CONGRESSMAN JONES ON MORGAN & CO.

One of the most important phases of work in Congressional committees during recent years is the investigation now being conducted before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Already a number of facts have been brought to light concerning the international banking establishment of J. P. Morgan & Co., which has come to be looked upon by the American people in an almost legendary light because of its great power in the financial world.

The outcome of this investigation, which will embrace not only the Morgan interests but other big banking institutions as well, will no doubt result in beneficial legislation which will enable the federal government to strengthen its control over the money and credit of the nation. It may also lead to further banking reform and to the strengthening of other laws as well. Work along this line has already been started.

An example of the inadequacy of present statutes can be found in the testimony that J. P. Morgan gave to the Senate investigating committee, in which he said that he paid no income taxes during 1931 and 1932, and very little in 1930. However, he did pay income taxes in England.

The American people may well be astonished by such a revelation. The fact that America's symbol of moated power paid no income tax is startling. Mr. Morgan explained this fact by saying that he had to partake of the losses of his company as well as the profits. In this country capital losses are not taxable, while in Great Britain they can not be deducted in making individual returns.

Another interesting revelation which has been made is the extensive control which the company has thru its twenty partners. These partners hold 18 directorships in banks and trust companies and 167 directorships in corporations.

These points are only a few examples of the many things the committee is learning, and as the hearings progress more interesting developments are likely to result. It is the intention of the investigators to bring into the open the practices of these private interests which hold such a grip on our economic structure.

If present laws have been violated, punishment should follow immediately. If the laws have been evaded by various methods, then they must be tightened and revised to insure justice to every American citizen.

No matter what the final outcome of the investigation may be, already the little individual has come to realize how insignificant he is in the midst of this enormous centralization of holdings and control.

The balance must be restored, and the irregularities must be corrected.

THAT GOOD GULF GAS -- NOW LUBRICATED

Houston, Texas, May 25—Lubricated gasoline, a distinct innovation in motor fuels, was announced today by the Gulf Refining Company through O. H. Carlisle, District Sales Manager. The new product is the result of extensive experimentation in the Gulf Refining Co. laboratories, and is the answer to the problems presented by lubrication engineers by the increased demand of the motoring public for high speed motors.

The new product is being marketed under the slogan "That Good Gulf Gas—Now Lubricated" at no extra cost. Mr. Carlisle pointed out salient features of the new fuel, according to Mr. Carlisle, are: Correct lubrication of the valve seats and top of the valve stem, which tends to prevent drying and pitting of valves; plus lubrication to the upper part of the cylinder walls, thereby reducing wear on cylinders and pistons as well as piston rings.

Through use of lubricated gasoline it is now possible to design motors with smaller clearance between piston and cylinder wall and also to use tighter fitting oil rings. In some cases two oil rings are used, all of which reduces crank case motor oil consumption.

Ease of starting with lubricated gasoline is believed assured by the fact that when combustion chambers are flooded with lubricated gasoline in choking the motor valves are less apt to stick, while use of "That Good Gulf Gasoline—Now Lubricated" assures longer life for certain parts of the motor, such as valves, guides and piston assembly.

Just arrived this week, Peter Pan Prints, 15c per yard.

The Biggest News Since Fresh Gas...

That Good Gulf Gasoline is now lubricated!

GULF stations from Maine to Mexico are now offering a motor fuel that surpasses everything that has gone before.

This great fuel is new in everything but name. It actually gives greater mileage and cuts repair costs—because it lubricates the upper cylinder and valves.

The new lubricating Good Gulf Gasoline contains an upper cylinder lubricant made by an exclusive Gulf process. This lubricant—correctly blended with that Good Gulf Gasoline, the famous fresh gas —makes today's greatest non-premium fuel for modern motors!

It lubricates the intake valves, prevents sticking, and forms little or no carbon!

If you want to get more and lower cost miles out of a gallon of gas, try the new Good Gulf Gasoline today. It doesn't cost a penny more.

S. GRAND JURY IS PROBING BIG BANKS

Senate Committee Also Is Busy Investigating.

New York.—An epidemic of jitters is sweeping the Wall Street financial district. The impression prevails that the government is "after" big bankers and nobody knows where the lightning is going to strike next. Some of the leading figures of the profession have already been knocked from their pedestals by preliminary bolts. A federal grand jury is probing into the situation with might and main—presumably on orders direct from Washington. The scope of the senate inquiry is being extended, with particular attention to "private bankers and their part in the flotation of securities." Officials and books of some of the biggest houses of the street have been subpoenaed for examination. President Roosevelt has ordered a general cleanup of the situation and not the biggest by any means—banks of the city. Harriman, later indicted on fourteen separate charges of making false entries in the bank's books while he was president of the institution, was arrested and arraigned as he lay ill in bed in his home. "Irregularities" involved in the specific charges footed up to a total of $1,713,225. The accounts of 14 depositors were found to have been juggled—allegedly by the bank's president. The Harriman bank was the only one of major importance in the city which did not reopen after the March banking holiday. Another big banker to feel the impact of the administration's heel was Charles E. Mitchell, until recently head of the National City bank, which, as everybody knows, rates as one of the topnotch financial institutions of the country and indeed of the whole world. Banker Mitchell is accused in two federal indictments, one of them returned shortly after his resignation

Women Getting Into Line of Defense

Members of the Women's Air Reserve are undergoing intensive training in expert marksmanship with machine guns and in ambulance service in the line of fire. In their own preparedness campaign, their national commander is Florence Lowe Barnes. Similar training is given Japanese women by officers of the Japanese army.

It has been many a day since the country's hitherto all-powerful financial barons have trembled so in their boots.

Noted Banker Indicted.

The opening gun of the "cleanup campaign," one important phase of which is aimed at the modern bank practice of reckless "speculation with other people's money" was fired with the arrest of Joseph W. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company, one of the best known—although

Would Boss Austria

Prince Ernst Ruediger von Stahrenberg, who is only thirty-three years old, is ambitious to be the dictator of Austria, a la Hitler. He was with the Hitler putsch of 1923 in Munich, and fought with the German insurgents in Upper Silesia. He inherited vast estates with many retainers, whom he welded together in a private feudal militia of about eight hundred fighting men, completely outfitted with slogans and uniforms. He built up his little army into an important unit of the Austrian heilmwehr, of which he assumed supreme command. He has two helmeted men in the cabinet under Chancellor Dollfuss, and recently he issued a manifesto dissolving the schutzbund and providing for a federal commissioner to run the realm, intending to take that post himself.

and the other some two weeks later, of evading the payment of income taxes totaling more than $750,000 by concealing fictitious losses through the transfer of securities which were later resold back to him.

The second indictment charges the evasion of payment of $156,781.09 in income taxes for the year 1930 by a fraudulent sale of $750,000 worth of stock which the banker is alleged to have repurchased five months later for substantially the same sum.

Another Banker in Hot Water.

Still another "big league" banker in hot water with the government is Horace C. Sylvester, until recently vice president of the National City company, an affiliate of the National City bank, who is under indictment on a charge of third-degree forgery growing out of his testimony in the senate stock market inquiry about the time Mitchell was making his grudging admissions. Sylvester is accused in the true bill returned against him by the federal grand jury here of having directed the treasurer of his company to take $12,020 out of the account of a syndicate formed to float a Port of New York authority bond issue as an expense of the syndicate when it was really used for a loan to John E. Ramsey, general manager of the Port of New York authority. The loan, it developed, was made six weeks after the National City company had underwritten an issue of $60,000,000 in port authority bonds.

Activities and Scholarship

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Late Dean of Men,
University of Illinois.

There is a curious misconception among high school and college students that if you are going to do anything worth while in extracurricular activities you are bound to be a commonplace or indifferent student, and that if you go out after scholastic honors, it follows that you will get no nearer the athletic or activities field than the side lines.

"I don't want to have my nose in a book at the time," the aspirant for honors on the track team announces. "I want to do something else." So he loafs on the books, flunks economics 27, goes on probation and is ineligible for a year. What he really means is that he has a constitutional antipathy to hard work.

Our local high school held a public initiation a few weeks ago of the boys and girls who had been elected to the honorary scholastic society. I wasn't at all surprised to see in the group boys who had won their letters in football who were wearing medals for musical and journalistic excellence and girls who were quite outstanding in other things than scholarship.

"If you're going to be a Phi Beta," some loafer tells me, "you've got to give all your time to it."

It isn't true. One of the best guards we ever had on our team made Tau Beta Phi, honorary engineering fraternity, earned his living and was in love at the same time. Of course he had energy and concentration and desire to do well in each of the activities in which he was engaged. He won his letter, got enough to eat, made the senior honor society, and married the girl to whom he was engaged. What more could one ask? I know an end who made Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year, and any number of editors and managers and debaters who have done the same thing.

had known definitely he was going to die, according to a statement of his widow, Mrs. Wilma Aldrich.

She says Mr. Aldrich had discussed the probability of death with several of his close friends and had written a scientific article on death which he sent to his colleague, Prof. C. G. Jung of Zurich, Switzerland. Mr. Aldrich's theory held that every person, if he cares to search his mind, can predict his own death weeks ahead. Apparently believing in this theory and knowing his time had come, Aldrich, on the day of his death, placed all his business in order. Then he retired for the night and less than half an hour later he died of a heart attack, although a previous medical examination had shown him to be in excellent condition.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

A splendid bearing and posture is part of the equipment necessary to those who are graduates from West Point and Annapolis. Much of the reputation for being handsome which distinguishes this class of young men, is derived from this feature of their training. Whether or not they also consider the fact that a face is to an individual something the same as a flag is to a country, there is a certain amount of truth in it which civilians of both sexes do well to think about. Certainly it is important not only to the individual, but to those in contact with him or her, to "carry the colors" gallantly and with effect.

A person is observed by so many people in the course of a lifetime with whom no opportunity for conversation is afforded. Yet even strangers receive an impression, either of a person who is a discouraging individual or a cheering one, a gallant man or woman, or one indifferent to the great values that are in every life. By the expression in their eyes, smile and bearing, they advertise as plainly as does the flag of a nation, what is the nature of their allegiances. A casual glance at the individuals in any group will suffice to give an estimate of who "wear the colors" of a land of pessimism in which the citizens carry a constant burden around with them, to inflict its weight whenever possible on others; and also those who "wear the colors" of a more optimistic country where the best thought, and good cheer is in order.

A standard bearer, he who carries the colors in military functions, as well as drill where there may not be a band, would not hold his position long if he did not do it with the air of importance, authority, and pride, as well as erectness. One may argue that it is because he is always under inspection in so doing. The argument holds in private life also. Whether among strangers or not the individual is always "under inspection."

We have observed strangers, with good news in their possession which makes them walk as if to martial music and we have known that they had good news. And we have seen others, unconscious of our gaze, who advertised the fact of their failure just as plainly. The face "is the flag" which proclaims the sort of boundaries one lives within. To make public admission of unworthy ones is not anyone's necessity.

Seldom has there been a time when fashions in frocks lent themselves better to making over of old styles into new. Seldom has there been a time when the economy made possible by such styles was more desirable. The home dressmaker can, from discarded garments, have an interesting new wardrobe, not of so many dresses, but of up-to-date ones by taking advantage of these present voluminous sleeves of today, which, whether sleeves be long or short, require probably the use of the good parts of one old frock for them, while another frock goes into the main portion of the dress, with perhaps some of the sleeve material used as belt or trimming.

In this "warming over" two dresses into one, be sure to select well for each use of material. A heavier textile is best for the dress itself, with lighter colored and lighter weight goods for sleeves. Or the same weight of goods may be used for both parts, in which case the sleeves would be brighter. Or, the goods for sleeves may be both brighter and lighter weight. There is a notable exception in the disposal of light and heavier weight goods when it comes to velvet. Sleeves are frequently of velvet even when gowns themselves are in the goods called "sheers," which term applies to certain weaves not actually transparent, but of light and fine weave such as georgette and those of approximating texture.

HERE'S NEW LIGHT ON C. C.'S VOYAGE

Italian Bank Said to Have Backed Explorer.

The world, especially the American part of it, now must find itself possessed with mingled feelings toward the Bank of St. George of Genoa, Italy. This banking institution, the world now is reminded, has been doing business since 1252. Presumably it remains in sound condition and will not be calling on the R. F. C. for help.

Now the well-known Bank of St. George breaks into the news through the alleged discovery that it was this institution, and not the good Queen Isabella of Spain, that financed Columbus on his trip of inspection to the West. Here is something for the school histories, one of which says pointedly that "hard-headed business men, although they were anxious to find a new route (to eastern markets), were not willing to risk any money on such an uncertain venture." That is why hard-headed business men always succeed, a fact schoolboys should be acquainted with.

But if the Bank of St. George actually put up the money for the expedition, the standing of the banking business will be definitely improved in the eyes of the public. Encouraged by the news from Italy, modern business men will go to their bankers with renewed confidence that those gentlemen will finance Twentieth century Columboes in their business ventures.—Kansas City Star.

How to get to SLEEP

When you can't sleep, it's because your nerves won't let you. Don't waste time "counting sheep." Don't lose half your needed rest in reading. Take two tablets of Bayer Aspirin, drink a glass of water—and go to sleep.

Mrs. Georgie Lair left Monday for her home at Dalhart, after a visit here with her sister, Mrs. Fred Watt.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE OF LITTLE CARROL HOLLAND

Oh, how sad we feel today,
Since little Carrol's gone away.

We miss his sweet smile, and footsteps
As he went here and there,
And our hearts are filled with sorrow
When we see his vacant chair.

While down here we're sad and lonely,
And it's hard to understand
That all is joy and gladness
In that far and happy land.

Yes, the angels did rejoice
As they gathered 'round the throne
When they heard his sweet voice saying
"I've come to make this my home."

"Tho' I left my mother and daddy
Broken hearted, sad and blue,
I think that they'd not grieve so
Could they see me here with you.

"Little brother, little brother,
You will miss me, yes, it's true
And I know you'll often wish
That I were still down there with you.

"But I'm happy up here in heaven,
Up above the bright blue sky,
And some day you'll come and join me,
Then we'll never say goodbye."

—Mrs. Roy Meeks.

UNION MISSIONARY MEET

The Fifth Monday Union meeting of the Missionary societies of the churches of Hedley and our neighboring communities, was held at the Nazarene Church with Mrs. Carter, pastor, as hostess. Following is the program:

Subject: Africa.

Leader, Mrs. Carter.

Answer to roll call—A Missionary to Africa.

Poem, Give a Thought to Africa—Mabel Maness.

Keeping the Fires Alight—Mrs. R. F. Newman.

In Basaland—Mrs. Masterson
Back to Africa—Mrs. Cauthen (in Mrs. Howard's stead)

A Believer in Happiness—Mrs. Cauthen.

These subjects were ably presented, without exception. We regret that a number of women were absent on account of commencing sickness and else, for if one is really concerned for the workings of the church, and Missions in particular, it is an inspiration to be in these meetings and learn something of the difficulties, but great opportunities, of the one who gets a vision of what Real Service for the Master means.

The next fifth Sunday meeting will be in July with McKnight Auxiliary. While we had a good attendance this time, we hope to have a still larger one then.

After the program the hostess, assisted by others of her church and some of the girls from Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Auxiliary, served delicious ice cream and cake to the following: From McKnight, Mrs. Cauthen, M. E. Waddell, Grandma Waddell, Tate, M. J. Bales; from Windy Valley, Mrs. M. D. Buchanan, Noble and Josey; home folks, Mrs. Maness, Newman, Armstrong, Hendricks, McEwin, Masterson, Webb, Golliday, Carter, Dancan; of Circle No. 2, Misses Jonnie Webb, Nell Maness, Eula Curd, Mabel Maness, Ruth Duncan, Sarah Hendricks, Jackie Carter, Ola Curd, Lometa Culwell, Roxie Mavis Whiteside, and Mary Lane Hendricks.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Parrish of Bethany, Okla., Mrs. I. J. Spurlin and two daughters of Cloud Chief, Okla., and Mrs. Earl Gibbs and little daughter Drucilla of Wellington were visitors in the Fred Lovelace home Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. M. E. Wells returned Friday, May 19th, from Sayre, Okla., where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Wells' sister, Mrs. Annie Higgins. Burial at Cheyenne, Okla.
