Yet such is the story of Red Rock canyon, in southern California, an enchanted spot, so rich in Its unique beauty, and of such scientific import that the president of the United States is asked by some of the Pacific coast to set it apart as a national monument. This romantic, stratum, rainbow-hued gorge contains a wealth of amazing structures reared and. carved and even painted by the elements, and yet comparable only to the classics of ancient and modern architecture. RING the past two years the methods of production and conservation entployed by the farmers of this country have advanced 20 years of peace times. Prior to 1914, and even up to the declaration of war by the United States, there were farmers in every community who were not interested in county agents, farmers' institutes, the agricultural colleges, or the United States department of agriculture. But when war was declared and Uncle Sam asked the farmers to grow more foodstuffs of every kind, those who had before assumed an attitude of indifference responded to the call. clothes when Red Cross Bail Blue is Throughout the nation these farmers, with a spirit used. The attitude as well as the spirit of the farmers changed from peace-time to war-time farming.

Improved methods and practices adopted and now being applied have come to stay. In future farming methods there should be little question as to the practice of the man who has treated his oats for smut and has increased his yield; the man who has applied fertilizer to his wheat and has increased his crops five to ten bushels an acre; the man who has sought information on the feeding of cattle and has found that by adding protein to the ration he can produce a pound of beef with nine pounds of corn where the old ration required 13 pounds of grain; the man who was encouraged to build a silo through which he is able to feed a carload of cattle with the crops from 16 acres of land when before it required 26 acres. Men who have learned these lessons, have seen the result, and have profited by them, are not going back to old-time methods. Farmers are reaching out in a broader way for additional aid.

Last fall farmers planted 49,000,000 acres of wheat, and while the early prospective yield was reduced to some extent by reason of adverse weather and insect enemies, a crop of approximately a billion bushels is the result. This huge crop is the direct result of the good methods of farming that were employed in the fall of 1918. There were more tons of fertilizer applied to this wheat than during any previous year. There was more early plowing. There was better cultivation. There was better selection of varieties and better treatment of the seed. There was more top-dressing of the crop with straw and manure than ever was known in any other year. Part of the crop was due to favorable weather in some localities, some just to plain luck, but the big results achieved in the wheat fields all over the country was due to the improved methods employed by in the breeding and sale of all classes of live stock. In the case of 42 farms surveyed in Henry county, Indiana, by the department of agriculture. 11 made an average labor income of $1,423 a year. These farms kept the most live stock, averaging 62 animal units-that is, 62 full-grown cattle, or their equivalent in smaller animals. Sixteen farms made an average labor income of $479. These farms kept live stock averaging 19 animal units per farm. Fifteen facms made an average labor

A specific example of what can be accomplished by raising more and better stock, is that of a cornbelt farm, formerly managed as a straight-grain farm, that for the past five years has been operated as a hog farm. The system followed is rather unusual, in that but one litter is raised each year, the sows bred being gilts, which are fattened and sold after their pigs have been weaned. The pigs put on full feed on self-feeders, are sold when from six to seven months old, Enough hogs are bought to hog down the corn crop. The profits realized are far in advance of those realized under the old system. For the past three years, respectively, the net returns from the hog enterprise alone have been $1,259,

$1,859, and $3,733. It should be borne in mind in this connection, however, that, just as a large acreage may be a handicap rather than an advantage unless used to advantage, so live stock may be a liability rather than an asset unless the quality of the animals is high. The more scrub cows a man has the worse off he is if he persists in trying to produce milk from them, and in some cases the quickest way to increase net returns is to sell a bunch of

The high-class hog and the high-class cow, each in its own field, has no equal in efficiency in turning raw products into human food, but until we realize the wide difference in efficiency between the scrub cow producing 2,000 pounds of milk and the animal yielding 7,000 pounds of milk, or between the razorback hog and the hog that converts corn into pork rapidly and economically. we are not in a position to make the most of this

So the farmer who seeks to increase his business by going into live stock enterprises will make a grave mistake unless he pays strict attention to the vital question of quality of stock. It is not necessary to begin with expensive registered animals, for good grade stock will serve. but it is essential that great care be exercised in selecting the ind'vidual animals that are to serve for it as the foundation of the herd or fleck. When There is large and sufficient evidence to an Acrosug's Bre is taker, however, there is no safer way rins of Baale production of live stock.

Oyster Shells for Poultry

Oyster shell is not needed by chicks, but pullets and hens do better for having oyster shell as a regular part of their ration. This was proved by the New York agricultural experiment station some years ago, when a poultry writer condemned the use of oyster shell as unnecessary. The New York station proved that a pound of oyster shell contains enough lime to manufacture about seven dozen eggs. This should not be fed in the mash. Fowls knew more about witat they need to eat than we do. If they have the shell, ground bone, meat scraps and grit in Roppers before them, with a warlety of ground grains in dry mash, they wili Malance their ration better than we can balance & for them.

FROM BROTHER MIZZELL

The many Hedley friends of Rev. and Mrs J. M. Mizzell will enjoy reading the following letter from Bro Mizzeil, and be pleas d to know that they are pleasantly situated in their new South Tex as field. The letter is addressed o The Informer, from Halletts ville, Texas, February 11th.

Dear Editor: A church takes quite a risk when a pastor is called "sight unseen and voice unheard;" and for a pastor to accept, gather to gether his belongings and make his way to such a church, involves as great a risk These two things took place when this pastor left Moore & Whittington Hedley for his present field, and thus far things have gone pleasantly and smoothly On our ar rival here we were met at the depot by quite a number of our to be members and some of their fliends. This made us to feel at home" at once. It also reminded us of the company of friends who came to "see us off" when we were leaving your town. Allow me to say that I purposed seeing all my friends before leav log, and having a last word with them, but I was sick and the worry incident to getting our goods to the depot made it necessary for me to go to the hotel and take my bed until train time We appreciated so much the presence of all who came to the depot, and deeply regret that unexpected arrival of the train orevented a final word with each one. His blessings be on every one of them - and others. But to resume. We are feeling very much at home here, just as we have always done as other places. We find Hallettsville to be a nice little city with every modern convenience, including free mail delivery and a genuire cosmopolitan population. In fact the ends of the earth are here. as they are all over this South west Texas country. To famil iarize yourself with the names of the citizens by perusing the tele phone directory is a task that would make you both cross eyed and tongue tied. Dcn't undertake it. But they are grogres sive, and we hope to know them

We have good church property here, the church house and par sonage occupying three adjacent lots. Having given away all our children, and disposed of much fueniture not now necessary, we are a little embarassed trying to occupy a six room parsonage with a large reception hall added. But our goods have not yet arrived, nor have we yet replaced some things disposed of before coming. We expect to fully adjust ourselves when these come.

Tell the folks Hello! for us and send The Informer along regularly so we may keep 'informed" as to the ongoings of things in the Panhandle-a mighty good country with some bad spots in the weather.

INDIGESTION

Milliens of people—in fact about 9 out of 10—suffer more or less from indigestion, acute or chronic. Nearly every case is caused by Acid-Stomach.

There are other stomach disorders which also are sure signs of Acid-Stomach—belching, heartburn, bloat after eating, food repeating, sour, gassy stomach. There are many allments which, while they do not cause much distress in the stomach itself, are, nevertheless, traceable to an acid-stomach. Among these are nervousness, billousness, cirrhosis of the liver, rheumatism, impaverished blood, weakness, insomnia, melanghelia and a long train of physical and mental miseries that keep the victims in miserable health year after year.

The right thing to do is to attack these ailments at their source—get rid of the acid-stomach. A wonderful modern remedy called EATONIC new makes it easy to do this.

One of hundreds of thousands of grateful users of EATONIC writes: "I have been troubled with intestinal indigestion for about nine years and have spent quite a sum for medicine, but without relief. After using EATONIC for a few days the gas and pains in my bowels disappeared. EATONIC is just the remedy I needed."

We have thousands of letters telling of these marveleus benefits. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise.

is an old saying that is especially applicable at this time of the year in connection with buying new farm machinery and ordering repairs for the old implements. The labor unrest along with the steel strike, coal shortage, and a number of other things that have operated to cut down the production of manufactured products, are responsible for an underproduction in farm implements that foresighted farmers will want to protect themselves against by placing their orders for new implements and repairs at once.

Many farmers will not realize just how serious the implement shortage is until too late. But th man who wants to be sure of his farm ec will not delay in placing his order; al le have the satisfaction of feeling that safe side, like the foresighted hous filled his coal bin last summer.
