

THE HEDLEY INFORMER

VOL. XXVI

HEDLEY, DONLEY COUNTY, TEXAS, MARCH 13, 1936

NO. 18

Chunn & Boston		Prices Good Friday and Saturday
Lamp Chimneys, Size No. 2, 2 for		15c
Veg.	Spuds, No. 1, 10 lb.	19c
	Cabbage, lb.	2c
	Lettuce, head	5c
	Spinach, lb.	5c
Peanut Butter, qt. jar		25c
Flour	Gold Medal, 48 lb.	$1.89
	Perryton, 48 lb.	$1.59
1 pkg. Grape Nut Flakes, 1 Post Bran, with 1 bowl, all for		23c
Canned Goods	Tomatoes, 3 No. 2 cans	25c
	Cut Beans, 3 No. 2 cans	25c
	Solomon Mackerel, 3 for	25c
	Pineapple, flat, 3 for	25c
	Cherries, gal.	55c
Matches, 6 boxes		19c
Sugar, pure cane, 10 lb.		55c
Beans, pintos, 20 lb.		$1.00

WORLEY HONORED

Representative Eugene Worley of Shamrock (above) has been signally honored by the Texas department of the American Legion and the Centennial committee of the same organization in the presentation of a certificate of distinguished service for his work toward the passage of legislation establishing the Legion sponsored Texas Memorial museum as a part of the Texas educational system and as a 1936 Texas Centennial feature attraction.

B. W. M. U.

The B. W. M. U. met last Thursday at the Wells home in an all day meeting. The topic for the meeting was "Christ Uplifted in the Homeland." The leader for the morning session was Mrs. Mrs. Wells. Song Jesus Paid It All. Devotional, Isa 52:7 10:40:11 Look upon the fields, leader. Causes to be helped by Annie W. Armstrong offering. Prayer for these causes. Song, Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone. How a Jew found the light. Mrs. Simmons. A chapter in the life of Mary Beluccio, Mrs. Heath. Prayer. Southern Baptist Indian Missions in Oklahoma Mrs. Blankenship. Song, Jesus Saves. Closing Prayer. Dinner was served at noon. For the afternoon session, Mrs. Dishman was leader. Song, Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross. Devotional, Psa 28:19:90:17. Far back in the mountains, Mrs. Johnson. Prayer, Mrs. Bain. Song, Break Thou the Bread of life. Ellen hears and heeds God's voice, Mrs. Hall. Prayer, Mrs. Blankenship. Song, Must I Go and Empty Handed. We prayed and gave, will you. Mrs. Alewine. Off-ring. Closing prayer, Mrs. Johnson.

NOTICE

Beginning Monday, the 16th there will be a 10c charge, or 5c each way, for pickups and delivery. This does not apply to work we do ourselves.

A. K. Marshall
W. M. Biffie

Drivers' licenses may be secured from Anne Mitchell at Hedley Drug Co. 164tc50

Rev. Rex Kendall of Plainview came in Tuesday night for a short visit with his parents.

HEDLEY P. T. A.

The Parent and Teacher Association had a get together meeting Thursday evening March 5, at 8:00 o'clock. A short business session preceded the program. Mrs. Bridges presented Mr. Trostle with a picture for the fifth grade, the winner of the membership drive.

The program was to commemorate the development of Hedley as a part of the Centennial program. Mr. Payne, the leader, called on the following pioneers to discuss for us the development in this community: Mr. Rains, Mr. Kendall, Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Hooker. The assembly then sang "Texas Our Texas" and "Beautiful Texas." The meeting closed with the benediction.

After the adjournment parents and visitors viewed the exhibits which the schools had taken to Clarendon on Texas Independence Day, the awards these exhibits received, and other worthy specimens which the teachers thought worthy of displaying. Evidently these people enjoyed the excellent work of those students as they were not hasty in their departures.

P. T. A. expresses its appreciation of parents and visitors who are interested enough to attend these meetings.

The Publishing Committee

W. M. SOCIETY

Circle No. 2 of the missionary society met with Theresa Webb Monday. We had a very interesting lesson on Mexico. Those present were Misses Inez Barnett, Ola and Eula Curd. Mesdames Mobley, Dudley, Reeves, Kempson and Trestle.

The lesson for next Monday will be:

General discussion, religion in Latin America.

Review of chapter 4.

The dawning vision of God, Mrs. Dudley.

The face of the man, Mrs. Mobley.

Devotional, Matt 11:1-5. Mrs. Kempson.

We meet with Inez Barnett Monday at 8 o'clock.

Students of Clarendon Jr. College To Be Here

The Clarendon Municipal Junior College is celebrating the week of March 15 to 20, as an advertising stunt for the college, and plans to visit the various communities of the county during the week. They will visit Hedley Wed., March 18, at 10:30, and will render a program at the high school auditorium, as follows:

Announcer, Sam Barrow. Piano Solo, Arthur Chase. Vocal Solo, Leota Rampy. Reading, Wilma Dee Smith. Trombone Solo, Drew Wilkerson.

Tap Dance, Alex Cooke. Saxophone Solo, Hubert Reavis. Skit, Drew Wilkerson, Wilma Dee Smith, Nellie and Rosie Lee Grady, Mary Francis Powell, H. W. Lovell.

They would like to have as many patrons present as possible.

Missionary Program

A missionary program will take the place of the church services at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning, March 22. The program will be announced next week.

The Thrifty Housewife

Will find many opportunities to save at our store. We have the same quality foods that we have always handled, and at a lower price than you would expect to pay.

Give your family a treat by buying your next order of groceries here.

Barnes & Hastings Grocery Co.
PHONE 21

Hodges Funeral Home

Memphis, Texas

The effect of the depressing economic conditions have been felt by us all, and our relations with our fellow man should be a little more considerate, a little less selfish.

Our costs have been reduced keeping with the times. Caskets of quality at reasonable prices.

A Complete
Funeral
For Child
$14.25

A Complete
Funeral
For Adult
$38.50

G. C. Heath, Hedley representative.....Phone 76

Satisfaction

Our store, like any successful business, is based on the idea of giving satisfaction to our customers. We pride ourselves in the fact that we have not failed to hold to this ideal during the lean years as well as the good ones.

If you are not yet a patron of this store, we invite you to give us a trial and be convinced.

Wilson Drug Co.

Where You Are Always Welcome

PHONE 63

We Protect the Money of THRIFTY PEOPLE

The past 6 years have been hard ones on investments. People who have watched their securities depreciate aren't going to take a chance again soon. The place they put their money has got to be secure—above question.

Like a haven in a storm, our bank is a refuge of safety for the man with the dollar. And you may be sure we're going to keep it that way.

Security State Bank
HEDLEY, TEXAS

THE FEATHERHEADS

SMATTER POP—It Seems the Young Hopeful Had Planned a Demonstration

MESCAL IKE

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

"REG'LAR FELLERS"

ADAMSON'S ADVENTURES

BRONC PEELER An Unwanted Candidate

AS MONEY GOES

RUBBERS

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake

Here you are, in a highly interesting planet, leading a life that is filled with wonders.

Indifference What are you going to do about it?

Just move along with the crowd—get your ideas of life from the screen, and be contented if you can spend an occasional Saturday or Sunday on a golf course.

Do you ever look around at the trees and the skies, and think about how they "work"?

Do you ever, when you find some problem that you understand, hunt up a book by somebody who does understand it and read it through?

Naturally you would like to get along—to succeed in whatever you are doing.

How can you expect to do that if you don't set the convolutions in that brain of yours at work, and keep it at work till it tires out?

How can you expect to hold a job very long, if the one bright spot in the day is quitting time?

It's all right to go to the picture shows, if you don't go too often.

Play of any kind is good for you, if you don't make too much of a habit.

Remember that in these days there are far more trained men and women than there ever have been before, and that if you don't keep on the alert they will beat you to some of the important places in life.

Keep at work. Keep alert. Don't be afraid that you will have a mental breakdown unless you can spend more time in playing around than you do on the job.

Take care of your diet, and unless you have something serious the matter with you you will be in no danger of breaking down.

Eat sparingly, get plenty of sleep, read intelligently written books, not more than 5 per cent of them novels, keep informed on the activities around you by reading the newspapers regularly, and you will not be haunted with the fear of failure.

Don't ever think about failure. Think about where you want to go, and how to get there.

Above all, don't be jealous if somebody else goes some place where you meant to go.

Concentrate all your efforts to getting there yourself, and if you work hard enough the chances are that you will arrive there.

All this is not going to be easy. But nothing that's worth a rap in this life is easy, or ever will be.

Children learn by asking questions. So do grown-ups, for that matter.

When fathers or mothers are too lazy, or too ignorant to reply willingly and intelligently to the constant queries their offsprings put to them, they need not be surprised and annoyed if the children do not develop any more rapidly than they do.

If your child asks you questions whose answers you do not know, make it a point to enlighten yourself first, and the youngster afterward.

Do not say to him casually: "You wouldn't understand that if I told you, you are too young."

Get up on the subject, and when you know considerably more about it, call in the kid and give him a little instruction.

Never fear that he won't pay any attention to it.

He pays attention to everything he sees, and if it is something that he is interested in, he will come to you for information.

It is far more important to you than it is to the men or the women who have your child's occupation to direct, to keep his curiosity aroused, and see that it is fed.

As a rule, small children are curious about everything they see.

Don't rebuff them when they ask you about this or that, and the ways and wherefores of it.

Encourage them to come to you with their questions.

Don't talk to them as if they were babies. Explain things. And if you have no knowledge on the subject yourself, find out where it can be found, and let them look it up.

For example, every small child is interested in automobiles.

Tell them how and why by a series of little explosions these machines are made to run.

Better that they should learn from you than from other boys who have very small foundations for their ideas about mechanics.

Bright children educate themselves to a great extent, but you can, if you try, advance their education, and awaken in them a desire to increase it.

Ten people out of twenty, I think, take the world and all its wonders for granted.

Don't let your children fall into that slovenly way.

Interest them. Encourage them to learn. Point out the way to learn.

And when they grow up you will find that, in all probability, if you are hazy about some subject or other, you can go to them and get the help that you need.

Cornaro Learned Gentle Art of Dying Old at Age of 40

History's outstanding example of the value of hygienic living is Luigi Cornaro, whose serious sickness when he was forty years of age directed his attention to regulating his habits of life.

Instead of dying before fifty, as a result of what was considered starvation diet, he lived to be one hundred.

In his eighty-fourth year he wrote his celebrated book showing how he had achieved health, high spirits and an unflinching interest in the life of his age.

BOYS! GIRLS! Read the Grape Nuts ad in another column of this paper and learn how to join the Dizzy Dean Winners and win valuable free prizes.—Adv.

Often Is An unwritten law can be as tyrannical as any other kind.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion.

Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

EVER REMOVES GRUB, GREASE FROM CLOTHES ALL DRUGGISTS

30c 40c 65c Bottles

NO DANDRUFF She Uses Glover's!

She used to be a victim of Dandruff. But no more! Her secret is regular use of Glover's Medicated Soap for the shampoo.

As all Druggists

Right: Fight If one has rights, one has always to be in a fight with some one.

CONSTIPATED SINCE HER MARRIAGE FINDS RELIEF AT LAST IN SAFE ALL-VEGETABLE METHOD!

It dated from her marriage—her trouble with intestinal sluggishness, nervousness, headaches. Nothing gave her more than partial relief until she tried a natural plant and vegetable laxative, Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets). She felt so much better immediately—more like living. Try N R K yourself. Note how refreshed you feel. N R K is one added to your system. So effective in clearing up colds, influenza, bronchitis, sore throats, non-habit forming. Only 25c, all druggists.

5¢ WHY PAY MORE? THE 10-SIZE CONTAINS 3 1/2 TIMES AS MUCH AS THE 5-SIZE! MOROLINE SNOW WHITE PETROLEUM JELLY

BEFORE BABY COMES Elimination of Body Waste Is Doubly Important

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without gripping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Start using these delicious, effective anti-acid, gently laxative wafers today

Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letterhead. Select Products, Inc., 4402 23rd St., Long Island City, N. Y.

35c & 60c bottles 20c tins

MILNESIA WAFERS THE ORIGINAL MILK OF MAGNESIA WAFERS

The Original Milk of Magnesia Wafers

The Staff

Faculty Advisor..... W. C. Payne
Editor..... Verlin McPherson
Asst. Editor..... Sybil Holland
Joke Editor..... Stephen Milner Manager..... Marvin Hickey
Reporters:
Senior..... Clyde Laurence
Junior..... Sue Beth Edwards
Sophomore..... Mamie Hunnicutt
Freshman..... Goldie Dickson

THE HEDLEY INFORMER

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY
Mrs. Ed C. Boliver, Owner
Edward Boliver, Editor and Publisher

Entered as second class matter
October 28, 1910, at the postoffice at Hedley, Texas, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE—Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The Informer will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the publisher.

All obituaries, resolutions of respect, cards of thanks, advertising of church or society doings, when admission is charged, will be treated as advertising and charged for accordingly.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Worship
Each Sunday
10:00 a. m. in Teaching Service
11:00 a. m. in Prayer Song and Sermon
6:45 p. m. in Training Service
7:45 p. m. in Prayer, Song and Service
Each Monday
8:00 p. m. W. M. S.
Each Wednesday
7:00 p. m. in Prayer Meeting
7:00 p. m. in Church Conference, first Wednesday in each month
Each Friday
4:30 p. m. Y. W. A.
M. E. Wells, Pastor.

WEST BAPTIST CHURCH

Beron F. Todd, pastor
Sunday School at 10 a. m.
Preaching every 2nd and 4th Sundays and on Saturday before the 2nd Sunday Morning service 11:00 a. m. Evening service 8:00. Visitors are always welcome.
B. Y. P. U. and adult Bible
Sunday at 7:00 P. M.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Brother Frank E. Ohism will preach in Hedley, at the Church of Christ, the second Sunday of each month.
Everybody is invited to come out and hear him.
Bible Classes every Sunday morning from 10 to 11 o'clock.
Everyone is cordially invited to attend

JOHN W. FITZJARRALD

Chiropractor
18th year in Memphis
PHONE 462
Lady in Office

ASSEMBLY

We list a schedule of our as-semblies and invite the patrons to attend as often as they can.
General assembly at 9 o'clock
each fourth Monday
Grade school assembly at 10:45
Wednesdays (except 4th week)
High school assembly at 12:45
Mondays (except 4th week)

McMurry Glee Club Here

The McMurry Glee club entertained the Hedley student body last Thursday morning. The group of young people showed excellent voices as well as training

After the enjoyable program by the McMurry chorus a young man interviewed the Senior class concerning the college, giving interesting statistics concerning the standard maintained by the school, and the number enrolled.

Home Ec Officers Elected

Officers of the Home Ec club elected were:
President, Lillian Sharp
Vice pres Inell Biffle
Secretary Thelma Tate
Program committee, Eva Duckworth
Hostess, Verlin McPherson
Reporter Ooal Monroe

SHERIFF'S NOTICE OF SALE

The State of Texas:
County of Donley:
By virtue of an order of sale is sued out of the District court of Dallas County, Texas, 68th Judicial District of Texas, on a judgment rendered in said court January 14th 1936, in favor of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company, a corporation, and against J. T. Bain, Mary Alice Bain, J. R. Bain, Nola Bain, and Humble Pipe Line Company a corporation in the cause of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company, a corporation plaintiff and against said J. T. Bain, Mary Alice Bain, J. R. Bain, Nola Bain, and Humble Pipe Line Company, a corporation, Number 16,528 G,
I did on the 19th day of February, A. D. 1936, at 8 o'clock P.
M. levy upon the following described tract of land situated in Donley county, Texas, as the property of said defendants, to-wit: All of section Number twenty-nine (29) in block C 7, certificate Number 4,668 issued to the G. O. & S. P. Ry Co patented to Alfred Rowe, containing 640 acres of land, and being the same land described in a deed executed by W. J. Lewis to J. T. Bain dated
July 1st 1921 recorded in volume 45 page 609 deed records Donley county, Texas, being located in the eastern part of Donley county about one mile south of Salt Fork of Red River and approximately 2 miles North and 12 to 18 miles east of the town of Clarendon, Texas and on the 11th Tuesday in April, 1936, being the 7th day of April, 1936, between the hours of 10 o'clock
A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M. on said day at the court house door of Donley county, Texas, I will offer for sale and sell at public auction all the right, title and interest of all said defendants in said land
Witness my hand this February 19th 1936 at Clarendon, Texas
Gay Pierce, Sheriff
Donley County, Texas.

A Beautiful Scene

By Melba Grace Christie
On Monday evening about five thirty, the sun began to set. The sun became lower and lower in the western sky until only the rose color was left. Soon the rose of the sky faded, and a beautiful dusky stillness took its place

As the sun was sinking lower the hills changed color and the sun set. At first the hills were a dusky green and yellow. The tops of the hills were bare and looked faintly purple. The olive green of the sage brush and yellow of the sand began to change colors. The sage, sand, and hilltops then began to look rosy. As the light of the sun faded, the hills lost their rosy color, and in turn they turned a faint purple. In a short while the color had faded, and a mist seemed to settle over them, leaving them beautiful and still until night

The banks of the river were made red brown, and a sandy brown clay; as the sun set they changed colors nearly a dozen times. Finally they too seemed to settle and wait for the night.
The river bed was dry, and the drifted sand and logs also changed their colors as the sun set. Again the colors faded and bill, skies, banks, and the river settled for the night.

Continental Again Proves Its Faith In Newspaper Ads

Ponca City Okla.—During 1935 Continental Oil Company will spend nearly 75 per cent of its total consumer advertising appropriation for newspaper space.
It was announced here by Wesley
I. Nunn, advertising manager.
Nunn also stated that the In-former has been selected to carry Conoco advertising this year, and that his company has again approved one of the largest sales promotion budgets in its history.
"Continental's faith in the dividend earning power of newspaper advertising is founded upon sales increases directly traceable to this medium," said Nunn.
"Last year, for example, there was a marked improvement in Company earnings, despite excessive gasoline taxes and other adverse factors. Sales of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil also reached an all time high.
"Business is definitely on the upgrade. And we are confident that aggressive newspaper advertising quality products and a high standard of service will make this the most outstanding year in our history."

Nothing like Pine Oil for Colds; Flu; Stomach and Kidney trouble, and massage chest with Pine Oil and Pneumonia.
Zimmerman's Wonder Salve for Piles; Eczema or any sore. Sold at Wilson and Leila Lake Drug Stores and Quail Mercantile Co.

Mr and Mrs Geo. Armstrong are moving to Whittenburg this week. They will be missed by their many Hedley friends.

- Chicks - - Chicks -
Day Old
Reds 7c - Leghorns 6c
Trays 154 Eggs and 132
Set twice per week
Hatching 2c per Egg
WALKER HATCHERY

CHAPEL TALK

Mr. Lowe said that the earmarks of a good student were faithfulness, conviction and unselfishness. Later in life one would be known by these marks as he went on through life, out of school. The facts taught to the student might be forgotten, but these three things will stay with him. He said that no matter what a person or student did in the way of these three things, he would be rewarded in some way.
To be rewarded by one of these three things would class a boy or girl among the ones that bear the ear marks of a good student.
Lillian Sharp

HOME EC CLUB

The Home Ec club had a most enjoyable meeting last Friday.
The room was decorated in pink and white, the club colors. The room was dark with only candles giving the light that was needed.
The new members with their white smocks and head bands on were initiated, but it's a secret
how. Then a poem, "If for Girls" was read by Verlin McPherson, the last year's president. Following the poem all old members rose and welcomed the new members to the club, then Eva Duckworth took charge of the program. Plans were discussed for the following programs after which dainty refreshments were served.

Political Announcements

For Representative, 122nd. Dist.
Eugene Wesley of Shamrock
(Re election)

For District Judge:
A. S. Moss of Memphis
A. J. Fires of Childress
Re election

For District Attorney:
John Deaver of Memphis
Re election

For District Clerk:
Walker Lane
Re election

For County Superintendent:
G. W. Kavanaugh
Sloan Baker
Re election

For County Judge:
S. W. Lowe
Re election

For Treasurer:
Mrs. Curtis E. Thompson
Leon O. Lewis

For Tax Assessor and Collector:
Joe Bownds
(Re election)

For Sheriff:
Guy S. Pierce
(Re election)
C. Huffman

For County Clerk:
W. G. (Bill) Word
Re election

For Commissioner, Prec. 3:
Claud Nash

Huffman's Barber Shop
Expert Tonsorial Work. Shins
Chair. Hot and Cold Baths
You will be pleased with our service. Try it.
W. H. Huffman, Prop.

7 O'Clock Dinner

One of the most beautiful and enjoyable entertainments of the season was a dinner given the Seniors last week by Mrs. Owen and Mrs. Payne, at the home of Mrs. Payne. The tables were decorated very pretty, carrying out the George Washington scheme.

A delicious dinner was served.
After dinner games of 42 were enjoyed until Mrs. Owen reminded us that it was time to go home.

Everyone left declaring it was the most pleasant evening we had spent together in a long time, and we gratefully say Mrs. Payne is a perfect hostess.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Lucille Keeninger celebrated her 5th birthday Saturday night
Feb. 29, with a party at her home.

A number of her friends were present and played games until a late hour, then they were all taken into the dining room and enjoyed an old fashioned candy drawing. She received a number of nice presents. All reported an enjoyable time.

Out of town guests were Mrs.
Hammond and son of Quanah,
William Keeninger of Chillicothe, Geneva Armstrong and Mr and Mrs. A. J. Armstrong of Clarendon.

42 CLUB

The 42 club met March 3, at the home of Mr and Mrs E. R.
Hooker. Eight members and two guests were present. Each reported having a good time, and adjourned at a late hour, to meet Tuesday, March 17, in the Marvin Whitfield home.

Mrs. E. C. Boliver and daughter, Pauline, spent the past week end in Wichita Falls and New castle.

NOTICE To Car Owners

Let us wash and grease your car and clean the upholstery

We do general repairing and carry new and used parts, and tires and tubes.

Let us check your car for winter driving.

Prestone Anti Freeze

CLIFTON'S GARAGE

PHONE 42-2R

2nd Grade News

February has been a busy time for Grade II. In our school work we remembered the birthdays of great men. We also worked hard to do our part in the Texas Exhibit by our school, given in Clarendon March 2nd. Some of the sang Bartie Edwards helped with the music.

February 14th was one of our happy days. We had Valentine mail boxes in our room from 2:30 to 4 p. m. 34 of us went to the home of Mrs. Hickey, our room mother for a party. Mrs. Hickey showed us such a good time with games, songs, a Valentine box and good things to eat that the time seemed very short. We love Mrs. Hickey for being a good room mother this time and other times this school year.

T. E. L. CLASS

The T. E. L. class met Friday,
March 6, in the home of Mrs. C.
L. Goins, with only a few members present. All enjoyed the evening and lesson.

Opening song by class, Amasing Grace.

Prayer, Mrs. Alewine.
Review of the Sunday School lessons which everyone enjoyed.

We reviewed all the lessons for the past month. Each member seemed to be spiritually interested and all enjoyed the information received from Mrs. Wells of the lessons.

Prayer, Mrs. Wells.
Delicious refreshments were served and especially enjoyed by all. Now let's have a full class next Sunday and all meet together at our next meeting.
Reporter

Wanted—Practical nursing
Mrs. W. E. Grimsley

Hooker's have tennis shoes for $2 per pair. Regular 80c values youth's sizes only.

Ask Your Grocer
for Roaster Fresh
Golden Light
Coffee

HEAD COLDS

Why Suffer with a Head Cold? You can Breathe Freely through both nostrils within 20 minutes after you apply
BROWN'S NOSE OPEN, the Two-Way treatment for Head Colds, Hay Fever and the relief of Asthma. BROWN'S Price $1.00. Sold and

Hedley Drug Co.

You Gamble

WHEN YOU BUY THE unknown

Games of chance may be all right in their place—but why risk your money when you buy razor blades! Probak Jr. is produced by the world's largest manufacturer of razor blades. Here is known quality—double-edge blade that "stands up" for days after shave—yet sells at 4 for 10¢!

PROBAK JUNIOR

4 BLADES FOR
10¢

Italy Feels the Pinch of Sanctions

Oil! The precious fuel shown gushing forth from the earth at the right is the biggest need today of Mussolini, shown in inset. How young Italians take pride in turning over their valued private possessions to the government to help it beat the pressure of sanctions may be seen at the upper left. Lower left are Romano and Anna-Marie, children of the dictator, turning over their personal jewels to the government.

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

Can oil sanctions stop the war? The answer seems to be "yes" if the League can succeed in cutting off all oil shipments recently assigned by the League of Nations to make a survey of the situation indicate that six or seven months of a complete oil embargo would bring Il Duce to cease his operations in Ethiopia.

Many qualifying factors may alter the situation. As a matter of fact, the longer the League of Nations ponders the advisability of applying oil sanctions—the longer the delay—the longer Italy will be able to hold out after sanctions begin to be enforced. For she is reported to be storing oil at a rapidly-increasing rate; the way in which American oil shipments to Italy have more than doubled normal proportions is an indication of what is happening between Italy and other nations. Even Rumania, one of the staunchest supporters of the sanctions idea, is increasing her petrol shipments to Italy.

Normally, Italy uses 1,500,000 tons of oil annually. With the war operations now going forward in Ethiopia, she now is burning it up at the rate of 2,500,000 tons. Of her normal importations of 1,500,000 tons annually, Rumania furnishes about 35 per cent, Russia 22 per cent, Persian sources (controlled by Great Britain) 12 per cent, Latin-American sources (also controlled by Great Britain to a large extent) 14 per cent, the United States 10 per cent and all other sources 7 per cent.

During the past year, when Italy imported 2,500,000 tons, Rumanian shipments leaped to 41 per cent of the total; Russia shipped 16 per cent, Persia 15 per cent, Latin America, 15 per cent, the United States 6 per cent and other sources 7 per cent.

Because of the delay in the application of oil sanctions, it is believed that Italy can go along through the rainy season and pick up her military operations in autumn.

The temporary let-down in fighting will make possible the saving of considerable oil, and will thus stretch out the period of Italy's "reprieve" a few more months. How long after that time Mussolini can keep going depends upon his success in securing fresh supplies.

The answer to this lies largely with the nations who are not members of the League. The United States has not yet made up its mind whether its new neutrality act will contain the provision that exports to belligerent nations must not exceed their normal proportions. One of the things holding up the League embargo, of course, is the fact that member nations are waiting until it can be determined what kind of action will be taken by the non-member nations.

Face Loss of Trade.
If Italy can keep buying oil from non-member nations, the members will face the possibility of losing a good share of their oil business for a long time to come, if not permanently. Some of them are trying to console themselves into thinking that immediate losses will not be very important because a settlement may be effected within the next few months.

Italy is attempting to ameliorate its own situation through the adoption of substitutes for oil, and the building of new factories, installation of transformers, and similar preparations are well under way. The process, even when it gets moving well, is a costly one, however, and it is doubtful whether Italy's solution to the problem of oil sanctions lies in that direction. Some estimates place the total annual saving in oil by that means could be only about 110,000 tons at the most.

Besides this, alcohol and benzene are used in the manufacture of substitutes. They are also used in the manufacture of explosives, and the need for both increases, the difficulty becomes apparent. Lastly, some of these substitutes have to be mixed with imported petrol, anyway.

There is plenty of ground for the supposition that the cry for oil sanctions has subsided considerably with the indications that Italy is achieving a victory far from complete in East Africa. If such sanctions do come, it is likely now that they will not be complete, but will only apply to shipments over and above the normal shipments.

The member nations are in a ticklish position; of that there can be no doubt. Mussolini has told them in no uncertain terms he will consider oil sanctions acts of war, and will reply with acts of war. Whether saving Ethiopia and saving the face of the League will be worth the risk of fighting an honest-to-goodness war with Italy is a power that is holding up immediate action.

Limit U. S. Export.
If the United States does adopt the kind of neutrality law advocated by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull, the League could then be assured that Italy would not receive more than about 200,000 tons of oil annually from American producers.

If American shipments are unlimited, the League has another card which it could play, however. Most of the oil tankers in use are owned by British and Scandinavian interests. American shipments might be materially cut by denying the United States the use of these tankers.

Meanwhile, Italy has been adding to her own fleet of tankers. According to the League transport sub-committee's estimate, Italy now has 82 ships which total approximately 350,000 tons. There are tankers in the Italian navy which might be included, and which would add another 70,000 tons. It has been estimated that Italy might herself be able to transport some 2,000,000 tons annually from ports on the Gulf of Mexico.

Unquestionably, if sanctions on oil are declared, the League would declare a prohibition on the sale of tankers to Italy, thus preventing her from building up her tank fleet any more than she has already done. Also, it is probable that the League would forbid the movement of tankers sailing to Italian ports. To accomplish this and to prevent the shipment of oil in containers carried by other types of vessels, it would probably be necessary to declare naval blockades. This is too much for the war, and the League is exceedingly wary about invoking the blockade.

There is little likelihood that new tankers would be purchased by American interests to carry on a wartime trade with Italy. The policy of the administration is too clear against aiding a nation at war at any time.

The usual amount of regimentation of a people under a dictatorship has multiplied many times since the 23 nations declared economic sanctions on Italy.

The government has declared import monopolies on hundreds of items, from meat and fish to things like moving picture films. To protect the gold reserve the National Institute for Foreign Exchange was authorized to control all transactions involving the precious metal. Citizens or corporations may not sell or exchange gold until they have offered it to the government, which agrees to return it in the same amount and quality within a year, at interest at 5 per cent.

Royalty Sets Example.
Italy's king and queen set an example by sending their wedding rings to Mussolini and the populace quickly took up the idea, thousands upon thousands of persons turning over their own pairings and receiving iron rings in exchange, in colorful and, indeed, piffling ceremonies throughout the country.

After the depletion of the gold reserve to a point somewhat under $400,000,000, the Treasury department has insisted that it has maintained most of that reserve through increased taxation, the floating of bond issues, the wedding rings, new loans, the conversion of government credits and the realization of foreign credits held by private citizens.

Prices of foods and other items in common use skyrocketed after Italy had felt the pinch of sanctions for a little while. Gasoline rose from 85 cents to $1.20 a gallon; wheat went up 20 lire a quintal. Coal, soap and textiles followed. Factories shut down because there were no raw materials to manufacture, or because of the prohibitive prices on raw materials.

Appeals were made to the emotions of the people. Boycotts were declared on goods coming from sanctionist countries. Great engines of economy and conservation of sanctioned articles were set in motion. There were—and are—plenty of the meatless days and wheatless days that we Americans knew during the war, except that the Italians probably observe them more rigidly and more frequently. The populace was encouraged to eat more fish and poultry, that beef, pork and mutton could be conserved or sent to the boys in the African trenches. Newspapers and periodicals even refused to accept any more contributions from authors of the sanctionist countries, and textbooks from those countries were removed from the schools. To meet the needs of the poorer people, who were hardest hit by the rising prices which followed the application of sanctions, commissions of doctors and dieticians issued pamphlets and began educational campaigns on the maintenance of proper diet and living conditions under the difficulties.

The people were not to be denied bread, for the fine wheat harvest of 1935 was 21 per cent greater than that of 1934. In the last five years the total area sown in wheat has been increased by about 400,000 acres. Another 150,000 acres were added during 1935.

Policy of Secrecy.
The Treasury department eventually began a policy of secrecy as to its exact status, and it was believed that this status was none too good, in the face of the fact that publication of all statements of the Treasury department and the Bank of Italy were suspended. The Italian deficit last year was about $100,000,000, with nearly half of this accounted for by the campaign in Africa.

It is not in foodstuffs, but in raw materials that Italy faces the most dangerous threats of sanctions. Italy imports nearly 2,000,000 quintals of cotton annually—three-fourths of it from the United States—as against a production of only 9,000 quintals at home. She also imports five times as much wool as she produces, but much of this import can be canceled by the substitution of silk, rayon and other materials. The nation imports practically all of its requirements in seeds, rubber and, of course, oil. The home production of oil probably does not exceed 1 per cent of her normal needs.

Italy's needs in timber are not facing any serious threats; for she can still import practically all she needs from Austria. Austria is also helping in fortifying Italy against the pressure of sanctions on minerals. Needs of scrap iron are diminishing as the result of national drives to corral all the old iron in the nation. Italy's own production of iron ore can be increased about two-thirds its normal needs. With other minerals it is not the same. Italy must import all of her tin and nearly all of her copper, from sanctionist countries. Aluminum may be substituted, for some of these products. The nation is fairly rich in aluminum. She imports about half of her lead. She must import about ten times as much coal as she produces, about half of the total import coming from sanctionist countries. Her own coal is of poor quality.

After the time of Sir William de Warel the name was changed to "Wirrell," then "Worrell," and finally "Worrall," which is in general use today.

The first settler in America of the family of Worrall was John, who came with the party of William Penn and made their homes in Pennsylvania. Descendants of John went to Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, but many of these still reside on land granted them by William Penn.

Check the clause which properly completes the following statements:
1—John Hancock was.....
2—The founder of an insurance company.....the name of a great race

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT HISTORY?

Check the clause which properly completes the following statements:
1—John Hancock was.....
2—The founder of an insurance company.....the name of a great race

Who Are You?

The Romance of Your Name

By RUBY HASKINS ELLIS

A Seymour?

THIS name was originally taken from a Norman knight, who lived in the Thirteenth century. Sir William St. Maur and the House of Seymour in America descends through the grandson of this ancestor, Roger de St. Maur, who was lord of Penlow and Woundy, in England.

John Seymour of Wolf Hall in Wiltshire, sheriff of the county in the reign of Henry VII, married the daughter of Sir Henry Darell of Littlecote, County Wiltshire. It was their eldest son who was knighted by King Henry on the field of battle for gallant conduct as one of the commanders of the king's forces against the Cornish rebels at Blackheath. Later on, for his unusual prowess at the famous "Battle of the Spurs," he was made a Knight Banneret by King Henry VIII. He attended the king at the "Field of the Cloth of Gold," where the meeting of Henry and Francis I took place, an incident so famous in English history. He also attended the king at Canterbury, when Emperor Charles V was received in England.

Seymour

John Seymour married Margaret Wentworth, daughter of Sir Henry Wentworth, who claimed descent from a great many medieval dynasties of Europe. Their son, Edward, became a powerful noble and Lord Protector of England. His rise to fame was meteoric; knighted in 1523, created Viscount Beauchamp; governor and captain of the Isle of Jersey; chancellor and chamberlain of North Wales; in 1537 created earl of Hertford and later, Knight of the Garter; in 1543 he was made Lord Great Chamberlain of England for life.

His great-grandson, Richard Seymour, came to America, settled in Hartford, Conn., where he immediately became active in the affairs of the colonies. He was a founder of Norfolk, Conn.

Most of the Seymours in this country can trace to this Richard and thus back to the English family.

A Worrall?

THE earliest ancestor of the Worrall family was Sir Hubert de Warel, lord of Arles in Provence, and several of his sons were with William the Conqueror at the Battle of Hastings. Three of them were killed in battle and the conqueror carried the coat of arms to Hubert for his heroism and also conveyed to him large tracts of land in the Counties of Durham and Northumberland, England. Here he erected a palatial residence. His name is to be found in the Domesday Book, that immortal English document which contains the names of all the early feudal titleholders.

Worrall

Ralph de Warel, youngest son of Hubert, succeeded to the estate and founded the Monastery of Blackburn. Sir William de Warel was active in the Crusades to the Holy Land with Richard the Lion-Hearted. His only son, Rudiger, had estates in France. He was interred in the Monastery of Arles.

After the time of Sir William de Warel the name was changed to "Wirrell," then "Worrell," and finally "Worrall," which is in general use today.

The first settler in America of the family of Worrall was John, who came with the party of William Penn and made their homes in Pennsylvania. Descendants of John went to Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, but many of these still reside on land granted them by William Penn.

McGoofey's First Reader and Eclectic Primer

Associated Newspapers Edited by H. I. PHILLIPS WNU Service

Who is this?
This is John.
Who is John?
John is the driver of an interstate passenger bus.

What is John doing?
John is doing the usual thing.
What is the usual thing?
Hogging the whole road and ignoring the rights of other users of the highways. At the moment he is driving in the middle of the road and taking the curves at 40 miles an hour.

Doesn't John ever consider the rights of others on the road?
Only when he passes through a village where the police are not afraid to arrest a man who drives a car for a transportation corporation.

Is John blowing the horn?
Yes, John is blowing the horn. He is always blowing the horn.

Why is John blowing the horn?
So he will be able to frighten drivers of small cars out of their wits.
What is his purpose in wanting to frighten other drivers?
He wants them to get off the earth so he can make better time right down the middle of the alley.

Can the cars ahead move over any farther?
No, but that doesn't bother John. John wants them to climb into an open lot, or into a tree or sumpin.

How does he get away with such tactics?
You will have to ask the motorcycle police.

1—This is the story of Geoffrey.
2—Geoffrey was a monotone from birth. He couldn't sing a lick.
3—He stood at the foot of his class in music and when-sour note in the ever there was a morning anthem they knew who was responsible for it.
4—In addition to this, Geoffrey talked through his nose.
5—Nevertheless he always wanted to join in the singing and fought all the Stop-Geoffrey movements of his day.
6—He didn't seem to have any special talents along any line.
7—His folks gave him saxophone lessons, but nothing that he did with that instrument seemed to indicate that he would go far musically.
8—They thought he ought to become an engineer or a lawyer or something with money in it.
9—Geoffrey was sent to college and made the college band, but his popularity was somewhat retarded by the fact that he continued to join in all college songs, singing through his nose as usual.
10—In the class vote for the Man Most Likely to Succeed he didn't even get a ballot.
11—But he went to the big city and took a radio test. His nasal emphasis was more pronounced than ever, but the radio people declared he "had something new" and signed him to a long-term contract as a crooner.
12—Nothing like it had ever been heard through the mike before, they said. And they were right.
13—And lo, he became one of the band's foremost radio crooners and wallowed in money for the rest of his life.
MORAL—It sounds differently when filtered through a microphone.

PSALMS OF LIFE

Friendship
Friendship is a golden charm—
Cultivate it, dear;
It will tend your life to warm,
Bringing joy and cheer.

Strive to make as many friends
As you can, for they May assist when fortune sends Heavy cares some day.

Make new friends at every inch
By your manner sunny;
They'll all help you in a pinch—
IF YOU DON'T ASK MONEY!

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT HISTORY?

Check the clause which properly completes the following statements:
1—John Hancock was.....
2—The founder of an insurance company.....the name of a great race

GOOD MANNERS

Little children should be civil,
Ever circumspect and kind,
And commands from any elder
They should never fail to mind.

Never pull your grandpa's whiskers—
Never yank out grandma's hair,
And when mother's being seated
Never pull away her chair.

Don't put tacks in sister's cereal
Or live bees in father's hat;
Never tie tin cans to doggies
And don't try to skin the cat.

Never thumb your nose at teacher;
All her burdens you should ease;
But this little verse is wasted—
Kids will do just as they please.

horse.....a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

2—Benjamin Franklin is famed for the statement....."Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute"....."Don't cheer, boys, the poor devils are dying"....."When better doughnut holes are made Alry Bakeries will make them"....."Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves."

3—Marshall Ney was.....one of the early movie stars.....the originator of the slogan, "A Ney for a Ney and a tooth for a tooth".....founder of a big department store in Chicago.....a famous soldier.

4—"A public office is a public trust" was the famous statement of.....Boss Tweed.....the late Charlie Murphy.....Julius Caesar.....King Henry VIII.....Grover Cleveland.....the Cherry sisters.

5—The character in literature famed for demanding a pound of flesh was.....Little Boy Blue.....David Copperfield.....Topsy.....Shylock.....Old Mother Hubbard.....Pickwick.

6—The retreat from Moscow was ordered by.....Trotzky.....Batten, Barton, Durst & Button.....Harriet Becher Stowe.....Napoleon Bonaparte.....Huey Long.

CURIOUS FACTS FOR CURIOUS PEOPLE

1—There is a tribe of people in the interior of Africa the members of which have no dental worries, due to the fact they never listen to radio programs.

2—Fourth of July in America falls on July 4 this year.

3—The responsibility for codfish cakes has never been traced.

4—Children should never be allowed to chew the sulphur off matches. It ruins the match.

5—A flea can jump 245 times its own length but has never stopped to verify the figure.

6—An odorless dish of liver and onions can be made by leaving out the onions.

7—No use has ever been found for the seeds recovered from apple pies.

8—A suit that has just been cleaned in gasoline should not be worn to a fireworks display.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THESE SENTENCES?

1—Deep sincerity characterizes the attitude of every diplomat at the League of Nations meeting.

2—The youth took his college degree and immediately went to work.

3—The bathwater at no time reeked: "The water is nice but the air is cool."

4—The radio announcer talked in his natural voice.

5—The gasoline pumping station insisted that all its pumps be the same color.

6—When the winner of a close race was announced at the race track nobody exclaimed: "Why, those judges are blind."

7—The bathing girl, when informed that her back was getting tanned, expressed immediate alarm and dressed at once.

8—Stock market securities advanced ten points and held their gains for a week.

9—The Broadway comedian refused to use any jokes that might be slightly ribald.

10—The maker of fifty-cent cigars gave out an interview in which he said business was great.

GOOD MANNERS

Never pull your grandpa's whiskers—
Never yank out grandma's hair,
And when mother's being seated
Never pull away her chair.

Don't put tacks in sister's cereal
Or live bees in father's hat;
Never tie tin cans to doggies
And don't try to skin the cat.

Never thumb your nose at teacher;
All her burdens you should ease;
But this little verse is wasted—
Kids will do just as they please.

MAIDEN VOYAGE

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Copyright, Kathleen Norris.

WNU Service.

CHAPTER XXIV—Continued

Presently, suddenly, the sun was out hot between showers, and then again a soft fall of rain was blown warmly against their faces. Again came the sparkle and shine and steaming heat of the sun, and Tony asked, wrinkling her face:

"Will they come?"
"Who?"
"The smarties. Your friends."
"Oh," Joe said ruefully, "they may. It may be clear up in the city. They may be on their way now."

"It's three. Maybe we ought to go back and clean up and be ready for 'em. And I'll tell you," Tony said in her animated way, as he gave her his hand for the last hard steps up the cliff, "if they aren't coming, let's telephone Betsy and Alvin and have them come over for supper. All that chicken, you know, and the delicious asparagus."

"Must we?" he said, as they walked along on the soaked new grass of the cliff.

"Well—"

"It's so nice when it's you and me and the dog."
Shedding their wet outer garments and leaving their soaked shoes at the door, they went into lifeless warmth, to sudden almost stunning silence after the riot of the winds and the sea.

"There's a telegram there, Joe. Probably they're not coming, and we might have finished our walk! Dibs on the shower!"

Not waiting until he opened the yellow envelope, she ran upstairs to the chilly spare room, changed into her velvet frock, and came down decorously 20 minutes later with her still damp hair brushed into shining rings. The sitting room was deserted and the fire burning, the guests just descending from a big parked car at the door.

With a call upstairs to inform Joe of their arrival, Tony went to the door and did the honors. The world was one wide glitter of hot sweet light now, and the young garden and the red-flagged terrace and the backdrop of blue sea looked their loveliest. Tony introduced herself to Professor and Mrs. Unger, and Dr. Herrmann, and Frau Dr. Knecht.

"You had lunch all ready for us!" lamented quiet little Mrs. Unger.

"We only turned it into dinner," Tony explained. "And then we went off on a hunt. It's all here, waiting for you. We could sit out here on the terrace," she added, "if it weren't so horribly wet underneath. I'll tell you—"

And she went quite simply for a broom, and quite simply surrendered it to young Doctor Herrmann when he offered to take it.

"Yes, swish all that water off," she said, "and all those leaves, and we'll move the chairs back—that one, Professor Unger—and those two, that's it."

When Joe presently came hurrying down, with his round face moonlike than ever and his fair hair very sleek, she took the women upstairs.

"No, I live in San Francisco with a brother and aunt," she explained to them. "I'm a newspaper woman. But my sister lives in Monterey, about 10 miles from here—you must have passed through it on your way down—and I come to her nearly every Saturday, and manage usually to be with Joe on Sundays. Usually there's Sunday company." Tony went on, laying out a comb and powder and wondering what they thought of her, "but today was so stormy—"

When it began to grow cold on the terrace they went in to the fire, and Joe propped the kitchen door open so that they could all talk together. He looked tired, somehow, and Tony stole a moment to ask him in an undertone if he felt well.

"Fine!" he assured her cheerfully. The chicken was bubbling again in its rich creamy gravy now, and Tony's fluffy biscuits were in the oven. The whole house was filled with the pleasant smell of baking, of asparagus, of wood smoke. Brenda telephoned: had the company come? If not, she and Alvin were going to suggest—Oh, they had come? Was Tony coming back that night?

Yes, Tony would sleep at Betsy's. Joe'd bring her back early. And had the cork link shown up?

"Yes, he didn't eat it after all, the darling," Brenda reported of her first-born. Tony went back to dinner preparations, pleased that the little interlude had come along to answer any curiosity Joe's friends might have about her. Not but what the Ungers appeared completely indifferent to the state of her morals, and Dr. Herrmann the least imaginative soul in the world. As for the big German doctor, she looked as if she were entirely unconscious of the minor details of life about her; anything could happen without disturbing Frau Dr. Knecht.

Dinner was a succession of compliments for the cook. They were all hungry; they had never tasted such a salad, such chicken, such new potatoes.

The German woman spoke, and Tony turned to Joe.

"What did she say?"

"She asked if you could such bread machen," said Joe.

"Ach, ya-a-ah!" Tony laughed, and

gan to pace the room, her knotted fingers at her lips.

"Oh, why didn't I think of this! It would have made it easier—it would have made it easier! Oh, Joe, I have no shame, to let you know I love him, when he loves her—and they're happy—they're going somewhere together in his car—they're having their wonderful time!"

"She sat down on the fireside settle and put her rocking head into her hands.

He saw her shoulders shake and knew that she was crying; suddenly, in a rage, she was on her feet again.

"How dared he—how dared he do that!" she said, her eyes glittering dark blue in her white face. "How dares a man treat a woman who loves him that way! Ah, but she wanted him," Tony said, crumpling, speaking gently, hopelessly again. "She wanted him, and Larry's so kind—so generous—"

A silence, during which the man smoked and watched her. Then, suddenly, she looked up, spoke quietly, as if she were very tired:

"I'm sorry to treat you to these fireworks. You're—awfully kind to me. I'm all right now. I think maybe you'd better take me to Betsy's; I'll have to tell Betsy, and Alvin will smile his smug little whiskey doctor smile at what happens to girls who fall in love with married men.

"I'll get used to it after a minute. You do. Even when a man's arm is cut off, or his leg, they say he gets used to it like that—in a second. I wish I could hate Larry. I wish—"

For a moment her whole body was in revolt, as if touched by a hot iron, her arms flung up, her head thrown back, and her mouth opened as if to find breath.

"I couldn't do a thing like that to a dog!" she whispered, collapsing again. "I could not, Joe. It's me—it's me this is happening to; no, I couldn't do it to anyone! I'm sorry. I'm really all right now. I'll get my things. Betsy'll worry if I'm too late."

"No, you just lie there on the settle and think about it for a while, and I'll tell Brenda, if she telephoned, that I'm sorry."

"No, sit down," he said. And then suddenly: "That telegram that was here when we came in. It wasn't from the Ungers."

"Wasn't it?"

"No."

"Oh—!" She looked at him expectantly. "And am I to know what it was?" she asked, in the tone of a good little girl.

"I have to tell you," Joe said, looking at the fire, his voice devoid of expression. "It was from Larry."

"Larry!" Her voice was only a whisper; the quick blood came up into her suddenly radiant face. "Tell me—"

she said with an effort, "he's here?"

"No, it was from Baltimore. I said it was from Larry," Joe said; "it was signed by them both. It was signed 'Caroline and Lawrence.'"

For a long minute Tony looked at him steadily. The color slowly drained from her face, leaving it drawn.

"How—d'you mean?"

"I mean—there!" He stretched a long arm, and she took the folded yellow paper from him as if she were afraid to touch it.

"What is it? What does it say?" she said thickly. Her eyes fell on the printed words, but the message made no sense to her, it danced about crazily and she could only see the signatures: "Caroline and Lawrence. Caroline and Lawrence. Caroline and Lawrence."

"He says that they were married today," Joe said flatly. Tony put the telegram down unread, leaning over to the table to shove it well on; sat back and looked at Joe.

"I don't know what that means," she said faintly.

"I don't blame you," said Joe. "I think it's rotten. I'm sorry. I'm damned sorry. I had no more idea of it than you had."

He crossed the floor, and knelt down beside her chair, and she laid one hand on his shoulder and stared into his eyes in puzzled questioning. Her look was a child's pleading look.

"Oh, no—" she breathed. "It doesn't—let me see it—"

The crumpled telegram lay on the floor. Joe made no move to get it.

"That's what it says."

"That Larry—" she whispered.

"They were married today."

"I don't believe it!" Tony said suddenly, panting. Her cheeks flamed.

"It's hard to believe."

"Oh, but Joe, no! Not without a letter—not without a line—"

"Caroline!" she said, breathing fast. "She's—she's beautiful, yes. But she's older than he—much older. He told me so!"

"No, she's not as old as Larry. She's about thirty or thirty-one, Caroline. She's only two years younger than I am."

"She's older than you are! She's had two husbands! She wanted him because she knew I—she knew I—"

"I hate her," Tony said weakly, bending forward to rest her head against his own, as he knelt beside her, with one arm about her. "I hate her. I do."

Her voice broke into wretched tears. Weeping she got to her feet and began to pace the room, her knotted fingers at her lips.

"Oh, why didn't I think of this! It would have made it easier—it would have made it easier! Oh, Joe, I have no shame, to let you know I love him, when he loves her—and they're happy—they're going somewhere together in his car—they're having their wonderful time!"

"She sat down on the fireside settle and put her rocking head into her hands.

He saw her shoulders shake and knew that she was crying; suddenly, in a rage, she was on her feet again.

"How dared he—how dared he do that!" she said, her eyes glittering dark blue in her white face. "How dares a man treat a woman who loves him that way! Ah, but she wanted him," Tony said, crumpling, speaking gently, hopelessly again. "She wanted him, and Larry's so kind—so generous—"

A silence, during which the man smoked and watched her. Then, suddenly, she looked up, spoke quietly, as if she were very tired:

"I'm sorry to treat you to these fireworks. You're—awfully kind to me. I'm all right now. I think maybe you'd better take me to Betsy's; I'll have to tell Betsy, and Alvin will smile his smug little whiskey doctor smile at what happens to girls who fall in love with married men.

"I'll get used to it after a minute. You do. Even when a man's arm is cut off, or his leg, they say he gets used to it like that—in a second. I wish I could hate Larry. I wish—"

For a moment her whole body was in revolt, as if touched by a hot iron, her arms flung up, her head thrown back, and her mouth opened as if to find breath.

"I couldn't do a thing like that to a dog!" she whispered, collapsing again. "I could not, Joe. It's me—it's me this is happening to; no, I couldn't do it to anyone! I'm sorry. I'm really all right now. I'll get my things. Betsy'll worry if I'm too late."

"No, you just lie there on the settle and think about it for a while, and I'll tell Brenda, if she telephoned, that I'm sorry."

"No, sit down," he said. And then suddenly: "That telegram that was here when we came in. It wasn't from the Ungers."

"Wasn't it?"

"No."

"Oh—!" She looked at him expectantly. "And am I to know what it was?" she asked, in the tone of a good little girl.

"I have to tell you," Joe said, looking at the fire, his voice devoid of expression. "It was from Larry."

"Larry!" Her voice was only a whisper; the quick blood came up into her suddenly radiant face. "Tell me—"

she said with an effort, "he's here?"

"No, it was from Baltimore. I said it was from Larry," Joe said; "it was signed by them both. It was signed 'Caroline and Lawrence.'"

For a long minute Tony looked at him steadily. The color slowly drained from her face, leaving it drawn.

"How—d'you mean?"

"I mean—there!" He stretched a long arm, and she took the folded yellow paper from him as if she were afraid to touch it.

"What is it? What does it say?" she said thickly. Her eyes fell on the printed words, but the message made no sense to her, it danced about crazily and she could only see the signatures: "Caroline and Lawrence. Caroline and Lawrence. Caroline and Lawrence."

"He says that they were married today," Joe said flatly. Tony put the telegram down unread, leaning over to the table to shove it well on; sat back and looked at Joe.

"I don't know what that means," she said faintly.

"I don't blame you," said Joe. "I think it's rotten. I'm sorry. I'm damned sorry. I had no more idea of it than you had."

He crossed the floor, and knelt down beside her chair, and she laid one hand on his shoulder and stared into his eyes in puzzled questioning. Her look was a child's pleading look.

"Oh, no—" she breathed. "It doesn't—let me see it—"

The crumpled telegram lay on the floor. Joe made no move to get it.

"That's what it says."

"That Larry—" she whispered.

"They were married today."

"I don't believe it!" Tony said suddenly, panting. Her cheeks flamed.

"It's hard to believe."

"Oh, but Joe, no! Not without a letter—not without a line—"

"Caroline!" she said, breathing fast. "She's—she's beautiful, yes. But she's older than he—much older. He told me so!"

"No, she's not as old as Larry. She's about thirty or thirty-one, Caroline. She's only two years younger than I am."

"She's older than you are! She's had two husbands! She wanted him because she knew I—she knew I—"

"I hate her," Tony said weakly, bending forward to rest her head against his own, as he knelt beside her, with one arm about her. "I hate her. I do."

Her voice broke into wretched tears. Weeping she got to her feet and began to pace the room, her knotted fingers at her lips.

"Oh, why didn't I think of this! It would have made it easier—it would have made it easier! Oh, Joe, I have no shame, to let you know I love him, when he loves her—and they're happy—they're going somewhere together in his car—they're having their wonderful time!"

"She sat down on the fireside settle and put her rocking head into her hands.

He saw her shoulders shake and knew that she was crying; suddenly, in a rage, she was on her feet again.

"How dared he—how dared he do that!" she said, her eyes glittering dark blue in her white face. "How dares a man treat a woman who loves him that way! Ah, but she wanted him," Tony said, crumpling, speaking gently, hopelessly again. "She wanted him, and Larry's so kind—so generous—"

A silence, during which the man smoked and watched her. Then, suddenly, she looked up, spoke quietly, as if she were very tired:

"I'm sorry to treat you to these fireworks. You're—awfully kind to me. I'm all right now. I think maybe you'd better take me to Betsy's; I'll have to tell Betsy, and Alvin will smile his smug little whiskey doctor smile at what happens to girls who fall in love with married men.

"I'll get used to it after a minute. You do. Even when a man's arm is cut off, or his leg, they say he gets used to it like that—in a second. I wish I could hate Larry. I wish—"

For a moment her whole body was in revolt, as if touched by a hot iron, her arms flung up, her head thrown back, and her mouth opened as if to find breath.

"I couldn't do a thing like that to a dog!" she whispered, collapsing again. "I could not, Joe. It's me—it's me this is happening to; no, I couldn't do it to anyone! I'm sorry. I'm really all right now. I'll get my things. Betsy'll worry if I'm too late."

"No, you just lie there on the settle and think about it for a while, and I'll tell Brenda, if she telephoned, that I'm sorry."

"No, sit down," he said. And then suddenly: "That telegram that was here when we came in. It wasn't from the Ungers."

"Wasn't it?"

"No."

"Oh—!" She looked at him expectantly. "And am I to know what it was?" she asked, in the tone of a good little girl.

"I have to tell you," Joe said, looking at the fire, his voice devoid of expression. "It was from Larry."

"Larry!" Her voice was only a whisper; the quick blood came up into her suddenly radiant face. "Tell me—"

she said with an effort, "he's here?"

"No, it was from Baltimore. I said it was from Larry," Joe said; "it was signed by them both. It was signed 'Caroline and Lawrence.'"

For a long minute Tony looked at him steadily. The color slowly drained from her face, leaving it drawn.

"How—d'you mean?"

"I mean—there!" He stretched a long arm, and she took the folded yellow paper from him as if she were afraid to touch it.

"What is it? What does it say?" she said thickly. Her eyes fell on the printed words, but the message made no sense to her, it danced about crazily and she could only see the signatures: "Caroline and Lawrence. Caroline and Lawrence. Caroline and Lawrence."

"He says that they were married today," Joe said flatly. Tony put the telegram down unread, leaning over to the table to shove it well on; sat back and looked at Joe.

"I don't know what that means," she said faintly.

"I don't blame you," said Joe. "I think it's rotten. I'm sorry. I'm damned sorry. I had no more idea of it than you had."

He crossed the floor, and knelt down beside her chair, and she laid one hand on his shoulder and stared into his eyes in puzzled questioning. Her look was a child's pleading look.

"Oh, no—" she breathed. "It doesn't—let me see it—"

The crumpled telegram lay on the floor. Joe made no move to get it.

"That's what it says."

"That Larry—" she whispered.

"They were married today."

"I don't believe it!" Tony said suddenly, panting. Her cheeks flamed.

"It's hard to believe."

"Oh, but Joe, no! Not without a letter—not without a line—"

"Caroline!" she said, breathing fast. "She's—she's beautiful, yes. But she's older than he—much older. He told me so!"

"No, she's not as old as Larry. She's about thirty or thirty-one, Caroline. She's only two years younger than I am."

"She's older than you are! She's had two husbands! She wanted him because she knew I—she knew I—"

"I hate her," Tony said weakly, bending forward to rest her head against his own, as he knelt beside her, with one arm about her. "I hate her. I do."

Her voice broke into wretched tears. Weeping she got to her feet and began to pace the room, her knotted fingers at her lips.

"Oh, why didn't I think of this! It would have made it easier—it would have made it easier! Oh, Joe, I have no shame, to let you know I love him, when he loves her—and they're happy—they're going somewhere together in his car—they're having their wonderful time!"

"She sat down on the fireside settle and put her rocking head into her hands.

He saw her shoulders shake and knew that she was crying; suddenly, in a rage, she was on her feet again.

"How dared he—how dared he do that!" she said, her eyes glittering dark blue in her white face. "How dares a man treat a woman who loves him that way! Ah, but she wanted him," Tony said, crumpling, speaking gently, hopelessly again. "She wanted him, and Larry's so kind—so generous—"

A silence, during which the man smoked and watched her. Then, suddenly, she looked up, spoke quietly, as if she were very tired:

"I'm sorry to treat you to these fireworks. You're—awfully kind to me. I'm all right now. I think maybe you'd better take me to Betsy's; I'll have to tell Betsy, and Alvin will smile his smug little whiskey doctor smile at what happens to girls who fall in love with married men.

"I'll get used to it after a minute. You do. Even when a man's arm is cut off, or his leg, they say he gets used to it like that—in a second. I wish I could hate Larry. I wish—"

For a moment her whole body was in revolt, as if touched by a hot iron, her arms flung up, her head thrown back, and her mouth opened as if to find breath.

"I couldn't do a thing like that to a dog!" she whispered, collapsing again. "I could not, Joe. It's me—it's me this is happening to; no, I couldn't do it to anyone! I'm sorry. I'm really all right now. I'll get my things. Betsy'll worry if I'm too late."

"No, you just lie there on the settle and think about it for a while, and I'll tell Brenda, if she telephoned, that I'm sorry."

"No, sit down," he said. And then suddenly: "That telegram that was here when we came in. It wasn't from the Ungers."

"Wasn't it?"

"No."

"Oh—!" She looked at him expectantly. "And am I to know what it was?" she asked, in the tone of a good little girl.

"I have to tell you," Joe said, looking at the fire, his voice devoid of expression. "It was from Larry."

"Larry!" Her voice was only a whisper; the quick blood came up into her suddenly radiant face. "Tell me—"

she said with an effort, "he's here?"

"No, it was from Baltimore. I said it was from Larry," Joe said; "it was signed by them both. It was signed 'Caroline and Lawrence.'"

For a long minute Tony looked at him steadily. The color slowly drained from her face, leaving it drawn.

"How—d'you mean?"

"I mean—there!" He stretched a long arm, and she took the folded yellow paper from him as if she were afraid to touch it.

"What is it? What does it say?" she said thickly. Her eyes fell on the printed words, but the message made no sense to her, it danced about crazily and she could only see the signatures: "Caroline and Lawrence. Caroline and Lawrence. Caroline and Lawrence."

"He says that they were married today," Joe said flatly. Tony put the telegram down unread, leaning over to the table to shove it well on; sat back and looked at Joe.

"I don't know what that means," she said faintly.

"I don't blame you," said Joe. "I think it's rotten. I'm sorry. I'm damned sorry. I had no more idea of it than you had."

He crossed the floor, and knelt down beside her chair, and she laid one hand on his shoulder and stared into his eyes in puzzled questioning. Her look was a child's pleading look.

"Oh, no—" she breathed. "It doesn't—let me see it—"

The crumpled telegram lay on the floor. Joe made no move to get it.

"That's what it says."

"That Larry—" she whispered.

"They were married today."

"I don't believe it!" Tony said suddenly, panting. Her cheeks flamed.

"It's hard to believe."

"Oh, but Joe, no! Not without a letter—not without a line—"

"Caroline!" she said, breathing fast. "She's—she's beautiful, yes. But she's older than he—much older. He told me so!"

"No, she's not as old as Larry. She's about thirty or thirty-one, Caroline. She's only two years younger than I am."

"She's older than you are! She's had two husbands! She wanted him because she knew I—she knew I—"

"I hate her," Tony said weakly, bending forward to rest her head against his own, as he knelt beside her, with one arm about her. "I hate her. I do."

Her voice broke into wretched tears. Weeping she got to her feet and be-

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

Bayer Aspirin

Life in Need of Love Life, like all else, needs to be loved; those who cannot love life are punished from the very start——oman.

JACK B. DEAHL ANNOUNCES FOR DISTRICT OFFICE

Jack B. Deahl of Collingsworth County has authorized the announcement of his candidacy for the office of district attorney of the 100th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

Jack B. Deahl, who is county attorney of Collingsworth County, at this time, was reared on a farm near the present town of Dodsonville. His folks were pioneer residents of that community having come to this section of Texas in 1886. He is a Grandson of the late George W. Deahl, who was a commissioner of Childress County at the time that Collingsworth County was created.

After attending a rural school in the Arlie community, Mr. Deahl continued his education at Dodsonville and at Childress, graduating from the Childress High School in 1920. He attended Texas Military College at Terrell for two years. After that he taught school at Kirkland where he earned money to help pay his way through the University. He received his law degree from the University of Oklahoma in 1926 and was admitted to the bar in Texas in 1927.

JACK B. DEAHL

Upon locating in Wellington Mr. Deahl engaged in the practice of law until 1932 at which time he was elected county attorney. The efficiency and fairness with which he conducted the affairs of this office is best shown by the simple fact that he was elected without opposition for his second term. He has won the approval of his home people, by the fairness as well as the diligence with which he handled the cases that came before his office.

If elected Mr. Deahl promises to devote his utmost effort to the fulfillment of the duties of the office he seeks. "Justice for all the people, and enforcement of the laws under the statutes and the constitution will be my primary purpose," he declared. "The creation of a record, as your district attorney," he said, "will be a secondary matter. Today when grave changes confront our community and our country, when many of our people survey the future with uncertainty, it is no time for any official of any public office to regard his duty with smug satisfaction and devote his thought to his own advancement. It is high time that all public officials should regard themselves as public servants, and to realize that the welfare of all the people must be considered if our present forms of government are to fulfill the mission for which our forefathers designed them. With this in mind, I will devote my sincere efforts toward filling the clearly defined work of your district attorney. I will try each case on its own merits, and remembering that I am representing the people of the whole district, I will conduct it to the bitter end. There will be no reason, no favoritism, and the under privileged and the over privileged will be held to one standard—and that is the law of the State of Texas under the constitution.

"If a man who believes sincerely

B. W. M. U.

The W. M. U. of the Panhandle Baptist Association will hold their quarterly meeting at the First Baptist Church in Clarendon, Thursday, March 19

Mrs. A. A. Nipper returned to Okla., City with Mrs. John Au fill, who visited a week in Hedley

Dr. C. C. Lomax and family of Albuquerque, N. Mex., spent last week end with the lady's parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. V. Walker

The editor visited in Wellington Monday.

J. W. WEBB, M. D.
Physician and Surgeon
Hedley, Texas
Office Phone 3
Residence Phone 20

HEDLEY LODGE NO. 991

A. F. and A. M. meets on the 2nd Thursday night in each month.

All members are urged to attend. Visitors are welcome.

T. W. Bain, W. M.
C. E. Johnson, Sec.

Nothing like Pine Oil for Colds; Flu; Stomach and Kidney trouble, and massage chest with Pine Oil and Pneumonia. Zimmerman's Wonder Salve for Piles; Eczema or any sore. Sold at Wilson and Lelia Lake Drug Stores and Quail Mercantile Co.

that he can render you this type of service as district attorney meets with your approval, then I will greatly appreciate your vote and your consideration of my candidacy.

PASTIME THEATRE Clarendon, Texas

Fri Sat 13 14

The Garden Murder Case

Edmund Lowe, Virginia Bruce. Another popular Philo Vance thrilling mystery story. 10 15c

Midnight machine

Seven Keys to Baldpate

Gene Raymond, Margaret Callahan Seven people held the key to a fortune, but a lone author held the secret of the lock. 10 25c

Sun Mon. 15 16

Exclusive Story

Franchot Tene, Madge Evans and Stuart Erwin Exciting story of a man who defied the underworld to get the true facts about poliomyelitis. 10 25c

Tuesday 17

The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo

Ronald Coleman Play safe and see this picture for real entertainment, and play safe and be here for our Special Attraction Nite You may attend the matinee 10 25c

Wed Thurs 18 19

Rose Marie

Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. Lifting melodies, elaborate staging, beautiful scenic background with a song team that will bring joy to your heart. 10 25c

Coming attractions

"The Lady Consents" with Ann Harding and Herbert Marshall
"The Voice of Bugle Ann" Lionel Barrymore, Maureen O'Sullivan

Matinees each day at 2 p. m.
Evening shows at 7:15
Selected short subjects

COZY THEATRE

Fri Sat 13 14

The Last of the Clintons

Harry Cary, Betty Mack A born fighter, he rode and shot his way to fame. Also chapter 7, The Phantom Empire, with Gene Autry. 10 15c

Matinee Saturday 1:15

Evening show 7:15

TOLLETT for COMMISSIONER

The Informer has been authorized to announce the candidacy of J. A. Tollett for the office of County Commissioner from Precinct 3, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in July

In making the announcement, Mr. Tollett feels that he is well qualified to serve the people of this precinct as commissioner. He has lived in this community 14 years, and is well known to the voters of the entire precinct. He has served on the Hedley school board 8 years, and has proved himself capable and efficient in serving the public. He is asking this office solely on his merits as a worthy citizen of the precinct. He solicits your consideration, and will deeply appreciate your support and influence.

ADAMSON-LANE POST 287 AMERICAN LEGION

meets on the first Friday in each month

- Chicks - - Chicks -

Day Old

Reds 7c - Leghorns 6c

Trays 154 Eggs and 132

Set twice per week

Hatching 2c per Egg

WALKER HATCHERY

Hooker's 9c sale begins Saturday March 14th. Don't forget.

The Informer, $1.00 per year.

FRIDAY & SATURDAY SPECIALS

Buy your groceries here and you will sure be right

FLOUR

Royal Arch, a good one, 48 lb.	$1.75
Ponca Best, 48 lb.	$1.79
Meal, fancy cream, 20 lb.	45c
Coffee, bulk, 2 lb.	25c
Sugar, 25 lb. cloth bag	$1.39
Oatmeal, 5 lb. bag	25c

FRUIT

Prunes, 10 lb. box	65c
Peaches, 10 lb. box	$1.23
Peaches, No. 2 can	15c
Blackberries, gal.	48c
Cherries, gal.	55c

Market Specials

Rib Roast, lb.	10c
Steak, good and tender, lb.	15c
Roast, rump, lb.	15c
Bologna, 2 lb.	25c

We have what you want to buy;
we buy what you have to sell.

Harry Burden Grocery and Market

PHONE 15

Food Specials

Keep your budget down and your bank account up
Follow the crowd to the M System

Cheese, lb. 19c

Turnip Greens, bunch	4c	Onions, 5 lb.	15c
Young Onions	4c	Turnips, bulk, lb.	2c
Carrots	4c	Coffee, Admiraton, lb.	29c
Spinach	4c	Coffee, Admiraton, 3 lb.	79c
Cabbage, 10 lb.	19c	Beans, pintos, 10 lb.	43c

Lettuce, head 5c

Beans, pintos, 100 lb.	$4	Edgemont Smacks, large box	15c
Spuds, No. 1, 100 lb.	$1.65	Crackers, 2 lb. Saltine	29c
Flour, Yukon Best	$1.79	Marshmallows, 8 oz. pkg.	8c
Candy, all 5c bars, 3 for	10c	Marshmallows, lb. pkg.	15c
Lemons, doz.	19c	Steak, baby beef, lb.	15c

Spuds, pk. 25c

Highest Prices Paid for Cream and Eggs

'M' SYSTEM

Bring Beauty and Convenience to Your Kitchen with a MODERN PERFECTION OIL RANGE

What a delightful improvement these beautiful new Perfections will make in the appearance of thousands of kitchens!

Cooking will be easier, too.

with High-Power burner speed, cleanliness and precise regulation for every needed heat, from simmering to broiling.

Whatever your ideas on kitchen decoration, the dainty cream-white porcelain finish of this new Perfection will fit in; and the simple lines of its modern design look well anywhere.

Corners are rounded, surfaces are smooth, and there's a removable tray beneath the burners. The "Live-Heat" oven, air-insulated, is built at convenient height. The two-gallon concealed fuel reservoir is easily tilted and removed for filling.

Come in and find out all about it. You'll be pleased with the reasonable price.

Thompson Bros.

THE PATHFINDER

is the one and ONLY publication with the knowledge, experience and courage to give you every week the first-hand, inside information which is positively necessary for you to have. It is the ONE publication which is under no obligations to the big moneyed interests or Czars of trade—none of those fatal tie-ups with the selfish cliques who gamble in the very life blood of the people. That's why the Pathfinder is in a position to tell you the unvarnished facts in the plainest possible English. You can depend on every word it says—and there is no substitute for reliability.

EVERY WEEK FROM WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington is now the news center of the entire world. It is the one place in the country where a strictly unbiased and reliable publication can be issued. That is why the Pathfinder is located there. The same clear sighted vision which led to the selection of the National Capital as the home of the Pathfinder over 40 years ago is the backbone of every single issue of the Pathfinder today.

It is our privilege for a limited time to offer you at a greatly reduced bargain price the greatest and most popular national weekly—The PATHFINDER—together with THIS PAPER, both a full year—52 weeks—for

Only $ 1.50

JOHN W. FITZJARRALD

Chiropractor

18th year in Memphis

PHONE 432

Lady in Office

Huffman's Barber Shop

Expert Tonsorial Work. Shine

Chair. Hot and Cold Baths

You will be pleased with our service. Try it.

W. H. Huffman, Prop.