N. C. Duggins

Nicholas Calvin Duggins was born in Grayson county Kentucky, in the year 1865. He departed this life March 28 1936, aged 71 years.

He was married to Miss Mary Elizabeth Denton in 1898 in Lamar county, Texas. To this union were born five children, one daughter and four sons, Mrs. Foy A. Cherry of Amberst, Tex.; Jess Duggins of Los Angeles, Calif.; R. E. Duggins of Wick, Texas and R. C. and Landon Duggins of Hedley. All the children were present except Jess, who arrived after the funeral.

He leaves to mourn his going, besides his children, one sister, Mrs. Janie Haycraft of Clarkeville, Kentucky, and one brother, Jim Duggins of Loveland, Okla. His wife preceded him in death Aug. 13, 1934.

Mr. Duggins joined the Church of Christ and was a faithful member for over 40 years. He taught 50 terms of school, having taught several years at Bray, McKnight, Pleasant Hill and Marilla.

Professor Duggins, as he was affectionately called by all who knew him, was a man of whom it can truthfully be said that he will be missed. He was loyal to his community, his school, his fellow man and his church. He was a man of conviction and lived it.

He moved from Kentucky to Texas in 1890, and in 1901 came to Donley county. He lived in Donley and Collingsworth counties for over 35 years.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at McKnight, Rev. Jones, pastor of the Church of Christ at Memphis, officiated. Interment was made in Rowe Cemetery.

Palbearers were C. D. Walker, L. L. Jester, M. C. DeBord, Fred Tidwell, Orwel Whitwell and Pete Messer.

A host of friends paid their last respects to Professor Duggins and the floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

The Hodges Funeral Home of Memphis was in charge.

Miss Mildred Outwell of Bethany, Okla., spent this week with home folks here.

Mrs. Dollie Rains

The death angel again has visited our community, this time calling to her Eternal home another of our pioneers, Aunt Dollie Rains, on Wednesday afternoon at 6:30 at the home of her son, W. I. Rains, with whom she had made her home since the death of her parents some years ago.

Mrs. Dollie Rains, nee Miss Dollie Smith, was born in Obion county, Tenn., Feb. 7, 1850, thus she was 86 years, 1 month and 18 days of age.

She moved to Kentucky when a small child. In 1879 she moved to Sherman, Texas, and in 1891 to Donley county, where she has since resided. On Feb. 15, 1871 she was married to B. R. Rains, who preceded her in death. To this union three children were born, two daughters, who died in infancy, and one son, W. I. Rains. When she was a small child she united with the Baptist Church.

The surviving relatives are: W. I. Rains and wife, three grand children, Mrs. Clyde Bridges and husband, Ike Rains, Charles Rains and wife, and three great grandchildren, Mary Rains and Billie Bridges and Sarah Ann Rains. She also leaves a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss.

A beautiful funeral service was held at the home Thursday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Wells, her pastor, and Rev. A. V. Hendricks. A large crowd of relatives and friends gathered to pay the last respects to "Aunt Dollie" as she was called by most everyone who knew her. Aunt Dollie was a home lover and spent most of her life in her home as she seemed not to care for roaming around and being away from her home and loved ones. Her only son was a source of joy to her, especially in her last days when she was not able to be about the place, and her last words were "Willie" whose name she had called almost without number.

She realized of course what he meant to her for he was a faithful, dutiful son, and seemed never to tire of doing for "mother." And a reward awaits each of the family who rendered kindness and loving service to her, and in so doing it was rendered to the Master, for He said, In As Much as ye have done this to one of My little ones, ye have done it unto Me.

Aunt Dollie was not given a room in the back of the house, as some have been, but had a bright cheery room in the very front, and enjoyed the comforts of a modern home in her last days being repaid for the hardships of pioneer times. She was one of our oldest settlers, coming to Donley county when it was newly settled and lived a quiet pioneer's life, endured the privations and loneliness that belong to that life helping to make this great country that we enjoy today.

She sleeps beneath the sod today in the cemetery near where she has lived so long on a part of her father's land. Her grave is covered in flowers, placed there by loving relatives and friends, a token of respect and love in which she was held. There is a loneliness surrounding her room and she will be missed of course, and no one can ever take her place in the home. We will not look upon her face any more until the last trumpet shall sound and the graves shall give up their dead and then we will be reunited, but the memory of her still lives.

The Marriage Problem

By MARGARET TURNBULL

Marriage Must Be Made More Alluring to Woman

TO REGARD marriage of the future through the eyes of the unmarried is to be intrigued by a fascinating problem.

Naturally, every improvement in marriage laws tends to make marriage more interesting to the wary, independent spinster. The bachelor has always had things his way. But now that the curse has been lifted from the spinster, now that she no longer need dread the chimney corner or the uneasy post of "handy woman" in some kinsman's household; now that she takes her place as a useful citizen, marriage, no longer the one refuge, must be made alluring.

Yet marriage in the future will undoubtedly be uncommonly like marriage of today. The rules of the game may change or develop differently, but that is all.

Look back through the ages, and marriage, whether by club, trade, capture, church or state has been practically the same.

It is true that, nowadays, divorce is fairly, easy and the woman's rights fairly well protected. It may be safely argued that in the future these will be even more carefully looked after.

Divorce need not necessarily entail a hateful dragging into court and turning over, before the curious eyes of the public, all of the household's dirty linen. It could be quietly and cleanly done, and in private.

There should be one marriage law for the whole country.

Granted that there are still to be considered the results of marriage—the children. There lies the real problem of future marriage.

A procession of three or four different "fathers" or "mothers," as their respective parents lightly "change partners," is scarcely conducive to respect for marriage.

To the spinster it seems that a little self-control might be practiced by adults, and taught to children, with excellent effect on manners and marriage. All of the Puritan virtues are not to be despised.

It is the good fortune of the youth of today that they approach marriage with greater frankness, with more desire to get all there is out of frank, friendly comradeship, than did the previous generation.

Heady manners and headstrong disregard for the parental view may be condoned if they really lead to better understanding between men and women. It is a great thing to lay some of the old bogies low, and to realize that all men are not beasts nor all women angels.

The rank and file of us are just men and women, with the faults and virtues due to our birth and breeding, and, improve laws relating to marriage as we may, there will always be those who make the married state difficult and unattractive.

Female harpies to whom marriage is speculation, and alimony the goal.

Men to whom marriage is really a temporary affair, no one woman sufficient to hold them long; no home, be it ever so cheerful; no children, however lovely, who will make up for the joys of freedom.

Men who exploit marriage, as their sister harpies do, for whom marriage is always "for revenue only."

The great number of honest, well-meaning men and women who make mistakes in choosing a partner. No law can prevent this or mitigate the suffering of one or both parties to the contract.

Though marriage in the future be safeguarded ever so wisely, though just and equitable laws may be made to govern it, though church and state unite to protect the children and property, though men honestly try their best to make the yoke light and the burden easy; still it will be imperfect at its best.

For it is not marriage itself that makes men and women able to live together in something as near happiness as this world shows, or in as great a misery as the conventional hell could promise. It is what men and women bring to their marriage. As a man and woman think of marriage, so will their marriage be.

If marriage of the future is to be greatly different from the marriage of yesterday and today, it will not be because of new laws, but because the men and women of the future are more just and fair toward one another, more kindly and less self-centered, more liberal and less narrow, than we are today.

And even then it will not be perfection, because men and women are not and cannot be perfect—and if they were, how deadly uninteresting it would all be!

Mrs. Bailey's Sensitive Skin Rash Broke Out But Cuticura Soothed

Read this letter—how smarting rashes and blisters due to external causes were relieved in almost no time by Cuticura. "I noticed an itching sensation on my face and arms. It afterwards formed blisters that left the skin very tender and sensitive. Finally a rash broke out which, when rubbed, caused a smarting and intense itching. It was agony.

"A sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment relieved me so much that I bought some. After using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one-half tin of Cuticura Ointment, the rash disappeared." (Signed) Mrs. Grace Bailey, 300 East 201st St., Bronx, New York City.

GAS, GAS ALL THE TIME, CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart hurt. A friend suggested Adierika. The first dose I took brought me relief. I eat, sleep fine and never felt better."—Mrs. Jas. Fisher.

Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoup, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

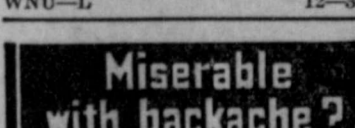

Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

CARING OF CHICKS IS OUTLINED BY POULTRY EXPERT

The big thing in brooding chicks is not how many chicks are started or even the percentage of chicks that are kept alive, but how many good pullets will there be in the fall. Most folks start about twice as many chicks as they can handle. They get along all right while the chicks are small, but when the chicks are 6, 8 and 12 weeks old they don't have the houses or facilities to care for them properly.

Clean the house thoroughly and disinfect with Cre-so-fee solution before the chicks arrive.

"Provide peat moss, shavings, or good straw (chaff removed) for litter," advises C. S. Johnson, head of the Purina Poultry Department, in speaking about the things to do for successful rearing of your chicks. "When chicks are put down, cover the litter with several thicknesses of paper immediately around the brooder stove. Remove the top layer daily. By the third day the chicks will have learned what food and drink are and may be safely allowed on litter.

Johnson goes on to point out that the particular kind of heat used for brooding is not the important thing. Successful brooding depends on keeping the chicks comfortable. The most expensive equipment will fail miserably unless this is done.

Set up boards or keep a circle of wire covered with cloth around brooder to eliminate corners, and so chicks can be held fairly close to the heat the first day or two.

"No matter what type of brooder stove you use," he says, "run your stoves at least three full days before your chicks arrive. Watch the temperature closely. Be sure of accurate temperature control. Keep temperature about 92 degrees the first two days and reduce steadily until the end of second week, when temperature should be 80 degrees.

Keep temperature about 92 degrees first two days and reduce steadily until end of second week.

"During the first 3 weeks chicks are more apt to suffer from too much heat than from the temperature being a few degrees too cool. However, a quick variation from hot to cold is even worse. The tendency for chicks to pile and crowd when 3 or 4 weeks old is usually due to either too high temperature or too much variation in temperature."

Regarding feeding Johnson says, "The newly discovered ingredient putrene should be in the chick ration. It assists chicks getting enough vitamin A, so essential to chick life, health and growth."

FARM NOTES!

The average chick starts off life weighing about one and a quarter ounces. Experiments at the Purina Research Farm bring out that on only two pounds of feed containing Puratone, the chick can be made to weigh 16 to 20 ounces in six weeks.

Losses from hen mortality have increased at an alarming rate the last few years. In some parts of the country, hen mortality runs as high as 50 per cent. No poultry raiser can profitably stay in the chicken business very long with losses such as that.

Experimental work carried on at the Purina Research Farm shows that the place to start remedying this unfortunate situation is in the growing of the pullets. They must be given that "built-in" vitality to "stand the graft" when they start laying. In adding Puratone to the growing ration for growing chicks, the research farm finds that the extra vitamin A it gives the chicks, steps up their vitality and reinforces them against disease.

PROTECTING CHICK LIFE

Disease is often spread from chick to chick through dirty watering and feeding equipment and contaminated drinking water, warns Grafton Lothrop, manager of the Sanitation Products Department of Purina Mills. For economical protection against such infection Lothrop recommends the disinfecting of drinking fountains and feeding troughs at least once a week with a solution of 2 teaspoonfuls of Chlorox Powder to three gallons of water. Drinking water should be changed every day, according to Lothrop, and one spoonful of Chlorox Powder dissolved in each five gallons of water to help prevent the spread of infection from that source. Chlorox Powder may be obtained wherever checkerboard feeds are sold.

CARING FOR THE DOG

Many words have been spoken on the care of the dog, but none wiser or surer to put into practice than those from A. H. Leonard, head of the department of the Purina Mills. He says, "Keep things about your dog clean, see that he gets regular exercise, treat him kindly, give him a balanced food, and give him a few ways toward keeping his tail wagging and his eyes glistening."

The "Personal Touch" In Taxes

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Newspaper-reading Americans are learning the names of a lot of once-unfamiliar taxes these days.

Capital-stock Tax, Undistributed Corporation Reserve Tax, Tonnage Tax, Manufacturers' Excise Tax, Communications Tax, Insurance Tax—those are just a few of the titles with which a tax-conscious Congress is crowding the headlines.

What do they all mean? Let the experts explain. The important fact is that whatever their titles, whomsoever they are supposed to hit—we, the people, pay the final bill.

Not directly, of course—but in the natural course of events. As economists explain, the industries and other producers at whom such levies ostensibly are aimed must raise the tax money somehow. How? The obvious method is to add it to the price of their products—of the things which the average worker and his wife and children need and must buy.

That's why we are told there's a hidden tax in every railroad fare we pay, in every market basket we carry, in every rent bill we meet, in every suit we wear, in every phone call we make, in every mile we drive.

That's why heavy taxes, wherever aimed, boost the cost of living for every worker and consumer—for the overwhelming majority of American families. That's why, regardless of titles such taxes retain what writers call the "personal touch."

These names for taxes can obscure their nature, but they cannot lower the U. S. G. P. Tax must be achieved by reducing work in government—which makes heavy taxes necessary.

Bob Davis Reveals

The Convict and the Bird Legend in a New Dress.

I COVER the back roads, the unbeaten paths where men, weary of the main highways, ramble alone. And because there is little else to do but converse when we meet I hear some strange tales that in the hurry and bustle along the much-traveled thoroughfares would be left untold.

"If you have room," said a hitchhiker who halted me along the way, "I would like to ride with you to the next village. I could even pay a fare if you prefer it that way."

"Not at all. Why pay rent for companionship? Step in."

Whatever else I may lack, nobody can say I am a bad listener. Fortunately, the new-found acquaintance was in a talking mood and entertaining as well.

The Robin and the Roughneck.

"Just what do you mean?" I asked. "Well, facing the music, for instance. It must be h—I to look ahead through iron bars. I'll tell you about one case—he had no future; they burnt him. As men go, he was one of the toughest of his time. But he had a way with him when it came to birds. He had killed a man in cold blood; was nabbed, convicted and sentenced to the chair. Through some legal technicality, the flash was delayed five months. The warden, a humane man, allowed his prisoner to take daily exercise in a small enclosure, unroofed, that gave on the death house. Into this space, which contained a tree and some grass, the murderer, with bread crumbs, saved from his daily allowance, coaxed a few sparrows, some pigeons and one robin."

"The red breast is a furtive bird, and hard to tame." "Right you are," said the ex-guard, "but before he got through the convict, having nothing but time on his hands, had that robin sitting on his shoulder. Yes, and eating crumbs from his lips. Also he trained the birds to pull a cigarette from the outside pocket of his shirt. Think it over. I witnessed the performance many times, looking down from the stone wall that framed one side of the enclosure. When a killer goes soft there is no telling what trend his affections will take. While the prisoner continued to scatter crumbs for the pigeons and sparrows the robin got all the best breaks at the banquet."

Bars Don't Stop the Bird.

"Then the weather broke and the prisoner was obliged to stay indoors, viewing the enclosure through a barred window, to which, after a few days of loneliness, the robin found the new route to crumbs and companionship. Meanwhile, the courts turning a deaf ear to the appeal for a new trial set the machinery of law in motion for execution of the sentence. I suppose you've heard the old poem about the convict and the bird? Well, it wasn't a patch on what happened 12 years ago in that western penitentiary. With the approach of the fatal date the doomed prisoner seemed to grow more calloused in his speech and demeanor. Only the robin received attention."

"It was part of my job, during the closing week of his existence, to keep an eye upon the condemned man, whose sole concern was the daily visit from his bird, which entered the death chamber in the morning through a low window and made his afternoon exit through an upper ventilating transom close to the ceiling. As a rule, executions in that particular state took place at 8 a. m. On the day before, I suggested to the prisoner that I close both windows and keep the robin captive, to be released after the last flash. At first, he thought well of the idea, but turned it down almost immediately. 'It is enough for me to be a prisoner. Let the little fellow stay free,' he said. 'If he shows up, all right. If not, I can take it alone. He won't know; who else cares?'"

The Last Long Mile.

"Ever seen a man in the chair?" he asked, peering at me through a cloud of blue vapor. "Yes, I had, I replied. 'Why?' 'Well, you know how painfully long are the preliminaries; warden, witnesses, doctor, priest, electrician and guards filing in. 'Tisn't necessary to go into those details with you. Anyhow I was standing just inside the death chamber when the condemned entered. With his lips only, though inaudible, he framed three words. 'The robin came.' That sentence couldn't have been plainer through a megaphone."

To Be Chic Is to Be Man-Tailored

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THERE is no question as to the supremacy of the smart tailor in the early spring mode. How to wear a strictly man-tailored suit without sacrificing a prettily feminine appearance is the problem that fashion is putting up to the ladies these days.

Here is a formula for a good antidote to the masculinity of a manly tailored suit of sturdy men's wear woolen or other weaves. Wear an alluring frilly, lingerie blouse for after many years' absence it has come into its own for spring. About your swanky felt Homburg or your equally as modish sailor hat see that your milliner ties a length of gaily colorful (sometimes several colors are used together) veiling in a big sprightly, fluttery, eye-compelling bow. Match your new fabric gloves to the color of your veil, for gloves in giddy colors are highly important news this season.

However, should you prefer that your spring outfit go dramatically masculine in every detail as do so many of the high-fashion tailors on the new style program, again may we remind you that it is for the proper accessories. Homburg hats, shirtmaker blouses, brief cases, a tie or ascot scarf that seems as if it might belong on brother's tie-rack, pigskin gloves, the very new square-toed and square-heeled shoes, all are contributing items to mannish styling. And don't forget to add conspicuously one of the swanky lately-arrived watch-fob pins.

Designers are playing up the tailored suit with many variations. The group pictured illustrates the idea. To the left the suit is a classic double-breasted type. In navy or black it carries a genteel air which best dressed women seek. A simple linen shirt is preferably worn, although, to vary the program, it is well to have in reserve a smart taffeta or crepe blouse. A handanna kerchief blouse would be interesting to include in your tailored blouse wardrobe. Here you see one of the cunning new veils in high color mood that is accomplishing wonders in the way of counteracting too much masculinity in one's attire.

The suit to the right differentiates in that it has a two-button fastening. It is styled of a herringbone tweed. Speaking of tweeds (this promises to be a very tweedy season) also the new novelty woolens, words fall to do them justice. In their wealth of radiant colorings, in their unique flecked and nubbed rough weaves, in their artful stripes, plaids, and diagonals they simply baffle description. The ascot scarf and felt Homburg are significant style items.

The latest call of the tailored mode is for skirt and jacket to contrast as shown in the clever suit in the foreground. Stunning color effects are worked out in this way, special attention to a discriminating selection of accessories being absolutely necessary. Note that this jacket has a one-button fastening. The blouse is of the new frilly lingerie type. The sailor hat with veil is good style.

SMART KNIT SUIT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Knitted fashions are as outstanding in the style parade as ever. The stunning suit pictured is the sort you will find ever ready when the "what to wear" question comes up. Not only is it eminently good-looking but it is that practical it comes near being a whole wardrobe in itself. An unusual border design done in a raised popcorn stitch achieved by knitting and purling, enhances both three-quarter coat and slender perfect fitting skirt.

SPRING STYLE SHOW STRESSES ECONOMY

Economy clothes, designed to save money, time and luggage space, starred in Paris spring fashion openings which ended a fortnight of the most varied displays Paris has shown in years.

The most striking costumes had changeable accessories which transformed their appearances or converted them to several uses.

Worth showed slender, dark satin evening dresses with draped corsages which could be drawn over the shoulder to make them sleeved dinner gowns.

Dikusha displayed trim black suits whose box jackets had different colored detachable felt vests anchored by gold buttons.

Evening gowns of printed beaded organdie, crepe in brilliant modernistic designs and embroidered silk were outstanding features of Patou's collection.

Now's the Time to Indulge in Embroidered Materials

If you like embroidered materials now's the time to indulge for fashion is high-lighting thin woolens, organdies, nets, mousselines, crapes and taffetas that reflect Chinese or Spanish or peasant influence in all-over embroidered motifs and patterns. Smart fashion calls for the plain colored skirt topped with a jacket of gaily embroidered material. Embroidered net posed over taffeta foundation is a foremost evening fashion.

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

GAS-MAKING STOVE COOKS MEAL FOR 2c

Amazing New Invention of W. C. Coleman Brings All the Modern Conveniences of City Gas to Homes Beyond the Gas Mains

Economically-minded housewives will share the enthusiasm of W. C. Coleman, inventive genius, for his new gas-making stove which cooks a meal for 2c or less.

The new Coleman Range will do the family cooking at a cost below that of coal, wood or kerosene stoves, and do it quicker and better.

This remarkable new Coleman Safety Range lights instantly just like gas. Makes its own gas from ordinary lead-free gasoline. Its patented, fuel-saving Band-A-Bu Burners are exactly regulated to exactly the heat desired for frying, boiling, baking or broiling.

Mr. Coleman uses Everdur Metal for the fuel tank, a big safety feature. Everdur metal will not rust or corrode.

In addition to providing every cooking advantage of the finest city gas range, Mr. Coleman's new Range adds beauty in the kitchen by distinctive styling and pleasing color effects in gleaming porcelain enamel finish.

Readers of this paper wishing full information about these wonderful Coleman Ranges will receive illustrated literature and a valuable Stove Check Chart by addressing a postcard to W. C. Coleman, Dept. WU-235, Wichita, Kansas—Adv.

STAR DUST Movie Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE ONE of the best pictures made in this or any other year is R K O's "Follow the Fleet," the new Rogers-Astaire effort.

Ginger Rogers has been played and sung so often on the radio. Randolph Scott makes a good foil for Astaire, and Harriet Hilliard, a recent recruit from the radio, does very well indeed.

The arrival of Laura LaPlante's infant daughter has sent many a cable buzzing over the sea, for Laura has always been popular in movie circles, and so has her husband, Irving Asher.

Remember Helen Holmes, of that hair-raising serial of the old days, "The Hazards of Helen"? She is working in W. C. Fields' new picture, "Poppy," on the Paramount lot.

It doesn't seem possible that the talkies are ten years old; surely it isn't ten years since we saw the first one, and thought them terrible.

Ethel Shutta, widely known in the world of night clubs, is now a regular radio visitor each Saturday night from 10:30 p. m. EST, over a coast to coast NBC network.

Ethel Shutta

Sometimes being an actress is a drawback. Irene Dunn has found this to be the case.

Paramount likes Carole Lombard and Gary Cooper as a team; they're scheduled to make three pictures together.

Charlie Farrell must have been happy when he landed in Australia and the film fans mobbed him; it's been a long time since the public showed any particular interest in him as an actor.

The tremendous success of "Rose Marie," with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, has boosted his concert fees. Three years ago he got $300 a performance; now he receives $2,500, and 60 per cent of the receipts over $3,500. Not bad!

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" was given its first public showing at Warm Springs, Ga., and a copy of the book, autographed by Freddie Bartholomew, the picture's star, was given to each of the children at the Warm Springs foundation.

ODDS AND ENDS... Ed Wynne bought time on the air so that his mother, who lives in Atlantic City, could hear his weekly programs.

Clara Bow visited Hollywood recently with her husband, and declared that the noise of the city drove her crazy.

"Wife vs. Secretary," with Jean Harlow, Myrna Loy and Clark Gable, is one of the pictures that all women will want to see.

Hing Crosby puts in a lot of work on those radio programs of his; takes them very seriously.

CHAPTER I

The house stood alone on a sand-dune overlooking the sea—dark, deserted, and silent, except for the swish of the rain blowing against its shingles.

From his dank coat pocket, the Duke drew a cheap jackknife and a tiny searchlight. With these in his hands, he turned to look toward the highway.

It was invisible, two hundred yards from the porch on which he stood, winding over and around and about these dunes.

The Duke's thumb pressed the button, and, momentarily, the ray revealed wavering wet bench-grass, and a single scrub pine bent in the wind.

It was slow work. "Why don't I break the damned thing?" the Duke asked himself, and, a minute later, felt the unshattered glass drop into his hand.

It was easy to open the window, then, and easy for a slim and agile man to climb through. Once inside the house, he paused. Would the electric lights be working, and would it be safe to turn them on?

He grinned, and anyone who had seen that grin might have found it hard to mind. It was an ingratiating grin, in a pleasant, likeable face.

All the kitchen shelves bore brightly-colored tin boxes, with bright lettering, but they were empty.

Again, he touched a switch, and, this time, lights sprang into being in shaded table-lamps, doubly shaded now by winter wrappings.

At the top of the steps was a kind of library—book-lined, with doors on either side, and, at its end, windows facing the sea.

DR. JAMES W. BARTON Talks About Use of Dinitrophenol

Use of the drug dinitrophenol should be adopted only as a 'last resort' for reducing weight, but in spite of the danger attending its use it is a valuable drug when properly administered.

The above quotation is from the group of physicians in San Francisco—Drs. Maurice L. Tainter, A. B. Stockton and W. C. Cutting—who have been experimenting with this drug for about three years.

However as dinitrophenol may be obtained in any drug store and the dosage is on the package, it is important that physicians study this drug and its effects so that if no good is obtained by its use at least no harm can come to their patients.

There are a number of points that must be remembered in the use of this drug. The size of the dose depends upon the size or weight of the individual, because an individual weighing 150 pounds may weigh more in proportion to his figure or physique than one weighing 300 pounds.

The usual dosage, however, is prescribed in accordance with the weight, one weighing 150 pounds taking half the size of the dose of another weighing 300 pounds.

This would be simple enough except that all overweight does not react the same to the drug. Thus one gets a skin rash, another abdominal symptoms, another the symptoms of shock, all by the use of the "average" dose, while others take almost twice the average dose with no symptoms except that of heat and profuse sweating.

The fact that must always be remembered is that while fat is a liability or menace to health, nevertheless while it was being put on it was in a gradual manner, and the body was able to add the few ounces daily without trouble. Similarly if fat is to be removed, you can understand that it should be removed in the same gradual manner and there will thus be no "shock" to the system which is the danger in using fat reducing drugs.

As stated by Dr. L. F. Bishop, Fordham university, some months ago, "Fat may be removed by taking certain drugs, but only at the expense of strength and health, and an alarming weakness of the heart often results. The reduction of weight by drugs disturbs other organs in the body."

May Cause Shock. Now while dinitrophenol does not put the extra work on the heart that is done by other drugs—thyroid extract for instance—nevertheless the severe sweating and the rapid loss of the fat, which fat may be supporting certain organs, so upsets the usual workings of these organs that shock or ill health may result.

Dr. Tainter, Stockton and Cutting state that so effective is the drug in burning up the tissues that the temperature of the body is raised and the drinking of much water to dissipate the heat is urged. The treatment was administered to 170 patients and the average loss of weight was 17 pounds in an average treatment period of 88 days. Thus if you divide the amount of the average weight loss (17) by the number of days (88) it shows that the average daily weight loss was between three and four ounces.

I venture to say that any physician supervising a carefully selected reducing diet, and prescribing an increased amount of exercise—however slight—can obtain a weight reduction of three to four ounces daily without shock or danger to the patient, and the patient will be stronger at the end of the said 88 days than before the weight was reduced.

Coronary Thrombosis. YOU are reading very often these days of individuals dying of coronary thrombosis.

This means that the coronary artery or bloodvessel that carries the blood to the heart muscle so as to enable it to squeeze blood out through the big tube to all parts of the body has become blocked by a clot of blood called a thrombus. Naturally if blood cannot get through this vessel which is the size of a goose quill then the heart will have no strength with which to pump and the patient will die.

However all these patients do not die because when the blood finds that it cannot enter this bloodvessel because the clot or thrombus blocks it then it "makes" its way around this vessel through smaller tubes or bloodvessels and gives the heart muscle enough strength to keep pumping the blood.

Dr. Warren B. Cooksey, Detroit, in a paper read before the Central Society for Clinical Research, Chicago, says that if the shock of the attack is not too great and the patient lives for a few weeks afterwards, he often will recover so completely and the blood circulation supplying the heart muscle will so thoroughly re-establish itself in time, that many useful years will remain to the individual.

Before taking Cardui, I was weak and tremely nervous, and suffered from sleeplessness. This made me tired and worn in time. My back ached continually. Being an active woman, I did not want to continue in this condition. Having heard a deal about Cardui, I found, after just a few bottles, I was much relieved. I continued taking Cardui and was so much better.

THE PATHFINDER
is the one and ONLY publication with the knowledge, experience and courage to give you every week the first-hand, inside information which is positively necessary for you to have. It is the ONE publication which is under no obligations to the big moneyed interests or Czars of trade—none of those fatal tie-ups with the selfish cliques who gamble in the very life blood of the people. That's why the Pathfinder is in a position to tell you the unvarnished facts in the plainest possible English. You can depend on every word it says—and there is no substitute for reliability.
EVERY WEEK FROM WASHINGTON, D. C.
Washington is now the news center of the entire world. It is the one place in the country where a strictly unbiased and reliable publication can be issued. That is why the Pathfinder is located there. The same clear sighted vision which led to the selection of the National Capital as the home of the Pathfinder over 40 years ago is the backbone of every single issue of the Pathfinder today.
It is our privilege for a limited time to offer you at a greatly reduced bargain price the greatest and most popular national weekly—The PATHFINDER—together with THIS PAPER, both a full year—52 weeks—for
Only $1.50

You Gamble
WHEN YOU BUY THE unknown
Games of chance may be all right in their place—but why risk your money when you buy razor blades! Probak Jr. is produced by the world's largest manufacturer of razor blades. Here is known quality—a double-edge blade that "stands up" for shave after shave—yet sells at 4 for 10¢!
