COTTON GINNED

Up to Wednesday noon, the three Hedley gins and the Mc Knight gin had ginned a total of 1962 bales of cotton.

FOOTBALL

Friday afternoon the Hedley Owls overcame a 14 point lead, which Lakeview had run up in the first half by two lucky passes to score once in the third period and twice in the fourth period to make the score 20-20 tie.

The Lakeview team scored their first two touchdowns indirectly from recovering several fumbles made by the Owls. The Owls out played the visitors throughout the game, Hedley making 11 first downs to Lakeview's 8. The passing attack of the Owls failed to click with the exception of three or four times.

Friday the Owls journey to Turkey where they will try to pick turkeys.

RODEO AT MEMPHIS

Memphis, Oct. 31—With three performances off ring many of the best known riders and ropers in the Southwest and many bucking broncos, Brahms steers and wild cows, the American Legion here is sponsoring a two day rodeo Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 10-11, at the Hall County Fair grounds. An added attraction will be the night performance Saturday, Nov. 10 under the floodlights of Fair Park athletic stadium.

The rodeo is to be staged by Roy Mayes, former world champion bronc rider and veteran rodeo promoter, who staged one of the largest events of this nature in this territory here in 1922. At work long in advance, Mayes already has secured over 100 head of animals for the event and some of the outstanding cow boys in the Southwest have entered. The list of riders include such rodeo characters as Jonas de Arman, Savre, Okla., present all-around world champion and winner of many events from Ft. Worth to Barwell, Neb., and from Ohvonne to Madison Square garden, New York.

Odell Betall, Odell, also winner of numerous bronc riding and bulldogging titles; Buck Standifer of Oton, winner of the calf roping contest last year at the Roswell New Mexico State Cotton Carnival; Odus Riddle, Odell, a member of Tex Austin's western troupe that recently staged a rodeo in London; "Tuffy" Maddox, pushed forward by the city of Childress as the toughest bull dogger in the territory; "Sex" Harrison, Bailey, Okla.; Buddy Ellison, San Jon, N. M.; Hal Cooper, Woodward Okla., and numerous others, including entrants from the J. A. and Buckle L. ranches. Heading a score of bucking horses will be Northern Star, hard bucking, savage mustang from the Matador ranch, one of the best known rider busters in this section of the country.

More than 20 Brahma steers are to be brought here from South Texas for this phase of the entertainment, and nearly 50 wild cows and calves have already been secured for the wild cow milking and calf roping contests. There will be five different contest events at each performance, in addition to clowns, trick riding and roping exhibitions, kids' pony races and cow boys' relay races.

The afternoon shows will start at 2 o'clock and run between two and two and one half hours. The night performance is to be staged at 8 o'clock under the football floodlights. Admission at each performance will be 25 and 50 cents.

For the entrants there will be plenty of keen competition, with from 15 to 25 contestants in each event, and also $500 in prizes for the winners.

TOY REPAIR PROJECT

The Donley relief board has secured approval for labor to be used on a proposed toy repair project that will be sponsored by the American Legion. Legion members will make a county wide drive for old toys, paints and other materials that can be used in the repair and construction of toys. This drive will be started within the next few days, and all who can be urged to make contributions, as the project cannot be operated successfully without the co-operation of the entire county. The toys when complete will be given to the local relief organization for distribution among needy families for Christmas, this distribution not, however, being confined to the relief office alone. Any other organization desiring to make contribution of these toys will be given the privilege of doing so where they are needed. Children who have discarded toys should be encouraged to contribute them. All contributions will be made directly to the American Legion Post at Clarendon.

COTTON HARVEST

Light to heavy frost in lowland areas of upper Northwest Texas counties did not damage cotton appreciably and, although insects and lack of moisture have reduced earlier expectations somewhat, a slight increase in the crop is expected on the South Plains and in other limited localities unless killing frost comes at an earlier date than average. The Dallas News' summary for the week ended Nov. 1 indicates.

With ideal weather to speed up picking, harvesting has progressed more rapidly than last season and about three-fourths of the crop is now gathered, 80 per cent on the South Plains. In many counties first picking will get most of the cotton and harvesting of one of the smallest crops in the history of this region will be completed several weeks sooner than usual. On the whole, bales weigh lighter than a year ago, varying from 425 to 560 lbs., the majority of them less than 500 lbs. Light prices to growers range from 11c to 12c and 13c per lb., but many producers are putting their cotton in 12c Government loans.—The Semi-Weekly Farm News

FORTY-TWO CLUB

Mesdames Bush and Cannon entertained the 42 club and a number of others Tuesday night, Oct. 30 in the Masterson home. As the guests arrived, the hostess requested each man to remove his tie, which was to be used later in selecting a partner for the 42 games. This was done in a very unique manner. The table was piled high with "useful" prizes, each selecting his own prize as the won them. The prizes appeared to be valuable until opened. Among them were compliments from a number of those present, these representing each giver's "weakness." The winners of high and low were allowed to select their prize from all the prizes that had already been won, and of course this was hard to do among so many "beautiful" gifts, but all to all everyone expressed themselves as having had a wonderful time.

The home was beautifully decorated in Hallowe'en fashion, and popcorn balls and candy were served during the games. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Watt, Whitfield, Jewell, Webb, Howard, Mann, Sherman, Spalding, C. L. Johnson, Masterson, Mr. Gilliam, Mrs. Dannie Battle and the hostesses.

A POOR GAMBLE

Would you gamble $17,000,000 against one dollar? You wouldn't of course, no matter how good you thought your chance of winning. At these odds no wager could possibly be worth the risk you would take. It is very possible, however, that you take an even poorer bet than that every day, that you accept, consciously or unconsciously, life's poorest gamble.

If you are 35 years old, you will, on the average, live for 17,000,000 more minutes. To save one little minute, thousands of automobile drivers risk losing the entire 17,000,000 minutes that are coming to them. They take that risk whenever they drive excessively fast, whenever they cut in and out of traffic, whenever they pass other cars on hills or curves, whenever they are guilty of one of the many acts of carelessness that may cause an accident.

Each year in this country about 33,000 people make the 17,000,000 to one wager with death, and lose. Hundreds of thousands of others are injured. Millions sustain needless property damage, estimated to reach a total of over a billion dollars.

Think of the odds next time you are tempted to take a chance while driving. Remember that the automobile you are operating is one of the most potentially dangerous of all weapons, both to others and yourself. Then ask yourself if that minute you might save is worth the gamble.

Nobility Shrouds New York Valley

Once Home of Refugee Who Feared Napoleon.

Syracuse, N. Y.—More than a century and a quarter ago in a valley in central New York, known till this day as Bronder's Hollow, a refugee member of France's nobility, who stood in line as a future king of that country, is said to have sought escape from Napoleon, who was making quick work of his opponents by way of the guillotine.

Here in the forest recesses of hills in a fortress-like mansion hewn from sturdy cherry trees, this Frenchman founded a settlement which after a brief, colorful existence crumbled back into forest wilds to become one of the forgotten villages of this section of New York, according to the Syracuse Post-Standard.

Built Imposing Chateau.
The story had its beginnings in 1808, when a Frenchman who called himself plain Louis Anathe Muller, and who never ventured forth without an armed bodyguard, purchased 2,700 acres of land in this isolated region near Slab City, now Georgetown, and employed 150 men, whom he paid in gold and silver, to construct a palatial, bullet-proof chateau on the summit of the highest hill on his estate.

Beside a stream a mile southeast of his homestead, in the valley of Bronder's Hollow, named after John Fasson Bronder, one of the men who had accompanied him to this country, the Frenchman who called himself Muller established a village which contained two stores, a mill and a storehouse, as well as numerous dwellings.

During the half dozen years that he lived in this forest mansion, Muller's reticence and eccentric conduct greatly stirred the curiosity of his neighbors and gave rise to many a wild rumor as to his identity. But never by an idle word did he betray his real story, and when after hearing of the collapse of Napoleon's fortunes he departed jubilantly for France, he left in his wake a mystery which never has been explained to the full satisfaction of his central New York acquaintances or their descendants.

Home Destroyed by Fire.

The modern visitor to the site of the old Muller house, which was leveled by fire in 1907, must stretch his imagination to believe that this once was the estate of a French nobleman, says the writer. If he drives along the narrow country road that winds across the hills toward Bronder's Hollow he will pass densely wooded stretches that look as if they never had known the pioneer's ax.

A few bleak, gray farmhouses with desolation staring through their paneless windows, decrepit barns with doors that creak on rusty hinges and the shapeless frames of occasional abandoned automobiles along the way are the only evidence that man ever conquered or cultivated this isolated territory.

When Muller departed for France after the downfall of Napoleon he left his central New York property in the hands of an agent who proved untrustworthy, and two years later, in 1816, he returned to find his house stripped of its rich furniture, his garden covered with weeds and his village forsaken.

After viewing the wreck, he sold the land to Abijah Weston, a New York city merchant, for the sum of $10,500, and then went back to France, where no doubt he reclaimed a prouder name than plain Louis Anathe Muller, and calmly wiped the American chapter off the slate of his life with never a quail for the throes of curiosity which were bound to torture posterity when it encountered the mystery of Muller Hill.

Police to Investigate Purse Snatching Ducks

Fresno, Calif.—Fresno police planned to peer down the gullets and cross-examine members of the famous flocks of ducks at Roeding park, city playground.

The ducks, it became known, were charged with purse snatching.

Mrs. A. Van Fleet of New York, who was spending the summer in California, made the charge before Yosemite national park rangers.

Mrs. Van Fleet embarrassedly explained at a park entrance that she could not pay the entrance fee because the ducks snatched her purse, containing $30, as she rested in Roeding park en route to Yosemite.

Economic Security

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

Two principles are essential to economic security. The first and perhaps most important is thrift.

Extravagance leads to ruin but thrift assures financial stability. The thrifty man saves something, however small, out of his weekly pay roll. These savings are permitted to accumulate and are never used except from grave necessity and that only as the last resort.

Many homes have been built on weekly and monthly savings. Small fortunes have been built upon the principle; always spend a little less than you earn.

It would be an interesting study to determine the profits derived by the use of by-products. In the meat industry the blood of the animals was formerly thrown away, now it is profitably utilized in many ways. A dentist, known to the writer, sent his office rug to the refiners and received a check for a neat sum for the gold found in the rug. A well managed business sees that there is no waste in its process of manufacturing or salesmanship. Extravagance is always waste.

We are facing a serious menace in the industrial situation by having to provide large sums of money to take care of those on relief rolls. If all the waste in foodstuffs in all the leading hotels in our cities could be gathered together it would be sufficient to feed a very large percentage of this dependent class.

Another essential principle is, to avoid debts. This was the principle

Meet Jerry Ford

Or perhaps you would rather not meet him as he comes charging down the field. Jerry is the 200-pound center of the University of Michigan eleven and is expected to do great things this season.

upon which our fathers built their modest fortunes. They never bought anything until they had the money to pay for it. A mortgage was a nightmare. Pay as you go and do not borrow if you can possibly avoid it was the prevailing spirit of the past generation.

The present generation presents a distressing picture in contrast. Not only are we urged to spend all we earn but a little more by buying on the installment plan. If we are in debt we are urged to be in no hurry to pay it. Later it may be paid in greatly depreciated dollars. Let taxes ride. The man who owes money seems to be in a better position than the man to whom the money is due.

Measures which violate the fundamental principles of our forefathers cannot be depended upon as stabilizing forces, upon which to build the return of prosperity. Let us return to the spirit of our fathers—Save and avoid debts.

Estimate Texas Rangers Have Killed 10,000 Men

Austin, Texas.—Texas rangers have killed 10,000 men, Dr. W. P. Webb, professor of history at the University of Texas, has concluded after years of research in preparation for a history of the celebrated policing force.

Doctor Webb puts that estimate on 100 years of ranger activities. "Arranged in a row, head to foot," he said, "the dead would make a line 11 miles long."

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

THE word party has a flexible significance. It may be a political group, or a social assembly, or any one of many things, but as a household word it means a company invited to come at a certain time on a specified day with entertainment as the object. There is an interesting question which arises in connection with such an assemblage, although the above is appreciated as explanatory. What do you expect of a party?

This is the question. Little children expect games as a minor feature, with food as the major one. The question of the child who was belated in arriving has become classic. "Is the party over?" he asked, and was delighted it wasn't when he found the refreshments had not been served. Almost every child would agree that the real "party" was the refreshments.

There are adult parties which proclaim that food is the main feature such as a dinner party, luncheon, supper party, tea party, theater supper, etc. And although there is no mention of a meal in an after the theater party it is as well recognized as one for refreshments, as if it were called a theater supper, the latter, however, suggesting more of a meal than the former.

Entertainment Essential.
While food is one element expected of a party, it does not in itself provide the gaiety needed. A group of persons eating food, however excellent and elaborately served and prepared for the guests, falls of its function as a party unless the persons are entertained. Brilliant and witty conversation is pleasing diversion in itself, and when accompanied by a "dish of tea" or more elaborate dishes, it provides the required merriment and good cheer. It devolves upon the hostess to invite congenial spirits for such an occasion. Nothing is more depressing than a dinner or supper party without laughter and gaiety. No amount of edible delicacies can make up for such a lack. On the other hand simple food with a happy group has the necessary elements of a party. There is entertainment.

This matter of entertainment is more important than food. Ask any bride expert whether it is the food or the games of contract which he looks for at a card party. All persons who go to a party, whatever its kind, unless actually hungry or over-fond of eating, hope to have a good time apart from the taste of the viands. Laughter, gaiety, companionship, absorbing entertainment, these are wanted, something which takes them out of themselves, which makes them forget their usual engrossing work, their perplexities or possibly physical pain, and which makes life even more worth living. A hostess who can instill any or all of these pleasant elements into her parties has successful ones, whatever the refreshments. Parties need not cost much, since merriment, happiness, gaiety, good cheer are apart from monetary values. This is a period when parties are heartening. Happy events lend cheer to perplexed spirits.

Decorative Doors.
Decorative outside doors are the style, the accent naturally being on front doors. This idea of making the doors distinctive sprang into favor first in tea houses, but the popularity has spread until there is almost a craze for dressy doors.

The decoration may consist of bright paint. This may be featured also in blinds, and possibly in trim of the house. The vogue of extending the color scheme to front doors, and then, necessarily, to all of the outside doors pushes the fashion to its furthest limit on the house itself. Occasionally a low fence is painted to match, or a trellis against the house. But it is the doors that are the bizarre feature. Hitherto these have been conservative architectural elements, as far as color was concerned. There is something refreshingly cheerful about having an entrance door gay.

The hardware of a door can lend distinction. There are many types of hinges which make these necessities artistic. Some are reproductions of old-fashioned models, some are decidedly new in construction. It is essential when making selections, to suit the model of hardware to the period of the door.

Black Velvet Ensemble

One of the latest of Parisian fashion creations from Martial and Armand is this "Deux Fols Chic" ensemble in black velvet with gold lame peas. The tunic is trimmed with blue fox.

This is such a beautifully fitting slip that the sizes in it have been run up to fifty. But don't think you have to be a large woman to like it. It is lovely on a slender figure. It is simplicity itself to make and the seams follow such pretty lines they actually become a decoration. In your fall wardrobe don't forget to include some new slips. Summer always works havoc in one's lingerie and no self-respecting frock is going to look as it should worn over an old misshapen foundation.

Pattern 2005 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 2 1/2 yards 30-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventh street, New York City.

OUR COMIC SECTION

Events in the Lives of Little Men

Movies Teaching Chinese Fine Art of Osculation

In old China it was highly offensive for a woman so much as to touch the hand of any man not her husband, and for her to touch even her husband's hand in public was forbidden. In young China, when unmarried couples began to associate in public in the western manner, they scrupulously observed the taboo against even the slightest physical contact; today, however, it is very common in Shanghai to see Chinese couples, eager to imitate screen heroes and heroines, walking along the street hand in hand or with their arms around each other, and "petting" in the parks is not unknown.

Another once unsanctioned familiarity between men and women is kissing. The kiss is by no means unknown in the East, but it never has been so extensively nor so casually indulged in as in the West. No longer than ten years ago a kiss in public was more shocking to the Chinese than nudism probably still is to most Americans. Early Chinese motion pictures contained no kissing scenes; such a display in public in western motion pictures was enough of a sensation without any defiance of the national code by Chinese actors and actresses. In 1925, however, Olive Young, an American-born Chinese cinema star, ventured a kiss that was shown only in silhouette through a semi-transparent screen. Chinese audiences gasped when they saw it, even as Victorian audiences did at first hearing the word "bloody" from the stage. Today, however, kissing is almost as popular with young China as with young America, though it still is not indulged in so publicly as in Paris.

Only within the past two years the cinema has markedly altered sexual attitudes in yet another way. Somewhat earlier, when Chinese girls first began to choose their own husbands and their friends among young men, they displayed a quite different taste from that of western girls. Athletes, "cave men" and similar types were viewed with disfavor, and hsiao pai men, or "little white face"—something, in brief, like Mei Lan-fang, the female impersonator—was the ideal. So, because modern young men wanted modern girls and modern girls were few in proportion to the number of modern young men, the youths sought to conform to the feminine standards. When a foreign teacher once asked a number of his students on a beach near Shanghai why they avoided the sun they answered frankly, "If we get sunburned, the girls won't go out with us." But men of the vigorously masculine type that are idolized by American cinema audiences are now coming to their own in China.—Wilbur Burton in Asia Magazine.

BANKHEAD ACT

The Cotton Belt referendum on continuance next year of the Bankhead compulsory control law will be submitted for vote in about one month. Plans for the referendum which requires a two-thirds majority vote for adoption are being drafted now by the cotton section of the agricultural adjustment administration which is also engaged in planning the voluntary acreage control program for next year.

The Bankhead act can be continued through the 1935 season if the President finds and proclaims that the emergency in cotton production and marketing will continue next year. Another requirement of the Bankhead law is that two-thirds of the producers must vote in favor of continuing the act.—The Semi-Weekly Farm News.

TOY REPAIR PROJECT

The Donley relief board has secured approval for labor to be used on a proposed toy repair project that will be sponsored by the American Legion. Legion members will make a county wide drive for old toys, paints and other materials that can be used in the repair and construction of toys. This drive will be started within the next few days, and all who can are urged to make contributions, as the project cannot be operated successfully without the co-operation of the entire county. The toys when complete will be given to the local relief organization for distribution among needy families for Christmas, this distribution not, however, being confined to the relief office alone. Any other organization desiring to make contribution of these toys will be given the privilege of doing so where they are needed. Children who have discarded toys should be encouraged to contribute them. All contributions will be made directly to the American Legion Post at Clarendon.

MENACES AND MENAGES

When a salesman comes to town selling hosiery, groceries, magazines, etc., some merchants feel sure that he is a menace to the community and that it is the solemn duty of the home newspaper to fight against the invader. But when a fly by night peddler for a cheap printing concern blows in or a man with practically no investment in a second hand mimeograph comes to town, that's no menace.—Tulia Herald.
