Will Not be One Day Without PE-RU-NA This Lady TELLS Her FRIENDS

Mrs. Mary Fricke, 507 Bornman St., Belleville, Ill., is just one of the many thousands of ladies throughout the country who, after an agony of years, have at last found health, strength and vigor in PE-RU-NA.

Her own words tell of her suffering and recovery better than we can do it: "I suffered with my stomach, had awful cramps and headaches so I often could not lay on a pillow. Saw your book, tried PE-RU-NA and got good results from the first bottle. To be sure of a cure I took twelve bottles. I have recommended PE-RU-NA to my friends and all are well pleased with results. I will not be one day without PE-RU-NA. Have not had a doctor since I started with PE-RU-NA, which was about fifteen years ago. I am now sixty-three years old, hale, hearty and well. Can do as much work as my daughters. I feel strong and healthy and weigh near two hundred pounds. Before, I MRS. MARY FRICKE weighed as little as one hundred. I hope lots of MRS. MARY FRICKE people use PE-RU-NA and get the results I did." An experience like that of Mrs. Fricke is an inspiration to every sick and suffering woman.

If you have catarrh, whether it be of the nose, throat, stomach, bowels, or other organs, PE-RU-NA is the remedy. It is not new; it is not an experiment. PE-RU-NA has been tried. PE-RU-NA has been used by thousands who once were sick and are now well. To prevent coughs, colds, grip and Influenza and to hasten recovery there is nothing better.

PE-RU-NA will improve the appetite and digestion, purify the blood, sooth the irritated mucous linings, eradicate the waste material and corruption from the system. It will tone up the nerves, give you health, strength, vigor and the joy of living. Do what Mrs. Mary Fricke and thousands more have done-try PE-RU-NA. You will be Slad, happy, thankful.

Housewife in Smaller Towns Better Pleased With Larger Supply of Inexpensive Gowns.

There are two ways of dressing inexpensively. One is to have a good many clothes of cheap material and the other is to have one well-made gown at a time and to wear that on all occasions until it is worn out. The one-dress method is perhaps preferable for the woman who lives in a large city, for the business woman, or for the traveler. The housewife in a small town will probably do better if she has a good many inexpensive clothes, observes a fashion writer, and so will the young girl who mingles in a society where nobody patronizes an expensive dressmaker and extravagance is not looked on as a virtue.

In a big city, where an economical woman is likely to meet and mingle with persons who have much more to spend on their clothes than she has, the one-dress method has many advantages. In a well-made coat suit a woman is appropriately dressed for church, calling, afternoon card parties, teas, trips to the theater and the restaurant and for shopping. If she possesses a cheap and badly made street suit, in addition to several other dresses, she will never look very well, although she may sometimes feel that a thin silk, no matter how poorly made, Is more appropriate than a suit for a card party.

The one frock should be of good material and should be well made. If one is bought each year, a street sult. consisting of coat and skirt and matching waist, can be bought one seasona dark, inconspicuous evening or formal afternoon frock for the next. The suit should be chosen so that it will look well the second year and will look fairly well the third; the frock, remodeled a little, will also serve for two or three years. In a few years the woman who goes on the basis that the one-dress plan is a good one will have a very serviceable and good-looking wardrobe on hand.

The coat suit, when it is to answer many calls, should be of moderately normal proportions. Unusual waistlines, sleeves, yoke and collars should be avoided. The coat should be semibe in the height of fashion, but, provided it is becoming, it will always be distinctive and good looking. It should be of some standard dark color-dark blue, black, or a becoming shade of bray would be most attractive with a brown are always inconspicuous. HEDLEY HIGH SCHOOL HAS GOOD BASKET BALL TEAM

The Wellington basket ball teams met the Hedley High School teams on the local court Friday, Feb. 6. Both boys and girls games were characterized by fast, clean playing and the sport spirit admirable to athletics. There are a few things that should always be kept in mind by the spectators: The visiting teams are the guests of the town, and we are the host, and we should not at any time permit our interest in the game to allow us to be discourteous to our guests. Secondly, the basket ball game is the hardest game of all indoor or outdoor sports to referee and umpire, and players and spectators alike should re. member that, and not say unkind things about the officials or their officiating. Many people cannot lose without thinking that the other side is unfair, and accord. ingly they make unsportsmanlike remarks about their opponents or the opponents of their friends. These high school games should cultivate a cordial friendship between towns, and we desire that the people assist the school in extending hospital ity toout of town teams, and dis courage in anyone the attitude that might cause a reflection upon the name of Hedley. Now, Sherwood of Ohio saw a whole lot of fighting in the Civil war. He enlisted as a private in the Fourteenth Ohio infantry April 16, 1861, and was mustered out as a brigadier general October 8, 1865. He was in 43 battles and was 123 days under fire. He was six times complimented in special orders by commanding generals for gallant conduct in battle. So, few living men have seen what he has seen.

about the question whether or not,

since the advent of long-range can-

Omitting the controversial parts, and emphasizing the historical parts of real value, General Sherwood's address was in part as follows:

Mr. Sherwood .- Now, as to the question of our style of fighting in the Civil war. There stands today, as it stood over half a century ago, in front of the town of Franklin, Tenn., on the highest point of the ridge, a large linden tree. It was half past three in the afternoon of November 30, 1864. when General Hood, commanding 75,000 veteran soldiers, rode unattended to that tree, threw the stump of the leg that was shot off at Chickamauga over the pommel of the saddle, drew out his field glass, and sat looking across the valley to the position of the Union army. It was the silence that always precedes a great battle. Presently the silence was broken by the soft strains of music which floated up from the town below. It was the Federal band playing "Just before the battle, mother." The men in gray on the hill and the men in blue in the valley below listened. There were tears in many eyes, as the pathetic words were well remembered: "Just before the battle, mother,

I am thinking most of you."

General Hood closed his field glass, wheeled his horse, and rode back to General Stewart with the command, "General, we will charge the Federal line in front," Stewart formed his corps on the right. General Cheatham formed his corps on the left, and on the extreme right, on the Harpeth river, rested General Forrest's cavalry. A cannon on the ridge sounded the signal for the charge. With bayonets fixed the heavy columns, all veterans, marched with a steady and even tread down the slope. The flercest and bloodlest battle of the centuries was on. I say that because it that more men were lost in that battle tion to the number of more engaged the is any battle that was gone of up its rep

eral Cleburne was abreast of that charging line. He fell just at the left of my brigade. As the Confederates rushed on the Federal line of battle a gray figure on a chestnut horse rode diagonally across the front of the charging column. The horse went down within 50 yards of the breastworks. The rider arose, waved his sword, and led his men on foot to the ramparts; then his brave form staggered and fell against the Federal line, pierced with minie balls. His corps was swept back under a terrific fire of musketry, nearly one-half either killed or wounded. This was Gen. Pat Cleburne. [Applause.]

More generals were killed in that eight hours' struggle in front of that little Tennessee town than were killed in the two days' fight at Chickamauga or the three days' fight at Gettysburg, where three times as many soldiers were in battle. And let me emphasize this with the statement that more brigadier and major generals were killed at Franklin in that eight hours' fight than in the whole world war of four years and over where nearly 18,000,-000 soldiers were in the hell of battle. Oklahoma Leads Country in Size of Single Scheme Handled During the Month of July.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Among the special features of the recent federal aid road record as kept by the United States department of agriculture are three road projects to cost over $1,000,000, one of them over $2,000,000. Pennsylvania had first place in the number of statements approved during July, the amount of federal aid allowances, and the estimated cost of roads to be constructed, while Nebraska turned in the greatest mileage. Seventeen projects in Pennsylvania approved will cost $4,607,028.41 for which the federal aid is $1,968,997.40. Ohio with 12 projects came next to Pennsylvania in the number approved and in the estimated cost of the roads to be improved, and third in the amount of federal aid.

Oklahoma's two projects occupy third place for the month in the estimated cost of the roads and second in the amount of federal aid allowance. This state leads the country in

New York .- The three hundredth analversary of the Pilgrim Fathers, tentative plans of which have just been announced here, will include celebrations in England, Holland and the United States, and will continue from May to December, 1920.

A four-day program in Leyden, Amterdam and Rotterdam, whence the Pilgrims sailed three centuries ago to the American wilderness, where they might find "freedom to worship God." will start on August 30, when committees from the United States and England will be received at the University of Leyden.

Scholars Will Deliver Addresses.

Addresses commemorative of the occasion will be delivered by scholars from the three countries, including the ector of the university, Dr. Rendel Harris of Manchester, England; Viscount Bryce, and a famous American who has not yet been designated.

The next day, August 31, the birthday of the queen of the Netherlands, will include, besides a congress in the town hall, a religious memorial service in the Pieterskirk, in which Rev. John Robinson, who led the separationists from the Church of Engand (the Pilgrims) to Holland in 1609, vas buried

Main events of the American celebraion will be in Plymouth, Mass., and Boston, where historical nageants will be held, followed by a big reception in New York. Vice President Marshall is honorary chairman of the committee having the local program in charge. The foreign visitors will then be taken on a tour of the United States. On November 24, 1920, there will be a universal observance of Thanksgiving day in England, Holland and the United States.

Mountain Villages and Valleys.

Round about and all along the mounfain-sides are hundreds of small native villages-brown spots for all the world like the nests of some giant bird. These villages are perched on the ends of spurs, and even on the very brinks of precipices, and are approached only by hidden tracks, such is the caution of the natives to guard against the sudden appearance of any tribal enemy. The valleys are superb as seen from the mountain spurs and looking over the dense, dark jungles, through which are streaked flashing bands of silver, the courses of the mighty rivers so numerous in Papua. Beginning in some mountain torrent-some waterfall, perhans-these wide, swift-flowing rivers rush to the sea through jungles that are thickly planted with an amazing variety of commercial timbers, and from which some day soon thousands of sawmills will be sending to the countries of the empire immense quantities of timber and the pulp for paper.

The mountain-sides are walls of moss and fern. Glant trees of immense girth shoot up, the branches thickly festooned with bright flowering creepers, the great trunks gripped by monster vines with powerful clinging stems, and leaves whose length and breadth are measured in feet. High in the branches sounds the strange, unmusical caw of the gorgeous Bird of Paradise; for this bird of the most brilliant plumage-more brilliant than any other bird in the world-is, after all, but of the mean, low family of the common crow. Papua is the only country in the world that knows it is the home of the Bird of Paradise. There is a wide variety, and the law protects the bird with such severity that a very heavy punishment is inflicted for shooting it, or even for stealing its feathers. No sale of the feathers under any circumstances is allowed, and customs officers search tourists' in the very diligently for any hidden e cr mage. The men paint their bodies with red and yellow pigments, and carry big bows and arrows, much bigger than themselves. The women, always very subfect to the men, are silent and shy, and do not decorate themselves much. In time of widowhood or family mourning they blacken their faces and hair. already very black, with charcoal, giving them a most grotesque appearance. While the natives of the coast lands of Papua demand tobacco as a present, the hill peoples delight in common coarse salt, and, given a handful, they will treasure it up to make it last as long as possible.

Huts Built Up on Poles.

The native villages have the huts built up on poles, and, while the family live on the upper story, pigs wallow in awful filth below, and, in consequence, it is possible to smell a vinage miles away. These people are very fond of dogs and pigs as pets. Pigs are natural to the island, but dogs are not, and this is how the natives came to get them: Many years ago, when Papua (then called New Guinea) was only occasionally visited by some plucky British traders, a dog belonging to one of them proved an immense attraction to the natives; and the trader, seeing a good opportunity to make money-or rather, a cheap way to get large supplies of copra (dried cocoanut for oil), of which the natives had plenty to barter away-went to Australia and in one of the Queensland towns bought up all is."an paint a r the mongrel dogs that could be print He got quite a ship full, and reth. dto Papua, doing a roaring tradeat. cliffs the dog selling for at least over inclt we pounds-or that value in copra. Harvey had agreed with Jesse Chandler to buy 164 acres of farmland in Christiana H. dred for $20,000. When Chandler before the deal was completed he stipulated in his will that the farm should be sold for that amount to Harvey. Meanwhile the farm had been sold for $34,500, and while the legatees contended that the entire amount should be divided, Harvey claimed that only $20,-000, or his agreed purchase price, should be divided. The court upheld his contention.

BIG POLAND CHINA SALE A big swine sale will be held at Childiess on Satu day, Feb 21, by the Lon Alexander farm. The offering will be fifty head of reg istered bred sows and gilts, all of the Big Type

The Lon Alexander farm has more good blooded Poland China swine than any farm in the South says the Childress Index. At present there are more than 200 head of registered swine on the farm, and the pig crop will be great. Mr. Alexander is offering many sows and gilts of the very choicest breeding, and their sires are among the noted boars of America

The auction will be held in the afternoon at the new sale pavil lion of Michie, Alexander & Jones which is located just a quarter of a mile west of the Alexander farm. In the offering will be several tried sows that weigh around 700 pounds each These are exceptionally large and have been bred to the big 100 pound boar, Long Orange, who possess es as blue blood as can be found in the breed. Orange blood is in demand by all Northern breeders This sale is looked upon as the real Poland China event of the year in the South, and all indica tions point to a large attendance, including many prominent breed ers from far and near.

Local hog men should attend the sale and see to it that some of the "pick of the flock" remain in this section. It is well known that Hedley now has more fine hogs and cattle than any town of three times its size in the Panhandle; - still we have room for more of the same kind. Read the sale ad in this issue
