KLANSMEN ATTEND BURIAL OF BANKER

Benton G. Smith, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Lelia Lake, died last Saturday of pneumonia, following an illness of only a few days. The following dispatch from Childress to the Amarillo News, gives an account of the funeral at Childress Monday:

"Members of the Ku Klux Klan, wearing robes and hoods, were present at the funeral of Benton G. Smith held here this afternoon. Mr. Smith was a banker at Lelia Lake and died in Larendon Saturday.

Funeral services were conducted by Dr. G. S. Slover, after which the Masonic fraternity held its ritualistic services. Immediately afterward thirty to fifty klansmen, it is estimated, appeared.

Six went to the grave. One stood at the foot of the grave with an American flag and another with a large floral cross at the head. Two more klansmen were on each side of the grave.

Attendance is said to have been one of the largest ever present at a funeral in the lower Panhandle.

FOUND—Little girl's white mitten. Call at J. M. Clarke's Tailor Shop and get it.

Mrs. C. L. Johnson returned a few days ago from a visit to home folk at Snyder, Oklahoma. She was accompanied home by her cousin, Mrs. Jackson, who will visit here a while. Cliff says the lady of the house didn't return any too soon, as he was just about fed up on the results of his own culinary experiments.

I HAVE OPENED MY STALK FIELD, on place 4 1/2 miles north of town, and can pasture a limited number of stock.

WATCH YOUR STEP

Seven years ago a farmer hung his vest on the fence in the barn yard. A calf chewed up the vest, in the pocket of which was a gold watch. Not long ago the animal, an old milk cow, was butchered for beef, and the watch was found to be lodged in such a position between the cow's lungs that the cow's breathing had kept the watch wound up, and the watch had lost but four minutes in seven years—Ex.

MRS. NOEL'S FATHER BURIED AT MEMPHIS

Joseph H. Estes, 75, died at Corpus Christi Saturday. He was a pioneer of Hall county. The remains arrived at Memphis Monday. The funeral was held at First Methodist Church by Rev. J. T. Hicks under the auspices of Masonic Lodge. During the funeral four robed klansmen marched into the church and placed a cross on the casket, remaining one minute for silent prayer.—Memphis dispatch in Star-Telegram.

Mr. Estes was the father of Mrs. J. W. Noel, of Hedley, and the Noel family attended the funeral services. With them and the other bereaved ones the Informer sympathizes deeply.

The Informer, $1.50 a year.

The Informer predicts that 1923 is going to see more improvement in Hedley than any preceding year. With a better school, larger and better playgrounds, improved streets and cleaner alleys, new church additions and parsonages, busy carpenters and painters, several new homes completed already, with the Informer man finding time and energy to write two or three "heavy editorials"—and swipe a few more—times can't help getting better. It's squarely up to every fellow to get on the band wagon or run for cover.

Did it ever occur to you that thinking is the most important thing you do? If not, we are informing you that it is. What does your life—any man's life—consist of? Three things: What you think, what you say, and what you do. And the two last named are governed by the first named. Watch your thoughts.

We hear so much about bad habits, it may slip our minds that there are good habits as well as bad. One of the best habits a man can form, in our opinion, is that of paying his bills promptly. Whether the amount is great or small, meet your obligations when due if possible; if not, then just as soon thereafter as possible. Those who have given the matter no particular thought can have no idea how much difference the payment or non payment of a few bills might make in the life of the community. The following rhyme, under the title of "Business Is Good," will do to illustrate. It is not bad as poetry, but truth is the predominating characteristic:

The farmer sells a load of wheat,
And all the word grows fair and sweet.
He hums a couple of cheerful tunes,
And pays the Grocer for his prunes.
The Grocer, who has had the blues,
Now buys his wife a pair of shoes.
That kale the hoeman thinks God-sent
And runs and pays it on the rent.
Next day the Rent Man hands the bill
To Doctor Carver for a pill.
And Doctor Carver tells his Frau
That business is improving now,
And cheers her up and says: "My dear,
You've been quite feeble for a year,
I'm thinking you should have a rest,
You'd better take a trip out West."
And in a couple of days the Frau
Is on the farm of Joshua Howe.
She pays her board to Farmer Howe,
Who takes her bill and says: "I swear,
Here's something that just can't be beat
This bill's the one I got for wheat."
He hums a couple of cheerful tunes,
And goes and buys a lot more prunes.

Borrowing trouble is perhaps the easiest thing in the world. There are so many who want to get rid of it.

Day by day in every way we are getting no better as fast as we ought to.

It is better to be a poor talker than to be a good one and overdo it.

Claude Farr of Iowa Park will please accept these thanks for a pair of $400.00 dollars sent us first of this week.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas

To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Donley County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon the unknown heirs of John Patton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Hamilton Patton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Mary Bennett, deceased; and the unknown heirs of Nancy Patton, deceased; Pierce Patton, Mary Fesler and husband James Fesler; Vina Fields and husband — Fields, and the unknown heirs of the said Pierce Patton, Mary Fesler and Vina Fields and each of them, deceased, who are alleged to be non-residents and the residences of said unknown heirs is unknown, to appear at the next regular term of the County Court of Donley county, Texas, to be held at the court house thereof in the town of Clarendon, Donley county, Texas, on the 19th day of February, 1923, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 17th day of January, A. D. 1923, in a suit numbered 878 on the docket of said Court wherein Abbie Lee Patton is plaintiff and the unknown heirs of John Patton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Hamilton Patton, deceased; the unknown heirs of Mary Bennett, deceased; and the unknown heirs of Nancy Patton, deceased, Pierce Patton, and his unknown heirs if he be deceased and have heirs; Mary Fesler and her unknown heirs if she be deceased and have heirs, and the said Pierce Patton, Mary Fesler, and Vina Fields, are defendants, the cause of action being alleged as follows: That Abbie H. Patton is dead; that she died in Donley county, Texas, on or about January 11th, 1923, intestate without having made any will, leaving as her heir and her only heir the plaintiff in this cause, and at the time of her death the said Abbie H. Patton was lawfully seized and possessed of the following property: all Lots 17 to 20, both inclusive, in Block 44 of the town of Clarendon, Donley county, Texas, and some money on deposit in her name in the Donley County State Bank, Clarendon, Texas, and further alleging that plaintiff does not know whether any of the defendants be living or dead except those alleged to be dead, and does not know whether any of those dead left heirs, nor the names or residences of such heirs if there be heirs, and further alleging that defendants named, John Patton, Pierce Patton, Hamilton Patton, Mary Bennett, Vina Fields, Mary Fesler, and Nancy Patton —, were the children and only children of David Patton deceased, who died in the state of Illinois in the year 1874, and his first wife; that plaintiff's mother, Abbie H. Patton, was the second wife of said David Patton, deceased and that plaintiff was the only child of said second marriage, and that the property herein described was the separate property and estate of the said Abbie H. Patton deceased, acquired by her with her separate funds and estate, and declaring that plaintiff is her only heir, and entitled to all said estate, and praying for judgment so declaring. And you will summon said defendants by making publication of this citation for four consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in your county.

Herein fall not, but have you before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness Lottie E. Lane, Clerk County Court, Donley County, Texas.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court at office in Clarendon, Donley county, Texas, this January 17, A. D. 1923.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority. Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself. In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant. Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

BUILD POSTS TO STAND BIG PULL

Corner Must Be Constructed to Resist Much Greater Strain Than Other Parts.

WIRE IS STRETCHED TIGHTLY

Device Shown in Illustration is Made of Reinforced Concrete With a Vertical Section—Lumber Forms Necessary.

The corner post of a fence must be constructed to stand a much greater strain than any other part of the fence. Woven wire fencing when properly erected is stretched very tightly; sometimes ordinary woven wire fencing 42 inches high, bears a tension of several thousand pounds. When this tension is transmitted to the corner post from two angles it means that the post has to be unusually solidly anchored if it is to resist the strain. A very substantial type of corner post is shown in the illustration. It is made of reinforced concrete with a vertical section 12 inches square and two wings, each six inches thick, extending in the direction of the two lines of fence which meet at the corner.

A Reinforced Concrete Corner Post.

Forms Are Necessary. To make such a post, forms are necessary and the first step is the excavation to provide room for them. Ordinary one-inch lumber is good for form use in work of this kind, since it can be braced with little difficulty. The forms are put together so that the post, wings and all, is cast in one operation. The reinforcing for the vertical part consists of seven steel rods, nine-sixteenths of an inch in diameter, arranged on the two outside faces of the post at intervals of about three inches, with about one inch space between the bars and the surface. Similar bars extend down through the post and into the lower part of the wings, two bars being used for each wing.

Rich Mixture Used. The concrete mixture used is one part cement, two parts of well-graded sand and three parts of pebbles or broken stone, with no particle larger than one inch in diameter. This is a rather "rich mixture," but since strength is the principal requirement it is the proper one to use. No strain should be put on the post until it has hardened for at least four weeks. During this time it should be thoroughly wetted at least once every day so the concrete may attain its maximum strength.

FIGHT AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Huron County, Ohio, Dairymen Financed Their Own Campaign Against Tuberculosis. In Lyme township, Huron county, Ohio, owners of dairy cattle organized an association through which they financed their own campaign against tuberculosis when state and federal indemnity funds had run out. The members were assessed $2 a head for grades and $4 a head for purebreds, one-fourth being used for organization work and the rest for paying indemnities. The association has tested 83 herds containing 662 cattle, 26 of which reacted. The owners of the reactors received the salvage value of the animals and a straight indemnity of $20 a head for grades. For purebreds the indemnity was doubled. About 85 per cent of the herds in the township were tested.

FEED COWS AS INDIVIDUALS

Trouble Results When an Owner Doesn't Know How to Care for High-Producing Cow. When a high-producing cow falls into the hands of an owner who doesn't know how to feed for milk production, trouble results. The basic principles which govern the feeding of dairy cows are easy to understand and simple to follow. It is necessary to feed the cows as individuals and make certain that the ration is ample to care for the animal's body requirements, and to leave a surplus of nourishment for producing milk. More dairy cows are underfed than are overfed. When the ration is balanced, and composed largely of first quality silage, cases of over-feeding are rare.

SOIL CONDITIONS ON NIGHT TEMPERATURES

Sandy Loams Store Up More Heat During the Day.

Land in Use Should Be Well Drained of Surplus Moisture to Avoid Danger of Formation of Injurious Frosts.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A relation has been shown to exist between the temperature of the soil and the ensuing minimum temperature of the air immediately above, says the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Low night-air temperatures in garden and truck farms may often be prevented by the selection of soil in which there is a sandy component, as sand and sandy loams generally store up more heat during the day than do most other soils and give off more in the night time by conduction to the air above, thus diminishing the probability of critical temperatures and the formation of damaging frosts. The land in use should be well drained of surplus moisture, as wet soils are invariably cold soils and more susceptible to frost damage. Any soil, whether it be sand, loam, or clay, is warmer when it is clean and free from weeds and unnecessary vegetation.

Frost may form on one side of a street and not on the other, or in one section of a level farm and not in another, for one or more of several reasons, such as difference in soils, slight difference in elevation, in moisture, or in kind and extent of surface covering, or the amount of insolation received. Frost may appear in sections which have wet, cold soils covered with heavy vegetation or uncultivated, while on the same night and under the same meteorological conditions it does not form on other ground close by where the soil is relatively dry, warm, and clean.

GATES OPEN AUTOMATICALLY

Device Invented by New Mexico Man Will Open and Close Without Driver Alighting. The Scientific American, in illustrating and describing an invention of D. M. McCauley of Toas, N. M., says: More particularly the invention relates to mechanism for gates, an object being to provide a gate normally positioned across an entrance or railway crossing, which automatically opens to allow an automobile or other vehicle to pass through and automatically closes after the vehicle has passed, without necessitating the driver's alighting. The gate is held by locking means which must be released by the weight of the vehicle, and will resist manual operation.

PAINT WILL HELP MACHINERY

Certain Metal Parts Which Endure Much Longer if Treated—Red Stands Weather Fine. Whether you store your machinery or not, there are certain metal parts, like rods, braces and other pieces, which would endure longer and save many a breakdown if paint were applied to them. A good barn paint will do, and red is a color that stands the weather fine. If another shade is desired to harmonize with other parts or not to be so conspicuous, this color can be toned down or changed. There may be fine cracks in metal that escape the eye, but they take in moisture and rust forms in there. Paint would cover them up safely. Freezing helps to weaken such places when unprotected.

WHY WASHING INJURES EGGS

Pores of Shell Are Sealed With Gelatinous Matter and Water Seems to Dissolve It. To retain the keeping qualities of eggs, do not wash them. The pores of the shell are sealed naturally with a gelatinous substance. Water seems to dissolve this substance allowing air to be admitted through the pores of the shell into the egg. Then decomposition of the egg begins. Washing also has a tendency to harden the shell. This permits too much moisture to escape and this injures the vitality of the egg.

CARE FOR ASPARAGUS BEDS

Cleaned Off and Covered With Manure Plant Starts Off With Rush in the Spring. Asparagus starts off with a rush in spring if beds are carefully cleaned off and covered with a heavy coat of stable manure when winter sets in. The plants will be protected from alternate freezing and thawing that tends to lift the roots out and expose them; and then, too, the nitrates from the manure have time to leach down into the soil ready to be used in the spring.

PROVIDES GOOD HOME FOR SHEEP

Protection From Winds and Dampness First Consideration.

GIVES FRESH AIR IN PLENTY

While Nature is Generous to Sheep in Matter of Winter Coats, Proper Protection in Winter is Essential.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

When it comes to providing her children with warm coats to protect them from the cold of northern winters, nature is most generous, especially with sheep. These animals, more delicate than most, take on a coat in the fall that protects them from the winter weather, but shepherds have discovered that a healthy flock must be provided with shelter against winds and dampness. Before they were domesticated sheep lived in sections where shelter was abundant. Now that man has taken them from their natural surroundings he should provide for their needs. Fresh air—plenty of it—is what sheep need to be healthy. But at the same time they need protection from strong winds and must be sheltered in a building that is dry. These needs are met in the modern sheep barn, a good example of which is shown in the accompanying illustration. It will be noted that one side of the building is open, permitting the sheep to seek shelter when they want it and be free to go outside as they please. The building is set east and west with the open side toward the south. Thus the cold north and west winds and the damp east winds are kept away from the animals. This building is 36 feet wide and 165 feet long. It is of first-class frame construction, set on a concrete foundation, but with a floor of cinders. This floor should be high to provide drainage, so that it will be as dry as possible.

Overhead there is now space for the storage of roughage, while at both ends on the ground floor there are storage rooms in which grain and other feed may be stored. Aside from movable feed racks the first floor is open. In a building such as this the herd will be healthy and comparatively free from ailments that cause trouble when once they get started in the flock.

This sheep barn is an example of what is now being accomplished by farm building architects. Instead of erecting a building the size of which determined by guess, the requirements of the farmer are first carefully considered and the building designed accordingly. This method permits a considerable saving in money, as the building is large enough for the purpose and there is no waste space in it.

Provided with well-drawn plans the contractor puts up the building exactly as the architect designed it. There can be no mistakes in the building when this method is followed, and the owner gets exactly what he bargained for. Also, with plans a pretty definite estimate of the cost of the materials and the work can be secured from the material dealer and the contractor.

Good buildings cost more than flimsy ones, but when their long life the saving of labor in caring for live stock and the health of the animals are considered the cost is justified.

JUST CAME TO HIS MEMORY

And Clergyman Felt That It Was His Duty to Impart Important Information at Once.

The sister of a well-known writer tells an amusing story of the first lesson which she and her brother ever received in Roman history.

Among their most loved and honored guests, during their childhood, was a New York clergyman. At times the conversation turned on history, and the sister remembers that, on one occasion, the clergyman asked the boy and girl if they could give him the names of the First Roman triumvirate. At that period of their existence the name "Caesar" was associated exclusively with an old colored man, whom they often visited, and who lived upon a lonely road in the neighborhood. The children were vastly astonished, therefore, to learn that the name had ever been borne by a more illustrious person than their dusky friend; but they listened entranced to the story of the rivalries of Caesar and Pompey for the empire of the world. Unhappily, the good doctor could not remember the name of the third triumvir, and the lack troubled him greatly. That night, about two o'clock, the girl was startled by a loud knock on her bedroom door, and the doctor called out: "Alice, are you awake?" She replied that she was—as indeed was every one else in the house by that time. "It's Crassus," said the doctor, and then he returned to his room, greatly relieved.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Rice Production Increased.

While Japan does not produce sufficient rice for the needs of her people, who, even after an elaborate banquet, require a bowl or more of their staple food, production has kept pace with the increase of the population. In the early days of the Meiji reign, when the population was 35,000,000, there was 35,000,000 koku of rice produced. This year, with a population of 70,000,000, the crop is estimated at an equal number of koku. The increase in production is due more to improved methods than greater acreage under cultivation.

The Interrupted Story.

As a recommendation of the literary works of a certain popular author may be cited the instance of a man sentenced to electrocution in New York. In the morning he became engrossed in the novel. He hurried his dinner to return to the book, reading rapidly to get to the end of his story before he reached the end of his life. The fatal moment arrived first and as he was led to the execution chamber his keeper told him of the ending incidents of the story.

Made Nickname Famous.

Plato's real name was Aristocles. The name Plato, which is the Latin form of the Greek Platon, meaning broad, was bestowed on him derisively as a nickname, on account of his broad shoulders. But he accepted it, and made it far more famous than his patronymic.

V—Continued.

Dwight mulled this. Lulu might have told every one of these women that cock-and-bull story with which she had come home. It might be all over town. Of course, in that case he could turn Lulu out—should do so, in fact. Still the story would be all over town.

"Dwight," said Lulu, "I want Ninian's address."

"Going to write to him?" Ina cried incredulously.

"I want to ask him for the proofs that Dwight wanted."

"My dear Lulu," Dwight said impatiently, "you are not the one to write. Have you no delicacy?"

Lulu smiled—a strange smile, originating and dying in one corner of her mouth.

"Yes," she said. "So much delicacy that I want to be sure whether I'm married or not."

Dwight cleared his throat with a movement which seemed to use his shoulders for the purpose.

"I myself will take this up with my brother," he said. "I will write to him about it."

Lulu sprang to her feet. "Write to him now!" she cried.

"Really," said Dwight, lifting his brows.

"Now—now!" Lulu said. She moved about, collecting writing materials from their usual lodgments on shelf and table. She set all before him and stood by him. "Write him now," she said again.

"My dear Lulu, don't be absurd."

She said: "Ina, help me. If it was Dwight—and they didn't know whether he had another wife, or not, and you wanted to ask him—oh, don't you see? Help me."

Ina was not yet the woman to cry for justice for its own sake, nor even to stand by another woman. She was primitive, and her instinct was to look to her own male merely.

"Well," she said, "of course. But why not let Dwight do it in his own way? Wouldn't that be better?"

She put it to her sister fairly: Now, no matter what Dwight's way was, wouldn't that be better?"

"Mother!" said Lulu. She looked irresolutely toward her mother. But Mrs. Bett was eating cardamom seeds with exceeding gusto, and Lulu looked away. Caught by the gesture, Mrs. Bett voiced her grievance.

"Lulu," she said. "Set down. Take off your hat, why don't you?"

Lulu turned upon Dwight a quiet face which he had never seen before.

"You write that letter to Ninian," she said, "and you make him tell you so you'll understand. I know he spoke the truth. But I want you to know."

"M—m," said Dwight. "And then I suppose you're going to tell it all over town—as soon as you have the proofs."

"I'm going to tell it all over town," said Lulu, "just as it is—unless you write to him now."

"Lulu!" cried Ina. "Oh, you wouldn't."

"I would," said Lulu. "I will."

Dwight was sobered. This unimagined Lulu looked capable of it. But then he sneered.

"And get turned out of this house, as you would be?"

"Dwight!" cried his Ina. "Oh, you wouldn't!"

"I would," said Dwight. "I will. Lulu knows it."

"I shall tell what I know and then leave your house anyway," said Lulu, "unless you get Ninian's word. And I want you should write him now."

"Leave your mother? And Ina?" he asked.

"Leave everything," said Lulu.

"Oh, Dwight," said Ina, "we can't get along without Lulu." She did not say in what particulars, but Dwight knew.

Dwight looked at Lulu, an upward, sidewise look, with a manner of peering out to see if she meant it. And he saw.

He shrugged, pursed his lips crookedly, rolled his head to signify the inexpressible. "Isn't that like a woman?" he demanded. He rose. "Rather than let you in for a show of temper," he said grandly, "I'd do anything."

He wrote the letter, addressed it, his hand elaborately curved in secrecy about the envelope, pocketed it.

"Ina and I'll walk down with you to mail it," said Lulu.

Dwight hesitated, frowned. His Ina watched him with consulting brows.

"I was going," said Dwight, "to propose a little stroll before bedtime." He roved about the room. "Where's my beautiful straw hat? There's nothing like a brisk walk to induce sound, restful sleep," he told them. He hummed a bar.

"You'll be all right, mother?" Lulu asked.

Mrs. Bett did not look up. "These cardamom hev got a little mite too dry," she said.

In their room, Ina and Dwight discussed the incredible actions of Lulu.

"I saw," said Dwight, "I saw she wasn't herself. I'd do anything to avoid having a scene—you know that." His glance swept a little anxiously his Ina. "You know that, don't you?" he sharply inquired.

"But I really think you ought to have written to Ninian about it," she now dared to say. "It's not a nice position for Lulu."

"Nice? Well, but whom has she got to blame for it?"

"Why, Ninian," said Ina.

Dwight threw out his hands. "Herself," he said. "To tell you the truth, I was perfectly amazed at the way she snapped him up there in that restaurant."

"Why, but, Dwight—"

"Brazen," he said. "Oh, it was brazen."

"It was just fun, in the first place."

"But no really nice woman—" he shook his head.

"Dwight! Lulu is nice. The idea!" He regarded her. "Would you have done that?" he would know.

Under his fond look, she softened, took his homage, accepted everything, was silent.

"Certainly not," he said. "Lulu's tastes are not fine like yours. I should never think of you as sisters."

"She's awfully good," Ina said, feebly. Fifteen years of married life behind her—but this was sweet and she could not resist.

"She has excellent qualities." He admitted it. "But look at the position she's in—married to a man who tells her he has another wife in order to get free. Now, no really nice woman—"

"No really nice man—" Ina did say that much.

"Ah," said Dwight, "but you could never be in such a position. No, no. Lulu is sadly lacking somewhere."

Ina sighed, threw back her head, caught her lower lip with her upper, as might be in a hem. "What if it was Di?" she supposed.

"Di!" Dwight's look rebuked his wife. "Di," he said, "was born with ladylike feelings."

It was not yet ten o'clock. Bobby Larkin was permitted to stay until ten. From the veranda came the indistinguishable murmur of those young voices.

"Bobby," Di was saying within that murmur, "Bobby, you don't kiss me as if you really wanted to kiss me, tonight."

September.

The office of Dwight Herbert Deacon, Dentist, Gold Work a Specialty (sic) in black lettering, and Justice of the Peace in gold, was above a store which had been occupied by one unlucky tenant after another, and had suffered long periods of vacancy when ladies' aid societies served lunches there, under great white signs, badly lettered. Some months of disuse were now broken by the news that the store had been let to a music man. A music man, what on earth was that? Warbleton inquired.

The music man arrived. Installed three pianos, and filled his window with sheet music, as sung by many ladies who swung in hammocks or keyed their hands on the music covers. While he was still moving in, Dwight Herbert Deacon wandered downstairs and stood informally in the door of the new store. The music man, a pleasant-faced chap of thirty-odd, was rubbing at the face of a piano.

"Hello, there!" he said. "Can I sell you an upright?"

"If I can take it out in pulling your teeth, you can," Dwight replied. "Or," said he, "I might marry you free, either one."

On this their friendship began. Thenceforth, when business was dull, the idle hours of both men were beguiled with idle gossip.

"How the dickens did you think of pianos for a line?" Dwight asked him once. "Now, my father was a dentist, so I came by it natural—never entered my head to be anything else. But pianos—"

The music man—his name was Nell Cornish—threw up his chin in a boyish fashion, and said he'd be figured if he knew. All up and down the Warbleton main street, the chances are that the answer would sound the same. "I'm studying law when I get the chance," said Cornish, as one who makes a bid to be thought of more highly.

"I see," said Dwight, respectfully dwelling on the verb.

Later on, Cornish confided more to Dwight: He was to come by a little inheritance some day—not much, but something. Yes, it made a man feel a certain confidence. . . .

"Don't it?" said Dwight, heartily, as if he knew.

Every one liked Cornish. He told funny stories, and he never compared Warbleton save to its advantage. So at last Dwight said tentatively at lunch:

"What if I brought that Nell Cornish up for supper one of these nights?"

"Oh, Dwightie, do," said Ina. "If there's a man in town, let's know it."

"What if I brought him up tonight?" Up went Ina's eyebrows. Tonight!

"Scalloped potatoes and meat loaf and sauce and bread and butter," Lulu contributed.

Cornish came to supper. He was what is known in Warbleton as dapper. This Ina saw as she emerged on the veranda in response to Dwight's informal halloo on his way upstairs. She herself was in white muslin, now much too snug, and a blue ribbon. To her greeting his guest replied in that engaging shyness which is not awkwardness. He moved in some pleasant web of gentleness and friendliness.

They asked him the usual questions, and he replied, rocking all the time with a faint undulating motion of head and shoulders: Warbleton was one of the prettiest little towns that he had ever seen. He liked the people—they seemed different. He was sure to like the place, already liked it. Lulu came to the door in Ninian's thin black-and-white gown. She shook hands with the stranger, not looking at him, and said, "Come to supper, all." Monna was already in her place, singing under-breath. Mrs. Bett, after hovering in the kitchen door, entered; but they forgot to introduce her.

MEAT AND VEGETABLE COMBINATIONS

Club Women and Girls Encouraged to Develop Unusual Packs of Meat and Vegetables

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
In order to use materials which grow in their own vicinity, club women and girls in the South have been encouraged to develop unusual packs of meat and vegetable or fish and vegetable combinations, in which they can incorporate home-grown garden products according to standard recipes available from the United States Department of Agriculture. Particular attention has been given to the development of dishes characteristic of certain districts or states and popular locally, which would at the same time permit the use of surplus meats and vegetables. By using recipes calling for veal or in which veal could take the place of other meats, surplus dairy calves, too expensive to feed, could be profitably disposed of. The same has been the case with cull chickens and surplus vegetables. Some of the canned "one-piece meals" taught to the club girls by extension agents are "Dixie burgoo," originating in Kentucky; "pine bark fish stew" from South Carolina; "Brunswick stew," coming from Virginia; chicken, crab and shrimp "gumbos" of Louisiana, also "shrimp jambalaya," and several combinations of vegetables with chicken, used in Oklahoma. They are put up wherever the necessary ingredients can be obtained locally. In many cases the club girls must maintain gardens to grow the vegetables they expect to can.

The home demonstration club of Pinellas county, Florida, recently reported that in one day's "canning bee" the club members had prepared 12 different products, not one of which competed with the ordinary cannery output. A South Carolina woman reported that during nine months following the first meat-canning demonstration in her district she had put up 1,000 cans of meat and vegetable combinations, and had orders for 1,000 more.

I look upon the simple and childlike virtues of veracity and honesty as the root of all that is sublime in character.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

THE WHOLESOME PARSNIP

This good vegetable is far from being appreciated as it should be, and it is said that the fall and early winter is the best time to eat it, but it is more generally in the market in early spring or late winter.
The people in Scotland prepare parsnips by cooking them with potatoes, serving them with butter and milk, making what is called a "cottage dish."
The parsnip is rich in sugar and mineral salts, which makes it a desirable vegetable.
The parsnip is usually scrubbed, and when it is to be fried, cooked in boiling water, then skinned, cut in halves and fried in butter until brown. Some cooks cook the parsnip in acidulated water before frying to remove some of the flavor, though that to many is the chief charm of the vegetable. In almost all cases it is best to boil the parsnip before further cooking.
Parsnip Patties.—Boil four parsnips until tender, remove the skin and mash, seasoning well with butter, salt and pepper; form into flat cakes, roll in flour and fry in a small amount of fat until brown on both sides.
Fried Parsnips.—Cook the desired number of parsnips until tender in boiling acidulated water; drain, remove the skin and cut into halves. Fry a golden brown in pork fat and serve with pork chops or bacon.
The vegetables may be creamed, prepared as soup, or served as fritters. The latter is one of the most liked methods of serving. Cook the parsnips, mash after removing the skin, season well, mold in a teaspoon and drop into fritter batter and fry a golden brown in deep fat.
Buttered Parsnips.—Cook two good-sized parsnips in boiling salted water after peeling and slicing; when tender, drain and sprinkle with flour and salt and pepper, then fry in a hot well-buttered pan.
Cream of Parsnip Soup.—Scrub the parsnips well and cook in a small amount of water; save this liquid, add milk, salt and cayenne. Thicken with a tablespoonful of flour and butter cooked together and serve very hot with croutons.
Luncheon Dish.—Take one cupful of cooked rice, one-half cupful of diced cooked parsnips, one cupful of tomatoes, one green pepper finely chopped after removing the seeds and fiber and one cupful of finely-chopped and fried bacon. Season and put into a well-buttered baking dish. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake one-half hour.

Give me to struggle with weather and wind,
Give me to stride through the snow;
Give me the feel of the chill on my cheeks,
And the glow and the glory within.
IN ONION THERE'S STRENGTH
The great objection which we have to the onion is its odor, for it belongs to the lily family. Those who pride themselves upon their pedigree will have more tolerance for the humble bulb when they remember it is close cousin to the beautiful Easter lily as well as the calla and others.
As a vegetable the onion may be served in various ways—as a seasoning for dishes it has no equal. A most attractive looking and at the same time wholesome dish is:
Stuffed Baked Onions.—Choose large-sized, uniform, sound onions. Peel them and cook until soft enough to cut out the centers. Chop them and reserve for other dishes or use to mix with the filling to go back into the cavity. Highly seasoned sausage meat is well liked for filling, so are nuts and bread crumbs, also finely chopped green peppers which have been parboiled. There are any number of fillings which will add variety to this dish. Place in a baking dish, baste with stock or butter and water while cooking; when the onions are soft, but not mushy, sprinkle with buttered crumbs, brown under the gas flame and serve at once as a garnish to a platter of pork chops, or if stuffed with meat or nuts they will make the main dish.
To obtain onion juice to be used where the vegetable itself is not cared for, cut a slice from the end and turn the cut surface back and forth on the grater near the groove; the juice will run down the groove, adding the delicate flavor as desired.
Onion Sandwiches.—Chop fine a slice of Bermuda onion, mix with salt, pepper, a little dry mustard and spread on buttered bread.
Onion Relish.—Take one large grated onion, one-half cupful of celery; grind the celery, one teaspoonful of mustard, ten drops of tobacco sauce, one teaspoonful each of salt and celery seed, the yolks of four eggs well beaten and blended with the salt and mustard, two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, twenty capers, one-fourth of a cupful of vinegar. Serve with fish or game—fine with venison.

Give me to struggle with weather and wind,
Give me to stride through the snow;
Give me the feel of the chill on my cheeks,
And the glow and the glory within.

POVERTY IN BRITISH CAPITAL

Returned Traveler Tells of Pathetic Cases to Be Seen on the Streets of London.

"We may have unemployment, strikes and dull times," said a man just returned from Europe the other day, "but we know nothing of the poverty common in European cities. I have noticed a curious practice in London, even in the best streets, which is significant. If you step into a taxi in London and the door slips out of your hand and swings open, there will always be someone to dart out of the crowd on the pavement and close it for you. In America one would merely say 'Thanks' or nod his head for this favor. The Londoner will instantly throw a penny to the man who shuts the door. The penny will be accepted and the recipient touches his cap in acknowledgement.
"The point is that in any street crowd in London, even in the best streets, there always seems to be someone on the lookout to earn a penny, often a man who shows signs of having known better days."

His Appellation.

A kindly old soul asked the seven children of an acquaintance to tea. The youngsters' ages ranged from three years to fourteen. As they streamed into her drawing room, her brain reeled, and their Christian names failed her.
"And which one are you, dear?" she asked a solemn boy of seven, helplessly.
"Me?" said he, importantly. "I'm the one with the spectacles."

Little Texas Baby's Bowels Torn to Pieces

Mrs. Myrtle Mae Calvert, of R. F. D. No. 5, Winnsboro, Texas, uses a very common expression to explain the miserable condition of her little nine-month-old Elsie, at the time she first gave her Teethina.
"But now, you would never know my baby had ever had a sick day," she declared. "Teethina is simply wonderful. Elsie began to get better right after taking it and she hasn't had a bit of trouble since. She is happy as can be, growing every day and eating like a little pig. I always keep Teethina on hand because it's the only thing to use when a baby is upset."

Tuberculosis Reduces Average Life.
According to recent statistics prepared by the National Tuberculosis association, two and one-half years would be added to the life of each individual in the United States if tuberculosis were eliminated as a cause of death. During the past 17 years the death rate from the disease has been reduced exactly one-half, but there are still more than 1,000,000 cases of tuberculosis in the country. Tuberculosis workers, encouraged by the results of their efforts, are planning a more intensive campaign for the coming year in order to spread further education regarding the disease among the public, as it is their conviction that it can in time be entirely eradicated.

FAMILY FOOD NEEDS
HARD TO DETERMINE

Farmer in Field Requires More Than the Office Man.

Important to Acquire Liking for All Kinds of Wholesome Dishes and Eating Reasonable Amount Without Being Greedy.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is very hard for a housekeeper to know exactly how much of each of the food substances or nutrients her family needs or exactly how much of each she is giving them. The exact amount each person needs depends upon age, sex, size, and amount of work done with the muscles. An elderly person, or one of quiet habits, needs less food than a vigorous, young one; a large person more than a small one; a man more than a woman; grown persons more than children; and a farmer in the hayfield, a mechanic, or a football player more than a man who sits at his desk all day.
In order to calculate exactly how much starch, sugar, fat, protein, etc. (or what is equivalent to this, how much protein and energy the family needs, one would have to know exactly how much muscular work each member performs, how much of the different nutrients each food contains, and how much each person eats. This, of course, would mean a great deal of figuring. Fortunately, such exactness is not necessary in ordinary life. If a little too much or too little of one nutrient is provided at a single meal or on a single day a healthy body does not suffer, because it has ways of storing a surplus and of using its stored material in an emergency. The danger would come if the diet taken week in and week out too always provided too much or too little of some one nutrient. Against this danger the housekeeper can more easily protect her family.

Habit and custom help greatly, because they usually are based on what the experience of generations has proved is wise and healthful, though, of course, there are bad habits and outgrown customs in food as in everything else. Good food habits include more than cleanliness and order in everything that has to do with food and meals and leisurely ways of eating. Equally important are a liking for all kinds of wholesome foods, even if they have not always been used in one's home or neighborhood, and eating reasonable amounts without being either too greedy or overalinty. Every effort should be made to train children in good food habits. If older persons have not learned them, they, too, should try to do so, for such things are very important, not only to health, but also to economy. To refuse to eat some wholesome dish simply because one is not accustomed to it may prevent the use of some very desirable and economical food. To feel that there is any virtue in providing more food than is needed shows poor taste as well as poor economy, say household specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

CEREALS MADE STAPLE DIET

Available Almost Everywhere, Easy to Store and Transport and Are Quite Cheap.

Cereals and cereal preparations are the staple of the diet the world over because they are available almost everywhere, are easy to store and transport, and are relatively cheap, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Cereal foods provide protein and energy in about the proportions needed by the body. Their protein is, however, of such kind that it needs to be supplemented by that of meat, poultry, fish, eggs, milk and cheese. When made from the whole grains, cereal foods also supply some mineral substances and vitamins. A diet containing large proportions of refined cereal foods must be supplemented by plenty of dairy products, vegetables, and fruits. The various kinds of cereals used in the diet differ little in fuel value; rice, wheat flour, and cornmeal, for example, all yield about 1,000 calories to the pound.

CROQUETTES ARE NUTRITIOUS

Made of Potato and Cheese They Are Easy to Prepare for Supper and Luncheon.

For a supper or lunch dish that is different, easy to prepare and serve, and really nutritious, the United States Department of Agriculture recommends the following:
1 cupful cottage cheese 1/2 teaspoonful salt
2 tablespoonfuls of Dash of cayenne
chopped parsley Dash of paprika
1 rounding tea-spoonful chopped green pepper.
Mix these ingredients very thoroughly and form into rolls. Then imbibe the rolls in mashed potatoes which have been seasoned with salt and pepper, forming a larger roll of each. Roll the finished croquettes in egg and bread crumbs and fry in a pan containing about one tablespoonful of fat, or brush with melted fat and brown in a hot oven.

Household Questions

Plenty of kitchen utensils are needed for successful work.
Mildew will disappear if you rub the spot well with good laundry soap.
To make fritters smooth use a teaspoonful of vegetable oil when mixing the batter.
When using barley in soup boil the barley separately for 10 minutes before plunging into the soup.
Over hot turnips pour butter, creamed and seasoned with salt, pepper and lemon juice.
Left-over cooked potatoes must not be piled together, as they sour quickly. Spread them on a large dish.
You can minimize odor and steam in your kitchen by having a hood suspended over the range connected with a flue in the chimney.

Hedley School Notes

SENIOR NOTES

Mary Noel was absent Monday because of the death of her grandfather. We extend sympathy.

Ruby Duckett spent the week end at McKnight, at the home of Vera DeBord.

Gladys Cloninger entertained the small children at her home Monday afternoon, in celebration of her small sister's birthday.

Mr. Biggers was conducting the Senior geometry class when Mr. Weaver came in.

"It has been a long time since anything new in geometry has been discovered," Mr. Biggers was saying.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Biggers," said Mr. Weaver, "I discovered something new in geometry just a short while ago."

"You did?" asked Mr. Biggers; "what was it?"

"This class," answered Mr. Weaver.

Leola Luttrell spent the week end with her home folk in Windy Valley.

Edith Mann spent the week end at her home at Naylor.

Mai Johnson and Inez Blankenship spent the week end at Goodnight, with the latter's home folk.

The Seniors are feeling the results of a prolonged siege of "Hamlet."

JUNIOR JOTS

Gladys Peninger has been out of school for several days.

Frank Painter and Jack Youree are back in school this week.

Discovered: A debater in our midst! Guess who!

Wednesday of last week we were feeling fine, therefore we decided to play a joke on the English teacher. When class time came and she called for our themes on "Ethical Teachings of Bryant's Poems," we had all lost ours—except a few who would not stick with us. The tables were turned, however, when those who did not hand in papers were told to remain after school.

Map season has begun. Watch those outlined sheets of paper as if by magic change to beautiful maps under the skillful touch of the Juniors.

Pat O'Hair is carrying a fractured wrist in a sling this week. We understand falling, when attempting to step from a running car, is the cause of the injury.

The "Junior Culprits," who sit in the northeast corner of the Junior and Senior room, have at last found a suitable name. Because they sit on the back seats, they are never caught for their clever acting.

SOPH SPECIALS

J. N. Kendall was absent from school Monday.

Granville Koger has been absent several days. We hope he will return soon.

Faye Culwell was absent several days last week.

Claude Simmons was absent Monday afternoon and Tuesday.

Sarah Hayes failed to answer to the roll call Tuesday.

If there is anyone in Hedley that wants to know anything about the Sophomore class, we invite him down to hear us recite our lessons and examine our work. We are a class of "hopefuls" with a bright future. Watch us as, step by step, we climb upward.

Our motto is: "All work and no play make Jack a dull boy."

NOTICE!! The Sophs now maintain a "Bureau of Information." When in doubt, remember to consult this new addition.

FRESHMAN NEWS

There is a new system of grades now in use. Since it is the office of the Freshmen to decide the weighty problems in school, these grades shall be:

A—awful
E—exciting
F—fine
P—perfect
M—mighty good.

It is thought R. A. Shaw will be found with a much larger "vocabulary" this week than usual, as he has been seen looking at the pictures in the dictionary.

We are glad to see Velma Raney back at school after being absent Friday on account of sickness.

The Freshmen have been growing in stature as well as in knowledge the last few days. Under the instructions of Mr. Weaver we have been taking a few minutes of physiology period for exercise.

ATHLETICS

Hedley High School was honored again with victory when the basket ball team defeated Wellington. Although handicapped with the loss of two of the best players—Shaw and Clifton—the home boys won a slow game by a score of 10 to 4. Clyde Hill was the outstanding player of the game.

Games with Lelia Lake and Clarendon for county championship, will be played in the next few days.

GINNING NOTICE

We expect to make the last run of the season next Saturday, January 27th.

Let all concerned take due notice, as we want to clean up everything and wind up the season at that time.

DISHMAN GIN.

R. W. Scales left Monday evening for his Terry county ranch, after spending several days at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Adamson have gone to Divide, Colorado, to spend two or three months. One of their daughters, Mrs. Weber, resides there.

We appreciate a subscription check sent in this week by Mrs. Bond W. Johnson, of Houston.

L. McMillan of Childress has been here several days visiting at the R. R. Mobley home.

Miss Gladys Parmley is here on a visit to relatives.

B. L. Lewis places his name on our mailing list this week. Thanks.

Arthur and Roy Bell were in Clarendon Saturday on business.

S. S. and J. R. Adamson were in Clarendon Friday.

Miss Naomi Allison visited home folk in Clarendon Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Ray Warren and little son were Clarendon visitors last Sunday.

Mrs. J. D. Shaw left Friday of last week for Sweetwater to visit a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Culwell went to Clarendon Friday to have some dental work done.

BRAY ITEMS

Sunday School is growing in interest as well as in numbers. The two hours spent each Sunday afternoon in Sunday School and League are hours that could not be used in a better way. If you have not been attending, come next Sunday afternoon, and be your own judge of the matter.

The party at the Wright home Wednesday of last week was enjoyed by all present. Thanks to the Wrights.

Mrs. Nipper visited in the M. L. Monroe home near Hedley Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Last Sunday afternoon Miss Bonnie Taylor and Mr. Vernon Davis were married. The community wishes for Bonnie and "Bender" a life full of happiness, health and prosperity.

The young people surprised Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge by gathering at their home last Saturday night for a few hours "fun." The fun was found and will long be remembered.

Cor.

SPENT $750.00 TO NO AVAIL WITH DOCTORS

Ware's Baby Powder Relieved His Baby of Intestinal Indigestion in 48 Hours Cured in a Few Days

Geo. W. Thomas, prominent citizen of Shreveport, La., wrote us July 28, 1913, of this experience with his baby boy: "Eight years ago my baby boy, then three months old, was in constant pain, crying continuously, suffering from intestinal indigestion, and after spending $750.00 with the doctors, I got a box of Ware's Baby Powder, and in 48 hours my baby was relieved and in a few days was entirely well."

What a Home, La., Mother Says About It

Mrs. Aladore Ficus, 803 East Park Ave., Houma, La., writes us March 30, 1922, as follows: "Please send me twenty (20) boxes of your Ware's Baby Powder by parcel post, c. o. d. I have used your baby powder in my own home and many of my friends want your Ware's Baby Powder because they have seen what it did in my home. One of my children weighed 134 pounds before he began using your Baby Powder, before two months had passed he had gained nine pounds; and today he weighs 294 pounds and is in perfect health."

For over forty years, Ware's Baby Powder—the prescription of Dr. James Ware, famous old Southern physician—has been a healing boon to babies for bowel troubles, teething and summer complaints, etc. Keep the stomach and bowels in a healthy condition and you need have no fear of these distressing troubles so general among babies especially during the teething period. Perfectly harmless, mixed according to directions, in a teaspoonful of Ware's Baby Powder, a half teaspoonful of sugar, add enough water to make four doses; children love to take it. At your drug store, in 50¢ and $1.00 packages. Prepared in the laboratories of The Ware Chemical Co., Dallas, Texas.
