ABOUT OUR SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION

As will be seen elsewhere in this paper, the President and Secretary of the Hedley School Board have given notice of the annual Trustee election, at which three School Trustees are to be elected, as the terms of three of the present Board expire this spring. Now this notice can mean that either the three outgoing trustees may stand for re-election, or that they will not,
and that new ones can be elected in case the outgoing trustees decline to run for re-election.

These trustee elections are the most important that come to any community every year, because the public schools are by far the biggest thing in any community, and the election of good men who are to look after the biggest thing in the community ought to be an election in which every citizen, both good and bad, should take a lively interest. It is a serious matter to select the right and the best qualified men to fill the trustee positions. Men and women are now both eligible to be trustees. A person who has never made a success of his own business should not be a trustee, for he is not likely to make a success of anybody else's business, as a general rule. And also, as a rule, a person who offers for trustee should not be elected, for nine times out of ten it is not the welfare of the schools that he is so much interested in, as it is an axe of his own that he wants to grind.

Honest, upright, successful business men, who have good educational ideals, men of progressive ideas and who know how to get in behind a good proposition and make it go, are the ones to select for trustees. This kind of men are never offering for positions; and they have to be sought after and asked to stand for election. It is often that they refuse to stand for election unless they see the unanimous wishes of the entire community that they do so.

But we hear a good many things talked on the streets about this trustee election. We hear it said that the three outgoing men will not stand for re-election; and we even hear that some of the four holdovers will not continue to serve, but intend to resign from the board; so that instead of having three trustees to elect, there may be anywhere from three to a whole board of seven to elect. This sounds bad for Hedley; for it leads one to surmise that some of our trustees feel like their services have not been appreciated, as they could or should have been, altho they have served without pay and have given much of their time and attention to the welfare of the schools for every man's child in the district.

It is a righteous conclusion that when a community elects seven school trustees, every citizen in the district, without exception, should stand loyally back of the trustees and give them encouragement, and also give them the united moral and financial support of the whole community. If a community does not give its school trustees its moral and financial support, good men will not suffer themselves to stay in a position where their free services are not appreciated. The better school towns all over the country often keep the same trustees many years. Many towns have thorogoing, progressive business men who have served continuously as trustees from ten to twenty years. The ten to twenty year trustees had the loyal moral and financial support of the community. Hedley can have the same thing.

And to start the thing right,
it might be a good idea for a public mass meeting to be called at an early date, to which every man and woman in the district should come with some good suggestion, and let the trustee question be thrashed before election day, so that the whole matter will have a definite plan of action, and a definite well chosen ticket for the people to support on April 2nd. At this mass meeting it can be ascertained exactly how many vacancies will have to be filled, and a good and suitable candidate nominated for each vacancy. Let's all get together and be a unit on the school question. A school is what the community makes it, and the school can never rise above its community. Let's get together and do some big things for our schools.

The outgoing trustees have done what they could, and if they will not serve us longer, let's assure them of our good will and appreciation for what they have done, and get down to the selection of the very best persons—best qualified in every way to fill all the vacancies.

OPTIMISM

OPTIMISM is the keynote of Success. When you "drop" this note the fight goes against you until it is recovered.

When the bottom appears to have dropped out, we are all inclined to lose heart, yet—

There are just as many people to feed, just as many people to clothe, just as many people to work, and just as much money to finance their labor, as ever before existed, so let's all get busy, go to work and pull ourselves out of our financial troubles.

An Optimist is a man who knows he can.

Washington in Washington.

GEORGE WASHINGTON MEMORIAL BUILDING

WHITE HOUSE

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S connection with the capital city of the nation began when, as President of the United States, he appointed a commission to locate the capital on the Potomac river, "a few miles above Alexandria and adjacent to Georgetown."

The congress sitting in Philadelphia directed that the commissioners be appointed and instructed them as to where they should locate the permanent capital. Those commissioners named the city for the man who had led the victorious armies of the colonies in the Revolution and who was then serving as President. Many fairy stories have been written about how Washington personally selected the site for the capital, "even driving some of the surveyor's stakes," etc. The unvarnished truth is that he merely carried out the will of congress by appointing a commission which was instructed by congress to do a certain thing.

From the day the tract ten miles square was staked out Washington's impress has been in the city and its environs. That impress stands out clearer as the years pass. More than a million persons, Americans by birth or adoption, gain new inspiration every year merely by looking upon the material things that connect the days when Washington was moving about there in the flesh with the present time. Thousands of foreigners benefit in the same way. There is never any pause in the stream of pilgrims to Mt. Vernon or in the throng that is always on the way to the top of the Washington monument. Winter and summer, through sunshine and storm, the homage paying to the "Father of his Country" goes on. Every recurring anniversary of his birth seemingly increases the interest in his memory. On these anniversaries floral decorations are invariably piled high in the tomb at Mt. Vernon, and neither branch of congress ever fails to provide that his farewell address shall be read.

Probably because the point has never been emphasized many persons have the idea, it seems, that Washington lived for a short time in the city that bears his name. There is also a popular belief that the Washingtons at one time occupied the White House. Washington was never a resident of the permanent capital. The seat of government was in Philadelphia when congress voted to locate the capital where it is, and Washington had a temporary home in that city. On returning from Philadelphia at the close of his second term as President he gave considerable personal attention to the early developments of the new capital. He frequently rode up from Mt. Vernon on his favorite black horse to see how things were coming on.

Who would undertake to say that he did not visualize the national capital in some such form as it stands today? If he did, he saw in his imagination the Capitol building on Capitol hill, the Library of Congress with its golden dome in the rear of the Capitol, the magnificent office buildings for senate and house of representatives, the expansive Mall extending from the Capitol to the Potomac, with the monument to his own memory, the most conspicuous thing on it; and he also saw the splendid memorial to Abraham Lincoln, which has just been completed, as well as the memorial to U. S. Grant, which is almost ready to be turned over to the government. And who again would say that he did not have a vision of the resident section of the city extending far beyond the White House to the northwest?

Washington never saw the White House occupied. To some extent it represents his ideas of what a combined home and business office for the President should be—the original idea was that the President should make the house his residence and also his workshop. Washington as a Mason assisted in laying the cornerstone of the White House. That formality was conducted by a Masonic lodge in Alexandria of which Washington was a member.

It is certain that he was deeply interested in the work of construction. At the time of his death the house was practically ready for occupancy. The furnishings were being placed in position. Only a few days before his death he and Mrs. Washington went through the entire building and, according to the chroniclers of the time, were keenly interested in every detail of the place which was to be the home of future Presidents.

Today, as it has ever been, it is not so much the things with the Washington stamp on them, as those in the nearby districts that interest the tourists. Mt. Vernon, of course, is the Washington shrine and it will continue to be that so long as the republic endures. It was the Virginia home on the Potomac to which Washington took his bride; there he made plans for his life work, plans that were rudely shattered by the events of later years. It was from that refuge that he went forth to command the armies of the Revolution, and it was from the seclusion of that attractive place that he answered the call to be President. He returned to the old home on retiring from office, and there he died, and there his bones lie.

When the national capital city was laid out, and for many decades afterward, Mt. Vernon was looked upon as a "long ways off" from the capital. It is only seventeen miles away. Today there are three ways of reaching Mt. Vernon—by boat, by electricity, by automobile. It is an easy hour's travel from the business center of Washington. With these facilities the number of visitors has greatly increased. It is believed the time is not far distant when a million and a half of tourists will annually visit Mt. Vernon.

If you should happen to be in Mt. Vernon on the 22d of February you would, in imagination, see Washington as he went about his country place on his birthday. "The very atmosphere speaks to you of him," said a distinguished Frenchman. Visitors marvel at the faithfulness with which the buildings and their contents and the grounds have been preserved. There have been, of necessity, some replacements, but speaking in a broad way, things are as they were when Washington last looked upon them. One can almost see the house cat coming out of the hole under the door that led to the room occupied by Mrs. Washington. And what a sense of comfort one gets as he sits in an easy chair on the veranda and looks out over the Potomac and across the river to the hills of Maryland, just as Washington did! "No wonder Washington did not wish to leave the place even to be President of his country," one says to himself.

The Mount Vernon Ladies' Aid society continues to care for the Mt. Vernon home and lands. The country owes a debt of gratitude to this society for preserving the property. Years ago when it was about to fall into the hands of private speculators this society was formed and it has done its work well. Many persons believe, however, that congress should buy the estate in the name of the government and throw it open to the public. Always under the management of the Aid society a nominal charge for admittance has been made.

Many of the visitors linger in the country about the old Washington home. Of course no one who knew the Washington family is now living, but there are plenty of descendants of the old families in the neighborhood who delight to talk of the old days. The countryside has not changed much in 120 years. Many homes built while Washington was alive still stand. Three miles south of Mt. Vernon the old Pollock (Episcopal) church in which Washington frequently worshiped is still occupied by the Episcopal congregation. Within the last five years the interior of the old building has been restored and today visitors may look on the decorations precisely as they were when Washington attended.

Passing time has not served to take away any of the Washington atmosphere about the old city of Alexandria, seven miles south of the national capital and on the road to Mt. Vernon. The first thing the writer is told is that Washington "did a lot for us." "He established our public school system," says the local guide, "and he gave us our first fire department. He was always doing something for us." Foremost of the Washington show-places in Alexandria is old Christ church, of which Washington was a member for some 40 years. The church building of brick has been preserved unchanged. The pew that Washington occupied is reserved every Sunday for strangers who may happen along at the service hour. The old sexton will be certain to relate numerous stories of the first President. He will, first of all, tell you how Washington always came up from Mt. Vernon on horseback, followed by his faithful black body-guard in a bright red uniform; how after services Washington was likely to linger in the church-yard to talk with his country neighbors, and how it was frequently necessary for the servant to remind him that it was time to go by leading up the horse and handing the bridle reins to him. The members of Washington's family, the local historian relates, always came up in a large coach drawn by four horses if the roads were heavy. Not infrequently neighbors were guests in the coach.

Another favorite rendezvous in Alexandria for sightseers is the room occupied by the Masonic lodge named for Washington. This lodge still flourishes. There one may look upon the chair in which Washington sat when he presided over the lodge of which he was master, also the Masonic apron he wore, his wedding gloves, a pair of spurs he wore, a pruning knife he used on the Mount Vernon plantation, and a penknife which his mother gave him when he was a boy. And there is to be seen in the old lodge room the last authentic painting of him, a pastel from life made by William Williams of Philadelphia.

Another old Washington landmark in Alexandria is the Carlyle house. This structure was there when Washington was a young man. In colonial days it was one of the best-known hotels in Virginia. The fine folks of the Old Dominion gathered there for balls and dinners and for good times generally, and Washington, the local historians say, was present at any unusual event. General Braddock had his headquarters in the old hotel when he was proceeding against the French and Indians. Making one's way back to the capital city over the Alexandria-Arlington road numerous landmarks may be seen. This highway leads by Arlington, the resting place of the nation's heroes, and to Georgetown.

As this old highway brings the traveler around the brow of a hill four miles southwest of the national capital the Washington monument looms up across the low land and the Potomac river. From no point in the environs of the national capital does the monument appear to greater advantage—a magnificent reminder of the good works of one typical American. This monument is a fitting companion piece for the great memorial to Abraham Lincoln soon to be dedicated. It speaks of the founder of the Republic; the other of the saviour of the Republic.

Many projects were discussed before the Washington monument was conceived and work on it began. At the close of the Revolution the Continental congress recommended the erection of an equestrian statue to Washington. Immediately after his death the congress, sitting in Philadelphia, voted to erect a monument under which he should be buried. Another project was to make the Capitol building a memorial to him. Travelers may to this day have a peep at a vaulted chamber directly under the rotunda of the Capitol which was designed as a resting place for the body of Washington.

The Washington monument is the most conspicuous work of man at the national capital. The dome of the Capitol and dome of the Congressional library and the new Lincoln memorial stand out with boldness, but the monument overtops them. On a clear day the monument may be seen from the crest of the Blue Ridge mountains, 45 miles away. The memorial had its inception in the minds of patriotic people who formed the Washington Memorial association. It was proposed to charge a membership fee of $1 and the money thus contributed was to be used in the erection of a suitable monument to the hero of the Revolution. The money came in slowly and it looked at times as if this project too would have to be abandoned.

Finally in 1848 congress voted a site. The spot chosen had been marked by Washington himself as a monument to the Revolution which he hoped would sometime be built. The work of erecting the monument proceeded slowly. It had reached a height of 178 feet when the Civil war came on. It was roofed over and stood untouched until 1876 when congress again took hold and under the spur of congressional action it was completed in 1885.

The height of the monument is 555 feet and 5 inches. From the lookout on the top the view of the national capital and its environs fascinates a million persons a year.

Other unpretentious memorials of Washington are to be seen in the national capital.

FELT SOMETHING WAS WRONG TRAILS ABOUND IN ROMANCE

Youngster's Experience Made Him Doubt Whether His Prayers Were Really Acceptable.

In the smoking room of La France, on a cool, rough, windy day, George Gould said:

"These winter passages are unpleasant, but they're never dangerous. One bleak December day I was sitting, wrapped up in furs and rugs, in a sheltered corner of the promenade deck of a Cunarder. The seas were mountains high. The good old boat seemed to stand on her head one minute, and the next she reared right up on her hind legs.

"A tiny tot of a boy made his way cautiously to the young and pretty matron seated next me. He steadied himself against her deck chair and said:

"Mamma, is it wrong to pray that we get home safe?"

"Of course not, darling."

"Well, he went on, 'I've been kneeling on a locker trying to pray that we arrive safe in port, and each time I begin the ship heaves up and throws me on the deck.'"

The Best Ones Never Do.

"How was the lecture?"

"Fine. It didn't last more than forty minutes."

Written Testimonial of the Trials and Triumphs of the Men Who Fashioned Them.

Nothing is more romantic than the trail, remarks a writer in the Los Angeles Times. It is the artery of trade and life itself. On land it moves about the bases of the mountains, out of the lowlands, winding through the chaparral, along the easy grades of the canyons, never forcing its way, but definitely avoiding the slippery rock face and the poison oak; upward into the fresh air that broadens through the pass; on, through the pass and into the unknown beyond, into the valley of heart's desire it carries the laden mule and the traveler with his pack.

Across the great deserts the trail is a caravan route, seeking the shades of cliff and avoiding the shifting dunes; stretching unerringly toward the next water hole. It is the written testimonial of the trials and triumphs of the men who have gone before. It is the only pathway of the devout pilgrim, as of the warlike Redoubt. Every habitation of man that has ever dominated one of these great trails has made history and has been in its day a treasure house.

HEDLEY LIVE STOCK & FAIR ASSOCIATION

The Hedley Live Stock Association was called together last Saturday night, March 12th, by President W. B. Franklin, for the purpose of determining whether or not we could amend the organization and assist in the betterment of the country in general.

The meeting was attended by by eighteen men, representing every kind of business of importance in the country.

W. B. Franklin acted as temporary chairman, and Frank M. Clark as temporary secretary. It was unanimously agreed that we should reorganize the old association and re-name the new one The Hedley Live Stock and Fair Association. A committee was appointed to draft a Constitution and By Laws for the new association, to be presented for the approval of the public next Monday night, March 21st.

We need your presence at the meeting Monday night, which is to be held in the Bend Johnson building, corner Main street and the Highway. New officers will be elected, and the business for the coming year will be mapped out. Be there, and lend your assistance to the making of a bigger and better Hedley.

Frank M. Clark,
Temp. Secretary.

That all may understand the organization, its purposes, etc., we publish herewith the proposed Constitution:

I—Name

The name of this organization is the Hedley Livestock and Fair Association.

II—Object

The object of this organization shall be: To assist the development of better live stock; To encourage more extensive poultry raising; To further the development of agricultural interests in this district; To bring about a closer co operation between the business men, farmers and stock men.

III—Eligibility

Any person of good moral standing shall be eligible for membership in the Hedley Live stock and Fair Association.

IV—Headquarters

The Headquarters of this organization shall be in the town of Hedley, county of Donley, state of Texas.

V—Amendments

Amendments to this constitution may be made at any meeting of this organization, regular or special, by a two thirds vote of the members present, provided notice of the proposed amendment has been given in the call of the meeting.

COUNTY DEPOSITORY

Notice is hereby given that the Commissioners' Court of Donley county, Texas, at its regular term to be held in Clarendon, on the second Monday in April, A. D. 1921, same being the 11th day of April, A. D. 1921, will receive bids from any banking corporation in said county desiring to be selected as county depository for the ensuing two years.

All such bids must be accompanied by a statement of the interest such banking corporation offers to pay on average daily balances for such funds, and by a certified check for at least one-half of one per cent of the county revenue for the preceding year.

The court reserves the right to reject any and all bids made.

It is ordered that this notice be posted at the court house door of Donley county for at least 20 days before said second Monday in April, 1921, and that the same be published in three successive issues of the Clarendon News and the Hedley Informer prior to said second Monday in April, 1921.

All such bids should be delivered to the County Judge in open court on or before 10 o'clock a. m., April 11th, 1921.

Witness my hand officially this March 14th, 1921.

W. T. Link, County Judge
Donley County, Texas.

J. M. Clarke and family left last night for the Rio Grande Valley, and will probably locate in Mercedes or some nearby town. On the way there, they will visit relatives at a number of places. The move is made primarily for health benefit. We extend our good wishes.

"REFRESHMENTS SERVED"

The ladies of the First Christian Church will serve sandwiches, pies, cakes, coffee and hot chocolate in the building formerly occupied by the Elite Cafe all day Saturday, March 19th.

You are cordially invited to pay them a visit.

We were glad to see Mr. J. E. Swafford on our streets this morning, following an extended illness, a part of the time being spent in the Adair Hospital at Clarendon.

Note in this issue the large ad of Photographer W. D. Orr, of Memphis, wherein some extraordinary bargains are offered in his line. Read it, and profit.

NOTICE

All persons having in their possession any road machinery of any nature belonging to Donley county, are specially requested to return the same at once to the County Commissioner of their precinct.

In future any persons desiring to use any county road machinery will first secure the permission of their County Commissioner.

The Commissioners court ordered that this notice be published in all county papers, hoping it will expedite the return of much of the county road machinery now in the possession of private persons.

By order of Commissioners' Court the 17th March, 1921.

"DANDERINE"

Girls! Save Your Hair!
Make It Abundant!

Immediately after a "Danderine" massage, your hair takes on new life, lustrous and wondrous beauty, appearing twice as heavy and plentiful because each hair seems to fluff and thicken. Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, plain or scraggly. You, too, want lots of long, strong, beautiful hair.

A 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" freshens your scalp, checks dandruff and falling hair. This stimulating "beauty- tonic" gives to thin, dull, fading hair that youthful brightness and abundant thickness. All druggists.—Adv.

That Embarrassing Moment.

When you have forgotten whether the new baby is a boy or girl:

"Well, well but he is a fine chap, isn't she? Do her teeth bother him much? I hope he gets through the winter without getting sick. She looks like you, doesn't he? Everybody says it does."

Important to all Women
Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

Mother Goose, Linguist.

Mary's mother was improving the shining hours with a little French conversation, which Mary, aged four, was finding somewhat irksome. To some remark her mother replied "Ouf, ouf," at which Mary said, in an exasperated tone:

"Don't talk that pig talk to me."

"That isn't pig talk, dear; it's—"

"Yes, it is, too, mother. That's just what the little pig said all the way home."—Harper's.

OXILINE IN HOT WATER

Bring the dose of health to pale cheeks. A tablespoon of Oxiline in a half glass of hot water taken regularly will improve the appetite, warm the blood and restore the functions of the entire body. Nature will then do the rest toward making you strong and well. This treatment is also effective in warding off colds, flu, grip and all ailments. OXILINE purifies your blood and tones up the entire system. See at your druggist's. Adv.

Established Styles in Skirts

JUST now shop windows and show rooms are spring songs of cheerful merchandise. Lovely new cottons, in exquisite weaves, are on display and they include heavy as well as sheer fabrics—the heavy weaves suggesting separate skirts and suits, and the sheer ones enticing the seamstress to make summer frocks. Neighboring windows accommodatingly show ready-made garments, helping to establish the styles, and if one thing is more firmly fixed in our minds than another, it is a vogue for plaited skirts. Eight out of ten models, at least, are plaited, mostly in box plaits, narrow or wide, single, double and triple.

It is the great number of striped and cross-bar patterns in materials that accounts for the diversity in plaits. Designers exercise their ingenuity in producing effects with them which change the looks of the pattern in the skirt or feature certain colors in it, so that material in which a light and a dark stripe alternate may be made up into a skirt that is all dark, by plaiting the light stripe under—or the reverse. Even the plain-surfaced goods are plaited, however.

One of the practical skirts for spring, as shown in the picture, has a wide, barred stripe, narrowed by plaiting, that alternates with a plain stripe. The belt is made of the barred stripe, with long tabs at each side, turned up and fastened with an odd flat button. There is nothing more trim than a well-fitting plaited skirt.

For Hours of Leisure

THOSE who begin in late winter to prepare for spring and summer find easy sailing when the matter of afternoon frocks is under consideration. There are so many attractive models, and always new ones that may be copied, in fabrics that are never out of style. Besides, spring materials make their debut in January, or even earlier, and their appearance is the signal that inspires designers. Leaving out the world of beautiful cotton goods, it is possible also to play safe with tulle and georgette.

These two dependable and beautiful materials have advocates in the frocks for afternoon, shown in the picture above. The dress at the left is a sprightly and pretty model that plies its faith wholly to tulle in a fascinating shade of blue. It has a long straight bodice and plain skirt to start with and relies upon flounces to give it a flavor of youth and gaiety. These flounces overlap on the skirt and make the best of finishes for elbow-length sleeves. There is a small and somewhat frivolous collar at the back accompanied by a pert bow on the left shoulder.

Georgette calls in the aid of satin in the more dignified dress at the right. Over a satin underskirt there is a very long tunic of georgette in four panels, those at the back and front hanging in plaits, and those at the sides banded with satin. The bodice reverses the order of things in the skirt with panels of satin at the back and front placed over the underbodice of georgette. The sleeves show the new, draped finish and a generous sash provides an opportunity for handsome embroidery in silk of several colors.

POINTS*SWINGING CHURN IS FAVORED

Durability of Homemade Device Is Measured in Terms of Half a Lifetime.—Cost Is Small.

Consult your tinsmith, follow the specifications as outlined by Miss L. Dorman, a farmerette of Mississippi, and the results will be a swing churn—a product that is at once new, sanitary, and a labor-saver. It is a homemade device, its durability is measured in terms of half a lifetime, and the cost is negligible.

For a churn of two and one-half gallons capacity, obtain a heavy quality of block tin and shape it in an 18-

This Easily Made Swing Churn Is Merely Shoved Back and Forth When It Is Filled With Cream. It Is Quickly Cleaned and Keeps Out All Dust or Dirt.

by-20-inch square. Place it on 2-inch legs, arrange a handle for each end as propellers, and carve a 6-inch opening through the top for pouring the cream.

The covering to the opening fits snugly on the inside, like an old-fashioned bucket lid. A substantial wire handle is soldered at each end of the churn, with a ring in the center. One end of a cord is passed through the ring and the other fastened to another ring, or hook, in a beam overhead.

Ready for operation, the swinging device can be adjusted to any height. A small child can operate the churn, which is shoved back and forth. The sudden impact of the cream against the churn affords the friction for making the butter.—S. R. Winters in Popular Science Monthly.

SUCCESSFUL MILK CAMPAIGN

Dairy Division Co-operating With State Organizations to Promote Consumption of Milk.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The dairy division of the United States Department of Agriculture is co-operating in campaigns to promote a greater consumption of milk, and the results so far have been remarkable. Experts of the division co-operate with the extension departments of the state agricultural colleges in organizing the work and securing the aid of local boards of health, boards of education, chambers of commerce, welfare societies, and similar bodies. The work consists of child-feeding demonstrations, lectures, published material, etc. Special work is done in schools, homes and factories.

About 35 campaigns thus far have been conducted in this manner, covering the country from Boston to Seattle. Cities having an aggregate population of over 5,000,000 have had milk campaigns lasting from one to two weeks. Careful reports show that these cities have increased their milk consumption about 16 per cent since the beginning of the campaigns.

FALL FRESHENING IS URGED

Calves Are More Easily Raised and Cows Will Give More Milk—Farmer Has More Time.

The man who had his dairy cows freshen this fall is thanking his lucky stars that most of his work is coming when he has most time to do it and when dairy products bring a higher price. Men who have had experience with both spring and fall freshenings will argue that fall freshening is better because of the two advantages given here and because the calves are more easily raised and the cows in the course of a year will give more milk. Spring freshening has but few advantages despite the fact that it is the rule. The main part of the work comes during the summer, when one is busy in the field and flies annoy both cows and milker. Fall freshenings go dry in July and August, the time of year when milking cows is anything but pleasant.

DODSON STOPS
SALE OF CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" is Taking Place of Dangerous, Sickening Chemical, Say Druggists

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it," Dodson's Liver Tone is perennially guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day.—Adv.

SCHOOL LIBRARY

The school is planning to have in the near future a Special Exhibit Day on which school work will be displayed. Parents are urged to come and donate one good book to the school library.

The following is a list of books which would be appreciated: Children's story books, fairy stories, animal, adventure and nature stories, picture books or magazines, collections of short stories, Pollyanna books, Anne of Green Gables, Tom Sawyer, Joel C. Harris' Georgia Stories, Kennedy's Horseshoe Robinson, Thompson's Alice of Old Virginia, Henty's With Lee in Virginia, Jackson's Remons, Camp Fire Girls series, Boy Scouts series, any of Hart's Source Readers, poems by standard poets, books by any of the following: Eleanor H. Porter, J. O. Curwood, Rex Beach, Jean S. Porter, Maria T. Davies, John Fox Jr., Harold Bell Wright, Cooper, Richard H. Davis, W. Churchill, T. N. Page, Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Lew Wallace, Jean Webster, and any of the other standard novelists; National Geographic Magazine, Current History Magazine, Independent Magazine, Youth's Companion, Literary Digest, American Magazine, reference works, good up to date dictionaries, historical works by Hayes, Hazen, Andrews, Robinson and Beard, Pyffe, Morey, Betsford, Duruy, Seignobos; Adams and Trent's History of the United States, Ogg's Source Book.

Look this list over and let it suggest to you some book which you can send to the school. And watch for the date for Exhibit Day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Ruins and son, Charles, attended the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth the past week.

W. A. Pierce has our thanks for subscription renewal this week.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

The McKnight revival, which was held by Bros. Gilliam and Crow, was a great success. Conversions eight, and additions eight. Bro. J. H. Pierce succeeded to the call of the Ministry.

The Giles meeting which closed Tuesday night was indeed a very successful revival. There were six conversions, and the church and community were greatly benefitted by the work done by these godly men. Gilliam and Crow did the preaching.

Rev. L. B. Hankins preached Sunday and Sunday night to large congregations at Clarendon.

Rev. Gilliam, Rev. Crow, Rev. Hankins and R. E. Mann motored to Estelline Wednesday.

Rev. Messer of Ring filled the Methodist pulpit last Sunday night in the absence of the pastor. He preached to the delight of those who heard him.

Mid week prayer meeting at the Methodist church was conducted by Bro. D. C. Moore. And his tactics for holding a meeting of this kind made it a feast of good things to our souls. A large attendance enjoyed the services.

The Sunday School rooms in the basement of the church are now equipped with the kindergarten chairs and we invite the children to see that none of them are left vacant next Sunday. Mrs. U. J. Boston, the capable superintendent of that department, will be glad to see you.

Methodist Church, Sunday, March 26th—11 a. m., Theme: Heaven. 7:30 p. m. Theme: Hell. Everybody cordially invited to attend and worship with us.
L. B. Hankins, Pastor.

Note in this issue the large ad of Photographer W. D. Orr, of Memphis, wherein some extraordinary bargains are offered in his line. Read it, and profit.

FOR SALE—Four head work stock. Will take good note.
G. O. Wood.

BRAY BRIEFS

Health in the community is generally good.

Farmers are just about thru gathering the crops, and some are beginning to prepare land for the next crop.

Our school is still progressing nicely, with an enrollment of more than 100 pupils.

Mrs. Ethel Simmons of New Mexico is visiting her sister, Mrs. D. M. Latimer.

Quite a crowd from McKnight community attended singing last Sunday night at Mr. Peninger's. J. C. Hill and family spent last Sunday with relatives at Clarendon.

Several people came over from Hedley to be at the play rendered by the Boy Scouts of Hedley.

We are sorry to report the death of little Wesley Johnson, who died at the Adair Sanitarium last Saturday.

The Ladies Demonstration Club met with Mes. Chitwood and Edwards, county and state demonstration agents, at the school house last Saturday. Everyone seemed to enjoy the lessons given by the demonstrators, and all went home rejoicing.

A GOOD TONIC

Houston, Texas:—"I was in a terribly run-down condition of health after a siege of ptomaine poisoning, and then the influenza. I could not seem to regain my strength, and was really not able to do my housework. I knew I needed a good tonic and builder and remembered how my folks used to regard Dr. Pierce's remedy in my childhood days, and then I decided to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After taking the second bottle I found it was doing me a world of good. My strength returned rapidly, and I felt better in every way."

Secured Lasting Relief from Bad Case of Indigestion

Dallas man suffered for years, yet Ware's Black Powder brought quick and lasting relief, he says.

The remarkable value of Ware's Black Powder in the treatment of indigestion is shown in the case of Mr. G. M. Anderson of Dallas, who writes, under date of Sept. 28, 1920:

"I suffered from indigestion for many years, and got in such condition I could not work at times. Ware's Black Powder was recommended to me, and I started taking it. After using two or three bottles I was permanently relieved. I believe Ware's Black Powder is without an equal for its recommended use."

This wonderful remedy is sold by all druggists for 50c and $1.20 the package. Not a purgative. Contains no harmful drugs. Forty years in use. Send for Dr. Ware's free booklet on digestive trouble.

DRUDGERY DONE AWAY WITH

Unusually Well Designed and Substantially Built—Has Screened-in Sun Porch and Sleeping Porch—Rooms Are Airy.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 187 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only, enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Building ideas have changed a whole lot in the space of less than ten years. Many old features which were considered absolutely necessary to the comfort of a home have been eliminated entirely and many new ideas which were frowned upon as freaks when first suggested are now the regular thing. We have in mind the sun parlor or porch and sleeping porch, now one of the most popular features in city home, apartment or farm home. People have become educated to the appreciation of good fresh air when sleeping. Our grandfathers regarded open windows in the sleeping rooms with a feeling akin to horror. Everything was shut down tight and it seemed to be the notion to prevent as little fresh air as possible from getting into the bedrooms.

But times have changed radically. Today fresh air is recognized as one of the greatest aids to health, and homes are being erected along lines one side in the form of a large bay with four windows. It opens at one side into a hall, at the other into the kitchen and screened porch which is at the far corner of the first floor. This screened porch is also connected with the kitchen and can be used very conveniently for breakfast or other meals to save much work for the housewife.

The kitchen is modeled along practical lines, being small, condensed and complete. It is only 10 by 16 feet. Immediately adjacent is the wash-room, a very essential part of the farm home because of the work it saves and its general convenience for the men who come in from the field.

The kitchen is connected with a small bedroom by a hall which opens into a lavatory. This bedroom is very handy for the men who have to get up very early in the morning and who do not wish to disturb the rest of the family.

The sleeping quarters are located on the second floor and consist of five bedrooms and a large sleeping porch, 18 by 8 feet. The bedrooms vary in size from the smallest, 9 feet 6 inches by 13 feet, to the largest, 16 feet by 16 feet 6 inches. This large room is over that will provide a maximum of fresh air, of course without discomfort. The number of windows in a dwelling have been greatly increased and the ventilation facilities of the bedrooms vastly improved.

Along the lines of better ventilation has followed the two most important innovations of the last decade, the sun parlor and sleeping porch. In the beautiful, large spacious farm home shown here both of these features are prominent. A large screened-in sun porch on the main floor provides a wonderful recreation center for the family when the warm weather becomes uncomfortable. In the winter this same porch can be glazed in and made into a very valuable room.

A wide attractive driveway leads the way to this charming farm home. It passes under a porte-cochere covered by an extension of the roof porch supported by concrete block and wood pillars. The front porch extends the width of the house and is approached by stairs on the drive and at the end of the main walk. The front entrance opens into a small reception hall with a handy closet for outside clothes. This room in turn leads through a wide open doorway into the living room on one side. This room is a very comfortable center for the family, 18 by 13 feet 6 inches with a great open fireplace providing a wealth of warmth and cheer on the cold and chilly nights. Plenty of light comes from triple window in front and small side windows.

Another open doorway to the rear brings us into view of the dining room, an equally spacious and cheerful room, 16 by 22 feet, extending to the dining room and gets the benefit of the wonderful lighting and ventilation afforded by the large bay window. All of the rooms are exceptionally well lighted and airy, and have plenty of closet space. In one corner is a small sewing room, 10 by 8 feet.

While this home is large and rather pretentious, it is by no means an exception, and is indicative of the type of homes farmers are building for their families. They are demanding the best of comforts because they realize that is the touchstone to family harmony and instrumental in keeping the children on the farm after they grow up and appreciate the good things of home life.

WORLD MENACED BY TYPHUS

Dreaded Fever in Poland and Galicia and It Is Feared It Will Spread.

The severe epidemic of typhus fever now raging in Poland and Galicia must be regarded as an international danger, and there can be very little doubt that if it is not checked in the new stricken areas it will spread westward, says the Medical Record. It has been conclusively shown that the infection is carried by lice. The principal carrier is the body louse, which anchors itself in the underclothing next to the skin and feeds twice a day. The only remedy against the parasite is the immediate baking or disinfection of clothing.

Typhus is essentially a winter disease and occurs most frequently in temperate climates, the obvious explanation being that its development is enhanced by overcrowding, bad ventilation and close contact in dwellings. The mortality is almost invariably high among doctors and nurses. Our greatest safeguard is that typhus is now thoroughly understood, while precautions can be applied without difficulty.

Cumulative Funeral Services. The custom (in the mountain districts of the South) is to have a funeral preached every two or three years for all the people who have died during that time. Each one is buried at the time of his death, but the preaching is reserved for a later day, when it is convenient for more people and more preachers to get there. Sometimes a man will be married again, and his second wife will be one of the chief mourners at his first wife's funeral preaching. This custom is dying out to some extent. The burying and preaching together are becoming more common.—Irene Hudson in the Atlantic Monthly.

HOG-CHOLERA LOSS REDUCED

Estimated Saving of $5,000 to Farmers of Alabama County Brought About by County Agent.

Losses by hog cholera have been materially reduced in Bullock county, Alabama, as a result of the work of the county agent in training farmers in various centers throughout the county to use the serum and apparatus developed by the United States Department of Agriculture. Forty-nine cars of hogs, 3,328 head, have been marketed from the county through co-operative work, with an estimated saving of $5,000. In Bullock county the department's representative taught 18 men to vaccinate hogs. Six sets of instruments owned by the Dothan Rotary club were supplied to the demonstrators and a serum-distributing point was established in charge of a reliable veterinarian. More than 9,000 head of hogs were treated. In many cases it was found that sickness, other than cholera, was due to some incidental cause, such as bad peanut meal, and balanced rations were advised. The county agent's work resulted in 32 farmers establishing pastures to keep their hogs off the open range, the land thus pastured being freed from many noxious weeds by the rooting of the animals, and prepared for future cultivation. Forty-four farmers in the county were interested in stump removing, and about 2,000 acres of land was cleared in this movement. About five tons of dynamite was bought for the purpose largely on the co-operative plan.

FEEDING GARBAGE TO SWINE

Practical Means of Producing Pork According to Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

When properly managed, the feeding of garbage to swine is a practical means of pork production, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1133 issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In addition it helps to settle a problem which confronts many cities and towns—that of effective and economical garbage disposal. The wholesomeness of garbage depends greatly on the care it receives in households. Tins, cans, glass, paper, oyster shells, sawdust, soap, and other foreign materials when mixed with garbage may cause numerous losses of hogs. But it has been found that this evil can be minimized by proper precaution and published requests to householders to be careful.

Immunizing of hogs is necessary to prevent hog cholera and frequent collection is urged to keep the feed fresh. Copies of the bulletin may be had free by applying to the United States Department of Agriculture.

SEGREGATE ALL NEW ANIMALS

Wise Plan to Place Recent Purchases in Quarantine for at Least Twenty-One Days.

The proper and only safe thing to do with the recently purchased animal is to place it in quarantine upon its arrival. Better keep it there not less than 21 days at least. This enables you to keep a careful watch over the animal at all times, and to determine that the animal is healthy, and in case there should be any disease, it would not be carried to those animals already on the farm.

SUPPLY PIGS PLenty WATER

Young Porks Drink Often and in Small Quantities—Non-Freezer Is Very Useful.

A pig likes to drink water often and in small quantities. It drinks water the same as it eats feed—a little at a time and often. That is why a non-freezing waterer and a self-feeder for grain are so very valuable in the hog lot.

LOVE SEEN IN NEW LIGHT HIMALAYAS IN SECOND PLACE

Old Idea of Affection All Wrong, According to Pronouncements of Modern Scientists.

"Science revolutionizes our ideas," The speaker was W. L. George, the English feminist lecturer. He resumed: "A millionaire contractor was complaining to a scientific friend of mine that a beautiful actress had accepted his proposal of marriage, only he had just discovered that she did so for purely mercenary motives. 'But my scientific friend' pool-pooled the millionaire contractor's lament.

"What a queer devil you are!" he said. "You want to be loved for your looks alone—that is, for the position in space of the atoms, ions, molecules and what-not which chance, working through some Darwinian selective theory, has grouped together in the entity that is yourself. Ridiculous! And you hate to be loved for your wealth—for a financial achievement, that is to say, which is an undeniably testimonial to your industry, intelligence, sobriety and virtue."

Exploration in Tibet Have Revealed Existence of a More Massive Mountain Range.

Among the greatest results achieved by the Hedin explorations in Tibet was the discovery of a continuous mountain chain, 2,000 miles long, stretching east and west, and which, taken as a whole, is the most massive range on the crust of the earth. Its average height above sea level is greater than that of the Himalayas, and although its peaks are from 4,000 to 5,000 feet lower than Mount Everest, its passes average 3,000 feet higher than those of the Himalayas.

The eastern and western parts of this range were known before, but the central and highest part, in Kengba, was unexplored previous to Doctor Hedin's visit. He crossed ten passes in the range.

DRESSMAKER MADE WELL

Followed a Neighbor's Advice and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vernon, Tex.—"For three years I suffered untold agony each month with pains in my sides. I found only temporary relief in doctor's medicine or anything else I took until my husband saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I mentioned it to a neighbor and she told me she had taken it with good results and advised me to try it. I was then in bed part of the time and my doctor said I would have to be operated on, but we decided to try the Vegetable Compound and I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a dressmaker and am now able to go about my work and do my housework besides. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial as I am always glad to speak a word for your medicine."—Mrs. W. M. STEPHENS, 1103 N. Commerce St., Vernon, Texas.

Dressmakers when overworked are prone to such ailments and should profit by Mrs. Stephens' experience.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., about your health. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

PAMELA THORNTON.

Synopsis.—Robert Hervey Randolph, young New York man-about-town, leaves the home of his sweet-heart, Madge Van Tellier, charged because of her refusal of his proposal of marriage. His income, $10,000 a year, which he must surrender if a certain Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton (whom he has seen only as a small girl ten years before) is found, is not considered by the girl of his heart adequate to modern needs. In a "don't care" mood Randolph enters a taxi, unseen by the driver, and is driven to the stage door of a theater. A man he knows, Duke Beamer, induces a girl to enter the cab. Beamer, attempting to follow, is pushed back by Randolph and the cab moves on. His new acquaintance tells Randolph she is a chorus girl, and has lost her position. She is in distress, even hungry, and he takes her to his apartment.

PART I—Continued.

The girl considered gravely for a moment; then her face broke into a rippling smile that swept up and settled in her eyes. She reached for a cushion, put it at her back, tucked one foot under herself, and waved the other in the same fashion as had Miss Van Tellier earlier in the evening.

"Now talk," she said.

"Do you like me?" asked Mr. Randolph.

She nodded her head.

"You're not afraid to be here?"

She shook her head.

"Have you ever been in a man's room before?"

She looked him straight in the eyes and made no other sign.

It was Mr. Randolph's turn to flush.

"Then," he said, "if you like me and if you're not afraid, please begin at the start and tell me all about it."

The girl's eyes fell and sought the fire. Her face slowly paled to the shade of her somber thoughts. She was no longer pretty; she was beautiful, with a revealing transparency that made her seem unfleshed, a disembodied spirit of sincerity and truth, undeniably pure.

"I had a nurse once," she said, in a low voice, "and a wire-haired terrier, a show-dog and a darling. His name was Sport."

She raised solemn eyes to Randolph's face as though measuring his powers of understanding. "My nurse died and then, one day, I had to sell Sport; I wasn't old enough to sell myself."

She stopped speaking with an unmistakable finality. Randolph was overwhelmed by the flood of information that this slip of a girl had packed into two-score words. A life-story in four lines and a revelation of the heart thrown in for good measure! Over and above that, he had to reckon with the confirmation of a suspicion which had been slowly establishing itself in his mind that he had met her before, that not for the first time this night had those soft lips, curved for merry words, cried, "My, what a hump!" within his hearing.

So many considerations pressed to his immediate attention that he awoke to the actual present too late to stem the tide of tears that suddenly rose to the girl's eyes.

"Oh," she sobbed, "what is to become of me? I was so happy here, if you hadn't made me think!"

If anything has been said in the course of these pages to give the impression that Mr. Randolph was modeled after Joseph or hewn out of ice or packed with probity to the exclusion of red blood, forget it. At the sight of those tears, he slid the length of the couch to first base, fielded the girl in his arms, switched her round so that she lay across his knees, drew her face against his shoulder, and rocked her gently.

"You poor kiddie," he said softly, "what a devil of a time you've had! But believe me when I tell you it's all over. This is the night that starts your old happy sun into the blue sky again. Don't worry."

She stopped crying and looked up into the honest face so close to her own, puzzling as to how just those words could have come from it; but the world had taught her a hard lesson in long quivering sighs.

"If you could only wait until I love you, body and soul," she breathed.

"What on earth do you mean?" asked Mr. Randolph.

"Why, then it wouldn't be so bad—so ugly."

"I don't get you," remarked Robert Hervey.

"A man told me just a little while ago that he was making a catalogue of reasons why women give themselves."

"He continued," "He had eleven already, and yet he was one of the nicest men I've met. He talked to me as though he were showing me a way that I must travel alone."

"Really?" said Mr. Randolph, stifling perceptibly.

"The lowest reason of all was for cold cash," she went on, as though he had not spoken. "Then came the glitter of precious stones, and, after that, silk underwear."

"Silk underwear!" exclaimed Mr. Randolph, mystified and interested in spite of himself.

"Of course you couldn't understand that," she said, "not unless you had seen some poor girl bury her face in crepe de chine and lace, tremble to try them on, and then sob because she had to wear clothes over them."

"Look here," said Mr. Randolph, shuddering at the pity of it: "we'll pass on to the next, if you don't mind."

"Curiosity comes next," resumed the girl obediently. "A woman is weak until she knows everything. Then comes a funny one that you won't understand at all. It's called 'Because.'"

"Because he had on a coat that reminded her of an old coat that a man she had loved used to wear."

"My dear girl—" protested Mr. Randolph.

"I said they weren't interesting," she reminded him dispassionately. Her eyes widened. "And now," she continued, "we go up and up—spite that stabs its own heart; the lonely soul; consuming fire, and, last and greatest reason of all, just love." Her eyes glowed to some distant focus. "If all myself, my honor, my past, and my future dissolve to the single drop of a present moment in the crystal cup of

"I do."

"Do what?" inquired Robert.

"I promise."

"Make yourself absolutely at home, then," he said, as he dropped her hands and turned toward the door.

"I feel like Christmas eve," said Miss Thornton meekly. "Won't you please tell me what's going to happen?"

"You've guessed it—Christmas," he answered enigmatically, tossed the latch-key on the table, and left her.

She can be excused for spying upon him from the curtained window. She saw him awake the cabman, and then watched the pantomime of a long colloquy.

"Oh!" she moaned. "No wonder! The awful, awful price of those horrid clock things! Why did I let him tell it to wait?"

Presently she was amazed to see both the driver and Mr. Randolph disappear into the dark recesses of the cab and close after them its door. For twenty breathless minutes she watched, tormented by the thought that they had retired to have it out where they wouldn't be disturbed by the police. But at last they issued—both of them. Mr. Randolph proceeded to crank the car and then, walking rather strangely, went off, headed west; the driver mounted his box, threw in the clutch, and scurried to the east as though he were off to meet the morning.

"Strange doings!" thought Miss Imogene Pamela Thornton, as she turned from the window to start on a privately conducted voyage of discovery.

Strange doings, indeed, and stranger still could Imogene Pamela have heard as well as seen. This is what really happened: Mr. Randolph awoke the cabman gently but thoroughly; then he said:

"Look here: I want to buy your wagon."

"Gowan, boss; wot d'yer take me for? Here I been freezin' most to det' for two mortal hours an' a gent like you starts right in kickin' on the clock widout even readin' it."

"Shucks!" said Mr. Randolph. "What's biting you? Never mind the meter-reading; here's twenty for you to forget that. Now tell me: Who owns your buzz-wagon? You?"

"Now; the Village Cab company," replied the saturnine cabman as he stuffed the twenty-dollar bill into his trousers pocket.

"Well," said Mr. Randolph, "you and I are about the same build and I've got a proposition for you. Change clothes, hand me over your cab, and take two hundred dollars to see yourself to another job."

The driver showed no surprise; he contemplated the offer with half-closed eyes and dubiously working lips.

"Stim Hervey," taxi-driver.

lie in your arms?" She asked, gulping out the words. "Vivienne Vivienne"—her lips curled in distaste at the name—"ah, yes; poor despatching thing! But I—Pamela Thornton! Oh, who are you? Why did you?" She dropped her face in her hands and sobbed as though her heart had broken.

Randolph did not leap to comfort her this time; he did not even watch her. With his eyes on the edges of fire that peeped from between and round her ankles, he began to talk.

"I knew you; I knew Sport; I knew Maggie. Just once I met you all, and I've never forgotten. I couldn't." He smiled crookedly. "You and I sat down so hard together and you cried out, 'My, what a bump!' and laughed and laughed—just like tonight, back there at the stage-door of the Crocodile."

Pamela stopped crying.

"So you were that awfully nice boy," she said, disclosing tear-stained cheeks and looking him over as though she were inventorying a long list of points of deterioration.

Robert Hervey Randolph, six feet tall, freckled-nosed, open-faced, blue-eyed and broad-shouldered, looked up at her almost appealingly as if his whole sum and substance were crying out to be appraised at face value but no less.

"That's me," he said rapidly. "My name is Robert Hervey Randolph. Some people call me 'Bob,' some 'Hervey,' and the sidey ones say 'Randy.'"

"And I shall call you 'Mr. Randolph,'" said Miss Thornton bravely, and then broke into: "After—after I've thanked you again and—and again from my heart. I'm going now."

"That's a wrong guess," said Robert, smiling happily—he didn't know exactly why. "I'm the one that's going, after you promise me that you'll stay here until ten o'clock tomorrow. But before we come to that, please don't thank me ever. It's selfish, but I'd simply love to have you remember me as Bob or Hervy or, at the very worst, Randy. Won't you?"

She looked this way and that before she let her face ripple to its wondrous smile.

"I'll go as far as Randy," she conceded mischievously; then the smile went and the shadow came. "But I really can't stay here, you know."

Mr. Randolph leaped to his feet, reached her in a single stride and caught her by both wrists. "Look at me!" he said. "If you won't promise to stay here without a break till ten o'clock tomorrow and thereafter at your pleasure, I'll stay myself and hold you. Now, do you or don't you? One—two—"

"I do."

"Do what?" inquired Robert.

"I promise."

"Make yourself absolutely at home, then," he said, as he dropped her hands and turned toward the door.

"I feel like Christmas eve," said Miss Thornton meekly. "Won't you please tell me what's going to happen?"

Rank Shown by High Heels.

When high heels were introduced in Venice they were highly decorated. The height of the heels proclaimed the rank of the men and women wearing them.

MRS. ALICE GRESHAM DODD, mother of the first American soldier killed in France, who gives entire credit for recovery of her health to the well-known medicine Tanlac.

The following remarkable endorsement of Tanlac was given recently by Mrs. Alice Gresham Dodd, at the Gresham Memorial Home, Gavin Park, Evansville, Ind., which home was presented to her by the patriotic people of Indiana, as evidence of their appreciation of the services rendered to his country by her son, Corporal James B. Gresham, the first American soldier killed in France. Expressions of sympathy were received by Mrs. Dodd from all parts of the United States, and the newspapers of the country carried the story of the first "war mother."

The shock of her son's death resulted in the serious breakdown of Mrs. Dodd's health, but everyone will learn with interest and pleasure that she is now in splendid health again. When seen at her home recently she made the following statement, giving the entire credit for her recovery to the well-known medicine, Tanlac.

"After my dear boy's death I had a general breakdown in health," said Mrs. Dodd. "At first it was just indigestion. My food used to upset me and I had to diet myself very carefully, which wasn't much hardship, as I lost all desire to eat. Then I had an attack of rheumatism, with severe pains in my shoulders, back and arms. Sometimes I used to suffer a great deal, and my joints would get all swollen up and stiff. I was able to do very little about the house, and at times couldn't even cook a meal. I got very nervous and restless, and at night would lay awake for hours, and lost many a night's sleep as a consequence."

"A friend of mine had received a great deal of help from Tanlac, and it was she who advised me to try it. I am so glad I did for it proved the best medicine I have ever taken. It soon gave me a good appetite and seemed to settle my stomach so that I was no longer troubled with indigestion. I don't know what it is to have rheumatic pains now, the swelling and stiffness has all gone out of my joints and I am able to do the work of the house with the greatest ease. My nerves are now steady and strong. I sleep fine at night, and I feel better in health than ever before in my life. I shall always be grateful for what Tanlac has done for me, and shall recommend it every chance I get."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

His Plight.
"Money can't do everything."
"I know that, but all I want to do are the things that money can do."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarrhal Deafness requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

Yes, We Find It That Way, Too.

"It has been truly said," Bings declared impressively, "that the world, financially, is divided into just two classes—those who borrow and those who lend."

"Not quite right," Bings responded gloomily. "The two classes are those who want to borrow and those who won't lend."
