ONE DAY POULTRY SCHOOL IN HEDLEY IS WELL ATTENDED IN SPITE OF BAD WEATHER

People around Hedley were so interested in the One Day Poultry School they were determined to attend in spite of the raw wind and freezing mist. The School was conducted by the Denver Railroad, A. & M. College, and the town of Hedley.

L. A. Stroud, secretary of the Hedley Poultry Breeders Association, assisted by J. S. Groom, did such a perfect job of advertising that there were 163 people attended the morning meeting and 250 people went through the Exhibit Car. Splendid interest was shown by those who attended, and announcement was made that the local banks would assist farmers in Hedley trade territory in securing settings of standard bred eggs for hatching, or baby chicks.

The Hedley Poultry Breeders Association, organized less than a month, has 300 members and has made definite plans for an annual poultry show.

The egg show, in charge of Mesdames R. E. Mann, O. R.
Culwell and J. L. Tims, attracted a great deal of attention. Premiums of $3, $2 and $1 were offered on both white and brown eggs. Winners in the contest on white eggs were: Mrs. A. B.
Cloninger 1st, Mrs. G. S. Phelps 2nd, Mrs. A. A. Cooper 3rd. The brown egg winners were: Mrs.
A. A. Cooper 1st, Mrs. T. F.
Hefner 2nd, Mrs. C. W. Kinslow
3rd. All of Hedley.

M. B. Oakes, the Denver Road
Agricultural Agent, spoke briefly of the importance of poultry as an important sideline, stating that every farm should have 125 hens. He stated that this campaign on poultry was not intended to make poultry specialists of every farmer, but that it is intended to help them improve their present conditions so that farm flocks will pay a little better.

Miss Murray, poultry specialist of A. & M. College Extension Service, was then introduced and discussed in detail the rearing of young chicks. She advised cleanliness in the poultry house for setting hens and disinfection of incubators before setting them. Special attention was given to feeding baby chicks.

F. W. Kaszauer, A. & M. Poultry Specialist, drove home two important things in his address:
selection of high producing hens and feeding for profit. Select standard bred chickens. His opinion of scrub hens was expressed in no uncertain terms, and he also advises strongly against cross breeding. The next important step is selection of the very best layers in the flock. In this connection he described the good layer. He says the good layer looks different and acts different from the poor layer. He described her as an active, hard working bird that is first out of the hen house in the morning and the last to go to roost at night. She works constantly, eats more than the poor layer, and looks different. She is long bodied, has quick actions, a prominent eye, bright red comb and pale faded legs, and molts late in the summer or fall

—along in September, October and November.

Feeding for egg production
was discussed at some length.
The dry mash mixture was described as the feed that makes hens lay, while the grain was described as the feed that keeps them fat. Meat scrap, he says, is the most important part of the dry mash mixture. He urges that this mash be kept before the hens all the time in the winter, and that the grain be fed lightly.

BLANCHE BLAIR

THAT Tanlac is a wonderful medicine for delicate children is conclusively proven by the remarkable results accomplished in the cases of the three children shown in this picture.

Little Blanche Blair, of Providence, R. I., age 13, gained 10 pounds; Regina McCabe, at right, age 9, of Scranton, Pa., gained 15 pounds; little Richard Leary, Jr., of Philadelphia, who was very delicate, is now in fine, robust health. The statements made by their parents are as follows:

Mr. A. M. Blair, residing at 20 Atwood street, Providence, R. I., said: "We are just so happy over the change Tanlac has made in our little girl that we can't do or say enough to show our appreciation. She had lost nearly 20 pounds in weight and looked so frail and weak that her mother and I were both almost worried sick over her condition. Since taking Tanlac, she has already gained 10 pounds, her color is better than it ever has been and she looks and acts like a different girl."

Mrs. Catherine McCabe, 414 Dickson Ave., Scranton, Pa., said: "The 'flu' left my little Regina in such a bad condition that I have no idea she would be with me now if it hadn't been for Tanlac. It is a mystery to me how she lived on the little she was eating and was so lifeless she never even cared to play with the dolls and toys she got at Christmas. Since taking Tanlac she is as hardy and well as any child could be and has gained 15 pounds in weight. I will always praise Tanlac for restoring our little girl's health."

Richard Leary, 2342 Palethorpe St., Philadelphia, said: "There is no doubt in my mind but that Tanlac saved my little boy's life. For two years I wouldn't have been a bit surprised to have seen him drop off at any time. He had stomach trouble and many a time the gas pressed up into his chest until his heart palpitated so I thought sure he couldn't breathe but a few more gasps. But Tanlac gave him back to us strong and well and we will praise it to our dying day."

The effect of Tanlac on the delicate stomachs of the young is one of the strongest evidences of its wholesomeness as well as its unusual merit. Although a powerful reconstructive, Tanlac contains no harmful ingredients, minerals or opiates which are so often found in other medicines. Being composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to science it is purely vegetable and can be taken by the most delicate children, and does not upset or injure the weakest or most delicate stomach.

There is a Tanlac agent in every town.—Advertisement.

Cities as Thunderstorm Spots.
The conclusion has been reached by a well-known engineer who has given the subject considerable attention that certain cities, if not indeed most inland cities of say 100,000 population or more, appear to be "thunderstorm spots." The observation has been made by E. R. Horton, of Voorheesville, N. Y., who also points out that "a shallow lake with sandy margins located in a forest may serve as a thunderstorm breeder" and cites as proof observations made by him over Oneida lake, New York.

Old Court Has Much Power.
In Liverpool (Eng.) there still exists one of the very few remaining medieval borough courts of record. At one time there were 215 in various parts of the kingdom. The Liverpool court of passage, as it is called, has practically unlimited jurisdiction in cases of action arising within the city, and has more power than has the City of London court which has jurisdiction only when the defendant is employed in the city itself.

Misery loves company, but the company isn't apt to make a second call.

A "balanced diet" may sound confusing to many people
The facts, as explained here, are simple.

The secret of a "balanced diet" is to have food containing all the elements needed for proper nutrition. These elements are protein, to nourish the tissues; starch and sugar to furnish energy; fat to supply heat; and mineral salts to provide the material necessary for building nerves, brain, and tooth and bone structure.

Grape-Nuts, the nourishing cereal made of whole wheat flour and malted barley, served with cream or milk, is a complete food for young and old alike.

Go to your grocer today and get a package of Grape-Nuts. Eat it with milk or cream for breakfast; or with stewed fruit, jelly or jam, as a delicious dessert for lunch or dinner.

Every member of the family will relish this palatable and nourishing food—

FEED FOR FATTENING CATTLE

Data Gathered by Department of Agriculture of Much Value to Producers of Beef.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Data gathered by the United States Department of Agriculture regarding the daily gain and the amount of feed and pasture consumed by 54,334 steers fattened on corn-belt farms during the last two winters, are of value to beef producers as an indication of how much feed is required on the average corn-belt farm to produce 100 pounds of gain.

The average weight of all the cattle at the start of the feeding period was 786 pounds, while the final weight was Pasture is Essential to the Profitable Production of Beef.

1,070 pounds, the gain amounting to 284 pounds in a period of 174 days. The average quantity of feed consumed for 100 pounds of gain was 680 pounds of grain, 92 pounds of commercial concentrates, 391 pounds of dry roughage such as hay and corn fodder, 893 pounds of silage, and the equivalent of 20 days of pasturage.

In addition to these co-operative feeding trials with cattlemen in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, and Missouri, the United States Department of Agriculture is conducting investigations in southwestern Wisconsin to determine the costs and amounts of feed required to fatten cattle on grass, with and without a supplement, and of the feed required to maintain a breeding herd of beef cattle for one year, and to raise calves from weaning time to weanings.

SELF-FEEDERS ARE POPULAR

Devices Eliminate Great Portion of Labor Involved and Insure Uniform Results.

Self-feeders for hogs have come into great popularity among farmers and feeders largely because they eliminate a great portion of the labor involved in feeding and insure more uniform results and gains from the hogs.

Hogs in the wild state were self-fed animals, living upon such feeds as would satisfy their appetites, and under domestication they seem to thrive best when fed by the same principle. The marked success of the self-feeding principle of hog raising is largely due to the fact that they may eat an abundance of those feeds which will nourish them to the best advantage.

The self-feeder should be designed primarily to keep an available supply of grain constantly before the hogs, and at the same time protect the contents against waste due to wind and rain. A self-feeder consists of a hopper to hold the feed and a trough below it into which the grain flows as the hogs eat it. Complete plans for the Iowa self-feeder can be obtained from the extension department, Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa.

ECONOMICAL BEEF IN SOUTH

Mixture of Silage, Dry Velvet Beans and Cottonseed Meal is Most Satisfactory.

The United States Department of Agriculture has conducted a steer fattening experiment in Mississippi which shows that velvet beans are well adapted for use in making beef. Feeding mixtures of silage, dry velvet beans and cotton seed were compared with combinations of silage and dry velvet beans, and silage and soaked velvet beans. The mixture of silage and soaked velvet beans resulted in the most economical and profitable production of beef, while the mixture of silage, dry velvet beans and cottonseed meal proved more satisfactory than the combination of silage and dry velvet beans.

WATCH FOR MOLDY SILAGE

All Stuff Found Decayed Should Be Placed Where Live Stock Can Not Reach It.

In opening the silo it is a good plan to watch out for mold which might be there. These molds are very poisonous to horses and often cause the death of cattle as well.

Be sure that the decayed silage is all scraped off the top and put where the livestock cannot get to it.

It is poor economy to try and feed the top silage and take a chance on losing valuable stock.

Help Your Kidneys Fight That Cold!
Winter Colds and Chills Weaken the Kidneys and Are the Direct Cause of Many Serious Kidney Disorders

Is winter-time your backache-time? Does every cold, chill or attack of grip leave you lame, achy and all worn out? Does your back throb and ache until it seems you just can't keep going another day?

Then look to your kidneys! Grip, colds and chills throw a heavy strain on the kidneys. They overload the blood with poisons and impurities that the kidneys have to filter off. The kidneys weaken under this rush of new work; become congested and inflamed.

It's little wonder then, that every cold finds you suffering with torturing backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

But don't worry! Simply realize that your kidneys are overworked at such times and need assistance. Get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills today and give your weakened kidneys the help they need. Assist them also by drinking pure water freely, eating lightly, and getting plenty of fresh air and rest. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Good Folks:

G. D. LANKFORD, 1226 S. Lamar St., Dallas, Tex., says: "In my line of work, inspecting cars, I am out in all kinds of weather and I have to do a lot of bending over. Sometimes I get wet, often taking cold which settles in the small of my back. Often my back gets so lame it seems every muscle is tied in a knot. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I found they were just what I needed. A few Doan's have never failed to straighten me up in good shape."

MRS. C. W. KENNEDY, 1101 W. Dallas St., Ennis, Tex., says: "A cold settled on my kidneys. My back pained steadily and I also suffered from headaches and dizzy spells and black specks seemed to float in front of my eyes and blurred my sight. My kidneys acted irregularly. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills helping other people and thought they might help me. I got a box. The relief I had from this remedy was gratifying and my faith is high."

NATIONAL GUARD IS HELP TO OUR COUNTY

December pay for fifty six men Co. H 142nd Infantry Texas National Guard, amounting to $506 40, has been received and disbursed at Clarendon, according to Capt. Nat S. Perrine of this city. There are now seventy-four men in the Company, and their pay at above rate will total $8,000 per year in this county.

There is no organization in the county with a bigger payroll, and this is the only money coming into the county as a direct return of taxes paid.

A bill is now before the lawmakers to put these men on half pay. This will, if it carries, triple the payroll in this county. The Government already owns this equipment, and can maintain a National Guard of 500,000 men cheaper than a Regular Army of 100,000. It costs about $140 per month for each enlisted man in the regular army, including his clothes, board and incidentals. In the National Guard much of this expense is unnecessary.

The Government has appropriated $6,500 to build a rifle range in the Spring Civilian clubs will be loaned rifles, ammunition, etc., with caretaker and instructor at the range, all free of any cost.

There is no intention of moving this Company from here, as we are not engaged in or threatened with war. They are to engage in sixty drills per year, and a two weeks summer encampment within the State with full pay and expenses paid at the encampment. Of course, they are held in readiness for war in case of proclamation by the President; also subject to Government call for strikes, riots, and protection of property during disasters, and establishing martial law to assist civilian officers.

This Company bears the name and is the same Company that went to France from this county, and which made such a wonderful record, going into line in one engagement with 250 men and coming out with 28. These boys have something to look up to, and live up to, and we feel sure they will keep clean and bright the honor of Co. H 142nd Inf.

Besides Capt Perrine, there are twelve Hedley boys in the Company.

HELP INVALIDS TO FORGET

Presence of a Canary or Goldfish in the Sickroom Invariably Has Beneficial Effect.

Next time you sit in a room, the furnishings of which include a bowl of goldfish, consider how much time you spend watching the small fish as they swim slowly about or dart about in pursuit of each other.

Probably you will conclude you were indulging the usual tendency of the normal person to be attracted to moving objects. In sick persons and convalescents this tendency is more pronounced, and in the aged and very young it is still more so.

That psychology of this attraction was given by Dr. Edward N. Leavy, formerly veterinarian to the animals in Central park zoo. He is now connected with a Fifth avenue pet store.

"Sick persons lying in bed spend a great deal of time watching the goldfish if an aquarium is in their room," he said. "It takes their minds off their pains and aches and is very beneficial."

Canaries share with goldfish the honor of being the chief amimate entertainment to the sick.—New York Sun.

DAIRY POINTS

MANY USES OF THERMOMETER

Particularly Essential to Give Temperatures of Milk, Cream and of Butter Making.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hardly a useful instrument around a farm is more neglected than the thermometer. Properly appreciated, it would serve the farmer in many ways.

A thermometer should be the constant companion of the dairyman. In probably no other department of the farm can a thermometer be used to greater advantage than in connection with dairy operations.

The temperatures at which milk, cream, and butter are kept, and at which the various operations of butter making are carried on, are very important.

When milk is to be sold as such it should be immediately cooled. The reason for this is to stop the increase of bacteria as much as possible. Bacteria will reproduce themselves every half hour if the temperatures are favorable.

If milk is to be separated by the centrifugal process, it should have a temperature of about 50 degrees; if by the gravity method, it should be cooled to 50 degrees very soon after milking. The temperature at which cream is churned is an important item: 52 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit is considered about right.

The necessity of maintaining correct temperature in an incubator need not be emphasized. The temperature is correct at 103 degrees, and it should not go lower than that, especially during the first six days.

In the care of live stock, the clinical or fever thermometer may be found very useful. The following are the normal temperatures of farm animals: Swine, 104; goats or sheep, 102 to 103; cows, 101 to 102; horses, 99 to 100; dogs, 99 to 100. A rise of 1 or 2 degrees is unimportant if temporary; but if permanent it indicates a serious condition which needs attention. A rise of 10 to 12 degrees in animals is usually fatal.

In calling a veterinarian by telephone, it is often important to be able to give the exact temperature of the animal. A good clinical thermometer, if available, should be used according to veterinary methods.

The thermometer will tell whether the cellar or storage house is of the right temperature for produce. Apples are frequently stored in outside cellars, where the temperature is best if it can be kept at 31 or 32 degrees; but 34 or 36 degrees will give satisfactory results. If the temperature is to be higher, the fruit should be placed in storage soon after being picked, to forestall preliminary decay.

For atmospheric temperature of a room the thermometer should be hung, if possible, away from the wall and where it will not be affected by air currents from open doors or windows or from stoves or artificial heat in the cold seasons.

With constant use one becomes acquainted with the instrument, so that dependence will be placed upon it, and with constant use uniform success in operations conditioned on temperature may be hoped for.

SPANISH DOUBLOONS

"Down, Crusoe!" I kept desperately whispering. But Crusoe was unused to whispering orders. He kept bounding up on me, intent to fulfill an unachieved ambition of licking my ear. Cuthbert Vane tried, under his breath, to lure him away. But Crusoe's emotions were all for me, and swiftly becoming uncontrollable they burst forth in a volley of shrill yelps.

A loud cry answered them. It came from Captain Magnus, who had scrambled to his feet and was straggling across the clearing. One hand was groping at his belt—it was flourished in the air with the gleam of a knife in it—and staggering and shouting the captain came on.

"Ah, you would, would you? I'll teach you—but first I'll settle him, the porridge-eatin' Scotch swine!"

The reeling figure with the knife was right above me. I sprang up, in my hand the little two-inch weapon which was all I had for my defense—and Dugald Shaw's. There were loud noises in my ears, the shouting of men, and a shrill continuous note which I have since realized came from the lungs of Miss Higgleby-Browne. Magnus made a lunge forward—the arm with the knife descended. I caught it—wrenched at it frantically—striving blindly to wield my little penknife, whether or not with deadly intent I don't know to this day. He turned on me savagely, and the penknife was whirled from my hand as he caught my wrist in a terrible clutch.

All I remember after that is the terrible steely grip of the captain's arms and a face, flushed, wild-eyed, horrible, that was close to mine and inevitably coming closer, though I fought and tore at it—of hot feverish lips whose touch I knew would scorch me to the soul—and then I was suddenly free, and falling, falling, a long way through darkness.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Young Person Scores.

My first memory is of voices, and after that I was shot swiftly out of a tunnel from an immense distance and opened my eyes upon the same faces which I had left at some indefinite period in the past. There was Aunt Jane's, very tearful, and Miss Higgleby-Browne's, very glum, and the Honorable Cuthbert's, very anxious and a little dazed, and Cookie's, very, very black. The face of Dugald Shaw I did not see, for the quite intelligible reason that I was lying with my head upon his shoulder.

As soon as I realized this I sat up suddenly, while every one exclaimed at once, "There, she's quite all right—see how her color is coming back!"

The penknife that I had lost in my struggle with Captain Magnus had fallen at the Scotchman's feet. Wrenching himself free of his all but severed bonds he had seized the knife, slashed through the rope that held him to the tree, and flung himself on Captain Magnus. It was a brief struggle—a fist neatly planted on the ruffian's jaw had ended it, and the captain, half dazed from his potatoes, went down limply.

Throughout the fray Chris slumbered undisturbed, and he and the unconscious Magnus were now reposing side by side, until they should awake to find themselves neatly trussed up with Cookie's clothes-lines.

But my poor brave Crusoe dragged a broken leg, from a kick bestowed on him by Captain Magnus, at whom he had flown valiantly in my defense.

So far so good; we had signally defeated our two guards, and the camp was ours. But what about the pirates who were still in the cave and would shortly be returning from it? They were three armed and sturdy ruffians. It would mean a battle to the death.

Our best hope would be to wait in ambush behind the trees of the clearing—I mean for Dugald Shaw and Cuthbert Vane to do it—and shoot down the unsuspecting pirates as they returned. This desperate plan, which so unpleasantly resembled murder, cast gloom on every brow.

"It's the women, lad," said the Scotchman in a low voice to Cuthbert. "It's—it's Virginia!" And Cuthbert heavily assented.

Seeing myself as the motif of such slaughter shocked my mind suddenly back to clearness.

"Oh," I cried, "not that. Why not surprise them in the cave, and make them stay there? One man could guard the entrance easily—and afterward we could build it up with logs or something."

Everybody stared.

"A remarkably neat scheme," said Mr. Shaw, "but impossible of application, I'm afraid, because none of us know where to find the cave."

"I know!"

There was a lengthy silence. People looked at one another, and their eyes said, "This has been too much for her!"

"I know," I impatiently repeated. "I can take you straight there. I found the tombstone before Mr. Tubbs did, and the cave, too. Come, let's not waste time. We must hurry—they'll be getting back!"

Amazement, still more than half incredulous, surged round me. Then Mr. Shaw said rapidly:

"You're right. Of course, if you have found the cave, the best thing we can do is to keep them shut up in it. But we must move fast—perhaps we're too late already. If they have found the cave they may by now be starting for camp with the first load of doubloons."

Again I shook my head.

"They haven't found the gold," I assured him.

The astonished faces grew more anxious. "It sho' have told on little Miss Jiminy's brain," muttered Cookie to himself.

"They haven't found the gold," I reiterated with emphasis, "because the gold is not in the cave. Don't ask me how I know, because there isn't time to tell you. There was no gold there but the two bags that the pirates brought back last night. The—the skeleton moved it all out."

"My Lawd!" groaned Cookie, staggering backward.

"Virginia! I had no idea you were superstitious!" quavered Aunt Jane.

"I say, do take some sleeping tablets or something and quiet your nerves!" implored Cuthbert with the tenderest solicitude.

In my exasperation I stamped my foot.

"And while we are arguing here the pirates may be starting back to camp! And then we'll have to kill them and go home and give ourselves up to be hanged! Please, please, come with me and let me show you that I know!" I lifted my eyes to the intent face of Dugald Shaw.

"All right," he said tersely. "I think you do know. How and what, we'll find out later." Rapidly he made his plan, got together the things needful for its execution, looked to the bonds of the still dazed and drowsy prisoners, posted Cookie in their neighborhood with a pair of pistols, and commanded Aunt Jane to dry her tears and look after Miss Higgleby-Browne, who had dismayed every one by most inopportune toppling over in a perfectly genuine swoon.

Then the Scotchman, Cuthbert Vane and I set off through the woods. The men were heavily armed, and I had recovered my own little revolver and restored it to my belt. Mr. Shaw had seen to this, and had said to me, very quietly:

"You know, Virginia, if things don't go our way, it may be necessary for you to use it—on yourself."

And I nodded assentingly.

We went in silence through the green hush of the woods, moving in single file. My piece as guide was in the van, but Mr. Shaw deposed me from it and went ahead himself, while Cuthbert Vane brought up the rear. No one spoke, even to whisper. I guided Dugald Shaw, when needful, by a light touch upon the arm. Our enterprise was one of utmost danger. If we met the pirates it was their lives or ours—and I recall with incredulity my resolution to imbed five of my six bullets in a pirate before I turned the sixth upon myself.

We passed the grave, and I saw that the vines had been torn aside again, and that the tombstone was gone. We came to the brink of the cliff, and I pointed silently downward across the ledge to the angle in which lay the mouth of the cave. My breath came quickly, for at any instant a head might be thrust forth from the opening.

Mr. Shaw and Cuthbert dropped down upon the ledge. Though under whispered orders to retreat I could not, but hung over the edge of the cliff, eager and breathless. Then with a bound the men were beside me. Mr. Shaw caught my hand, and we rushed together into the woods.

A quake, a roar, a shower of flying rocks. It was over—the dynamite had done its work, whether successfully or not remained to be seen. After a little the Scotchman ventured back. He returned to us where we waited in the woods—Cuthbert to mount guard over me—with a cleared face.

"It's all right," he said. "The entrance is completely blocked. I set the charge six feet inside, but the roof is down clear to the mouth. Poor wretches—they have all come pouring out upon the sand—"

All three of us went back to the edge of the cliff. Seventy feet below, on the narrow strip of sand before the sea-mouth of the cave, we saw the figures of four men, who ran wildly about and sought for a foothold on the sheer face of the cliff. As we stood watching them, with, on my part, at least, unexpected qualms of pity and a cold interior sensation very unlike triumph, they discovered us. Then for the first time, I suppose, they understood the nature of their disaster. We could not hear their cries, but we saw arms stretched out to us, fists frantically shaken, hands lifted in prayer. We saw Mr. Tubbs flop down upon his unaccustomed knees—it was all rather horrible.

I drew back, shivering. "It won't be for long, of course," I said uncertainly, "just till the steamer comes—and we'll give them lots to eat—but I suppose they think—they will soon be just a lot more skeletons—"

And here I was threatened with a moist antilemax to my late Amazonian mood.

Why should the frequent and natural phenomena of tears produce such panic in the male breast? "It's been too much for her!" exclaimed the once dour Scot in tones of anguish. "Hurry, lad—we must find her some water—"

"Nonsense," I interposed, winking rapidly. "Just think of some way to calm those creatures, so that I shan't see them in my dreams, begging and beseeching—"

For I had not forgotten the immensity of my debt to Tony.

So a note was written on a leaf torn from a pocketbook and thrown over the cliff weighted with a stone. The captives swooped upon it. Followed then a vivid pantomime by Tony, expressive of cases if unrepentant minds, while Mr. Tubbs, by gestures, indicated that though sadly misunderstood, old H. H. was still our friend and benefactor.

It was an attentive group to which on our return to camp I related the circumstances which had made possible our late exploit of imprisoning the pirates in the cave. The tale of my achievements, though recounted with due modesty, seemed to put the finishing touch to the extinction of Violet, for she wilted finally and forever, and was henceforth even bullied by Aunt Jane. The diary of Peter was produced, and passed about with awe from hand to hand. Yesterday's discovery in the cave had rounded out the history of Peter to a melancholy completion. But though we knew the end we guessed in vain at the beginning, at Peter's name, at that of the old grandfather whose thrifty piety had brought him to Havana and to the acquaintance of the dying mate of the Bonny Lass, at the whereabouts of the old New England farm which had been mortgaged to buy the Island Queen, at the identity of Helen, who waited still, perhaps, for the lover who never would return.

But even our regrets for Peter did not chill the excitement with which we thought of the treasure-chest waiting there under the sand in the cabin of the Island Queen.

All afternoon we talked of it. That, for the present, was all we could do. There were the two prisoners in camp to be guarded—and they had presently awakened and made remarks of a strongly personal and unpleasant trend on discovering their situation. There was Crusoe invalidated, and needing petting, and getting it from everybody on the score of his romantic past as Benji as well as of his present virtues. The broken leg had been cleverly set by Dugald—somehow in the late upheaval Miss and Mister had dropped quite out of our vocabularies—with Cuthbert as surgeon's assistant and me holding the chloroform to the patient's nose. There was the fatigue and reaction from excitement which everybody felt, and Peter's diary to be read, and golden dreams to be indulged. And there was the delicate question to be discussed, of how the treasure should be divided.

"Why, it all belongs to Virginia, of course," said Cuthbert, opening his eyes at the thought of any other view being taken but this obvious one.

"Nonsense!" I hastily interposed. "My finding the diary was just an accident; I'll take a share of it—no more."

Here Miss Browne murmured something half inaudible about "—confined to members of the expedition—" but subsided for lack of encouragement.

THE USUAL LIFE

I DO NOT wish you riches, friend,
For riches may not stay—
So much we lose, so much we lend,
So much we throw away.
I wish you only smiles through tears
And glad days in the saddest years.

I do not wish you cloudless skies;
They can't be always fair.
But may the sun that sinks arise,
The heart arise from care.
You must have clouds, but may they show
A silver lining somewhere, though.

I do not wish you only ease,
No toil for hand or brain;
They are but parasites, are these
Who live by others' pain.
No, something must your life employ—
But may your labor be a joy.

I do not wish you, friend, too much,
Each day a day of sun;
I wish you only treasurers such
As other men have won.
And better friend am I than they
Who wish for you a cloudless day.

I wish for you a modest part,
And simple joys for you;
And then I hope with all my heart
That simple dream comes true.
I wish you toil, and merriment—
The usual life, with life content.

MAKE HOURS COUNT

SAVING time is wasted effort unless you utilize the time you save.

Most people are in a hurry. They rush to their offices in the morning. They rush to their homes at night. When they get to the office, they sit around waiting for dinner.

About three quarters of the average man's time is spent "sitting around." And time spent sitting around is always wasted time.

You are given about eight hours to loaf if you want to and eight hours to work.

Unless you have an unusually easy job, you can save little out of the eight hours' working time.

You can save from one to five hours out of the eight, at least once or twice a week, if you are careful.

But unless you use that time, and use it wisely, there will be no sense in saving it.

Most successful men are very careful to save a little time out of the so-called idle eight hours.

Use this either to add to the efforts they put forth on their regular business, or to take up something related to their business which is inconvenient to do during working hours.

In other words they use their time as intelligently as they do their money. They make it earn dividends. And time set to work in that fashion is always a good investment.

Steamships, railroads, rapid transit lines have together affected an immense saving of time for the human race.

No longer does a man need to spend a month, practically idle all the time, going from London to New York. He can go in less than a week, with three weeks saved.

Those three weeks are worth money. They may mean success. Use them and a considerable share of all the time you save, and your output soon begins to show a gratifying increase.

THE SOFT ANSWER

WHEN you shall see, feel and know the sovereign power of the soft answer, you will not hesitate to admit its priceless value in preserving the friendship of peoples and nations.

Though a sponsor or all that is good and noble in mankind there is an illogical willingness in most of us to shun its charming companionship and turn to rougher acquaintances.

When the world is jangling and vicious tongues are spitting fire and brimstone, it is quite natural for us to pile more fuel on the flame, regardless of the spreading conflagration, even though it be singeing the good names of our friends.

We lose our grip on self-respect until calmness comes with afterthought, and shows us the error of our way.

For days we move shamefacedly from pillar to post, avoiding the friends we have hurt. And aside from the terror of separation which confronts us, we are tormented by

THE FRIENDLY PATH

By WALTER I. ROBINSON

DON'T count over your burdens. They'll seem greater, if you do.

It is always poor policy to go about trying to find all the disconcerting things along the pathway of life. Those which are of sufficient importance to command one's attention are sure to bob up without a search.

Never meet trouble until trouble meets you. If it's going to overtake you, it'll do soon enough. It is always good policy to be prepared for difficulties in order that they may easily be overcome. But to be prepared does not mean that one must constantly go about with strings on his fingers so that he may not forget any of the problems which are likely to bob up.

Nearly all the stumbling blocks along the trail followed by humans in this world are imaginary. But for their willingness to admit that they face serious problems, most of the discontented would hardly know that they are battling against odds when they actually are.

Because one has to face a trying task or great disappointment, does not mean that he is more unfortunate than others, nor that fate has turned against him. No one ever passed down the pathway to the valley of contentment (as they believed it) without working against odds at times and not infrequently being displeased when progress seemed slow. The same is true in the efforts of all who have tried to climb the steep places on the way to success, for neither in arriving at material goals nor in seeking the peace of comforting surroundings will there not be some troubles which have to be met.

But when one counts over the burdens which he expects or regrets, the future will usually appear to have a darker aspect than is justified by developments.

If one tries to find the bright side, he'll usually be so greatly enthused by his prospects that the burdens will seem small and easy to face.

remorse which undoes our nerves and throttles our spirits.

Then, as the scales fall from our eyes we become penitent.

As we reflect upon our behavior, we realize that our miseries come from our own workshop. They are not ground out in the mill of fate, tied in bulging bags and delivered at our door, as apologetic folk would have us believe, but of our own grinding—horrible grist filled with worms.

Upon those persons who have habituated themselves to use gentle words, and to use in stressful arguments the soft answer, the sun of good-will shines perpetually.

They are courted by the young and the old for their friendship and cheerfulness, which comfort and delight in the darkest days of sorrow, and warm in winter's cold.

Their influence for good is as immeasurable as a mother's love.

Perhaps you may have friends among these kindly persons to whom you turn when difficulties torment, life's skeins are tangled and your heart is burdened beyond its strength. If you have, heaven indeed has blessed you.

Observe the lightness of their eyes, the smile that is ever about the lips, the musical intonation of the voice when it answers softly. And as you do, resolve that you, too, will wed your tongue to the soft answer that "turneth away wrath."

PICKETT For COMMISSIONER

J. B. Pickett authorizes the announcement in this paper that he is a candidate for re election to the office of County Commissioner, Precinct No. 3.

Mr. Pickett is now serving his first term, and has made an excellent showing, considering the adverse conditions that have obtained ever since his election. We all are too well acquainted with these conditions to make further comment necessary. He is an efficient, straightforward business man, and if re elected will at all times safeguard the best interests of the people.

Your support of his candidacy will be appreciated.

ALLISON FOR ASSESSOR

J. L. Allison has authorized us to place his name in our announcement column as a candidate for Tax Assessor of Donley county, subject to the Democratic primary.

Mr. Allison has lived in this county many years, and is well and favorably known to practically all readers of this paper. He is a capable, honest, upright man, with fine business sense, and would beyond a doubt make a good Tax Assessor.

Consider his claims. He will appreciate your support.

RUTHERFORD FOR SHERIFF

I wish to announce my candidacy for re election to the office of Sheriff and Tax Collector. As I do so, I want to say that I very keenly appreciate the confidence you have reposed in me, and I have tried to prove my just appreciation by the very best service that was possible for me to render.

I feel sure that I am better qualified to fill the office than I have been in the past, as a result of my experience in office.

Thanking you for the honor you have conferred on me, and if you see fit to give me the office for another term, I will in the future, as in the past, render to each and every one my very best service.

Very truly,
J. H. Rutherford.

IS THIS YOU?

You know there is
That kind of fellow
Who opens his mouth
And you can hear him bellow
Because he thinks
The weather isn't right
At any time of
The day or night.

'Way along early
In last Spring
It came an awful
Pouring-down rain,
And it washed up
The old man's cotton,
'Twas easy to hear him say:
"The whole world's rotten!"

Where his cotton was
He planted corn—
All the time wishing
He had been born
In a country
That gushed oil wells
(And this would've probably Sent his soul to hell).

When he his corn
To market hauled,
He felt the most
Financially hurt of all.
He owed the bank,
And he owed the merchant,
He wished to God
He'd made him a serpent.

Because his corn
A small sum brought,
And it seemed to him
He was the man most sought.
He owed many debts
But he couldn't pay
The bills that were handed
To him that day.

So he packed his grip
And ran away
Because his debts
He couldn't pay.
Now, any one knows
That's not right, but wrong,
And there isn't any use
To sing a sad song;

But get right down
To what's wrong and right,
And work with all
Our will and might
To pay our debts
And be a MAN
Who is loved by all—
Even the Ku-Klux Klan.

WARREN FOR ASSESSOR

The name of Harry Warren may be seen in our announcement column this week, as a candidate for re election to the office of Tax Assessor of Donley county, subject to the Democratic primary.

Harry has held this office one term and has made an excellent record. And of course his two years' experience in the office has better fitted him for the work of another term, which his friends feel is his due. Harry is a world war veteran, a capable young business man, and an altogether worthy and desirable citizen.

Your support and influence in his behalf will be highly appreciated.

Frank Simmons was a pleasant caller at this office Monday, paying us for a want ad and another year's subscription.

NOTICE, METHODISTS

At a meeting of the Board, it was decided to appoint a collector to receive money for preacher's salary. W. A. Pierce was named, and you are requested to see and pay him, instead of waiting to be called on for these dues. You are asked to do this on or before the 10th of each month. We are now in arrears. Miss Lillian Osborn and Mr. Joe Clark of Hollene, N. M. were united in marriage Saturday, Jan. 21st, at Amarillo. They will make their home at Hollene.

NEWS ITEMS OMITTED

Every week some news items have to be omitted because of the "eleventh hour" arrival of copy. If we could teach our friends the importance of getting articles to the office as early in the week as possible, we feel sure we could postpone a lot of worry wrinkles and gray hairs.

We want and appreciate all the news we can get, but to insure insertion copy should reach us by Wednesday night. Of course we will use later copy whenever possible, and left over copy will appear the following week, unless it "has run out of date."

Perhaps the Lord didn't answer your prayer because you asked for an automobile instead of health and ability to earn one.

FIVE O'CLOCK DINNER

Last Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock the doors of Mrs. John Crow's home were thrown open to the Y. P. M. S., Circle No. 1. After spending a pleasant hour together, they were invited into the dining room, where the table was filled with different kinds of good things to eat. The room was beautifully decorated in our colors, green and gold.

Scripture lesson was read by Miss Ila Pool. After the first course was served, Miss Temple in her charming manner gave us a reading, "That Husband Love His Wife First." Following the second course, Miss Velma Newman favored us with a reading.

All too soon the close of the pleasant hour arrived, and the guests departed to their homes, each expressing themselves as having had a delightful time.

A Guest.

Mrs. L. Mobley, who has been ill at Adair Hospital in Clarendon for several days, is reported not resting quite so well today. We hope for more favorable news real soon.

A Suggestion Worth While

Jackson, Miss.—"My trouble was feminine weakness. I suffered misery at times and was weak most all of the time. I was reading in a newspaper about Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I saw that I could order one of Dr. Pierce's books, the 'Common Sense Medical Adviser,' from him, and I did, and I found my complaint was woman's trouble. I started on the Favorite Prescription and am glad to say it did me all the good in the world. I had three doctors; they all said that I had to be operated upon, but after using the Prescription I began to feel better. I have now taken three bottles and feel fine. Am glad to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to all my friends."—Mrs. Pearl Holt, 334 Deer Park St.

After Thorough Trial a Detroit, Mich., Man Endorses Pe-ru-na

The following letter written from Detroit, Michigan is no snap judgment expressed on the merits of Pe-ru-na, the well-known catarrh remedy, but rather a mature, sober opinion formed after a full year's trial.

This is the way Mr. Michael Fako of 603 East Palmer Avenue, in the Michigan Metropolitan, writes: "After using PE-RU-NA for about one year will say I have found it a very good medicine for catarrh. It has helped me a great deal and I am very well satisfied. I have gained in weight, eat and sleep well, my bowels are regular and better color in my face."

"PE-RU-NA has done wonders and to me is worth its weight in gold. I shall continue to use PE-RU-NA as long as I live and recommend to my friends who are troubled with catarrh."

Nothing can be more convincing than an endorsement of this nature from an actual user. There are many people in every community whose experience, in using Pe-ru-na, has been identical with Mr. Fako's. It is the standby for coughs, colds, catarrh, stomach and bowel disorders and all catarrhal conditions.

FOR DEEP SEATED COLDS

Use Nash's Salve in This Manner and Positively Break Up a Bad Cold in One Night.

If your cold is in the chest, and head is all stopped up, heat a little Nash's Salve in a spoon held over a lighted match, close mouth and inhale the vapors. Head will be cleared instantly. Now apply salve in both nostrils with finger; this is to keep nasal passages open.

Apply hot wet towels to throat and chest to open pores, take off before cooling and with hand rub Nash's Salve on liberally—thickly; cover immediately with warm flannel. Do same to back. Arrange bed coverings in a sort of tunnel form at chin so that vapors can be inhaled all night. Swallowing a small amount of the salve the size of a pea (slowly) will help.

This is the "one-night treatment." It works, too. You will find the cold completely broken by morning and can probably go about your duties at once.

Nash's Salve is sold in 30 and 60-cent bottles at all drug stores everywhere.

TOO VALUABLE TO DISCARD

Why Pretty Young Artist Has Decided to Celebrate Her Birthday for Years to Come.

"I had a birthday recently," said the pretty young artist to the Business Woman, when they met for luncheon. "And the results were most pleasing."

His Condition.

"How are you coming on, Uncle Bruce?" asked an acquaintance.

"Gracious," said the Business Woman. "I thought you told me last year it was positively your last; mine come and go, and I've gotten to that stage where I really am in ignorance of the date."

"Well, I'll just—p'ntu—tell ye, Gabe," answered old Bruce Sockery of Mount Plazy, Ark. "I ain't doing no particular good. 'Pears like the doctor and the neighbors don't understand my case. Some says one thing about it and some says something else, till I'll be dogged if I don't get to sorter wondering whether none of 'em have got any sense. I don't like to disappoint my friends, though, and I hate to waste what I pay the doctor for. So I've took enough of one thing and tuther to float a boat, and have kinda got the notion that what's the matter with me is simply what's the matter with me, and there ain't no—p'tu—help for it."—Kansas City Star.

"I had planned to let November 20 pass and not even think of it. But I suddenly realized I needed so many things, like handkerchiefs, hose, gloves, etc.—things that somehow go with birthdays. I had an inspiration—a lovely, practical one. I'm the youngest of a big family—so I typed on note paper a subtle reminder, my name, November 20, 1897, and my present address—you see, nothing but suggestion! It worked beautifully—every day for a week I've been getting something. I've decided it's silly to give up birthdays—expect to keep mine every year."—New York Sun.

Now the "Hydro-Glider."

A new "hydro-glider" just completed on the west coast is described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. It is said to provide all the thrill and speed of a hydroplane gliding over the surface of the ocean. In fact, it amounts practically to a flying boat without wings, and is driven over the surface of the water by an air-propeller motor at a speed of sixty miles an hour.

By Telephone.

Geraldine—I'm so glad to hear your voice.
Gerald—Thank you, dear.
Geraldine—I mean at this distance.

It's easy enough to become a great financier if you have money for experiments.

To be disappointed in love may save you a greater disappointment in marriage.

Petting parties, so-called, don't seem to be much different from the old-fashioned "kissing games."

Some of the most successful magazine writers devote their talent to the advertising pages.

The mold of a man's fortune is his own hands.

Any story told over a long-distance telephone is a sort of distant relation.

THINK UNCLE SAM FAIR GAME

Postmaster Asserts That Even the Best Class of Citizens Will Attempt to Cheat Him.

"Many good people," said the postmaster, "try to cheat the post. Clergymen, you know, will smuggle. Well, I've caught missionaries flim-flamming the post office."

"A missionary in Spain used to send thick bundles of Spanish newspapers to his sister. Inside the newspapers were hidden kid gloves, boxes of sardines, fine Spanish embroideries, letters, all kinds of things.

"There's a deacon in this town who can't see a poorly canceled stamp but he must peel it off the envelope, wash it and use it again. Of course, we always bowl him out.

"The worst game ever tried on us, though, was the work of a professional revivalist. He took an old, canceled postcard, scratched out the cancellation marks with a sharp knife, wrote his message on a piece of paper that he pasted on the card's reverse side, and then tried to send the thing through the mails.

"All these people are good people. Good people, as I said before—people who wouldn't steal a cent—are continually tempted to cheat the customs and the post."—Detroit Free Press.

Smack That Child.

A mother was reproving her little six-year-old girl for being naughty.

"If you are so tiresome and disagreeable," she said, "you will not be loved, and when you grow up your friends will be few."

The child replied at once: "I shall not want any friends, for I shall get married."

"Oh, no," replied mother, "you will not get married if you are disagreeable, for gentlemen are particular."

After a short pause, the little girl remarked: "Well, mummy, I don't think daddy was particular."

Daddy in a Bad Way.

Six-year-old Lois, whose father is professor of English at the university, delights in using "big" words. One day she heard her mother saying over the phone to one of her husband's students:

"No, Mr. B— cannot keep his appointment, I'm afraid; he is very much indisposed this afternoon."

Some days later Lois, while playing, was overheard to say to an imaginary caller at the door:

"No; my husband cannot see you today; he is very much decomposed!"—Indianapolis Star.

Utilizing a Calumny.

"Your enemies are now saying that you eat with your knife and use bad grammar."

"Don't contradict 'em," cautioned Senator Sorghum. "Out our way a great many people do the same thing, and the effect will be to convince 'em that I am not trying to act stylish or pose as a highbrow."

Connubial Pleasantry.

"Tired of waiting, dearie?" she asked, emerging from her dressing room after exhausting her feminine arts in the attempt to appear beautiful.

"Oh, no," he replied, wearily, "it's all in a wife-time."—Life.

What Ailed Her Pulse.

Little Louise was recovering from a bit of fever and her appetite had begun to assert itself. She gave a look at the meager slice of toast and the broth that had been brought to her bedside.

"Can't I have more than this, mother?" she asked. "It isn't half enough."

"Not just yet," said mother. "I am afraid to give you more. Your pulse is still too quick."

"But, mother," urged Louise, "don't you see it's my excitement because I can't get enough to eat that makes my pulse so quick?"—Wayside Tales.

Classification.

We had but recently moved into the town, writes a correspondent, and I went to church on Sunday, accompanied by my daughter.

After the services the minister rushed to the door to shake hands with us, and said to Hilda: "And why didn't you bring your daddy with you?"

She replied, "Oh, he's home taking care of brother. He doesn't care for churches or picture shows, anyway."

More Absorbing.

"I had a long talk with Cousin Jurd Lopp in town today," related Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge.

"How did he say his folks was?" inquired Mrs. Johnson.

"I plumb forgot to ask him. You see, he was telling me all about a sick dog, he's got."—Kansas City Star.

BELIEVED IN SAFETY FIRST

Small Ruth Wanted to Be Quite Sure About Her Proprietorship of That Apple Pie.

There was never any haste at Aunt Dorothea's table; consequently Ruth, the youngest of all the nieces and nephews who gathered at Hunting Hill in the summer, had learned what to expect. Everything was served by Aunt Dorothea herself, and age had strict precedence.

There came a day, however, when Ruth, returning to the family dining room after a season spent in her room with a sore throat, found at her place a little delectable apple pie, so small that it seemed as if it must be meant for her alone. Nevertheless, she determined to be cautious.

"Am I—" she looked anxiously toward the head of the table, where sat her awe-inspiring relative—"am I to be aunts for this pie, or is it all mine, Aunt Dorothea?"—Wayside Tales.

A Compliment.

"What do you think of our city, Mr. Newcome?" asked the landlord of the tavern at Grudge, who was distended with local pride.

"Well," replied the guest, who was evidently of a pessimistic turn of mind, "it seems to me that the hogs wallowing in the puddles along Main street look as healthy and contented as any swine I have seen similarly occupied anywhere."—Kansas City Star.

After all, there's nothing worth worrying about.
