AGOGAS-BEREANS

The Agoga and Berean Sunday School classes of the First Baptist church met in a joint class meeting Tuesday evening, March 6, at the home of Prof. Biggers. In connection with our business meeting, we had a little program, which was as follows:

Song—All of us.
Scripture reading, Psalm 19—Jimmy Hays
Prayer—Alva Hullum.
Bating the Catholics at Their Own Game—Walter Ginn.
How God Answers Prayer—Bill Johnson.
Piano solo—Mrs Biggers.
Mighty Achievements for Christ in Brazil—Cypbel Cook
Poem, "Help a Fellow"—Mr. Biggers.
Piano solo—Mrs. Biggers.

After the close of the business session and program, we proceeded to have a little fun. We played a very interesting game entitled "Follow Directions," which resulted in each of us finding a lovely souvenir—a gift of our present teacher and past teacher, Mrs Y F Walker. After that, we sang a number of good old songs, among them being "When I'm Gone You'll Soon Forget Me," "Let the Rest of the World Go By," and others. Then Mrs Biggers served some of the best refreshments we have ever tasted.

Twenty of us were there, all full of pep, ready to go, and "rearin' to step."

Our meetings hereafter will be on Tuesday night following the first Sunday in each month. Places to be determined later.

Everybody reported a fine time, except the absentees, and they—oh, well, they just ought to have been there, for we had lots of fun, were royally "fed and watered," and then bade a hearty goodnight.

One of Them.

Mr. and Mrs Ed Kinslow left Tuesday evening for a visit to Fort Worth.

BARRED PLYMOUTH ROCK EGGS, 50c per setting, 30c per dozen. Mrs Claude Hill.

Ed Dishman made a business trip to Dallas the past week.

LOST—Fountain pen, gold band around top, and silver tip. Return to Miss Mai McFarling

Rev Y F Walker returned first of the week from a visit to Lockney.

FOR SALE—Work mules, 3 to 5 years old Milk cows, all good ones. Big lot of kafir heads, good stuff, price $26 50 at the rick. Pure bred White Leghorn Eggs, Ferris strain $4 per 100 All cash W. A. Tomlinson, 2 1/2 miles north of Lelia Lake. Clarendon Phone

LITTLE KENNETH JACKSON

Kenneth, infant son of Mr. and Mrs M M Jackson, passed away last Sunday, after several days illness of pneumonia. After a short sojourn on this earth little Kenneth is now safe in the arms of Jesus, in the land that is fairer than day.

The Informer joins the entire community in expressions of deep sympathy to the sorrowing parents and other loved ones.

FOR SALE—About 80 tons of kafir heads, hand headed, $26 50 at the rick, 3 miles northeast of Lelia Lake, on the Wellington road. C. C Carter.

CAPTURES A COUGAR

Bert Ayers came in from his Windy Valley ranch Tuesday with the carcass of a "varmint" draped over the hood of his car. Quite a crowd viewed the specimen, which Mr Ayers told us was a cougar. The editor, after getting a good look, was willing to call it a lion and let it go at that. Mr Ayers and his dogs ran the animal down after a two hour chase.

FOR SALE—Good cured kafir corn heads, $26 00 per ton at the stack. Seven miles northwest of Hedley. John Waldron.

MCKNIGHT ITEMS

Written for last week

The recent rains have caused the long faces of the farmers to vanish, and they have gone to preparing the land for a bumper crop.

We are glad to see all the children return to school, after a long siege of flu and chicken pox.

A fine girl was born Feb 25th to Mr. and Mrs R L Lamberson.

Uncle Bill Crow has been thinking of getting a radio, but someone has told him that the radio is the prince and power of the air, and Uncle Bill says if that is so he will have nothing to do with them.

Mr. Brown moved in from Hedley last week and has taken charge of the blacksmith shop.

Amos Wall of Lake Creek is visiting the family of R. L. Lamberson this week.

By the order of the High Priest, Paul and Barnabus went up and brought Balaam down to the Synagogue and made him fall at the feet of Gamalliel and beg his pardon for taking some of Gamalliel's athletes to his arena and causing them to ride some of his—Bar mules.

Lige Mace passed through Mc Knight yesterday en route to Calhoun's place, where he expects to do some ditching.

Curtis Pierce has installed a radio in his house, and is now listening to the news from the world.

DECLARES TANLAC "IS BEST OF ALL"

St. Paul Woman Says Stomach Trouble Is Gone and She Has Gained 10 Pounds.

"Tanlac has meant health and happiness to me, and I think it has no equal," declared Mrs. Albert Kapitz, highly-respected resident of 29 E. 10th St., St. Paul, Minn.

"I was so terribly run down my housework seemed like a mountain to me, and lots of times I had to give up and rest. I was nervous, weak, and had splitting headaches and awful dizzy spells. My stomach was so badly out of order almost everything I ate would sour and I suffered terribly from gas, heartburn and a distressing smothering feeling. I could not sleep nights, my back ached terribly, I lost weight till my clothes didn't fit, and was in a generally wretched condition.

"But now I get real joy out of caring for my house. Since taking Tanlac I have gained ten pounds, never have indigestion and all my aches and pains are gone. I take pleasure in recommending Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. — And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

Doing good is the one certain happy action of a man or woman.

A FEELING OF SECURITY

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

MANY WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

Through the Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Two Interesting Cases

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the common ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Mrs. Edwards Avoids Operation

Wilson, N. C.—"For about a year I was not able to do anything, not even my housework, because of the pains in my sides and the bearing-down pains. I could only lie around the house. The doctor said nothing but an operation would help me, but I tried different medicines which did Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetacidester of Salicylicacid.—Advertisement.

Mother Used Teethina for Twenty Years

"When my baby was six days old," writes Mrs. L. D. Powell, of Barbersville, Fla., "he began crying with colic, which he had for three months. My mother, who had used Teethina twenty years, advised me to give it to my baby. I did so and he soon got all right and at five months weighed 25 pounds. He is now so big and fat that everybody admires him."

Colic is caused by indigestion and is often the result of overloading baby's stomach with too much food. Teethina soon relieves this condition, keeps the baby well and insures a healthy growth and a good disposition.

Teethina is sold by all druggists, or send 30c to the Moffett Laboratories and get a package of Teethina and a wonderful free booklet about Baby.—Advertisement.

"Cascarets" 10c

For Sluggish Liver or Constipated Bowels

Clean your bowels! Feel fine! When you feel sick, dizzy, upset, when your head is dull or aching, or your stomach is sour or gassy, just take one or two Cascarets to relieve constipation. No gripping—nice laxative-cathartic on earth for grown-ups and children. 10c a box. Taste like candy.—Advertisement.

Styles in Undergarments; Street Hats for Spring

IF THE replenishing of undergarments, which is stressed in the shops with the beginning of the year, is not yet completed Lent gives an opportunity to housewives to finish up the work. Styles are important and are established. Buying has shown that radium and crepe de chine are the preferred silks, batiste and triple voile favored cottons and pastel colors as much in demand as white. One may choose what are called "tailored" styles as distinguished from lace trimmed garments, the former employing drawn work, stitchery, pin tucks, French knots and a little embroidery for their adornment.

PRETTY ENVELOPE CHEMISE

Some very handsome garments are made entirely of small squares of crepe de chine or radium silk, set together with narrow hand-made lace. Fine crochet insertions may be used in this way, but good val lace contincloth and novelty weaves in lightweight, brilliant materials. They are shown in black and in colors, among them beautiful brown, blue, reseda and henna shades and also rich color combinations in which the Paisley or cashmere inspiration appears.

A pretty mushroom shape with brim curving upward at the front leads off in the group pictured. It is of novelty hair-cloth faced with crepe de chine and trimmed with grapes that tone into it. It is handsome in any of the fashionable colors, "strawberry," "blue-bell," brown, reseda or in which a smart bunch of burnt peacock springs. A charming development of the poke is trimmed with very wide ribbon and an ornament. It has a strong French accent. A turban at the lower left contents itself with two soft quills and a pretty ribbon trim and next to it a modified Breton employs wider ribbon lavishly, folded into points and set about the crown.

Pink, orchid, china blue and Nile green appear, just now, to be the colors that rival white in the esteem of womankind, but in this matter of color they have a wayward fancy that is apt to wander to any of the pastel tones. Fine cottons as well as silks, are shown in colors and ribbons play an important part in beautifying underthings. They are made up into pretty ornaments, bows, rosettes or flowers and provided with snap fasteners so that they can be snapped on.

Winter Find You Tired and Achy?

DOES winter find you miserable with an aching back? Do you get up lame and stiff—lag through the day tired, weak and depressed? Do you know why you are so run down?

There's good reason for your condition and likely it's weak kidneys. Winter's colds and chills throw a heavy burden on the kidneys. The kidneys fall behind and poisons accumulate. It's little wonder, then, that you suffer backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and bladder irregularities.

Don't risk serious kidney disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills before it is too late. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Good Folks:

R. K. Willis, carpenter, 800 Exposition Ave., Dallas, Tex., says: "My back became so lame I could hardly stoop to pick up anything. It was weak and ached considerably, too. My kidneys acted too freely and nights I had to get up several times to pass the highly colored kidney secretions. I heard Doan's Kidney Pills were good for kidney trouble, so I started to use them. One box regulated the action of my kidneys and fixed my back up in fine shape."

Mrs. C. W. Kennedy, 1101 N. Dallas St., Ennis, Tex., says: "A cold settled on my kidneys. My back pained steadily and I also suffered from headaches and dizzy spells and black specks seemed to float in front of my eyes and blurred my sight. My kidneys acted irregularly. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills helping other people and thought they might help me. I got a box. The relief I had from this remedy was gratifying and my faith is high."

DYED HER SKIRT, DRESS, SWEATER AND DRAPERIES WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint her worn, shabby dresses, skirts, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, draperies, hangings, everything, even if she has never dyed before. Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is sure because Diamond Dyes are guaranteed not to spot, fade, streak, or run. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.—Advertisement.

MOTHER, YOUR CHILD'S BOWELS NEED "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Taste and it Never Fails to Empty Little Bowels

If your child is listless, full of cold, has colic, or if the stomach is sour, breath bad, tongue coated, a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" will quickly start liver and bowel action. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the constipation poison, sour bile and waste right out and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today may save a sick child tomorrow. It never cramps or overacts. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

CONSTIPATION

Take a good dose of Carter's Little Liver Pills—then take 2 or 3 for a few nights after. They cleanse your system of all waste matter and regulate your bowels. Mild—as easy to take as sugar. Genuine bear signature—Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Donley County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded that you summon L. S. Reeves by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be one published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear before me, S. J. Ayer, Justice of the Peace of Justice Precinct Number Three of Donley county Texas, at a regular term of the Justice's Court for said Precinct No. 3, in said county of Donley, to be held at my office in the town of Hedley, in the county of Donley, on the 5th day of March, A. D. 1923, to answer the suit of J. L. Lamberson and Clark Latimer, plaintiffs, against L. S. Reeves, defendant, being numbered 73 on the docket of said court, the plaintiffs' demand being for the sum of Eighty three and 45 100 dollars ($83 45) due as follows, to wit: $59 95 principal, interest and attorney's fees now due on a certain note in the principal sum of $100 00, dated July 19, 1922, due December 1, 1922, bearing interest at the rate of ten per cent and containing usual attorneys fee clause, said note bearing credit of $50 00; also $23 00, the balance due on a verified account for work done and performed by plaintiffs for defendant at defendant's request; Plaintiffs allege said sum of $83 45 to be due and unpaid and ask for citation, judgment for debt, interest, attorneys fee, and costs, and for relief, general and special, etc.

Herein fail not, and of this writ make due return to the next regular term of the Justice's court for Precinct No. 3 in said county of Donley, to be held on the 5th day of March A. D. 1923, next.

Given under my hand this 24th day of February, A. D. 1923.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

DO NOT LOSE HOPE

FREQUENTLY, when the days seem darkest and troubles roll in upon you like the storming waves of the sea, trying their best to overwhelm you, sunny-faced Hope is hovering near ready to rescue you at your bidding.

Thousands of weary souls on the threshold of discouragement, about to yield to the crushing weight of their burdens, have at the last moment resolutely resolved to stand up and make a new fight.

This resolution is perhaps the most trying hour of their lives, marking the turning point in their careers.

They found a new courage which carried them on and on, carrying them safely through their hardest battles, where they fought inch by inch until the shout of victory stirred their hearts, warmed their blood and cleared their vision.

From doubting Thomases they became sanguine Pauls, filled with the spirit of faith.

They saw new visions and dreamed new dreams.

They had strength of their own instead of that borrowed from others, which through adversity they soon learned how to use to advantage.

Such are the men and women who today are making a better world for all mankind.

There is nothing too big for them to undertake, no load too heavy for them to carry, no troublesome hills over which they cannot blaze an easy path for the less confident to follow.

Leaders in their chosen fields of labor, they take part in the boldest and noblest adventures, never growing weary of well-doing, never declining by the wayside, never declining to lend a helping hand to the earnest, struggling in their first effort.

They think, plan, organize, achieve and create, while those without hope, hesitate, draw back, afraid to step up in the clearer, invigorating air and wage the battle with alert brains, hard, sinewy arms, and hearts unafraid.

They turn stubborn difficulties into willing servants, surmount impending obstacles, write their names on the eternal skies, and call lustily to the new generations to gird their armor, accept Hope as their captain until the end of their days.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because —

By ETHEL E. PEYSER

You get to your job early and stay late?

Haven't you often given these laughs the excuse that you "Get up early, anyhow," that "you like to get down before the crowds," "that you like the office when it's quiet?"

Haven't they said that you "wanted to be teacher's pet," that you were trying to get "in strong?" Haven't you hated their taunts?

Suppose all these things that you tell them are true, why not tell them the rest?

No one ever amounted to a row of beans that doesn't like his job well enough to come early and stay late. The time clock never yet ticked off a successful man or woman. Working on tick often interrupts a timeless bit of work. Let them laugh; it is a jolly accompaniment to your successful flight!

SO

Your get-away here is: Fail and the World neglects you; Succeed, and you never lack for company!

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

OPPORTUNITY

IF YOU picked up a diamond in a rough you would probably toss it away again. Without training, you would not know that it was a diamond.

Every day you pass by, unnoticed, opportunities that other men instantly recognize and bend to their own uses.

Your neglect of them is not your fault. Without special training you cannot be expected to recognize opportunity.

For many years people regarded anthracite coal as useless black stone—too soft for building material, too hard for fuel.

By accident somebody discovered that in a proper stove it would burn better than bituminous coal, and make no smoke. And from that day it became a valuable commodity.

Don't expect opportunity to come up and introduce itself. Don't expect it even to knock at your door.

You must learn to look for it. You must learn to see in some particular position a chance for advancement that other positions lack, although they pay far better wages.

You must learn to see in some calling an interest that will enlist your enthusiasm.

To do this is not easy. It takes training and thought.

The training you can get in schools and out of books, and by consulting others who have had experience.

The thought must originate in your brain and operate there. Nobody can do your thinking for you.

SCHOOL DAYS

The men who get important places, and hold them, are the men who are not only searching for opportunity, but who have learned to recognize it when they see it.

You cannot be even a lucky gold hunter unless you know where the gold is likely to be, and what it looks like in the quartz or gold-bearing sand.

And opportunity, which is far finer gold than any that is buried in the earth, is still harder to recognize, although it is not fortunately anything like so rare.

STRETCH OUT YOUR HAND

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

SOMETIMES think we think too much

That men are evil, women wrong
The rich dishonest riches clutch
And have no love of smile or song—
For I have found that all along
The way of life the roses bloom,
That men are kind and women good
And there is much of brotherhood
To ease the load and light the gloom:

How hard the hill, how dark the night
However toll my limbs would tire
I always found a candle light
That led me to a waiting fire—
However great their own desire,
Men had the heart to think of mine
Some word of brotherhood to say
To keep my feet upon the way,
To set beside the road a sign.

Believe that men are good, believe
That women all are sweet and fair.
The world will comfort when you grieve
And when you sorrow it will care.
That there is kindness everywhere;
But, brotherhood to understand,
To find new courage when you fear,
The song to lift, the smile to cheer,
You must at least stretch out your hand.

The husband's sin remains on the threshold—the wife's enters the house

Mother's Cook Book

Let me live in a house by the side of the road.
Where the race of men go by,
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong.
Wise, foolish; so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorners' seat
Or hurl a cynic's ban?
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man. —Foss.

SIMPLE GOOD THINGS

BEFORE the chestnuts are all gone prepare a few delicious dishes using a few cooked chestnuts.

Chestnut, Raisin and Apple Salad.
Take one cupful of seeded raisins, two cupfuls of boiled chestnuts, two cupfuls of apple, one-half cupful of large grapes and one-half cupful of French dressing. Cover the raisins with half of the dressing and let stand an hour. Mix the chestnuts (peeled of their brown skins) and diced apple with the rest of the dressing. Cut the grapes in half, remove the seeds and add to the other ingredients. Serve on shredded lettuce leaves.

Date and Coconut Sweets.
Take two cupfuls of dates, after stoning, one cupful of grated coconut, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Put the dates through a meat chopper, add the salt and three-quarters of a cupful of the coconut, and the lemon juice. Mix the ingredients well; then form into round balls and roll in the remainder of the coconut and the sugar.

Fruit Sweets.
Take one cupful each of figs, seeded raisins and dates, put through a meat chopper, add one tablespoonful of lemon juice and two of orange juice, with a pinch of salt. Mix well, take a small portion and form into a small oblong, roll in sugar and press half a walnut in the top; place in a dish dusted with sugar.

Whipped Cream Cake.
A simple, easy cake to make and serve, and one which the whole family will enjoy is this: Prepare a plain layer cake batter and bake in two tins. Whip a cupful of heavy cream until stiff, add three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Spread over a layer and put on the second. Cover the top with the cream and garnish with candied cherries.

DAIRY DAIRY

SUGGESTIONS ON DAIRY CALF

Great Care and Attention is Necessary to Raise Animal Successfully on Skim Milk.

In dairying the farmer should raise his own calves. Many farmers are not successful in raising them on skim milk.

The calf should nurse its mother for the first few days, after which it should be removed and fed by hand.

Gradually substitute skim milk for whole milk, increasing the former until the whole milk is entirely replaced.

PUMPKIN SEEDS NUTRITIOUS Mistaken Idea to Think That Material Will Increase Kidney Secretions in Cows.

There is a tradition among some farmers that pumpkin seeds increase kidney secretions, tend to dry up cows, and therefore should not be fed.

CAREFULLY WATCH ALL COWS Animal Losing Flesh Rapidly Probably Needs More Feed, or More Balanced Ration.

Watch the cows. The animal that loses flesh rapidly probably needs more feed, or a more perfectly balanced ration.

Lacking in Cow Ration. It is a well-known fact that lime and phosphorus are the ash conditions that are frequently lacking in the ration of the average dairy cow.

Keep Quarters Clean. Dairy cattle quarters must be kept clean and the manure removed daily from the stalls.

DO NOT LOSE HOPE

FREQUENTLY, when the days seem darkest and troubles roll in upon you like the storming waves of the sea, trying their best to overwhelm you, sunny-faced Hope is hovering near ready to rescue you at your bidding.

Thousands of weary souls on the threshold of discouragement, about to yield to the crushing weight of their burdens, have at the last moment resolutely resolved to stand up and make a new fight.

This resolution is perhaps the most trying hour of their lives, marking the turning point in their careers.

They found a new courage which carried them on and on, carrying them safely through their hardest battles, where they fought inch by inch until the shout of victory stirred their hearts, warmed their blood and cleared their vision.

From doubting Thomases they became sanguine Pauls, filled with the spirit of faith.

They saw new visions and dreamed new dreams.

They had strength of their own instead of that borrowed from others, which through adversity they soon learned how to use to advantage.

JUNIOR JOTS

The Juniors were very excited Tuesday morning when Miss Trapp did not appear in school. We were afraid Dan Cupid had visited the school again, but we are certainly proud to have her back.

Condron Hicks has been absent from school a few days. We, the Juniors, are suffering some more memory work. It seems like memory work is "all the style."

Little J. R. seemed puzzled over his story book. At last he inquired: "Mama, did they used to applaud when people went to jail?"

"Not that I know of, darling why?"

"Well, it says here, 'They were clapped into prison.'"

Gert: "I hear that the men are going to wear suits to match their hair this next year."

Alice: "Mercy! what shall the bald headed men do?"

SOPH SPECIALS

Alice: Are you taking Tania?
Faye: No; who's teaching it?

Leonard: "Oh, yes, I saw you out riding with a young man who appeared to have only one arm."

Lois: "Oh, don't you get excited. The other arm was some where around."

We are requested to write all jokes on tissue paper, so the editor can see through them.

FRESH "KNUZ"

Joe: "Miss Trapp hasn't slept any in ten days."

Everyone wondered and asked why.

Joe: "She sleeps at night."

The Freshmen class went on a picnic Thursday of last week. We went to the Dalton springs, four miles south of town. Soon "Fish" were scattered all over the hills and around the spring.

After supper we enjoyed a marshmallow toast. A very pleasant time was had by all, and those who didn't go missed half their lives!

Eleanor Helner was our teacher Tuesday, as Miss Trapp made a business trip to Memphis.

Mr. Biggers: "Why was your nose put where it is?"

Leldon: "Because God intended for it to be there."

Mr. Biggers: "No, it is the center piece."

R. A. Shaw has been on the sick list the last few days.

Lester Bowman, from Nocona has enrolled in the Freshman class.

Mr. Biggers: "Why is it when you hunt for anything it is always the last thing you find?"

Syphel: "I don't know, but it always is."

Mr. B: "Because you quit looking when you find it."

PREP CHARACTER SKETCHES

Of all the class there is not one who is not out and out for fun. But when the bell calls them to work none of them their lessons shirk.

In all there are sixteen girls. Some with straight hair, some with curls; There are a great many boys— Without them there would be few joys.

Will Allen is the "go-lucky" man. When there's pleasure he takes his stand; Francis and Alice are both in one.

Neither is lank unless she's having fun; Jewell is lank and very lean, And she is noted for being mean;

Jim, as a known general rule, is always late getting to school; Theopal is always having her fun. Laughing, joking, and teasing someone; Alice Cloninger, the little ass, is always giggling in English class; There-a is good and never is mean. And she says things that sure are keen; Letha is nervous when there is strife, When she sharpens her pencil she uses Therol's knife;

Edith is nice and would never think of hurting

An innocent boy's feelings when she is flirting;

Allie Mae is always getting up and talking.

And forever and eternally somebody mocking;

Tom always likes to laugh and play, And after school he has to stay;

Herman is usually known as "Runt," But in his classes he is near the front;

Preston is always reading "Whiz Bangs" He usually stops when the teacher's hand whangs;

Myrtle has curls and is a little fat, She is kind and thoughtful, please remember that;

Oleta is small and very frisky, When she is mean she is pretty risky,

Alma, Thelma, Lily, and Thelma—now comers four,

But in spite of that we welcome them more;

Norvel sits on the very back seat, His funny sayings are hard to beat;

Modelle is good, but very mischievous, If we don't watch her, she will tease us;

Homer Peninger does his best, But he make low on every test;

Therol, as you know, is very tall, He has to stoop to go through the hall;

Olson likes to read interesting books, And doesn't seem to mind his good looks;

Homer Simmons, the little lad, Is always getting in bad;

Charlie and Charles, so they say, Idle many a merry hour away;

Winfield, James and Virgil are very good And study their lessons as good boys should;

Carlton is noted for his big feet, He cannot keep them under his seat;

Hugh likes to aggravate the girls, Step on their toes and pull their curls;

Grady walks pretty far to school, But not to study, as a rule;

Daniel, Delbert, Ollie and Franze are quiet boys

Who in their silence gain many joys; Miss Cannedy is very quiet and meek,

And gives us a test almost every week; Mr. Weaver is not very tall,

But he certainly can coach basket ball.

BRAY ITEMS

The good rain was greatly enjoyed by every one, especially those with early gardens planted.

Little Alpha Ellen Wright was very ill last week. We are glad to report that she is doing nicely now and will soon be well again. Mrs. Valma Blahm left Monday morning for Quanah. Mrs. Kyser has been visiting a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Bain, near Hedley.

Prof. Reeves enjoyed a week end in Jericho and Clarendon.

Despite the weather conditions a Saturday night, several enjoyed an entertainment at the McHilde home. It was raining so about 12 o'clock that many were afraid they would be compelled to remain all night. The intense darkness forced all to exercise the senses of touch and hearing in finding their way home. Nevertheless, thanks to the McBrides.

Mr. Wright received a telegram Tuesday that his father, of Bridgeport, was dying. The community sympathizes with Mr. Wright in his bereavement.

The boys basketball and baseball teams of Bray school have not lost a game played this season. The last victory was won over Ring last Friday afternoon.

Clyde Bain of Naylor visited Clarence Hill Saturday night and Sunday.

There was no Sunday School Sunday afternoon on account of the rain. The clouds cleared away so that there could be stringing. If you reside in this community, it is YOU that is wanted to come to all the services at Bray, and to do your part as each of them.

THE AWFUL MESS OF AIMEE AND BILLY

Alexander's eyes became keener. He looked a little contemptuous. "Are you afraid?" he said. "Do you not see that you must face the consequences of this foolish thing you have done? Once the truth is told, you have nothing to fear from the police."

"The police?" said Aimee scornfully. "I'm not afraid of the police. I'm not much afraid of Aunt Erythea. It isn't that at all. It's—the other thing."

"What other thing?"

Aimee looked at him with growing embarrassment.

"Oh!" she said at last, desperately. "I've got to put it in so many words? My staying at Ivy Cottage! Didn't you understand what I told you? I was there—two nights."

Mr. Lambe, to her surprise, did not look forbidding or censorious. Instead, he looked a little puzzled. And in that moment Aimee conceived a liking for Alexander.

"Now that I have seen you, and heard your story," he said, "I attach no importance to that incident, whatever."

"Ah," said Aimee sadly, "but other people will, you see."

Alexander suddenly flushed crimson, and he avoided Aimee's eye. But his face grew peculiarly grim.

"I have only this to say. That man—that Spencer—who dared to expose you to such a situation, is the culprit I wish to see. He deserves—"

Aimee's heel smote the floor.

"Not a word against Billy! It's he who saved me, right from the beginning. He begged me to let him own up. But he has kept my secret, at his own risk, because I wanted it kept. He is a gentleman!"

"Billy," said Aimee, "this is my Cousin Alexander. And he's—he knows all about it. It seems this is our finish, Billy."

The two men turned and faced each other.

There you have it in a nutshell—the awful mess that Aimee and Billy have got into. For Aimee is a bishop's daughter and a nice girl—they don't make 'em nicer. And Cousin Alexander is a young churchman—and churchmen are obliged to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. And Aimee is masquerading as a servant maid, and is mixed up in a burglary and is gallivanting around with an unknown American, Billy Spencer, who has a new kind of motorcycle to sell. Incidentally, Billy is as nice as they make 'em, too. It's an English story, but it's bright as a new American dollar. And entertaining! and thrilling!

Sidney Gowing is the author. He's a comparatively new man, but he's already made an international reputation. He certainly has written a good story here, which deserves its name—"The Joy of Living."

CHAPTER I

"I can't go, dad," said Aimee desperately, "and I won't!"

"My answer, my dear Aimee," said Lord Scroope firmly yet benignly, "is that you must go, and you shall!"

"A month of Aunt Erythea," said Aimee in stifled tones, "would kill me. Why are these things always piled on to me? I'm fed up!"

The Very Rev. Viscount Scroope, archdeacon and incumbent of the living of Scroope Magna, gazed dreamily over his daughter's head without appearing to hear her. A sunbeam filtered through the diamond panes, illumining his silver hair and finely cut features. It was as though the sunbeam said: "Behold a saint; here is one who hears and speaks no evil." A saint Lord Scroope undoubtedly was; calm, benign and immovable as granite.

"My dear child," he said gently, "let us admit the cold light of reason. You can have no genuine objection to your Aunt Erythea, for you have never set eyes on her since you were three years old. Jervaux abbey is a well-appointed and strictly ordered house. It is an atmosphere which will correct, I hope, the influence of that deplorable school from which we have removed you. You must go. Aunt Erythea desires that you shall go. And that, as you will realize when you make her acquaintance, is final."

The Hon. Aimee Scroope's vividly lovely face became still more mutinous and desperate.

"And do not suppose that you will lack youthful society," added Lord Scroope, smiling. "Your cousin, Alexander Lambe, is at Jervaux. A little older than yourself, doubtless, but an excellent companion for you. A young man wholly devoted to good work, and with unexceptionable connections, he will doubtless attain that eminence which his aunt would wish for him."

Aimee looked at her father with intense suspicion. Then she turned to the photograph of a young man in a clerical collar; the face was pleasant but somewhat serious, with large, frank, round eyes. The face that Aimee made at it was hideous.

"Go and tell your maid to pack, dear child," said Lord Scroope gently, patting her head. Aimee was twenty years of age, and stood five feet six, but her father contrived to have the air of patting somebody about three feet high.

Aimee said something inarticulate, and made a bee-line for a rose-pink boudoir where Lady Scroope, blonde, petite and wholly charming, was buttoning her gloves. Amid pink surroundings, Lady Scroope looked little older than her daughter.

"Mummy," said Aimee forcibly, "you'll have to throw me a rope. I have simply not to be rescued from young man. I've seen his photograph. His face—"

"It's the face," said Aimee fiercely, "of a cold boiled codfish! I've seen it—I've seen it! It made me feel as if my shoes were full of water!"

"Aimee!" said Georgina plaintively. "You appal me!"

"Good thing! Then you know how I feel!" retorted Aimee pettily. "The whole thing appals me. These curates! I'm fed up with them! Alexander is the limit!"

Aimee paused for breath.

"He's a frump!" she said, with extraordinary vehemence.

"He is good!" insisted Georgina. "That is a good man's face, if ever I saw one. And," added Georgina, with a rapt expression on her plump features, "he will fall in love with you, Aimee. I'm sure of it! And what that happens—"

"Oh, you make me sick!" said the frenzied Aimee. "It's a disease with you! Sentiment revolts me. This mauling about love—"

"Aimee," said Georgina almost tearfully, "your very name means 'Beloved'!"

"Oh, rats!" said Aimee furiously, and fled from the room.

CHAPTER II

Escape.

In the deepest depression, Aimee wandered down the park avenue towards the high road. She passed through the lodge gates and turned the corner of the road.

There Aimee halted, and considered the perversity of Fate. And close beside her barked a sharp explosion, with a flash of yellow flame and a whiff of pungent smoke. And a clear voice exclaimed:

"H—!"

"Just what I was thinking!" said Aimee.

A young man, who was tinkering a motorcycle, whence came the explosion, looked up startled, and removed his cap.

"Oh! I'm sorry!" he said. "I didn't know there was anyone around."

They looked at each other, and both laughed. It was impossible to look at the stranger and fail to laugh. Not in derision, but joyously, spontaneously, as one laughs when the breeze heels the boat, or when a puppy dog falls head over tail.

When the motorcyclist grinned, his teeth were so white that they gave the effect of a flash. His fair and rather tousled hair caught the sun. His head looked as if it might be rammed through a door, without damaging anything except the door-panel. He was big built, and about twenty-five, but his bright blue eyes might have belonged to a boy of sixteen. He wore dusty blue overalls.

"That's better!" he said approvingly, as Aimee laughed again. "You were looking as if you felt pretty low."

"I was. Everybody has been appalling! Talking sentiment till I feel sticky all over."

The stranger's face fell.

"Gee! That's too bad! Sentiment, eh?" He made a gesture as if warding a loving hand on the tank of the motorcycle—"to sell this."

"Weird-looking thing!" said Aimee, with interest, for the cycle's engine was of a remarkable shape. "Yours?"

"Mine!" said the stranger joyously. "Alone I did it. I hold the patent. It's a Sankatowzer—the Flying Sphinx!"

"Ripping name. Can it fly?"

"Can it fly? It devours space like the sunbeams lick up the mists of the mornin'! And no more noise than a baby's whisper."

"Around the world in thirty winks. When once astride the Flying Sphinx!"

"It's got Sinbad's Carpet an' the Seven-league Boots guessing." He threw a leg over the saddle. "Like a spin up the road? Jump up behind!"

Aimee immediately perched herself on the carrier. There was a whirlwind charm about the stranger that carried her away. The next moment the Flying Sphinx did the same. The wind whistled past Aimee's ears. To keep her seat she was obliged to grab Billy suddenly round the waist.

"Don't mind if I hold you?" she gasped.

"Shucks!" said Billy impatiently. "I don't care how you hold me, s'long as you don't hit the grit!"

They breasted the crest of the rise.

"Hang tight now!" he cried. "We'll let her out!"

The Sphinx went forward with the whirl of a shell. She peeled the roadway behind her like a running tape. Aimee felt the roar of the wind rise to a scream. Billy leaned lightly forward towards the handle-bars, cool, effortless, efficient.

Aimee was only conscious of being whirled gloriously through space, when the Sphinx, after a two-mile loop, slid back to the spot whence she had started. Aimee sprang from the carrier.

"Oh, thank you!" she gasped. "That was too good to be true!"

The cyclist, without dismounting, looked at her glowing face and frank eyes.

"I wish there were more like you," he said, laughing. "Tell 'em—whatever they are—to can the sentiment. S'long, an' good luck to you!"

He raised his cap, and next moment the Sphinx whirled him away in a cloud of golden dust. Aimee followed him with her eyes till he was round the bend, then she turned back into the park. It seemed to her that the sunlight had become less vivid and the sky paler.

Very slowly, Aimee made her way back to the portals of Scroope Towers, where the heavy family car, laden with luggage, stood waiting. Georgina was on the steps, abundantly wrapped up, and Lord Scroope stood beside her.

"Grundle," he said to the chauffeur, "you will drop Miss Berners at the station and take Miss Aimee on to Jervaux, returning her direct."

The chauffeur, who was a middle-aged man with a singularly wooden expression, seemed to be making a mental effort. He saluted, staring straight before him.

"Goodby, Georgina! Bless you, my child; bless you! Drive on, Grundle. What are you waiting for?"

The car meandered out of Scroope park and turned northward along the main road. Georgina was in low spirits. Aimee throughout had been seething with an enormously increased sense of mutiny, and, as they neared the station, she exploded.

"I can't stand it, Georgie!"

"I wish I were you!" said Georgina mournfully.

"Eh?"

"I wish I were Aimee Scroope, and on my way to Jervaux abbey. That's all."

Aimee started slightly. An extraordinary impish expression came into her eyes. Georgina, who knew the sign of old, looked at her nervously.

"You are!" said Aimee, in a voice of unlooked-for decision.

"What on earth do you mean?"

Aimee gripped her by the arm, and replied, in a low voice that bubbled with excitement.

"My dear, fat cousin, your full name, as I remember, is Georgina Amy Scroope Berners! Lop off the superfluous head and tail, and there you are—Amy Scroope. Near enough for anyone. You are going to Jervaux instead of me! Aunt Erythea has never seen me, nor has Alexander Lambe. And neither of them know you from Adam—I mean Eve! You'll suit them down to the ground!"

Georgina looked at her with dawning terror.

"It is a gorgeous arrangement!" exclaimed Aimee, tightening her grip on her cousin's arm. "And nothing easier. Uncle Joseph will never miss you—leave me to fix that up. Grundle will deliver you at Jervaux; he's a perfect super-idiot, and has probably forgotten which of us is to go there, if we didn't tell him. He never talks either. As for me, I shall go to Seabridge, or on a walking tour—or anything I choose!"

"Aimee, are you mad?"

"It is one of the sanest moments of my life!" retorted Aimee; and, leaning over her back, she tore the tags-labels off her luggage and Georgina's and scattered them on the road. "You can take my things with you!"

"If you think for a moment I'd have anything to do with such a business—" A fiendish expression came over Aimee's features. She gripped her cousin's arms again.

"If you don't," she hissed, "I'll tell everybody about you and Aloysius Blennerhasset getting lost at the rural-decantal picnic!"

At this monstrous accusation, Georgina blushed scarlet. The mildest peccadillo in a blameless life, the memory of the incident in question always filled her with alarm; Aimee had held it over her head before.

"I won't listen to another word!" she gasped.

"You needn't. It is the time for deeds!" Aimee seized a small square box from among the luggage and thumped the chauffeur on the back. "Grundle, stop here! I have only a bag, I'll walk up to the station approach. Take Miss Berners on to Jervaux. And hurry—she is behind time already!"

A faintly bewildered expression passed over the chauffeur's face, as though he were trying to arrange his luggage. "There is—there is a mistake! May I—"

"The modern tendency of the young to enunciate indistinctly," said Lady Erythea, producing an ear-trumpet, "always annoys me. Say what you have to say clearly."

Georgina had not realized that Lady Erythea was extremely deaf.

"There is something I have to explain," she bawled hoarsely into the ear-trumpet. "P-please, can I see you alone?"

"Ah!" said Lady Erythea vaguely. "I am pleased that you look forward so much to your visit. No, you need not fear being alone. Here is your cousin," she added, as a young man in clerical collar came out upon the steps. "Alexander, your cousin, Aimee."

Georgina turned a pale and timid face to the stranger. The Rev. and Hon. Alexander Lambe bowed.

Alexander was large and well, though somewhat loosely built. Aimee's epithet, "owli-faced," was hardly fair. Certainly his clean-shaven face was a little serious, and his eyes large and round, but very kindly.

"Welcome to Jervaux, Cousin Aimee," he said.

A sudden interest and sympathy quickened in the large eyes as they rested on Georgina's face. And the panic-stricken girl's fear died within her. Mr. Alexander Lambe looked so cool and protective and dependable.

"Escort your cousin to the morning room, Alexander," said Lady Erythea authoritatively, "and offer her refreshment after her drive."

They walked in together. And as they walked their backs seemed to suggest, in some subtle manner, that an understanding, a mutual sympathy, had dawned between them. Backs can be very expressive sometimes.

Lady Erythea regarded them with a look of commanding approval. She followed them majestically up the steps.

"This," proclaimed Lady Erythea's erect and overwhelming back, "is as I ordained it from the beginning."

CHAPTER III

Re-Enter Billy.

Aimee tramped along the broad highway, whistling. At Scroope, much more at Jervaux, one was not allowed to whistle. Ever and anon she stopped whistling to laugh.

Aimee had dropped the square box into a quarry pit an hour before and continued on her way unburdened. The idea of finding lodgings at Seabridge appealed to her. She had funds enough. A month's pocket money was in her purse, and Lady Scroope had been liberal on her departure.

"What a row there'll be," chuckled Aimee, "if Georgie doesn't play up! I don't care. I gave them my mitatum. They can't hang me. I've been very patient with them all. One must make a stand sometime or other. Who does my life belong to," demanded Aimee, never a purist in grammar, "if not to me?"

A faint sound was borne upon the breeze, a noise that attuned itself curiously to Aimee's thoughts. It was like the buzz of a homing bee. She looked up, and saw a motorcycle speeding along the road with a smear of following dust behind it like the tail of a comet. Aimee recognized the Flying Sphinx, and became aware of a laughing face looking up at hers, and a set of very white teeth.

"Why, it's Billy!" she cried spontaneously.

"Hello, old chap!" cried the cyclist. Billy was bare-headed, his fair hair sticking up at the crown in a little tuft that blew about in the wind.

"Where were you making for?" he said.

"The unemployment bureau!" retorted Aimee flippantly.

Billy's face expressed concern.

"I suppose you're gying me. You don't mean you've lost your job?"

"Job?" Aimee bubbled with amusement. "Well, I had a job all ready for me this morning. But it's washed out. I've lost it. And now I'm adrift."

Billy was perplexed. He had been wholly unable to place Aimee. He wondered if she were a governess. A question was on his lips, but he checked himself for fear of giving offense.

"Lost it?" he exclaimed. "I guess it's just as well! You look a heap happier! What job d'you think of chasin'?"

"I—I don't know."

Billy looked at her eagerly. A sudden flash came into his eyes, as one who conceives a superb idea.

"Will a duck swim!" cried Aimee. "Of course I'll come."

ideas. He rubbed his ear for a moment, then saluted and let in the clutch.

Georgina, who had risen with the intention of escaping from the car, lost her balance and collapsed in a slightly undignified manner on the seat.

She struggled up and turned a flushed face towards her cousin.

"Stop! Stop!" she cried, in an agonized voice. "Aimee—"

"Good-by, dear!" said Aimee, waving her handkerchief. "Don't get lost with Alexander!"

The car bore the speechless and gestulating Georgina out of sight round the bend. Aimee sat down on her box, buried her face in her hands, and dissolved into such unfeeling laughter that a pair of thrushes and a chaffinch fled from the hedge in indignation and alarm.

Onward through the green lanes and over the county border the car carried a limp and nerveless Georgina. Consternation had given away to numb despair.

"What shall I do?" she thought. "What am I to say to Lady Erythea? There'll be a fearful row!"

Georgina racked her brains for a way out of the difficulty. There seemed to be none. She lay back exhausted. And so perverse is even the purest of human minds that a faint suggestion crept into Georgina's—a little whisper, as it were, in that blameless ear—that it would be peculiarly delightful if she could fill the role that Aimee had mapped out for her.

Georgina started, and thrust the idea from her with horrified self-reproach. Again she sought for an explanation—a true one—which would save Aimee's face. By the time she had considered and rejected half a dozen, finally deciding on one that she thought might do, the car had covered the thirty miles and was threatening through the park road of Jervaux.

Georgina stumbled out of the car at the main entrance and faced a gaunt and majestic lady in gray silk who came down the steps.

"And so, my dear Aimee," said Lady Erythea, in a large and informative voice, "you arrive at last. Welcome!"

Georgina faltered. Everything she had intended to say was driven out of her head. Aimee had been prophetic—Aunt Erythea was very like the duke of Wellington.

"Lady Erythea!" gasped Georgina, as two men—servants came to unload ing off invisible assailants. "Sentiment is poison ivy! It gives me that tired feeling. Madam, accept my sympathy."

In the space of a moment they felt as though they had known each other for years.

"Do you live anywhere about here?" said Aimee. "I seem to have seen—"

"Here? About seven thousand miles west-by-south of here!" said the stranger, laughing. "Cobalt, Arapahoe county. Citizen of the world—answer to the name of 'Billy.' And I'm here in England," he added, lay-
