Food Material.

Two facts stand out prominently as reasons for the increased production and use of milk. The first is that milk as purchased on the market usually supplies food material together with the growth-producing elements more economically than either meat or eggs. The second reason is that the dairy cow is the most economical producer of animal food. One great other collections were added. law of food conservation is to turn inedible feeds into edible foods in the cheapest possible manner. The dairy cow will utilize coarse materials, inedible to humans-such as grass, cornstalks and hay-and will turn them into milk. Other farm anlmals also are converters of coarse roughage into edible foods, but are not so efficient as the dairy cow.

Mixture of Formaldehyde and Water Is Recommended-Cut Down the Amount of Milk Fed.

This is good for scours in calves: One ounce of formaldehyde (use 40 per cent formaldebyde), 16 ounces of water, mix, give one teaspoonful for each pound of milk fed to calf, stir in the milk. Cut down on the amount of milk being fed. This for two feeds is generally enough. Follow with two-ounce dose of castor oil if constinated.

FEED GRAIN TO YOUNG CALF

When Changed From Whole to Skimmed Milk Little Grain Should Be Put in Youngster's Mouth.

When the calf is changed from whole milk to skim milk, it will begin to eat grain. Place a little grain in its mouth after each feeding of milk. It will soon learn to eat the grain without assistance. The grain should not be fed with the milk. The calf should be allowed to masticate the grain.

TO PREVENT DISEASE GERMS

Healthy, Tuberculin-Tested Cows Are First Essentials-Pure Water is important.

To prevent the entrance of disease germs into milk, healthy, tuberculintested cows, free from any udder inflammation or garget, are the first essentials. Healthy men, and pure water from a protected well or spring, are of second importance. Clean utensils. covered pails and clean cows come next.

where she got her color. Many women, perhaps your neigh-bor, will tell you that she got her wonderful color, her vivacious spirits, her strength and health by taking a "temperance" tonic, known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Probably no man in America was ever better qualified to successfully treat the diseases peculiar to women than Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y. The cases that come to him run into many thousands, giving him an experience that rarely comes to any one man. Dr. Pierce found that in nearly every case there were certain vegetable growths which rarely failed to give prompt relief in those feminine disorders from which so many women suffer. He combined these roots and herbs into a temperance medicine that he called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is sold in both liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. A weakly, sickly, backachy, headachy, nervous, despondent woman, with regular or irregular pains-with feminindisorders that come in youth or middle age-is pretty sure to find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the exact remedy that her condition calls for.

In an effort to protect the swine industry of the country against the possibility of introducing sick hogs into well herds, and at the same time to permit the shipment from stock yards of stocker and feeder hogs, the United States department of agriculture conducts a system of vaccination against cholera as a part of its inspection service at the various stock yard centers. More than 324,000 hogs were im munized for shipment as stockers and feeders from stock yards of 18 cities during the six months from July to December, 1918. inclusive. To accom-a veterinary procedure, including the preventive-serum treatment, taking of temperatures and observing the condition of the animal during the test period. Necessarily the official regulations are of technical character, and it has come to the attention of the department of agriculture that in some cases the rules have been misinterpreted so as to make them appear responsible for fluctuation in the stock-hog market.

For the information of the public, the bureau of animal industry outlines briefly the method of inspection:

All public stock yards are considered to be infected and swine are, therefore, exposed to the contagion from the time of their entry into the yards; consequently it is important that they be immunized promptly after arrival at such yards, to protect them against contracting the disease. For that reason the department ophave been so exposed for more than munization will not protect them.

Food dealers have made enor. mous profits during the war; they are in many cases increas. ing their gains now. They have the whip hand and the public has to pay. Governmental regulation of the price of foodstuffs can hardly work, but a system of regulation for dealers, wholesale and retail, under a style of license system, with frequent inspections, might help some. MacLean found Wooster at the riverbank with Tom Hardin. The two men were watching a pile-driver set a rebellious pile. Two new trestles were to supplement the one which had been bent out of line by the weight of settling drift. Marshall's plan was being followed, though jeered at by reclamation men and the engineers of the D. R. company.

"Stop the mattress weaving and dump like hell !" had been his orders. "Boycott the Indians, well I'm blowed," the beady eyes sparkled at Hardin. "Now he's cut his own throat."

"By the eternal!" swore Hardin. MacLean left the two engineers matching oaths.

There was an ominous quiet the text day. Not an Indian offered to work at the river. A few stolid bucks came to their tasks on Tuesday morning; they were told by Rickard himself that there was no work for mem. Rickard appeared ignorant of the antagonism of the engineers.

An unfathered rumor started that Rickard was in with the Reclamation Service men; that he wanted the work to fail; to be adopted by the Service. MacLean broke a lance or two against the absurd slander. He was making the discovery that a man's friendship for a man may be deeper than a man's love for a woman. He was a Rickard man. He was made to feel the re-

It would look like me, senor. Will they take me, senor?" She was a wreck of terror.

"Not if what you tell me is true. Now, get to bed. I'll give you something that will make you sleep." He hustled her out and prepared the draught.

He wondered as he got into bed as to the truth of her story. Disgusting, such animal terror! Awkward hole, that. Fate seemed possessed to queer him with those Hardins!

A Sunday Spectacle.

Sunday morning. Rickard began to camp Sunday was a day of feasting.

Rickard spoke of it to Coronel. "Like small baby" hunched the old shoulders. "Happy baby. Pretty soon stop.'

With the next wages went a reprimand, then a warning. Still followed formal warning to all the tribes.

"The situation with the Indians is serious," said Rickard to MacLean. "They're getting liquor in here, some way, the Lord only knows how. Anyway, they're not fit for burning Monday morning. I've just sent them word do

The white man would be sending for the Indian soon. The waiting braves sat on their haunches, grinning and smoking their pipes.

Saturday night the camp went gloomily to bed. On the Indian side there was no revel, no feasting or dancing.

Rickard did not turn in until after midnight, planning alternatives. He was sleeping hard when MacLean, at dawn, dashed into his tent.

"Quick, what does this mean?"

It was a splendid spectacle, and staged superbly. For background, the sharp-edged mountains flushing to pinks and purples .gainst a one-flued sky; the river-growth of the old channel uniting them. blotting out miles of desert into a flat scene. "What does it mean?" demanded MacLean.

"It means we've won," chuckled his chief, coming back into his tent.
