The committee on entertainments made several suggestions on different ways to raise funds. Mrs. S. L. Adamson and Mrs. O. R. Other plans were discussed and the following were adopted: On Feb. 21st a parcel post sale will be held; on March 10, 11 and 12 a Chautauqua will be held under the direction of the Parent Teachers Association, and on March 23 a tea will be served, the people being asked to contribute books or literature that could be used in the schools. More definite announcements in regard to these will be made later.

Mr. Cox, Mr. Mann and Mr. Armstrong were appointed as a committee to find out the estimated cost of certain playground equipments that are under consideration.

Candy will be sold at school every Wednesday and in town every Saturday, the proceeds to be used for the school.

OPTIMISM

OPTIMISM is the keynote of Success. When you "drop" this note the fight goes against you until it is recovered.

When the bottom appears to have dropped out, we are all inclined to lose heart, yet—

There are just as many people to feed, just as many people to clothe, just as many people to work, and just as much money to finance their labor; as ever before existed, so let's all get busy, go to work and pull ourselves out of our financial troubles.

An Optimist is a man who knows he can.

In Spite of the Fortune Teller

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(© 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Betty Peyton consented to play the fortune teller at Mrs. Esmond-Ashley's annual garden fête she did so under the supposition that it would be an easy way of passing the time at an affair where she knew nobody and would, in a way, be a means of doing her hostess a favor in return for the recent great kindness done her.

As she regarded herself in the mirror after an hour's application of all she had learned in the amateur theatrics which had served to pass so many hours of the summers spent in the hills at Spain, she assured herself that her dearest friend would never recognize her. And it would have indeed been difficult to detect beneath the burnt amber complexion, swarthy brows, sandy turban and oriental draperies of the image which confronted her the Anglo-Saxon fairness, and winsome charm of Betty Peyton.

"You're simply perfect, my dear!" Mrs. Esmond-Ashley's voice was all admiration. "Your booth is down by the rhododendrons—and remember you are supposed to be the real article. After advertising that unreliable Hindu woman as my leading card, I simply dare not go back on it. Incidentally, I honestly think you look more genuine than she does!"

During the early part of the evening, custom was very brisk and Betty had her hands full, liberally and figuratively, with palms, both masculine and feminine, demanding to be read. Then, as the liquid notes of the Hawaiian quartette floated out on the lantern illumined air, the guests drifted away to listen, and Betty was left alone, resting a dusky hand and gazing pensively out into the sweet-scented night as one who peers into a future too dim to decipher.

She was wondering why it was that she and Paul Brighton could not have met naturally without being thrown at each other's heads since childhood. Gossip, the length and breadth of India, she told herself bitterly, had coupled their names together until no doubt he felt the same aversion to her that she did to him. And all because their fathers, closely associated for years, had made so evident their wish to see their children wed one another.

It was when she learned that Paul, now Captain Brighton, was to be transferred to the same post as her father, that Betty made up her mind to run away, and writing to her aunt in America, whom she had never seen, opened the opportunity for the invitation to spend the summer at the latter's country home.

Suddenly, breathing in upon her meditations, a tall figure advanced through the shrubbery and, throwing himself down on the cushions before her, silently held out his hand. As he did so, the swaying lantern above her, shone on his lifted face. Thunder-struck, she nearly uttered a cry, then, with great effort, checked herself. It was Paul.

What was he doing here? Would he recognize her? No, that was absurd, and presumably her aunt would not disclose her identity. These thoughts flashed through her mind as she bent above his palm.

Then she had an inspiration. Of all the people she knew, Captain Brighton, after his years in India, might have some faith in the occult.

Stoically she began, in hesitating broken patois. "The sahib—he sall from Kurachi? Yes—I see it here. Also, he must beware ver' light lady; must be careful. Light ladies ver' bad for this sahib—bring bad luck, bad fortune, sickness, death, oh, ev' thing. Much better think on dark ladies—ver' dark."

She hoped that in the semidarkness he did not observe her sudden pause as she recalled the fact that her hostess' daughter, Joan, was of an exceedingly dark complexion, and Mrs. Esmond-Ashley might naturally not wish to be considered as making a bid for attention to her daughter through the medium of a fortune teller at her own garden party.

But her patron merely gave a grave, "Thank you," and, rising, went his way, leaving Betty wondering how much faith he had in her abilities as a seeress.

That night Mrs. Esmond-Ashley congratulated Betty. "You were a tremendous hit—and everybody believed you real. Why, Capt. Paul Brighton, just arrived from India on a mission in which my husband is concerned, says he has seen hundreds like you sitting on the road to Delhi. Incidentally, he's coming to tea tomorrow, and between you and me, I believe he's a bit gone on Joan!"

The following afternoon Betty, in her own character, met quite informally the man between whom and herself she had endeavored to put several continents. They had shaken hands quite casually, while he remarked with calmness that he had known her for many years. Then he had turned to Joan and asked if she played tennis.

The next month for Betty was much like this game which followed, in which she was quite out of it all, watching the maneuvers of Paul and Joan from the sidelines. And little by little she began to regret; first, her impulsive departure, then her prophetic utterances, which apparently he had taken so seriously. For, no doubt, he knew she had gone to avoid his presence at the post, and was revealing in his chance to demonstrate how little her prophecies troubled him.

Then an odd thing occurred. In Joan's presence Paul invited her to go with him on a yachting party, and although surprised at herself, Betty heard herself accepting. On the evening of the trip she found Paul had drawn two chairs close together in a secluded corner of the stern deck. For a while they sat watching the play of moonlight on the scudding foam of the wake. Then, out of a clear sky, Paul turned to her and said: "You see, Betty, I took your advice about dark ladies!"

So he had known, after all—probably through her aunt!

"Well, I'm sure you found it good!" she managed to answer lightly. "But how did you know it was I?"

"Very easily," returned the man. "Once having seen you in a similar character at an amateur performance in Simla, I could not very well forget your skillful portrayal. Besides, having come several thousand miles in search of you, I was looking for you everywhere, although, feeling myself, as I know you did, that there had been enough outside management in our affairs, I was determined to tell no one my errand."

"But Joan—and your mission?" stammered Betty.

"Joan understands the whole thing and was helping me out—besides, she's engaged, herself!" retorted Paul. "As for the mission, that was a lucky coincidence. I'll admit, but knowing it was to be sent here, I pulled the wires and got myself appointed!"

There was a moment's silence. Then Paul leaned over and helped himself to the slim hand lying so temptingly near his own. "Aren't you afraid of the fate I foretold?" asked Betty whimsically, but not withdrawing her hand.

"If I am," declared Paul, "I'd rather endure it with you, my darling, than have all the luck in the world without you!" and won for his brave reply the reward it merited.

Great Sturgeon Fishing.

The scene of the sturgeon fishing is at the mouth of the river Volga, where as many as 15,000 sturgeon are sometimes captured in one day. The fish is salted for use during the numerous fasts enjoyed by the Greek church, but the flesh, though valuable, and resembling veal when roasted in the same way, is not by any means the chief value of the fish. Sturgeon and caviare are the two principal products which make the sturgeon so valuable. The air-bladder, when dried and properly prepared, is named isinglass, and this very valuable material used to be annually imported to England from Petrograd in large quantities. Caviare is a preparation from the roe of the female fish. It has a strong, oily, and peculiar flavor, much esteemed by gourmands—at least, after they have become used to it—but not so much approved of by persons of simple tastes. The preparation of these two products gives employment to many thousands of persons.

Love in a Cottage.

There may be today just as much love in the world as ever, but of the kind the poets are wont to sing of, "love in a cottage," there is certainly a falling off—through lack of the cottage. Yet in some sections reports are that the shortage of houses is acting as a direct incentive to marriage.

The naive explanation is that when there were houses to be had the possession of one was a natural preliminary to wedlock, but now that they are not to be had, no one will think any the less of the newly married couple for establishing themselves in lodgings or in the home of their parents or even their friends.—Deseret News.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK by Nellie Maxwell

The appearance of the table and the viands upon it add wonderfully, not only in point of appetite, but also in digestive results as well, for we digest more readily that which pleases the eye.

SEASONABLE DISHES

Vegetables in the Diet.
Vegetables, raw when possible and when necessary to be cooked, cooked in steam and served with butter, and a small amount of salt and pepper will soon build up a run-down constitution. Add to this whole wheat breads and cakes, and plenty of salad plants and the body will have no need of pills to keep it functioning.

Baked Slice of Ham.
Take a thick slice of ham and parboil in water to half cover, turning often; add one clove of garlic, remove the ham and cover with a tablespoonful of mustard mixed with two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar; add water to just cover the bottom of the baking dish but not to reach up to the sugar. Bake slowly until the sauce has been absorbed and the water nearly evaporated. More water may be needed, but it should be added in small quantities and boiling.

Stuffed Green Peppers.
Cut the tops from one dozen green peppers and put the tops with a small onion through the meat grinder; add one pound of sausage meat, three-fourths of a cupful of cracker crumbs, two tablespoonfuls of catsup, one egg, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt, and milk to soften if needed. Remove the seeds and membrane and stuff the peppers with the mixture. Cover the top of each with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

Simple Fudge.
Take two cupfuls of sugar, two squares of chocolate melted over hot water, one-third of a cup of sirup or two tablespoonfuls of light molasses, two tablespoonfuls of butter and one-half cupful of milk. Cook to the soft ball stage, cook a little and stir until creamy, pouring out before it gets too hard. Have it smooth and attractive in appearance. If cream is used in place of the milk the butter may be omitted.

Yankee Potato Salad.
Boil two quarts of potatoes with the skins on, cook two eggs until hard. While hot combine the eggs and potatoes, cutting in bits, stir in two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one chopped onion and one-half cupful of mild vinegar; season with salt and pepper and set aside to become cold. When ready to serve add one cupful of heavy cream and sprinkle with parsley.

Sausage With Apple Rings.
Cover the sausages with boiling water; after picking them in every part let simmer fifteen minutes, then drain and brown in the oven. Make a sirup of a cupful each of sugar and

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"MRS. GRUNDY."

ONCE upon a time—and not so very far back, at that—there was a real Mrs. Grundy, the wife of Judge Felix Grundy of Nashville, Tenn. The lady belonged to the best social set of the Southern city and her opinions on good form were highly respected though, in the light of modern usage, they would be considered extremely straight-laced.

During the time at which Mrs. Grundy ruled the social set of Nashville it happened that a theatrical company visited the city, presenting a play known as "Speed the Plough." History does not state whether the piece was humorous or serious, vulgar or refined. In Mrs. Grundy's mind it was enough that it was a dramatic production for the wife of the judge held that the sturgeon-going was a pastime which should not be indulged in by ladies and gentlemen because of the fact that it was frowned upon by the church. By a curious coincidence, one of the characters of the play was also named Mrs. Grundy and the audience laughed whenever she was mentioned. The connection was later explained to Noah M. Ludlow, manager of the company, and the name was launched in theatrical parlance as the title of a mythical person who rules the social and moral destinies of a community.

After Martin Van Buren's election to the presidency, Judge Grundy was made attorney general of the United States—but his claim to fame is as nothing when compared to that of his wife.

THE CITY.

IN THE land that is silent forever, asleep in the star and the sun, where voiceless wanders the river, where voiceless the rivulets run. Where men are not cultured nor clever, where wealth is not wanted nor won.

Where the world moves in musical measure, where aureate daffodils nod, Where Nature gives freely her treasure, her tree and her bloom and her sod, With only an acre of azure to curtain the presence of God.

I have heard in the stillness of slumber, have heard in the pearlyness of night, When the tasks of the day that encumber lie hard on the sense and the sight, A lonesome singing her number, The City, her song of delight.

I have heard, and have come at her calling, have followed her glow in the sky, I have come where in dirt she was sprawling and beckoning men such as I, I have come to her creeping and crawling, her love and her laughter to buy.

She has opened her door at my coming, has opened her arms at my tread; Around her the roses were blooming, the passionate roses of red; Around her mad music was humming, and music the words that she said.

About me went white arms and slender—for such had an Antony died; I gazed on her womanly splendor; I drank of her lips, and she sighed; I looked in her eyes that were tender, I looked in her eyes—and she lied.

Last Night's Dreams

—What They Mean

DID YOU DREAM OF CROSSING A BRIDGE?

NEARLY all authorities agree that to dream of crossing a bridge indicates success in business. If you dream that the bridge is in bad condition and that you are warned not to cross it, and yet do cross it, it is a sign that you will rapidly go onward to success. If you have any difficulty in getting across your dream bridge, and yet do so, it means that you will successfully overcome obstacles thrown in your path. Simply to see a bridge in a dream means that you will soon be called upon to exert yourself to get the better of some private difficulty or business obstacle. But don't fall off your bridge of dreams—wake up before you do that. However, if you should fall off, or be pushed off, or be forced to leave the roadway to avoid being run over, if you support yourself by clinging to the structure it is still a good sign, for it means the overcoming of difficulties on the road to success. Only one authority can be found who regards it unlucky to dream of a bridge; the almost unanimous verdict is the other way—except that you should not fall entirely off the structure. In that case, or if the bridge collapses under you, beware of false friends.

The High Cost of Shoes Gets Wallop

"Ten cents to twenty-five cents a pair is enough profit for any maker of work shoes," says Geo. R. Harsh, head of the Harsh & Chapline Shoe Co., of Milwaukee, makers of the famous Lion Brand and Steven Strong work shoes for men and boys.

"For 15 years we have been trying to make the best work shoes in the country. To do this we even had to put up our own tannery, buy the hides and do our own tanning, as we could find no leather in the open market good enough to go into Lion Brand shoes.

"That we have come close to success is evidenced by the sale of more than 10,000,000 pairs through thousands of stores. Last year alone the shoe buying public bought more than $6,000,000 worth.

"Lion Brand Shoes are so popular we could probably go right on doing business through the stores. But I believe there should be better profits between the producer and user," continued Mr. Harsh.

"By selling direct to the wearer we cut out the profit of the tanner, jobber and store keeper, as well as the salesman's expense, and are able to save the buyer of Lion Brand work shoes from one dollar to three dollars a pair.

"It took a lot of courage to change our selling policy, but we believe the buying public is ready for the change and that our action in stepping over the middleman to the user will be followed by other large manufacturers of many other well known quality products.

"Our catalog No. 1 is now ready for distribution from factory, Hanover and Maple Streets, Milwaukee, Wis."—Adv.

Marriageable Age.

At what age should a woman marry? Opinions differ quite a bit. An English clergyman related that an elderly lady in his parish who was about to get married consulted him on the wisdom of her step.

"You see, sir," she said, "the other night I got out of bed and tumbled down on the floor and I hadn't nobody to pick me up again, so I thought it was time I got married."—Boston Transcript.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

Not Too Thrifty.

"How much do you charge a feller to take a wash?" asked a grimy-looking individual of the cashier at a public bath house.

"Fifty cents a bath, or 12 for $5," replied the cashier. "It would pay you to buy a $5 ticket."

"Nothin' doin'," answered the grimy individual, decisively. "How do I know I'm going to live 12 years?"—Toledo Blade.

GREAT TIME AT NAZARENE ASSEMBLY AT PLAINVIEW

The following letter relating to the recent Assembly of the Nazarene Church, at Plainview, was written from Amarillo, and is published by request—only a few sentences of strictly personal matter being omitted.

Dear Home Folks:

I will try to tell you all a little about the District Assembly at Plainview and what a wonderful time we had—it being the first Assembly I ever attended. It was the grandest thing I have ever seen, and everybody else seemed to think the same. There were preachers and singers and members from most everywhere and they had some of the finest preaching and singing that ears ever listened to. Those who were absent can't realize what they missed. The roll was called and the pastors gave in their reports for the year, adding some of the sweetest testimonials—telling how God had blessed them and of the many souls that had been saved. They ended their testimonies by saying they were more encouraged and determined to do more in leading lost souls to God, and were going forward as never before. It was just glorious to be there! Of all the singing and shouting! I never heard or saw the like in my life. It seemed like Heaven wasn't three feet away; you could almost see and hear the Lord walking around through the congregation.

Two of our missionaries from the dark and heathen lands of India were there, and conducted the services on Saturday night. They are sweet, pretty girls, and you could see the glory of God in their faces. Saturday night they were dressed in the native costume of India, and they sang "Happy Day" in the native language. Of course we couldn't understand the words, but we knew what they were singing.

They described India to us; told of the heathen people and their customs; how they worshipped their gods, of which they have many different and strange kinds. They could not keep from crying as they told of the many poor lost souls there. They said the country was not altogether desolate, as many of us thought; that God knew He would have some missionaries over there, so He planted orange groves, lemons and other fruits for their need and pleasure. They told of wonderful mountains and pretty streams and beautiful scenery in some places; while in other parts it is desolate, so hot that nothing grows there and people could not exist long. They said the heathens would gather about them to hear of Jesus, His power to save and His love for them, and become so interested that when the girls would leave for home, or for some other part, they would run after them or get in front of them and beg them to tell more of Him, or at least to repeat His name to them. And I thought that if people here were equally interested or anxious about Jesus, what a great harvest of souls would be gathered into the Kingdom.

One of the sad things they related was that the birds do not sing in India. They were over seven years, and never heard a bird sing.

Another fearful thing was the fact that often a mother will throw her own baby in the river to the alligators, making a sacrifice to her god. One mother had two babies with her, one much fatter and prettier than the other; she went away from the meeting, but came back directly with out the pretty baby, and announced that she had given her baby to god. She had thrown it to the alligators. Asked why she had not kept the fatter and prettiest one, she said she wanted to give god the best. And I thought that there were lots of us who didn't want to give God the best we had.

Natives often burn themselves to death, punch holes in their bodies and torture themselves in many different ways, trying to find peace and rest. The people over there believed that everybody in this land were Christians. The girls said they were sorry and ashamed to have to inform them that not all the people here were Christians, and those heathens wondered how that could be.

These girls will return to India soon, but may hold services in Amarillo before they go.

I never enjoyed myself more anywhere than at this Assembly. The Plainview people are so nice and friendly you can't keep from loving them. They take you to their hearts and make you feel that you are one of them. They served fine meals—and lots of it. I hated to leave them, and was sorry when the Assembly was over. If I ever miss another, it will be because I can't get there.

As the time came for parting, those people put their arms about us, and as our tears mingled they told us that if we never met again here we would meet "over yonder" where we'll never have to say goodbye, and the "assembly" will never break up. Oh, it was a great consolation to me, and I am praising God for this way. I never loved it better; never felt more like I was on the way; never felt nearer the Lord than I do now, and was never more determined to live for God and do His will. I haven't got any of this world's goods, but I am building me a home over yonder.

I have told only a little of the great time we had, but must close. Answer soon and tell me all that the dear old Hedley folks are doing. May God wonderfully bless you all. With love,
Tom Owens.

Ideal Home for a Small Family, Embodying Comfort, Protection and Security—Home That Will Last for Lifetime.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 187 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

One of the best antidotes for national restlessness, dissatisfaction and strife is home ownership. Invariably a home owner is a substantial citizen of the community in which he dwells because he has a tangible interest and a pride in civic welfare. Moreover, he has the satisfaction that comes from a feeling of security which only a home can inspire. As a tenant the head of a family is never certain of his status. He is subject to the whim of the landlord; more important, however, he is not making any progress. Rent receipts have never been accepted as collateral at a bank nor is there the remotest possibility that they will be in the time to come. A mortgage on a home represents value.

For the man of moderate means the ownership of a home is not impossible by any means. Take for instance the charming little bungalow shown here with floor plans. It is all that a family of medium size could desire—attractive, well laid out and substantially built, yet is reasonable in cost, as a detailed exposition of its features will show. It is the ideal home for the small family who wish to get away from the cramped quarters of the large apartment buildings in the city. It embodies comfort, protection and security, a home that will last for a lifetime and insure the family a happy dwelling place in times of stress and prosperity.

This bungalow is rather unusual in design, not to say distinctive. Bungalows are popular because they lend themselves so readily to variety in style and construction. In this case we have a combination stucco and frame exterior, in reality a frame house with a stucco facade which is quite attractive and certainly very reasonable in cost. A row of concrete steps leads up the front porch recessed under one corner of the main roof. This porch can be screened in during the summer and glazed in during the winter. The doors of the front entrance are very attractive, as are the windows in the front and sides. The timber effect gained by the setting of the cross beams in the stucco adds another pleasing touch to the pleasant picture.

Upon entering this charming little home we find a small vestibule which opens into the living room, a large, comfortable room of the most modern type equipped with a large open brick fireplace in the side wall. It is especially light and cheerful because of the four windows in front and the small windows on the side. Plenty of light and air are essential to a healthy as well as happy home. Dark, gloomy rooms are inclined to depress the occupants.

From the living room an especially wide doorway gives access to the dining room, which is not quite as large as the living room. The latter is 12 by 18 feet; the dining room 12 by 16 feet. It also is well lighted and ventilated by a spacious side bay window which is divided into six casements.

Conveniently adjacent to the dining room is the small, compact kitchen, 12 by 11 feet 6 inches, equipped with the latest devices of kitchen craft. From kitchen to dining room table is only a few steps, an important item for the housewife who has to traverse that ground so frequently every day. A small pantry is located at one end of the kitchen, while the rear door opens on to the small porch.

Leading from the living room on the other side of the house is a hall which gives access to the two bedrooms and bathroom. The bedrooms are not large, yet ample for the needs of the family. One is 10 feet 6 inches by 10 feet 6 inches; the other is 12 by 10 feet 6 inches. Between them is the staircase leading to the cellar below, where the heating plant and laundry equipment are located.

It is evident that the arrangement of the rooms in this home is a very happy one and as efficient as any housewife could ask for. For after all she is the one who generally profits or suffers because of room size and arrangement. The architect in this case has considered her needs when designing the home. As a result he has built an attractive, inviting, cozy little home, and one that should be a source of inspiration to all people who love to be independent.

WITH THE CITY'S SUBMERGED

Pathetic Side of Life Which the Average Visitor to a Metropolis Does Not See.

In the ramble dusk of Bryant park—directly back of the public library—there gathers each evening a motley gathering of the dregs of a great city, writes the New York correspondent of the Indianapolis News. It is a park, but there is a heavy odor of gasoline from the fine limousines to the east and smell of cooking from the battery of cheap restaurants on the west.

It seems to be the mecca of those who have lost hope, the jobless, the idler—men with scowling predatory visages and case-hardened hearts. A short while back and they were to be

FARM STOCK

POSSIBILITIES WITH SHEEP

Farmer Who Does Not Utilize All of Available Pasture Is Throwing Money Away.

The keeping of a reasonable number of sheep on the average farm does not necessitate the keeping of fewer dairy cows or other grazing stock. This fact was determined by the United States Department of Agriculture in its recent investigation of sheep-raising possibilities in New England. It was found that farms where sheep are kept successfully have practically the same number and kinds of other live stock as other farms of like area where no sheep are kept, and that the average in crops on the two classes of farms is substantially the same. The inference is that the farmer who keeps no sheep is simply throwing away enough pasture that cows and other live stock do not utilize to net him a neat profit.

IMPROPER FEEDING OF PIGS

One Big Reason Why Fall Porkers Prove Unprofitable in the Hands of Many Farmers.

One reason why fall pigs prove unprofitable in the hands of many farmers is improper feeding. Many persons have the mistaken idea that a pig must be fed a light ration until it is four or five months old to give it a chance to grow, which is one of the biggest mistakes a hog raiser can make. As soon as fall pigs will eat grain and while they are still sucking their dams, give them all the grain they will eat. In fact, the best thing is to have them run to a trough or a self-feeder, where they can find corn, oats, tankage or some other feed whenever they want it. After they are weaned keep them right on a ration of that sort until they are ready for the market. If you have a self-feeder, put shelled corn or ear corn in one part of it and tankage in another, or provide separate self-feeders, one for the corn and one for the tankage, and then let the pigs be the judge of how much to eat of each constituent.

CHECK DISEASE AMONG HOGS

Animals Become Infected with Tuberculosis Principally From Following Cattle.

Eradicating tuberculosis from cattle will practically solve the problem of controlling the disease among swine. That is the opinion of veterinary experts experienced in the handling and post-mortem examination of swine received at the principal market centers. By means of a simple and practical marker, hogs may be tattooed with distinguishing letters and figures, and when disease is found by post-mortem examination the identity of such animals is known. With a simple system of records it is thus possible to trace a shipment to the farm from which it came and stamp out infectious diseases at their source. Evidence shows that swine become infected with tuberculosis principally from cattle, either by following them in feed lots or pastures, by receiving infected dairy by-products, or by eating tuberculous carcasses.

DISPOSE OF SURPLUS BULLS

If Not Sold at Minimum Price Within Reasonable Time Convert Them Into Steers.

Some of the breeders have adopted the policy of putting a minimum price on the bulls which they have for sale. If the bulls do not sell in a reasonable time at this price, then they are castrated and good steers are made out of them. This protects the market and the quality of stock which they are selling.

Yellow Corn More Nutritious. Many careful and observant stock feeders have long contended that yellow corn produces better results than white corn.

WHEN BIRDS OF FASHION FLY SOUTH

IN JANUARY, when our migratory birds of fashion prepare to journey South, the young woman's fancy turns—far from lightly—to thoughts of clothes. She knows that to play up to the wonderful parade of beautiful apparel that is to be found in the show places, and that of all things she cannot afford to look ordinary. And she knows also that money alone cannot solve her problems, although it will go a long way toward doing so.

By way of helping out a little here are two handsome afternoon frocks that merit approval, and one of them is shown with a hat and veil. This one is made of panne velvet and matching embroidered net—or a net-top lace—both very ingeniously draped in a skirt that is made in one with a simple but subtle bodice. One can imagine this in a rich brown or taupe color, or in black, and be sure to fall in love with it in any case. A corsage at the waistline—a bit of silk fruit, ostrich plumes, and a spray of foliage—stray downward over the skirt. The turban is almost covered with sprays of uncured ostrich plumes that sweep across the hat and drop at the right to the shoulder and are veiled with handsome lace.

The less pretentious dress at the left, of velours, with its very handsome embroidery in self color, need not fear comparisons. There is much careful handwork here on a simply designed and graceful model, and every woman capitulates to such a dress—it is made up of the elements that spell success and makes an appropriate gown for afternoon or dinner. It is quite equal to supporting a handsome hat, finding itself in the proper company with the best the milliner has to offer.

Just Average Hats

TAKING hats "by and large"—just average hats—that are now displacing their responsibility as mid-winter head coverings we come to the cheerful conclusion that their standard of beauty have advanced. In millinery, as in some other things, Americans were thrown upon their own resources during the war and the effect on designers appears to have been stimulating. They have become more or less self-reliant.

Five hats such as a stroll along the streets of any busy city will reveal on the head of shoppers or promenaders, are shown here. They include three models made of velvet, one of three models made of broad and fur, duvety and one of broad and fur. Ingeniously draped velvet turbans have been, and continue to be, great favorites with women of conservative and elegant taste. Such a turban appears at the upper left of the picture, with velvet laid in folds across the front, draped over the crown and arranged in a pretty choux at the right with two quills thrust through it. The cozy, small hat with brim sharply upturned, shown next to it is simply covered with velvet and has a most unpretentious sash and bow of narrow ribbon about the crown. Its business in life appears to be the presentation of a big sunburst rosette which gayly defies winter skies from its pose at the front of the brim. The hat at the lower left is made of duvety covered with silk embroidery in several colors and next to it a wide brimmed model has a plain velvet covered brim and a shirred crown ending in a little drapery on the brim at the back. A band of ribbon about the crown and a cluster of little flowers on the brim finish its brief and beautiful story.

The rich and handsome hat of gold brocade and seal fur needs no ornament. But hats of this kind often have a handsome jeweled pin thrust in the brim on one side.

DAIRY

CLEAN MILK DURING WINTER

Much Can Be Done to Exclude Stable Filth and Dust by Using Plenty of Bedding.

Many dairymen consider that it is not necessary to take the same precautions in milking and handling milk during freezing weather as when it is warmer.

It should be kept in mind that milk is a food—a very wholesome food when it is secured from healthy cows under sanitary conditions, but a dangerous food if it comes from tubercular cows and is so carelessly secured and handled as to permit the entrance of stable filth and dust.

Men who have made a careful study of tuberculosis in dairies state that, on the average of at least one in eight of our dairy cows harbors the germs of tuberculosis and that these organisms find their way into the manger and gutter. Dust from the feed or from the manure, or small particles of the latter, may convey these dangerous bacteria to the milk.

Much may be done to lessen this danger by using plenty of bedding, feeding moistened feeds and a thorough wiping of the udder and flank of the cow with a damp cloth. A covered pail is also of considerable assistance.

Stable dust can be settled by sprinkling the stable floor a short time before the cows are milked. Bacteria stick to wet surfaces, but as they are free to float in the air again as soon as the surfaces have become dry, the floor should be kept moist until after the period of milking.

If all of the dairy cows were subjected to the tuberculin test, the precaution mentioned above would not be so important for the tubercular cow could be identified and removed, yet there are other bacteria in the stable dust and manure which are in-

Of Much Advantage to Wipe Off Cow's Udder and Flanks Before Milking Operation.

Jurious to the human system. Milk secured from cows free from tuberculosis, with clean moist flanks and udders, milked with clean hands into sterile covered pails in dust free stables and kept cold is a safe and welcome food.

DELIVER DAIRY GOODS CLEAN

Wholesome Products Are Best Advantages and Any Infraction of Rules Is Harmful.

Of all the mediums of good sound advertising in the dairy industry there is not one which can excel that of "quality."

When we observe the methods of those who have really achieved in the dairy business we will find in every instance that success was made possible through the application of common sense rules of cleanliness and sanitation.

Clean wholesome dairy products are the best advertisements, and any infraction of these axiomatic first principles will work to the dairyman's disadvantage and render it difficult to repair the damage wrought.

Dairymen are, as a rule, in the business to make a success of it, and there is no single factor that will promote business faster than the production of a clean wholesome product.

CLEANLINESS OF IMPORTANCE

Utensils and Mangers in Which Calves Are Fed Should Be Given Close Attention.

Strict attention should be paid to the cleanliness of the utensils and mangers in which the calves are fed as well as to the box stalls in which they are quartered. The latter should be cleaned out at least once a week and preferably oftener.

GOOD COWS ARE PROFITABLE

Must Produce Milk or Butterfat of Value Over Cost of Feed—Calf and Manure Help.

A cow is profitable if she produces milk or butterfat of value over the cost of feed. The value of the calf a cow produces each year, plus the value of the manure left on the farm, is usually considered sufficient to pay for her keep outside of feed.

A TOY SHOCKING MACHINE.

Any amount of fun can be had with the electrical toy shown in Fig. 1. The toy consists of an induction-coil, an interrupter, a pair of grips, and a dry battery. For the induction-coil (Fig. 2), get a 5-16-inch carriage-bolt about 2 1/2 inches in length (Fig. 3), some No. 20 or 24-gauge electric-bell insulated copper wire, and some No. 30-gauge insulated magnet wire. Cut a pair of cardboard disks 1 1/2 inches in diameter (Fig. 4), and slip those over the bolt, one next to the nut (Fig. 5); then pierce a hole through one cardboard end, stick 5 inches of one end of the coarser wire through it, and wind the wire upon the bolt, placing each turn close to the preceding turn. Three layers of this wire must be wound on from end to end of the bolt, then the wire must be pulled through the cardboard end, and cut off (Fig. 6). This forms the primary-coil. Wrap the wire with a layer of bicycle-tape or several layers of paper, then connected to the fourth binding-post plate.

The interrupter makes and breaks the electrical contact; this produces the jerking, prickling sensation, or shock. Figure 1 shows a simple interrupter. Cut a wooden disk like A (Fig. 8), drive eight nails into its edge at equal distances apart, drive a ninth nail into the top surface for a handle, and bore a hole through the center for the screw pivot. Before mounting disk A, prepare the small block B (Figs. 9 and 10), cut strip C out of a piece of spring tin, bend one end over, punch a hole through it, and fasten it to one end of block B with screw D. Screw screw eye E into the opposite end of the block B so strip C will spring against it and make contact with it.

Fasten block B to the base, then mount block A in the right position so when it is revolved the nails in its edge will strike the tip end of strip C and press it away from screw eye E.

NEW YEAR'S DAY GAMES.

On a large sheet of wrapping paper mark the form of a calendar, with the year and month lettered across the top and the days below. Below the lettering rule six vertical and four horizontal lines to form 35 squares (Fig. 1). Then cut 31 paper squares of the size of the squares marked out, and number these from 1 to 31 (Fig. 2) and number these from 1 to 31 (Fig. 2).

Give players a numbered square, and pin, then, one at a time, blindfold them, and direct them to pin their number in the right square.

Place a watch upon a table, then pass paper and pencil to all and have them write down parts of the watch that will complete the following: 1—Something used before? 2—What a cry-baby makes? 3—The support of a flower? 4—A season? 5—What a word puzzles to write: 6—Death with in arithmetic? 7—You have a pair of them? 8—Revolving portions of machinery? 9—Clear, transparent? 10—Adornments? Answers: 1—Second hand, 2—Face, 3—Stem, 4—

BOY SCOUTS

VETERAN SCOUTS ORGANIZING

Countrywide interest is being aroused in the effort to register all boy scouts and scout workers, eligible for membership, in the Veteran Scout association. This is a new development which promises to be of great significance in scouting. Membership in this association is open to all first-class scouts and to all scout officials of a total of five years' service. Hereafter the organization of this association has been rather loose, but of late there has been a movement, which is now rapidly spreading, to organize the veteran scouts of each city into a corps. It is estimated that nearly 50,000 men and older boys are eligible.

The Veteran Scout Corps of Philadelphia is now, perhaps, the most fully developed of any. Horace P. Kern, assistant scout executive, describes it in part as follows:

"The local members of the Veteran Scout association have organized themselves into a corps which holds regular sessions twice a year. At each of these sessions some entertainment feature is provided, or a program of reminiscence besides these regular sessions. An interesting feature of the organization of the corps is the class plan by which are listed in the same group all who became veterans the same year; for instance, we have the classes of 1915, 1916, etc. Each one of these classes is organized with a chairman, and has agreed to undertake some service to scouting in general. The corps, as a whole, has offered its service to aid new scoutmasters or to act temporarily for scoutmasters who may be called away from their troops."

Many other councils have organized, or are planning to do so along these lines. This gives a national plan for organizing which will retain the interest of the older boys. This is something the need for which has long been felt and which promises to do much to strengthen the effectiveness of scouting. Plans are now being considered for the standardization of the local veteran scout corps, and for their definite registration at the national scout office.

MR. HARDING ENDORSES SCOUTS

President-elect Warren G. Harding in a letter addressed to Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, member of the executive board of the Boy Scouts of America, gives his enthusiastic endorsement of the boy scout movement and expresses the wish that every boy in America might be in the organization. This is Mr. Harding's letter:

"I am with the scout movement heart and soul. It is an organization teaching of spirit of service and honor which we must always have in our citizenship. It is a school of our democracy because in it standing is won only by taking the equal opportunity given all individuals to show their own merit, capacity and worth. I wish every boy in our America could have the advantage and the honor of being in the boy scout organization and of learning therein that co-operation, justice, the customs of fair play and the gentleness of good manner, make for peace and growth as distinguished from the results of disorganization and selfishness and cowardice which lead to contentions and conflict."

When Mr. Harding enters the White House he will automatically become honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, as has each president since the organization. Retiring presidents become honorary vice presidents of the boy scouts. In addition to being an honorary vice president, President Roosevelt was chief scout citizen at the time of his death.

MORE MODEST SCOUT HEROES.

The newspapers in and around New York printed articles recently about a "modest hero," who after saving George Marduley of Rutherford, N. J., from drowning in the surf near Long Beach, L. I., disappeared in the crowd. Some days afterward it was learned that the "modest hero" really was two modest heroes and both of them Boy Scouts, E. Bracken and J. Saenzino of Rockville Center, L. I., who had been on a hike to Long Beach the Sunday the accident occurred. After rescuing the drowning man they intended to use the scout first aid methods to revive him, but a physician appeared on the scene immediately and, feeling that he could do all that was necessary, they just left without bothering the officers with their names.

SCOUTS "DISCOVER" A VOLCANO.

Not far from Meriden, Conn., a curiosity was visited by scouts on a recent hike. Lava deposited in prehistoric times was found in a quarry in a part of an extinct volcano. A university professor with the party was able to point out the various stages in the flow and cooling of the lava. Scout Executive J. D. Roberts states that the place is known to very few people of the vicinity.

Left No Manner of Doubt as to His Meaning.

At one of the big London hotels there is a page boy who in his spare moments is much given to the study of the best English literature. A few days ago he was paid his wages with a small fine deducted for some breach of regulations. Indignant, the boy said to the manager: "Sir, if you should ever find it within the scope of your jurisdiction to levy an assessment on my wage for some trivial act alleged to have been committed by myself at some inopportune moment in the stress of one's avocation I would suggest that you refrain from exercising that prerogative. The failure to do so would of necessity force me to tender my resignation."

The manager, tottering, reached a chair and in gasps asked the boy what he meant.

"In other words, if you fine me again, I shall chuck the job!" said the lad.—Tit-Bits.

BRAY BRIEFS

Dear Editor:—Having seen nothing from this community for some time, I will pen a few items for your valuable paper.

Health in the community is generally good, but we are sorry to report that the little girl of Mr. Foster, who has been sick for some time, is no better. We hope for a speedy recovery.

Jesse Duggins of Drumright, Okla., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Duggins, and other relatives and old friends.

Our school is progressing nicely. The teachers say that if new pupils keep on coming in as they have in the past two weeks, they will soon have to enlarge the seating capacity.

Miss Yeager, the Red Cross health officer from Clarendon was with our school two days last week, examining the children. We are glad to report that she finds the condition of the children, as to health, above the average.

Robert Watkins and his sister, Miss Ote, of Hedley, attended singing at Bray Sunday.

Mrs. Chitwood of Clarendon visited our school Friday, and organized a Home Demonstration Club.

Miss Draper Franklin gave a farewell party at her house last Saturday night. A large crowd attended and everyone reported a splendid time.

We regret very much to lose Mr. Franklin's family, for they are a people who are always willing and ready to lend a hand in the upbuilding of the community.

KEEP OLD EYES YOUNG

Wearing glasses is a sign of intelligence, not of age!

They make you look younger and give eyesight of youth!

The old fashioned idea that glasses add age to a person's looks has been badly shattered. Glasses are now worn by so many young folks today that elderly folks are beginning to realize the necessity of preserving their eyesight and keeping it young by wearing the properly fitted glasses.

Glasses help relax your nerves; aid in stopping headaches, and lengthen your life by shortening your worries.

Stop suffering from bothersome eyestrain and poor vision by being fitted to glasses. Properly fitted glasses are constantly performing the unusual by relieving eyestrain and correcting defective vision. If you are wearing glasses now that are not comfortable, have them attended to at once.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of expressing our heartfelt thanks and gratitude to the good friends and neighbors who were so kind and helpful to us in the sore bereavement which took from us our dear wife and mother. We shall ever hold you in grateful remembrance, and may Providence deal gently with you and yours.

BOONE-ADAMSON

Last Saturday afternoon Mr. Jess Boone and Miss Blanche Adamson "stole a march" on their friends by driving over to Wellington and getting married. The wedding ceremony was solemnized at the Methodist parsonage, the pastor, Rev. J. E. Martin, officiating.

After the ceremony, the happy couple left for Burk Burnett, for a temporary stay at the home of the groom's mother. Their future plans are not definitely known to us, though we understand they will probably go to Omaha, Neb., to reside.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Boone are well known to all Hedley people and very highly esteemed—in fact, they have long been among the most popular of the town's young men and women. Their many friends here wish for them a long and happy life as, hand in hand, they "travel the road together."

A SPLENDID DINNER

The dinner served by the Parent Teachers Association, in the McDougal building last Saturday, was a decided success in every detail. The proceeds, we are told, amounted to about $40, which will be added to the school equipment fund.

The ladies who gave the dinner ask us to express their hearty thanks to all who helped to make the affair a success—either by their patronage or in any other way.

POLAND CHINA SALES; PIG CLUB CAMPAIGN

Hedley Informer:
Likely you will be glad to get the news of the sales of Silver Crest Farm Poland Chinas during the month of January, 1921

4 gilts to Estelline,
1 boar to Groom,
1 boar to Estelline,
1 boar to Jennings, Okla.,
8 gilts to Groom,
2 gilts to Jennings, Okla.,
3 gilts to Wildorado,
2 sows to Wildorado,
1 boar to Wildorado.

I regret very much that a large portion of this stuff did not stay in Donley county; and in view of the shortage of hogs in the county, I have decided to put on a pig club campaign for club boys and girls of Donley county.

Not because I am not getting plenty of money for my Poland Chinas, but Donley is one of the best counties in the entire South for the development of Poland Chinas. We have everything it takes to make them good and big. Only yesterday I shipped to M. O. Meeks, Wildorado, two sows weighing 1810 pounds that were produced on Silver Crest Farm.

Our January sales averaged $179.30 per head. I want every boy and girl in the county that will feed and care for a pig to get one this spring and help put the county on the hog map of the entire South.

With the sole thought in mind of helping populate the county with the RIGHT kind of Poland Chinas, with the consent of the boy's or girl's parent or guardian, I will sell them a pig, take their note for it, direct their feeding plans, and at the County Fair offer premiums equal to the purchase price of the pig; and any boy or girl that is not satisfied with their pig may return to me at the time the note is due and his note will be cancelled.

The price will be $36 per head, either sex. A premium will be offered to the boy or girl that has the best gilt at the County Fair, $36; and the best boar, $50. We have not worked out all the details, but by the first week in March we will have all the details in print, that each boy and girl can understand it all.

Frank M. Clark,
Hedley, Texas.

W. M. SOCIETY

We met in business session last Monday afternoon with Mrs. John Blankenship. Several different phases of the work were discussed. Mrs. L. Mobley and Mrs. L. T. Hullum were asked to continue to serve as our Program Committee. Ten members were present, and delightful refreshments were served.

Mrs. L. Mobley will be hostess next Monday afternoon.

NAZARENE CHURCH

I want to say that I have written two or three announcements for the Informer, but got around too late to get them published.

We are grateful indeed to God for the way we are getting started off in our new year's work. We have had some of the finest services since the Assembly we have ever had in Hedley, I think.

We are praying earnestly for our summer meeting which is to be held by Bro. Erick and wife, beginning August 15th and running about fifteen days. Plan to be with us.

There is prayer meeting each Thursday night; Sunday School each Sunday at 10 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 6 p. m. Come and meet with us; we will try to do these good.

Beloved, pray for us.
S. L. Wood, Pastor.
