Bible To Be Given Away

One of the most unusual as well as beautiful services ever seen in Hedley will take place next Friday night at the Methodist Church in connection with the revival services now going on. This will be home or family night in the meeting. All the parents of the city and surrounding country are urged to come and bring their families. To the parents who come bringing with them the largest number of their children, a big lettered Bible will be given. The eldest member of the church will also be called for and honored and the oldest father and the oldest mother present will be seated in decorated chairs in the pulpit and beautiful presents presented them. This promises to be a service no one can ever forget. A lovely musical program will be given and everyone will enjoy as well as receive a great blessing from this service. Come early so that you may get a seat for a large crowd is expected.

NOTICE

To Patrons of the Hedley Schools

We would like to submit to you the following information concerning the financial condition of your school. With the exception of $291.00 past due for bus payment and some interest now delinquent on bonds, the school's obligations are now current. A conservative estimate of the amount of money necessary to meet the obligations for the remaining 4 1/2 months of school is $9502.40; while the receipts that can of a certainty be expected is $7860.00. The expected receipts do not include any delinquent taxes. In order to fully meet all obligations it will be necessary that $3100.00 delinquent taxes be paid 50 percent of that amount going into the current maintenance fund. Of the approximately $16,000.00 necessary to maintain the current expenses of the school for this year the state has pledged approximately $12,000.00.

With this information before the patrons, we are again asking every person who possibly can to seriously consider paying your poll tax. We believe that you believe that the schools are one of our most valuable assets and that you will want to contribute your best efforts to their support.

As a further bit of information, we would like for you to know that for the past two years the Federal government has contributed to the support of our school. For the year 1933-34 this amount was approximately $1200.00 while last year the sum amounted to exactly $1800.00. We have been informed that this aid cannot reasonably be expected this year.

Over 20 Members Received Into the Church

The revival services going on at the Methodist Church are attracting no little interest. Already over twenty people have united with the church and before the services close next Sunday night many others are expected to do likewise. While the services are being held in the Methodist Church, people of the different churches of the city are attending and some who belong to no church. A most urgent invitation is given every one to attend the remaining services of the revival. Mr. Bob Watkins has a fine choir each evening and is giving the people of Hedley some of the best music one would hear anywhere almost and his children's choir is proving most popular with the young people. His solos are greatly enjoyed and he is one man whose work is just as acceptable and appreciated at home as elsewhere, which speaks volume for him and his work. Evangelist Harry S. Allen is preaching some plain pointed sermons that are finding their way to the hearts of the people. Don't miss one of the services during the remainder of the revival for if you do you will miss a blessing.

B. T. U. MEETING

A number of Hedley Baptists attended the quarterly meeting of the Panhandle B. T. U. Association at Memphis Sunday afternoon. Among the officials who were elected were Truman Caldwell, who was named associate director of the association, and Mrs. Caldwell, who was elected pianist.

The Saar

Industrial Panorama in the Saar.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service. THOUGH barely 738 square miles in area and with fewer than 825,000 people, the Saar has been one of Europe's most populated regions since the World war.

Powder keg of Europe; witches' caldron; political sore spot. For years such graphic labels have been tacked onto this small but highly industrialized region lying north of Alsace-Lorraine between France and Germany. From the days of Attila and the Caesars down to Foch and Von Hindenburg, its valleys and wooded hills have rocked and echoed to the tramp and shouts of marching armies.

Geographically, the Saar is an irregular patch of hilly land crossed by small valleys. It lies alongside Luxembourg, forms a buffer state between France and Germany, and was cut from the two German states of Prussia and Bavaria.

With a population about equal to that of Boston proper, it shelters more than 1,000 people per square mile—one of the most densely settled areas in all Europe.

Only such miniature European states as Andora, Liechtenstein, San Marino and Monaco are smaller than this tiny, yet dynamic country. America knows no state so dwarfish. Delaware is about three times the Saar's size, yet has less than a third its population.

Saarbrücken, metropolis of the Saar, has only 132,400 people; yet in one year Saar trains haul 90,000,000 passengers!

Sit in any stuffy cafe at Saarbrücken, watch the guests eat red cabbage and boiled pork, or sip fat steins of beer as the band plays heavy Wagner music, and the place seems just another German industrial center.

But look into its eventful annals, or make a careful trip about its historic roads and ruins, and you find a land with a past peculiar to itself.

Saar Problem in Caesar's Time. There was, in fact, a Saar problem even in Roman times, when blond men from east of the Rhine already had invaded this basin.

In Caesar's "Commentaries" you read of these early German settlers. One Roman report of the time says that 120,000 hardy warriors, enamored of Gaul, had settled here.

Caesar feared these Germans might menace Rome itself; so he helped the Gauls drive them back across the Rhine. His battles on the Aisne and elsewhere were precursors of centuries of fighting along the Rhine.

Some Roman military roads hereabouts are shown on the Peutinger map of about 200 A. D. One ran north from Argentoratum (now Strasbourg) to the Saar basin. About this same time the Romans built a castle at a point on the Saar river where it was bridged by their military road from Paris to Mainz. Saarbrücken was so named, meaning "Saar Bridge."

Briefly, for more than a thousand years prior to the Versailles treaty, Germany held the Saar, except for two short periods, the second being the years from 1793 to 1815, when Napoleon pushed the French frontier to the Rhine.

When Blucher and his Prussians advanced into France in 1813, he followed the very route taken by the German hordes when the Roman empire fell.

It was so in the Franco-Prussian war; Von Moltke, in 1870, followed Blucher's route of 1813, and about Saarbrücken came one of the first clashes of that war which helped Bismarck to found his German empire.

Again, of course, in the World war, the armies passed this way, and many an allied soldier washed his shirt in the Saar, the Moselle and the Rhine, or traded cigarettes and white bread to willing fraudsters for a jug of wine.

Fly over Saarbrücken, where Marshal Ney was born, and in its very heart you see the outline of the old fort built by Louis XIV of France.

Dating, as a town, from 1680, its people lived for more than 200 years almost wholly by trading with the garrisons—first French, then German, then French again.

Today old walls and moats that encircled the fort have been torn down and filled to make broad, smooth streets, as the Americans did with parts of Manila.

German infantry, artillery, cavalry, army wagons—all the money-spending machinery of war—made Saarbrücken a busy town until after the World war. When they evacuated, the French came in for a while; but now few occupants are found for all the vast barracks.

It is quiet, much too quiet, for those residents who remember the band concerts, the glittering reviews, and fat army pay rolls of other days.

French Are Scarce There. German in race, speech, culture, and traditions, the Saar showed by a pre-war census only about one person in 200 with French as his native tongue. It was simply a legal accident at Versailles which made these people citizens, temporarily, of a phantom state.

The Saar, under that treaty, gained no nationality, no president or other ruler of its own. Instead, a commission of five Europeans was named by the League of Nations to administer the territory's affairs until the plebiscite.

By treaty the Saar went under a customs union with France; French customs guards were set to patrol the line between Germany and the Saar, and French money was put into use. To pay France for her own coal mines damaged by Germans in the World war, she was given the coal mines in the Saar. The treaty provided also that after the plebiscite Germany might buy these mines back again if she wished, and such an agreement was concluded late in 1934.

Only around Saarbrücken is any French influence noticeable, and that is not due to the presence there of many living Frenchmen. Such influence belongs to the past—Vauban's old forts, built when Louis XIV made this a French garrison town; French names and epitaphs in the cemetery; and an odd local dialect current among older residents, a curious blend of German and French.

To see how thoroughly German the region is, in speech and sentiment, you have only to mingle with any holiday crowd and listen to the songs, the speeches, and the music; or read the papers, or see what crowds follow broadcasts from the radio stations at Frankfurt and Stuttgart.

To The Citizenship of The 100th Judicial District of Texas

By this announcement, I desire to submit my candidacy for the nomination to the office of District Judge for the 100th Judicial District of Texas, subject to the Democratic Primary to be held in July of this year. In placing my candidacy before the Citizenship of this district, I do so with a full appreciation of the responsibilities connected with this important office.

It is through this court that the greater part of the civil rights of the citizenship must be adjudicated, and a redress for their wrongs established. It is here that the most important part of our criminal laws are to be enforced. This being true, I feel it necessary and required of me, at this time, to submit the matters touching on my qualifications for the office, and my attitude in connection with the carrying out of the purpose for which this court was established.

I have been a member of the Texas Bar for Thirty Years and have been actively engaged in the practice of the law for this period of time and during the last twenty four years I have resided in this District at Memphis, Hall County, Texas, where the principal part of my service in the practice of the Law has been rendered. This being true and a goodly number of the citizenship of this District having had observation and contact with such service, I deem it of no value to give further reference.

If it should be the will of the citizenship of this District to show me the favor of electing me to this office, I promise every effort will be made to carry out the purposes for which the District Court was established. Having in mind at all times that it is the duty of a District Judge in acting on matters that come before him as such, to have the law uppermost in his mind as his rule and guide; and to do this free from bias or prejudice, uninfluenced by any other motives than to make every honest effort to apply the law to the end that all men may find themselves equal before the law as intended.

I am a firm believer in the enforcement of all of our criminal laws. A lack of enforcement of some of such laws, regardless of the magnitude of the offense condemned by the law, has the tendency to bring about a disregard for other laws. There are abundant reasons why our laws should be enforced for the protection of the social as well as the material welfare of the State, and one last reason that I should add, and that is, they should be obeyed because it is the Law.

I fully understand that the District Judge is not an executive officer, but a judicial one. That it is his duty to judge the law and not to execute it. That duty is on

MY AUTOBIOGRAPHY

By Lyman Davenport
I was born on Feb 18 1921, on a ranch near Clovis, New Mexico.
There are three girls and one boy in our family. The first two girls merely angered my father, but the third girl was almost put in a sack with a brick in it and tossed in the river. My father wanted a boy so bad that when I was born he celebrated for almost a month. I was named after dad and I favor him very much.

The following incidents were told to me by my mother: One day I was playing by the water tank and fell in. My older sister stood there screaming for help and my younger sister calmly pulled me out. Another time I was in great danger when I walked into a lot of very many wild mustangs. I walked all around them and pulled one's tail. He started kicking and the rest of them followed suit. My father heard the commotion and came out there and carried me out of the lot. These incidents are just a few of the many that happened to me from the age of two to three. From what I hear, ranch life is very interesting.

I left the ranch when I was a little more than three years old and of course I do not remember much about it. We moved from the ranch to Lakeview, Texas, where my grandfather, who had been living there and my father ran a hardware, dry goods and grocery store. About a year later my mother got a job teaching school in Hedley. My two older sisters stayed there where they were going to school, but Margie and I came to Hedley with my mother. Margie started to school then but I waited two years later.

I stayed in the first grade two weeks and was then promoted to the second grade. At the end of that term I was promoted to the third grade.

The most important thing I remember after moving to Hedley was the purchase of a horse.
I had a ways wanted a horse after I had heard all about the ranch I used to live on. This is the part of my life where I had so many accidents. I got hurt several times before I learned that it took practice to become a rider. I was riding very fast one day before I learned how to ride well when I had to slow up for a ditch. I knew that if I pulled on the reins the horse was supposed to stop; so I jerked very hard and that horse stooped so quickly that I bounded over his head and fell in his path. I thought that this was, indeed, the time that I was to visit St.
Peter. I saw the horse's hoof coming down; so I shut my eyes.
The horse took a bounding leap and his hind hoof missed my others. However, there are powers vested in the District Court, when properly used, that can greatly assist the executive officers in bringing about a more full, fair and complete enforcement of the law.

These powers I will always stand ready to use, when necessary, and in doing so will recognize that the law was made for its observance as much for the officers selected to administer the law, as it was made for its observance by the masses; and that it should be observed by such officers in the enforcement thereof.

Second only to the duty of the District Judge to do all that is in his power to so administer the affairs of the Court to see that a fair and impartial trial is had of the cases filed and submitted to said court, is the one of economy.
Every effort should be made to promptly dispose of the cases pending, avoiding unnecessary delays, which are costly; and in every way possible take such action in the interest of economy in the administration of the duties of the Court as should be found proper. This I shall do, if intrusted with the office.

Before the Primary in July, I shall make an active campaign and will make every effort to see personally as many of the voters of the District as it will be possible for me to do. However, in the mean time I will be pleased that a careful consideration on the part of the citizenship be given my candidacy and that after making such investigation, as may be desired on the part of the voters, I would greatly appreciate your support.
Resp. Submitted,
A. S. Moss.

head by inches.
The tradition of the thirteen is hard to believe whether it is lucky or unlucky. I have barely escaped death several times while I had my horse. I was knocked unconscious while I was riding my horse about a year ago.
My horse shyed and I fell off and hit my head on a rock, knocking me unconscious. Another time while my cousin and I were riding an old work horse, he stumbled and fell. My cousin was riding in front and he got the worst end of the deal. I merely sailed about ten yards and turned a flip landing on my hands and feet.

In 1934 Margie and I moved to Clarendon where my mother is now teaching. We went to school there a year and in 1935 we came back to Hedley to go to school.
We are now staying with our grandparents, and my two older sisters are attending college at Lubbock, Texas. The older one, Ellen Pearl, is a Junior and the younger one, Tommie, is a Sophomore.

BASKETBALL

The Hedley boys and girls journaled to Clarendon Friday night where they ended the four-game schedule with the Bronchos.
The boys were victorious in the game, which added the fourth consecutive win for them by a score 27-33.

The girls were over powered by a small score of 14-18. They played hard but could never find the basket.

The boys will leave for Pampa Thursday morning where they will meet the strong Pampa Harvesters in the first game of play in the district tournament.

The Hedley Owls eked out a small victory Monday night from the Clarendon Bronchos by a score of 26-23. The Owls holding the long end of the score at the half by a score of 11 points, went into the second half overconfident and soon lost the lead.
With only one minute and ten seconds left to play the Owls were trailing by one point. The Owls soon rung up two field goals that put the game on ice, and ended with a three point margin for the Owls.

Last Wednesday at chapel program we were favored with a talk by Rev. Allen, who is holding a revival at the Methodist Church.
He encouraged us to "hitch our wagon to a star" and not to be satisfied with anything less than success. His talk was very inspirational, and everyone enjoyed it.

Formals of Choicest Silk Taffeta

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FOR the very elegant formal gown silk taffeta of most exquisite quality registers as first choice among women of patrician taste. The idol of the hour is silk taffeta in white and silver.

This fair for white taffeta is conformed at every high-society formal gathering, so far this winter. The vogue includes versatile types, silver striped or dotted white taffeta being among the favorites. Matelasse white silk taffeta presents a pleasing diversion from the metalized effects.

Plain white taffeta starred with rhinestones is also a fabric highlight. Designers are playing up quantities of fancy stitching not only in immediate fashions but indications are that spring styles will make stitching an outstanding trimming feature.

The illustration pictures a debutante who attends the opera in a white evening dress of super-lovely silver fashione taffeta. It has a deep V front and back and an unusual shoulder treatment. A jeweled clip and bracelet accent the simple splendor of this silk gown.

The all-black evening gown is given new prestige when it is fashioned of pure silk taffeta of highest quality as dramatically as is the model pictured. It is the very personification of elegance.

Just how many yards of gleaming taffeta it took to achieve the bands of self-trimming on the skirt and bodice and for the graceful lei in the same ruching which encircles the throat and drops to the waistline at the back, we would not venture to say, but whatever the amount, it's worth it to produce so striking, so fetching a gown as is

HAIR ORNAMENTS

Now that the vogue for elaborate hairdress is meeting with widespread approval for formal occasion, the use of ornaments, feathers, and especially the little Juliet caps which are so flattering, is established. Rhinestone clips are especially liked in that they are not merely beautiful but they are practical and useful in that they keep stray locks in check. Note the pretty bowknot rhinestone clip enhancing the Style Trends Tailored evening dresses are becoming more popular every minute and the young lady's wardrobe is incomplete without at least one!

this. Note the bracelets worn over the long black gloves. For the evening gown of exclusive mien, brocades in white with either metal or color or both for the most gorgeous types, are much sought after by those who love the loveliest. Silvered white moire also is a great favorite in the realm of handsome evening silks.

Leading designers are also turning the spotlight on very exclusive looking silk prints, making them up in jacket ensembles of utmost formality in many instances. The gown is fashioned with extreme décolletage, the skirt touching the floor, or the new street length which is fashion's latest whim for the dinner gown. Usually the jacket is of the basque genre, varied now and then with a smart bolero model. Both printed taffeta and printed crepe features for this new trend in the formal realm.

In citing best-loved silks for the formal gown, sleek, suave flattering satin must be mentioned. White satin is outstanding and pink comes next. For the most part these regal satins are made up with a sophisticated simplicity that is very striking.

Then there are the lovely white silk crepes and chiffons. Their high standing in the array of lovely materials for dresses to wear to formal functions is unquestioned. Some white crepes are starred with rhinestones. Others stand for beauty undorned. Sans trimming of any sort they depend on a sparkling Juliet cap and a glittering evening bag or a jeweled belt plus elaborate sandals for effect.

COLORED HOSIERY TREND CONTINUES

The colored hosiery trend continues. You may not care for wine, green and navy stockings and you may cling stubbornly to your good old beige tones, but there's no denying that color has crept into the stocking box, in spite of us.

A recent hosiery fashion show accentuated stockings to match the color of your costume, for both day-time and evening.

The hosiery in the usual sheer chiffons went in strong for wine, green and dark green tones, to match the favorite renaissance colors of the season.

Dark red and jug brown were other daytime colors sponsored. For evening wear, delicate pastels were featured, in colors to match the gown.

Petal pink, Alice blue and lee green were among the new colors shown. The colored day-time stockings had black heels and toes, to accentuate the sheer appearance of the hosiery.

Tailored Blouse Is Done in Wide Variety of Moods

The tailored blouse for sports wear or with a tailored suit is done in varied moods. There are youthful blouses of soft silk crepes in pastel colors, with simple club collars and perky bows for trimming, grand for wear with plaid woolen skirts or with tweed suits. Then there are shirtwaist blouses of delicate silk crepe de chine, with jabots, and frills trimmed with fine lace, perfect to wear with a perfectly tailored suit.

Picturesque

A recent important fashion promenade showed models with enchanting names: an evening cape of Russian sable, for example, was called "champagne supper." A Russian ermine wrap with the fur mounted diagonally bore the name of "starlight." "Argentine" was the title of an evening gown made of brown and fash colored satin.

Isinglass for Visors

Isinglass visors are a new trick in sunshades for Palm Beach wear. They are attached to caps and are tinted soft blue, rose or yellow to match some detail of a white beach costume.

Many Have Achieved Fame While in Their Twenties

Ambitious youth seeking to find their places early in life in a maladjusted world will find encouragement if they will take a look into the pages of history. E. B. DeGroot, California Boy Scout executive, in the Rotarian Magazine tells of a few of the young men and women who have "done big things."

William Pitt, Mr. Detroit cites as his first example, filled the responsible post of chancellor of the exchequer at twenty-three and served as prime minister of Great Britain at twenty-four. George Washington was only twenty-three when he led the Virginia troops against the Indians and French. Abraham Lincoln campaigned for public office at twenty-four. Robert Louis Stevenson wrote "Treasure Island" at twenty-three.

Westinghouse invented the air brake at twenty-three. Alexander the Great conquered and ruled the world before he was thirty. Sir Isaac Newton at twenty-four formulated the law of gravitation. Whitney was not more than twenty-nine when he invented the cotton gin. Charles Dickens wrote "Oliver Twist" at twenty-five. Napoleon at twenty-seven was in command of the Italian army. Patrick Henry was but twenty-seven when he made his conquering and historic speech against the Stamp act. Thomas Edison was not far above the Youth Service age level designated by Rotary (twenty-four years), when he astounded and benefited mankind with many of his inventions.

BAKER ASKS RE-ELECTION

To the People of Donley County:
I wish to announce my candidacy for re-election to the office of County School Superintendent of Donley County.

Having enjoyed serving the people of Donley County as County Superintendent for the past three years, I do not feel that I am imposing upon the electorate of this county in asking for a second term.

I have done my best to improve the schools, and to increase the educational opportunities of all the school children of Donley County. I have tried to use good business methods in the administration of the schools, and as a result the length of the term of the rural schools has been increased. In the management of the schools, the buildings and equipment have been put in excellent condition. Good teachers have been employed for the schools of Donley County, because I realize that it takes well trained teachers to make an efficient school system. I believe Donley County people can truthfully say that we have as good teachers as will be found in any county in Texas.

I have tried to make a close study of school law, and the different duties of the County Superintendent's office. I consider that with my experience and knowledge of the School Law and State Aid that I can be of greater service to the schools of Donley County, should you see fit to re-elect me for a second term.

I attribute my success in the office to the splendid co-operation that I have received from the County Board, School District Trustees, patrons and the school teachers of the county. We have all worked together to raise the standards of Donley Co. schools.

Considering that a public office is a public trust, should the people of this county re-elect me to this important office, I promise to continue to give courteous, efficient service, and work for better educational advantages for all the children of Donley county.

Respectfully submitted,
Sloan Baker
