FATHER AND SON BANQUET A SUCCESS

The Father and Son Banquet in the First Baptist church basement last Monday night was a well attended and most enjoyable affair. Among the guests from out of town were I. E. Jolly, Scout Executive of Memphis, A. L. Chase, President of the Lions Club of Clarendon, and Lions W. H. Patrick, Sam M. Braswell, O. C. Watson, H. T. Burton, J. R. Porter, U. J. Boston and Fred Rathjen, all of Clarendon. The program was as follows:

Invocation—O. C. Watson.
Community Singing, led by Mr. Jolly.

"Eats"
Address of Welcome—Rev. C. B. Brooks.

Response—J. R. Porter.
Toast to Lads—C. L. Johnson
Toast to Dads—Euster Simmons.

Talks on Scouting and Lionism by I. E. Jolly, A. L. Chase, O. C. Watson, W. H. Patrick, and Sam M. Braswell.

Mr. Jolly will meet with the boys at the Baptist church next Monday night to organize a Scout Troup. A committee of three was appointed to secure a charter for a Lions Club here.

DEMONSTRATION CLUB

The Hedley Rural Demonstration Club met with Mrs. John Koeninger Tuesday, May 7th, this being an extra meeting in this month. Quite a lot of business was disposed of, and a program on "Mother" was rendered by Mesdames Acord, Mann and Culwell. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess to sixteen members and two visitors. The Club adjourned.

Tuesday, 14th, the Club held its regular session in the beautiful new home of Mrs. Bob Adamson, with sixteen members and six guests, three of them from out of town, Mrs. Jeff Acord of Wellington, Miss Arnett of Amarillo, and Miss Edwards from College Station, who is the State Assistant Home Demonstration Agent. She gave a very helpful address which was enjoyed by all. She also had us fill out some questionnaires for an agency in Washington. After business was disposed of, Miss Thompson gave a very elaborate demonstration on Club Refreshments and how to serve. After which the hostess served dainty refreshments. We had eaten so much, some one made a motion we adjourn before we had to eat again. So we adjourned to meet May 28th with Mrs. Mann.

SCHOOL BOND ISSUE "GOES OVER BIG"

The $45,000 bond issue for the erection of a high school building here was carried in great style by the voters of Hedley Independent School District last Saturday—the majority being almost seven to one.

This means a nice new building which will be ready for the opening of the next school term, about Sept. 3rd. It also means the retaining of our classification and affiliation, which we were in great danger of losing on account of lack of room, etc. Now that danger is overcome and the road ahead is in good condition.

Commendation is due Beard and Faculty for good work well done. They "seen their duty and done it."

Editor Estlack of The Donley County Leader was a pleasant caller at this office yesterday.

BUY MILK COWS NOW—I will bring 40 2 to 4 year old cows to Memphis to be sold Saturday, May 25. All fresh or to be fresh in a few days. Also 40 head of yearlings, nearly all of them bred, 20 heifer calves, and 2 young bulls. S. M. Lawson.

MOTHERS DAY SOCIAL

A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by the grandmothers of the town last Thursday when they were guests of the ladies of the Baptist Missionary Society at the home of Mrs. L. E. Thompson. After all the guests had arrived and the welcome had been given by Mrs. C. L. Goin, a pantomime from the old family album was given. As Mrs. Milner turned the leaves of the album living models appeared, each dressed in costumes portraying grandmother from baby days on through life—until she was pictured as a great great grandmother. During the pantomime appropriate music was rendered by Mrs. Brooks and daughters. Other numbers enjoyed during the afternoon were a vocal solo by Mrs. Landreth, a reading by Mrs. Moffitt, and a violin duet by Eleanor and Katherine Brooks.

Cream and cake were served during the social hour. A white carnation was given each guest as a favor.

TO MY FRIENDS

I have entered the subscription contest put on by The Donley County Leader, and of course hope to win the grand prize. I will greatly appreciate the support of my Hedley friends in the contest. I hope to see all of you if possible, but my work may not permit this, so I am soliciting your support thru the Informer.

Respectfully,
Ruby Moffitt.

Makes Life Sweeter

Children's stomachs sour, and need an anti-acid. Keep their systems sweet with Phillips Milk of Magnesia! When tongue or breath tells of acid condition—correct it with a spoonful of Phillips. Most men and women have been comforted by this universal sweetener—more mothers should invoke its aid for their children. It is a pleasant thing to take, yet neutralizes more acid than the harsher things too often employed for the purpose. No household should be without it.

Phillips is the genuine, prescription product physicians endorse for general use; the name is important. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Col. Tarleton

Col. John E. Howard

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ONE of the last acts of the closing session of the Seventieth congress was to pass a bill providing for the erection of a national monument on the Cowpens battleground in South Carolina. When this monument is erected, tardy recognition will be given to a "famous victory," one which is perhaps little known to most Americans but which was one of the most important of all the Revolutionary conflicts. The story of the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, the crowning event of the Revolution, is known to all, but Yorktown might not have been possible had it not been for two earlier victories. One of them took place at Kings Mountain, when the frontiersmen of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia overwhelmed the British leader Ferguson, and the other was the battle of Cowpens.

In connection with the action of congress providing for the Cowpens national monument the historical section of the army war college prepared a "historical statement," printed as a house document, which gives by far the best account of this battle that has yet been written. The importance of that battle is shown in the following statement from the document:

Tarleton (leader of the British at Cowpens) in his narrative, commenting on the two disasters which the British suffered in South Carolina, said that the fall of Ferguson at Kings Mountain was a catastrophe which put an end to the first expedition into North Carolina and that the battle of Cowpens overshadowed the commencement of the second expedition. This comment, taken in conjunction with the apprehension of George Washington that "the Southern states will look upon this victory as much more decisive in its consequences than it really is," briefly summarizes the result of the battle of Cowpens. The effect at the time was to heighten greatly the patriotic cause and to distress the British army and their Tory sympathizers beyond measure. It was the second link in the chain of events soon to be followed by others, which finally led to the surrender of Cornwallis' army at Yorktown.

To have a proper understanding of this battle and its importance it is necessary to take into account the military situation in the South and some of the previous events. Briefly, these were as follows:

Following the capitulation of Charleston on May 12, 1780, all of South Carolina was in a condition of subjugation within a few months, and in September, British headquarters were moved to Charlotte Town, N. C. Prior to this Lieutenant Colonel Ferguson had been detached with a small force of provincials to organize the militia and operate on Cornwallis' flank. On the seventh of October his entire command was lost at Kings Mountain. Following this disaster the British field army was withdrawn more than sixty miles to Wynnemborough and there remained on the defensive while awaiting information relative to the rehabilitation of Gates' army (which had suffered a disastrous defeat at Camden on August 16) now commanded by Greene.

Lieutenant Colonel Tarleton, the only officer remaining after Ferguson's death, used by Cornwallis for the command of reiving troops was sent into the district north of Ninety-Six to oppose General Morgan, and somewhat later Cornwallis resumed his march northward. Tarleton and Morgan met at a battle noted for the unusual tactics adopted by the Americans. The British were defeated with heavy losses by a force inferior in numbers, a considerable portion of which was militia.

Cornwallis hoped to destroy or drive out of South Carolina the corps commanded by General Morgan. . . . There was also hope that by rapid marches the British main army would get between Greene and Virginia and by that means force the Americans to fight without receiving any reinforcements from that state or, falling in this, to oblige Greene to quit North Carolina with precipitation and thereby encourage the friends of the Crown to make good their promises of a general rising to assist the British commander in re-establishing the royal government.

Morgan's purpose had been to harass Cornwallis' foraging and scouting parties and being more than a hundred miles away from Greene at the time, Cornwallis believed that Tarleton could crush Morgan before Greene could come to his aid. Morgan knew that Tarleton was coming after him but he had no intention of engaging in a battle until he could do so on ground of his own choosing.

Cowpens Battlefield Marker

topped the ridge along which the Mill Gap road runs and these were selected as lines of development for the American troops.

The main position was on the elevation just south of the ravine in which camp was established. To its front for 300 yards there is a scarcely perceptible slope downwards, beyond this the slope is greater, dropping off into a shallow ravine 700 yards from the main position. To the rear of the main position and just west of the camp site is an elevation slightly higher than that of the main position. This ridge continues across the road in a south and southwest direction but at a slightly less elevation. From either side the terrain between the two was visible under and through the trees. The ground offered no cover for either the attack or the defense except such as was furnished by the trees. The flanks of both armies were exposed as the terrain was favorable in all directions for the operations of mounted troops. The ravine in which Morgan camped and one on the opposite side of the road offered but little interference with the movement of foot or mounted troops.

Morgan's plan of battle was to use the Maryland Continentals and the Virginia militia of equal worth to the Continentals as many had served in previous campaigns) in his main position on the summit of the southernmost ridge and outside the Mill Gap road. Washington's dragoons to the number of 80, augmented by the 45 militia under McCall, were the main reserve posted in the rear of the northernmost ridge where ground cover was sufficient to protect them from hostile observation and fire and sufficiently near "to be able to charge the enemy should they be broken." The militia were to form an interrupted line on the flanks in front, which position was to be held only temporarily when they were to withdraw and reform on the flanks of the main position after reorganization had been effected and lead what assistance they could as an additional reserve.

At this time Howard's Maryland and Delaware Continentals consisted of 127 men. They were placed on the left of the line, astride the Mill Gap road. To their right were Captain Bestie's and Major Triplett's companies of Virginia militia, under the command of the latter and totaling about 180 men. Captain Tate and Buchanan, with about 100 of the Augusta riflemen of Virginia, supported the right of the line. In the advanced position, which was to be abandoned early in the fight, were about 200 militia from North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, under Colonel Pickens. These troops were situated to guard the flanks. Major McDowell of the North Carolina volunteers was posted on the right flank, 150 yards in front of Howard's line. Major Cunningham of the Georgia volunteers was on the left flank at the same distance in front of Howard's line. To the right of Major McDowell were posted the South Carolina volunteers under Colonels Brannon and Thomas. To the left of Major Cunningham was posted the remainder of the South Carolina militia under Colonel Hayes and Major Hammond. The latter commanded Major McCall's regiment, he being with Colonel Washington.

From Pickens' line of militia small parties of riflemen were sent 150 yards farther to the front to skirmish with the enemy. McDowell commanded those in the right sector of the skirmish line and Cunningham, those in the left sector. Patrols covered the front and flanks to give warning of Tarleton's approach.

Tarleton broke camp at 1 o'clock in the morning, determined to engage the Americans before they could cross the Broad or in case they made an early march and continued their withdrawal to strike them when astride the river.

When the British commander saw the disposition of Morgan's troops he was delighted for he believed that he could make short work of them. He had a force of about 1,000 men and although he believed that Morgan's force totaled less than 1,000, he felt that he could ignore the value of the 1,000 militia and 300 backwoodsmen in Morgan's army and make a quick job of the 500 Continentals and 120 cavalry. Deploying his troops along the line of Morgan's front he moved to the attack at about eight o'clock. Driving in the front skirmishes under Cunningham and McDowell, from whose fire Tarleton's infantry had suffered but little, he advanced against Pickens' line of militia which kept up a fire by regiments for a short time and then, according to their orders, retreated. The British line had still suffered but little as it approached the Continentals and Virginians under Howard. As Howard's men opened fire the British advance was temporarily checked. At this moment, Tarleton sent the two troops of dragoons, which he had posted on each end of his line to guard his flanks, into action. He now had about 750 infantry in line, supported by two guns (three-pounders) and was opposed by less than 450 infantry in Howard's line. The militia which had withdrawn to the flanks of Howard's line had not yet reformed and it was doubtful at the moment whether they would be of any use. The dragoons charged upon them and gave charged with his cavalry on the left of Howard's line and relieved the pressure there somewhat.

It became evident to Howard that when Tarleton should bring his reserves into action his exposed right flank might be thrown into confusion and he ordered the flank company to change front to the right. His orders were misunderstood and this company began to retreat. The officers along Howard's line, seeing this, and supposing that orders had been given for a retreat, faced their men about and began to retire. Morgan, who was engaged in reforming the militia, was surprised to see his Continentals, who had fought so valiantly at Camden, in apparent retreat. He quickly rode over to Howard. "What are you retreating for?" he shouted. "Simply a change of position to protect my right flank," replied Howard. "Are you beaten?" asked Morgan. Pointing to his men, Howard said, "Men who are retreating in that order are not beaten."

Morgan then ordered Howard to continue his retiring movement until he reached the rising ground in the rear and then rode back to select the position where they were to make their stand. The British, seeing this movement and believing victory within their grasp, pressed forward with fixed bayonets. Tarleton's cavalry was ordered to charge. By this time not more than thirty yards separated the "retreating" Americans and the victory-flashed redcoats. Suddenly Howard gave a sharp order. His men wheeled right-about face and from their guns poured a sheet of flame which stopped the British in their tracks and threw them into great confusion. Howard then gave the order "Charge bayonets!" Back over the ground which they had just crossed swept Howard's Marylanders. Like a thunderbolt Washington's cavalry dashed down upon them. The panic which caught the British infantry spread to Tarleton's dragoons and a general flight followed. Tarleton tried in vain to rally his men but it was useless. Within twenty minutes after the battle began it was over and the British were completely defeated. Tarleton had suffered a loss of 110 killed, 200 wounded, and 531 taken prisoner. The American loss was slight—12 killed and 60 wounded. The spoils of their victory amounted to 2 standards, 2 cannon, 800 stands of arms, 100 dragoon horses and 35 wagons.

"It appeared to the British when Howard's line fell back," writes the army war college historian, "that victory was at hand and so it would have been had the line been composed of men less inclined to battle than were the Continentals of Maryland and Delaware. There was no delay or hesitation when the order to halt, face the enemy and fire, was given, and there then occurred in a moment a scene of dumbfounded surprise, confusion and panic seldom witnessed in battle. The outcome resulted in one of the most gloriously unexpected victories of the Revolutionary war.

As a result of this brilliant victory, Morgan and his men were given the thanks of the United States "for their fortitude and good conduct displayed in the action at Cowpens" under a resolution of congress, March 9, 1781. The resolutions further provided that a gold medal be presented to General Morgan; silver medals to Colonels Washington and Howard and a sword to Colonel Pickens.

Tarleton, in his report to Cornwallis, attributed his defeat "to the bravery or good conduct of the Americans; to the loose manner of forming which had always been practiced by the King's troops in America; or to some unforeseen event, which may throw terror into the most disciplined soldier or counteract the best-concerted designs." Whatever the reason, however, it was a crippling blow to Cornwallis, for the victory of Cowpens had deprived him of his most effective light infantry and, as later events proved, it led eventually to his downfall. On January 19 Cornwallis started in pursuit of Morgan to cut him off from joining Greene and, if possible, to recapture Morgan's prisoners. By a superb march Morgan eluded him and joined Greene in North Carolina. Then followed the masterly series of maneuvers by the "Rhode Island blacksmith" (Greene) which ended in the battle of Guilford Court House and finally forced Cornwallis to retreat into Virginia. He found his position at Yorktown in the North a trap. The British South-swooped down upon them and gave

"Pan" in His Stomach Not Culinary Utensil

They had a real laugh at the receiving hospital the other day. A man had been brought in who apparently was more frightened than hurt. He kept crying over and over again that he had swallowed a pan. At first the attendants thought he had been drinking or was out of his head, but as neither was the case they began to question him.

"You say you swallowed a pan? What kind of a pan?"

"A pan. Yust a pan Ay bane swallow, by yimminy!"

"But what kind of a pan? You mean a frying pan?"

"No. You bane make fun of me. Ay swallow a fountain pan w'en Ay bane busy 'inkin'." — Los Angeles Times.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, for everyday ailments. Any hour of day or night that baby becomes full, or restless, Castoria will be more popular with mothers than today. Every druggist has it.

A TRIBUTE TO MRS. HOMER F. STEEN

She is gone, how we will miss her,
Who with us her place can fill?
Yet we have the consolation
That it was our Master's will.
God knows best, knew when to take her,
Yet our tears we cannot cease,
But our heart throbs with gladness
That her soul and body is in peace.
Bodily pain she had to suffer,
Knowing soon that she must go,
That her earthly days were over,
Leaves her loved ones here below.
Loved ones, as you're mourning for her,
Knowing that she's stilled in death,
Remember she is at home in Heaven,
Richer far than this world's wealth.
But great the joy, the bliss eternal,
To know her work has been well done,
That a rich reward awaits her,
A starry crown of life she's won.
Up there will be no nights of sorrow,
No tears of pain, no sighs of woe,
That land is full of joys and beauty,
Built for His chosen ones to go.
Grieved ones, you will meet her yonder,
Will know her, grasp her loving hand,
Will sing glad songs with her forever
In that glorious, happy land.
Weep not, tho' from you she's taken,
'Twill be but for a little while,
The road you travel to o'ertake her
Is just a short, tho' rugged, mile.
—Cordia E. Holland.

LOTS OF BABY CHICKS

E. Nest Eggs, of Eds Produce Co., informs the Informer that he has received, so d and delivered 5200 baby chicks in Hedley this week. That's a good many chicks for one week, and Mr. Eds represents only one of several hatcheries that are active in this territory just now.

Mrs. C. E. Watkins and Miss Otey Watkins left this week for a visit in Mineral Wells and other points in that part of the state.

We are making a special offer on the Fort Worth Star Telegram from now until December 1st. If you are not getting a daily, better look into this.

A Great War Hero

There is a story of gallantry and heroism—of Count Felix von Luckner, who disrupted Allied shipping on two oceans, gambling with his own life many times, but without taking that of any foe. Lowell Thomas, who writes his story, says he is the most romantic and mysterious figure produced by the Central Powers, in the World War; one fit to stand alongside of that other great figure of Thomas' recounting, Lawrence of Arabia. Do not miss the story, "COUNT LUCKNER, THE SEA DEVIL."

Does your MOTOR SING or POUND?

STOP in the middle of a good substantial hill and listen to the various sounds coming from motors which are climbing it. Some glide along like song birds—others bellow forth like jazz-crazed saxophones. Why the difference? Simply this—the fuel.

With Conoco Ethyl Gasoline in the tank, your motor literally sings along because Conoco Ethyl delivers a steady, even flow of power—up hill or on the level. It won't knock. Hence, it eliminates that pounding noise—so hard on the ears as well as on the motor.

Being a proper admixture of Conoco, the extra miles motor fuel and Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound, Conoco Ethyl is the acknowledged pace setter for summer driving. It keeps the engine cool at all speeds—delivers maximum power and assures smooth, quiet running.

And best of all, it more than saves its slight extra cost by reducing wear and tear and by giving you the greatest motoring satisfaction you have ever enjoyed. Try Conoco Ethyl today.

ORDER OF SALE

The State of Texas,
To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Donley County, Texas—Greeting:

Whereas, on the 25th day of March, 1929 in cause No 1819,
The Panhandle Construction Company, a corporation recovered in the District Court of Donley county, a judgment against Nat S. Perrine and G. A. Tomlin-son for the sum of Seven Hundred Fifty and 70 100 Dollars, with interest thereon from the 26th day of March, 1929, at the rate of 8 per cent per annum and costs of suit; and, whereas, the said judgment is a foreclosure of a paving lien on the following described property, to-wit: The sum of Three Hundred Seventy five and 85 100 and half the costs as against Lot 5, Block 155, town of Clarendon in Donley county, Texas, and the sum of Three Hundred Seventy five and 85 100 and half the costs as against Lot 6, Block 155, town of Clarendon in Donley county, Texas, as paving lien existed on the 4th day of December, 1926, and it is ordered and decreed by said judgment that said property be sold as under execution in satisfaction of said judgment. And if said property shall sell for more than sufficient to pay off and satisfy said sums of money, the excess shall be paid over to the said G.

A. Tomlinson. But if said property should not sell for enough to pay off said sum of money, the balance due shall be made up under execution, and such order of sale shall have the force and effect of a writ of possession, and the officer executing same shall make a good and sufficient deed and place the purchaser of said property in possession thereof within 30 days from date of sale.

Therefore, you are hereby commanded that you proceed to seize and sell the above described property, as under execution, and make a good and sufficient deed, and to place the purchaser of the same in possession thereof within 30 days after the day of sale, and you apply the proceeds thereof to the payment and satisfaction of said sum of Seven Hundred Fifty and 70 100 Dollars together with the interest that may be due thereon, and the further sum of Twelve and no-100 Dollars, costs of suit, together with your legal fees and commissions for executing this writ.
And if the said property shall sell for more than sufficient to pay off and satisfy said sums of money, then you are hereby directed to pay over the excess thereof to the defendant. But if you fail to find said property, or if the proceeds of such sale be insufficient to satisfy said judgment, then you are directed to make the money, or any balance thereof remaining unpaid, out of any other property of the defendant, as in case of ordinary executions.

Herein fail not, but due return make hereof within 60 days, showing how you have executed
the same.

Given under my hand and seal of the District Court of Donley county, at my office in Clarendon, this 29th day of April, 1929.

It costs very little to recondition a MODEL T FORD

THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company will continue to supply parts as long as they are needed by Ford owners.

So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T, we suggest that you take it to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts that may be necessary.

You will find this the economical thing to do because a small expenditure now will help to prevent costlier repairs later on, increase the value of the car, and give you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of only $2.60 you can have your generator put in first-class condition. A new universal joint will be installed for a labor cost of $3. Overhauling the carburetor costs $1.50; steering gear, $3.50; radiator, $7.50. A complete overhauling of the rear axle assembly runs between $5.75 and $7 for labor. An average price of $22.50 covers the overhauling of the motor and transmission.

These prices are for labor only because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The cost of these parts is low, however, because of the Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Congress Is Struggling With Farm Relief and Tariff Change Problems.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD. CONGRESS, which met in extraordinary session at the beginning of the week, is struggling with the problem of farm relief...

Tuesday President Hoover's message was read to congress. It was brief and business-like, as might have been expected...

Reorganization of the tariff commission and of its method of operation. Provision for domestic valuation of imports in cases of foreign undervaluations.

Provision for the taking of the census of 1930. Reappointment of representatives in congress. Suspension of the national origins immigration restriction system.

Concerning tariff changes the message was rather vague. It said congress should be careful not to make alterations that would impair our export trade or cause retaliation by other nations.

IES of the federal reserve and which affected stock market prices by restricting the amount of money for speculation were attacked in the house by Frank R. Reid of Illinois and Loring M. Black of New York. Representative Reid offered a resolution for appointment of a commission to investigate the activities of the federal reserve board.

might have been unduly subject to foreign influences.

Representative Black defended speculative activities on the New York Stock exchange and insisted there was no occasion for alarm on account of the greatly expanded operations there.

APPOINTMENT of Charles G. Dawes as ambassador to Great Britain was confirmed by the senate without roll call. Other Presidential nominations were those of Joseph M. Dixon of Montana to be first assistant secretary of the interior...

WET members of congress lost no time in getting into action along their favorite lines. On the first day of the session a lot of bills and resolutions were introduced in the house designed to repeal or weaken the prohibition legislation...

Wisconsin's lower house, obeying the mandate of the referendum, voted to repeal the state prohibition act and to wipe out the state prohibition commission...

Washington's reply to Canada's protest against the sinking of the mexican runner 'I'm Alone' in the Gulf of Mexico by a coast guard vessel was delivered to the Canadian legation.

HARRY F. SINCLAIR, seeking to avoid imprisonment for contempt of the senate, has asked the Supreme court of the United States to reconsider its recent decision upholding his sentence.

RUSSIA, supported by Germany and Turkey, again presented to the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission her plan for the immediate reduction of armaments.

H. G. WELLS, the noted English novelist and publicist, addressing the German reichstag in Berlin, gave utterance to a grim prophecy

He said: "Our world is marching on to a new war, into which we will fall headlong as we did in 1914 unless we start to work systematically for peace. The chief danger is connected with Russia, which, through compulsory isolation, is becoming a country of inflation, is becoming a country which is likely to lead to a tremendous struggle between Russia and the western powers."

GENERAL CALLES, having the Mexican rebellion practically cornered in the state of Sonora, went to work carefully and systematically to crush it finally there, the campaign being under the active direction of General Almazan.

Yellow gold made Las Vegas what it is today; white gold will build this town of 7,000 persons into a city that may become the most important western manufacturing centers between Salt Lake City and the Pacific coast.

SO WIDELY divergent were the proposals of the allies and the Germans in the matter of German reparations that the conference of experts in Paris ended in complete failure. Schacht offered for Germany 37 annuities of 1,650,000,000 gold marks...

KING BORIS of Bulgaria, who has been on a round of visits to various European courts, was saved from probable assassination by the vigilance of the Sofia police.

BABE RUTH being one of our national "heroes," his every move is of interest to the people. So it is in order to report that the King of Swat took unto himself a bride last week in the person of Mrs. Claire Hodgson...

JOSEPH W. BAILEY, former representative and senator from Texas and almost the last of the noted orators of the South, fell dead in a courtroom in Sherman, Texas, in the midst of a lawsuit.

The body of Myron T. Herrick, late ambassador to France, was interred in Cleveland, Ohio, after impressive ceremonies in the Trinity Episcopal cathedral which were attended by eminent representatives of the American and French governments...

"Ghost Camp" Is Coming to Life

Once Thriving Nevada Mining Town Grows on New Interests.

Las Vegas, Nev.—Forgotten mining town—one of the ghost camps of the West—Las Vegas today is staging a come back and appears destined to become the metropolis of the Sagebrush state.

The Boom is On. Vegas "boosters" see great times coming and the boom is already on. Besides being the reaction point for laborers employed at the mammoth project, Vegas will become the logical manufacturing center for a number of industries.

Cattle Rustling No Longer Plagues West. Winnemucca, Nev.—Cattle rustling, once one of Nevada's greatest problems and the cause of many hangings, like many other western traditions, is fading.

of iron ore. Las Vegas hopes to turn the ore into steel. At El Dorado Canyon, 35 miles south, are gold mines that have produced $5,000,000 in ore.

And Las Vegas has its eyes on the nonmetallic. Only 50 miles away are borax deposits that have produced $4,000,000 of the crystalline.

The city now offers to the resident and the visitor all that is left of those hectic days of '49, but the one-time peril of roaring six-shooters is as nothing compared to the modern day menace of "wildcat" land operators.

Money undoubtedly will be made by some who are fortunate to know the country and to pick safe assured ventures, but thousands are being or will be swindled by sinking their savings after listening to the fairy tales of unscrupulous land sharks.

Many "Wildcat" Ventures. It has been estimated that in and around Las Vegas itself more than $500,000 already has been sunk in wildcat real estate ventures and that the list is growing.

The town limits of Las Vegas—"The Meadows"—enclose 14 square miles. In the days when men were taking gold from the ground near Tonopah, Las Vegas was but a watering hole and outfitting station.

In the old days Las Vegas was a "man's town." and that is what it is today. The bootlegger is on the spot. The newcomer and the tenderfoot must have amusement—and they do not go without.

Helium Gas Field Is Discovered in Kansas

Wichita, Kan.—It is believed a new helium gas field has been discovered in Kansas. C. M. Coleman and Dr. Sol Edgerton have drilled in a test near Alma, in Wabaunsee county, which is making one-half million cubic feet of gas daily for a depth of 576 feet.

FORMER HEDLEY BOY IS HONOR STUDENT

Friends of Mrs. J. M. Green, who formerly lived here but now lives in Gainesville, will rejoice with her that her son, Grover, was one of the three highest ranking graduating class members of the Newsome Dougherty Memorial High School of that city. The honor students were selected on the basis of their work during the year, Grover getting a grade of 94.5, highest of any boy in the school. This entitles him to a scholarship, according to the Gainesville Daily Register of May 8, which adds: Grover Green, son of Mrs. J. M. Green, 115 Belcher street, was a member of the 1928-29 football squad, a member of the Senior Hi Y Club, and the only student in typewriting to receive a gold medal for his work this year.

Mrs. Ralph Moreman became ill last Saturday and her condition soon grew so serious that she was hurried to Amarillo where an appendicitis operation was undergone. Reports from the hospital are that she is now improving nicely.

1919 STUDY CLUB SPONSORS LIBRARY

The 1919 Study Club has for some time hoped to sponsor a library in Hedley. The president appointed a committee early in January to make plans for this work. It was decided to have a book reception and club social combined to test the interest of the public at large. Thursday, May 2, afternoon and evening, in the home of Mrs. C. E. Johnson the reception was held and the response was indeed gratifying. 140 volumes were received and a number of others are promised. The first guests came from 3 to 4. Mrs. Vinyard gave the welcome address; Miss Eleanor Brooks a violin solo, Mrs. Brooks at the piano; Mrs. Rollie Bramley sang, Mrs. Brooks at the piano; Geneva Whittington read; piano solo by Mrs. Thompson.

The second hour was from 4:30 to 5:30. Mrs. Frank Kendall gave the welcome; Mrs. Hooker piano solo; Miss Oley Watkins a piano solo; Miss Beaty two readings; a duet by Mmes. Simmons and Moffitt with Mrs. Thompson at the piano. Delicious cake and cream was served by the hostess, assisted by Junior Club members. The evening hour, 8 to 9, was given to the Junior Club and their guests. Mrs. Leonard Tims gave the welcome address. Music, etc., featured their program.

By your hearty response you have encouraged us to greater effort toward a more perfect Public Library, and we thank you. Any book you may wish to donate will be accepted gladly. The library, when ready, will be for all who love books and have a desire to read. We are indebted to the Security State Bank and Mr. Noel for our present home. He kindly consented to our using the back of the bank, for which we are very grateful.

The most pleasant event in the 1919 Study Club year was a social given members by the Junior Study Club shortly after their organization to show their appreciation of the senior club. Friday afternoon, March 22, at the home of Miss Alice Noel this social was given. Various games, happy conversation and a feeling of good fellowship caused the time to slip away rapidly. A delicious two course luncheon was served by the girls, assisted by their sponsor, Mrs. Hobart Moffitt.

Our President, Mrs. Kinslow, and the entire Club are very proud of this junior organization. Their enthusiasm, helpfulness and loyalty have put new life and greater zeal into our own club work.

DID MORE GOOD THAN EVERYTHING

Amarillo Mother Tells of Her Son's Benefits from Orgatone—Suffered Six Years

Mrs. D. M. James, a highly esteemed resident of 307 Garfield, Amarillo, Texas, while at her home recently gave me the following statement in regard to her son's case:

"My son has suffered with stomach and liver trouble for six long years and he has tried all kinds of medicines and treatments, but since taking Orgatone it has benefitted him more than anything. He couldn't eat anything without food souring on his stomach and he always felt tired worn out and so account. He has suffered with terrible headaches and has had a bad case of constipation. At times he would get so bilious and dizzy he could hardly stay on his feet.

"We read so much about Orgatone in the local papers that we decided to try it and it was a lucky day for him. He can eat most anything he wants now and food digests properly and seems to do him some good. His general condition seems to be much better. His case of constipation is a thing of the past now and he is just as fit as can be. I am glad to give this statement for him for we want our friends to benefit by Orgatone for what it has done for him."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Hedley by the Wilson Drug Co.
