WE ARE THANKFUL

Ingratitude is a universal failing. We nurse our woes and curse our foes, but fail to count our blessings or refuse to admit them. The trouble is we can't have what somebody else has, we can't "keep up with the Joneses"—we can't have all we want. And that very thing, if we could only see it, may well be our greatest blessing. Comparatively few people are strong enough to stand prosperity. This truth has been demonstrated all too often.

But what we started to say is that every one who reads this has something to be thankful for. Even our mistakes, or at least a majority of them, can be turned into blessings. Not a doubt about it.

So today let's leave off worry and envy and jealousy, and admit the truth—that whatever trouble we have is self-inflicted, and that the Divine munificence has thrown on the years invariably been in excess of our deserts.

We are in receipt of a letter from Mr and Mrs J. R. Adamson at Turkey, enclosing check for subscription renewal. This check reaches us at a given time every year—it's as regular as clockwork. Of course we have other regular ones too, and we're taking this opportunity to express our appreciation of them. The Adamsons are well, and expect to visit in Hedley the coming week end.

J. R. Boston is riding around in a new Buick sedan. It's a real beauty, too, and looks like it could make smooth roads out of rough ones. We haven't been invited to ride in it yet, but expect to be after he reads this.

OUR COUNTY ROADS

The Clarendon News says that "There is a movement on foot in Donley county which will do away with an evil fifty years old" etc., referring to "the move to centralize the road work of the four commissioners precincts under a road superintendent, placing all road machinery and crews under his direction and holding him responsible for the working and maintenance of all county roads."

This editor wants good roads, and we must have them, but he doesn't like so much of this "centralized" business. It may be all right for those in the "center" but not so good on the outer edges. And how are you going to "maintain" something that doesn't exist? The idea will be a good one, probably, when and if we get some roads. At present we have a long series of country lanes—hog wallows, or what have you—that need working and tending. A short crop, both in quantity and quality, has made it imperative that many of our citizens earn some extra money next spring and summer. Why not put all the money we can spare into the project, hire all the honest men who want to work, under honest, working road foremen, and have one more county wide "country road working"—to last until it's done. And keep all that 90-ton machinery locked up in jail or some other place; it has no business on the kind of roads we've got. To furnish work for men who want to work is even more important than good roads.

If The News will help do this, then when we get some roads we'll help 'em "centralize."

P. T. A. "GET TOGETHER"

The Parent Teachers Association will have a Social or "Get Together" meeting in the High School auditorium next Thursday night, Dec 5th.

Everybody invited, and it is hoped that a great crowd of parents and friends of the school will be present.

H. P. Wilson went to Clarendon last Friday and was operated on the same day for appendicitis. We are glad to hear that he is recovering nicely.

Mrs. D. Curd is reported quite sick at present. We hope to hear of her early recovery.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Elections in Virginia and Elsewhere Cause Democrats to Rejoice.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

DEMOCRATS were jubilant over the results of elections held in various states, seeing in them evidence that the split in the solid South made last fall by the Republicans was not permanent; that the people do not like the Republican tariff measure now pending; that the Democrats have a good chance to cut down the Republican majority in both houses of congress next year and pave the way for a real fight in the next Presidential campaign; and, as Chairman Jouett Shouse of the Democratic national executive committee put it, "the country, for the time being at least, is Democratic-minded."

Most interesting was the election in Virginia where the regular Democratic ticket, led by Dr. John Garland Pollard for governor, was easily victorious over the coalition of Republicans and anti-Smith Democrats which was directed by Bishop Cannon, C. Bascom Slemp and Henry W. Anderson and which had William M. Brown for its gubernatorial candidate. The political power of Bishop Cannon in the Old Dominion was completely upset and the use of religious strife for partisan purposes was discredited, and observers generally admitted that Virginia was restored to the list of safely Democratic states.

Kentucky also gave the Democrats cause for rejoicing, for they retained a two-thirds majority of the lower house of the state assembly and a majority of the senate. Last year Kentucky was carried by Hoover and the Republicans elected nine out of eleven congressmen.

Mayor Jimmie Walker of New York city retained his office by virtue of a genuine landslide, his plurality over Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican-Fusion candidate, being almost 500,000. George U. Harvey, borough president of Queens, was the only Republican to win in the metropolis. In a dozen other New York cities the Democrats elected mayors.

Indiana voters apparently turned flatly against the Ku Klux Klan, for throughout the state the candidates who had Klan affiliations generally were defeated by Democrats. The wets also saw in the results evidence that the people were tired of the domination of the Anti-Saloon league. Reginald Sullivan, Democrat, won the Indianapolis mayoralty by a two to one vote, and in many other state centers, most of them former Republican strongholds, the Democrats were victorious.

Detroit staged an exciting mayoralty contest between former Mayor John W. Smith, liberal, wet, and Catholic, and Charles Bowles, former judge and a Catholic. The Klan, prohibition and religion all figured in the fight and the race was so close that the result was in doubt to the very last. Then it appeared Bowles had won by about 6,000 majority.

SENATOR BINGHAM of Connecticut has received his punishment for charging that the subcommittee on lobbying was packed against the administration, though ostensibly his offense was the employment of a lobbyist to post him on tariff matters, by virtue of which employment said lobbyist gained admission to executive meetings of the finance committee when it was working on the tariff bill. Bingham refused to apologize and so Senator Norris, chairman of the judiciary committee, who had named the subcommittee on lobbying, introduced his resolution censuring Bingham for action that "is contrary to good morals and senatorial ethics and tends to bring the senate into disrepute." Twenty-two Republicans voted against the resolution, but a like number lined up with thirty-two Democrats and the measure was adopted, 54 to 22.

THAT remarkably voluble Senator Brookhart of Iowa, after giving fair warning, arose in the senate and told his story of the "Wall Street dinner" given in Washington three years ago by Walter J. Faby of New York and attended by a number of senators and financiers. It was a fairly amusing old tale but far from exciting. Brookhart said that before entering the dining room each guest was offered a silver flask of liquor, and that he and Senators Smoot and Gooding declined. But he failed to name those senators who accepted the flasks, saying that the "boys" could answer for themselves. Beside Brookhart at the feast sat E. E. Loomis, a railroad official and connected with Morgan & Co., and on his other side was Otto Kahn. "During the course of the dinner, Mr. Loomis took his hip flask out of his pocket and he poured out some of that alcoholic stuff," said Senator Brookhart. "I have had enough experience in the chemical laboratory to know that it had a heavy content of alcohol. He poured that in the glass, and then he poured in some water—it was too strong to take raw—and he drank that. A lot of similar operations went along down the table."

The Iowa senator was called before the grand jury in Washington last week and presumably told that body the same story of the Faby dinner, though he may have given more vital details. In the course of his speech in the senate he berated the administration for the failure to enforce the dry law along the Canadian border and in the best clubs and hotels. He especially attacked Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and said President Hoover should dismiss him from the cabinet.

MORE than the expected success is attending the efforts of the Democratic-radical coalition in the senate in changing the tariff rate schedules. After having their way with a number of chemicals, the coalitionists showed their strength effectively when the first major industrial schedule was reached, that fixing the duty on pig iron. By a wide majority they were successful in fixing this rate at 75 cents a ton, just half that proposed by the administration group and 37½ cents less than the present duty. The vote was 48 to 30. Reed of Pennsylvania said this vote could only serve to confirm his contention that the tariff bill was dead and that the house could never agree to the changes which the coalition was making.

CHIEF witness last week before the senate lobby committee was A. J. Arnold, Washington representative for the Southern Tariff association and the American Taxpayers' league. The inquiry revealed some of the methods employed to get tariff protection for products of Southern states and to promote abolishment of the federal inheritance tax. A long list of names of more or less prominent men and corporations from whom Arnold obtained contributions was made public, and Arnold sought to justify his collections from them and all his other efforts. He gathered in about $225,000 in the past year but was a trifle hazy as to how this amount was expended.

CHARLES GATES DAWES, our ambassador to Great Britain, on the eve of his return to his post in London spent a day or two in Washington conferring with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson. He was given a detailed account of the conversations between the President and Prime Minister MacDonald and discussed various phases of the naval reduction situation. Ambassadors Dawes and Guggenheim were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover at a dinner, as were the members of the senate foreign relations committee, and there was something of a sensation when it was learned that Senator Hiram Johnson of California, a member of the committee, was not invited. Papers made a lot of this. Mr. Hoover promptly explained that the list of guests was used

PRIME MINISTER MACDONALD reported to the house of commons on his visit to the United States and thanked the American officials and people for their cordial welcome and the honor paid him. He gave little information on the agreements reached in Washington but in the course of his speech admitted the matter of Great Britain's fortified bases off the American coast had been discussed. Mr. Mac Donald's government does not face any considerable opposition in the matter of the naval agreement, but in domestic affairs, especially the plans for settlement of labor troubles, its course is not to be so smooth. The question of granting dominion status to India, or rather how soon this should be done, also has given rise to bitter debate. One of the first acts of parliament was to approve the resumption of relations with Soviet Russia.

ANDRE TARDIEU formed a new cabinet for France, a "concentration" government with Briand still in as foreign minister, but there were fears that it would be short lived. The Communists, Socialists and Radical Socialists decided to vote against it solidly, and they would need only fifty right wing votes to overthrow it. Such a result would seriously endanger the success of the Young plan and the Rhineland evacuation.

German Nationalists and Fascists mustered enough votes to call for a plebiscite on the Young reparations plan the result of which shall be binding on the reichstag. The present government has a majority in the reichstag and that body will reject the proposal for a plebiscite, whereupon it will be submitted to the national electorate. To override the reichstag's veto will require 20,000,000 supporters, or half the total eligible electorate, and so the scheme is evidently doomed to defeat.

CONFLICTING reports and claims made uncertain the situation in the civil war in China, but there evidently had been some bloody fighting between the rebel "people's" forces and the Nationalist government troops. There were no important developments on the Manchurian front. The American Red Cross sent over $20,000 for the relief of the white Russians who survived the massacres perpetrated by the Soviet forces in that region.

UP IN Minneapolis the Co-operative Farmers Northwest Grain corporation was organized with capital of $3,000,000, to be owned by the Farmer Elevator and Grain Pool associations of Minnesota, the Dakotas, and Montana and to act in co-operation with and as the agency for the Farmers National Grain corporation in the four states.

FOLLOWING a brief spurt of recovery, stock prices on the exchanges went tumbling again until most of them reached the low figures of the previous week, and each day many more billions of paper values were wiped out. If the New York bankers' pool was doing anything to support the market, it wasn't visible, and none of the bankers would say a word. The bears were just permitted to have things their own way, and the terrified amateur speculators who had survived the earlier debacle submitted their wool to the shears almost unresistingly. Later came some spasmodic recoveries.

ROSCOE C. McCULLOUGH was appointed by Governor Cooper of Ohio as United States attorney to fill the vacancy created by the death of Senator Theobald. He has served in that position for one year. November 22, 1922.

Community Building

Public Interested in

Exterior of Buildings

Most buildings are visible from the streets, which belong to the community, and therefore the interests of the community as a whole, as regards external appearance, should not be sacrificed to the wishes of the owners of individual buildings, says Professor Wilkinson, fellow of the Royal Institute of British Architects, in "Architecture."

The interior arrangement and treatment of buildings are a matter for the owner, and will affect comparatively few people, but the external appearance will affect tens of thousands. By "external" one does not mean the facades only, but all parts which may be visible.

We know what results without control. At present we usually have a parade of aggressive affection in the way of competitive advertisement, often conceived with a deliberate striving after the unusual in order to attract attention.

Freedom from control has made our cities less pleasant places to live and work in than they need be. This freedom is a present-day characteristic of many things besides architecture, but is it a good thing? Without control we get chaos, waste and ill will. The freedom of the many necessitates the control of the few.

Needs of Town Library

Something of Problem

A library building may be stored with all the wisdom of the ages, and yet, unless it can attract readers, it might as well close its doors. The average town library reader looks to his local library for entertainment. The tired business man is less eager in pursuit of knowledge than the bright high-school pupil. The library, liberally supported from the town treasury, must give him something for his money. It is necessary, then, to make a judicious selection among the novels of the moment, of the making of which there is no end. A story of real merit is always worth the price paid; but it often happens that books bought on the recommendation of one or another readers prove disappointing. Some libraries have had a rule that no work of fiction shall be purchased until, say, two years after the date of publication, the theory being that a story which retained its popularity for so long must be worth having; but this rule is too severe. Many excellent stories are forgotten after six months. There seems to be no way with regard to fiction, other than to select among the best sellers as best one can.—Portland Oregonian.

Home's Resale Value

Many people today in buying a home keep in mind its possible quick resale value. A hundred years ago, with conditions so very different from now, men and women bought homes for generations to come. Now there are many different reasons which make it desirable and even necessary for a family to change; perhaps even to move to another city. Therefore it is merely the part of wisdom to consider the home purchase to a certain extent at least in the light of an investment.

Choosing a home with obvious accepted standard values, assuming that on other points it is acceptable, means that it will sell more easily—should a sale become necessary—than a home which borders on the bizarre or the "too different."

Zoning Activity Spreading

That a steadily increasing number of municipalities are taking steps to protect property values through zoning regulations, is shown in a survey just completed by the division of building and housing of the Department of Commerce.

In 1916, the survey shows, zoning regulations were in force in only eight cities. The number increased slowly until 1920, after which the progress was rapid. At the end of 1928, a total of 754 cities, towns and villages in all parts of the country, having a total population in excess of 37,000,000, had regulations designed to promote construction and use of buildings so as to conserve the interests of home owners and other property holders, in conformance with the public welfare.

Plant Trees to Mark Dates

Looking ahead to the country leads to memorial tree planting walks, roads of remembrance, memorial parks, memorial forests. There is no program to which does not lend itself says the Tree association of which will send you free instructions. Graduates plant memorial walks, a date is marked by tree planting, a stone memorial should be set for proper setting of memorial.

Needless Pain!

The man who wouldn't drive his motorcar half a mile when it's out of order, will often drive his brain all day with a head that's throbbing.

Such punishment isn't very good for one's nerves. It's unwise, and it's unnecessary. A tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin will relieve a headache every time. So, remember this accepted antidote for pain, and spare yourself a lot of needless suffering. Read the proven directions and you'll discover many valuable uses for these tablets. For headaches; to check colds. To ease a sore throat and reduce the infection. For relieving neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatic pain.

People used to wonder if Bayer Aspirin was harmful. The doctors answered that question years ago. It is not. Some folks still wonder if it really does relieve pain. That's settled! For millions of men and women have found it does. To cure the cause of any pain you must consult your doctor; but you may always turn to Bayer Aspirin for immediate relief.

Children Cry for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups. Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Night Life Gets You if You Don't Watch Out!

War Vet almost takes count, but pals help.

HOW would you like it if every two weeks you had to give up your good night's sleep, and work all night instead? This is what happened to W. H. Huggins of 90 Savannah Street, Rochester, New York. When he came back from the War, he took a night "shift" job.

"It certainly shot me all to pieces," said Mr. Huggins. "I was licked before I started. My pals noticed that the night shift got me, so during a 'lunch' period in the middle of one night one of them said to me, 'Hug, I bet I know what's the matter with you. This irregular life gets us all unless we watch out. Why don't you try Nujol? Most of the boys are onto this little health trick. Try it!'"

This kind of man wins no matter where you put him

"Well, that very night on the way home I got a bottle and with a few days' use I felt like a different person. I don't know myself. You can get a job, even a night one, if you get the poisons out of your system."

Nujol. It absorbs the poisons in your system (we all have them) and cleans them out regularly. It cures you no matter how long it takes, and it forms no habit. Nujol contains no drugs. It is simply the famous method of bodily purification. You can get a bottle at any drug store, in a sealed package, less than the cost of a couple of glasses of beer today—to prove

IN MEMORIAM

Mrs. Millie Dawson was born in Benton county, Ark., Aug. 7, 1866. She was married to Mr. C. F. Dawson in July, 1882. Nine children were born to this union, two of whom died in infancy. There remain to mourn their loss her husband, three sons and four daughters besides other relatives and a host of friends.

Sister Dawson was converted at the age of sixteen and united with the Baptist church in which she lived a consistent member for 31 years. In 1913 she sought and obtained heart parity, and soon after united with the Church of the Nazarene, in which connection she lived and served faithfully until the Master called her home Nov. 17, 1929.

Too much can not be said as to her faithfulness to her church, which she dearly loved. She was a good wife and mother, always thinking of things to do to make her loved ones happy. She was also a good neighbor. To know her was to love her. She will be greatly missed by all who had the privilege of knowing her. We weep not as those having no hope, for truly a saint of God has gone to her reward. We bow in submission to God's will, knowing that our loss is her gain. "I cannot say, I will not say. That she is dead, she is just away. With a cherry smile and a wave of the hand. She has wandered into an unknown land, And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be, since she is there." — A Friend

Valuable Service

The most valuable feature of electric light and power is SERVICE.

SERVICE not only is that of placing a certain amount of electrical energy at the disposal of its customers; it is planning and building strong, aggressive and dependable electric power facilities so vital to the economic welfare of West Texas.

—This Company understands the significance of the responsibility which it bears to the people of this rapidly growing "Land of Opportunity." The ability of its cities and towns to grow industrially and commercially depends in a large measure upon the character of the electric power service which this Company renders.

—Looking to the future growth and development of this great land, the West Texas Utilities Company is ever building for the industrial and commercial needs of tomorrow.

—With three major generating stations, 15 auxiliary power plants and more than 2,000 miles of transmission lines, this Company places at the disposal of its customers an inexhaustible supply of electricity and a type of service not surpassed in the great metropolitan centers of the United States.

They Gave Us Thanksgiving - and Much Besides!

PILGRIM MOTHER MONUMENT, PLYMOUTH, MASS.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

EVERY American knows that we owe our annual holiday of Thanksgiving to the Pilgrims, that little band of 102 self-called Englishmen who, after two months of weary journey across seemingly endless seas, came at last to the "stern and rock-bound coast" of their future home. Even after they had reached their goal safely, their situation was not one which would ordinarily be considered a cause for gratitude. Their supply of food was alarmingly low; winter lay heavy upon the land before them and gave little hope of replenishing their larders; and they were confronted with unknown dangers in this wilderness.

Yet no sooner had they made their historic landing on Plymouth Rock on December 21, 1620, than they celebrated the "first Thanksgiving" ever observed in this country. That celebration is described in the words of William Bradford, their first governor, as follows:

Being thus arrived in good harbor and brought safe to land, they fell upon their knees and blessed the God of Heaven, Who had brought them over the vast & furious ocean, and delivered them from all ye perils & miseries thereof, again to set their feet on ye firme and stable earth, their proper element. . . . They had now no friends to welcome them, nor inns to entertain or refresh their weatherbeaten bodies, no houses or much less towns to repair to, too seek for succour. It is recorded in scripture as a mercie to ye apostle & his shipwrecked company, that the barbarians shewed them no small kindness in refreshing them, but these savage barbarians, when they mette with them were readier to fill their side full of arrows than otherwise. . . . Neither could they, as it were, see up to ye top of Pisgah to view from this wilderness a more goodly countree to feed their hopes; for which way soever they turned their eye (save upward to ye heavens) they could have little solace or content in respects of any outward objects. . . .

They had much more cause for thanksgiving a year later and the result was another celebration of a kind which has survived in something of its original form for more than 300 years and promises to continue for all time as one of the most distinctively American of all our holidays. That first winter had been a terrible one for the Pilgrims. Huddled aboard the Mayflower until late in March, sickness laid a heavy hand upon them and at one time all but six were suffering from some ill or other. By April they had established rude homes on shore, the Mayflower had left and they started planting crops.

The Indians, instead of being ready "to fill their side full of arrows," proved friendly and helpful in planting and caring for their crops of corn, barley and peas. All through the summer they watched those crops with anxious care and when October came there was a bountiful harvest. Says Governor Bradford:

They began now to gather in ye small harvest they had, and to fit up their houses and dwellings against Winter, being all well recovered in health and strength, and had all things in good plenty; for as some were employed in affairs abroad, others were exercised in fishing, about codd & bass & other fish, of which they took good store, of which every family had their portion. . . . All ye somer ther was no want. And now began to come in a store of fowle, as Winter approached, of which this place did abound, when they came first (but afterwards decreased by degrees). And of these they took many, besides venison. Besides they had about a peck of meale a weake to a person, or now since harvest, Indian corn to right proportion, which made many afterwards write so largely of their plenty here to their friends in England, which were not fained, but were true reports.

Now indeed did the Pilgrims—there were only 55 of them now; hardship and undernourishment had taken their toll during the winter and spring and 47 of the original company were buried on the hill overlooking their landing place—have cause for gratitude. Accordingly, Governor Bradford proclaimed a three-day celebration of thanksgiving. Furthermore, in appreciation of the Indians' friendly aid, it was decided to invite Chief Massasoit and his tribesmen. Edward Winslow, one of the participants, tells of the celebration as follows:

Our harvest being gotten in, our Governour sent five men on fowling, that so we might after a more special manner rejoice together, after our had gathered the fruit of our labours; these in one day killed as much fowle, as with a little help beside, served the company almost a week, at which time amongst other recreations, we exercised our Armes, many of the Indians coming amongst us, and amongst the rest their greatest King Massasoit, with some ninety men, whom for three days we entertained and feasted, and they went out and killed five Deere, which they brought to the Plantation and bestowed on our Governour, and upon the C. tain (Standish) and others.

It is from that historic feast 308 years ago that our annual observance of a Thanksgiving day may be traced and, although some of its original significance may have been lost by Americans of the present day, it is one of our heritages from the Pilgrims. But an annual feast day and another holiday from our every-day tasks is in reality the least of the reasons why we should hold the Pilgrims in grateful remembrance.

Before they left England, to seek a home first in Holland and later in America, these Pilgrims had been known as Separatists, that is, people who believed that the church and state should be separated. So they brought to the New World the germ of the idea of religious freedom.

Their idea of the separation of church and state became one of the cardinal principles of the nation when it was founded 150 years ago.

But as a distinguished Englishman, E. Shipley, vice chancellor of Cambridge, writing of these people at the Tercentenary celebration in 1920, said:

"Too much stress must not be laid upon the fact that the Pilgrims were a separatist group. Still, their gain, their contribution to the American Republic, is not to be underestimated."

of enduring industry. To be a successful colonist one must not only have the light-hearted adventurous spirit of Hawkins, Drake, and Raleigh, but a deep and abiding seriousness of purpose. This the Pilgrims had, and in spite of persecution and affliction their stern qualities enabled them to endure to the end, and if they were intolerant, they were less so than their successors, the Puritans. They supplied that element in New England which is expressed by the Englishman who has described the New Englander as the "sturdy well-made flesh."

In order to come to a land where they could have the same freedom which they desired, they entered into a financial agreement with the merchants of London, whereby they should have the capital and the risk of the venture, and the Pilgrims should have the land and the labor. The terms of the agreement were that the Pilgrims should have the land and the labor, and the merchants should have the capital and the risk. The terms of the agreement were that the Pilgrims should have the land and the labor, and the merchants should have the capital and the risk.

AUTO FIXED FOR WINTER DRIVING

Good Advice on How to Prepare for Cold Weather.

The motorist can take advantage of the pleasant fall weather to check over his car or have his service station do so in order that it will be in proper condition to withstand the rigors of winter driving.

The following recommendations on putting the car in shape for winter are gleaned from an engineering bulletin:

Clean Chassis First.

The first step in the procedure is to clean the chassis, engine and body, as dirt can hide many defects.

Tighten all bolts and nuts.

Check front wheels for proper alignment; remove caps and re-grease; adjust wheel bearings and replace hub caps.

Check steering gear for proper adjustment.

Drain the old oil from the transmission and differential and pour into both about a quart of kerosene. At the same time put in the radiator a few handfuls of sal soda and then drive the car two or three miles. The kerosene should then be drained from the transmission and differential and water drained from the radiator. A winter grade lubricant recommended by the car manufacturer should then be put in the transmission and differential.

Inspect the rubber hose connections, replacing if necessary, after which the radiator should be filled with clean water; and at the first appearance of cold weather an anti-freeze solution should be added.

Next, drain oil from the engine; flush crankcase and put in a winter grade oil.

If the oil filter has been in use for 10,000 miles install a new cartridge.

Examine Wiring.

Inspect wiring and clean contacts; oil generator and starting motor and clean the armatures and brushes; set generator charging rate ahead for winter driving; check breaker points for proper spacing; replace spark plugs if used more than 10,000 miles; if used less than this, clean them; adjust gaps; clean battery with ammonia water solution; tighten terminals and grease with vaseline; inspect water level and if gravity reading is low, recharge.

Oil and grease all parts that require it.

Adjust brakes and relines if necessary.

The motorist should also examine the top of his car and will do much to preserve it if he will spend a few minutes in going over the top with a good grade of top dressing.

Many car manufacturers are now equipping cars with a summer and winter driving adjustment on the carburetors and the proper adjustment to the carburetor should be made at this time. The fuel and carburetor strainers should also be taken out and cleaned.

With these simple but highly essential adjustments, a winter of carefree driving should be enjoyed.

MOTOR QUIZ

How Many Can You Answer?

Q. Does an oil filter remove crankcase dilution?

Ans. No. Its function is to remove dirt and foreign matter from the oil, which it does efficiently for 10,000 miles, after which the filtering unit must be renewed. This makes the filter as good as new again.

Q. Does all the oil pass through the filter?

Ans. Yes. In some filters the oil is completely filtered from four to eight times an hour.

Q. What causes discoloration of the oil even though the car is equipped with an oil filter and is it harmful?

Ans. Extremely small particles of carbon in the oil. No, it is not harmful.

Q. Is an oil filter bag likely to rupture?

Ans. No. Engineering tests have proved that it is able to withstand a pressure of 150 pounds to the square inch which is much higher than the pressure attained in the engine.

Temporary Repairs Made on Broken Tire Chain

If a driver should be so unfortunate as to break so many cross pieces of the tire chains that they will not remain in place around the wheel, the chains should be removed and wrapped around the tires as one would wrap a rope. This, of course, applies only when the car is stuck in the snow or in deep mud, for after getting under way, the cumbersome "lump" should be removed. Owners should get into the habit of repairing tire chains, the work requiring little effort. The garage makes a charge of 10 cents, even for one new link, which the owner can install in less than one minute with a chain tool which most supply stores offer, or which can be had from the chain manufacturer.

Traffic Jams and Joy Riders in Olden Days

There were traffic troubles and tolls and joy riders 100 years ago, when the automobile and bicycle belonged to the far future and the "iron horse" and train were gazed upon in curiosity.

Newspapers of a century ago were filled with stories of traffic mishaps and careless drivers of stages.

"Back in the days when great-great-grandfathers rode, the authorities took serious counsel of such things as speedsters, road hogs, joy riders, drunken drivers—and of how females' were enticed from their homes by the lure of the stage coach, and how pedestrians on the sidewalks were too frequently injured by recklessly driven wheelbarrows," declares a recent issue of the American Motorist.

Clamp Very Serviceable in Removing Car Dents

An ordinary iron C-clamp proves serviceable in many cases in removing dents from automobile fenders. To prevent damage to the finish, a wooden block of suitable size is placed under the mud guard and another on top of it at the point where the dent is located. These blocks should be of smooth, hard wood. The clamp is screwed tight as possible with the fingers. Then the clamp is rocked back and forth. The pressure and the motion slightly flattens the dent and the screw of the clamp can again be tightened. The operation is repeated until the dent is completely flattened out.—Popular Science Monthly.

Horn Is Neglected by Many Automobile Owners

Approximately 95 per cent of owners of automobiles never oil their horns. Because the horn gives trouble, little attention has to it. The horn usually outlasts the car if conscientiously oiled. It is necessary to oil it as frequently as the other mechanism of the car—twice a year being sufficient.

AUTO NOTES

Strong interest in horseshoe pitching proves that the horse is still influential. The auto tire pitching contest may arise later.

The same folks who wonder why the moth is such a darn fool as to fly into a flame, will try to beat a railroad train over a crossing.

Americanism: "An Eastern woman makes a fad of collecting the tags given in various countries for traffic violations."

To speed funeral processions, the municipal council of Paris, France, has voted to supplant horse-drawn hearses by automobiles.

In the days of the motor car, too, a marvelous

ATWATER KENT RADIO

SCREEN-GRID ... ELECTRO-DYNAMIC
Battery or House-Current

"SERVICE . . . WHAT FOR?"
look again . . . It's an Atwater Kent"

ASK any Atwater Kent owner if he ever does anything more than tune in, sit back . . . listen.

Service? He's bought the kind of radio that almost never needs it, the kind that you will find in most farm homes today.

It's as mechanically perfect as a well-made watch. Please look inside and see. Every part is precise—accurate to a hair's breadth. That's why you can expect uninterrupted performance month after month, year after year.

This holds true for the millions of Atwater Kent Radios sold in past years. It holds true for the greatest radio Atwater Kent has ever built—the new Screen-Grid Set—Electro-Dynamic, of course.

You can have this new set operated either by batteries or from house-current, in a compact table model or a wide variety of fine cabinets. Either type assures you a radio that lets you listen every time you turn the switch.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

Milk is good, and water is good; but that doesn't mean that the milk pail should be set under the pump.

"What do You Mean . . . Penetrates Metal Surfaces?"

A Plain Answer to a Reasonable Question

THE Germ Essence, imparted to highly refined paraffin base crude under a patented process exclusively owned by the Continental Oil Company for North America, actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a permanent, protective film.

No matter how long a motor stands idle or how cold it gets, this film is present and immediately lubricates the moving parts when the engine turns over.

It takes five to ten minutes—often longer—for the oil in the crankcase to fully flood the bearings in the starting operation. During this period, automotive engineers agree, from 40% to 60% of motor wear occurs. This wear is reduced to a minimum by the ready-and-waiting lubrication which the Germ Essence imparts to CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oils, retaining it on and in the surface pores.

CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil stands up under every condition of stress and strain. It will not break down or burn nor will it evaporate to any appreciable degree.

No other oil possesses these qualities.

So positive are we in our convictions, so positive have been our tests of this remarkable oil, that we are perfectly willing for you to select any other oil—and we will meet you on equal terms.

Go now to your favorite dealer and begin immediately to profit from the use of this remarkable oil.

METHODISTS TO PLEDGE SUNDAY TO BUDGET

The Board of Stewards of the Methodist Church announce that there are to be no collections at the Methodist Church this year, as they have adopted a budget system to include every item to which the members are expected to contribute this year.

They announce that Sunday will be Pledge Sunday, at which time the members will be asked to sign pledges to the budget, this pledge to represent their entire contribution to the church for this year. It is hoped that by Sunday night every member will have pledged, and that these pledges will be sufficient to cover the budget.
