HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Hedley Home Economics Club held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Methodist church basement. Owing to unfavorable weather conditions, only ten members were present.

The program was given as published in last week's paper, and was enjoyed very much by those present.

The Club was pleased to have with us our new County Demonstration Agent, Miss Williams. She made a very favorable impression, and we feel sure that our year's work with her will prove both pleasant and profitable.

A full attendance is urged at our next meeting, June 20th. Reporter.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express to the people of Giles and Hedley our thanks for and appreciation of their kindness and tender sympathy in our sorrow at the death of our beloved brother, Clay Akers.

His Sisters.

SUPERINTENDENT ELECTED FOR HEDLEY SCHOOLS

Prof Snider, from Bluffdale, Erath county, will be Superintendent of Hedley Public Schools the coming year. We are informed by a member of the School Board. He was elected at a meeting of the Board held last Monday evening.

It is our understanding that Supt Biggers has made plans to spend the coming year in West Texas State Normal College at Canyon.

No information has been given out yet as to the other members of next year's faculty.

SOME CHANGES MADE IN DENVER SCHEDULE

Some slight changes have been made in the Fort Worth & Denver passenger schedule, the four passenger trains now arriving in Hedley as follows:

Northbound

No. 1, at 6:35 p. m.

No. 7, at 9:52 a. m.

Southbound

No. 2, at 9:15 a. m.

No. 8, at 8:50 p. m.

HEDLEY BOYS WIN IN LIVESTOCK JUDGING

Saturday, May 12th, County Agent Hart's assembled his Club boys from over the county for an elimination contest in Livestock Judging. R O Dunkle, Gray county agent, and Mr. Walker, teacher at Kings Mills, had eight boys in the contest.

The county agent was assisted by these two men, John R. Edmonds, the district agent, L. M. Thompson, Hall county agent, and Mr. Thomas, teacher at Goldston. The boys met in the District court room in Clarendon at 10 a. m. and were assigned numbers and groups. From here they went to Lott's wagon yard, where classes of Hereford cows, Jersey cows and brood sows had been arranged. Each boy was allowed fifteen minutes to place each class. This work was completed about 11:30.

At 12:30 they assembled at the Baptist church to partake of a wonderful luncheon, consisting of ham sandwiches, potato salad, stuffed eggs, pie and iced tea. This had been prepared by Miss Williams, the Home Demonstration Agent, assisted by Mesdames J. Goldston, Mann, Anderson, Spitzer, Morgan, and Miss Vena Grant. Misses Helen Goldston, Lillian Powell, Opal Jones, Nina Grant, Clara Risley, Mable Eichelberger, Willie Mae Moreland and Lillian Elliott served the luncheon and gave us their club song and the purpose of Girls Club work. With Miss Willie Mae Moreland they toasted Donley County, The Club Boys, Commissioners Court and Judge Bain with both song and yell. Judge Bain responded with a speech filled with good advice for both boys and girls. He was followed by short talks from Messrs. Edmonds, Thompson and Dunkle. The County Agent expressed his appreciation to the ladies for their cooperation.

The boys then returned to the court house to give their reasons. The grade was 50 points on placing and 50 points on reasons, making a total of 800 points. The following were the four high boys for Donley county:

Homer Simmons, Hedley, 1st, 256

Richard Morris, Clarendon, 2nd, 242.

Winfield Mosley, Hedley, 3rd, 235.

Charles Everett, Hedley, 4th, 234.

Gray county boys:

Shelby Gantz, Kings Mills, 1st 253

Hallie Gantz, Kings Mills, and Roscoe Morgan, McLean, tied for 2nd, 240.

Bruce Cobb, McLean, 4th 239

These boys will be given some intensive work along this line by their county agents, and three selected to represent their county at the District Meet at Childress June 9th.

Remember! Community Fair Mass Meeting on next Saturday, May 19th.

Declares Tanlac Overcame Rheumatism and Stomach Trouble, Restoring Full Vigor.

"Tanalac built me up twenty pounds, and I am as happy over my new health as my little boy was over his Christmas toys," declared Mrs. Mary Snyder, 838 Estes St., Charlottesville, Va. "For two years I suffered from stomach trouble, rheumatism and a nervous, run-down condition. I was almost a skeleton and got to the point where, when I went to bed nights, I wondered if I would be able to get up in the morning. Rheumatism in my shoulders was so painful, and I was so thin and weak that I did little of anything except try to get well. "I was in despair when I started taking Tanlac, but now my troubles are all gone and I am as healthy and happy as I could wish to be. Tanlac has earned my undying gratitude." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

BLOCKING THE WAY

THOSE apostles of laxity who can never find time to do anything as it ought to be done, go crookedly through life complaining in their semi-serious moments that they are lagging leagues behind their rivals and never getting anywhere.

They admit this without any apparent sense of shame or compunction of conscience.

Sometimes to their intimates of like ilk, they boast of their short-comings in a spirit of bravado.

A laziness that distinguishes them from what they disdainfully term the "common class," to whom they will scarcely nod a courteous good morning, seem in their minds to put them upon a worshipping pedestal.

Daily they go about their task in a slipshod manner, shunning responsibility as a hen avoids a pool of water. Everything they do is half done.

Careless in observing how the proficient save time and energy, and thus make work a pleasure instead of a drag, these listless persons are always in trouble, scowling and finding fault, even when everything about them is cheerful.

Their desks or benches are continually in confusion, quite in keeping with their unmethodical minds.

When urgently needed no paper or tool is within sight or reach.

It is generally hidden somewhere in a disordered heap. Precious minutes are lost while searching for the elusive thing, and should the task of finding it happen to be more vexatious than usual, some innocent fellow-worker is openly charged with pilfering.

Then a storm breaks and the atmosphere is surcharged with anger, which in the customary slowness of cooling off is likely to leave the principals for days and days in sulky humors.

Persons of this character are doomed to fail in everything they undertake, except in the making of quarrels and the wrecking of friendships.

Blameful themselves, they pile their sins on the blameless.

Wherever they are found there is turmoil, inefficiency, disloyalty and unhappiness, four danger signals which block the way in every track of endeavor to promotion to the higher ranks.

SCHOOL DAYS

times addicted to profanity. But they are not important because of their profanity, but in spite of it.

And more and more, intelligent men are abandoning the habit. Lincoln managed to get along without it. So did Washington, although both of them were subjected to vexations such as are utterly unknown to you.

Keep your speech clean and straightforward. Be vigorous, but don't be profane. Fight hard against the habit if you have it already. If you haven't contracted it, don't. You don't want to be known as a mucker, and you are certain to be, if you substitute oaths and expletives for intelligent English.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because —

By ETHEL R. PEYSER

You Are a Poor Speller! Of course it is "Comme il faut" and convenient and right to spell correctly in your native tongue. Yet few do. It seems to be a chronic disease. Spelling, however, isn't everything—ideas are more! List to a true tale: A student in a college—English class asked the prof. why she didn't get A's. "I always answer all the questions that no one else can, you always appeal to me on every question and yet you give me C and occasionally B. Why is it?" He replied "Don't worry—the 'A' students will go out of here without the smell of fire on their garments—you will go out and be somebody. I can't give you perfect marks because you spell too badly and we have to mark considering all these mechanical things."

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

GUARD YOUR SPEECH

MEN are judged by their talk. They have no other means of impressing those with whom they come into contact.

Business men and prospective employers are not mind readers. They form their opinion of you by the words that come out of your mouth.

If you talk well and intelligently your chance of success is excellent.

If your speech is slovenly, ungrammatical, and above all profane, you will promptly be set down as a mucker. And nobody wants to transact business with muckers, or to hire muckers to transact business for them.

Profanity instantly stamps those who use it as of inferior intelligence. More than that, it makes the cultivation of correct speech impossible.

Nobody will take the trouble to think of the right word to use if he has the habit of inserting an expletive whenever he is at a loss for the right expression.

And only by searching for the right words to use can correct speech be formed.

You do not swear in the presence of ladies. Unless you are utterly ill-mannered you do not swear in the presence of strangers.

It is easy, therefore, to keep profanity out of your speech.

Important men, it is true, are some-

Not What We Do —How Well

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

LIFE isn't all in big amounts, or greatness in a title: It isn't what we do that counts—How well we do is vital. The little tasks and little things are what in time will tell; Not what we do the glory brings, But if we do it well.

The humble task of humble hands Has just as much of beauty, As much efficiency demands, As any other duty. The fellow in the shallow trench Must have a soldier's heart; The fellow standing at the bench Must do his honest part.

The lowest brick in any wall Is still the brick that made it; The edifice will stand or fall How well or poor we laid it. And this the dignity divine Of all we are or do; Your work requires the best of mine. Mine needs the best of you.

We work together, you with me, Whatever we build or fashion; Our pride should be our honesty, And quality our passion. The little tasks and little things are what in time will tell—Not what we do the glory brings, But if we do it well.

ONCE IS ENOUGH

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

BAPTIST LADIES ENTERTAIN

On Tuesday evening, May 8th, at the home of Mrs. Richey, the ladies of the W. M. S. and the T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church entertained the ladies of the church who are going away. The honorees were Mesdames Y. F. Walker, W. A. Chapman, L. T. Hullum, Van Boone, A. C. Findley and A. B. Cloninger.

The guests were met at the door by the hostess, and her air of charming hospitality, combined with the cheerful beauty of the rooms which were decorated with the artistically entwined colors of the two organizations, formed a pleasing background for the gathering.

We were conducted into the dining room by Mrs. Mosley, where Mrs. L. Mobley served us delicious punch, after which we all gathered in the living room and, despite the sadness of the occasion, the following very pleasing program was enjoyed by each and every one:

Song, "Oae Fleeting Hour"—Mrs. Simmons
 Welcome Address—by Mrs. Blankenship.
 Biography of Mrs. Hullum—Mrs. Rains.
 Song, "Perfect Day"—Mrs. Peninger and Mrs. Biggers.
 Biography of Mrs. Boone—Mrs. McDougal.
 Piano Solo—Mrs. Thompson
 Biography of Mrs. Cloninger—Mrs. Baker.
 Song, "Just a Wearyin' for You"—Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Biggers.
 Biography of Mrs. Chapman—Mrs. Goin.
 Song, "When You're Gone I Won't Forget"—Mrs. Peninger and Mrs. Simmons.
 Song, "O, Dry Those Tears"—Mrs. Biggers and Mrs. Simmons.
 Biography of Mrs. Findley—Mrs. Milner.
 Piano Duet—Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Biggers.
 Biography of Mrs. Walker—Mrs. Green.
 Song, "Forgotten"—Mrs. Biggers.
 Presentation of Booklet—Mrs. Richey.
 Words of Appreciation—Mrs. Mosley.
 Song, "Till We Meet Again"—All.
 Words of Appreciation—Mrs. Clements.
 Farewell Song, "Farewell to Thee"—All.
 The program was arranged by Mrs. Biggers and Mrs. Peninger. All agreed they had seldom enjoyed a more pleasing one. The music was especially appropriate, each song fitting the occasion perfectly, and the instrumental pieces were beautiful.

Each honoree had her past life and a prophes as to her future written up by a fellow member, and these created much laughter as well as tears.

At the close of the program Mrs. Richey presented to Mrs. Walker a booklet of good wishes and verses of appreciation from her many friends.

Delicious refreshments of ice cream and angel food cake were served to thirty-two guests.

The merriment died away as the parting hour drew near, and it was a sad group which bade one another goodbye, each one knowing that in all probability it would be the last time we would all be together in our earthly home.

Gum-Dipped Cords Gaining New Fame for Service 194% Sales Increase in Last Six Months Shows Trend Toward Firestone

The public has emphatically spoken. The popular preference in all territories is unmistakably the Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

A standard of service has been set by these famous tires without parallel in the past. It has brought a sales increase of 194% for the past six months over the same period of a year ago—the greatest gain in all Firestone history.

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord is the mobility achievement which has enabled Firestone to break the tremendous record of past Firestone success.

The tire buying public has been aroused to the results in economical mileage of the Firestone process of double gum-dipping. The buying swing toward Firestone shows how it has advanced the public's standard of tire value.

Ask owners about Firestone performance on their cars. Note the big taxicab fleets Firestone-equipped. Watch the new cars you see—just from the factories; Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are seen everywhere in fast increasing numbers.

How Backache and Periodic Pains Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Olean, N. Y. — "Every month my blood would go to my head and I would have such a headache, nosebleed, backache and pains that I could not do my work. At night I could not get my feet and nothing seemed to do me any good. I read some of your testimonials about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others, so I decided to try it. I had only taken two bottles when I began to be better, and my back did not hurt me nor my head ache. I felt like a new woman. The Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine and I will always recommend it."—Mrs. A. D. EARLS, 530 N. 5th St., Olean, N. Y.

Copenhagen, N. Y. — "I read your advertisement in the papers and my husband induced me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to get relief from pains and weakness. I was so weak that I could not walk at times. Now I can do my housework and help my husband out doors, too. I am willing for you to publish this letter if you think it will help others."—Mrs. HERBERT KELSEY, R.F.D., Copenhagen, N. Y.

HOBBO

Kidney & Bladder Remedy Gets Results

To Whom it May Concern:
Ten years ago I began to suffer with my kidneys, examination and test disclosed Albumin, my physician ordered me to bed and placed me on a diet, shortly thereafter my sight began to fail me.

After a time I became dissatisfied with the progress of treatment. The published testimonial of Mr. E. S. Hardy of Marshall, Texas, of Hobo Bladder and Kidney Remedy was noticed by me, and I began to take it.

After taking eight bottles I began to notice a general improvement in my condition. My sight and spirits improved. I began to feel ambitious, after taking twenty bottles I was pronounced cured, and at this writing I am in most excellent health, using the same glasses that I did ten years ago, and my weight is 200 pounds.

To all sufferers with Kidney and Bladder troubles, I cannot endorse or recommend Hobo Bladder and Kidney Remedy too highly.

Yours very truly,
F. G. Ackman

If you are suffering from this trouble, consider the condition of this man before he took Hobo. He was guided to this famous remedy through the word of another sufferer. Will you be guided by his statement? Hobo is sold by drug stores everywhere.

Toilettes for Afternoon; Reflect Hues of Rainbow

IT MATTERS not how many beautiful gowns one may possess, if a frock of silken crepe be not one of them, then indeed is one's wardrobe sadly incomplete. There is something about a handsome crepe dress which always bespeaks the ideals of the conservative gentlewoman.

The new flat crepes represent quality personified, and they are all that is to be desired for afternoon toilettes. Especially when ribbon trimmed are they right up to the moment, ac-

"rainbow hat" is inclusive, in that it is not confined to a single individual type, but refers to a most lovely color scheme introduced into present-day millinery.

There are three rainbow hats pictured in the group herewith, but also, printer's ink fails to reveal their ravishing color beauty. For instance, that cunning little bonnet shape lowest in the group is made of narrow metal ribbon, representing a half dozen pastel shades, so interwoven ording to fashion's dictum. In respect to a prevailing number of new gowns, it is a case of ribbons here, ribbons there and ribbons everywhere.

One of the foremost ideas this season is the kerchief or shoulder-cape effect, instanced effectively in the crepe afternoon toilette which you see here, through the medium of ribbon ruffles applied to the crepe foundation. Complementary to the general idea is the exquisitely designed ribbon motif which forms a charming girle.

Among other important materials used in plain solid colors, crepe-back satin is vastly important. For those willing to forego black or navy, alluring new shades are offered, almond green being a favorite with wonderful cocoa shades, with demand for gray.

Speaking of ribbons in dress garniture, very narrow ribbons are conched with silk floss, forming floral borders and motifs. When carried out in self tone to the foundation, an enriched effect is attained.

Violet, indigo, blue, yellow, orange, red, thus nature arranges its rainbow of promise. Since from nature comes inspiration for art, it seems apropos that for this season's millinery vogue, the debut of the rainbow hat is announced. The terms

The floral hat pictured at the top is in raspberry tones, the large flowers being of velvet. It would be very effective to make a handbag of single petals similar to those used in the flowers on the hat.

ACCOUNTS GREAT AID TO ECONOMY

Keeping Track of Expenses of Household Supplements Records of Farm Business.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Household accounts are valuable on the farm as elsewhere, even though farm household expenses are very intimately associated with the business of the farm itself. The farm normally supplies much material which otherwise would become a household expense. The household, in turn, very often furnishes board for farm labor, which would otherwise be a farm expense. Keeping track of household expenses therefore supplements the records of the farm business, points out the United States Department of Agriculture.

More than this, household accounts are an important aid to economy. The first step toward saving lies usually in finding out where unnecessary expenses are incurred. It is important, therefore, to analyze or classify the expenditures and go over them carefully at the end of regular periods. One way of doing this is to record all purchases when money is paid out and then make up a monthly statement for each kind or class of expenditure.

Another method is to enter everything in a column at one side of a broad page, and at the same time enter the amounts again in the columns for each class. This system makes it possible to find out at any time the amount being spent for any given kind of purchase, and the monthly totals are easy to add up.

Book Not Important.

The kind of a book to use is not important. Each family will have a different way of classifying its expenses. An ordinary ruled, square blank book bound at the left side is usually satisfactory for dividing out into columns according to the needs of the individual family. To avoid the work of writing the heading over and over, a number of pages may be cut off at the tops so that permanent column heads may be read above them. A large page is usually easier to record on and to study when the record is complete.

Foods may be classed as "animal foods," "fruits and vegetables," "cereal products," "groceries." Many farms furnish a large part of the first three items. The totals for these groups should offer suggestions as to how the expenses for them may be reduced by greater home production. It has been found that on the average farm 80 per cent of the animal products and 70 per cent of the fruits and vegetables consumed by the family are taken out of the farm.

Clothing, household furnishings, running expenses, advancement, incidentals, and savings are other general classes of expenditures for which separate accounts may be kept according to the second method. Under each of these heads many subdivisions may be made, but for the most purposes this general classification will be found sufficient.

Analyze Totals Yearly.

Recording the expenditures, however, is but half the task. If the totals are not analyzed at least once a year with the idea of making a spending plan for the coming year, little is gained from merely writing down the daily expenditures. This spending plan may be made for a month or even a week ahead, if the future is uncertain. The aim should then be, if possible, to spend less actual cash than the proposed plan allows. On the farm it is often possible to accomplish this by enlarging the vegetable garden, so that the family eats more vegetables and desires less of foods which must be bought, and also so that there is a good surplus to can for winter use. More well-managed poultry may be needed to provide eggs for the table and chickens to eat or can. The amount of milk, butter and cheese furnished by the farm cows may be insufficient. Possibly investigation will show that this is because of a low grade of farm animals which could be improved by better farm practice.

It has been found that, in general, over 60 per cent of the food and over 50 per cent of the fuel consumed by farm families are produced on the farm. Some records showing what farm products have actually been used in the household is of interest and value. One might not be able to write down each batch of beefs, each head of lettuce, each quart of berries, and each quart of milk taken from the products raised for sale, but the estimated quantity of the different kinds of vegetables, the number of eggs, quarts of milk and other products used by the housekeeper during a week would furnish a sufficiently accurate guide for all purposes.

An easy way to keep closer track of the farm products used would be to hang a list of them up in the kitchen, with space for checks or strokes opposite each item, such marks indicating the normal amount of that article used or taken out at one time. To determine the value of these products per month or year, the checks can be translated into pounds or quarts and multiplied by the average price the article sold for during the period being estimated.

SOME ITEMS OF FOOD WASTED IN KITCHEN

Serve Butter in Individual Pats and Cut Off Bread as Needed; Save Cereals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Ask yourself occasionally if any of the following foods are wasted needlessly in your kitchen or on your table, suggests the United States Department of Agriculture:

Butter—Using individual butter plates, bread and butter plates, or even individual saucers for butter keeps all unused butter clean and usable in cooking. The saving is worth the additional dishwashing. Serving butter in individual pats rather than putting a whole piece on the table prevents waste and, if the pats are made small, it is easier for each person to take as much as he wishes and no more.

Slices of Cut Bread—Use a bread board and sharp knife at the table, and cut off just what is needed. Pieces of bread left over for any reason have many uses. They can be toasted or oven-dried and eaten like toast, rolled out for the bread-crumbs jar, used for scalloped dishes, bread pudding, stuffing, thickening for soups, sauces, or gravies, in place of part of the flour in muffins, pancakes or breads, or boiled in hot milk to serve in place of cereal.

Small Amounts of Cooked Cereal—Put them into bread, muffins or griddle-cakes in place of part of the flour and liquid. Use them to thicken soups, stews or gravies. Fry them for use like a starchy dinner vegetable, or serve with a sirup for a dessert.

Skim Milk—Except for the butter-fat and vitamins, skim milk is as valuable as other milk. It enriches soups, sauces or puddings, and may be given to the children if butter is used elsewhere in the diet to make good the loss of the cream. Each child should have its regular allotment of whole milk, but leftover skim milk may be given to them in addition.

Sour Milk—Cottage cheese can always be made from it, but there are also biscuits, gingerbread, pancakes, muffins and cakes, for which many cooks prefer sour milk.

Stale Cake—Make it into cabinet pudding, with a custard mixture and a few raisins or prunes; or dry it, roll it into crumbs and sprinkle them through or over ice cream, whipped cream or custard desserts.

Meat—If you know the tall-ends of steaks or chops will not be eaten, why not cut them off before serving and reserve them for a stew, hash, meat balls or other "made" dish at another meal? Cutting meat into individual portions before serving and keeping the part not needed at the meal out of sight in the kitchen, where it will not tempt the appetite unnecessarily, is economical. Meat leftovers kept too long and allowed to spoil are a total loss. Remember also that overcooked meat is often wasted meat. Fuel saving is often food saving.

Fish—Use any fish not eaten at a meal in some such way as creamed fish, scalloped fish, or fish chowder. With potatoes and other vegetables any of these constitutes an appetizing lunch dish.

Gravy—Make a good deal of gravy after cooking a roast, as many of the good meat extractives are in the roasting pan. Save what gravy is not served at table to warm up the leftover slices for use in a "shepherd's pie," to thicken croquettes or to combine with vegetables, macaroni or noodles.

Fats—Most fats can be used for frying, baking or other cooking, when cleanly rendered. Many housekeepers who have the time find it economy to save fat and make it into soap.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Remove grass stains with ammonia and water.

Remove tea and coffee stains with boiling water.

Empty talcum powder boxes make handy salt and pepper shakers for the kitchen.

To remove iron rust, moisten with ammonia, then use salts of lemon, rinse in boiling water.

Grease spots on suede shoes will disappear if they are rubbed with a piece of cloth dipped in glycerin.

To open a glass jar of fruit without cutting the rubber, let the top stand in hot water several minutes.

If ants get into the ice chest, set a pail of water under each leg and remove box away from the wall.

Ugly gas or electric fixtures can be painted the color of the wall. Camouflage them with pretty parchment shades.

Buying Him a Suit.

This is the difference between mother and father. When mother takes him downtown to buy him a suit of clothes she knows just how much she is going to pay for it, and she'll keep the clerks busy showing suits until she finds what she wants.

When dad takes him down he lets the boy pick out his own suit, and goes home only to be told that he has paid twice as much as he should.—Exchange.

HAIR STAYS COMBED, GLOSSY

"Hair Groom" Keeps Hair Combed—Well-Groomed.

Millions Use It—Fine for Hair!—Not Sticky, Greasy or Smelly.

A few cents buys a jar of "Hair-Groom" at any drug store. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions.

Greaseless, stainless "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it.

School Tax Election Notice

The State of Texas,
County of Donley.
Notice is hereby given that an election will be held on the 19th day of May, A. D. 1928, at the Chamberlain School House, in Common School District No. 20 of this County as established by order of the Board of County School Trustees of this County, of date the 5th day of February,

A. D. 1916, which is recorded in Volume No. 1, pages 3 and 4 of the School District Records of Donley County, Texas, to determine whether a majority of the legally qualified, property tax paying voters of that district desire to tax themselves for the purpose of supplementing the state school fund apportioned to said district and to determine whether the Commissioners' Court of this county shall be authorized to levy, assess and collect annually a tax of and at the rate of not exceeding One Dollar ($1.00) on the One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) valuation of taxable property in said district for said purpose.

Horace Reed has been appointed presiding officer for said election and he shall select two judges and two clerks to assist him in holding the same, and he shall within five days after said election has been held make due return thereof to the Commissioners Court of this county as is required by law for holding a general election.

All persons who are legally qualified voters of this State and County and who are resident property tax payers in said District shall be entitled to vote at said election, and all voters who favor taxation for school purposes shall have written or printed on their ballots the words:

"For School Tax."

And those opposed to such taxation shall have written or printed on their ballots the words:

"Against School Tax."

Said election was ordered by the County Judge of this county by order made on twelfth day of April, A. D. 1928, and this notice is given in pursuance of said order.

Dated the 14th day of April, A. D. 1928.

H. C. Brumley, Sheriff
Donley County, Texas.

CITATION

DE JUSSAC

SYNOPSIS.—Disliking the prospect of a month's visit to her austere aunt, Lady Erythea Lambé, at Jervaux abbey, and her cousin, Alexander Lambé, Almee, vivacious daughter of the Very Reverend Viscount Scroope, meets a young man who laughingly introduces himself as "Billy," American. The two ride on his motor-cycle, the "Flying Sphinx," and part. With Georgina Eberners, her cousin, Almee sets out for Jervaux. She forces Georgina to impersonate her at Jervaux, and she goes on a holiday. Almee again meets Billy. He tells her his name is Spencer, and she gives her as Amy Snookes, at present "out of a job." Billy offers to take her into partnership in selling the Sphinx. In a spirit of madcap adventure, she accepts. The two proceed to the town of Stanhoe, taking separate lodgings in Ivy Cottage. While Almee is secretly visiting Georgina at Jervaux, the place is burglarized, and the famous Lambé emeralds are stolen. Almee escapes. Police describe the thieves as "Jack the Climber" and "Calamity Kate," who travel on a motorcycle. Billy, who has shadowed Almee to Jervaux, follows the thieves. He is knocked out, but emerges from the fight with the Lambé emeralds. He meets Almee, with the police in pursuit. In a secure hiding place, a cave among the crag pines, Almee tells him the whole story. He urges her that she make a frank confession to her father, but on reflection both realize Almee's good name has been compromised. Assuring Almee he has a plan to save her, Billy leaves her in the cave and, proceeding to Jervaux, restores the emeralds to the astonished Lady Erythea. Billy tells a story that satisfies the police, refuses a reward and accepts a chauffeur's job from Lady Erythea. Almee gets the place of parlor maid at Jervaux. Alexander thinks he recognizes Almee as "Calamity Kate." Georgina divulges Almee's identity. Hearing her story, Alexander consents to keep the secret. Alexander finds himself very much in love with Georgina. Alexander's sister, Lady Diana, arrives. Another visitor is the Vicomte de Jussac, her suitor. Diana recognizes Almee and threatens to denounce her. Almee confides in De Jussac.

"What does this mean?" he said sternly. "Diana's found me out, and she's going to tell Aunt, first thing in the morning," said Almee, with the calm of despair. "And I've told Monsieur de Jussac. I simply had to tell somebody. And everybody will know tomorrow." "Rather a delicate position, Monsieur le Cure—eh?" said Bertrand dryly, and not without satisfaction. Alexander flushed to the ears and throbbed his head. He looked so ashamed and wretched that Almee felt a pang of remorse. "For myself," he said unsteadily, "I will face the exposure and the penalty—for I have deserved it. It is you, Almee, that I should have wished to save. I would sacrifice myself to do it now, if there were any way, but I see none. You—and Georgina. That is all that matters." "Tiens! The true ring!" cried de Jussac enthusiastically. He seized Alexander's hand and shook it with heartfelt warmth. "Never reproach yourself, mon ami. From first to last, you have acted en galant homme!" "You've been a brick, Alexander. And you'd better go, and not hear any more—I'll keep you out of it if I can," said Almee quickly. Alexander looked at his cousin. "I will go, then," he said, "on condition that you return to your room immediately, Almee." "All right, I will." "Assuredly—she shall go at once! 'Till the morning then, Monsieur l'Abbe, and have no fear. The danger shall dissipate itself," said Bertrand, and almost forcibly he shepherded the bewildered Alexander out of the room. Bertrand darted back, and caught Almee by the hands. "He is bon enfant, the parson!" he cried, "all shall yet be well. But it is impossible to require deceit from him. Leave that to me! Mademoiselle, I am a magnificent liar! He smote himself proudly on the breast. "You shall see how my talent—" her, and it is to be feared that Almee's predicament faded into a secondary place. Allowances must be made for those swayed by the grand passion. Suddenly de Jussac halted among the suits of mail. "Tiens! the armor," he said, brightening, "the same of which Diana should have told me the history, but declined. She shall come to it yet! She approves armor—she adores the days of chivalry long dead. "Lived we in those days," cried Bertrand with rising fervor, "I would hack my way to her favor though a hundred spears barred the path." He struck the nearest breastplate with his fist. "You Sir Knight! If you did not pay swift homage to my lady," said Bertrand, grinding his teeth. "my lance should crash into your midriff! Scrogon-non-non-non!" He turned to inspect the pectoral of another suit, beautifully engraved and chased with gold. "Of French workmanship, surely—never of this country. The English are a great nation, but severe—severe." He passed his hands over the breastplate. It detached quite easily from the stand. With a sudden impulse Bertrand fitted it to his broad chest, passing his arm through the thongs that had held it to the stand. He laughed as he caught sight of his reflection in a mirror. "It becomes me a merveille! Name of a name! Let me envisage myself the conqueror of my Diana!" He strapped on the greaves and cuisses over his dress trousers, donned the gorget and, lifting down the big helmet, placed it over his head, abrading his nose in the process. The suit—it was the same which had fallen during the night of the burglary—had certainly been made for a knight of great stature—it fitted de Jussac very well. "Magnifique!" said Bertrand. "And, who knows—it may be the very suit of my ancestor! The—"

"What Does This Mean?" He Said Sternly.

"But I did not! I thought you were pretending to be one! Let me bear the blame. I love you—I was in despair—and put on this mail that for one moment I might imagine myself approved. Dear lady of Romance, I am no ghost—I own it!" He proved it with a kiss that was by no means ghostly. "Oh!" said Diana faintly. The mailed arms encircled her tightly. "Sweetest of all earth's treasures!" exclaimed Bertrand. "You love me? You tremble—your heart beats. Say it! You love me!" Suddenly she hid her face against his breastplate. "I-I-I do," she whispered, hardly audible, "and—I should never have dared to tell you so." "Three blessed accents! To my unhappy ancestor I owe my happiness! Ah, day of days! Diana, you will marry me, beloved?" "I suppose so. I can't help it, now. Oh—Bertrand!" "I said that armor was of no avail. But it has conquered!" She glanced up at him shyly. "I shall wear it for evermore!" said De Jussac rapturously. "It shall never be doffed, save at your orders. Diana—"

"But my aunt!" exclaimed Diana suddenly, her blushes changing to pallor. "If—"

Wicked Laughter Convulsed Her.

It was impossible to deny anything to the conquering Bertrand. Lady Diana permitted herself to imbibe a little of the wine; it restored the color to her cheeks. "And now," said the Vicomte tenderly, "light of my soul—" A piercing shriek from Diana jarred painfully on his nerves. Bertrand started and spun around. In the doorway stood the unspeakable parlor maid, cypress, her bronzed hair flowing over her shoulders. Wicked laughter convulsed her, her eyes shone with triumph. "Bless you, my children!" said Almee. "You've made enough row about it!" De Jussac started hastily towards her. Almee sprang back and closed the door in his face; the key turned with a click. Lady Diana had sunk inert into a chair. "Stop her—make her be quiet!" panted Diana trembling. "Bertrand! If my aunt—" "Open!" hissed Bertrand, rattling the handle. "Leave the door alone!" said Almee's voice, muffled through the panel. "You can't get out—either of you. Can you hear me?" "Yes, yes! Mademoiselle—" "Listen! Within three feet of me is a burglar alarm," said the voice, dialectically. "I'm going to start it. Before you can turn yourselves round, the whole household will be down on you—from Aunt Erythea to the pageboy. Especially Aunt. I'm going to count three. When—"

"Miserable!" gasped Bertrand. "Mademoiselle, I implore you! This is to return evil for good! How have we deserved—"

"I have no quarrel with you, Vicomte. You're all right. But I've got you both. You'll accept my terms—" "Anything!" panted Bertrand distractedly. "Stand away from the door, then. Get right back." "Yes, yes!" Almee applied her eye to the key-hole to insure that her orders were obeyed. She opened the door cautiously, and regarded the distressed pair with intense satisfaction. "Let me be the first to congratulate you!" she said. "Vicomte, I don't grudge my cousin to you. You are welcome. Di!" continued Almee, fixing Diana with a glittering eye. "I don't want your explanation—you can explain the masquerade to Aunt. But I shall hold my tongue about you—and you'll hold yours about me! I require your word of honor. For you daren't break it!" "Yes! It's gaped Diana feebly. "Don't—don't speak so loud, Almee—" Almee looked at her, and exploded with laughter. "Every happiness, dear people!" she said, and vanished. "Bertrand!" panted Diana, rising unsteadily. "Did you know anything of this? Do you understand—? She is not the parlor maid—she is my cousin. I cannot explain; you must say nothing about it. Neither will she! Oh—let me go!" He caught her in his arms before she could escape.

"I can't let you go!" said Billy, wildly. "You're the darling of the world!"

CHAPTER XXI

A New Partnership "It rains all the time in this country," said Billy, discontentedly, "except when you want it to." He addressed the remark to the dry and unresponsive soil. Billy's attitude at the moment was unusual. He was close to the footpath along which he had wheeled the Sphinx, after the encounter with the motorcycle thieves on the night of the burglary. That event was now many days old, yet no rain had fallen in the meantime and here and there the track of the Sphinx's tires was faintly visible in the dried mud—to anyone who had unusually good eyes. "If they've got a Scotland Yard sharp down here now," reflected Billy, "and he goes over the ground, it's just possible he might see what that fool inspector at Stanhoe never tumbled to. That there were two motorcycles, and not one, at the place where Jack the Climber got ditched. If they were to track up the Sphinx now it would be mighty awkward. They'd soon connect her with Almee and me. But I guess it's an outside chance." The slight impression of a tire mark, a little to the right of the path, caught his eye. It had passed over a soft mole hill, and was clearly defined. Billy paused, and inspected it with a new interest. The fashion of his countenance changed; he went down on hands and knees, and looked very closely indeed. "Snakes!" exclaimed Billy. He rose, and quartered the ground carefully for a considerable distance in either direction. The ground was too hard to show any continuous track. But mole hills were plentiful, and some way farther on he found another one, also showing the print of a tire.

He Kissed Her Again.

"It's the same. And not the Sphinx's tire, by a mile!" said Billy, knitting his brow. "This one was steel-studded." With growing perplexity he made a close examination of the soil, and pronounced discovered other traces. There were a few footprints and, faint though they were, they bore some very marked characteristics. Billy stood up straight and gave a liquid whistle. The furrows in his brow deepened. He carried his investigations still farther afield, but toward the healthy common the soil was light, wind-blown sand that shifted with every fresh breeze. There were no tracks left. The seeker was at a loss. Billy stopped and reflected rapidly. "It came this way, whatever it was," he said. "But why on earth did it—and how? Let's start from the beginning." He struck across country and, breaking through a hedge, came out into the blind lane where Jack the Climber's machine had crashed on the fateful night; the spot where he had recovered the emeralds, and made acquaintance with Calamity Kate's resourcefulness. The muddy lane still showed slight traces, very much mixed up and trampled, of the place where the thieves' machine had fallen; the ruts were now dried and hard. Billy also recognized what were evidently the hoof marks of the Stanhoe police. "A herd of steers wouldn't have made more mess," said Billy. "And Panke found nothing after all, or he'd have— Well, I can't blow much, either, I've been here twice since, but never got wise to it till now." He turned back down the lane toward the highway, his eyes noting the smallest details of the ground. "Here's my track; pretty near washed out. And here's the other's. That cycle was a big Indian, by what little I saw of it. And likely it was half crippled when it got away. And here it got on the high road, and headed straight on past Jervaux again. That's mighty queer. I always recollect some they'd have gone the other way. Something must have turned them."

PART 22 OF 24

"TAROLINE"

FOR SPRAYING CHICKEN HOUSES AND PAINTING ROOSTS, and as a treatment in preserving wood, its penetration is such that it is especially valuable in spraying houses and roosts infested with blue bugs and other vermin that we find so difficult of eradication in the poultry yard.

WE FEATURE TAROLINE

because of its merits, and we especially recommend it for the treatment of poultry yards infested with vermin pests.

We also handle Kreso Dip, Hess' Dip, and Le-Gear's Dip, that you may have your choice of selection.

Keep your yards and roosts clean and sanitary by using these sprays, and feed your hens and young chickens Hess Panacea and Le-Gears Poultry Prescription as a tonic, and Don Sugar and Reefers More-Eggs Tonic for egg producers, and Walko, Hess White Diarrhea Tablets, and Avicel, to avoid unhealthy conditions among the chicks. We keep them constantly in stock.

KEEP THE CHICKENS HEALTHY

They pay for it themselves, and return you a handsome dividend.

DR. CLAUDE WOLCOTT

WILL VISIT HEDLEY

He bears a national reputation as an originator and teacher of the celebrated Wolcott System of Vision Survey and Eyesight Control now practiced by hundreds of eye specialists.

Press Comment

Since the beginning of the agitation for reforms pertaining to optics, Dr. Wolcott has stood out as a distinctive figure. His papers on this subject from various angles have, while possessing appeal to the interested laity, been considered by the profession as classics in their line. The force of the articles for conventions, conferences and for the press have perhaps been prized for no one other character so much as for their absolute dependability. The deductions, conclusions and ultimate over all determinations were based upon facts developed through his own personal study, experimentation and practice. Supplemented only by the best defined discoveries of others high in the profession.

These are some of the things said by scientists of Dr. Wolcott, and his selection as the head of the newly formed institution for Texas is considered as a worthy recognition of ability and his investment in the science for which he has done so much.—Amarillo Daily News, October 2nd, 1921.

In Hedley May 22nd, 23rd and 24th, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Rev. J. M. Fuller and family stopped off a while with Hedley friends yesterday. They were en route to their home at Pampa from a visit to friends "back East."
