DR. JAMES W. BARTON Talks About

Menace of Overweight NO NORMAL condition has occurred more frequently among my diabetic patients than has obesity (overweight)." I am quoting Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, Boston, the outstanding authority on diabetes.

Life insurance companies are very strict in their consideration of permitting overweights to take out insurance, as they have found that so many of of them later develop diabetes. In fact they have found that in examining applicants for insurance as many as 20 per cent already are showing sugar in the urine. "The av-erage diabetic man or woman has been greatly overweight. Overweight is due to overeating. What is added to the waist line is cut from the life line." Dr. Chas. H. Mayo says: "Men fifty years old and fifty pounds overweight are much more likely to have cancer than the normal. This means then that eating or overeating is a factor in causing cancer because half the cases of cancer are found in the stomach and intestines."

"To sum it up, the overweights have a higher death rate. At fifty years of age an excess weight of 55 pounds increases the death rate by 50 per cent," I am quoting from "How to Live" by Prof. Irving Fisher and Dr. Lyman Fisk.

However, overweights have more than the death rate to consider; they must think of their everyday lifetheir chances for good health, their ability to get around easily, their resistance to allments, their mental ability or grip.

Some Famed Light Eaters. Famous men whose brains keep clear till the end are usually light eaters who from early years of experimenting have found out just what agrees with them and are satisfied with this amount and variety of food. Chauncey Depew attended dinners and banquets three or four times a week for years, but always looked over the menu and ate only the foods he knew gave him the nourishment he required.

Thos. A. Edison came of a long-lived family who for generations had learned to eat what they knew their bodies required and no more. Thus in an interview some years ago Edison said: "The body is only a piece of machinery and every practical man knows that to get good work out of a machine and keep it in repair at the same time one must know how to take care of it. Now, if you have a 100-horsepower engine and a boiler big enough to drive it, no wise engineer will fire that boiler to full capacity when he only wishes engine. If he does, he sooner or later burns the grate-bars out of his fire-box. But that is just what the majority are doing; burning up 100 horsepower of fuel in their bodies and taking out eight horsepower of work. Is it any wonder that the boiler flues and the arteries get clogged up, that the pipes burst, causing apoplexy?"

Truth About the Stomach. As you know, early man lived outdoors, used the great bulk of muscle covering his body, had a natural ap-petite and "filled" his stomach when he obtained food because he did not know just when he would get his next meal. Thus Nature supplied him with a stomach that would hold enough food to fill his needs for a whole day or

Today we have these same huge muscles covering our bodies and have the same large stomach, but we do not live outdoors, do not work these huge muscles and so do not need more than about half the food that was needed by early man. Yet because we have the same big stomach and get the kinds of food we like, many of us thought-stomach three times a day. Remember, then, that we need some of all the different kinds of food dally, that is (a) meat, eggs or fish (b) cream, butter or other fat, (c) vegetables, both starchy and leafy, (d) minerals and (e) water. But if we want to be at our best mentally and physically we eat just the amounts of these foods that will keep us strong without increasing our weight above normal.

> . . . Relaxation and Sleep

So much has been written about the value of sleep that many nervous individuals worry themselves into sleeplessness. They fear dire allments or even insanity if they don't get a certain number of hours of sleep each

Now while nothing can take the place of real sleep, with every muscle relaxed, it has been found that if an individual is unable to sleep but can relax body and mind to a point almost approaching sleep he can attain as high as 80 per cent of the value of sleep. It is estimated that two hours' sleep in the 24 will keep anyone alive, so that with complete relaxation for four hours and say four hours' sleep you might be fully capable of doing Enough outdoor exercise, without overdoing it, brings on a "natural need" for sleep that is better than any other method of inducing sleep.

Cactus in Ethiopia Came From Somewhere in America

American barbed wire manufacturers are said to be refusing orders from the belligerent powers in Africa. But something from America, almost as wicked, was at the front long before Romans and Ethiops began taking pot-shots and spear-jabs at each other. Cactus is figuring in news pictures from the Ethiopian war zone, Machine-gun nests are shown flanked or halfcamouflaged by huge plants of flat-jointed prickly pear bristling with spines—menacing alike to Italian uniforms and Ethiopian chammas, not to mention the legs and arms beneath them.

All true species of cactus are of American origin. The prickly plants were unknown in the Old world before the voyages of Columbus. But once cacti were introduced from Mexico and South America they became established all around the Mediterranean shores in amazingly quick time, and from there they spread throughout the dry lowlands of northeast Africa and southern Asia, until now they seem normal, native parts of the landscape.

We'll No Gie Ower Just Yet a Bittie, Is Spirit of Scot

I am about knocked out of time now; a miserable, snuffling, shivering, fever-stricken, night-mare-ridden. knee jottering, hoast-hoast-hoasting shadow and remains of man. But we'll no gie ower just yet a bittle. We've seen waur; and dod, men, it's my belief that we'll see better.

THE DOCTORS ARE RIGHT

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only makes constipation worse. And that isn't true.

Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. Doctors use liquid laxatives, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

Nor Even One No household is big enough for two selfish people.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Croomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

NE of every twenty of you who read this will be killed or injured in a motor vehicle accident within the next five years. This is based upon the fact that one person out of every hundred was so killed or injured in 1934 and 1935. Further conclusions would indicate that, unless you are above the average in safety, one out of four of you will be injured within 25 years, and one out of five within 20 years.

Unless something is done about Something is being done about it. and there is not a person in the United States who is not invited, even urged, to do his share in protecting his own life and the lives of 125,000,000 other Americans. But first, a little more about the problem America faces . . .

Despite early indications that promised improvement in accident prevention, the year 1935 closed with the ghastly toll of deaths in motor vehicle accidents soaring to a new all-time mark. There were 36,400 traffic deaths, as compared with 36,101 for the previous year, 1934. From 1933 to 1934 these deaths-hideous, painful, messy deaths, most of them-increased 15 Sixty-four per cent of the tooting

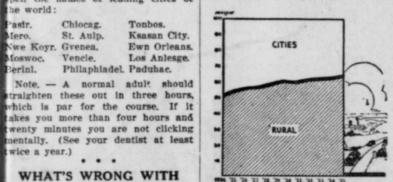

Snuffs Out Lives at Start.

In the last three years more than 10,000 children less than fifteen years age went to their untimely depths in traffic accidents-thousands more will never play ball, dance, write, read, or be able to pursue successfully the happiness that is every American's right, because they have been crippled or blinded of cruelly cut up.

What may come as a surprise some is that fatal motor accidents in rural districts lead those in the cities by a wide margin. In 1934, 60 per cent of all such fatalities occurred in the rural districts, and the figure swelled to 63 per cent in 1935.

What to do about it? Perhaps we might take a lesson from the railroads. In the early days they were called "instrumentalities of the devil himself." Wreck after wreck-ghastly and deadly-threatened the very life of the roads. They had to do some thing.

They did. They set a definite goa! of safety, of lives saved, which they were determined to reach. They installed better rolling stock, better roadways, improved personnel and safety devices. They educated their employees. They reached it. What that goal mathematically, is purposely left out, because it doesn't matter. What does matter is that the railroads established a definite objective and refused to give up until it was attained

America has under way today just such a campaign to reach a definite objective. The war to save lives started January 1, and it is being conduct ed by the National Safety Council. with the co-operation of industries and of the world met in conference and federal, state, county and city govern-

Would Save 38,000 Lives.

This is a war to SAVE lives, not to destroy them. If it gets the co-oper ation of the American people, it will save 38,000. The definite goal is a rection of 35 per cent in motor vehicle deaths by the end of 1940.

In the National Safety Council's cam paign 36,400 motor deaths, the total for 1935, is taken as "par." During the first year of the drive (the present year) the goal is a reduction of 7 per cent in the number of these deaths, an actual saving of 2,548 lives, leaving a total of 33,852 deaths for the year 1936,

"The records of many cities and states during the past year justifies the belief that the goal can be obtained," says a report of the Council. "If a dozen states can reduce their fatalities all the way from 7 to 23 per cent in a year when the average was going up, as it was last year, other states should be able to effect substantial reductions by using the same intelligent accident prevention meth-

The "tools" for accident prevention are at hand, as will be shown. One of the chief problems facing such a drive is organization in areas of scattered population. It is not so difficult cement and unify the interest of civic organizations where there are large masses of people, as there are in the cities. But it is in rural dis tricts that 63 per cent of the fatal accidents occur. True, much of the corrective work for these districts can be administered from state capitals, but in the final analysis the reaching of the goal lies with the individual. An Educational Campaign.

For the very reason that it IS in dividual acceptance which can make or break the campaign, it will be largean educational one. It will be loly each city, maintaining co-operation

New ways of appealing to the individual motorist, to arouse a sense of responsibility and sportsmanship, are being sought. State-wide school programs are being started. Organizations, under the leadership of the National Safety Council, will urge the adoption of uniform laws, including standard drivers' license legislation, and adequate administration of lawenforcing bodies. They will attempt to standardize accident reports, provide for more complete statistics and their interpretation. One of the important steps will be to make available to the country at large the englneering and educational technique of the states and cities now doing outstanding work.

The National Safety Council will place eight field men in key points of the United States to co-ordinate the work. Booklets, written in popular style and explaining the methods of successful campaigns along engineerwill be prepared for nationwide dis-tribution. plished by the drive, even in its present infancy, make an imposing list: In Maine, the system of standard accident reporting is being promoted. Governor Wilbur L. Cross, of Connecticut, has appointed a "Committe of Seventeen" to carry on a safety crusade. A bill has been introduced in the New York legislature to create a "Board of Safety First."

Arnold H. Vey, Traffic Engineer in the New Jersey department of motor vehicles, has just submitted proposed constitutions and by-laws for the New Jersey Safety Council. Governor A. B. Chandler of Kentucky has delegated the adjutant general to formulate a statewide safety Indiana has started a $100,000 WPA safety campaign. N. Y. A. Assists in Michigan. Governor F. D. Fitzgerald, of Michigan, has appointed a State Safety Youth Administration funds to conduct a safety project.

A state safety director is to be appointed immediately in Wisconsin. The newly organized Iowa Safety Council is already making considerable headway.

Safety Director Asher Frank, of Florida, recently conducted a two-day state-wide safety conference.

A permanent state safety commission is being formed in Oklahoma, growing out of a three months' highway safety campaign.

A state safety director has been appointed in Nebraska. New Mexico plans a state-wide safe ty conference. California, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Illineis, Minnesota Kansas, and other states are at work on safety programs. Save 2,548 lives this year; 38,000 in five years! It can be done. In the formal resolution, signed by Dr. C. H. Watson, president, and W. W. Cameron, managing director, the National Safety Council "invites the co-operation of interested organizations and agencies to the end that during the five-year proing, enforcement and educational lines, gram at least 38,000 lives shall be saved and the killing and maining of cease upon the highways."

The campaign should not only save lives; it should materially decrease the number of injuries. More than a quarter of a million persons last year es caped with their lives from traffic accidents, but bore the marks of injury. More than 150,000, however, will be crippled to the end of their days.

Suggestions From Harvard. Doctor Miller McClintock of Harvard university says accidents are caused by four types of conflicts on the highways, regardless of speed (which affects only the severity of the accident). They

1. Overlaps in the paths of approaching vehicles-head-on collisions,

2. Overlaps between the moving vehicle and objects at side of road-impact with parked cars, bridge abut-

3. Intersection accidents. 4. "Internal stream conflict" due to the difference in speeds of vehicles moving in same direction.

Overcoming the Difficulties. The proper highway would overcome all four of these basic difficulties says Doctor McClintock. Its requirements would be:

1. Physical separation of the two streams of traffic moving in opposite directions. The new roads with parkways down the middle meet this requirement.

2. Traffic lanes reserved for moving vehicles only. There would be no parking

3. No grade crossings for any type of intersectional traffic. 4. Sufficient number of lanes for the egregation of fast and slow vehicles and provision for acceleration and de celeration lanes. Of more immediate importance are the clarification and enforcement of existing safety codes, especially as they concern the individual who is not likely to be working directly with one of the organizations engaged in the cam-"The battle can be won," says Mr

Cameron, "If every person will take it upon himself to drive carefully, keepig his eyes on the road and his mind on his driving; obey the laws and sup port law-enforcement officials; main-tain a safe speed at all times; keep his car in a safe condition; observe the rights of pedestrians and children; be courteous and sportsmanlike, and set a good example to others."

Some Club Luncheon Ideas for the Puzzled Hostess

It Is a Sensible Custom to Serve at Regular Meal Hour.

Herewith is given a menu for a very simple club luncheon, to be served before the afternoon bridge. It is such a sensible custom to serve a luncheon at a regular meal hour instead of refreshments at an hour which will be so near dinner time that appetite is lost.

Another good reason for serving beforehand is that most women feel it necessary to get home before the children's supper hour, and when press edges together, bruth with there is a distance to be traveled. milk and bake about ten minutes they are anxious to leave as soon as until brown in a hot oven (450 de the game is over.

For a club that is original in its idea of what may be served at luncheon, the hostess of the day in-vited the eight members to a breakfast party served at ten o'clock. She provided melon as a fruit course and then served coffee, small baked sausages, creamed potatoes and waffles. There were plenty of waffles and they made the dessert as well when the sirup was passed.

Another woman, who had been sent a Virginia ham from her southern home, gave her guests ham and eggs and hot waffles with grapefruit as a starter.

The clever hostess does not feel that she must follow accepted formulas for refreshments for her parties, and her guests always agree ful as an English countryside, will resort wear and early spring. Leading designers are turning out youthful costumes made of these refreshing prints in soft silk crepes with a supple draping quailty that endears them to all. It is this type of frock that centers the stage at the present, for it answers the call for a springlike ch with midseason furs and coat.

Of course, if you are going or have gone south you will like the idea of a jacket ensemble styled after the man-ner of the models here pictured. Note that the silk to the left has a white background, which makes it admirable for southland resort wear. Then, too, these pure silk prints that pattern color against white have the "new" ook which says at a glance that they are of this season's vintage. The tulip motif of the garden silk selected by the designer for the fashioning of this dress is in realistic colorings that make the thrills of spring pulse through your entire system. An in-sert trim, in form of a hand-piped leaf motif, enhances the blouse-bodice. Other significant style details are the subtle front flare in the skirt, the medium length open sleeve and particularly the tuxedo front of the jacket ing in a clever pocket arrangement. The hat is of white toya with grosgrain band trim.

The beauty of the other two-piece ensemble pictured is that the rich dark tone of its background tunes it to immediate wear under the winter fur coats of those who are not treking southward this season. This marguerita print tells you something interesting-that the daisy patternings are

GARDEN prints, as cool and color- being featured in many of the new be worn by smart women for cruise and grain ribbon bindings is conveyed in the revers. This use of grosgrain ribbon to finish edges is pronounced throughout the field of dress design for spring. A most welcome gesture It is, too, for it keys a color scheme to perfection in that the grosgrain ribbon repeats, thereby emphasizing a dominant color-tone of the print. That is, if you want your costume to look navy or brown or green or deep red, assuming that the print carries the color itself, trimming touches of matching grosgrain ribbon turn the trick to a nicety. In the instance of model pictured an unusual neckline is achieved with a bow trim of grosgrain ribbon such as binds the wide revers of the short jacket. In a number of cases the new garden prints employ multicolor effects, with one tone dominating, the other bright, "springy" refreshing hoes introduced to achieve contrast and varlety. Then, again, two-color schemes are carried out in a great many in-stances such as cerise florals in solid tone drifting over navy blue or large white daisies silhouetted against a dark ground.

Nearly every print dress has its hiplength jacket of self fabric, either loose boxy types or in models semi fitting, that have two or three buttons at the waistline. As a rule a very simple styling is given to the skirt. The all-around pleated skirt is on the program, but for practical about-town wear the narrow silhouette with a subtle unobtrusive pleat or shirred device, just enough to permit freedom of action is first choice.

NEW COLOR SCHEMES SEEN ON PARISIANS

Striking color combinations are fea tured by all leading dressmakers. In addition to black, which is always enhanced by vivid touches, there are many new color schemes, often daring but always effective. Rochas combines a subdued tone of blue with a faded old-fashioned red for morning and day models.

Another fashionable combination seen in many houses is grenat en-hancing pale blue. Mainbocher shows several unusual color schemes, such as gray with red-brown and lapis, dark green with burgundy, violet with gold, gray with red, brown and lapis blue; green with coral and shell pink with

AAA BENEFITS By EDWARD A. O'NEAL Head of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

THE program launched by organ-ized agriculture must go forward. The American farmer will continue to fight for economic parity. Under the operations of the Agricultural Adjustment act the agricultural march toward parity, by giving farmers a purchasing power, has stimulated business revival throughout the country.

We are going to look to congress to take specific steps which will provide by legislation the mechanism by which agricultural parity is to be continued.

It is up to congress to provide that legislation within the provisions of the Constitution.

THE PARALLEL

By PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SOMETIMES at the close of a day I say to myself that the last national election must have been held a dozen years ago-so much water has run under the bridge, so many great events in our history have oc curred since then. And yet 34 months-less than three years-have gone by since March, 1933, History repeats in these crowded months, as in the days of Jacksontwo great achievements stand forth -the rebirth of the interest and understanding of a great citizenry in the problems of the nation and an established government which by positive action has proved its derotion to the recovery and well-be ng of that citizenry.

A DEFENSE OF CAPITALISM By JOHN S. THOMAS President of Clarkson College.

WE LISTEN with rapt attention while our intelligentsia tell us that the chief interest of business men is to bring on periodic collapse; that our farmers are failures; that we who work are oppressed; that we who do not are pauperized; that our statesmen are stupid, venal and hired; that criminals rule our cities: that we owe ourselves so much money we are bankrupt, and that what we do not owe ourselves, we have lent to Europe.

And poor old capitalism! Capitalism has not a leg to stand on. Being tried for life, she seems not to have a friend left in court.

And all of this, mind you, in spite of the fact that capitalism and the principle of competition in business working together in this country since 1790 have given us the most marvelous 140 years ever enjoyed by any people, anywhere, at any time

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE By MR, HOOVER

HE most ominous note of all was I the President's warning that the power he has assumed would be dangerous in other hands. "In thirty-four months," he says, "we have built up new instruments of public power. In the hands of the people's government, this power is wholesome and proper."

It just happens that the ideal upon which our government was found-ed and hitherto conducted is that it is dangerous to the people to have any man possess such powers, or to allow any man to thus aspire to personal government instead of a government of laws.

The question is, not that these powers, having been created and now in the hands of the good, might be transferred to the hands of the wicked, if the New Deal is not centinued. It is that they never should be possessed by anybody in these United States.

HENS NEED MORE VITAMIN A FOR WINTER MONTHS

"Every poultry-keeper knows how hens pick up in health and vitality when they are let out in the spring and given free range of the farm," says C. S. Johnson, Manager of the Poultry Department of the Purina "Combs get redder; plumage ets brighter and glossier; egg production increases to the highest point for the year. Not many birds are lost in early spring, either. Colds and roup are as scarce as hens' teeth.

"Some folks say it is due to some thing the hens get from scratching in the earth. Others say it is due to sunshine. Others, again, argue that spring is the 'natural' season for a her to lay eggs and hatch or brood, and that Nature provides some mysterious stimulant to build up her health and vitality at that season.

"All of these answers, in part, are right," says Johnson, "but there is a further explanation which scientific research has discovered. Research has proven one of the causes of this spring-time pick-up to be carotene (or Vitamin A) that mysterious element in green plants.

Springtime Improves Health.

"This is what happens. The hens are confined all winter in closed quarters —on a ration which, at best, contains only a limited amount of carotene. Then, suddenly, they are allowed outside, with young green grass and tender green shoots of all descriptions growing up all around. Every poultry owner knows how they go for it. And every particle of this tender, young. green stuff is rich in carotene.

"From the extra supply of carotene which they take into their bodies, the birds manufacture Vitamin A. The effects soon show in reddening combs, glossier feathers, more pep and vitality, keener appetites, higher production, and improved hatchability. This lasts but a few weeks. Only for a short time does nature supply young, tender shoots of green stuff rich in Vitamin A.

Puratene New Discover,

"It may be argued that this same effect could be brought about by feeding more 'ordinary green feed' through the fall and winter-more cabbage, mangels, clover leaves, etc. That is not so. To get sufficient Vitamin A from stored vegetables and dried leaves, the birds have to eat so much of these materials that they aren't able to eat the required amount of mash and grain for sustained, heavy production.

"With a problem like that before the poultry world, scientists now come through with a new, concentrated source of Vitamin A, called Puratene. It gives hens a 'spring-time supply' of Vitamin A without interfering with their consumption of egg producing feeds. In fact, it represents feeds. In fact, it promotes an in-creased consumption of feed, because it stimulates the appetite as it improves health. It is made by converting the carotene extracted from plants.

With this new product, feed manufacturers are now able to step up the Vitamin A in their poultry mashes two and one-half times. It is predicted that the discovery of Puratene will means almost as much to the poultry world as the discovery of cod liver oil.

CHAPTER XXI-Continued -15-

Her heart rose into her throat. It was here now, Larry's car-now, before seven o'clock-

"Thank goodness you're here!" he said, big and businesslike in his big brown overcoat and driving cap.
"Here, give me your bag—hop in. I wouldn't have known what to do if you'd happened to be inside, having dinner or something! By the luckiest chance in the world Fitch telephoned; they want me in there round eleven. Ruth took the message."

They were in the car. They had left Del Monte behind them and were smoothly moving north. If Tony had ever any doubts, any misgivings, they were gone now; the world was all heaven in the soft twilight, with Larry's big shoulder beside her.

"We have to face it, Tony, that we love each other, and that we can't have each other. I'm not going to tell you what you mean to me. I have no right. The only thing to do is to face it and work it out somehow."

"One of the things," he added, after a space, "that holds me to her. She's not strong; she did everything for me before I got a start; we had a boy and lost him. Any talk of our separating now would break her heart: she's not done anything mean or small to be treated like that. She loves me.

"And your little finger," he went on, as Tony was silent, "Is more to me than anything else in the world. The way you pull on your hat, the way your mouth works, the whole of you-brown and long, lying as you were today in the sand-" He stopped.

For a long time neither spoke. Then. Tony said staunchly: "Well, I'm going away. I don't know how I can. My heart'll be like a stretched piece of elastic between here and New York. I can't stay where I see you, or could see you, or could telephone you. If you were divorced," Tony said, "even then I'd not have an easy row to hoe. People like Ruth too much; they feel too much against the younger woman who draws a man away from an older wife. But at least I'd make you a home, I'd have children, we'd travel. The other way I'd hate myself, and you'd hate me,"

"I'd never hate you. I'd want to go home to you, darling-not from

"There seems to be a blight on me," Tony said somberly. "I don't seem to do things as other girls do."

"I'll tell you what you seem to me," the man said. "You seem to me the most wonderful woman in the world, a woman who is going to be admired, loved, followed, wherever she goes. You're in my heart and my mind and my soul all day and all night, Tony, young and brown and beautiful, with the most amazing mouth in the world, and the most amazing voice, and the lovellest laugh. Your eyes were like two dark-blue flames down on the beach today, with the shadow of the big rock behind you."

"It's too bad," Tony said after a while, in a wistful echo of her own "It's too bad, Larry, could we -I've just thought - could we tell Ruth?"

"Tell Ruth!"

"No, I suppose not." "It would be a thunderbolt to her. It would shake the very foundations of her life. No woman ever felt so married as Ruth. And she loves you next, I believe, to her mother and That perfectly logical mind of hers would begin working on it, imagining things, fearing things. She'd lose you and me, too. Ruth's-you know her, and you love her," he added restlessly, "but Ruth's not-not easy about things like that. I don't know that any woman would be, but she's the last one to-to see our side. I'm hers as much as her emeralds are. or her car, or her income, and she can't see it any other way."

"Funny thing, marriage, isn't it. Larry? I'd never want to hold any man like that, Oh, I'm so sorry, my dear, I'm not sorry that all this happened," Tony said, after a moment It's taken all the joy out of my life, but it's put something else in, better I'll never lose that, anyway, that I love a man, want him, want to belong to him-

"Steady!" Larry said. "I'm steady. I've been thinking it all over. I've just come to see how it is, that's all. I can't compromise, and you can't get free, and so I'm going away. It's been coming to me as we drove along here. I'm going immediately. I'm going to tell Cliff that the newspaper's sending me. I'll get out."

Larry cleared his throat. "It's too bad it has to happen this way," he said mildly. Tony jumbled herself up against his shoulder, spoke in a different tone, "We have the rest of this drive, Larry," she said. "Let's forget that maybe it's all we'll have." It was quite dark now. While they had been talking the car had been moving northward through the dark masses of the hills, and through the flat wide valley of the Santa Clara, There was a smell of grass and earth, and of dust and the sharp dews-

primitive, reminisc "It makes me feel like a little girl again to be going home in the gloaming like this."

"How simple it all was for us, then."

"Wasn't it? And maybe when one gets to be very old, Larry, eighty or so, it all goes back to that, to being happy and managed and taking every day for every day." "I love that mind of yours, Tony-the way it works." For a while there was silence, while the miles flowed by. Presently the girl said: "Would Ruth mind this?"

"She would surely mind how we feel about each other," Larry answered. "Yes, of course! But I was wondering what she would have said if I had said quite openly, 'Larry, take me along!" "She might not have suspected anything at all."

"Unless Caroline prompted her." "Well-that, of course. But do you think Caroline suspects?"

"I don't know. Sometimes I think she does." Again there was a long musing silence, then Tony said: "Larry, when I'm with you I feel tremendously brave. I could do anything, because you're there to approve. But the minute we're separated I feel so flat and stupid. I feel like screaming: 'Oh, what's the difference? Who cares!' So I know how I'll feel tomorrow," the girl went on, earnest and fragrant and confidential in the darkness, with her arm through his, and her face against his shoulder. "And I have to make unchangeable plans now, and stick to them no matter how I feel when this is over.'

"We'll have dinner now." They had turned off the highway to stop at a little roadside restaurant whose windows were gushing light into the night. There was an entrance through an iron gate; there were patios and arcades and a small table by a fire. The place was deserted. The old waiter who presently brought them minestrone and toasted sour Italian bread told them that they were the evening's only guests.

"No get trade till hot weather," he said. Tony was ravenous and found everything delicious; food brought her back color and spirit; she rested her elbows on the table and smiled across it at Larry.

"This is Italy, Larry, and we are on our travels." "Will you go to Italy with me, Tony ?"

"Not now. No; there's no happy ending for us," Tony said.

"There may be." "It's so horribly to have it depend on someone's death, Larry, It oughtn't to be that way. Do you suppose most persons' happiness depends on someone's death?" "I suppose it does depend on Ruth's death-that's horrible," the man said. looking up with a smile.

"One always says 'unless something happens.' But it always means 'unless someone dies." Tony mused on this for a moment, "No, I'll not do that. So this is our last little party, Larry. I couldn't trust myself for much of this one. One of these moony nights

There Was a Smell of Grass and Earth.

I'd want to give in-more than any thing else-Bendy, or Mother, or what people think of me, or what I think of myself-

"It would all vanish like fog. I'd think, 'It's my business and Larry's "And Isn't it?" "You know it's not. But the wors of it is," Tony said with a rueful laugh, "I can make all the resolves in the world, while I'm with you, and the minute we're separated I'm sick It is really like a sickness, Larry, just to hear your voice again.

"I wish there were some other way

"Yes, because this really isn't any The enchanted talk went on and on Tony's right eblow was resting on the table, and her chin in her hand; her left hand lay free, and after a while Larry's big brown hand was over it, firm and strong, and he had moved his chair about so that their shoulders were almost touching. When Tony raised her heavy dark eyelashes and brought the glowing soft light in her blue eyes to meet his look, she found his own eyes close.

A late and jubilant party had come into the little restaurant; they were shouting, drinking, dancing. Tony and Larry saw nothing of them; they were deep in their own murmured confidences. There was no time, no space, no world but the world of their own hearts.

The clock on the wall said ten, said eleven, and still their eyes. their hands, their souls were locked together, still they sat on in the obscure corner of the dining room, with the plain white cloth stained with red wine, and the cheese and the apple peels littering the disordered plates.

"Larry, will you look at the time?" "Good God, is it after eleven?" "And your engagement with Fitch?" Larry glanced toward the back of the restaurant. "I'd better telephone him. I can tell him I've had a breakdown. Do you realize we've been sitting here talking for three hours?" the man de-

"It seems like one." manded. "It did seem like one." Tony was omewhat concerned until he returned from the telephone booth cheerful and reassuring. "Was it all right?" she asked tearfully.

"Fine. He was just leaving the office; said we could take it up any time tomorrow. He'd telephoned Ruth, at the lodge, and she told him I'd started at six, so he knew I was trying to get there, anyway. I told him I was delayed down here at King City-

They walked toward the parked car; the world was whitewashed with moonshine now, and very still. There was a fresh smell of dew on dry grass; under each of the great meadow oaks lay a blot of lacy black shadow. Now and then a car raced by, its headlights sending long antennae into the soft clear night; every old barn and shed was transfigured in the magic silver light; the eastern mountains and the rising oak-clothed hills were furry and soft in unearthly and mystical radiance.

"Fog all gone," Tony said, in her place on the front seat again. It's straight ahead now. We ought to be in by three?"

"Sooner than that. We'll be in San Jose in about an hour, and then it's only an hour and a quarter." rested drowslly against Larry's shoul-

"Hello!" he said suddenly, rousing

"We're bumping," said Tony. "Bumping! Great Scott, what a flat!" Larry got out of the car, walked about it. "Our right rear is as flat as a pancake," he sald. "I must've got a puncture 'way back there, and the tire's been leaking air ever slace we started. And fool that I am, I've no spare! - No spare, and miles to go !"

"Well, there wasn't a garage, even back at the restaurant," Tony said.

"No, but I could have telephone Damn it!" Larry said unde his breath. "We'd have to stop some one and get them to telephone. I don't know how far a garage is or where there is one. This may delay However," he added philosophically, "we've lots of time now Cheerlo!"

Tony got out and walked about th car in her turn; looked up at the wide pale gray spread of the sky and the pulsing stars.

"Bright as day," she said. "Here comes a car-ladies, driving along pretty fast, too-no, they won't stop; they've heard too much of roadside robbers,' Larry laughed, impressive in his tan coat, with his thick black hair uncovered. "Here-here we are!"

A small car stopped; a man's spectacled face peered out. There was a woman with a baby in her lap beside him; another woman looked out from the back of the car. Tony knew this other woman's face, tried to place it; it had a vaguely unpleasant associa-

"I don't believe there's a garage open this side of San Jose now. the man said, sympathetically. may be an hour before help gets back

"Wait a minute-that house up the road there is lighted-funny thing too, as late as this-there must be sickness," said Larry. "We'll walk up there and use their telephone."

"I really think you'd save time." "Who is that woman?" thought, shuddering a little in the first feeling of cold. "I know that face!" "Come on, we'll go telephone." Larry told her, as the little car drove away, "And then we'll come back and walt in the car. I've got an extra coat there, and I'll wrap you up." A thousand times in the days that followed Tony was to wish that she had prevented him, had suggested that they walt for a bus: there were buses going up and down these roads, even though it was only at long intervals. A thousand times she would remember this moon-washed night with borror she would go back to this moment and long, with a passionate longing that was like a physical drag upon her whole being, to have it to live over again

No kindly premonition arrested their feet as they walked along the fragrant highway, turned in at a plum-guarded ranch gate, and approached a pleasant four-square wooden home draped in rose vines and shaded by two great oaks. "Oak Lawn," said a sign over the entrance steps. The hallway and an upper room were lighted; at twelve o'clock on a quiet Monday night, Larry rang the bell.

There was no answer; he tried the

"It's open; there's someone here They wouldn't go away and leave the place lighted up," he said to Tony, ringing again,

Again there was no response; far upstairs they could hear a child cry-

"There's a baby in there somewhe Larry. They've gone away and left it."
"Walt-here's someone." Footsteps were coming along the hall; the lock rattled, and a pale young man looked

"What do you want?"

know what to do."

"May I use your telephone, please? We've got a flat, and there doesn't seem to be any garage near here." The young man looked at them. blinking.

"It's out of order-" he began. Then his manner changed. He clutched his temples, dug the heels of his palms into his eyes, and burst into bitter weeping, "Come in," he sobbed, "my wife's just been murdered! I don't

The Donny murder case took frontpage headlines in all the newspapers the next day, and for many days to come. But they had lost money; they had had a baby; there was every reason to suppose that there had been a pervous strain upon both the spoiled young husband and wife of late years; the newspapers | Larry and I stopped before The miles flew by; Tony, wearied, were agog with theories as to the the quarrels and threats that had gone on in the once luxurious home. The Donnys had had but one servant in their employ at the time of the murder: a quiet old Mexican woman who had puttered home across the fields at nine o'clock on the fatal night.

Lawrence Bellamy, the well-known associate editor of the Call, who had been motoring home alone-who had been motoring home with an unknown woman companion at twelve-seventeen o'clock on that evening-who had been motoring home with Miss Antoinette Taft, social editor of the Call-had been the person to discover the tragedy and had quite properly notified the San Jose police. Miss Taft, it appeared from an amicable statemen from Mrs. Bellamy, was a close friend of the Bellamy family and had spent the day with them at Pebble Beach. No hint of scandal or surprise or blame came from Ruth. Everything had been quite as it should be; she was devoted to Miss Taft; the whole thing was only so "unfortunate." Quiet and rather pale, Tony went through the unreal-the hideous days. She was at the coroner's inquest, answering questions simply, with her characteristic little puzzled frown drawing the penciled brows together over her blue eyes. She and Mrs. Bellamy were friends? Great friends. She had spent the momentous Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bellamy in Pebble Beach? Yes. She told Aunt Meg something; Brenda a little more. She told Cliff the truth. "You and he-you mean you and Larry-?" Cliff stammered. "Oh, yes."

"And how long's this been going "There wasn't much to 'go on.' Months, I guess," Tony said in reply.

"Well, then, what's the idea of be-

GAS, GAS ALL THE TIME, CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better."—Mrs. Jas. Filler.

Adlerika acts an BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: 'In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli." Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

Farming Is Much Easier and Cheaper When a Farmall Does the Work

McCormick-Deering

SPEED and flexibility are brought to the row-crop farm by the Farmall Tractor. It is so far ahead of horses when it comes to planting, cultivating, and doing other rowcrop and general farming work that there is no comparison. And most important of all, Farmall farming means lower-

Until you own and operate a Farmall you cannot appreciate the benefits and advantages of it. But just ask any Farmall owner about it. He is the man who is enthusiastic about the Farmall. He knows. He has farmed with horses and with the Farmall and you can bet that he isn't going

If you want a real demonstration of the Farmall, call us up and we will arrange one for you. We'll show you how much easier it is to farm with a Farmall and why you can-not afford to be without one. There are three sizes—to fit the needs of any farm.
