks and public places for recreation and amusement.

We are equally as generous and hospitable to capital. We have given the right of way to railroads, factory sites to industrial enterprises, built a new town every thirty days, opened up 6,418 new farms per annum and looked after the comforts and conveniences of all forms of investments, in addition to cultivating 19,000,000 acres of cotton, 8,800,000 acres of corn, 1,252,000 acres of wheat, cut 1,310,000 acres of grass, gathered fruit from 25,000,000 trees, taken care of 13,000,000 head of live stock and manufactured $178,179,000 of raw material, as well as run the errands of civilization. We are doing considerable construction work, and we offer no apology to visitors for our physical appearance, as our trash is the litter of the work-shop and our dirt the smudge of toil; but we are always glad to answer questions and never too busy to show visitors through our store-house of opportunities; in fact, our liberality with our advantages has been the marvel of visitors and the opportunity of outside capital.

We Are Good People.

Texas have all of the nobler impulses of human life, and many of our virtues abound to an unusual extent. We entertain capital, and take care of a multitude of investors. We are perfectly frank in our statements and honest in our views and transfer the title of magnificent opportunities to fortunate purchasers without envy or jealousy.

Dr. Norris was acquitted on the perjury charge at Fort Worth this week. It was a surprise for most everyone, though it was plain that he was innocent. Wonder how Clarence Ousley feels now.

You can feel better these stormy looking days and nights if you will let me write a Tornado policy on your property. Its cheap.

J. C. Wells.

Business Instinct

Salesman Should Be Good Judge of Values

By T. RAYLE BRUCE

ONE day a crippled lad wandered into a country store and thus accosted the proprietor: "Can I sell you some lead pencils today? I have some nice ones at 25 cents a dozen."

The merchant sold pencils himself, and was therefore not a likely purchaser, but as business was not particularly rushing at that moment he indulged in a little good-natured chaff at the boy's expense. He examined the pencils carelessly and asked in feigned amazement, "What, 25 cents a dozen for these? I have a better pencil in stock that I sell for 15 cents a dozen," and he reached over to the show case and pulled out a package of pencils for which he had actually paid 45 cents a dozen only a few days before.

The boy took them in hand, examined them critically, reached down into his pocket, passed 15 cents over to the proprietor with the remark, "I guess I'll take these," and calmly walked out of the store.

Nor did the merchant stop him and explain that it was a joke. It was done in such a businesslike way and the youngster had taken it so seriously that he won the other's admiration and the merchant admitted in telling the story on himself that it was the best case of business instinct he had seen for many a day.

The crippled boy had a quality in his makeup that meant success. This attribute was keen judgment or business acumen. He so quickly recognized the value of the pencils that he acted in his own interest at once. It is as important for the salesman as it is for the merchant that he should know how to determine values.

In almost any business you can find employees who have grown gray in the service whose judgment of values has not grown with their years. Younger employees, with less experience, may have it. The latter have that inestimable treasure, business instinct—the former never will have it. The latter will succeed in a business where buying and selling are the factors; the former will not.

The man who has not in him the business instinct which makes him a judge of values had better get out of a business that calls for buying and selling and into another line of work where it is not required.

Plan for Starting Honest Men on Farms

By WILLIAM EISEN, Chicago

The newspapers at the present time are crowded with inducements and offers of farms. The present cry is: "Back to the farm!" Meetings are held, organizations convene, all in order to help the over-flooding population to go to farming. The government opens lands, and, in fact, everything is done to "boost" the country life. But who goes there? Who gets the land? Only people possessed of at least some means, like the farmer or the small merchant, who has a bank account after selling out.

The extremely poor man who longs for the country, who would joyfully till the soil, has to take a back seat. He has not the means to travel the distances or to acquire the first requisites.

I myself bought, years ago, ten acres in the east, intending to go there and raise small garden truck, but fate kept me here, until now, when, because of high expense, I am totally unable to go. The land is there, unused.

So we see that with all their good intentions the different organizations have not got at the root of the evil.

There should be institutions which furnish to willing and honest men the first substantial means to start them on land which they own, taking such lands for a certain length of time as security for the amount received.

There are thousands who could thus be happy to become farmers and raise the food supply for the cities.

The government should advance to those the means needed and not compel them to spend the little they have saved for traveling hundreds of miles only to find out that their lottery ticket did not win.

Look Trouble Squarely in Eye Is Best

By Sarah G. Benedict

Why do we hear the lament, "My husband gets only $18 a week?" Does the one who utters it know that there are hundreds of wives who would think they were "motoring through life" if they had so much?

My husband gets $12 a week and I have three "kiddlets," four years, two years and two months old. Of course we have no steam heated flat and electric light, nor do we envy those who have.

We are healthy and happy. We have good, wholesome food and plenty of it. We pay $12 a month rent, carry insurance on our furniture and our lives. We have a gas bill of $2 or more each month.

We look our troubles in the face and laugh them away. We have no grocery bills nor butcher bills to bother us, for we pay cash as we go.

Some day we expect to be better off in worldly goods. But till then we'll love, live and let live and when "the shock of our awakening" comes—we are still dreaming—and we "realize the conditions of life" we will lean stronger on "the Great Love" and think wealth, health and happiness, for as a man thinketh, so is he.

Another Common Gender Pronoun Offered

By A. E. Schuyler, Edison Park, Ill.

Before the subject of common gender pronouns is dropped I would like to offer my suggestion.

Already several good ones have been proposed, but in each instance the new word might conflict, in sound if not in spelling, with other words already in use.

I would suggest "heor," "hisor," "him-or," in which case the other gender would be understood, as it would take the place of "he or she," "his or her," "him or her."

And further, to make it more plain, the words might be hyphenated, such as "he-or," "his-or," "him-or," and in this way they could not possibly conflict with any other word.

LOST MINES OF DESERT

LOOKING TOWARD DEATH VALLEY

ALMOST every mineral region has its stories of lost mines, but there is no place where there exists a better excuse for them than the great American desert. It is the lure of lost mines that has caused a great deal of the prospecting and exploration of the deserts in recent years, and in one manner or other you will find that a tradition of a lost mine is at the bottom of almost every important discovery.

The fame of Death Valley has been largely due to the fact that a number of glowing stories of lost treasure have centered about it since the earlier days of the first explorers who crossed its vast and mysterious wastes.

There is the well authenticated story of the "Lost Breyfogle Mine," which is known to many old-timers, and the golden lure of which has been a constant incentive to prospectors for half a century. Then there is "The Lost Gun-sight," the story of which has spread far and wide and has become one of the permanent legends of the western mining world.

"The Lost Alford," somewhere in the western verges of Death Valley, has about it a tangle of romance like that of the Spanish treasures. And there is still another treasure story pertaining to the discovery of a mountain of solid black sulphurets of silver, somewhere in the southern Panamints, by a straggling party of immigrants, who made their way through that region in 1850.

These stories all give to that region a coloring and allurements that makes it worth while to here relate them.

The Breyfogle.

It was somewhere back in the early sixties when all the southwest was still an arid and sparsely settled country, that an early pioneer of the desert mountains, namely James Breyfogle, a prospector, made his way into the Death Valley region, and with the aid of a burro, was exploring and prospecting the Funeral mountains, on the eastern verge of the great, forlorn, desolate and mysterious valley of death. But the burros then were as burros now and inclined to stray away, as only burros can, and so one day when Mr. Breyfogle, like many prospectors before and since, had gone in search of his burro, he found himself lured on and on in the vain effort to locate the beast or distinguish it from other objects, he penetrated a vast, far canyon in the Funeral range, partly for purposes of prospecting and exploration and partly to determine if the burro might be found browsing in there somewhere or seeking the company of other burros.

However he found no friendly or familiar object of the animate world, only the vast and sun-blackened, weather-beaten cliffs and crags and the gray and solemn sages and sand and the strewn debris of the hollows.

Finally he espied a lone willow tree in a ravine, and with the instinct of one accustomed to the deserts he knew that the willow was a good indication of water. Upon investigation he found that there was really a spring beside the willow, and what was more, that a big ledge of heavy, dark, rusty ore traversed the ravine just above. Breaking off some of the rock he saw that it was permeated with gold. The yellow, lustrous gleam of the metal everywhere in the half-corroded ledge quickly gave the lone prospector the conviction that he had discovered one of the greatest gold deposits ever known. He broke from the ledge a number of specimens and finally in the gathering dusk he resumed his way over the crags and ridges and after some hours of devious travel was again at his camp.

With a great resolve to get out to the settlements and thence return with companions and equipment, the lone prospector with such thoughts as would come to most men under such circumstances made his way across the rugged solitudes, in the direction of civilization.

Just what befell at certain points in this journey seems never to have been remembered by Breyfogle—whether he was deranged by thirst and hardships and fell and injured himself, or as he believed, he was set upon by Indians. When ultimately reaching the settlements he was bruised and bewildered but still carried the wondrous specimens, rich with gold.

Breyfogle made numerous returns to the locality of his find, but could never again locate the coveted spot. In protracted efforts to find these treasures he enlisted the aid of several of his friends who were prominent frontiersmen of those days, but all to no avail.

Lure of "The Lost Gun-Sight."

At a time when Death Valley was as little known to the prospector as it still is to the public there was a man named Bennett who was of a party of immigrants, making their way westward through that region. He had straggled in advance of his companions, and being almost famished for water he found what is known as "Bennett's Hole," this being on the western bars of Death Valley. Bennett afterward made his way into the foothills of the Panamint mountains, some 20 miles to the westward. Here he found a spring of good water and camped, as best he could, to recuperate. He was not a prospector but was attracted by the metallic quality of croppings that were in great quantity about the spring and protruded in a mammoth ledge near by.

When Bennett, after great hardships and wandering, finally made his way out to settlements in the farther valleys of California he still carried a specimen of this heavy, silvery ore; and later obtaining a gun that lacked a sight, Bennett took the gun and the ore to a blacksmith shop and had a sight fashioned out of this metal, which the blacksmith told him was silver, and hence the story of the "Lost Gun-sight mine," which Bennett and his friends afterward searched for in vain, and scores have lost their lives trying to find.

"The Peg-leg mine," somewhere in southeastern California, is one of the best authenticated and most famous of all lost treasures of the desert. Like an Ignis Fatuus it lures men ever to the domains of the purple mist, for there somewhere upon a lone hillock lie its heavy heaps of gold.

It was "Peg-leg Smith," an old prospector of the earlier days, who first found this treasure, and though crazed with thirst he reached civilization with some of the nuggets. But try as he would "Peg-leg Smith" could never retrace his steps to that alleged wealth and he finally died cursing the bitterness of fate.

Lord Rosebery, Phrasemaker.

Lord Rosebery, a master phrasemaker, has credit for a phrase which he never originated. When he addressed the editors of the empire at the White City in June 5, 1900, he was reported in many newspapers to have said that Europe was "rattling into barbarism."

A capital phrase. The word "rattling" suggests bayonets, guns, and military accoutrements; "barbarism" stands for the mad competition in armaments. What Lord Rosebery said was that Europe was "relapsing into barbarism," which is equally true but less picturesque. In the official report of the Imperial Press Conference, however, the phrase used is "relapsing into militarism," which is obviously incorrect, as there was never so much militarism in the history of Europe, as there is at the present time. While Lord Rosebery said "relapsing into barbarism," "rattling" has got such a start in the popular press that we fear he will never be able to get rid of it.—London Chronicle.

"All the world loves a lover." "But not when he's holding a busy telephone for a twenty-minute talk with his turtle dove."

Exceptions.

"Don't you think the promiscuous kissing of babies is detrimental?" "Not if you are running for office."

BACKACHE A SIGNAL OF DISTRESS

Pain in the back is the kidney's signal of distress. If this timely warning is ignored, there is grave danger of dropsy, gravel, uric poisoning, or Bright's disease.

When you have reason to suspect your kidneys, use a special kidney medicine.

Doan's Kidney Pills relieve weak, congested kidneys—regulate the uric acid—good proof in the following statement.

A DOCTOR'S TESTIMONY

"Every Picture Tells a Story" Dr. H. Green, 215 N. 4th St., Yakima, Wash., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills in my practice for years and they have given satisfaction. FOR TETTER, SCALY FACE ERUPTION

Use Tetterine. It is also an absolute cure for Eczema, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Infant's Scaly Head and all other itching cutaneous diseases. It gives instant relief and effects permanent cures.

"After thirty years' experience in the drug business, I can truthfully say that I have never seen a remedy equal to Tetterine for skin diseases. A few applications have made a complete cure of Tetter on hands, which I had almost despaired of ever curing. I also find it unequalled for chapped and rough skin." Roland B. ## HAD IT TIMED TO A NICETY

But Limit to Existence of Imprecunious Grandee Was Not Set by God of Love.

Representative Henry of Texas, continuing his campaign against international marriages, said at a dinner in Washington:

"Old Gobsa Golde's daughter, Lotta Golde, the heiress, was courted very strenuously last month at Monte Carlo by a Spanish grandee.

"Wherever she went—walking on the terrace, lunching at Ciro's, playing in the Casino—the grandee, immaculate in his Poole clothes, was at her elbow.

"The man said to her one evening, between the acts of Dejanire, in the beautiful Salle Garnier:

"Mees Golde—Lotta—wizout you I cannot exist but one fortnight more!"

"You can only exist another fortnight, Don Guzman? But tell me, cried the beautiful girl—tell me how you can specify a definite time like that?"

"Helas, Mees Golde," said the Spaniard, "it is not I, it is my creditors, who do ze specifying!"

Such is Life.

Dugan—Oh, my, oh, my! Isn't Casey put'n on grand airs wid his new automobile? An' over in the oild country I dare say he went barefooted.

Ryan—Faith, not be his own accounts. He says he had a turnout over there that attracted great attention.

Dugan—Av course; an' evictin' always does.

SHE QUIT COFFEE

And Much Good Came From It.

It is hard to believe that coffee will put a person in such a condition as it did a woman of Apple Creek, O. She tells her own story:

"I did not believe coffee caused my trouble, and frequently said 'I liked it, even if it took my life, but I was a miserable sufferer from heart trouble and nervous prostration for four years. I was scarcely able to go around at all. Had no energy, and did not care for anything. Was emaciated and had a constant pain around my heart until I thought I could not endure it. I felt as though I was liable to die any time.

"Frequently I had nervous chills and the least excitement would drive sleep away, and any little noise would upset me terribly. I was gradually getting worse until finally one day, it came over me, and I asked myself what is the use of being sick all the time and buying medicine so that I can indulge myself in coffee?"

"So I thought I would see if I could quit drinking coffee, and got some Postum to help me quit. I made it strictly according to directions, and I want to tell you that change was the greatest step in my life. It was easy to quit coffee because I had the Postum which I like better than I liked the old coffee. One by one the old troubles left, until now I am in splendid health, nerves steady, heart all right, and the pain all gone. Never have any more nervous chills, don't take any medicine, can do all my housework, and have done a great deal besides.

"My sister-in-law, who visited me this summer had been an invalid for some time, much as I was. I got her to quit coffee and drink Postum. She gained five pounds in three weeks, and I never saw such a change in anyone's health."

"There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

THE DAIRY

BALANCING THE COW'S RATION

Desirable to Furnish as Much Roughage as Possible Because It is Cheapest Food.

In making up a ration for cows it is desirable to feed as much roughage as possible because it is usually the farmers' cheapest feed. However, the capacity of the animal is limited, and we must be ruled by common sense.

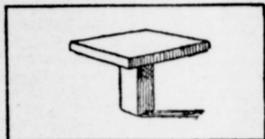

It is possible to balance a ration in protein, carbohydrate and fat with only coarse dry roughage which the cow would not be able to consume in large enough quantities to produce a reasonable amount of milk. It is easy to balance a ration of grain alone which is also undesirable.

The ration should be balanced in amount of roughage and grain as well as in protein, carbohydrate and fat. The amount of grain by weight should rarely equal the amount of dry roughage and should usually be less than one-half. This does not apply where such roughage as silage is fed, because silage contains more moisture and weighs heavier than other roughage.

MILK STOOL IS CONVENIENT

Handy Little Device in Any Dairy Barn Can Be Made by Using Short Piece of Timber.

A handy stool may be made by sawing off a piece of 2x4 a foot and a half in length and nailing to one end of this a piece of board 10x10. This affords a good stool for milking or most any work a farmer can do sitting down.

RESTING PERIOD FOR A COW

From Six to Eight Weeks is Considered About Right for Good Dairy Animal, Says Hoard's.

It is considered better for a cow and her calf to give the cow a rest between her periods of lactation, says Hoard's Dairyman. From six to eight weeks is considered about right for a good dairy cow. It is not wise, however, to force a persistent milker dry. Care must be taken at this period or there is danger of the udder becoming caked and permanently injured.

With a cow that persists in giving milk 12 months in the year it is well to decrease her ration and give her nothing but dry feed when she is nine and a half months along in her period of lactation—that is, if she has been bred to calve 12 months from the beginning of her period of lactation. As a rule, it is not difficult to dry a cow off if proper attention is given at this period.

IMPORTANCE OF THE BARREL

Business Part of Dairy Cow Should Be Well Rounded and Long—Legs Should Curve Out.

The barrel is the business part of the cow, hence it should be well rounded and long. The ribs should be far apart and well sprung. The back should be long and slightly arching. The long tail is simply an indication of a long spinal column. The legs should be curved out, in order to give ample room for the udder between. This should be square, well set behind and extending well forward. The teats should neither be too long nor too short, and set square on the four quarters. The texture of the udder should be like that of a soft glove, so that when it is milked out, it would collapse. The whole form should be wedge-shaped. No one of these points taken alone is a safe guide; taken collectively they are safe to indicate a good cow.

Jersey Cows.

I am building a herd of registered Jerseys and do not have many calves to feed at a time. A very little calf meal in a gallon of warm separator skim milk three times a day is all I let any calf have till large enough to be put on some kind of coarse, dry feed, says a writer in an exchange. I mix my own feed for grown dairy cows. I swap my cottonseed for cottonseed meal, grind my corn into meal, buy wheat bran and mix these equal parts. I sometimes use linseed meal with these, equal parts. This linseed meal is used in the winter when we have no grass.

Method of Dehorning.

A stick of caustic potash applied to the young calf's horns is the best method of dehorning.

Curry the Cows.

The man who said it is all so busy to curry the cows was either lazy or crazy. Get out your curry comb.

ORIGIN OF HOLSTEIN BREED

Practically Same as Cattle Coming From Friesland Province in Northern Holland.

The words Holstein and Holsteln-Friesian designate the same breed. At first there were two breed associations, one called the Holstein association, the other the Dutch-Friesian association, but for all practical purposes these associations represented the same breed.

Friesland is a province in the northern part of Holland and these northern Hollanders have kept cattle from the earliest history. Holstein is a province in northern Germany, not far from Friesland. Cattle coming from the province of Friesland were called Dutch-Friesians and were entered in the association by this name.

Holstein Cow.

Cattle coming from Holstein were called Holsteins. The cattle originated from the same source. In the year 1885 the two associations united and cattle coming from these two sections are now called Holstein-Friesian. The correct name for the black and whites is Holstein-Friesian, but they are sometimes improperly called Holsteins.

PROTECT OUTLET FROM COWS

Considerable Damage Is Liable to Result Unless Tile Is Suitable Protected From Stock.

When the outlet of a tile drain comes out into the open where stock can trample on or about it, considerable damage is apt to be done unless some provision is made to protect it. The accompanying illustration shows a plan for protecting the outlet that we have found to be successful, says a writer in the Homestead. About all there is to it is to drive a few stakes at suitable distances from the outlet, and stretch barbed wire over them. If the outlet is such a place that it may be interfered with by stock, it should be protected, as carelessness may be the means of permitting damage that may require a day or more to fix.

Pure Water for Dairy.

When we consider that a large portion of the cow's body is composed of water; that milk contains more water than any other one ingredient, and that it must require a great quantity of water to keep the temperature of the animals down during the extreme hot weather, we should appreciate the necessity of keeping the dairy cows well supplied with pure drinking water.

DAIRY NOTES

A laying hen requires more water than food.

Don't let the cows out in the storms to stand around. It doesn't pay.

The cows that produce the largest amounts of butter fat do it most economically.

The calves should by all means be kept in clean, well lighted and ventilated stables.

A gallon of cream testing 25 per cent should churn a little over two pounds of butter.

The object of cow testing and keeping record to improve the herd and increase the output.

The thermometer must be used as regularly in the dairy during the summer as during the winter.

Bran is a very good feed for cows. It is light, palatable and rich in mineral matter, especially phosphorus.

By intelligent breeding and care, most of the dairy herds can be brought up to double their production.

The spread between the common and good cattle keeps widening all the time, as good cattle are getting scarcer.

By kneading and rubbing the teats a good form may be giving this organ and future milk secretion be much increased.

Prof. Smith of the Nebraska station believes that corn fodder is one of the most economical feeds for fattening steers.

Two Pretty Frocks for the Younger Generation

PENDING the arrival of the washing cotton frock some stress is being laid on tussore for both school and bettermost dresses, fashioned very simply after the manner of one of the accompanying sketches. Only a very good tussore is capable of satisfactorily creating such a frock, or, failing that, a light-weight Shantung, and only a fair price will ensure the best coloring and dyeing. I am persuaded to offer these few hints to avert the possibility of any mother being tempted by cheapness, the dearest form of economy. The choice of color is so entirely individual that taffetas and washing silks emboldens the belief that these will, in all probability, be pressed into the service of bettermost frocks, more especially for girls verging on the young "Miss" stage. Another charming material is Santoy, a silk and wool mixture, brought out in most artistic colors. A dear little frock of this I saw arranged with a high waist corded bodice that was cut in the favorite square at the throat and worked with a narrow design of rat-tail in tone. Taffeta has settled down into a steady acceptance for picturesque paletots and coats and skirts. A typical costume for taffetas, serge, or the new soft woolen whipcord forms the subject of the second sketch. The long, sweeping line from the right shoulder across the figure to the left side is particularly graceful, and would assist in rounding off one almost hesitates to be definite. However, the advice may be preferred to keep the eye alert for some pleasant bronze greens, a rich tomato shade, a Mandarin blue, Wedgwood blue and several pale mauves. Some really fascinating schemes can be worked out on these lines, the frock completed by a shady Tagal or fancy Japanese straw, wreathed with flowers in tones, when such is applicable, as violets with a mauve dress, ivy leaves and berries with dull greens, etc. It may, furthermore, be helpful to those who are tempted to essay this model to learn that the skirt is arranged separately from the bodice and the two united by a band, while the latter is also supported on a thin lining. The belt and buttons are both of the silk; but the collar and cuffs suggested are of coarse canvas, embroidered at the edge. I should also like this frock, for a certain type of child, without these additions, the neck just squared out and set into a narrow yoke band of the tussore, embroidered either in a light scroll design or self-toned silk, or worked with a device of French knots.

The presence of some tiny checked the most trying angularities. The continuation of the line down the side of the skirt in the guise of an inverted pleat is also good and practical, moreover, since it gives a flow of the hem without disturbing the smart slim appearance. The little turn-over collar is of fine embroidered lawn, an adjunct that is positively flying into favor again, frequently accompanied by little lingerie frills on the sleeves. Another notable detail is a capuchin cape, usually effected in some contrast to the coat or paletot it adorns. Thus, a pale tan cloth paletot had the hood lined ivory white, while a delicate heartstone grey was allied with a coat of hyacinth blue.—London (Eng.) Madame.

LOOK AFTER THE FURS NOW

Their Preservation and Good Appearance Depend Upon Proper Attention Given Them.

It is safe to say that all women delight in fine furs, yet good sets are often spoiled through sheer ignorance or through disregard of the fact that they need attention. Few owners of furs are so callous as to neglect the storing away in spring and the periodic examination during the summer, yet the same furs which are carefully hoarded in camphor and cedar for half the year are often thrown about "just anyhow" during the other half.

In our changeable climate it is no uncommon thing to get one's furs drenched with rain. In this event it is disastrous to set them to dry by the fire, as is so often done. Heat means destruction to fur, as it deprives it of the valuable oil which keeps it glossy and pliable. Once this oil is lost, nothing can restore the fur to its original beauty.

For this reason furs should never be left in a hot room when not being worn. To dry them they should be hung in a draft in a cool room and shaken from time to time. When really dry they should be beaten lightly with a cane.

Suit Skirts for Spring.

Seldom has there been a season when so many fancy trimmed suit skirts were shown as this spring, says the Dry Goods Economist. This is due to the vogue for the demi-tailor made, which calls for a skirt to correspond. The newest idea in the market at present is the draped skirt, which is shown in some of the high-class suits of soft materials, such as chiffon, taffeta and chamoise. There are a few models of this kind now in the market and many more are in course of construction.

Skirts Are Narrow.

Skirts are still narrow, but not in any degree hobbled, even in the more dressy of the tailored suits. They are frequently provided with little "kick" plaits, which make walking easy even in a two-yard skirt. Some of the smarter models have this inset plait of a contrasting color and material.

IMMEDIATE EFFECT OF GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY IS SOON REALIZED.

According to my experience I do not consider there is anything to equal Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for kidney affection. Twice it relieved me when I was completely helpless.

The last time I was traveling in Texas, when my kidneys became affected, and for ten days I suffered excruciating pain, accompanied with severe chills. Several years previous, having been relieved of a similar attack, I naturally sought relief as before, from Swamp-Root.

After using four of the large size bottles, I was completely restored and went on my way rejoicing and praising Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. This was three years ago, and I have had no indication of the return of the affliction.

Yours very truly,

Facetious Operator.

"I say, mister," said the cadaverous man, entering the telegraph office, "could you trust me for a telegram I want to send my wife? I'll pay you tomorrow."

"Sorry, sir," said the operator, "but we are terribly rushed these days and there isn't a tick in the office that isn't working overtime as it is."—Harper's Weekly.

"ECZEMA ITCHED SO BADLY I COULDN'T STAND IT."

"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse, I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again, was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more.

"I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got me a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured.

"My brother got his face burned with gun-powder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Gehrick, Forrest City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

FIRE INSURANCE FACTS

Fire Insurance can be written by one agent at the rates that all other agents write. Why? Because the insurance business of Texas is controlled by the Texas Fire Insurance Board and any deviation from their fixed rate by an agent is a violation of the law. When any one else claims to give you a cheaper or different rate, they either don't know or else misrepresent. Let me write your insurance. I represent some of the strongest companies in existence and am one of your citizens, spending money with you, and interested in things you are interested in, besides am right on the ground in case anything should happen. I write Tornado, Plate Glass, Livestock, Town and Farm Fire.

Railroads and Railroad Securities

RAILROAD MILEAGE OF TEXAS WILL CROSS THE UNITED STATES FIVE TIMES.

The greatest physical triumph of the human race is building railroads. They are the most powerful single influence in modern civilization today and are the greatest colonizers the world has ever known.

We have fourteen thousand miles of railroads in Texas, which are sufficient to reach across the United States five times. We have the largest railroad mileage of any state in the Union, but we rank fortieth in mileage per area.

The Texas Welfare Commission is investigating the railroad industry. R. C. Duff of Houston is chairman of the sub-committee on Railroads and Railroad Securities.

TEXAS NEEDS GREAT MEN

XXIX. CONQUEST

POMPEY said that three times he had triumphed and each time for the conquest of a continent; first, Africa, then Europe and next Asia, which completed the conquest of the world. Texas has three continents of industry yet unconquered; first, Agriculture, then Manufacturing, and next Mining, and we await the advent in the life of the State of a powerful man who can take them. Commerce belongs to the country that can conquer it and we need in Texas mental giants who can conquer the mighty forces of nature and wave the flag of Texas over the commerce of land and sea.

POMPEY RETURNING FROM HIS CONQUEST.

Let those who would soar to the altitude of greatness, subdue nature and conquer commerce, wave a wand of genius over our magnificent resources that will widen the industrial horizon of the State; rise out of the feverish throb of modern civilization like a Colossus of medieval times and set up a throne of industry in Texas that will levy tribute on the commerce of the world. Texas Needs Great Men.

Cornelius & McKinney

All Persons Inclined to Prevaricate Should Drive to Texas Where Truth Abounds.

To the persons who come to Texas, the things we have, speak in such thundering tones that they can hardly hear anything we say, but telling the truth is one of the strong points of the Texan.

In fact, it is almost impossible for a man to tell an untruth about the magnificent resources and wonderful possibilities of Texas. With all our efforts to describe them, the half has never been told. Many citizens, wholly unreliable in other states, have moved to Texas, where their imagination can revel in pine forests greater in area than the wheat fields of the Dakotas, roam in cotton fields as large as half the New England States, wander over 50,000,000 acres of virgin prairies, explore mountains of minerals and inspect the foundation timbers of the greatest civilization the world has ever known, and they become perfectly honest and highly respectable citizens. Any person who has the least inclination to prevaricate should come to Texas, where the realities so far exceed the wildest fancies of the most vivid imagination, that it is almost impossible to exaggerate.

In fact, the Texan as a rule, very modest in his statements and is so afraid of overestimating the advantages and possibilities of his country, that his conservatism is frequently mistaken for ignorance, and he unconsciously allows his intellect to suffer in order to avoid the remotest suspicion of his morals; but the completion of the Panama Canal will open up such wonderful possibilities that we shall speak out with more courage.

We Are Energetic as Well as Truthful.

There is no more progressive citizen on the globe than the native Texan. He is by nature an architect and by practice a builder. Out of raw prairies and a howling wilderness he has erected a magnificent empire; he found cotton a weak and struggling industry and made it the king of products. He has taken the Texas steer, a wild, reckless denizen of the plains, and made of him a commanding genius of the world's markets.

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

A man pays $1.00 for an article and it costs him 20 per cent of his total sales for expenses. At what price must he sell the article in order to gain 10 per cent. on his investment? The answer is not $1.30. If you can't work it, write the Bowie Commercial College for a solution. It will be sent free.

Every department of the Bowie Commercial College is conducted on an up-to-date and practical basis. To attend it is like taking a trip through some of the largest and most modern business offices. It is like sitting alongside of the business man's desk—learning his methods—getting the benefit of his clear insight into the very business transactions he has to contend with every day.

Instead of giving the student a desk and leaving him to work out his own salvation, so to speak pouring over dry text-books and making entries that no business man ever heard of, he buys and sells goods, makes out the invoices, handles the cash, notes, checks, drafts, etc., and then makes the entries on his books in a practical way. When a student finishes this modern course of instruction, he is well qualified to fill the highest salaried positions with the best firms, or to conduct his own business affairs in an up-to-date manner.

No vacation—enter any time. Best board and room at $10.00 to $13.50 per calendar month. Write to the

The Monday meeting of the Society met with Sister Bryant and was very much enjoyed. Quite a number were present, five new members added. All appreciated the helpful thoughts and suggestions brought to us from our Memphis conference by sister Bryant and Mrs. Yelton. After the business and devotional meeting was over we were asked to the dining room where delicious refreshments consisting of angel food cake and boiled custard were served.

The next devotional meeting of the Society will be held with Mrs. Frank Kendall Monday April 6. Subject for study "Impossible perfection" Matt 5:43-48. All the ladies are cordially invited to meet with us.

SYNOPSIS.

Clam Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 50th birthday with a crowd of miners at the Circle City Tivoli. The dance leads to heavy gambling, in which over $100,000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins the mail contract. He starts on his mail trip with dogs and sledges, telling his friends that he will be in the big Yukon gold strike at the start. Burning Daylight makes a sensational rapid run across country with the mail. He appears at the Tivoli and is now ready to join his friends in a dash to the new gold fields. Deciding that he will be found in the up-river district Harnish buys two tons of flour, which he declares will be worth its weight in gold, but when he arrives with his flour he finds the big flat desolate. A comrade discovers gold and Daylight reaps rich harvest. He goes to Dawson, becomes the most prominent figure in the Klondike and defeats a combination of capitalists in a vast mining deal. He returns to civilization, and amid the bewildering complications of high finance, Daylight finds that he has been led to invest his eleven millions in a manipulated scheme. He goes to New York and confronting his disloyal partners with a revolver, he threatens to kill them if his money is not returned. They are cowed, return their share and Harnish goes back to San Francisco where he meets his fate in Dede Mason, a pretty stenographer. He makes large investments and gets into the political ring. For a rest he goes to the country. Daylight gets deeper into high finance in San Francisco, but after the longing for the simple life nearly overcomes him, Dede Mason buys a horse and Daylight meets her in her saddle trips. One day he asks Dede to go with him on one more ride, his purpose being to ask her to marry him and they enter away, she trying to analyze her feelings. Dede tells Daylight that her happiness could not be with a money manipulator.

CHAPTER XVI.—Continued.

"You see, I give the value to the land by building the roads. Then I sell the land and get that value back, and after that, there's the roads, all carrying folks back and forth and earning big money. Can't lose. And there's all sorts of millions in it. I'm going to get my hands on some of that water front and the tide-lands. Take between where I'm going to build my pier and the old pier. It's shallow water. I can fill and dredge and put in a system of docks that will handle hundreds of ships. San Francisco's water front is congested. No more room for ships. With hundreds of ships loading and unloading on this side right into the freight cars of three big railroads, factories will start up over here instead of crossing to San Francisco. That means factory sites. That means me buying in the factory sites before anybody guesses the cat is going to jump, much less, which way. Factories mean tens of thousands of workmen and their families. That means more houses and more land, and that means me, for I'll be there to sell them the land. Then there's the water. I'll come pretty close to owning the watershed. Why not the waterworks too? There's two water companies in Oakland now, fighting like cats and dogs and both about broke. What a metropolis needs is a good water system. They can't give it. They're stuck in the muds. I'll gobble them up and deliver the right article to the city. There's money there, too—money everywhere. Everything works in with everything else. Each improvement makes the value of everything else jump up. It's people that are behind the value. The bigger the crowd that herds in one place, the more valuable is the real estate. And this is the very place for a crowd to herd. Look at it. Just look at it! You could never find a finer site for a great city. All it needs is the herd, and I'll stampede a couple of hundred thousand people in here inside two years. And what's more, it won't be one of these wildcat land booms. It will be legitimate. Twenty years from now there'll be a million people on this side the bay. Another thing is hotels. There isn't a decent one in the town. I'll build a couple of up-to-date ones that'll make them sit up and take notice. I won't care if they don't pay for years. Their effect will more than give me my money back out of the other holdings. And, oh, yes, I'm going to plant eucalyptus, millions of them, on these hills."

"But how are you going to do it?" Dede asked. "You haven't enough money for all that you've planned."

"I've thirty million, and if I need more I can borrow on the land and other things. Interest on mortgages won't anywhere near eat up the increase in land values, and I'll be selling land right along."

In the weeks that followed, Daylight was a busy man. It meant quick work on a colossal scale, for Oakland and the adjacent country was not slow to feel the tremendous buying. But Daylight had the ready cash and it had always been his policy to strike quickly. Before the others could get the warning of the boom, he quietly accomplished many things. At the same time that his agents were purchasing corner lots and entire blocks in the heart of the business section and the waste lands for factory sites, Daylight was rushing franchises through the city council, capturing the two exhausted water companies and the eight or nine independent street railways, and getting his grip on the Oakland Creek and the bay tide-lands for his dock system.

The tide-lands had been in litigation for years, and he took the bull by the horns—buying out the private owners and at the same time leasing from the city fathers. By the time that Oakland was aroused by this unprecedented activity in every direction and was questioning excitedly the meaning of it, Daylight secretly bought the chief Republican newspaper and the chief Democratic organ, and moved boldly into his new offices. Of necessity, they were on a large scale, occupying four floors of the only modern office building in the town—the only building that wouldn't be torn down later on, as Daylight put it. There was department after department, a score of them, and hundreds of clerks and stenographers. As he told Dede:—

"I've got more companies than you can shake a stick at. There's the Alameda & Contra Costa Land Syndicate, the Consolidated Street Railways, the Yerba Buena Ferry Company, the United Water Company, the Piedmont Realty Company, the Fairview and Portola Hotel Company, and half a dozen more that I've got to refer to a notebook to remember. There's the Piedmont Laundry Farm, and Redwood Consolidated Quarries. Starting in with our quarry, I just kept a going till I got them all. And there's the ship-building company I ain't got a name for yet. Seeing as I had to have ferry-boats, I decided to build them myself. They'll be done by the time the pier is ready for them."

For months Daylight was buried in work. The outlay was terrific, and there was nothing coming in. Beyond a general rise in land values, Oakland had not acknowledged his intrusion on the financial scene. The city was waiting for him to show what he was going to do, and he lost no time about it. The best skilled brains on the market were hired by him for the different branches of the work. Initial mistakes he had no patience with, and he was determined to start right, as when he engaged Wilkinson, almost doubling his big salary, and brought him out from Chicago to take charge of the street railway organization. Night and day the road gangs toiled on the streets. And night and day pile-drivers hammered the big piles down into the mud of San Francisco Bay. The pier was to be three miles long, and the Berkeley hills were denuded of whole groves of mature eucalyptus for the piling.

At the same time that his electric roads were building out through the hills, the hay-fields were being surveyed and broken up into city squares, with here and there, according to best modern methods, winding boulevards and strips of park. Broad streets, well graded, were made, with sewers and water-pipes ready laid, and macadamized from his own quarries. Cement sidewalks were also laid, so that all the purchaser had to do was to select his lot and architect and start building. The quick service of Daylight's new electric roads into Oakland made this big district immediately accessible, and long before the ferry system was in operation hundreds of residences were going up. The profit on this land was enormous. In a day, his on-slaught of wealth had turned open farmland into one of the best residential districts of the city.

But this money that flowed in upon him was immediately poured back into his other investments. The need for electric cars was so great that he installed his own shops for building them. But no matter what pressure was on Daylight, his Sundays he reserved for his riding in the hills. It was not the rainy winter weather, however, that brought these rides with Dede to an end. One Saturday afternoon in the office she told him not to expect to meet her next day, and, when he pressed for an explanation.

"I've sold Mab."

Daylight was speechless for the moment. Her act meant one of so many serious things that he couldn't classify it. It smacked almost of treachery. She might have met with financial disaster. It might be her way of letting him know she had seen enough of him. Or . . .

"What's the matter?" he managed to ask.

"I couldn't afford to keep her with my forty-five dollars a ton," Dede answered. "My brother's expenses have been higher, as well, and I was driven to the conclusion that since I ing novel had been a failure. Editors and publishers would not look at it, and Daylight was now using the disgruntled author in a little private secret service system he had been compelled to establish for himself. Jones, who affected to be surprised at nothing after his crushing experience, betrayed no surprise now when the task was given him to locate the purchaser of a certain sorrel mare.

"How high shall I pay for her?" he asked.

"Any price. You've got to get her, that's the point. Drive a sharp bargain so as not to excite suspicion, but get her. Now you deliver her to that address up in Sonoma County. The man's the caretaker on a little ranch I have there. Tell him he's to take whacking good care of her. And after that forget all about it. Don't tell me the name of the man you buy her from. Don't tell me anything about it except that you've got her and delivered her. Savvy?"

But the week had not passed, when Daylight noted the flash in Dede's eyes that boded trouble.

"Something's gone wrong—what is it?" he said boldly.

"Mab," she said. "The man who bought her has sold her already. If I thought you had anything to do with it—"

"I don't even know who you sold her to," was Daylight's answer. "And what's more, I'm not bothering my head about her. She was your mare, and it's none of my business what you did with her. You haven't got her, that's sure, and worse luck. And now, while we're on touchy subjects, I'm going to open another one with you. And you needn't get touchy about it, for it's not really your business at all. It's about that brother of yours. He needs more than you can do for him. Selling that mare of yours won't send him to Germany. And that's what his own doctors say he needs—that crack German specialist who rips a man's bones and muscles into pulp and then moulds them all over again. Well, I want to send him to Germany and give that crack a flutter, that's all."

"If it were only possible!" she said, half breathlessly, and wholly without anger. "Only it isn't, and you know it isn't. I can't accept money from you."

"Now look here, Miss Mason. You've got to get some foolish notions out of your head. This money notion is one of the funniest things I've seen. Suppose you was falling over a cliff, wouldn't it be all right for me to reach out and catch you by the arm? Sure it would. You're standing in your brother's way. No matter what notions you've got in your head, you've got to get out of the way and give him a chance. Will you let me go and see him and talk it over with him? I'll make it a hard and fast business proposition. I'll stake him to get well, and that's all, and charge him interest."

She visibly hesitated.

"And just remember one thing, Miss Mason: it's his leg, not yours."

Still she refrained from giving her answer, and Daylight went on strengthening his position.

"And remember, I go over to see him alone. He's a man, and I can deal with him better without women-folks around. I'll go over tomorrow afternoon."

CHAPTER XVII.

For six weeks hand-running Daylight had seen nothing of Dede except in the office, and there he resolutely refrained from making approaches. But by the seventh Sunday his hunger for her overmastered him. It was a stormy day. A heavy south-east gale was blowing, and squall after squall of rain and wind swept over the city. He could not take his mind off of her, and a persistent picture came to him of her sitting by a window and sewing feminine trumperies of some sort. When the time came for his pre-luncheon cocktail to be served to him in his rooms, he did not take it. Filled with a daring determination, he glanced at his note-book for Dede's telephone number, and called for the switch.

At first it was the landlady's daughter who was raised, but in a minute he heard the voice he had been hungry to hear.

"I just wanted to tell you that I'm coming out to see you," he said. "I didn't want to break in on you without warning, that was all."

"Has something happened?" came her voice.

"I'll tell you when I get there," he evaded.

She came herself to the door to receive him and shake hands with him. He hung his mackintosh and hat on the rack in the comfortable hall and turned to her for direction.

"They are busy in there," she said, indicating the parlor, from which came the boisterous voices of young people, and through the open door of which he could see several college youths. "So you will have to come into my room."

Selfishness of Love.

OPTIMISM A NATURAL TRAIT

Prospector Can Not Help but See Millions in Lode Which Necessity Makes Him Sell.

Mark Twain once defined a mine as "a hole in the ground owned by a liar." The genial humorist was for once guilty of a harsh judgment. The owner of a promising prospect, who is willing to sell it only because he lacks the capital requisite for its development, is not necessarily a liar. He is only an optimist. He does not mean to deceive anybody. He believes in the value of his property and describes it as he sees it. "Is that copper lode permanent?" said the representative of an eastern syndicate to the grizzled prospector who was trying to sell his claim. "Permanent?" was the reply; "well I should smile. If you had Niagara for a water power, and the state of Arizona for a dumping ground, and hell for a smelter, you couldn't work that ledge out in a million years."

Baking Economy.

By the use of perfect baking powder the housewife can derive as much economy as from any other article used in baking and cooking. In selecting a baking powder, therefore, care should be exercised to purchase one that retains its original strength and always remains the same, thus making the food sweet and wholesome and producing sufficient leavening gas to make the baking light.

Very little of this leavening gas is produced by the cheap baking powders, making it necessary to use double the quantity ordinarily required to secure good results.

You cannot experiment every time you make a cake or biscuits, or test the strength of your baking powder to find out how much of it you should use; yet with most baking powders you should do this, for they are put together so carelessly they are never uniform, the quality and strength varying with each purchase.

Calumet Baking Powder is made of chemically pure ingredients of tested strength. Experienced chemists put it up. The proportions of the different materials remain always the same. Sealed in airtight cans Calumet Baking Powder does not alter in strength and is not affected by atmospheric changes.

In using Calumet you are bound to have uniform bread, cake or biscuits, as Calumet does not contain any cheap, useless or adulterating ingredients so commonly used to increase the weight. Further, it produces pure, wholesome food and is a baking powder of rare merit; therefore is recommended by leading physicians and chemists. It complies with all the pure food laws, both STATE and NATIONAL. The goods are moderate in price, and any lady purchasing Calumet from her grocer, if not satisfied with it can return it and have her money refunded.

IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS

BY WM. A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 118 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Around the nesting problem center all the loveliest and tenderest associations of life. A little four-room cottage just big enough for two to start housekeeping in, is shown in this plan. The widest part is 30 feet; and the extreme length, 42 feet; but this does not mean that the house is 30 by 42 feet in size. It is a good deal smaller than that, but the shape makes it look much larger than it really is, and the shape also makes it easy to provide plenty of light, sunshine, and air. You never appreciate sunlight in a house at its true value until you have lived in a city flat in partial darkness, where you get a breath of fresh air only occasionally, when the wind is in the right direction—and this happens, in some city blocks, only at rare intervals.

My business keeps me confined pretty close to the city, so that I have unusual opportunities to see a good deal of the seamy side of life. When I do take a trip out to some of the smaller towns where interesting little houses are in course of construction, I realize the difference, and envy people who can spend most of their time in the bright sunshine, and breathe fresh air uncontaminated with smoke and the noxious odors common to crowded and unclean city alleys.

I have for years preached the gospel of home life. I love to see young folks pair off and settle down to make such a house is very cheap, and it is within the means of any young man who possesses ordinary health. If his wife will help him a little, there is no good reason why he should not have it paid for in a few years' time.

There is a great advantage in a living room like the one provided in this design, because you can have opposite windows and ventilation from both directions, besides an opportunity to get a bit of sunlight twice a day. It requires sunlight to brighten up a home; and too many living rooms are built in such a way as to shut out the direct rays of the sun. This room is large enough to be comfortable in winter, with a good heating stove in the far corner from the kitchen. You cannot very well have a heating stove in a small room; it makes the air too stuffy; but in a room as big as this you can have circulation enough to keep the atmosphere in good condition.

There is plenty of roof surface on this little house to provide soft water, which is another luxury enjoyed in small places that is unknown in the city. A good cistern with a filter that works right, is a great satisfaction. Of course, it is sometimes apt to be neglected, and the water becomes rank-smelling; but this is no fault of the cistern; it is the fault of the man who has it in charge. You cannot neglect a cistern and have nice water; but you can have good, clean, soft rain water with very little trouble if you go about it right.

When I stay over night at a farmhouse and have rain water to wash in, it reminds me of my boyhood days, when we had things comfortable at the old home. It was a great contrast from the lime-laden solution that I am little homes for themselves. It is the right way to get the greatest possible enjoyment out of life. There is quite a difference, usually, in the amount of money that can be made in a small town or village, in comparison with the same person's income after he has become established in a large city; but it is easier for young folks in a small place to get a home of their own, than it is in the city. It is easy to prove this by statistics. A ten dollar bill does not look so large after you have paid the claims of the city grocery man, the market man, and all the other hands that are outstretched for dividends. Things are not always what they seem; and the extra pay of a man who moves from a small place to a large one is usually unsatisfactory. My experience is that those in smaller towns and villages who set out to have a comfortable home of their own are in comparatively better now obliged to use about 350 days in the year.

The woman who does her own washing and likes to have her household linen look just right, appreciates soft water more than anyone else. There are many luxuries to be had in the country that should be appreciated more than they are. The trouble is, we are all looking for something more exciting or interesting, and most of us do not find what we go after.

Method in His Forgiveness.
One of C. W. Morse's acquaintances called a friend into his Wall street office the other day. He said that he wanted to show something funny.

"Look at this," said he. "It is an engraved acknowledgment of Mr. Morse's thanks to those who sent him congratulatory letters and telegrams, when he was released from the penitentiary at Atlanta."

It didn't make a tremendous hit with the man to whom it was shown. He breezed hastily through some of the better known aspects of Mr. Morse's character, and predicted gloomily, as to Mr. Morse's future.

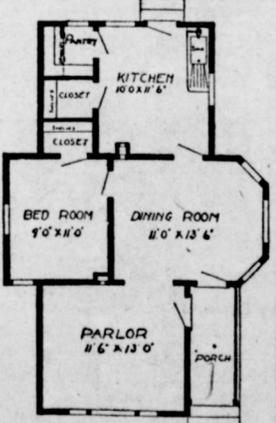

"Don't talk that way," said the banker. "I don't like to hear people roast poor Charlie like that."

The other fellow stared open eyed. "That's funny," said he. "Morse sold you out in the most cold blooded manner possible. He double-crossed you, and then, to make it good, he triple-crossed you. And now you're talking love and forgiveness for the man who jobbed you. Is your bean loose?"

"It is not," said the banker, decidedly. "Morse owes me $400,000. Now that he's out of jail, he may pay me back."—New York Correspondence Cincinnati Times-Star.

Mind for Detail.
"Here's a pamphlet for you, Miss Greenhill, that come to this office today without a proper address," said the rural postmaster, handing a long-expected magazine to her. "Of course, I dunno for sure it's for you, but the chances are it is, for I noticed you posted a letter here three weeks ago addressed to a company by the same name as the one that publishes this here pamphlet."

Unusual Character.
"Now, there is Bliffels. Bliffels is a very original fellow."
"Is that so?"
"I am quite sure on that point, because he has never been heard to say that he wished he had John D. Rockefeller's money."

WOULD TAKE BOOK TO TELL TROUBLES

Carrsville Lady Says She Laid Awake At Night Because of Her Troubles.

Carrsville, Ky.—Mrs. F. E. Cossey, of this town, says: "I had been afflicted for nearly six years with womanly troubles, and would suffer so much, every month!

It would take a book to tell what I have suffered in that time. I got so I could not sleep at night, from nervousness. I had four different doctors to treat me, but they could not help.

When I took Cardul, it relieved me at once. I can't praise it enough. I hardly know how to tell you what Cardul has done for me. I have taken about seven bottles, and nothing else I ever took gave me such relief.

All my friends know how bad I was, and how Cardul has helped me in many different ways."

Cardul is made from purely vegetable ingredients, which act particularly on the delicate womanly system, building up health and strength where it is most needed.

During the past 50 years it has helped thousands of ladies, afflicted with just such troubles as those from which Mrs. Cossey suffered.

It is therefore a remedy that you can feel confidence in. Its merit is guaranteed by years of success.

Don't experiment. Take Cardul. Begin today.

TO DRIVE OUT MALARIA AND BILIOUSNESS OF THE SYSTEM
Take the Old Standard GROVES' TASTELESS CHILL TONIC. You know what you are taking. The formula is plainly printed on every bottle, showing it is simply Quinine and Iron in a palatable form, and the most effective form. For grown people and children, 50 cents.

Malice is more easily disarmed by indifference than by conflict or retaliation.—Mrs. Sigourney.

A story your Great Grandfather knew

More men smoke "Bull" Durham than all other high-grade brands combined.

This great popularity is not a sudden spurt. It is not the fad of a minute. It is not due to fancy packages, big claims, nor eloquent salesmen. Chances are your great-grandfather's pipe held nothing else. For "Bull" Durham has held first place in the affections of American smokers for more than 52 years. Three generations have called it the best.

GENUINE "BULL" DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO

Forty "rollings" in each 5c muslin sack is the purest form of tobacco you can smoke. It is made from the choice, tender leaves of bright golden Virginia and North Carolina tobacco—with all the delicious flavor, unchanged by adulteration or fancy processes—with quality and quantity undiminished by an expensive, gaudy package.

These are some of the reasons why millions of loyal "Bull" Durham smokers buy it, and smoke it, and stick to it year after year. They have learned how much better a cigarette is when they roll it themselves from good "Bull" Durham. They know how good it is in a pipe.

Get a package today. See for yourself why so many millions prefer this glorious old tobacco above all others.

Sold by practically every tobacco dealer in the U.S.

A book of "papers" free with each 5c muslin sack.

PUTNAM FADELESS DYES

Color more goods brighter and faster color than any other dye. One 10c package colors all fibers. They dye in cold water better than any other dye. You can dye any garment without ripping apart. Write for free booklet—How to Dye, Bleach and Mix Colors. MONROE DRUG COMPANY, Quincy, Ill.

TEXAS NEEDS GREAT MEN

XXX. ENCHANTMENT

CLEOPATRA sailed down the Nile and by her personal beauty and the grandeur of her retinue, conquered Anthony and with her charms held him captive until the sighs of Fulvia blew up the fires in the Senate and the Roman government crushed her crown. It is said this Egyptian beauty could, with a smile, change the map of Europe, but with all her subtle charms and native beauty, she is known as the "Serpent of the Nile." Many a beautiful craft of gilded opinions is floating down the political seas and stirs us with the image of its beauty, but, like the "Serpent of the Nile," its influence is degrading and its practices destructive.

CLEOPATRA CAPTURING ANTHONY.

Let those who aspire to public leadership understand that beauty and wisdom seldom walk together; that theories fair as a poet's dream, when embraced, bite like a serpent and sting like an adder and remorse, with all its vipers, will fill the land. There is no better evidence of weakness in leaders than a desire to grasp at things that dazzle and glitter. Texas Needs Great Men.

Cotton a Reliable Crop

HIGHEST FARM VALUE OF THE TEXAS COTTON CROP DURING THE PAST FIVE YEARS WAS $144,000,000.

Who has ever sought diligently the friendship of man and the stability of the market, the endurance of the fibre and the uses of the product, it has won the heart of mankind. It meets him at the cradle, is his closest companion in life and goes with him to the grave. It is the Rock of Gibraltar of products. It is the most reliable of staple crops.

The Texas Welfare Commission is investigating the cotton industry. W. T. Loudermilk of DeLeon is chairman of the sub-committee on the Production and Methods for Marketing Cotton. O. E. Dunlap of Waxahachie is chairman of the committee on Cotton Mills.
