SHERIFF ELECT M. O. BARNETT IS DEAD; WAS GOOD CITIZEN AND EFFICIENT OFFICER

Sheriff elect M. O. Barnett, age 40, died Sunday of duodenal ulcer, at the Adair Hospital, after a very short illness. He came Friday afternoon from Clarendon to the home of his parents. Saturday he was taken to Adair Hospital, and Sunday his body resting in its last long sleep was brought back to the family home.

Funeral services were held at the Hedley Methodist church on Tuesday, Nov. 30th. The service was conducted by Rev. Joseph E. Eldridge, pastor, assisted by Dr. J. T. Griawold and Rev. McClung of Clarendon. Rev. L. O. Lewis of Clarendon also gave a very beautiful eulogy of his life.

M. O. Barnett moved to Texas in the year 1908, since which time he has resided in Donley county. For several years he has served as a peace officer, the past four years as Chief Deputy under Sheriff Brumley, and had come to be recognized as one of the best officers in Northwest Texas. In July he won the race for Sheriff and Tax Collector over all opponents, and would have taken office January 1st.

Mr. Barnett was married Dec. 24, 1909, to Miss Mary Ruth McFarling, who preceded her husband May 1, 1918. To this union two children were born, a daughter, Evelyn, and a son, Harold. Both survive.

He united with the Methodist church in August, 1918, and at the time of his death was a member of the Methodist church of Hedley.

He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his two children, his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barnett of Hedley; three brothers, Keith Barnett of Lee county, Mississippi, Charley and Lucien of Hedley; two sisters, Miss Inez Barnett of Hedley and Mrs. A. H. McCullough of Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. Barnett leaves a host of friends, as was shown by the beautiful floral offerings and the hundreds who came to show their respect. The church was filled to overflowing, and many stood on the outside with bowed heads.

So far as we have any knowledge, man is the only one of all created beings to whom is given the information that all earthly life must end in death. The experience and observation of mankind early in life impresses upon his mind the fact that death is the common lot of all the race. Thru the grim gateway whose gloomy portals open upon a mystery which the yearning eyes of humanity have never penetrated or solved, all created beings which from the beginning have trod the earth in life have passed, and thru that same gateway all created beings now living or hereafter to be born must surely go. This much we know to be the plan of the great Creator of the universe. The gift of earthly life brings with it the certainty of earthly death.

The promised length of days to man is three score years and ten, but certain as is death, it seems to enter but little into the plans and calculation of our life.

There is within us a feeling which causes us to look with terror and aversion upon death. We shrink from contemplation of the awful mystery. So common and universal to mankind is this feeling that many join in the belief that it is part of nature's plan to guard the race in times of trial, misfortune, misery and despair from seeking entrance thru the gates of death before, in the fullness of nature's plan, they are called to go. In vain has humanity, thru all the centuries, rapped at the dark and silent portals thru which the countless millions have passed. The yearning desire of all mankind to know what lies beyond the tomb is only satisfied by faith as it is manifest in the religions of the earth.

As in the course of life youth, strength and vigor must pass from us with the lapse of years to give way to the feebleness and helplessness of age, it would seem to be a part of nature's plan to prepare the human mind to enter into the dread "valley of the shadow of death" with resignation. But death does not always wait until the tree of life is withered, nor does it always give warning of its approach by robbing the vigorous limbs of their strength, by whitening the locks, by dimming the brightness of the eye or causing the elastic step to become feeble and wavering. It comes at times without warning to robust youth and vigorous manhood; and so the message came to him whose untimely death we this day commemorate. When to the human eye he seemed in the full vigor of health, when, judging by his years, he was in the very prime of manhood, death placed its finger upon his heart and it was still.

So today we do not mourn for the dead. We sympathize with those whom he has left behind, but for him we do not and cannot mourn. He has gone beyond, we trust, to a future of added usefulness, where the power and strength he has laid down here will be taken on again under better conditions.

We peer into the impenetrable shadow, but we do not see; we listen in the infinite silence and there is no sound; but the cable of human hope stretches from shore to shore. Over it we whisper our messages of love to those who have gone before, and with the ear of faith wait the answer of our prayers.

"If You Were in His Shoes"

Of Lincoln stories, as of the making of books, there is no end. And of these Lincoln stories, it may be truly said, that some are good, and others are indifferent—depending mostly I imagine upon the story-telling ability of the reporter or biographer who first brought them into the light of print—some out of the deep recesses of the goodness of his heart and the ingenuity of his imagination, perhaps!

There is one Lincoln story however which deserves the largest corner in the heart of every one of us who have others working under or for us. It is one whose application will be valuable, not only for the sense of satisfaction it will bring us, but for its practical aid in dealing successfully with "help" troubles!

Here is the story—revealing, as more than a score of volumes could not do, the considerateness, the common-sense and the big-souledness of the man.

It seems that an officer had disobeyed or failed to execute an order. "I believe I'll sit down," said Secretary Stanton angrily, "and give that man a piece of my mind."

"Do so," urged Lincoln; "write him now while you have it on your mind. Make it sharp. Cut him all up."

Stanton did not need a second invitation. It was a "bone-crusher" that he read to the President.

"That's right," said Lincoln, "that's a good one."

"Whom can I send it by?" mused the secretary of war.

"Send it!" replied Lincoln "send it! Why don't send it at all. Tear it up. You have freed your mind on the subject and that is all that is necessary. Tear it up. You never want to send such letters. I never do, though I occasionally write them. Now pen the kind of note you would have liked to receive if you were in that man's shoes, and send that."

Some of us do "send" the impulsive message. Nine times out of ten we find we have merely "cut our nose to spite our face." Ten times out of ten we regret it.

Bud Vs. Blossom

In a scenario contest recently held by a prominent newspaper, in which thousands of stories were submitted, the fact was revealed that the most popular age of heroines was—twenty-eight. That is of all the heroines in all the scenarios submitted, a greater number were twenty-eight than any other age.

Twenty years ago an unmarried woman of twenty-eight was a hopeless spinster. Ten years later she was still below par in the matrimonial market. Today she ranks first as the heroine of love stories, and hers is the age about which more romance is woven than the time honored sweet sixteen!

The fact that there is no longer a line of demarcation which dubs a woman an "old maid" and puts her "on the shelf," that her attraction for men is governed nowadays not so much by her years as by the individual woman, has been generally recognized, but that twenty-eight should be chosen as the most desirable age for the Juliet of the love story was a surprise even to the most modern of us.

And with this revelation is borne in upon us another. And this is that the choice of most men who are marrying today is not the very young girl, but the young woman of over twenty-five.

Put the question to any circle of marriageable men, and you will find that they are attracted by the mature mentality, poise and womanly charm that has not yet come to the girl in her teens. This is the age when men want partners who think in their own language, and the flapper, as naive as she is, lacks the spark of adult intellect and the fully developed personality of the girl past twenty-five.

The flapper—some of her—is lovely as well as amusing. But it is not until she has grown up that she is considered seriously by men who mean to marry. Indeed, people who believe that this undeveloped type is thought by men the ideal American girl are judging in terms of the adolescent high school boy who is her male counterpart.

The taste of men a generation or two ago may have run to buds. Nowadays it is decidedly for the full blown blossom.

Cultivate Right Posture

Posture is a dynamic rather than a static thing; it is a by-product of well-balanced and vigorous muscular health and activity. The wild animal and the savage are commonly lithe, supple and quick, yet they have no disciplinarians constantly taking them to task for their slovenly habits of standing and sitting.

What Pyramid Would Cost

It is believed no fewer than 100,000 men were employed for 20 years in the construction of the great pyramid of Egypt. If wages had been what they are now the labor on that pyramid would have cost more than $6,000,000,000, to say nothing of cost of material.

IN DAYS OF OUR FOREFATHERS

Women Prepared Their Own Medicines

The wise pioneer women learned to gather, in woods and fields, the remedies the Indians used. From the rafters of colonial houses, hung great bunches of dried roots and herbs. From these, in times of sickness, the busy mother brewed simple and powerful remedies.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham, a descendant of these sturdy pioneers, made her Vegetable Compound. The beneficial effects of this dependable medicine are vouched for by hundreds of women.

Mrs. Wm. Kraft of 2838 Vinewood Ave., Detroit, Mich., saw a Pinkham advertisement in the "News" one day and made up her mind that she would give the Compound a trial. At that time she was very weak. "After the first bottle," she writes, "I began to feel better and like a new woman after taking six bottles. I recommend it to others and always keep a bottle in the house."

Mrs. Gust Green of 401 Lincoln Park Boulevard, Rockford, Illinois, found herself in a condition similar to that of Mrs. Kraft. "I was weak and run-down," she writes, "but the Vegetable Compound has helped me and I feel better now. I recommend it to all women who need more strength."

Chronic Head Colds

A Simple Method of Prevention.

Nasal catarrh is not only disagreeable and offensive, but it will lead to serious trouble.

That inflamed condition of the mucous membranes of the air passages of the head, nose and throat may spread to the point where it is incurable and a danger to life.

Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes are composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries. The warm smoke vapor is inhaled into the affected air passages and will go where sprays, douches and salves cannot reach. They contain no tobacco or cubebs, and being harmless, are used by children, as well as adults.

If you suffer from any catarrhal trouble, plain nasal catarrh, catarrhal deafness, hoarseness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations, or are subject to frequent colds, get from any druggist a pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes, and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects.

LITTLE KEITH STOUT

The funeral services for little Keith Stout, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Stout of Amarillo, was conducted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Boston Wednesday, Dec. 1st, 1926, by Rev. Joseph E. Eldridge.

Little Keith was born Jan. 9th, 1926, and his little spirit departed this life Dec. 1st.

Sacred memories cluster around the death and burial of an infant. At its birth joys unknown to the hearts of others are stirred in the parent's bosom, and a world of affection opened before him which he alone is able to explore. At its death his heart feels a loss such as he has never before sustained, and his affections receive a shock such as can be given by no other loss.

But the little spirit is singing a new song, a song which no man can learn—which none know but themselves: it is the song of innocence, swelling out from infant voices and echoing through the world above.

They are redeemed from among men. They are pure, and undefiled. To all the sins of men they are strangers. In their mouth there is no guile; and they stand before the throne of God without spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing.

It is transplanted from the cold bosom and cheerless wilderness of earth to bloom and thrive in the paradise of God.

Listen, bereaved parents, and you will hear your child singing the song of paradise:

"Oh, what do you think the angels say?"

Said the children up in Heaven;

"There's a dear little child coming home today.

It's almost ready to fly away

From the earth we used to live in;

Let's go and open the gates of pearl.

Open them wide for the new little child,"

Said the children up in heaven.

J. R. Wilson, 70, prominent citizen of Stratford, died there Wednesday of this week. He was a brother of Mrs. R. E. L. Snodgrass, and has visited in Hedley a number of times. Mrs. Snodgrass and others of the family attended the funeral. We extend our sympathy to them.

J. M. Plaster, prominent and highly esteemed citizen of Hedley for many years, died last Friday in Clarendon, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. N. Wood. The many Hedley friends of the family sympathize deeply with the bereaved.

Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Cooper, aunt and sister of Mrs. J. E. Neely, left last Saturday for their home at Midlothian, after a two weeks visit in the Neely home.

Sharppers, Crooks and Swindlers

Drawing by Ray Walters.

GETTING something for nothing is the same old popular delusion today that it has ever been. And as long as there are people who believe in this ancient formula there will be those other individuals, just a little bit slicker and a trifle more sophisticated, who will come forward with schemes and plans founded on this unsound theory.

The gold brick man and the pea and shell expert have forsaken these once productive devices for a much more modern and scientific line of shady endeavor. Your up-to-date confidence man now goes in for "free lots" and similar schemes which apparently involve stable finance in the wake of investments involving real estate.

Posing as the representative of an eastern mortgage and security house, a confidence man of the new school has been swindling Montana investors with a "new plan of real estate financing," which, as a fraud, surpasses "free lot" schemes of the kind occasionally employed by crooked real estate developers. This Montana mountebank represents the new type of confidence man, he who has given up the wire-tapping and gold-brick game of his forebears and, adopting the methods of bucket-shop operators, appears to be a person skilled in matters of finance, especially as it relates to real estate operations.

This western harvester of "easy money" would approach well-known and active realty operators and tell them they had been especially "selected," because they owned property in the city of their residence, were under fifty years of age, insurable and prominent in their community, for "membership" in a new real estate financing company. This membership would make the person "selected" eligible to life insurance on a single premium basis with a loan feature on a fully-paid policy in sums of not less than $40,000 and not more than $80,000.

Ah, Yes, the Advance Fee.

The swindler represented that the policies were issued by two well-known insurance companies, each company writing a joint policy and underwriting half the amount. The policy written in the name of the new "member" was to be assigned to the "mortgage and security company" which the schemer purported to represent. In return the "member" was to receive loan credits which would apply to his account.

A minimum advance fee was required in cash. To obtain this fee was the sole object of the game. When an adequate crop of victims had paid over their advance fees the promoter would disappear to fresh territory in search of another harvest from gullible investors.

As soon as the victims made inquiries of the named insurance companies the fraud was discovered. The companies declared that they were not issuing such a type of policy, knew nothing of the "mortgage and security company," and had no representative of a description fitting the swindler. In keeping with his rôle, the confidence man was neatly dressed, appeared to be about seventy years of age, and had a dignified bearing.

One doesn't have to travel to Montana, however, to find the confidence man "in real estate." Attorneys of fraud bureaus in the East have their hands full. In New Jersey a magnet to attract buyers was issued in the form of a metal disk which was distributed to "good prospects" with the information that the recipient might be lucky enough to win a lot. Before long, a group of holders received notice that they had won a lot and were requested to appear at the office of the developing company. There a benevolent-looking gentleman informed them that there would be a small charge of $47 for each free lot to cover "surveying, conveyance, etc." This sum generally represented more than the piece of property was worth.

If You Win a Lot, Beware!

Another method employed with a certain amount of success is to send a postal card to a person, informing him that he has won a lot. Calling by request at the office of the development company, he receives an invitation to visit the development and view his property. To his chagrin he finds that the lot he has won, owing to an excessive amount of rock or high tide, is unsatisfactory. He wouldn't have it at any price, wouldn't care to pay the "carrying charges," but yes, he would consider buying a different piece of property. This is known as the "pull-in" method, and it works.

In St. Louis recently a man was approached in the lobby of a motion picture theater and asked to sign a card, as he might be "selected" to receive a free lot just for "advertising purposes." The next day he was informed that he had won a lot valued by the developers at $250. But he found it was a peculiar lot. A river ran through it. There followed the offer of a lot "just as good, if not better," elsewhere on the tract. This was valued at $1,150. But the company was willing to allow to the customer the value of the lot he had won if he bought the higher-priced lot. The latter was always priced high enough in excess of the "free" lot to cover the company's generosity.

Keyes Winter, deputy attorney general, in charge of the New York state fraud bureau, in a statement on the free-lot scheme, recently said:

The Wife Falls for This.

"The usual procedure is for some salesman to call at a person's home when the man of the house is away at business. The wife is informed that, through the recommendation of a friend, she has been placed on a list of prospective free lot winners selected to help advertise a development. About five days later the man reappears and informs the woman she has won a lot and should call at the office of the developer to get her deed. Naturally she is enthusiastic about her good fortune.

"Once in the office, which is as ornate as the old-time bucket shops, with their mahogany furniture, the woman is informed there is the small matter of $25 or $30 to pay for recording and registering the deed. Sometimes the victim wakes up at this point and leaves, but generally she pays and gets her deed. The next step is to look over her property, and when she finally locates it, if it really exists, she discovers it is back in the woods or far from the road. If she protests, a generous allowance, several times what she paid, is offered to her if she will trade her 'free lot' back as part purchase price on a much better piece of land. Rising to the last bit of bait, with her name on a contract to pay so much a month, the real estate sharks have finally landed their victim where they wanted her. She now is producing profits for them every month.

The traveling public has long been the prey of petty crooks and swindlers, and although most of us have been schooled to a point where we now are wont to regard with suspicion anyone who appears a trifle too friendly on a train journey, we occasionally meet up with the sharper of the rail.

Buying a Fruit Stand, But—

On trains and in railway stations this type of crook still survives, and a single railroad employs a police force of 800 to prevent outrages upon those who travel. It is, of course, a difficult task that this road squad assumes; for it may take them over several thousand miles of railway, and not every train can carry a policeman. But enough trains can carry them to make the swindlers wary. Most crooks realize the increasing difficulties under which they must work, which is one reason for the astounding decline in railway crookery during the past few years.

Some of the schemes operated are ingenious; others are stupid. For instance, there is "Sixty-cent" Fleming, the railway station confidence man, who is always just sixty cents short of the price of a ticket, and make $100 a day thereby as invariably some kind-hearted traveler hands him sixty cents, or, more likely still, gives him a dollar.

But this is a small affair compared to the game worked upon a young alien who landed in America with a few thousand dollars and fell among the railway-station wolves of his own nationality.

According to John R. Tunis, who has made a study of the problem confronting the railway police, strangers took their victim into a large terminal, showed him the information booth in the center of the great rotunda, and suggested that it would make a choice spot for a fruit stand. As they had papers which seemed to prove their option on the place, he gladly passed over $2,000. The next morning when he went in to establish his new business, it took the combined efforts of eight railroad policemen, the station master, and a couple of city cops to dispossess him.

Hanging's Too Good for Him.

Writing in the Elks Magazine, Mr. Tunis relates the unfortunate experience of an old couple who, arriving at a railway station, were taken in charge by one of the public porters hanging about the entrance. Finding that his charges had an hour to wait for the Chicago train, this obliging porter seated the couple in the waiting room, got the old lady a drink of water, and soon discovered that it was their first visit to a large city. Had they bought their tickets to Chicago? They had not. So off he went, without, however, asking for any money. They never noticed this.

In twenty minutes he was back, and standing outside the gate, he handed them two long green slips, assured them he was not allowed to go inside, told them their train was ready to go, and then collected twice $41, the price of a Chicago ticket. They tried to get in, were stopped, and showed their tickets to a guard. They were two long strips of subway tickets, worth exactly two dollars.

Watch your baggage carefully until the train pulls out, is a good safety measure against a certain type of thief, Mr. Tunis says. This crook gets away with bags and suitcases by buying a ticket for the train's first stop and so getting through the gate, or sneaking around to another gate and working up to the limited train. Then they go through the pullmans, and when they observe a passenger outside waiting for the departure by taking a smoke on the platform, they pick up his bag and walk into the next car. Just as the train starts they drop off. This man is the species of baggage thief.

About A. Cohen, the "Creep."

Pullman car thieves are known as "creeps," and the most gifted of them was a character named Alphonse Cohen. His method was to take berths on the big trains out of Chicago and Denver and pick out likely victims during the hour in the diner. Then he would wait until early morning, slip under the curtains, rifle the clothes and if possible the baggage of his victims, and slip off at the next station. A railroad man trailed him for eight months before getting him cold on a job.

Then there was Palmer, the college graduate. Quiet, well-dressed, looking the part of big business, he worked pullman trains in much the same way as Cohen. But his method was far more efficient. He always left a certain sum of money in pocketbooks that he "dipped," and as a result the victim never realized his loss until he had left the train. But one night the detective of a western road discovered him emerging from a berth after a successful haul. Palmer climbed into his own berth while the detective quietly awakened the passenger and so discovered the thief. Then he went for Palmer. Cornered, Palmer fought, drew a pistol, and succeeded in opening the window of his berth and jumping out. He fell into the snow, but broke both ankles, and is now recuperating down in Atlanta where the climate is far more suited to pajamas than the bleak stretches of the Dakotas in midwinter.

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

Green's August Flower

AROUND THE HOME

By MARGARET BRUCE

One Green Vegetable a Day

"I'm not very strong on calories, a balanced ration, vitamins, and other scientifically named attributes of the daily meals," laughed a housewife recently.

"Great stress is laid on the make-up of the family meals, but some way I do not notice that meals are very different, for at that, our grandmothers served much the same foods that we do —a soup, meat, potatoes or rice, a green vegetable or two, celery, pickles, and a sweet to top off with. Except that they ate about twice as much as we do, the menu was approximately the same. We call it a balanced diet, and they called it getting dinner!

"As a matter of fact, the well-balanced meal is not only more wholesome and digestible, but it tastes better. No one would want to eat two starched foods at the same meal, even if it were good for him. People naturally choose a balanced ration. Things 'go well together.' We have learned through long experience what foods do not go well together; and while occasionally the young cook makes the mistake of assembling too many sweets, too many acids, or too many starches, she soon finds that they do not make a hit and changes her ways.

"So I just let my family eat naturally, without much thought of vitamins and calories. But one thing I do insist on, and that is at least one green vegetable a day. And when I say I mean a green vegetable, I mean a green vegetable. I do not mean canned corn, or lima beans, and I am sometimes tempted not to include green peas with potatoes or rice, unless they are very new and tender green peas right out of the garden. These, to me, are starchy, thick foods, and not at all 'green' in the sense that connects the word with string beans, spinach, carrots, parsnips, summer squash, beets, celery, egg plant and other foods that are watery, as against dry.

"I do believe that the system needs its daily green vegetable in some form or other. If a salad is served, using plenty of lettuce, cross, or chicory, that will take the place of the vegetable. As soon as possible in the spring I serve rhubarb, and all during the summer I use vegetable tops, or 'greens' freely. Cauliflower and cabbage, turnips and pumpkin all fill the bill. There are so many green vegetables that the housewife may serve one every day in the year without being too frequent repetition."

Turning Defeat Into Victory

The young housewife stood in the middle of her kitchen, wringing her hands and giving voice to genuine walls of distress. Before her on the snowy table stood a cake—a wreck of a cake—fallen in the middle and ragged and crumbling around the edges. The icing had been too thin and had refused to spread, dripping down over the sides of the loaf and revealing here and there bare patches of slightly burned surface. It was a pathetic sight, that cake. It was one of those petty tragedies that we home women all experience at one time or another, and that fill us temporarily with despair.

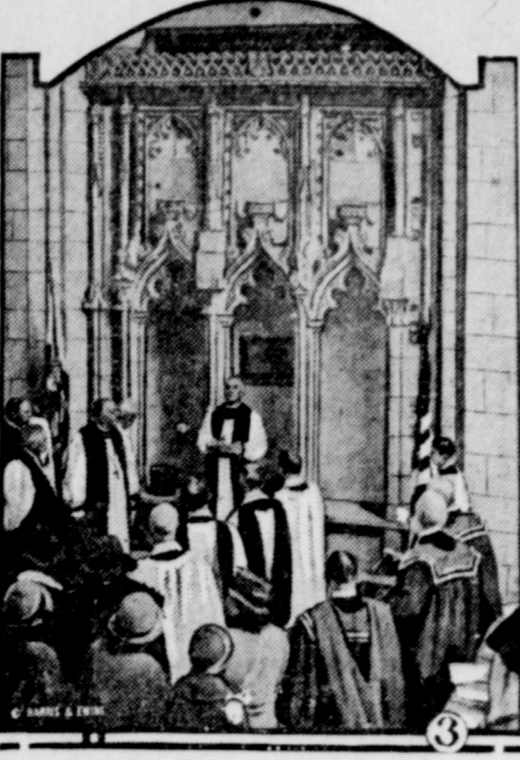

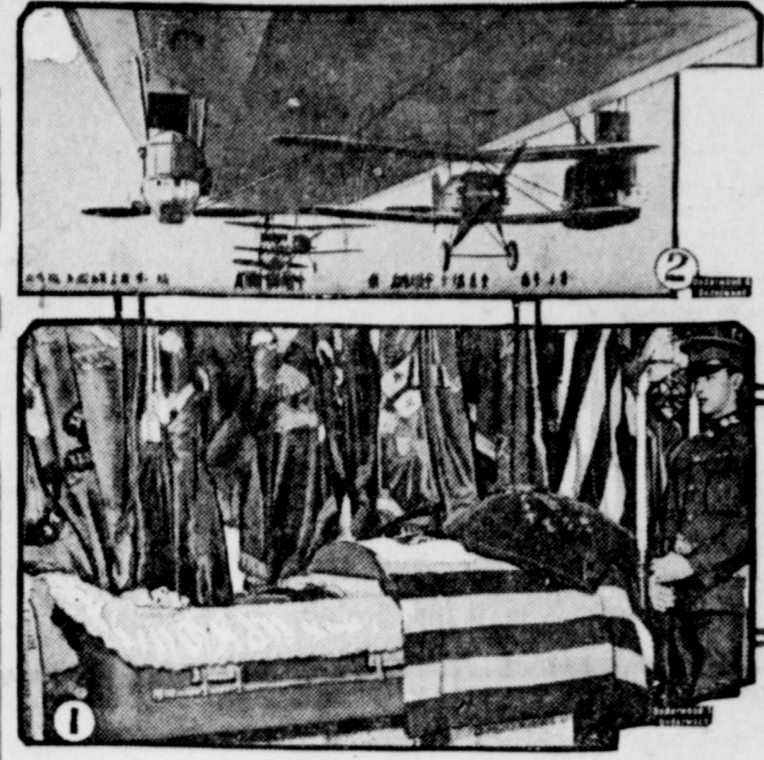

"I wouldn't mind a bit if it were for home use," moaned the housewife, "but I promised to bake it for the Vassar cake sale, and there isn't time to start another. I'm late as it is. What an awful looking thing! I can't take that mess up to Betty's. The girls would all certainly have the laugh on me. Yet I can't bear not to do my share."

She wiped her eyes and stood staring disconsolately at the cake. Prizes had been offered for the best cakes and she had hoped hers would be a winner. And just look at it! She looked and grinned. It was so utterly ruined that it was funny. Then she laughed aloud, for she suddenly had an idea for turning defeat to victory. She rushed to her desk, drew out one of her visiting cards and printed on the back, in clear letters:

"Singed Cat Cake! Better Than It Looks!" This sign she affixed to a long violet pin and stuck it upright in the forlorn, dragged cake.

"It does taste all right, I know that," she assured herself; "and it isn't as if the girls did not know I could bake wonderful cake—sometimes! I'll take it along to show that I meant well and that I'm a good sport!"

The singed cat cake was the sensation of the sale, being greeted with shrieks of laughter, and winning—well, a consolation prize, anyway. "A cake may be down, but it's never out!" voted the judges amid the general hilarity.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Result of the National Elections—G. O. P. Nearly Loses Senate Control.

LECTION day was far from satisfactory to the Republican party, for it almost if not quite lost control of the senate and its majority in the lower house will be considerably reduced. Seven Republican senators were defeated by Democrats, those being Wadsworth of New York, Butler of Massachusetts, Weller of Maryland, Ernst of Kentucky, Williams of Missouri, Harrel of Oklahoma and Cameron of Arizona. Their successful opponents were Wagner, Walsh, Tydings, Barkley, Hawes, Thomas and Hayden. In the new senate there will be 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite. To control its organization the Republicans will need one more vote and the Democrats two. This glaring pre-supposes that Brookhart of Iowa and Frazier of North Dakota, who were read out of the party, stand by it in organizing the body. Smith was victorious in Illinois and Vane in Pennsylvania, despite the campaign scandals, and the senate will have to decide whether or not to exclude them. The question will not come up until the new senate meets in December, 1927, unless the Democrats, by holding up some important appropriation bill, compel the President to convene the new congress in the spring. The new house of representatives will have 238 Republicans, 194 Socialists, 2 Farmer-Laborites and 1 Socialist. The Democrats gained 11 seats.

Of the individual results of the election the most notable was the defeat of Senator Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee, close personal friend of the President and the only candidate for whose support Mr. Coolidge made an open appeal. Butler was the victim of the defection of wet Republicans, who deserted his dry stand and flocked to the wine and beer platform of Walsh, and of the discontent in the textile mill and shoe factory towns in which there is widespread unemployment.

Frank Smith in Illinois had some 70,000 plurality, Brennan cutting down the normal Republican majority tremendously. This was due in part to the independent candidacy of Magill but much more to the prohibition issue. In Indiana Watson and Robinson, Republicans, embarrassed by the Klan control revelations, barely scraped through. The Democrats announced that recounts would be demanded in three counties. Brookhart of Iowa returns to the senate from which he was ousted with about 70,000 plurality over Claude R. Porter, this result being interpreted by the Iowa West as a reiteration of the Middle West's demand for farm relief legislation.

Al Smith, invincible in his race for re-election as governor of New York, carried Justice Wagner into the senate on his great wave of votes. Senator Wadsworth ran well outside of the metropolis, despite the bolt of the dry Republicans. Smith found Congressman Ogden Mills easier to defeat than was Theodore Roosevelt in 1924. His position as a potential Presidential nominee is greatly enhanced by this latest victory. Albert Ritchie, re-elected governor of Maryland, retains his chances for the same honor.

Incomplete returns from Wyoming indicate that Nellie Tayloe Ross, the last remaining woman governor in the country, was defeated by Frank C. Emerson. Of governors elected Tuesday 14 are Republicans and 12 are Democrats.

OF THE eight states in which prohibition referenda were held, six voted wet, one voted dry but elected a wet senator, and one voted dry entirely. The wet majorities in Illinois, New York and Wisconsin, where the Anti-Saloon league counseled drys not to participate, were overwhelming. Nevada, California and Montana also voted for modification of the prohibition laws. In Colorado and Missouri the drys were on top. Wayne B.

Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, admitted the drys had had setbacks all over the country and declared these only "challenged the drys to get busier than ever."

One Washington correspondent says: "An examination of the returns all over the country will show that Republicans who ran wet in dry territory were either defeated or had hard contests. The tendency shown by this election will go far toward making more Republicans nervous if the prohibition issue is to be fought out on its merits in 1928. What the fanatical drys will do in that kind of a contest will have considerable bearing both in framing the issue and in the outcome."

IMMEDIATELY after it became known that Senator Butler was defeated the air was full of reports that he would at once resign as chairman of the Republican national committee. It is understood in Washington that he will not quit this post without the President's consent and that in any case his resignation will be postponed for some time. If he should step out now, it would be assumed that this meant Mr. Coolidge would not be a candidate for renomination, and on this question the President has been silent.

CONGRESSMAN MARTIN MADDEN of Chicago, the able chairman of the appropriations committee of the house, makes the welcome announcement that taxes on next year's incomes will be cut between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000.

"I am certain that another reduction can be made and I will recommend it, as I did the last one," the congressman said. "There will be a surplus in the treasury at the end of this year. It will amount to about $250,000,000. Next year we will undoubtedly be able to arrange a new tax cut, to become effective in 1928 on 1927 income."

"NOTHING can happen to me until I have finished my work," declared Premier Mussolini after the sixth attempt to assassinate him had failed, and it would seem that his fatalistic attitude is justified. This time it was in Bologna, where the duke was attending the congress for the advancement of science. An eighteen-year-old youth pushed through the crowds and fired a pistol point blank at the premier, the bullet ripping through his coat. Before he could shoot again the lad was pounded to death by the infuriated mob. As always before, the attack on their leader's life enraged the Fascists tremendously and there were anti-French demonstrations accompanied by bloodshed in various places. The police asserted they had uncovered a great plot, the assassin being a mere tool, and hundreds of arrests were made. The Italian government apologized for attacks on French consulates and France accepted the explanations, but the feeling between the two peoples is becoming extremely bitter. The Italians are convinced that the anti-Fascist plots are hatched in France, and the French believe Italy is scheming to get possession of Nice and the Riviera and part of France's north African colonies.

French police, after a year of watching, descended on a nest of Catalan plotters against Spain in Perpignan and arrested 93 conspirators on the eve of their proposed uprising for the independence of Catalonia. The revolutionists had hoped their revolt would spread throughout Spain and result in the downfall of Dictator De Rivera if not of the monarchy.

PRELIMINARY hearing of the Almee McPherson case in Los Angeles resulted in the holding for trial of the evangelist, her mother, Mrs. Kennedy, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Slaff, their chief accuser. They were bound over to the Superior court on augmented counts of criminal conspiracy. If convicted, they face possible penitentiary sentence of one to ten years on the first count of the indictments; that of obstructing justice; one to five years on the second count, that of preparing false evidence; and one to fourteen on the third, conspiring to suborn perjury. Kenneth Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple and the man with whom the state charges Mrs. McPherson occupied a cottage at Carmel by the Sea during the time she was supposed to have been the captive of kidnapers in Mexico, was bound over to Superior court on the assumption that he will be arrested in time for trial. If he is not arrested by that time, the charges will be kept alive against him.

ISHPEMING, MICH., was the scene of a distressing mine disaster when a great section of swamp land broke into the Barnes-Hecker iron mine and filled up the underground passages. Fifty-two men were trapped by the cave-in and all of them perished. Water rushed into the mine after the mud and filled it almost completely. Rescue crews were on hand promptly but could not do nothing to save the miners.

MEXICO'S campaign against the Yaquis of Sonora is proceeding, according to plans laid by General Obregon. First a number of airplanes flew over the mountains and totally destroyed the Indians' towns with explosive and incendiary bombs, and many of the inhabitants were killed. Hundreds of others were then taken prisoner and these are being scattered in other localities, the able-bodied men being enlisted in the army.

FIGHTING between the Liberals and the government forces in Nicaragua has been resumed, despite the resignation of General Chamorro, president de facto. Large quantities of arms and munitions are being received by the Liberals from Mexico and in one battle last week they carried a Mexican flag—but were badly defeated. Salvador and Costa Rica are reported to be supporting the Conservatives, while Mexico, Guatemala and perhaps Honduras are helping the rebellious' faction. The entire east coast of the country is patrolled by United States naval units and Washington insists the quarrel must cease and Adolfo Diaz be chosen president.

RULING on a case from Louisiana, the Supreme court of the United States decided that both the federal government and a state may lawfully prosecute a person in their respective courts for violations of their prohibition laws growing out of the same act. Discussing the contention of double jeopardy, the court, in an opinion by Justice Van Devanter, to which no dissent was announced, held that "the eighteenth amendment contemplated that the manufacture of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes may be denounced as a criminal offense both by the federal law and by the state law; and that these laws may not only co-exist, but be given full operation each independently of the other. Only offenses against the laws of the United States are cognizable under its authority. Those against state laws are cognizable only under the authority of the state. And this is true where the same act is an offense against both a law of the United States and a law of a state."

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE BELL, JR., commander of the Thirty-third division in France and one of the outstanding generals of the World war, died in Chicago, and his funeral was the occasion of a great gathering of Illinois officers and doughboys who had served under him, loved him and admired his bravery and intelligence. Another notable taken by death was Harry Houdini, magician extraordinary and exposer of spiritualism frauds. # TO COTTON FARMERS

Much has been said about the difference in weights on cotton put up in Round Bale as compared with the usual square bale method

The point is: Square Bale bagging weighs 20 pounds, whereas Round Bale bagging weighs 5 pounds, which makes 15 pounds more weight to add to Square Bale,—commonly called tare difference.

The following table explains this difference in figures:

Difference in weight on Bagging	Square Bale Price	Money Difference	Difference reduced to Points	To equalize, Round Bale Price Should Be
15 Lbs.	10c	$1.50	30	10.30
15 Lbs.	10½c	$1.58	31½	10.82
15 Lbs.	11c	$1.65	33	11.33
15 Lbs.	11½c	$1.73	34½	11.85
15 Lbs.	12c	$1.80	36	12.36
15 Lbs.	12½c	$1.88	37½	12.88
15 Lbs.	13c	$1.95	39	13.39
15 Lbs.	13½c	$2.03	40½	13.91
15 Lbs.	14c	$2.10	42	14.42
15 Lbs.	14½c	$2.18	43½	14.94
15 Lbs.	15c	$2.25	45	15.45
15 Lbs.	15½c	$2.33	46½	15.97
15 Lbs.	16c	$2.40	48	16.48
15 Lbs.	17c	$2.55	51	17.51

We have the Square Bale press, as well as the Round Bale, and earnestly wish you to have your choice of the method which seems to you most advisable.

Our desire is to gin your cotton and let you name the method. Service as well as to please is our motto.

First Baptist Church Notes

Our attendance was good at every service last Sunday, but some of the most constant and regular of the "faithful few" were not present. One new member was received for baptism. Contributions were above normal. A good spiritual power pervaded the atmosphere. We are gaining ground every Sunday religiously. The evangelistic fires are rekindling.

Next Sunday morning the text will be found in Prov. 13:13. "Christian Rewards Here and Hereafter." We will discuss the rewards of service and of sacrifice. For the evening hour the subject will be, "Will the Lord Save a Man Who Is Sincerely and Honestly Mistaken About the Way of Salvation?" Read the text—Prov 14:12. We intend to discuss the common belief of unsaved persons that salvation will be rewarded for religious lives. Mohammedans, Confucians, Hinduists and Buddhists as well as Catholics and several Protestant churches all believe that religion will save a man's soul. Are they right? Everybody invited alike, of any religious sect or creed or none. No fraudulent reading of sermon notes, but plain, honest and simple gospel preaching. You can not misunderstand us. We are not specially concerned whether you like or dislike us; we want you to know our Lord and to have for your own self an actual and certain experience with Him.

Sunday afternoon will be the time for regular monthly business meeting of the church. We have some important matters coming up for consideration. All members should attend.

The bridal pair were accompanied by several of their young friends. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Adamson and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Everett. ### No Engine Fumes in Buick Closed Cars!

In the 1927 Buick, the new Vacuum Ventilator pulls engine fumes and gases from the crankcase and ejects them outside the car.

This vital new Buick improvement does away with noxious odors. It adds greater luxury and pleasure to enclosed car operation.

The Vacuum Ventilator serves another very important purpose. With it, crankcase vapors have no opportunity to condense and dilute the oil. Owners of 1927 Buicks are advised to drain their crankcase oil only 4 times during the year.

For luxury, and for economy, own a Buick.

WHY THE LIGHT BILLS ARE HIGHER IN WINTER THAN IN SUMMER

THIS CHART SHOWS THE AVERAGE HOURS OF ARTIFICIAL LIGHT USED IN THE AVERAGE HOME, AVERAGING THE DAYS OF EACH MONTH, AND EACH MONTH OF THE YEAR.

Average Electric Lighting Hours Each Day

January.....	6 hours 32 minutes
February.....	5 hours 38 minutes
March.....	4 hours 10 minutes
April.....	3 hours 48 minutes
May.....	2 hours 57 minutes
June.....	2 hours 33 minutes
July.....	2 hours 56 minutes
August.....	3 hours 9 minutes
September.....	4 hours 00 minutes
October.....	4 hours 54 minutes
November.....	6 hours 11 minutes
December.....	6 hours 51 minutes

This chart shows why your electric bills are considerably higher in December than in June. The average use of electric lights in a residence in December is the heaviest of the year.

In December the average use is nearly 7 hours a day, whereas in June the average is only 2 hours 35 minutes. From June to January the daylight hours decrease and electric lighting hours grow. In January the daylight hours grow and electric lighting hours decrease, and this condition continues from month to month until we again reach the balmy days of June.
