

Bull Town Bulletins

By Bill Ellis

THIS WEEK, the national media has been making much ado about the 100th anniversary of the Brooklyn Bridge, which was completed 100 years ago this week.

The television commentators have been calling the bridge "The Engineering Feat of all time," and the "Bridge that made New York."

These statements are no doubt true, but so far, we have not heard them mention some of the little-known facts pertaining to the bridge, that make the story even more interesting.

Nelson Lewis, who is quite a historian, especially on matters of the southwest, called to our attention the fact that the designer of the famous Brooklyn Bridge was a German-American, John A. Roebling.

Roebling had spent years attempting to convince financiers in New York that his idea for a long-span suspension bridge was feasible.

So, the brilliant engineer, like so many geniuses who are ahead of their time, peddled his idea elsewhere, and who should take him up on his idea but the people of Waco, Texas.

Roebling completed a bridge over the Brazos River at Waco way back in 1870. This was 13 years ahead of the Brooklyn Bridge, but Waco's bridge was used as a model for the New York bridge that was to become world-famous.

Lewis says he visited Waco's prototype of the Brooklyn Bridge a few years ago. The bridge is no longer open to automobiles, but used by pedestrians at South First and Austin Avenue.

"It was an awesome experience. Not everyone is privileged to tread upon hundred-year-old dreams," Lewis says.

When it was completed in 1870, the bridge across the Brazos River was the longest suspension bridge in the world, and it became a vital avenue for Western expansion.

Waco's bridge is a beautiful old masterpiece, and if you are like this writer, and don't have a trip planned to New York, the next time you're in the Waco area, you might look up Roebling's first major accomplishment.

Even 113 years ago, Texans took pride in being first!

The Brooklyn Bridge was completed on May 24, 1883, joining two of New York's five boroughs.

The bridge's designer, Roebling, died during the construction stage of the bridge. His son, Washington Roebling, finished the job although confined to a wheel chair.

When you consider that the construction of these bridges was accomplished in a day and time when there not only was no electricity, but no power equipment, cranes to lift heavy steel beams, etc., it is even more of a marvel.

The century-old bridges were also constructed at a time when America moved by horses, or horse-drawn carriages, and not in heavy automobiles or multi-ton trucks. The fact that Roebling's suspension bridges have been able to accommodate these modern-day ingredients of heavy traffic is even more astounding.

Happy birthday, Brooklyn Bridge! Too bad the old-time Yankees didn't have the faith of the Texans. They could have had the world's first suspension bridge.

Memorial Day Weekend Offers Driving Hazards

Memorial Day weekend signals the start of the summer vacation season and increased dangers to motorists, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS director, urged drivers to exercise caution during the upcoming holiday weekend and throughout the summer.

"During the vacation season, more motorists will be exposed to highway driving hazards," Adams said. "Heeding the traffic laws, wearing seat belts, and staying alert for drunk drivers is the best defense for avoiding an accident."

The DPS director requested the assistance of Texas drivers in minimizing traffic deaths.

"Statewide traffic fatalities are now about 13 per cent below the number for the same period last year," Adams pointed out. "But we also have to remember that the potential for additional fatalities during any holiday weekend is great and we must adjust our driving habits and attitudes accordingly."

A total of 58 traffic deaths resulted from accidents during the Memorial Day weekend in 1982.

"Troopers will be on the lookout for hazardous violations over the Memorial Day weekend in an effort to prevent accidents and we do not intend to relax our efforts to arrest drunk drivers and cite speeders," Adams said. "These two violations continue to cause most of the traffic fatalities in our state."

Dr. Lee Spring Is Academy Member

Dr. Lee Spring of Friona has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Physicians, the national association of family doctors. The Academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. Members become eligible for re-election at the end of the third year following their election to membership. The Academy, the country's second largest national medical association, was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

The Academy, founded in 1947 and headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice in 1969. The new specialty is expected to increase the number of family physicians available to serve the public in the future. The Academy's continuing education program is the foundation of eligibility for family doctors now in practice who apply for certification in the new specialty.

Bovina Chamber Sets Member Drive

The Bovina Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture is attempting to promote membership in the organization.

Gaylon Rhodes, president, said that letters had been sent out to area residents urging them to join the Chamber. Membership dues are $15 per family and $25 for businesses.

Rhodes said it was his plan to hold a series of cook-outs this summer as fund-raising projects for the Chamber of Commerce. Details on the cookouts will be announced later.

Poppy Sales Are Underway Locally

The Bovina American Legion and Auxiliary is sponsoring a poppy sale now through Monday, Memorial Day, at Marie's Used Values in Bovina.

This is an annual event for the organization, and money raised from the sale is used to assist veterans in veterans' hospitals or their families in local communities.

The little red crepe flower is hand made by veterans in Veterans' hospitals throughout the state of Texas. These veterans are paid for making poppies and this program is also used for therapy training for our disabled veterans.

This little flower was adopted by the early American Legion Auxiliary's organization and copied from the red poppies that grow in France and that is referred to in the poem, "In Flanders Fields." Each poppy has its own personality to it because it was made by a person while hospitalized because of injuries suffered from the ravages of war.

A percentage of the sale of the poppy program is returned to the state organization to fund this program each year. Marie Venable urges all local citizens to buy a poppy and wear it proudly.

She also urges any interested persons to mail their contributions to her for the program.

The American Legion and Auxiliary will be decorating the graves of veterans for Memorial Day, and Mrs. Venable invites all who would like to help to contact her.

Memorial Day

Lest We Forget!

A day to remember, to reflect upon the price so dearly paid for freedom. Today is Memorial Day.

It is a day rich in history and emotion. Established three years after the Civil War, it was originally called Decoration Day . . . when graves of friend and foe alike were honored. Those with no one to mourn their passing were not overlooked; they too were remembered for the enormous price paid for liberty and justice for all.

Our country is politically stalwart today because these Americans invested all they had — their lives — in America. Their investment returns security, freedom, and human dignity to the living every day.

Americans cannot abandon the justice and freedom for which these brave men and women have fought and died.

Spend a moment remembering.

SAVE 20% ON A GAS GRILL

...JUST WHEN YOU WILL USE IT MOST!

Here's an opportunity to buy a gas grill at a big savings . . . and have the whole summer ahead to enjoy it. That's a real bargain! You will make the most of our great West Texas evenings and weekends cooking outdoors. Gas grills give food that wonderful outdoor flavor without the mess of charcoal or the bother of LP tanks. And, while you are having a hot time in the backyard, your kitchen stays cool. The money you save by buying now will put a lot of hamburgers and steaks on that grill. Now's the time to move up to gas grill cooking while prices are down.
