PEARSON APPRECIATES SUPPORT

To the People of the Forty-seventh Judicial District:

I wish to thank the people of the Forty seventh Judicial District, composed of the Counties of Donley, Armstrong, Randall and Potter, for their generous support in the recent primary. I believe in democracy, and accept the verdict of the majority with good grace. We should all unite in the support of those in authority, to the end that law and justice may prevail, thus securing to every citizen the full enjoyment of true liberty and happiness and the safety and protection of his person and his property, none of which is possible of full realization except in a well ordered society. Believing in tolerance, I concede and respect the right of every citizen to exercise his own choice, and this right I hold, is one of the chief virtues of true democracy. Our courts should always administer the law fairly and impartially, without favor, for only when the courts are so administered can they have or do they deserve the respect and support of a justice loving people.

PROMINENT CITIZEN DIED LAST MONDAY

Hedley people were shocked and grieved to learn of the sudden death of Mr. A. C. Muncie, which occurred at about nine o'clock Monday evening at his home in this city. He had been up and about as usual during the day but passed quietly away at the time stated, of heart failure.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Church of Christ, conducted by Elder J. T. Bentley of Newlin Interment in Rowe cemetery, the Masonic Lodge having charge of this service.

A. C. Muncie was born at Plueville, Tenn., March 4 1849. Moved to Kentucky in 1858. Was left without a father's counsel at the age of 8 years. Obeyed the gospel at 22 years at Concord, Tenn., and was baptized by Bro. Hoover. He lived in Kentucky until March, 1890, when he was married to Mrs. Martha Tinsley and moved to Oklahoma. He lived there fourteen years, then came to Donley County in 1904.

Mr. Muncie was a school teacher in early life. Later he was a revenue officer, and since 1890 a stock farmer. He has been an elder of the Church of Christ for thirty years, and a Mason for forty years or longer, having been a charter member of the Hedley lodge, and also of another lodge in Oklahoma.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, four daughters and six grandchildren. The children all live in Hedley and vicinity, and are as follows: L. B. Muncie, Mrs. Grady Horn, Mrs. Mabel Killingsworth, Mrs. J. R. Bain, Miss Clema Muncie and Haskel Muncie. The Informer extends sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Miss Esta Shaw left Wednesday for Colorado for a two weeks visit with her sisters, Mrs. Tom Hastings and Mrs. Burton Hines.

BOWRON SOUGHT RELIEF 40 YEARS

Tanlac Restores Los Angeles Man to Splendid Health After Everything Else Had Failed.

"Tanlac has done me more good than all other medicines and treatments combined, and that's saying a great deal, for I was a sufferer from indigestion forty years and have tried every kind of medicine that came my way," said R. H. Bowron, 1635 W. 17th St., Los Angeles, Cal.

"I could hardly stand the bad spells I frequently had with my stomach. I was weak and nervous, had no appetite, and I felt miserable generally. Nothing I took gave me more than temporary relief and I gradually grew worse.

"About two years ago Tanlac put me in splendid condition and it has been my standby ever since. Whenever I get to feeling a little off, a bottle or two puts me in fine shape. I eat heartily now, sleep fine, have no distress after meals, and, in fact, am an enjoying splendid health. Tanlac is just the thing for those who suffer as I did."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

"Umph! That's not so pathetic. Homes have been broken up that way."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT TREACHEROUS

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

Dogs in Conversation.
Robert heard his mother say she had had a long conversation with Mrs. Brown, when they both were hanging clothes from their back porches. Robert asked what conversation meant.

His mother replied, "We were talking with each other."

When Robert heard his dog, Topsy, and Mrs. Brown's dog exchanging barks from their porches, he said, "Mamma, just listen at Topsy and Snowball having conversation with each other."

"Seventh Crusade."
If you were on the Mount of Olives today, or along the shores of the Jordan, you might hear the whirl of the propeller as the plane from Jerusalem hops off on its regular flight to the northward, with mail and passengers. An appealing fact in the news of the day! It might be called the Seventh Crusade. The thinker has at least captured the Holy Land, which for 20 centuries successfully resisted the soldier.—Farm Life.

Something to Think About
By F. A. WALKER

ENCOURAGING WORDS

TO FORM a pleasant background to the drudgery of every-day life, pass around among the hordes of weary mortals whose backs are bent under heavy loads a few encouraging words and observe, while you are doing it, the happy change that comes over their stolid countenances.

It takes but little kindness and manifestation of interest to brighten dull eyes and move sad faces to a smile.

As the lips curl at the corners, you comprehend with a new understanding the value of cheering words spoken in a kindly voice whose ring is sincere.

Whatever opinion you may entertain as to the influence helpful acts and speech have upon others, you will find upon intimate observation that it is always acceptable, uplifting and productive of friendship.

Encouraging smiles and words are like bright lights on a dark highway, guiding the tired traveler to his destination, who but a little while ago had lost his way and fallen into the "slough of despond."

Reason as you may, the tongue plays the leading role in the great drama of life, permitting itself liberties that make for peace or war an enemy or love, often forgetting in an unguarded moment its great responsibility.

No man or woman who indulges in gross speech can expect to get anything in return except that which arouses resentment.

The Friendly Path
By Walter L. Robinson

READJUSTMENT

"MONEY grows or money goes." But it will neither grow nor leave one of its own accord.

Many persons have had these facts brought home to them with a jolt. Unfortunately, however, they did not recognize the value of what they obtained when it came in fast.

Harsh lessons are usually well learned. The man who foolishly trusts a rotten plank to carry him across a whirling stream and then pays for his folly by a stiff fight for life, always is more cautious when he must walk another plank to follow his pathway on the other side of a stream.

The same logic may justly be applied to every walk of life. If one spends all he earns, the money naturally goes; but, if he is wise and saves something, what he saves is certain to grow if properly invested. And it is surprising how fast it will grow and what an assistance it will become when the source of supply becomes weak or slow in producing.

Whatever the difficulties one has faced during the period of depression incident to readjustment of economic conditions, he still has much for which to offer thanks. Long faces and grumbling are inclined to increase the world's pessimism and hamper the progress back toward normalcy. It is far better to be a good sport—if we be permitted to use gaming language—then one is more likely to see the brighter side.

Out of the struggles and discouragements the country and world at large have been experiencing, common sense will eventually rise to a higher plane than it has occupied for several years. And, though many may have foolishly spent all they earned when prosperity was with them and since have been finding it difficult to make both ends meet, when the tide turns back to normal, greater value will be placed on incomes, more caution will be exercised in spending, more money will be saved, simple and healthful pleasures will be appreciated and there will be wider appreciation of the privilege of earning fair wages or making fair profits on business done.

Painful though the lesson of readjustment is, it was necessary to assure honesty and nappiness in the years to come.

Mother's Cook Book

Today may be all that is mournful—our paths cannot always be bright. But tomorrow we'll somehow take courage.
And trustingly enter the fight.

EVERY DAY DISHES

WE WELCOME foods that give variety without adding to the expense of living, which is high enough with the best of management.

Sandwich Piquant.
Take one cupful of new cabbage or cucumber chopped, one-half cupful of onion chopped, four tablespoonfuls of green pepper chopped, drain, add cayenne and seasonings and use on buttered bread.

Date Surprise Cookies.
Stone dates and stuff with whole almonds blanched. Roll out the cookie mixture very thin, cut in rounds and place a stuffed date in the center; sprinkle with sugar and lemon rind mixed; fold over the cookie and pinch the edges together. Bake in a hot oven.

Pear Bread Pudding.
Slice canned pears in very small pieces; add lemon rind and juice and place half of them in a pudding dish. Mix one tablespoonful of butter with one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of water and a pint of bread crumbs; spread all but a tablespoonful over the pears. Put more pears in the dish; add grated nutmeg and sprinkle with the tablespoonful of crumbs. Bake with a cover for an hour and a half, then remove the cover and brown. Serve with a hot sauce.

Rice and Asparagus Soup.
Wash the asparagus and cut off the tougher portions. Put the tips into a quart of well-seasoned broth and one cupful of water and cook until tender.

If you should incline to prove this for yourself, scold your pet dog. If the opposite you would verify, fill your purse tomorrow morning with kind words of encouragement, crisp as new bills, and pass them around as you wind your way to business.
Give one to the old newsman on the corner, and see his face light up as the sun of happiness touches his heart and suddenly warms his whole being.
Hand them out all along the way until you are ready to assume your duties of the day.
You may marvel as you begin at the ease and gladness with which you take up your work.
The troublesome perplexities of yesterday have vanished, and there is a godly spirit hovering over you, whose presence you have not felt for months, and all because you started the day by cheering others and thus unconsciously cheered yourself.

SCHOOL DAYS

THE MICROSE INCUBATOR

Uncommon Sense
By JOHN BLAKE

"NERVES," A LUXURY

IF YOU have an inherited fortune, which some one else is taking care of for you, you can afford to have "nerves."
You can afford to be sensitive, to be easily irritated, to be extravagantly disturbed at small annoyances.
You will not enjoy this, but it may be some comfort to know that you can afford it.

But if you have your way to make, and are anxious to get as far as is possible with your particular mental equipment, you will find that "nerves" are too big a load to carry.
As you no doubt have discovered by this time, the world in which we have our being is not altogether a pleasant one.

In it there are loud and raucous noises, offensive sights, and displeasing people.

There is also a thing called labor, which viewed from the standpoint of the busy man is a good deal of a burden.
But this happens to be the only world you are in, for the present at least.

And if you permit all its unpleasant features to get on your nerves, you are going to be so busy with your unhappiness and your self-pity that you will have very little time to improve your natural gifts.

If you are nervous and touchy and sensitive, and always looking for offense, you might as well go directly to the poor house and give yourself up. You will get there in the end, and it will only be a waste of time to delay your arrival.

A good many cases of "nerves" were cured by the great war, permanently. Young gentlemen who thought they could not eat, save from a nice mahogany table, spread with the best food, and who fancied they could not sleep if a trolley car was rattling by, discovered that they were mistaken.

After they had slept for a few days within the sound of exploding shells, they saw that they hadn't had much to worry about back in peace times.
Get rid of your nerves if you want to get along. Take the world as you find it, and put up with it. You may be able to improve it just the least bit later on, but you will have to become very able, and very great, before you can do so.

Goodrich

new tire prices

—lowest cost mileage ever known

Effective July 20th, Goodrich establishes a revised price list that is a base line of tire value. It gives the motorist the buying advantage of knowing that whatever size tire he selects is of the same quality—the Goodrich one-quality standard. It gives him the longest mileage, the most satisfactory service and the highest quality his money can buy. Results will prove that it is impossible to buy tire mileage at lower cost.

Think of being able to buy

CHICKEN DINNER

The women of the Methodist Church will serve a Chicken Dinner on the Second Primary Election Day, at the Boston building.

Come and eat with us.

APPRECIATION

I wish to take this means of thanking the good people of Hedley and vicinity for their support in the recent primary and for their kind consideration throughout my tenure of office as their County Treasurer.

The fact I had no opponent this time in no way lessens my thanks and appreciation. I esteem it a great privilege to serve such good people, and feel that I would fall short of my duty should I fail to tell you so.

Sincerely,
Mrs. W. Goldston.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us in any way during the illness and after the death of our dear husband and father, J. A. Hendricks. Especially do we thank the young men. May God's richest blessings rest on each and every one of you in our prayer.

NOTICE

To those on my water line. You know that you are not getting satisfactory service for the reason that there are too many on the line. In order for you to get good service I would have to spend at least $600, and this I can't afford to do for the money I get out of the line.

So, beginning the 1st of next October, I will discontinue at least the North half of my water line, if not more. So don't delay, but make your arrangements to get water from someone else.

MRS. HOMER LEE

The Informer regrets to report the death of Mrs. Lola Lee, wife of Homer Lee of the Bray community, which occurred one day last week. The editor having been out of town nearly two weeks, has been unable to obtain material for an extended article, but we know that Mrs. Lee was a good wife and neighbor, and much loved by all who knew her. She has been sick a long time and her death was not unexpected.

We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved husband and other loved ones.

SPRAYING KILLS GARDEN INSECTS

Application Must Be Made Very Promptly and Thoroughly to Be Entirely Successful.

BORDEAUX MIXTURE IS GOOD

If Weather Is Rainy or Muggy Spray Often to Keep Foliage Fully Protected—Efficient Sprayers Are Expensive.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

To be successful in the control of insects and diseases, spraying must be done promptly and thoroughly. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture should be done before rains rather than after, provided the spray has time to dry on the leaves. Where the advice is given gardeners to "repeat spraying every seven or ten days," these intervals should depend on the weather. If it is rainy or "muggy," with fogs or heavy dews, spray frequently to keep the foliage protected at all times. If dry, a longer time may be allowed.

The ideal spray is a fine mist, and the best work is done when the plant is thoroughly and evenly covered with fine drops. Stop spraying before the foliage is drenched.

The higher the pressure, the better the spray.

Clean all sprayers each time after using.

For delicate foliage, spray after this gets under shade. Hot sunlight is dangerous with many sprays, such as kerosene emulsion.

Spraying and Dusting Appliances.

The materials recommended herein may be applied in various ways.

For the small garden an atomizer sprayer is good. In the case of the atomizer sprayer it is an advantage to have the container for the liquid made of glass, as Bordeaux mixture and other materials attack tin and iron. These sprayers cost from 50 to 75 cents. A similar but more durable and effective sprayer made of brass costs $1.25.

Really efficient sprayers are expensive, but if well cared for will last many years. Neighborhood co-operation may solve this problem. If a number of garden owners club together to purchase a sprayer, it is advised that a barrel pump on a hand cart be secured, or the barrow type, which is a thoroughly effective outfit, capable of giving 120 pounds pressure. It will apply any liquid fungicide or insecticide to vegetables, shrubbery, or orchard trees. It is often possible to secure the services of a local trucker or orchardist who has a sprayer, but no one should be deterred from protecting his garden when an atomizer may be purchased for 50 cents or even less.

The powders may be shaken from a muslin bag tied to a stick, or various forms of dusters, bellows or blowers may be bought.

Dry powders are best applied when the leaves are wet with dew.

Mechanical Methods.

For garden insects there are several control methods that do not require the use of insecticides, but too much must not be expected from them. Of these hand picking is useful for large, comparatively inactive insects such as the potato beetle, cutworms and other caterpillars, and the squash bug. Another method is jarring or beating insects from low plants into large pans of water on which a thin scum of kerosene, being on the surface, kills the insects with which it comes in contact. Collecting nets are valuable for some pests; for example, the tarnished plant-hug. Brushing by different means is used to a considerable extent and consists in beating or brushing insects from the plants with pine boughs or similar brush. This method has proved of great value in combating the pea aphid. Covering with cloth is of use as a preventive for the striped cucumber beetle when the cucumbers are quite small, and for root-maggots.

Trapping by different methods with old boards is useful for squash bugs and cutworms. Poisoned baits may be placed under such traps. Plowing, disking and harrowing all can be done by hand and are of considerable service.

To Eradicate Pigeon Lice

Complete eradication of pigeon lice is possible in one treatment if directions furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture are followed. The pigeons should be dipped in a solution of sodium fluoride and soapy water, and afterwards never allowed their freedom. Stray pigeons must not get into the flock.

Cockerels a By-Product.

The cockerels on most general farms are really the by-product of pullet production and should be finished out for market as rapidly as possible.

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT IS GAINING GROUND

Interest in "Area Plan" Developed in Many States.

Valuable Supplement to Accredited-Herd Work Which Has Resulted in Eradication of Many Head of Tubercular Cattle.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In addition to systematic eradication of cattle tuberculosis by the accredited-herd plan, interest in the "area plan," as it is called, has lately developed in many states, according to the report issued by the United States Department of Agriculture describing progress during March. The eradication of tuberculosis under the comprehensive plan generally includes a county as a unit and all the cattle in the county are tested. The report shows that in states where the eradication work was concentrated in certain localities in an effort to wipe out the disease entirely, a great many more animals were tested than in states where the area plan is not yet followed to any appreciable extent.

In one month, Nebraska, working on the area plan, tested 21,000 cattle. A number of other states made high records as a result of the concentration of effort in a few counties. During March, Michigan tested 19,817 head; New York, 13,076; Missouri, 12,799; Indiana, 11,933; Wisconsin, 11,788; Iowa, 11,250, and Tennessee, 8,455. The total number tested in all the states during the month was 228,779.

The area plan of testing is a valuable supplement to accredited-herd work which has resulted in the eradication of many thousand head of tubercular cattle and the establishment of more than 13,000 herds accredited as free from the disease.

There are now more than 305,000 accredited cattle in the country; over 1,250,000 tested once and found free of tuberculosis; more than 2,133,000 under supervision; and about 408,000 on the waiting list. Wisconsin leads in number of accredited cattle with 30,183, and Minnesota follows with 33,759. However, the rate at which the work is going on in some other states, these two will have to keep very busy to stay at the top.

TILLAGE IS PRINCIPAL TASK

Stirring of Soil and Destroying of Weeds Measure Productivity of Vegetables.

Tillage is the main task of the successful gardener, and the amount of work devoted to stirring the soil and destroying the weeds will measure the productivity of the vegetables. At this time the advantage of a wheel hoe will be appreciated, and for gardeners who have vegetable plantings of any extent, this handy tool is almost a necessity. The work is about one-third that of hoeing by hand, and it is done even more efficiently by the wheel hoe than by the old-fashioned hand tool.

Wheel hoes run so easily that a woman can keep a garden in a fine state of cultivation with only a little effort. The wheel hoes have a number of attachments for various purposes, small rake teeth serving to keep the soil stirred after the weeds have been cut down by the hoe blade attachments.

GIVE POULTRY MANURE CARE

Fertilizer Deteriorates Quickly When Stored Under Unfavorable Conditions.

Poultry manure when properly conserved is a very valuable by-product of poultry raising, but it deteriorates very quickly when stored under unfavorable conditions. Much of the nitrogen is lost in the form of ammonia when poultry manure becomes wet. Unless it can be spread on the land immediately poultry manure should be stored under shelter.—Maryland Bulletin 244.

TO ERADICATE PIGEON LICE

Dip Birds in Solution of Sodium Fluoride and Soapy Water—Keep Closely Confined.

Complete eradication of pigeon lice is possible in one treatment if directions furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture are followed. The pigeons should be dipped in a solution of sodium fluoride and soapy water, and afterwards never allowed their freedom. Stray pigeons must not get into the flock.

LIVE STOCK

MANY ADVANTAGES OF SHEEP

Animals Are Quite Useful in Keeping Farm Free From Weeds—Good Meat Producers.

While many farmers flop from one line of farming to another, according as prices have been high or low the season previous, the successful farmer usually sticks to some well-tried program whether conditions appear to be favorable or otherwise. The great majority of these successful men recommend the keeping of at least a few sheep upon the farm.

They emphasize that sheep are helpful in keeping the farm clean of weeds. They also consume much material that would otherwise go to waste. These farmers point out, too, that these animals can be comfortably kept in comparatively inexpensive buildings. The two main requirements in housing are protection from winds and freedom from moisture.

These animals enable the farmer to better distribute his labor because they require the most attention in the winter time when help is most plentiful and cheap. As meat producers sheep require about as little food as any other animal for the production of a pound of gain.

Mutton May Be Sold at All Seasons.

Finally, the income from the flock is fairly well distributed over the year. Wool is sold in the early summer when money is much needed, lambs are disposed of in the fall and winter, while breeding stock and mutton may be sold at practically all seasons.

BANKS AID PUREBRED SIRE

Virginia Farmers Given Opportunity to Improve Live Stock by Local Bankers.

The banks of Charlottesville, Va., are co-operating with farmers of the surrounding county in obtaining purebred sires. According to reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture, if a farmer will sell his grade or scrub sires and purchase purebred animals, the banks supply the necessary funds to cover the purchase of the purebred sire over the amount received for the inferior animal. The loan is made on the basis of a year's time.

Sentiment among bankers regarding the use of purebred live stock in practical farming operations appears to be growing more favorable, and the attitude of the Charlottesville banks is evidence of this point. Purebred sires of good quality, as shown by information obtained by the bureau of animal industry, increase the earning power of herds and flocks in which they are used.

CYLINDER OIL HELPS SWINE

Ames Specialists Declare It Is Safe for Hogs, Except Those With Delicate Skin.

Oil from automobile crank cases can be used for oiling hogs, say the animal husbandry men at Iowa State college. Although some people are skeptical about using this sort of oil, the Ames men declare that it is safe, except possibly in the case of white hogs, which have a delicate skin that sometimes blisters through the use of the oil.

The oil should be allowed to stand for a while in order to allow the fine particles of metal to settle out. The surface oil may then be poured off and used in the hog oiled. The sediment should be discarded.

Alfalfa for Horses.

Alfalfa hay can be successfully fed to work horses provided some other hay such as timothy is fed once a day. If alfalfa hay is fed the grain ration can be reduced very materially when these horses are not at work.

Start Young Pig Right.

The life and future value of the young pig is absolutely in its owner's hands. Stunt it at the start and it goes through life a runt. Start it right and it will be a big, healthy hog.

DAIRY

BEST PLAN TO RAISE CALVES

Minnesota Idea Is to Give Youngsters Good Start and Then Feed Hay and Grain.

The milk of 45 out of every 100 cows kept in the United States is sold as whole milk. Owners of the herds where milk is marketed in this way have a serious problem in raising the necessary number of calves to maintain their herds. If no calves are raised and the farmer depends upon buying what he needs there is constant danger of disease and his herd seldom improves from year to year. When raising calves under these conditions some milk must be used, as there is no substitute for it.

Experiments in progress at the Minnesota experiment station show that the best plan so far worked out is to give the calves a good start with milk and then get them on grain and hay as soon as possible. The plan suggested is to feed milk in the usual way to the age of about fifty days, then if the calf is strong and vigorous gradually reduce the amount until none is fed after the calf is sixty to sixty-five days old.

Alfalfa or clover hay and a grain mixture of cornmeal four parts, bran one part and oilmeal one part is kept before the calves. They will begin eating grain and hay when about a month old and will gradually increase the amount until at the time the milk feeding ceases at sixty to sixty-five days of age they are able to get along very nicely without milk.

Calves handled in this manner will be somewhat checked in growth for a short time after the milk is taken from the ration, but will be in as good condition as the calf raised on skim milk by the time they are six months of age. The total milk used need not exceed 400 pounds. The grain mixture mentioned serves the purpose just as well as more expensive commercial calf meals.—C. H. Eckles, chief of the dairy division, University of Minnesota.

MISSOURI DAIRY COW FEEDS

Recommended That Animal Be Fed All Alfalfa or Clover Hay She Will Consume.

In making up a ration for dairy cows the Missouri College of Agriculture recommends that cows be fed all the alfalfa or clover hay they will readily consume, and to feed corn silage when available.

To this should be added a grain mixture if good results are to follow.

A grain mixture often recommended is four parts, by weight, of corn chops, two parts wheat bran and one part either cottonseed or linseed meal. This mixture is to be fed according to the quantity of milk produced.

One pound of the mixture is sufficient for every four pounds of milk produced by a Holstein cow or for every three pounds produced by a Jersey.

It is not a bad plan, in the above ration, to mix the cottonseed and linseed meal half and half, instead of using one alone.

LET CALVES RUN ON PASTURE

As Grass Contains Large Amount of Water, Something Additional Must Be Given.

Calves dropped in the fall and early winter should be allowed to run on pasture during the summer. Pasture, however, should not be depended upon altogether, as it contains too large an amount of water in proportion to the food nutrients to insure the calves a satisfactory ration.

Feeding Cows Properly.

Feeding cows so they can exist is one thing, and feeding them so they can produce milk is still another.

Freshen Cows in Fall.

The farmers who make it a point to freshen their cows in the fall of the year know how to make money.

Unsatisfactory Methods.

Primitive methods of dairying will not bring satisfactory results under modern conditions of production and marketing.

The Chevrolet Roadster is a car that can be used purely for business, purely for personal service, or in an ideal combination of both.

It is intensely practical as a business car. For salesmen it will serve splendidly to multiply earning power, making possible the covering of a much larger territory and more calls in a given time.

It has the fine appearance that carries prestige, which is another point in its favor as a business car. And then it is the cheapest in price of any car in America, quality and equipment considered.

And because it is the car of lowest operating cost, it becomes the cheapest in cost per year of service of any car in the world.

Getting Patients for Dr. Hill

By JANE OSBORN

When Dr. Polly Hill decided on the north end of Hillsboro as the location for her office after she had finished her hospital training, it was not because that part or any part of Hillsboro offered a strikingly good field for the initial efforts of a woman physician. It was because of Bob, Polly's brother. Bob was a freshman at Hillsboro college, and if it were possible for him to live at home with Polly then expenses would be kept down. And this was necessary, for almost all of the little few thousand dollars left by their parents had been used up on Polly's medical education and Bob's preparation for college. Polly was determined to succeed and to do that promptly, for she had Bob as well as herself to support.

It was the afternoon of the morning after Polly's shingle had been hung in state over the front door of the little white cottage in Hillsboro, Polly had made some purchases in the center of town, had met Bob, who was needed to help her carry home her bundles, and they were returning in the gloaming that is deep at six on December evenings.

A fine snow was falling from a winterless sky. They walked together barely hearing their own feet fall on the path.

"Had any patients yet?" asked Bob, who had rosy expectations for his sister.

"Of course not, yet," she said. "I won't have any patients for a week, maybe months. I only hung out my shingle this morning."

"I don't see as there is any nourishment in shingles," commented Bob. "But I've got an application in at the office for tutoring. I may get some boys from preparatory school. I suppose I'll have to cultivate a dainty appetite now, for a while?"

"It's not as bad as that, Bob," said the little doctor, more anxious than she wished to show. "We'll have plenty of plain food."

"How are you going to get the patients?" demanded Bob bluntly. "Couldn't you put an advertisement in the paper or something? People have got to learn about you some way."

"Bob don't you know that doctors never do that? It wouldn't be professional."

"Well, honestly, sister, how are you going to get any customers—patients, I mean. Guess I'll go canvass the neighborhood. What commission would you give me for every new patient I bring?"

"Look at me, gentlemen, I'd say, aren't I a good healthy specimen? Well, she's my doctor, and she always will be."

"Bob!" protested Polly, still relieved by her brother's foolishness from the anxiety of his that hung about her big undertaking.

"I'll tell you what we'll do. We'll pour some water out in front of the door some night when it is freezing. Make it nice and slippery and then we'll get some sprained ankles, any way. Maybe a couple of broken legs, too. How would that be?"

"Fine, Bob. I always knew you'd turn out a genius."

A half an hour later Polly and Bob were seated opposite at their little dining table before the platter of tempting stew that Polly had prepared at as small a cost as possible.

"Say, Polly," said Bob, "maybe before I go on with dinner I better shovel the snow out in front. It's snowing pretty steadily now. What do you think?"

"Certainly you'll do nothing of the sort. You are tired out from a hard day at college, and you must eat and rest a little first. Time enough if you do it before we go to bed."

So the meal progressed and later a merry dishwashing session in the kitchen, where Bob gave Polly an imaginary lecture on dishwashing as he wielded the dish mop and splashed his big hands about in the hot soapsuds.

Then came a feeble knock at the door, then a knock that was more vigorous. Bob quickly dried his hands on the kitchen towel, slipped into his coat and hurried to the door.

"Flash on the porch light before you open the door," said Polly, and they both went toward the front hall. When they first looked out on the front porch they could see no one; that was because the person who had knocked at the door was lying limp beneath the folds of a heavy uster just before the threshold.

It proved to be Bronson Todd, the mayor of Hillsboro, and it was no very easy task for Bob to carry the prostrate six-foot mayor into the reception room of the little white cottage. With Polly's help he spread him out on the lounge and then the eyes opened and looked out at first in perplexity.

broth—a by-product of the expensive stew dinner time—which the patient drank with relish.

"I was going to suggest," began the young doctor, a little less bravely than might be, "that it would be better for you to rest here, possibly all night. The slightest effort might cause pain to the strained tendons, and my brother could lie on a cot in the next room so that if you wanted anything. In the meantime, hadn't we better telephone to Mrs. Todd? She may be anxious."

"Oh, there's no Mrs. Bronson Todd," said the patient with a smile that seemed to irritate Polly. He seemed to be pleased to think that he was a bachelor. He was just the good looking sort of well-built young man who ought to be ashamed not to be married by thirty, and he must be thirty. Who ever heard of a mayor under thirty? Still he wasn't the least gray—"But you might telephone to the steward at the club," Mayor Todd interrupted Polly's musings. "I live at the club, and he takes a sort of interest in me."

Polly gave her brother instructions for this telephone message. Then she approached the prostrate mayor with another suggestion.

"Possibly you would like to have your own doctor?" she said.

"I am with my own doctor," he said. "This is the first time that I have had a doctor, well, since I was twelve, and had the measles. I've never needed one. I am perfectly satisfied."

When Polly saw her brother after the patient was asleep on the reception room lounge she could no longer conceal her own anxiety. "He slipped on our front walk. You said you wanted to shovel it. It was all my fault—and after what we said about getting patients, oh, it was dreadful even to joke about anything so serious."

When it was decided that the young mayor could be moved via motorcar to his club the next afternoon, he said frankly that he was sorry to go.

"Doctor," he said, "you'll look after the case, won't you? Perhaps you'd better drop in tomorrow. In the meantime I'd feel better if I settled my account for as far as it has gone. You have had to devote your entire time to this case."

"But, of course, there are to be no charges," said Dr. Polly Hill, turning rather pale. "It was our fault that you slipped. We hadn't shoveled our walk. We should at least stand all the doctor's fees. You might ask damages, besides."

The mayor smiled. "Who ever heard of such a thing? You might think that you had deliberately made that walk slippery so as to get patients." He looked into Polly's blue eyes and laughed again, and Polly looked very much distressed and the mayor was sorry that he had teased her.

So that was the beginning of the chain of events that led to the marriage that spring of Hillsboro's young mayor and her youngest doctor. The little white cottage, somewhat enlarged, became the mayor's residence, and the mayor consented to his wife's request to continue her work as a children's specialist, providing that she would doctor the poor of the town without charge.

It was the day before their wedding that they recalled together the events of the day of their meeting. "I was distressed because it really was our fault that you slipped, and only an hour before Bob and I were jokingly saying that we would have to get patients just that way."

"And I," confessed the mayor, "was walking not far behind you at the time. It was a silent, snowy night. You didn't hear me, but I heard what you said. So—well, I wanted to know you better—so I decided I'd pretend to slip on your front walk anyway, so you'd have to take me in. But when I was getting ready to fake a fall I took a real one."

IMPOSSIBLE TO FIX DATE
Exact Time of the Birth of the Savior Has Never Been Absolutely Determined.

The exact date of Christ's birth is not known. The Oxford Cyclopaedia Concordance says: "It is very perplexing to many to find that Jesus was born four years before the time from which we count his birth. The simple reason is that no one calculated dates from the birth of Christ until centuries after he was born, and then Dionysius Exiguus, the monk who published the calculations in A. D. 525, made a mistake of four years. He placed the birth of Christ in the year of Rome (A. U. C.) 754. But Herod the Great, who slew the innocents of Bethlehem, died in April in the year of Rome, 750, so that Christ must have been born several months before or not later than the last of 749. Jesus probably was born at the very close of 5 B. C., which would be only four years before our era, for in a week after December 25, 5 B. C., it was January, 4 B. C. Since it is impossible to rectify the dates in all books and records over the world, we simply apply the true date to the life of Christ. He was five years old at the close of A. D. 1."

The Young Mother.

THE ILLS OF INFANTS AND CHILDREN should be so well known to the youngest of mothers that a reminder or a repetition of the symptoms of illness seems unnecessary, yet there are some mothers who overlook a feverish condition, a little colic, or a disposition to be irritable. If not corrected they may lead to serious sickness. And to correct them, to bring Baby back to its happy self, is so easy by the use of Castoria—a medicine prepared just for infants and children. It will regulate the bowels (not force them), aid digestion and so bring quiet and rest.

Fletcher's Castoria has been doing this for over 30 years; regulating the stomach and bowels of infants and children. It has replaced the nauseating Castor Oil, so-called Soothing Syrups, poisonous Paregoric and other vicious concoctions in the homes of true and honest mothers—mothers who love their children.

Those mothers will give their babies foods and medicines especially prepared for infants and children.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.
"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.
From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.
All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.
And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.
Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrup was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

 Cured in a Few Days

Geo. W. Thomas, prominent citizen of Shreveport, La., wrote us July 23, 1919, of this experience with his baby boy: "Eight years ago my baby boy, then three months old, was in constant pain, crying continuously, suffering from intestinal indigestion, and after spending $750.00 with the doctors, I got a box of Ware's Baby Powder, and in 48 hours my baby was relieved and in a few days was entirely well."

What a Houma, La., Mother Says
 About It
 Mrs. Aledore Picon, 803 East Park
 Ave., Houma, La., writes us March 24, 1922, as follows: "Please send me twenty (20) boxes of your Ware's
 Baby Powder by parcel post, c. o. d.
 I have used your baby powder in my own home and many of my friends want your Ware's Baby Powder because they have seen what it did in my home. One of my children weighed 13 1/2 pounds before he began using your Baby Powder, before two months had passed he had gained nine pounds, and today he weighs 23 1/2 pounds and is in perfect health."

For over forty years, Ware's Baby
 Powder—the prescription of Dr.
 James Ware, famous old Southern physician—has been a healing boon to babies for bowel troubles, teething and summer complaints, etc. Keep the stomach and bowels in a healthy condition and you need have no fear of those distressing troubles so general among babies especially during the teething period. Perfectly harmless, mixed according to directions, (a teaspoonful of Ware's Baby Powder, a half teaspoonful of sugar, add enough water to make four doses), children love to take it. At your drug store, in 50c and $1.00

CHAPTER V—Continued.

When he got up from the table he said to me: "I shall expect to see you tomorrow in the library at four, Mary."

And Mary answered: "Yes, Father," and she smiled at me as she should; but Marie inside was just chuckling with the joke of it all.

The next day I watched again at four for Father to come up the walk; and when he had come in I went down to the library.

But there wasn't any twinkle in his eyes, nor the least little bit of an understanding smile; and I was disappointed. I had been looking for it.

I knew then, when I felt so suddenly lost and heart-achy, that I had been expecting and planning all day on that twinkling understanding smile.

Oh, I'm so tired of being Mary! And I've got more than four months of it left. I didn't get Mother's letter today. Maybe that's why I'm specially lonesome tonight.

JULY FIRST.

School is done, both the regular school and my school. Not that my school has amounted to much. Really it hasn't.

AUGUST FIRST.

It hasn't, so far—I mean vacation. Really, what a world of disappointment this is! How on earth I'm going to stand being Mary for three months more I don't know.

If Father wanted me, really wanted me, I wouldn't care a bit. I'd be willing to be Mary six whole months. Yes, I'd be glad to. But he doesn't.

As I said before, if only there was somebody here that wanted me. But there isn't. Of course Father doesn't. That goes without saying.

Father doesn't like ladies. I know he doesn't. He always runs away from them. But they don't run away from him!

Quite a lot of them call here to see Aunt Jane, and they come lots of times evenings and late afternoons, and I know now why they do it. They come then because they think Father'll be at home at that time and they want to see him.

I know it now, but I never thought of it till the other day when I heard our hired girl, Susie, talking about it with Bridget, the Smalls' hired girl, over the fence when I was weeding the garden one day. Then I knew. It was like this:

Mrs. Darling had been over the night before as usual, and had stayed an awfully long time talking to Aunt Jane on the front piazza.

"Oh, Mr. Anderson, I'm so glad I saw you! I wanted to ask your advice about selling poor dear Mr. Darling's law library."

And then she went on to tell him how she'd had an offer, but she wasn't sure whether it was a good one or not. And she told him how highly she prized his opinion, and he was a man of such splendid judgment, and she felt so alone now with no strong man's shoulder to lean upon, and she would be so much obliged if he only would tell her whether he considered that offer a good one or not.

Father hitched and abemmed and moved nearer the door all the time she was talking, and he didn't seem to hear her when she pushed a chair toward him and asked him to please sit down and tell her what to do; that she was so alone in the world since poor dear Mr. Darling had gone.

Well, as I said, Father hitched and abemmed, and said he didn't know, he was sure; that she'd better take wiser counsel than his, and that he was very sorry, but she really must excuse him. And he got through the door while he was talking just as fast as he could himself, so that she couldn't get in a single word to keep him. Then he was gone.

Mrs. Darling stared on the piazza two whole hours longer, but Father never came out at all again.

It was the next morning that Susie said this over the back-yard fence to Bridget:

"It does beat all how popular this house is with the ladies—after college hours!"

And Bridget chuckled and answered back:

"Sure it is! An' I do be thinkin' the Widder Darlin' is a heap fonder of Miss Jane now than she would have been had poor dear Mr. Darlin' lived!"

And she chuckled again, and so did Susie. And then, all of a sudden, I

I ran then upstairs to the guest-room closet where Aunt Jane had made me put all my Marie dresses and things when the Mary ones came.

Well, I got out the very fluffiest, softest white dress there was there, and the little white slippers and the silk stockings that I loved, and the blue silk sash, and the little gold locket and chain that Mother gave me that Aunt Jane wouldn't let me wear.

I dressed up. My, didn't I dress up! And I just threw those old heavy shoes and black cotton stockings into the corner, and the blue gingham dress after them (though Mary went right away and picked the dress up; and hung it in the closet, of course); but I had the fun of throwing it, anyway.

Oh, how good those Marie things did feel to Mary's hot, dried flesh and bones, and how I did dance and sing around the room in those light little slippers! Then Susie rang the dinner-bell and I went down to the dining-room feeling like a really truly young lady. I can tell you.

Susie stared, of course, and said, "My, how fine we are today!" But I didn't mind Susie.

After dinner I went out into the hall and I sang all over the house. Then I went into the parlor and played every lively thing that I could think of on the piano, and I sang there, too—silly little songs that Marie used to sing to Lester. And I tried to think I was really down there to Boston, singing to Lester; and that Mother was right in the next room waiting for me.

Then I stopped and turned around on the piano stool, and the room was just as still as death. And I knew I wasn't in Boston. I was there in Andersonville. And there wasn't any Baby Lester there, nor any mother waiting for me in the next room. And all the fluffy white dresses and silk stockings in the world wouldn't make me Marie. I was really just Mary, and I had got to have three whole months more of it.

And then is when I began to cry. And I cried just as hard as I'd been singing a minute before. I was on the floor with my head in my arms on the piano stool when Father's voice came to me from the doorway.

"Mary, Mary, what in the world does this mean?"

I jumped up and stood "at attention" the way you have to, of course, when fathers speak to you.

"Yes, sir." I tried not to have my voice shake as I said it; but I couldn't quite help that.

"What is the meaning of this, Mary? Why are you crying?"

I shook my head. I didn't want to tell him, of course; so I just stammered out something about being sorry I had disturbed him. Then I edged toward the door to show him that if he would step one side I would get away at once and not bother him any longer.

me to go with him auto-riding. My, how I did want to go! I wanted the ride, of course, but especially I wanted to go because he was Mrs. Mayhew's son. I just wanted to show Mrs. Mayhew! But Aunt Jane wouldn't let me. That's the time she talked, specially about running around with silly boys. But she needn't have. Paul is no silly boy. He's old enough to get a license to drive his own car.

Well, of course, that ended that. And there hasn't been any other since. That's why I say my love story doesn't seem to be getting along very well. Naturally, when it gets noised around town that your Aunt Jane won't let you go anywhere with a young man, or let a young man come to see you, or even walk home with you after the first time—why, the young men aren't going to do very much toward making your daily life into a love story.

TWO WEEKS LATER.

A queer thing happened last night. It was like this:

Yesterday Aunt Jane went to spend the day with her best friend. She said for me not to leave the house, as some member of the family should be there. She told me to sew an hour, weed an hour, dust the house downstairs and upstairs, and read some improving book an hour. The rest of the time I might amuse myself.

Amuse myself! A jolly time I could have all by myself! Even Father wasn't to be home for dinner, so I wouldn't have that excitement. He was out of town, and was not to come home till six o'clock.

It was an awfully hot day. The sun just beat down, and there wasn't a breath of air. By noon I was simply crazy with my stuffy, long-sleeved, high-necked blue gingham dress and my great clumpy shoes. It seemed all of a sudden as if I couldn't stand it—not another minute—not a single minute more—to be Mary, I mean. And suddenly I determined that for a while, just a little while, I'd be Marie again. Why couldn't I? There wasn't anybody going to be there but just myself, all day long.

I ran then upstairs to the guest-room closet where Aunt Jane had made me put all my Marie dresses and things when the Mary ones came.

Well, I got out the very fluffiest, softest white dress there was there, and the little white slippers and the silk stockings that I loved, and the blue silk sash, and the little gold locket and chain that Mother gave me that Aunt Jane wouldn't let me wear.

LAMB MAKES HIGHLY APPETIZING DISH WHEN PROPERLY PREPARED

Five Main Cuts of Lamb Carcass.

Earliest records mention the use of the flesh of sheep for human food, and in a number of European countries it still is the staple meat. In some parts of the United States there is an antipathy probably originated when the sheep of this country were bred mainly for wool production, and the meat was tough and stringy. Many persons today who think they do not like mutton have never tasted it, and many more probably would like it if they ate some that had been properly slaughtered and cooked.

The following recipes for its use are recommended by the office of home economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Braised Leg of Mutton.
1 leg mutton, ¼ cupful mutton drippings or butter.
1 carrot, 1½ teaspoonful salt.
¼ bay leaf, 12 peppercorns.
1 sprig each thyme, 3 cupfuls hot water, and parsley.

Have the leg of mutton boned. Wipe and remove outside papery skin from the meat. If it is present, stuff, sew and place in a deep pan. Cook the onion (sliced), the carrot, and the turnip (cut into dice), bay leaf, thyme and parsley five minutes in the butter or mutton drippings. Add the hot water, salt and peppercorns, and pour the mixture over the mutton. Cook slowly for three hours, with the dish covered except for the last half hour. Make a brown gravy out of the strained broth in which the meat has been cooked.

Stuffing for Braised Leg of Mutton.
The stuffing for the braised leg of mutton is made as follows:
1 cupful cracker ¼ teaspoonful peppercorns, ½ per.
1 tablespoonful ½ teaspoonful poultry-melted butter, ½ teaspoonful onion.
½ teaspoonful salt, ¼ cupful boiling water.

Brown Gravy for Roast Mutton.
In making gravy for roast mutton or any other roast meat, allow ¼ level tablespoonful of fat for each cupful of gravy desired, pouring off any in excess of that amount. To the fat add three tablespoonfuls of flour for each cupful of gravy and cook thoroughly, browning it, but being very careful not to burn it. Add boiling water or broth and boil a short time, stirring constantly. Add salt and pepper. The proportions are two tablespoonfuls of fat, three of flour, and one cupful of water or stock. If the flour is not browned, only two level tablespoonfuls are needed for each cupful.

Currant-Jelly Gravy.
A gravy flavored and made acid with currant jelly is often served with roast mutton. To each cupful of brown gravy made from the fat of roast mutton add a glass or less of currant jelly. The addition of currant jelly is especially suitable when cold mutton is to be warmed up in gravy.

Broiled Loin Chops.
Remove superfluous fat and roll the flank about the tenderloin, fastening it with skewers. Place on a broiler greased with some of the mutton fat. Cook in hot oven six to eight minutes, turning frequently during the first part of the time and reducing the heat as soon as the meat is well seared. A sauce of butter to which a little lemon juice and chopped parsley have been added is sometimes rubbed over the chops. Since the chops themselves contain much fat, lemon juice and parsley only may be used, or the chops may be served on thin slices of lemon. Some people consider onion sauce a great delicacy for serving with broiled chops.

Onion Sauce.
3 large white onions, 1 teaspoonful sugar, ¼ cupful butter, ¼ cupful cream, 1 tablespoonful flour, salt.

Cut the onions into two or three pieces each and cook them for ten minutes in boiling salt water. Strain and cook in a covered saucepan with the butter for about three-quarters of an hour until they are very tender. Press through a puree sieve and reheat. Sprinkle the flour over them, stirring it in thoroughly, and add the seasoning. Bring to the boiling point and heat long enough to cook the flour thoroughly.

SALT IS EFFECTIVE IN SETTING COLORS

Dyes in Various Fabrics Are Not Always Permanent.

Colored Clothes Should Be Washed in Lukewarm Water and Neutral Soap Solution—Should Be Ironed on Wrong Side.

Manufacturers endeavor to set the color of the dyes in their fabrics, but are not always able to fix them permanently. Special treatment before washing will sometimes help, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1099 on home laundering recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. Various chemicals may be used, but some of them are poisonous and for that reason undesirable. Common salt is measurably effective for setting most dyes, but is not likely to have a permanent effect, and the process may need to be repeated whenever the garment is laundered. No special rule can be given as to the amount of salt to use; about one cupful of salt to two gallons of water is a good proportion to try, and more salt may be added until the color stops "bleeding." The color is more likely to be set if the material can be left in the salt water overnight rather than for a shorter time, and if it can be dried before washing. Sometimes salt is put in the final rinsing water in laundering colored goods.

Colored clothes in general should be washed in lukewarm water and neutral soap solution, and the fabric squeezed rather than rubbed, according to the bulletin. Unless the color is fast, no colored clothes should be soaked for any length of time, nor should they be boiled or exposed to too high a temperature in washing, rinsing, starching, or ironing. If the color seems very delicate, very cool water is advisable, and soapbar, bran or cooked starch water should be used instead of soap. With a color likely to fade or run, rapid washing is safest; the material should be wrung as dry as possible and rolled in a cloth to absorb extra moisture; an even safer way is to shake the garment dry. For dark colors it is well to tint the starch; for example, tea may be used for blacks, browns and greens, and bluing for blues, and the specially prepared "mourning" starch for blacks. Colored clothes should be dried in the shade and should not be allowed to freeze. They should be ironed on the wrong side.

TOMATO GOOD FOR CHILDREN

Valuable as Source of Important Ingredient of Diet—Now Recommended for Babies.

One of the easiest ways to be sure of getting sufficient amounts of vitamin C, the scurvy-preventing substance, is to eat tomatoes rather regularly, perhaps every day, or to make it a practice to put tomato juice in some of the dishes that are prepared for the family, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

In many homes it is a comparatively easy matter to eat fairly large quantities of tomatoes, and to have these on hand for use when fresh tomatoes are unobtainable or expensive. The remarkable part about the tomato with relation to this particular vitamin is that it still seems to be efficient in preventing scurvy after it has been heated or dried, which is not true of all foods which possess it in the raw state. This is probably due to the fact that the tomato contains such large amounts of vitamin C that part of it survives the heating process.

So valuable is the tomato as a source of this mysterious and important ingredient of the diet, that physicians now recommend it for babies fed on pasteurized milk, just as they have for some time prescribed orange juice.

If tomato juice is to be given to a child it should be carefully strained in order to eliminate any seed. One-half tablespoon of fresh tomato juice or one tablespoon of canned tomato juice, daily, is a safe allowance.

Cold cereal with cream is an excellent summer dish. . . . Excellent cherry roly poly is made with a biscuit crust. . . . One level tablespoonful of flour will thicken one cupful of liquid for soup. . . . When doing any basting on velvet use sewing silk instead of cotton. This is not so liable to leave traces after the basting are pulled out.

WOMAN COULD NOT WORK

Made Strong and Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a tired, worn-out feeling, and I used to get up with a pain in my head and pains in my lower parts and back. Often I was not able to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it. I feel so well and strong and can do every bit of my work and not a pain in my back now. I recommend your medicine and you can use this letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. PHIL. MASER, 801 Winslow St., St. Paul, Minn.

Just another case where a woman found relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many times these tired, worn-out feelings and pains about the body are from troubles only women have. The Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for just this condition. The good results are noted by the disagreeable symptoms passing away—one after another.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a Woman's Medicine for Women's Ailments. Always reliable.

TO THE VOTERS OF DONLEY COUNTY

The first primary is over and I want to take this early opportunity of thanking the voters of this county for the splendid vote they gave me in Saturday's election. I have made this race cleanly and on my own merits, and as I face the second primary on August 26th I ask the support of my former supporters and others on a platform of faithful performance of the duties of the Sheriff and Tax Collector's office. Asking your kind consideration, I am

Yours very truly,

W. L. Crane,

Candidate for Sheriff and Tax Collector, Donley County.

BIDS WANTED FOR SCHOOL DEPOSITORY

We will accept sealed bids from parties wishing to act as Depository for Hedley Independent District School Funds for the 1922-23 school term.

T. R. Moreman, Chairman
Van Boone, Secretary.

NAZARENE REVIVAL

The revival at the Nazarene Church will begin tonight (Friday) as announced.

Evangelist Balsimier, of Colorado has arrived and will do the preaching. If appearance may be relied upon, he is equipped mentally and physically to give sin and Satan a hard battle, and that is just what he purposes.

Come out to the big tent and hear him. Everybody invited to attend each service and help in the good cause.

The Pastor.

Miss Gladys Parmley has returned to her home in Oklahoma after a few days visit with relatives in Hedley.

How The Master Driver Became Master Tire Builder

IN 1903, driving the "999" racing car, Barney Oldfield started his career of victories that later earned him the title of "Master Driver of The World." To overcome the tire weaknesses that made racing difficult and dangerous, he studied tires—specified materials—supervised construction.

Today, Barney Oldfield is known as the "Master Tire Builder." Starting with the crude tires which carried the "999" one mile in sixty seconds, Oldfield gradually developed his famous Cords—a set of which covered 500 miles at eighty-eight miles an hour without a change.

In three years Oldfield tires have won every important race on American speedways. They are the only American tires that have ever taken first place in the French Grand Prix. They have won for three consecutive years in the 500-mile Indianapolis Sweepstakes. So far in 1922, Oldfields have lowered four World's Records and seven track records.

The Wichita Test Run gave evidence of Oldfield superiority in touring—when a set of four Cords covered 34,525 miles over rutted, frozen, winter roads—a performance attested by the Mayor of Wichita.

See your dealer and get a set of these rugged tires that Barney Oldfield has developed and perfected through a lifetime of practical tire experience. Their performance will convince you that they are "The Most Trustworthy Tires Built."
