GOOD PLAY AT GILES

A Giles reader sends in the following comment on the play presented there last week by the Bray Literary Society:

"A Daughter of the Desert," a western drama in four acts, was staged by the Bray Literary Society at the school house at Giles last Thursday night to a capacity house, and proved to be a success in every way.

There was much good comedy in the play, which was replete with interesting situations all the way through. At times the applause and laughter was so great that the players were compelled to stop. Mr. W. D. Shelton, a former Giles citizen now living in the Bray community, took a star part in the play and was congratulated by his many friends here for the manner in which he staged his part.

All the players did extra well for amateur performers.

HOME DEMONSTRATOR MAKES GOOD REPORT

The success that Miss Trullie Richmond, Donley county's home demonstrator, is realizing in her work is readily seen from the examination of an average month's report. Since her coming to this county last fall, she has so reorganized the work that the club work is on the most effective basis that it has ever been.

Last month's report serves to show the extent of the work. The days spent in the field amounted to twenty and one half; days spent in the office six and one half. Calls on the agent at headquarters were 79; farm or home visits made 36; farm or home demonstrations visited 23; meetings at demonstrations 40; demonstrations visited 3; total number of miles traveled 972.—Clarendon News.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

The Federal Land Bank is now lending money at 5 1/2 per cent to farmers who owe money on their land, that is due, past due, or to become due within the next five months. For particulars see C. E. (Jack) Killough, at the Donley County Abstract office, across the street East of Court House, Clarendon. 32p

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson, living in the Naylor community, lost nearly all of their household goods when fire destroyed the house which they occupied one evening the past week. Some of their good neighbors came to the rescue and are making them comfortable.

LOST - Crank belonging to Chandler auto, somewhere between Dr. Webb's residence and town. Finder return to Dr. J. W. Webb.

Dewey Young, candidate for State Representative from this district, and Joe Herdy, Wellington druggist, were pleasant visitors at the Informer office yesterday.

Dr. J. C. Coffey returned Monday from McKinney, where he attended the funeral of his father, W. S. Coffey. He also attended the funeral of an uncle, M. W. Coffey, at Lone Grove, Okla. Another uncle died at McKinney and was buried just before Dr. Coffey reached there, as may be seen in another article in this issue.

PICNIC ON FOURTH AT C. A. CROW HOME

The following appreciated letter from a friend was received this week. As its invitation includes our readers, we are publishing it.

Editor Hedley Informer:

This is a special request that you and your family and Hedley people generally attend the Crow picnic on the 4th of July. This picnic is for everybody that wants to come. It was for many years the Crow custom to celebrate the Fourth with a big picnic out under the big shade trees at their home. But when the world war started it was abandoned, and this is the first year since the war that they have decided to renew the celebration.

So we want you and your friends to come down and be with us if you can. There will be plenty of amusements and a big free for all dinner, as the people all bring their dinner and spread together.

Please make an announcement of the affair in this week's Informer and invite the good people of your town and country to come and be with us. Just state it will be held as usual at the C. A. Crow home, 2 1/2 miles south of Giles.

Come early and stay late.

THANKS

I want to express my thanks and appreciation to the good friends who helped us fight the fire away from the lumber sheds last Tuesday. We'll try to do as much for you some time, should the occasion arise.

L. W. Willis.

J. Claude Wells was in Hedley yesterday from Wellington, having come here to meet Mrs. Wells who has been visiting home folks at Claude.

Misses Claudy and Allene Bridges are visiting in Wellington, at the home of their grand father, A. J. Bridges.

Steve Lawrence, a former employe of Hedley Drug Co., has moved from Vernon to Memphis, where he is prescriptionist with Clark and Williams Drug Co.

Van Boone has been spending some time in New Mexico the past few weeks, buying yearlings.

Sheriff Rutherford was a business visitor in Hedley last Friday.

P. T. Boston attended to business in Clarendon Tuesday.

President J. C. Donegby of the First State Bank was here several days the past week.

J. R. Benson came over from Wellington and has been busy at his desk in the First State Bank.

Had Your Iron Today?

Let's Have Raisin Bread Tonight

HOW long since you've had delicious raisin bread—since you've tasted that incomparable flavor?

Serve a loaf tonight. No need to bake it. Just telephone your grocer or a bakery. Say you want "full-fruited bread—generously filled with luscious, seeded, Sun-Maid Raisins."

The flavor of these raisins permeates the loaf. A cake-like daintiness makes every slice a treat.

Serve it plain at dinner or as a tasty, fruited breakfast toast.

Make delicious bread pudding with leftover slices.

Use it all. You need not waste a crumb. Raisin bread is luscious, energizing, iron-food. So it's both good and good for you.

Serve it at least twice a week. Start this good habit in your home today.

But don't take any but a real, full-fruited genuine raisin bread.

Your dealer will supply it if you insist.

Sun-Maid Seeded Raisins

Make delicious bread, pies, puddings, cakes, etc. Ask your grocer for them. Send for free book of tested recipes.

LIVE STOCK

PREVENT LOSS IN SHIPPING

Partitions in Stock Cars Separating Large Animals From Small Ones is Good Idea.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A little time and labor, possibly a little money, expended in building a strong partition to separate the big animals from the small ones in a mixed carload of live stock frequently saves the shipper from a serious loss on the consignment, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture. The smaller animals, such as hogs, lambs, goats and sheep are always in danger of injury from the larger animals, and this is especially true when the car is overcrowded.

Crippled animals mean a loss to the shipper, for they bring prices considerably below the regular market price for sound stock. Dead animals bring still less—in the case of hogs only about 50 to 75 cents per hundred pounds for grease. There is always the danger, too, of the small stock becoming bruised, through being jostled and kicked by the larger ones. Bruises make a carcass less valuable, as the meat inspectors in the slaughterhouses cut out all bruised spots. Meat thus mutilated is sold as cheaper grades, the depreciation depending upon how much cutting was necessary. The buyers in the stock yards know this, of course, and consequently, pay less for animals that show bruises or seem likely to have suffered in this way.

Buyers are afraid of bruised stock, and for this reason are suspicious of small animals arriving at the stock yards in a mixed carload where the larger animals are not partitioned off. Such injuries are difficult to detect in the live animal, but when small stock, such as calves and lambs, arrive in a badly soiled condition buyers usually suspect they have been trampled and bruised by larger animals, and as a rule the buyers play safe by paying less money for such stock.

MORE BROOD SOWS ON FARMS

Increase of 1,237,000 Over Year Ago Is Seen, Due Largely to Big Stock of Corn.

There were 12,424,000 breeding sows on farms April 1, the United States Department of Agriculture estimates. This is 1,237,000 animals more than on the same date in 1921 and represents an increase of 11.1 per cent.

The large corn crop last year and the unusually large farm stocks of corn are given as the explanation of the large increase in breeding sows this spring. Corn was worth more as pork than as corn, and hogs were needed to eat the corn.

The number of hogs is quickly responsive to the general economic situation, the department points out. In April 1918, the number of breeding sows was 9.5 per cent more than on the same date in 1917, due to high hog prices as a result of war conditions. The figures on April, 1920, show a decline of 10 per cent for the year ended on that date. The reason for this was that the price of corn was relatively too high to encourage the feeding of hogs.

FINE FORAGE CROPS FOR PIGS

Rape is Rich in Protein, While Alfalfa Will Carry More Animals Per Acre.

Rape is rich in protein, and is almost equal to alfalfa as a forage crop for pigs. The chief advantage to alfalfa lies in the fact that it will generally carry more pigs per acre, and does not need to be reseeded each year.

Make Land Pay More.
Purebred live stock on every farm would go far toward making high-priced land pay 6 per cent net on its value.

Have Purebred Females Too.
Of course the purebred sire is the first step, but there's no good argument against purebred females in live stock improvement.

Take Care of Animals.
Take good care of the animals now and they will take care of you later.

PORCH BEAUTIFIES ORDINARY HOUSE

Design Is Fine Example of What Can Be Accomplished.

NOT EXPENSIVE TO BUILD

Simple Touches Turn What Would Be Unsightly Model Into Home Both Attractive and Artistic—Has Eight Rooms.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 182 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

The old-fashioned two-story house, usually twice as long as it is wide, sitting broadside to the street, was not a prepossessing home. Its steep-pitched roof with gables at either end, and its plainness set off with a small porch made such a house merely a place of habitation—not a real home. There were thousands of such houses in the United States, neither city, nor town, nor country exempt from what might be termed a home-building atrocity. Yet there was a very good reason for such houses—economy in construction cost.

Economy today is, perhaps, as essential to the home builder as it was when the prevailing style of architecture was that which has been described. Home builders want good is a semi-privacy that is one of the best features of a front porch.

The house contains eight good-sized rooms, four on each floor, while underneath is a cellar, wherein is placed the heating plant and the various storage rooms that every housekeeper demands in her home.

The entrance door off the porch leads into a central hall. Out of this hall run the stairs to the second floor, leaving an alcove for a coat closet. To the left of the hall connected by a double-cased entrance is the living room, 14 feet 3 inches, by 11 feet 6 inches. To the right of the entrance hall is the dining room, of the same size as the living room. Back of the dining room is the kitchen, 10 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 6 inches, while adjoining is a good-sized pantry, with side window, shelves and closets and the refrigerator. Back of the living room is a bedroom, 10 feet 6 inches by 11 feet 6 inches. This room might be used as a den or office or for any of the purposes a housekeeper may wish.

The stairs to the second floor end in a central hall, off which open the four bedrooms, each a corner room, and the bathroom. By reference to the floor homes—conveniently arranged inside with the modern conveniences, and attractive in exterior appearance. Yet they want these things at the lowest possible cost compatible with good, lasting materials and construction.

What can be done to make a simple house into a comfortable and attractive home is shown in the illustration. This eight-room house would be a simple oblong, two-gabled house were it not for the artistic porch, the exposed roof rafters of both house and porch and the dormer window set into the steep-pitched roof. These are the things that have made this house an exceptionally good one from both an exterior and interior, and at the same time it is one of the most economical of modern home building designs.

As will be seen by the floor plans that accompany the exterior view, this house is 40 feet wide and 24 feet deep. The foundation walls are straight, there not being a jog in the lines of the building. The house itself is of the simplest sort of frame construction. But it is the porch that breaks its monotony of line and its consequent plain appearance. Corner piers of rough-face concrete block support the double square corner porch columns. The porch roof rafters are left exposed, the ends projecting somewhat on each side. Piers on either side of the stone steps leading to the porch add to its attractiveness. And when the railing has been put in place, there plans it will be seen that these rooms correspond in size with those on the first floor, giving the family two rather large front bedrooms and two smaller rear bedrooms.

Viewed from almost any angle of view is most desirable in a home-building design it will be seen that this is an exceptional one. The front view of the house is attractive; the broad, deep porch makes for summer comfort; the interior arrangement is good; all the modern home conveniences are installed and, what is most important to the average person, the cost of the house is comparatively low. Eight rooms, five of which are bedrooms, provide for larger than the ordinary family, making this an exceptionally economical plan from which the man with a family larger than the usual may build.

Fish Performs Queer Antics.

Few have seen a fish stand on its head and do the nose-dancing act. The State museum at Augusta, Me., has a salmon that not only does the trick, bouncing up and down like a rubber ball, but for much of the time will lie motionless on its back near the surface of the water. At other times it will swim around the tank, up and down, across and lengthwise, as though chased by a submarine. Curator James says the salmon will probably return to normal but at the present time it is a freak.

SATANK SHOWS HOW A KIOWA CHIEF CAN DIE

"NOW I will show you how a chief can die!" shouted Satank of the Kiowas to the soldiers as he tore off the shackles in which they were leading him away to prison. "I call upon Those-Above to witness that I die like a man unafraid. But I do not go alone. I take with me one of these white men upon the Long Trail."

He drew a knife which he had concealed upon his person and plunged the blade into the side of one of his guards. The next moment he fell to the ground riddled with bullets. As he fell he was singing his death song. He gave one last defiant warwhoop, then died.

Satank (Set-anya—Sitting Bear), who was both a chief and medicine man, was the leader of the Ka-itzenko or "Real Dogs," the highest military order in the tribe. This was a select body of ten of the bravest warriors who were pledged to lead every desperate charge and to keep their place in the forefront of battle until they won victory or death.

Once in a fight with the Pawnees, Sat-anya engaged an enemy and was about to stab him with a lance when his foot slipped on the snow. The Kiowa chief fell and the Pawnee sent an arrow through Satank's upper lip. This wound left a lifelong scar, although it was not easily seen, for Satank wore a mustache, a rare thing among the Indians. This incident showed the importance of history in his tribe, for the calendar history of the Kiowas, a pictographic record of their great deeds, gives it as the leading event of 1846-47 and that year is known as "the winter when they shot the mustache."

In 1870 Satank's son was killed while raiding in Texas. The old chief went down into that state, gathered the bones in a bundle and brought them back. Ever afterward he carried them about with him on a special platform erected in his tepee and gave feasts in honor of his son. "My son is not dead; he is sleeping," he would explain to the old men who gathered about the fire with him.

The next year, in company with Santana and Big Tree, the Sitting Bear led a war party into Texas, attacked a wagon train and killed seven white men. When he returned to Fort Sill he boasted of the deed to General Sherman, who was visiting there. Sherman ordered the arrest of the three chiefs. On May 23, 1871, when the military started to take Satank to Texas for trial as a murderer, he showed them "how a chief can die."

CAPTAIN JACK, THE MARTYR OF THE MODOCOS

THEY were preparing to hang Captain Jack (Kintpuash), the Modoc chief. There was a harsh clanking of iron as he rose to speak for himself and his people. "Let me die like a man, not like a dog," he said. "I am not afraid to die, but I am ashamed to go this way, with my hands tied behind me."

As he stood on the scaffold at Fort Klamath, Ore., a zealous minister tried to comfort him. "You must not be afraid to die," he said. "You are going to a beautiful land where you will never want for anything."
"Preacher," replied Jack, "this country right here is good enough for me. You say the other is a fine place and I suppose you want to go there. I'll give you 25 ponies if you will take my place. I don't want to go right now." The minister declined.

Captain Jack's death marked the end of a war that had cost the United States more than half a million dollars and 100 lives, white and red. Who was most responsible? No man can say, Captain Jack and his warriors murdered General Canby and Doctor Thomas, peace commissioners, who had come into the Indian camp under a flag of truce. Twenty years before a Californian named Ben Wright had massacred nearly 50 Modocs under a white flag and had become a popular hero for the deed. Among these was Captain Jack's father.

Captain Jack was hanged, but other Modocs with blacker records went free because they deserted him and joined the soldiers in hunting him down. At first he had protested at the plot to murder the peace commissioners. Then some of his warriors placed a squaw's hat on his head, a shawl about his shoulders and threw him to the ground. "Coward! Squaw!" they jeered at him. "You are not a Modoc. You will not die with a soldier's bullet. We will save the soldier that trouble. Springing to his feet he shouted: "I will do your coward's work even though it cost me my life and the lives of all my people."

The white man's history records Captain Jack only as a treacherous murderer. Had he been a white man, perhaps it would have pronounced him a martyr. Forced into an act which he abhorred; waging a war which he knew was hopeless; betrayed by his own men; walking in chains to the Indian's most disgraceful death—small wonder that he cried bitterly: "What chance for justice does the Indian have with you white men and your white man's law? None!"

ALLEN HOME BURNS

The home of I. T. Allen was destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon. The blaze occurred while the family was away from home, they having motored to the country. We do not know the origin of the fire. The building and the greater part of the furnishings were consumed. Some insurance was carried on the furnishings. The house belonged to W. E. Reeves, and we have not learned whether it was insured or not.

A birthday party was given Wednesday in honor of little Bonita Gregory of Amarillo, who is spending the summer with Mrs. B. L. Kinsey. All reported a real nice time.

HAD GIVEN UP HOPE FOR HER BABY

Ware's Baby Powder Relieved Bowel Trouble Overnight. Baby Soon Fat and Healthy.

Mrs. John Webb, 7115 Avenue E., Magnolia Park, Houston, Tex., writes as follows: "My baby was sick two weeks ago with stomach and bowel trouble. I gave her everything I could hear of and everything the doctor sent her, but nothing would do her any good. I had almost given up all hope when one of my neighbors told me about Ware's Baby Powder. So I sent for the powder and gave the first dose about 11:30 that night, and the next morning her bowels were regulated. Now my baby eats like a little pig and is fat and healthy."

Ware's Baby Powder is harmless and babies and children love to take it. Given in liquid form mixed with sugar and water. Prescription of famous old doctor in use over 40 years. At drug stores, 50c and $1.00. Prepared by The Ware Chemical Co., Dallas, Texas. Adv.2

THREE BROTHERS DIE WITHIN 76 HOURS

McKinney, Texas, June 24 — With the death at Lone Grove, Okla., at 8:30 o'clock this morning of M. W. Mint Coffey, 77 years old, the third of four aged brothers died within seventy six hours of each other.

The first death occurred at 4 a. m. Wednesday of this week when Z. T. Taylor Coffey, 73 years old, died at Forest Grove.

Friday morning W. S. Coffey, 79 years old, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. E. Walker, here. All died of natural causes.

There were four brothers living. The surviving brother is S. P. Coffey of this city. Three sisters also survive—Mrs. George and Mrs. J. C. Kerby of this city and Mrs. Joe Liggett of Bellevue.

The funeral of M. W. Coffey will be held at Ardmore tomorrow. Services for W. S. Coffey were held here this afternoon.

The body of Z. T. Coffey was buried Thursday.

The three brothers came to this county in 1854 and were members of a large family, all prominent in political and social life of the county.

Mrs. J. H. Myers and daughter, Mrs. W. Nippert, came in from Fort Worth last week and will spend the summer on the Myers place near town. They were callers at the Informer office Monday. Mrs. Nippert renewing her subscription. They report favorable conditions in the Fort Worth section, but the weather is getting too warm for comfort.

E. A. Simpson, Paul Atteberry, M. L. Kelly and Bill Cooke, of Clarendon, were here for a short time Monday.

Miss Lucile Conley has gone to Dalhart to accept a position with the R. E. Dann Confectionery.

THE STATE OF TEXAS. To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Donley County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Earl Hustice Brooks by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 47th Judicial District; to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Donley County, Texas, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Clarendon, on the 3rd Monday in July, A. D. 1922, the same being the 17th day of July, A. D. 1922, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 15th day of June A. D. 1922, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 1215, wherein Bula Brooks is plaintiff and Earl Hustice Brooks is defendant; the nature of plaintiff's demand being as follows:

Suit for divorce and custody of Dorothy Brooks and Edna Earl Brooks, minor children, grounds for the divorce being habitual drunkenness and non-support by and on the part of the defendant.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness my hand and official seal at my office in Clarendon, Texas, this 15th day of June, A. D. 1922.

W. E. Bray, Clerk District Court, Donley County, Tex.

Paint your house with

THE above picture shows that one gallon of SWP house paint covers 369 square feet of surface, two coats. Ordinary paint covers from 200 to 250 square feet. That is the first saving. SWP, though heavy-bodied, flows easily and evenly, thus cutting down the time required to apply it. That is the second saving. SWP outlasts two or three paintings with ordinary paint, saving the cost of materials for repainting and also saving the labor cost which is about 75 per cent of the total expense. In buying paint it's the area a gallon covers, not the cost per gallon, that determines its economy. We carry a complete line of SWP. If you plan to paint your house, let us help you.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

WHO WANTS TO KNOW

IF YOU are sincere in your desire to know how to achieve, how to make yourself worthy of the highest confidence and thus become competent to hold a place above the ordinary, you will lose no time in acquiring the necessary knowledge.

You will not waste a single hour in idleness or unproductive effort, the basic cause of disappointments and failure.

You will go to your task seriously with unyielding determination to win. In your pursuit, which in a little while will have become an exhilarating pleasure, you will discover that all the men and women who are holding the prominent places in the beginning of their careers just what you are doing.

They squandered no time in the foolish chase of rainbows, choosing instead the companionship of wise counselors and the perusal in their spare time of instructive books, seeking truths and principles upon which they could build a substantial foundation for the erection of their life-work.

They tossed the chaff to the winds

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

CANNOT HOARD TIME

IN A certain time you can make a certain amount of money. You can put the money away for years later, but you can't put the time away.

Money, called by the economists frozen labor, might also be called frozen time.

But time is more than money. It can be turned into many things that can be stored away—education, cultivated taste, pleasant and profitable memories. But time itself you cannot hoard. You must use it as it passes, or it is gone forever.

Time spent in recreation is not wasted, unless you spend more than a due allowance for recreation.

But time spent in absolute idleness, or in activities that are worse than idle, is sheer criminal waste.

If you could go back over your life and gather back the hours that have never been improved, you would still have enough time to do great things.

But those hours are gone. You can only, as Shakespeare says, "regret your dear time's waste" and resolve to waste less of it in the future. Many men whose time had never been turned to account until they were past forty have still had enough left to accomplish great things in the world.

But these are the most sincere mourners for the years that might have been utilized. If you will begin today to bear in mind that time cannot be hoarded, and if every hour of it is converted into something that can be hoarded, you may lay the foundation for a fortune. You will certainly lay the foundation for happiness by and by.

Count your hours, and allot each one to some task or to some profitable and stored with utmost prudence the golden grain.

The greatest men of today, the conspicuous leaders in the professions, the arts and the crafts, struggled hard in their youth to get a foothold upon the hills. They knew what they were seeking and never relinquished their high purpose or slackened their pace, though they often slipped and went to bed hungry.

Their experiences with the world gave them an understanding of men and affairs with a fullness impossible otherwise.

Their present wealth, power and influence are envied by the thoughtless, who sneeringly talk among themselves of "chance" and "luck," those misnomers for work and pluck.

Being envied is a high distinction. And this is especially true when it is obvious that the real cause of envy is based on the admitted ignorance and regret of men and women who covet distinction but invariably lack courage to take a place in the front and bear the brunt of battle.

The youths of the present who want to know, who are brushing aside obstacles, who are exerting every effort to learn, will in the future be found among the foremost workers and thinkers in the world's great activities, simply because they have with their resolute hearts the spirit and faith, without which no man or woman can hope to win a glorious name.

JUNE TIME

SINGIN' o' June, when the roses blow;
Littin' a song when the sun hang low;
Whistlin' away
Through th' livelong day—
Singin' an' whistlin' a merry tune
To the rosiest month of them all—that's June.

Watchin' the clouds as they hasten by,
Catchin' the gleam of the bright blue sky;

Lazyin' round
On th' sun-kissed ground—
Hearin' th' wind through the wood and croon

Her songs to the rarest of months—
that's June.

Oh through th' meadows cool an' sweet,
Where th' violets bloom in their dim retreat;

Dreamin' dreams
By the purlin' streams,
As they hasten by with their rhythmic rune

To the rosiest, fairest month—
that's June.

Home at eve when the moon hangs low
And the sky gleams bright with a silver glow;

Just lazyin' there
In the old arm chair
A watchin' th' man who lives in the moon

And laughs at th' fairest of months—
that's June.

For Bathing or Swimming; Hats for Midsummer Wear

THE summer girl and the rest of womankind will answer the call of the water this year in bathing suits that differ greatly from each other in materials and style. Their story begins with a short introductory chapter, calling attention to such simple and practical stuff as checked and plain gingham, playing the unfamiliar role of bathing dress. But it soon quits cotton and moves to woolen fabrics, where it lingers longest, since the great majority of manufactured

Sprightly taffeta makes pretty suits trimmed with narrow plaited frills of checked silk, and black moire embroidered with white braid is a new arrival.

To midsummer belong the loveliest hats of the year and we look to see millinery reach its apex of beauty while June still smiles in the skies. We are far from being disappointed this season. It seems that designers have outdone themselves and have spread before the admiring bathing suits are made of wool. Finally the story takes up silks, where beauty of material, decorative features and clever construction occupy the thoughts of designers who deal with such inspiring things as taffeta, silk jersey and moire.

Regulation swimming suits, like those illustrated, do not differ much. The knitting mills turn them out in many colors and weaves, varying them in little details, as in the shape of the neck opening, length of the sleeves and methods of decoration. They are trim, elastic, wool garments, made for the business of swimming, with the trunks and undergarments joined. The swimming girl has reason to rejoice in them—especially if her figure justifies so frank an expression of its lines and curves as these suits reveal.

Bathing suits of gingham are effectively made by combining plain and feminine world hats that are adorable. And "spread" is the right word, for hats grow wide brimmed as the sun travels north. Milliners revel in the airy braids and fabrics that warrant this width of brim—the laces, crepes, organdies and hair braids that allow the sunlight to filter through them as through summer foliage. Colors are exquisite and combinations of them, in pastel shades, are fascinating. To cap the climax soft feathers and many flowers are held in high regard.

Four models, as shown here, reveal a lovely hat at the top may be imagined with brim of georgette or organdie and a soft braid crown to match in color. It is lovely in any of the season's favored colors—as orchid, apricot, brown—with roses banked across the back and narrow ribbons making a sash falling in loops and ends at the checked patterns, as in suits with full knickerbockers of the plain color, gathered into bands that button around the knees. A yoke and short sleeves of this plain material is joined to a checked tunic, and the sleeves are finished with checked cuffs. Whatever the goods, whether cotton, wool, or silk, bathing suits are made with knee length knickers, skirts a trifle shorter, tunics with low waist line, sometimes bloused, and sleeves that may be brief, but are always present. In this particular and in the neck line, the individual may choose to protect her arms from the sun if she will, with long sleeves finished with cuffs to match a little round collar that completes the small neck opening.

side. Below it, a black hair-braid hat invites one of those huge, work-room-made roses of millinery fabrics. In this case georgette makes it and the soft coil and flange that finish the brim edge. Color is a matter of individual choice. At the left a fabric hat of crepe in white depends for trimming upon white silk tubing that falls like a cascade from the back, where two ivory pins are placed, and below it a delightful white felt hat has a brim suggestive of wings with soft white feathers curling over it.

CAN NOW WALK AS WELL AS EVER

Esteemed Lincoln Resident Declares Taniae Has Made a Clean Sweep of Her Rheumatism and Other Troubles.

"I couldn't believe all they said about Taniae until I tried it myself, and now I never doubt what I read about it," said Mrs. Anna B. Crawford, 2500 N. 23rd St., Lincoln, Neb., wife of a well-known retired business man.

"I got into a badly run-down condition," she continued, "and suffered greatly from indigestion. I had headache for days at a time, slept poorly and woke up mornings so weak and dizzy I could hardly get up. Then rheumatism set in and made walking difficult and I could scarcely use my arms for the pain.

"But Taniae has made a clean sweep of my troubles, brought back my appetite and enabled me to gain much weight. It is a pleasure to make a statement in praise of this great medicine."

Taniae is sold by all good druggists.

Advent of the Match.

The flurry of interest in the probability of being able to light the summer cottage ten years hence with cold light has excited less curiosity than the first "fire sticks" or matches, exhibited in England, a little over a century ago. The Morning Post of London, December 27, 1808, announces:

"The success of the instantaneous light and fire machines daily increases, and the manufactory in Fifth street, Soho, has become now the daily resort of persons of the first fashion and consequence in town, who express themselves as highly gratified with the utility and ingenuity of these philosophical curiosities."

The use of soft coal will make laundry work heavier this winter. Red Cross Ball Blue will help to remove that grimy look. At all grocers—Advertisement.

Hips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. SIBBERT, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear. It has done this for many, many women; why not give it a fair trial—now.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS

NOW is the time to go forth and pluck the early watercress, the wholesome dandelion, the dock and poke, the new shoots of milkweed and marsh marigold or cowslips, all giving the needed zest to the food of spring.

Fresh Dandelion Salad.

Those who appreciate the value of the tender bleached heart of dandelion like it with a bit of salt without any dressing. For a salad the bleached leaves are best, but the tender green shoots, cut and mixed with a small green onion and served with French dressing is a salad not to be despised. Cut the dandelion close to the root, with all the tender green buds. Wash carefully and slice the root from the base, buds and tender leaves for an inch above the root. These use for a fresh salad; the rest of the leaves may be cooked for greens. Another addition to this salad is a thinly sliced tomato, which adds a bit of acid and softens the bitter of the dandelion. Using mayonnaise on the fresh green dandelion is another appetizing method of serving it.

Cooked Dandelion Salad.

Cook the greens until tender, which will take two hours or more unless the greens are very young, then serve with the following salad dressing: Rub a small bowl with a cut clove of garlic, add one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of paprika, two tablespoonfuls of orange juice and four to five tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Whip this dressing until it is creamy, then serve on the cooked dandelions.

EVERYONE MUST PAY

EVERYONE must pay for what he gets.

There is a law of recompense which cannot be evaded or ignored.

If one prizes his happiness he must expect to pay. Eventually the bill collector will demand his toll. Unless payment is made a rough pathway lies directly ahead.

Many constantly fear the bill collector who comes and demands money toll. But he is the most harmless of all the collectors. The real collector to be feared is the one which takes the form of conscience. It is impossible to dodge this one or to frighten him off with a double-barreled gun.

Those who imagine they have ended the collector when in the form of conscience are foolishly deluded. But even though they may get some enjoyment out of life because they think they have satisfied themselves that their consciences were wrong, they can always expect another collector which takes the form of law to hound them until the debt is paid.

In this age when many fathers and mothers are worried concerning the future of their children, there is good reason to impress upon the young people the importance of being on the square—on the square with the world as well as with themselves. Too many start into their world's pathways bent on getting as much as they can—both in material value and pleasure—without paying for its worth. If parents allow boys and girls, when their characters are in the making, to get this false impression of the way best to get on, sorry days are likely to be ahead not alone for the sons and daughters and their children, but for the fathers and mothers as well.

CONTROL DISEASES AND INSECT ENEMIES OF VEGETABLE GARDEN

One of Tomato Hornworms—a, Adult Moth; b, Larva; c, Pupa; (Howard.)

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The insects which attack the potato and the eggplant injure the tomato to a less extent, and tomatoes suffer greatly from pests.

Tomato Hornworms.

The tomato hornworms are large green worms, sometimes called tobacco worms or tobacco worms, as they feed about equally well on both plants. They are the larvae, or young, of large sphinx moths of two species, which are very similar in habits and distribution. These insects produce two broods, and when they begin to mature they cut all the leaves from the tomato plants. Growers should be on the lookout for the first as well as the second brood. They appear at various times, according to the locality.

Control.—Hand picking can be practiced, but it takes an experienced eye to detect these worms when they are at rest. When feeding they are more easily seen and can be destroyed readily. A single application of lead arsenate at the usual rate will destroy them even though crudely applied. Those which eat the poison first will be found dead the following day. The remainder will be found on the second or third day.

Tomato Fruitworm.—The tomato fruitworm is the same insect as the boll-worm of cotton and the corn earworm and is the cause of much trouble to tomato growers, because of its eating into the ripening fruit and destroying its market value.

Control.—Lead arsenate, 2 pounds to 25 gallons of water, applied two or three times, will keep the insect under partial control. As long as sweet corn is growing in the vicinity it attracts the worms, leaving the tomatoes less subject to attack. Hand picking is too difficult.

Cutworms.—Various cutworms attack the tomato when it is set out. Indeed, it is the favorite food plant of most forms of cutworms.

Flea-Beetles.—The potato flea-beetle frequently attacks tomatoes and does considerable damage.

Control.—Dipping young plants in lead-arsenate solution at the rate of 1 pound to 50 gallons of water, before setting out, will protect them considerably against injury.

Bordeaux mixture also acts as a deterrent.

Late-Blight.—A rapid blighting of the leaves, accompanied by rotting of the fruit, is due to the same fungus as that causing potato late-blight. This is common in the Appalachian region.

It is controlled by spraying with Bordeaux mixture, as advised for leaf-spot.

Leaf-Spot.—In leaf-spot, the leaves are covered with dark brown spots (Fig. 3) and shrivel and die, beginning at the base of the plant. This is the worst disease of the tomato. Spray with bordeaux mixture and resin fish-oil soap before the disease appears, and repeat at ten-day intervals. Try to spray the lower side of the leaves as well as the upper side.

Mosaic Disease.—Mosaic disease crumples and distorts the leaves and produces irregular, light green areas. The plants are weak and unfruitful. In the "fern-leaf" type the leaves become very narrow.

Mosaic disease is communicable from plant to plant by insects, especially plant-lice, and by contact. When it appears in gardens it is best to destroy the affected plants and set out others.

Blossom-End Rot.—A decay of the fruit at the blossom end, though not understood clearly, appears to be connected with soil conditions, particularly with the water supply. To prevent it, try to make the soil well drained, but retentive of moisture. Water the plants if needed. Plant the variety Bonny Best, which seems to resist blossom-end rot. Tomatoes trained to stakes and pruned often are less attacked.

Wilt.—Wilt causes the plants to wilt and die suddenly. It is especially prevalent in the South, where three different forms of wilt are found.

Destroy diseased plants. Use new land for the next planting.

Turnip.—Turnips are attacked by the same insects as cabbages.

Clubroot.—Clubroot of the turnip causes swollen, distorted roots similar to those caused by cabbage clubroot. Rotation and lime are advised, as for the cabbage.

Watermelon.—Watermelons are affected by insects which attack the cucumber, and great injury is done by the melon aphid.

Various steps are being taken in the regions heavily infested by grasshoppers last year to prepare for their adequate control during the coming season should the same situation arise, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

At a recent conference attended by entomologists from Canada, as well as state and federal entomologists, plans were co-ordinated for conducting a series of experiments this year to determine the most effective poisoned baits for various species of grasshoppers which infest different regions. The work is to be done on a uniform basis, so that the results obtained may be easily compared.

It is also planned to construct an international map, showing in a large, regional way the grasshopper conditions in both Canada and this country. This map will be available both in making an annual record and for future reference in control work. A special agent of the bureau of entomology, with headquarters at Billings, Mont., has been assigned to make investigations bearing on the grasshopper situation this year in Wyoming, North Dakota, Minnesota and other affected areas.

TIMOTHY WILL AID ALFALFA

Yield of Hay Increased Twenty-five Per Cent in Wisconsin—Keeps Out Bluegrass.

Increasing the yield of hay by 25 per cent was the result obtained when 13 pounds of alfalfa seed and 5 pounds of timothy were used per acre instead of alfalfa alone. Experiments conducted in Wisconsin gave these results. It was also found that the timothy plants aided materially in keeping out blue grass, especially in spots where the alfalfa was winter-killed. The time of harvesting of hay also resulted in a product of superior feeding quality.

POULTRY

STARVE MITES IN HEN HOUSE

In Tests Made Parasites Were Still Alive After 113 Days in Abandoned Building.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It takes several months to starve the mites in an infested chicken house after the poultry has been removed. In tests made by the United States Department of Agriculture some mites were still alive after 113 days in an abandoned hen house. The nests indicated, too, that the mites live longer in damp locations than in very dry conditions, which accounts, in part at least, for the idea that mites are worse in damp, badly ventilated houses.

The only way to get rid of these pests is to break up their hiding places. Dust baths will not control them. Roosts should be taken down, and all unnecessary boards removed. In badly infested houses the mites are to be found everywhere, including the roof. For small coops a hand atomizer will do for applying insecticides such as sprays, but for larger houses a bucket pump, knapsack sprayer, or barrel pump is desirable. A rather coarse spray should be applied from all angles, and driven thoroughly into all the cracks. The floor also should be treated, as many mites fall to the floor when roosts are being removed.

Commercial carbolineum, which consists essentially of a high-grade anthracene oil, has proved very effective against mites. The killing power of this substance, which is derived from coal tar, lasts for several months, and mites which may be inclined to come in from other buildings are repelled for a long time. This material costs, ordinarily, $1 a gallon, but as its results are superior to those recorded with any other material, and the treatments required are fewer, its use is strongly advised.

Crude petroleum, while not so effective as carbolineum, retains its killing power for several weeks, and in most places is very cheap. Since it does not dry into the wood so rapidly it is more likely to soil the fowls and the clothing. Both of these materials can be sprayed better if reduced with kerosene at the rate of about 1 part of kerosene to 3 parts of the other materials. Both often contain foreign particles which should be strained before the spraying is begun.

It has been found that one spraying with either of these materials often will completely eradicate the mites, but ordinarily it is advisable to make a second application in a month, and in some cases a third treatment is needed. Poultry should be kept out of the houses until the material is well dried into the wood. It is advisable to spray or paint chicken coops a few days before putting broods of young chicks into them.

AVOID CROWDING OF CHICKS

Bad Practice With Fowls of All Ages, but Especially With Very Little Felloes.

Avoid overcrowding. It is bad practice with fowls of all ages, but especially with youngsters. Chicks with mother hens or in brooders often are crowded at night. When they get out in the morning most of them take cold and this often develops into roup, which is usually fatal in the case of young chicks.

Five Poultry Factors

There are five major factors in profitable poultry production, says N. E. Chapman, poultry specialist at University farm-breeding, feeding, housing, management and care. "These are the essentials; combined they will put the poultry business on a practical business basis," he says. "A start can be made with hatching eggs, day-old chicks or a few head of breeding stock of high production. The surest way to success is to grow into the poultry business."

MOTHER!

Clean Baby's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! A half-teaspoonful of genuine California Fig Syrup will make your cross, fretful baby comfortable. It cleanses the little bowels of all the wind and gases, the bile, souring food and stomach poison which is causing baby's distress.

Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle laxative to keep baby's stomach and bowels clean, and thus correct diarrhoea, colic, biliousness, coated tongue, sour stomach, feverish breath, and constipation. It never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Babies love the taste of genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has full directions for infants in arms and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle. "Say 'California'" to the druggist and accept no imitation fig syrup.

Going With the Crowd.
"What is your personal opinion with reference to the great question we have been discussing?"

"My friend," replied Senator Sorghum, "when I find myself in an irresistible wave of sentiment I vote accordingly. I once saw a steer caught in a cattle pen. He might have had his own ideas about which way he ought to travel, but there wouldn't have been the slightest use of his trying to stop and express them."

YOU CAN'T TRUST CALOMEL AT ALL

It's Quicksilver, Salivates, Causes Rheumatism and Bone Decay.

The next dose of calomel you take may salivate you. It may shock your liver or start bone necrosis. Calomel is dangerous. It is mercury, quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tone which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

Color vs. Contents.

A little girl of perhaps nine years was sent to a branch library to get a book for her mother. Approaching the librarian's desk, she said:

"My mother wants a book."

"Did she say what kind she wanted?" asked the librarian, hoping to get something to guide her in her choice.

"After a moment's puzzled consideration, came the rejoinder:

"Sure, she said to get a red or a green one."

Insist upon having Dr. Peery's "Dead Shot" and the druggist will not insist upon your having something else. A single dose of "Dead Shot" is all you need to rid the system of Worms. A 50 cent bottle saves you time, money and inconvenience. 372 Pearl St., New York City.—Advertisement.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit.

Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splash, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little-ones.

To them; to these true mothers no argument can induce them to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. of Donley County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Mattie L. Means and her husband, W. F. Means, Della Means and her husband, A. J. Means, and Hobart I. Carver, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day thereof in some news paper published in your County, if there be a news paper published therein, but if not, in any news paper published in the 47th Judicial District, and if there be no news paper in the 47th Judicial District, then in a news paper published in the nearest district to said 47th Judicial district, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Donley County, Texas, to be holden at the Court House thereof in Clarendon, Texas, on the 8th Monday in July, 1922, same being the 17th day of July, 1922, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 21st day of June, A. D. 1922, in a suit Numbered on the Docket of said Court No. 1219 wherein Effie Brady, Guardian, joined pro forma by her husband, O. H. Brady, and Arthur Ashmead and Graco Mackie, joined pro forma by her husband, Henry Mackie, are Plaintiffs, and Mattie L. Means and husband, W. F. Means, Della Means and her husband, A. J. Means, Hobart I. Carver and J. H. Pritchard are Defendants, said petition alleging that the Plaintiffs and Defendants are entitled to a certain interest in certain monies now in the registry of the District Court of Donley County, Texas; that these interests are by reason of the Plaintiffs and Defendants being heirs of Austin Carver and Kate Carver, both deceased, said funds being the proceeds of the sale of community property of the said Austin and Kate Carver, deceased. Plaintiffs allege that they are entitled to an undivided interest in and to certain lands, being the NE 1/4 of the NW 1/4 of Sec. No. 31, Block C2, and the SW 1/4 of Section No. 33 in Block C2, both tracts in Donley County, Texas, said lands being community property of Austin Carver and Kate Carver, both deceased, and Plaintiffs and Defendants being their heirs.

That Grace Mackie is entitled to five thirtyfifths (5/35) interest in said estate, and that each of the other heirs are entitled to a six thirtyfifths (6/35) interest; that Effie Brady plaintiff herein, is guardian for Leora and Virgil Carver, minors, and children of Harrison A. Carver, deceased, and son of Austin Carver and Kate Carver, deceased. That said two minors are entitled to a five-thirtyfifths (5/35) portion of said estate. Plaintiffs pray that said funds be divided and they be given their portion of the said estate now in the registry of this Court, and for commissioners to be appointed and a writ of partition issue, and for judgment for their portions, each, of the monies and lands as may be ascertained to be the property of the plaintiffs, and for such other relief as entitled to.

Herein fail not, but have before the said Court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, W. E. Bray, Clerk of the District Court of Donley County, Texas.
Given under my hand and seal

The Informer Is Badly In Need of Some New Equipment

SOME PEOPLE THINK HEDLEY OUGHT TO HAVE A BETTER PAPER. THE INFORMER MAN THINKS SO, TOO. We can publish a better paper as soon as we get some better equipment. We can get better equipment any old time we get the money to pay for it. Which reminds us of what we started to say in first place, to-wit:

IF EVERY INFORMER SUBSCRIBER would pay up his subscription -- and then pay a year in advance -- we feel pretty sure that we'd be able to have that new equipment on the road to Hedley within thirty days. We believe the improvement would be worth the money to all of us.

Let's Try It; and Don't Wait Too Long
