A Proclamation

Know All Men, Women and Children

By these Presents:

That, Whereas the health, happiness, life and safety and general welfare of each citizen are dependent upon existing living conditions, and

Whereas, the lives and property of our people are endangered by fire caused by rubbish accumulations in homes, offices, stores, factories, alleys and streets, and

Whereas, a city is judged largely by its general appearance of cleanliness, freshness and beauty, and

Whereas, fire to a very large degree is preventable by the proper application of education in fire prevention and fire protection;

Now, Therefore, I, C. E. Johnson, Mayor of the city of Hedley, do hereby proclaim the week of October 3 to 9 as Fire Prevention Week, during which week I most respectfully urge our civic and commercial organizations, our school officials and teachers, and our citizenship as a whole, to cooperate and work with the fire chief, fire marshal and city officials in an effort to control this useless loss of life and property by fire. Every home, office and place of business should be inspected carefully and all fire hazards removed.

In Testimony Whereof, I hereunto sign my name and affix my seal of office on this the 13th day of September, A. D. 1937.

C. E. Johnson, Mayor

Revival at Bray Closed

Bre Vick Allen of Lella Lake closed a ten day meeting at Bray Wednesday night. There was a great interest throughout the meeting. We had 28 conversions, 20 joined the church. We will have the baptizing service Sunday afternoon at 3:30 at Hedley Baptist Church. The community was greatly blessed.

Truman Caldwell

W. M. SOCIETY

Circles 1 and 2 of the women's missionary society will meet with Mrs. Frank Kendall Monday evening at 7:30. Every member is urged to be present. Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Kendall joint hostesses.

Mrs. George Rolfe of Long Beach, Calif., is reported doing very nicely after an operation in Kansas City. She was formerly Miss Floy Simmons.

J. B. Pickett left a watermelon at the Informer office Saturday, and it was some melon. It measured 28 x 66 inches around.

A large number of Hedleyans attended the Tri State Fair at Amarillo this week.

HEDLEY SINGERS

Hedley singing class will meet at the West Baptist Church next Sunday Sept. 26, at 2:30 p. m. It is the time to elect officers for the coming year. Every one at all interested in good singing is urged to be present and take part. We especially invite Bray, McKnight and Naylor to meet with us and let's have a good singing. Everyone is cordially invited.

Worley Weds Bonham Girl

Shamrock, Sept. 19

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Spivy of Bonham announce the marriage of their daughter, Ann, to Eugene Worley of Shamrock. The wedding was an event of Tuesday Sept. 14, at the Spivy home.

Mr. and Mrs. Worley will take a wedding trip to Mexico City and will be at home in Austin Sept. 27, where Worley, who is representative from this district, will attend the special session. They will establish a permanent home in Shamrock.

Mrs. Worley, who is a talented musician, is a graduate of Texas University. Mr. Worley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Oliver of this city, and attended A and M College and the Texas University law school, of which he is a graduate.

He has been state representative from this district for the past two terms and is prominent in state politics.

We have those good Onyx hose, service weight, also cotton hose for women. B&E

B. W. M. U.

The woman's missionary society of the First Baptist Church met Monday at the church for their monthly mission program taken from Royal Service. Mrs. Truman Caldwell brought the devotional from Acts 15: 12, 64, closing with prayer.

The subject for the evening was the Japanese. Those rendering the program were Mesdames Moffitt, Alewine, Blankenship and Wells.

Closing song, "We've a Story to Tell the Nations."

The missionary study chairman has a new mission book, Winning to Christ. We invite every member of the ladies' missionary society to be present next Monday and begin the book with us.

See our stock of alarm clocks, Hooker Variety.

Miss Clara Jones of Ft. Worth left Sunday after a visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Jones. While here they enjoyed a trip to Palo Duro canyon, and Miss Jones states that Palo Duro compares favorably with Grand Canyon and other well known scenic attractions.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crawford had the misfortune to lose their home by fire Tuesday night while they were attending church at the Bray schoolhouse.

Shower

Mesdames Charles Rains, W.
O. Bridges, R. W. Alewine, T. E.
Caldwell, W. H. Moffitt, W. C.
Payne and A. T. Simmons, and Mrs. L. E. Thompson of Clarendon were hostesses at a lovely dual shower at the Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon, honoring Mrs. Fred Rusk, a recent bride who was formerly Miss Hope Wells, and Miss Ruth
Wells, bride elect of Roscoe Pinnell of Pampa.

The guests were greeted by Mesdames L. E. Thompson and
W. O. Bridges. Mesdames W. C.
Payne R. W. Alewine presided over the brides' registers. Mesdames Ghas. Rains and T. E.
Caldwell served punch. The table was covered with a beautiful lace cloth and centered by a bowl of sweet peas. Candles were placed at each end of the table.

Mrs. L. E. Thompson gave two plane selections and Mrs. W. C.
Bridges read two poems from
"Life's Highways," by Edgar A.
Guest, dedicating one to the bride and bride to be, and the other to their mother. Mrs. W.
E. Burden sang "Believe Me If
All These Endearing Young
Charms," accompanied by Mrs.
Caldwell.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Mrs. Simmons announced that there would be a treasure hunt. After following various clues, the honorees found their treasure, an assortment of lovely gifts, which were opened and displayed.

About 50 guests called during the afternoon.

Wanted—a few more policy hel-ders in the Buntin Burial Association. See Ralph Moreman at once.

Horace H. Mann

Fort Blackmore, Va.
Sept 5—Funeral rites for Horace
H. Mann, about 40, will be conduced from the home of his mother, Mrs. Harvey Mann here at 8:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, with Rev. W. V. Pierce of Gate City Va. and Rev. M. B. Compton of sisting. Interment will be at the family cemetery near the home.

Mr. Mann was instantly killed
Sunday morning at 2:00 o'clock, when a car in which he was riding left the road 2 miles north of Clinesport, Va., and in overturning pinned him beneath it.
It was stated his uncle Oscar Biekley of Big Stone Gap, Va., was driving at the time of the accident. He had been attending the Wise County Fair and was returning to his home.

He was a native of Scott county
and a son of Harvey and Otella Biekley Mann, both parents being members of prominent families of this section. He affiliated with the Southern Methodist Church.

He engaged in farming and stock growing, and was active in community, civic and political affairs.

He is survived by his mother, three brothers, R. E. Mann of Hedley, Texas, John and G. W.
Mann of Ft. Blackmore, Va., two sisters, Mrs. A. J. Strickland of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Garnet Markham of Ft. Blackmore, Va.

His father died a number of years ago and another sister, Mrs. Genley Carter died in 1936.

He was never married.—The Bristol Herald Courier.

The Informer extends sympathy to the bereaved.

Bad Enough
 "Didn't you say your dog's bark was worse than his bite?"
 "Yes."
 "Then for goodness' sake don't let him bark. He's just bitten me."

Something Else
 Chorus Girl—I stand in front of my mirror for hours admiring my beauty. I suppose you'd call that vanity?
 Friend—No—imagination.

CONSIDERATE

Wife—There's a mistake of 50 cents in the butcher's bill today.
 Husband—I'll go around and see about it at once.

Wife—The mistake is in our favor.
 Husband—Oh, we'd better not pay any attention to it. We might get somebody in trouble.

Said a police court defendant:
 "I was not committing an assault. I was merely emphasizing the facts of the case." But perhaps he put too much punch into it?

Handy
 "Hullo, Brown! Where are you going with that empty golf bag?"
 "To the greengrocer's. My wife wants a head of celery and a bundle of rhubarb."

 "Here comes the parade. Where's Aunty?"
 "She's upstairs, waving her hair."
 "Goodness, can't we afford a flag?"—Varieties.

Playing Safe
 Hotel Clerk—Inside or outside room, sir?
 Guest (from the prairies)—Inside, I guess. It looks like rain.

QUICK! STOP CHILLS AND FEVER!

Take This Good Old Medicine for Malaria!
 When you've got chills and fever, you want real and ready relief. You don't want to go through the usual old misery.
 Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is what you want to take for Malaria. This is no new-fangled or untried preparation, but a medicine of proven merit.
 Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic contains tasteless quinine and iron. It quickly relieves the chills and fever and also tends to build you up. That's the double effect you want.
 The very next time you have an attack of chills and fever, get Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic and start taking it at once. All drug stores sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, 50c and $1. The latter size is the more economical.

The Way of Inflation By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

If a merchant or a farmer, or the average householder, parsimoniously open-more than he earns, he goes broke. He pays for his folly in the wreck of his business, his property, and, perhaps, his career.

With governments it can be different.
From time to time various nations have indulged in continued reckless expenditures, yet escaped immediate collapse.
How? By resort to the desperate remedy of inflation—whether of currency
or of credit.

The difference is that the individual bears the brunt of the blow himself, while governments pass it on to their citizens.

History has demonstrated this on many occasions. Perhaps the best remembered example of recent years is that of Germany, where post-war inflation brought hardship and hunger to millions of workers. Records do not show that the clever politicians who brought it all about, or the very rich, went hungry. That was reserved for the average run of citizens, who saw prices rise so swiftly that neither earnings nor savings could keep pace with them.

For a while the situation grew so serious that workmen found it necessary to demand pay for their services at the end of each day's labor. They knew that if they waited, prices might mount so rapidly that even a week's pay couldn't buy one bowl of soup.

Germany's experience was not an isolated one. It has been duplicated to a lesser degree in many countries and in many periods of history. It is because of the evidence such experiments offer, that an increasing number of thoughtful Americans oppose the course of reckless government expenditure that causes inflation.

The concern of such citizens is not for the very rich and the very shrewd
—who know just when to buy and sell,
or how to rig or play the stock market.
It is rather for the average family that depends on a weekly or monthly wage for income, and a savings account or life insurance policy for security. Those are the people who shoulder the burden
and suffer the hurts of inflation.

And those are the people who can stop its course.

They face a great responsibility. Under our Constitution the conduct of national affairs rests ultimately in their hands. If they insist on reasonable economy, the men who represent them
in government must obey the mandate.
If they remain indifferent, they encourage either the burden of increased taxes, or the still heavier toll of inflation with all its golden opportunities for the speculator, and its grim penalties for the worker.

DISINHERITED?

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Through successive generations the American people have continued to receive one of the richest heritages in all history.

Freedom of speech and of opportunity . . . the right to a decisive voice in the greatest government on earth
... a national spirit of courage and self-reliance . . . public wealth beyond
the dreams of Croesus—

These are but a few of the treasures won in the blood and the sweat of hard-working, hard-fisted pioneers and left to us as a natural birthright.

How are we preserving that heritage?
What is America doing to maintain or increase for posterity the things our fathers won for us? What will this generation leave to those who follow?

Today the list seems discouraging.
Its items would include:

A burden of national debt which, as this is written, exceeds $31,000,000,000
—instead of an increasing national wealth.

The threat of a new, alien philosophy of dependence and fear—instead of the spirit that sent Daniel Boone into the wilds of Kentucky and whole families over the hardships of the Oregon Trail.

A glorification of the economic goose-step—instead of the bold, free tread that could carry youth to whatever heights its strength and ability permitted.

No wonder, as it regards this prospect, youth in America feels disinherited. No wonder thousands of older citizens, remembering the opportunities of their own youth, are protesting against a philosophy which robs their sons of similar freedom. No wonder the true descendants of the American pioneer are insisting that personal liberty and personal opportunity must be preserved in this country.

Thousands of our ancestors fought and died to win for us those liberties and opportunities. Thousands more fought to preserve them. The newer generations have a right to enjoy the heritage. We cannot let them down.

Adventure Is Coming In The American Boy

Readers who like the lure of
far places will find plenty to please them in coming issues of
The American Boy Magazine.
They'll read, for instance, of sea-
men and sabotage and San Francisco water front trouble; of daring adventure in the world of
pseudo science, and of a feud
aboard a plunging, rolling battle-
ship

They'll read too, of excitement
aboard a transport plane blaring
over jungled Mexican mountains,
and of stranger planes that are
not bound to earth but swing
through the poisonousness of space. Readers can follow a young ex Mountie as he searches
for clues in the wild northlands,
and Tierney, the sleazebag detective, on the trail of city criminals.

A new feature in The American Boy is picture pages that tell stories Pictures, for instance, that vividly show a day
in the life of a coast guardsman,
and how an Eskimo husky sled
dog does his work. They transmit the thrill of battling a hundred pound, water churning tarpon—Tops on how it's done are also given pictorially—ranging
from how to run a broken field
to how to be correct in a ballroom

MONKEY CLIMBERS!

Helen Thurston, a pretty, little Hollywood blonde, thought that she could climb a rope as fast as a monkey, so——here they are off to a good start, at the halfway mark.

Mortimer Mopus—that's the monkey's name—cinched the race for himself, by stepping on the young lady's——wrist and hopping to a safe landing, proceeded to wrap himself around the beam, like the fur on a lady's coat collar. The Hollywood girl didn't win this time—but she certainly proved that there must be something to what Darwin preached.

Prints Tune to School Girl Needs

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MYRIADS of gay little print frocks wending their way schoolward is the picture fashion is flashing on the screen for fall. There is really no danger of overdoing the print collection for little daughter, for there are so many varieties of textures and design in the realm of washable prints this season mothers can assemble a wardrobe of prints ranging from playtime and classroom frocks to pretty-party dresses, and then not have too many for occasions that may arise.

From mother's standpoint the new print collections should and will prove all that they should be in supplying fabrics which will insure her child the joy of being well-dressed whatsoever the occasion, because fabricists are bringing out cottons and rayons, and linens that have the "looks" of choicest challis and fine crepes.

The thing that intrigues the little folks in regard to prints is that many of the nicest, prettiest prints have been especially designed for them with pictorial motifs that make direct appeal to childhood. Not only are the patterns charming to behold but they are in many instances instructive and entertaining as well. For smaller children there are prints with the letters of the alphabet scattered designfully in all-over patterning. Mother Goose figures too, and boats and ships and birds and animals, fruits and flowers done in a way to capture the fancy of a child.

The washable prints developed this season are unique and lovely. It's a series of perfectly charming prints that we have in mind—artistic creations each of which has been inspired by a song. There are fifteen designs in this collection nine of which have been adapted to cotton fabrics and six to rayon. The unique part of it is that these theme song designs use titles of copyrighted songs. What a grand chorus of prints there will be in classroom, at home and in the highways and byways that little girls tread during the coming tawny autumn days! Not that children have a monopoly on these intriguing musical prints for designers are making them up into the smartest-even housecoats, pajamas and daytime dresses for grown-ups.

Does your little girl love music? If so she'll adore the beruffled frock of new chintz-type print (centered in the illustration) the motif of which is based on "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," a song children know and love. Clever little girl and boy figures holding balloons and other bubble motifs following the position of the notes on the scale with tiny clef signs make the design of this print which is fascinating for young and older folk. The crisp white organdy ruffles and buttons add winsome accents.

The dress to the left is also made of a theme-song "bubble" print. It is a pleasing type for the growing girl. Three narrow ribbon bows positioned on ribbon crossbars set row and row march soldier-like down the front of the bodice. Pleated skirt and demure Peter Pan collar complete this smart style.

The dress to the right reflects a quaint spirit in the lacings up the front, the close-fitting bodice, and the now-so-fashionable "swing skirt." Any girl would love to wear this dress "first day of school." The scattered daisies is a patterning inspired by that familiar song, "Daisy, Daisy, Tell Me Your Answer True"—enough to inspire any little girl wearing this dress to become a prima donna.

CASUAL COSTUMES SLATED FOR FALL

"Look casual," is the latest slogan being broadcast to women who are pre-occupied with the question of what to wear for early fall. Although both tailored tweeds and softly-feminine garments will continue to be style-right for particular occasions, it's the casual costume that is slated for high-style acceptance.

Suits are always an early-fall favorite but they were never better calculated to make women want to cast aside their summer clothes. Already the shops are beginning to display scores of casually cut models ranging from classic two-piece ensembles complete with blouse and topcoat or fur cape.

College Girls in Favor of Low-Heeled Daytime Shoes

Increased interest in sports is given as the chief factor in the college girl's inclination toward lower heel heights on daytime shoes but her choice is also influenced by other considerations such as comfort and the suitability of low-heeled footwear to sports clothes.

The prevalence of "girls of more than average height" was one of the reasons advanced for the increased popularity of low and medium-heeled evening shoes.

Shaded Stockings Boon to Woman With Bulky Calves

The woman with oversized calves can buy shaded stockings which gradually darken in color at the largest part of the leg and thus have a very slenderizing effect. These stockings shade from a light tan at the foot and ankle to a dark brown at the calf and upper leg. For slimmer legs, there are stockings of sun-tan color with feet of dark brown.

PLAID TAILLEUR
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Plaid's the thing for your new fall suit if you are seeking the smartest. The one pictured is of heavy plaid linen. It's a real Scotch tartan plaid done in dark green, dark blue lined with white, red and yellow. Black velvet binds the edges, pocket flaps and cuffs. This makes a stunning costume for early fall and later on you will be wanting to copy it in plaid wool. We are quite sure you will for these stunning plaid jacket suits are the "last word" in chic.

Black and Sand
Black velveteen is worn with a tailored coat of sand-colored wool.

What Is It? Dinner, Lunch or Supper?

DEAR Mrs. Post: A friend of mine insists that no matter what is served, the meals of the day in their order are called breakfast, lunch and dinner, and a light evening meal is supper. I maintain that if a person eats a full course meal at noon it is called dinner. Will you explain this to us?

Answer: Meticulously speaking, dinner, no matter whether served at mid-day or in the evening, begins with soup in plates set on a tablecloth, and is followed by meat and vegetables, and there is no cup and saucer for a hot beverage on the table. It is the tablecloth and the soup in the soup plate, and the absence of cups and saucers, that classifies the meal as dinner. Until lately the presence of bread and butter plates also banished the name of dinner. Supper is recognized principally because set on a bare table, and it has cups and saucers and hot coffee, tea or chocolate on the table, and soup, if any, is served in cups. The difference between lunch and supper is that one is at mid-day and the other is in the evening. Less meticulously but according to its more usual interpretation, dinner is the substantial meal of the 24 hours, no matter at what time it is eaten, and the other meal is either lunch or supper.

Youth Still Addresses His Elders With "Sir"

DEAR Mrs. Post: My son is eighteen and as a young child we taught him to address older men as Sir. A young uncle of his insists that Sir and Ma'am are used only by servants when speaking to their employers. If modern training is gradually abolishing every sign of filial respect, what kind of untrained animals will our young soon be? I wish you'd explain the present-day use of Sir and Ma'am.

Answer: All properly brought up boys answer Sir when making a monosyllabic reply to a gentleman, and Mrs. Brown or Miss Brown when answering a lady. Girls say Mr. Brown as well as Mrs. or Miss Brown. Properly, servants say Sir and Madam.

Sending Announcements.

DEAR Mrs. Post: My only relatives are my aunt and my brother, and under the circumstances I am not going to have a very large wedding and will not send any invitations. But I would like to send announcements to our friends everywhere. In whose name should these announcements be sent?

Answer: Either would be proper although somewhat depending upon circumstances. If your aunt has brought you up and your brother is younger than you, then the invitations would certainly go out in her name. But if you and your brother have always lived together and if he is older than you, the invitations would probably go out in his name. This, however, can't be answered definitely since the question of how both feel about the matter must be taken into consideration.

Ask Her Alone.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is it necessary to ask the friends with whom a friend of mine is visiting to go out with us? I have always done this but this year things are different and I haven't much money. However, I do not want her criticized for my failure to do something that would be very difficult for me to do right now, but which they may not appreciate.

Answer: Under practically all circumstances one is free to ask one's friend and not the persons with whom she happens to be staying, especially if the latter are strangers.

Substitute for Spouse.

DEAR Mrs. Post: You have written that to all general parties such as receptions and musicales a wife may accept an invitation for herself and send regrets for her husband. Will you go a little further and explain whether she might be allowed to take a friend in her husband's place to such a general party since to go alone would be rather unpleasant?

Answer: She could do this only in the house of someone whom she knows well enough to call on the telephone and ask if she may bring whoever it is in "John's" place.

Knives, Forks and Fish.

DEAR Mrs. Post: When fish is served at breakfast, are the medium sized knives used for eating breakfast proper, or should I set the table with the fish knives and forks?

Answer: Usually the regular breakfast knife and fork are used, but if you are having small bony fish and your fish knives are more practical, then by all means use them.

WNU Service.

They're Cinches to Sew

YES, the sewing bug will get you, if you don't watch out, young lady! And when it does there will be a hum in your life (and we don't mean head noises). Right now is the time to begin; right here is the place to get your inspiration. So all together, girls: it's sew, sew, sew-your-own!

Inspiration Number 1.

The vivacious model at the left is the number 1 piece for your new autumn advance. It calls for taffeta, embellished, as you might expect, with grosgrain. You may use vivid colors too, Milady, for Fashion has gone color mad this fall. Reds of every hue, bright blues, lavender, warm browns, all are being featured in smart avenue shops along the Rue de la Paix.

Morning Frock.

For most of us, each day demands that a little work be done. Sew-Your-Own appreciates this and the need for frocks that are practical, pretty, and easy to keep that way, hence the new utility frock in the center. Five pieces are its sum and total; seven mornings a week its cycle. Any tub-well fabric will do nicely as the material—try one version in printed rayon.

Tailored Charm.

The waistcoat used to be a gentleman's identification, but, alas, like many another smart idea, womankind has copied it. Here you see an attractive example of this modern contraband. Not only does it have suavity, but it is entirely feminine, as well. The exquisite waist line, sweet little collar, and puff sleeves, make this a number you can't afford to pass up.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1363 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 1/2 yards of ribbon for trimming, as pictured.

Pattern 1354 is designed for sizes 34 to 46. Size 34 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material.

Pattern 1252 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch material.

ONLY NEWSPAPERS BRING THE NEWS OF VITAL INTEREST TO YOU

Headlines may scream of death and disaster without causing you to raise an eyebrow. But if your son gets his name in the paper—that's real news! It isn't by accident that this paper prints so many stories which vitally interest you. For this newspaper was edited for you and your neighbors. News of remote places is stated briefly and interpreted. Local news is covered fully, because all good editors know that the news which interests the readers most is news about themselves.

Now is a good time to learn more about this newspaper which is made especially for you. Just for fun ask yourself this question: How could we get along without newspapers?

8. The domestic commerce division of the Department of Commerce says that 67.8 per cent of all retail sales are for cash on the counter or cash on delivery.

Electrocuting Whales

The newest method of killing whales is with an electric harpoon. The current goes by wire to the head of the harpoon, spreads through the body of the animal and returns through the water to the negative pole on the side of the ship, thereby completing the circuit and causing instant electrocution.—Collier's Weekly.

"I'll be glad when this is over and I can leave." "So will I. This one night out a week business is no help at all to me. I've been thinking that I'd get a job on the back elevator in your house and see you every day."

"Our present back elevator men are very nice. And they need their jobs more than you do."

"Aha, it is a social conscience! I wasn't going to gyp any worthy comrade out of work. I would pay a bonus for the privilege of taking his place a week or so, that's all."

"Curt, you're crazy, but I hope you won't do anything as crazy as that."

"It's not crazy to want to see you every day."

"It would be—unsettling—to have you on the back elevator, Curt. And it might make difficulties—I don't know—"

"I thought maybe you might need me sometime in a hurry. And I'd be there."

"That's your imagination running wild, isn't it? This job isn't dangerous."

"Lord, no, if it had been I'd never have let you take it."

"Oh, phooey! You wouldn't have let me take it, indeed!"

"I couldn't have bent you to my will, I know that, proud beauty, but I could have worked on Vinco and Terriss and—"

"How is Vinco?"

"Mourning your absence. You'll find welcome on the mat when you return, though he'll pretend to be sore at you."

"I'll be very sweet and grateful to be back then."

"Don't be too sweet and grateful. Vinco's dealt with sweet young ladies before. He might give you a wage cut just to keep you disciplined."

"I talk about being back as though it was very near. I hope it is. I'm not going to stay at the Caynes' much longer no matter whether the thief's discovered or not."

"But you're going to search the boy's room. You owe that to Terriss."

"Yes, I suppose I do. Yes, I'll search Holbrook's room. I hope I don't find anything."

"You're still thinking about his parents, but it's far better they should know the truth if he's a bad lot. Every time I go past the library there at Forty-second street I look at that motto: 'But above all things, truth beareth away the victory.' Truth may hurt, but it's curiously satisfactory."

"Write a good book sometime and put that in, Mr. Elton," said Rachel flippantly; but she thought: "That's so, I can see it for myself. If I hadn't gone to the Caynes' and seen and known my own mother, it would have ruined everything between Anne and me. Whereas now—" she went on aloud, "I've got to go back to the apartment and see Pink and write some letters. There's a fast boat sailing tomorrow and I want to send a letter to France."

At the door Curt said, "You don't want me on the back elevator? Sure?"

"It would be silly. After all, I'm not exactly helpless."

"Let me know as soon as you can if you do get anything on the brat, though. You might not need any help, but you might use some moral support, spiritual sustenance, or whatnot."

"Coming in to see Pink? I might give you some moral support and spiritual sustenance for that."

But Curt went on his way and Rachel settled to her letters. It was the first time she had really been eager to write to Anne, the first time she had felt right toward her since she had been gone. But even now she could not tell her about being in the Cayne house; that story must be revealed only when it was over and she was back at Vinco's. Then she would tell the whole thing, the start, the middle and the end. There was no end to tell at present. Perhaps she would wait until Anne came home, written words were so hard to use, their sense changed between the hand of the writer and the eyes of the reader. Moreover, tonight she had no time to write a long letter, but she must tell Anne how dearly she loved her, how little she had appreciated her.

"Mother'll probably think I've gone fearfully soppy," she thought, "or else that I'm trying to get round her to send for me. I'll have to put in that I'm having a marvelous time, lots of dates, lots of dancing and playing around. I'll give Curt a good hand, too."

But when she began to write about Curt an odd shyness fell on her. Maybe she was beginning to depend too much on Curt, maybe he was beginning to mean more than she knew, more than she was sure she wanted. "I wonder if I am falling for him," she thought, "and if he's fallen as hard as he seems to for me. On the back elevator! The idiot! But it's a rather pleasing sort of idiocy." She finished her letter with a flourish, put it in the envelope and whacked the stamp tight with her fist. "Now I must get into my peasant costume," she said to Pink, "and hie me back to the mountaintop. Listen, Pink, what do you think about Curt Elton?"

Pink looked up from the page of copy she had been frowning over. "I could go for him in a big way if I could ever get him to look at me. He's tops, that lad. Those carnations, for instance, do they suit you? What do I get from my suitors? Nothing but perfectly obvious corages made up by the forist by the dozen and wholesaled to young men with no imagination or flair for the right thing. I'll bet Curt writes poetry."

"He's never mentioned it if he does."

"If he doesn't write it he reads it and that's all right so long as he doesn't read it aloud. I could murder people who read poetry aloud. These radio mushtreads! The quiver of emotion in the voice, the self-conscious elegance of the pronunciation."

"These Crooks Are Always Feeling Around for Suckers," Said Terriss.

tion, the unnatural pauses and dramatic swoops! Did I say swoops? They darn near give me the cops! Shoot 'em at sunrise, along with the singing guys and gals who come on humming through their noses!" Pink threw down her pencil. "I've been listening to the radio too much, I wish you'd stop being a punk detective and come back home. But I suppose you'd be galloping about with Curt all the time even if you were here."

"I'm going to quit being a punk detective very soon. I'm sick of it."

"But you haven't found out anything?"

"I've found out a lot, but not about the thefts. I'm older, wiser and considerably sadder than when I started this nonsense. Well, here I go, Pink. I'll be seeing you for keeps before long. Be a good girl and don't let Genie borrow your false eyelashes."

"Genie thinks she's going to Hollywood, didn't I tell you?"

"She'll do well there. Good night, Pinkie lamb."

Towers and Lena were still up when Rachel came in, drinking coffee and eating slices of Lena's special coffee cake, a melting confection covered with almonds and raisins. They offered some to Rachel but she refused. "I'll have a cup of coffee, though," she said and sat down with them in the kitchen.

"Anything happened since I went out?" Rachel asked casually, sipping her coffee.

"Nothing special. The family's out to dinner and going to the theater. There now, I forgot to turn back the beds, you always doing it, Rachel, puts it out of my mind."

"I'll do it," said Rachel. "Sit still, Mr. Towers. I'll do it right off."

She hurried through the work in the rooms of the elder Caynes, but in Holbrook's she lingered, looking round it carefully, wondering when and how she should begin the promised search. The desk, she must go through that, and the bookshelves,—

"I suppose I ought to open every book, I could pretend to be dusting"—the dresser, the high chest where the boy kept his huge collection of shirts and ties and fancy pajamas, the clothes hanging in his closet, the night table drawer, behind the pictures—"there's nowhere else, yes, I'll turn up the rug and tear the bed to pieces. Oh, it is comic, it's crazy! And it's horrible."

On an impulse she ran a finger behind each picture, her reward was streaks of dusty grime on her hand and a slight relaxing of her apprehensions. Nothing but dust! But she could make that an excuse to give the room an ostensible cleaning. Towers would be glad to have her take that duty, the old chap wasn't very brisk, he didn't see distinctly but hated to wear his glasses. Mrs. Cayne went to the beauty establishment on Friday for limbering and general massage, a facial, a shampoo and wave set, and usually had a few extras, a pedicure or a change in the color on her nails, or an elbow oil-bath. Those took time and would give Rachel an opportunity provided young Holbrook also went out. No one could predict his vagaries, he liked to lie in bed until noon, with his radio going, or playing his phonograph. On other days he went out early and stayed late. His habits were regular only in irregularity.

The next morning, though he didn't go out very early, Holbrook did leave the apartment about eleven and told Towers that he wasn't coming in for lunch, whereupon Rachel, with Towers' permission, went into the room with a full array of cleaning implements and set to work. She pushed a chair against the door to guard against too sudden interruption and first searched the bed. Under the springs she found the same sort of dust as behind the picture frames, but nothing more.

Now she attacked the dresser, dumping out the contents of each drawer, putting everything back in order. Holbrook's underwear, in color and variety, was something to marvel at. He favored lavender and pastel green, everything was silk, custom-made. Next she went at the desk longer, but not so long as she had feared, for it held little but writing paper, many sorts, but be sure, with various styles of monograms and addresses, and books of sketches and a few harmless old letters and invitations and lists of art exhibitions. Rachel ran these through and stuck them back. There was no account book, but behind a sheaf of florid correspondence cards she found several unpaid bills. She noted the shops, the date and amount of purchases and put these back too.

"Before I begin on those bookshelves I'll go through his suits," thought Rachel and forthwith entered the deep closet. Holbrook's wardrobe was nearly as comprehensive as his mother's. Rachel took the suits and coats in order, feeling in every pocket. Handkerchiefs, cards, loose change, pencils, packets of gum, pocket combs, a gold knife and gold pencil, a sample bottle of brilliantine, but nothing that looked like a pawn ticket or anything else clandestine, until in the inner pocket of the fur-lined overcoat which he usually wore, she discovered a small folded piece of paper, just a scrap, on which was lightly pencilled an address on the lower East Side, followed by a list of dates. Rachel glanced at this and was putting it back when she realized that the last date was the day the sapphire bracelet was stolen. She was about to take the scrap of paper to a better light and copy it when she heard someone at the door. Down on her knees she went and when the door was finally opened she was very busy wiping the baseboard of the closet.

It was only Towers. "Come on and eat your lunch," he said; and then: "You certainly are giving it a turning out. I appreciate this, Rachel. I'll do something for you sometime if I can."

"That's all right," said Rachel. "I'll be along to lunch as soon as I set the furniture straight. He might come in unexpectedly."

"He's in now," said Towers. He's got that friend of his named Buckham in the library and he wants me to mix 'em up a cocktail. I told him his pa had the key to the liquor closet. The nerve!"

"I'd better hurry," said Rachel, "they might come in here. But aren't they going to have lunch?"

"Oh no, they just wanted cocktails! And he's going to put on his fur-lined coat, he ain't warm enough in the camel's hair! I wish he was mine, I'd warm him with the business end of a hickory rod."

It was too late to put the slip of paper back into the overcoat pocket. Holbrook and Roy were outside in the hall. She slipped through the other door that opened into Mr. Cayne's room as they came in, before they could see her. She was troubled, uneasy. Perhaps Holbrook wouldn't miss the paper, perhaps it meant nothing anyway. But at least she would show it to Terriss, it was the only thing she had found that seemed to have the least connection with the theft.

CHAPTER XII

Terriss and Rachel sat in the office of Peter Cayne, facing him as he stood. He was like an oak tree, Rachel thought, that had been undetermined at the root and she could scarcely endure to look at him. He held himself straight with an effort and repeated again and again: "It's impossible, I tell you. I don't believe it."

Terriss looked at the list he held in his hand at the top of which was clipped the scrap of paper Rachel had found in Holbrook's pocket.

"But, Mr. Cayne, the thing's here in black and white. The address is that of one of the slipperiest fences in the city, I recognized it as soon as I saw the piece of paper Miss Vincent brought in. He's operating under the name of Mark Edelweis, but that's only an alias. Just like his jewelry shop's a blind. Jewelry! His stock wouldn't fill a quart measure. I went in and asked to see him private and told him I wanted to know about these things and guaranteed I'd make him no trouble if he'd give me the information. That was just a bluff, we couldn't make him trouble anyway, for everything your son took there was a legitimate sale. I said legitimate sale or not these articles were stolen and he'd better clear it up, for even if he could prove it was legitimate, headquarters was just aching to get something on him and this might lead to an investigation and then where would he be? So he gave me the list. Everything's there—antique gold buckles with rose diamonds, star ruby pendant, gold wrist watch, turquoise and diamond ring, silver cigarette box with silver ashtrays to match, seed pearl and pink topaz earrings, jade and diamond brooch, diamond dinner ring, set of six rose-cut diamond buttons, three dozen antique silver spoons and the sapphire bracelet. He had your son's name and address, he described him to me—"

"Oh, for God's sake!" cried out Cayne in torture, "shut up. Let me think."

"You don't suppose I enjoy doing this, do you?" asked Terriss. "Don't take it so hard, Mr. Cayne, the boy didn't know how serious it was, he didn't realize in a place like yours with so much fancy goods lying around loose why he shouldn't sell something that wasn't needed and wasn't used when he wanted an extra piece of change. Lots of kids do it. You'd be surprised. They just haven't learned the difference between right and wrong."

"But he had a big allowance, I paid his bills, I gave him extra when he asked for it and I thought he ought to have it. And his mother gave him money sometimes, I shut my eyes to that. But to steal her trinkets and things from his own home and sell them! And how did he get in touch with this man Edelweis, how did he find him? That's what I'd like to know."

"Those crooks are always feeling around for suckers," said Terriss. "Well, Mr. Cayne, this case is closed as far as I'm concerned. You know where your stuff has gone. You can get the bracelet back if you'll pay Edelweis $250, it's not been touched. I saw it."

Wild Turkey Has Abandoned Michigan; No Suitable Cover Is Left for Them

During the early 80's there existed certain sections in the lower peninsula of Michigan that were considered excellent hunting grounds for wild turkeys. This was particularly true of the hardwood ridges and swamp areas adjacent to the larger watercourses. The turkey disappeared from Michigan in the 90's due to lumbering and the destruction of the necessary type of cover for its protection and propagation.

Since that time, says a writer in the Detroit News, sporadic attempts have been made by game and shooting reserve owners to re-establish this bird, but in every instance the birds disappeared within a few years from the habitats over which they were released. Various individuals and sportsmen's organizations have been endeavoring in the last few years to influence the state conservation administrators to attempt to propagate and re-establish the wild turkey over its former range, but it is doubtful if it can be done.

In commenting on this suggestion William B. Mershon, of Saginaw, an old turkey hunter and recognized authority on this bird and the passenger pigeon, says: "It is all nonsense to talk of bringing back the wild turkey to Michigan. There is no suitable cover left in southern Michigan for them. Naturally they never ranged north of the Kawkawlin river, near Saginaw. You cannot raise them in a little patch of woods. They want a bit of swampy land for winter cover, ridges of beech to scratch for beechnuts; maybe a nearby plot of buckwheat would attract them for their morning's feed. They are great wanderers and I do not know of a single place where conditions would permit them to exist in the wild state in Michigan."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eye—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your druggist!

Government by Law— or by Edict?

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Dominant among the demands of men who fought the Revolution was the right to a voice in the making of laws under which they were governed.
By their victory our fathers won that right. Jealously they guarded it—in both Federal and State constitutions.
Under the system thus established, the enactment of law was reserved to men chosen by the people and responsive to their will. It is the traditional American system.

But there is another type of legislation—known as Administrative Law.
It is a system of edicts and decrees,
handed down by rulers to subject populations. In its enactment the people have no voice.

That's one reason why so many thoughtful citizens are protesting against the flood of edicts pouring out of the offices of various boards and bureaus at Washington today.

They realize that a whole new body of Administrative Law is being forced on the people, not by their elected representatives, but by appointed chiefs of bureaus and commissions, in whose selection the voters had no choice and over whose actions they exercise no control.

In recent years these citizens have observed a constantly increasing number of examples of extravagance, arrogance and interference with individual rights on the part of Bureaucrats who assumed, or to whom Congress delegated, powers vested only in the people or their elected representatives.

Today they see the growing threat of Administrative Law supplanting, unless checked, our entire American system of legislation—and with it our constitutional form of government.

Bureaucracy and democracy cannot continue to exist side by side. One or the other must yield. Whether or not we shall surrender government by the people for government by Bureaucrats is for us to determine.

As heirs of the patriots who waged a long and bitter war for the right to make their own laws, our decision should not be a difficult one.

Where the Taxes Come From

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors."

Congress, as this is written, is beginning to remember that profound truth
—and to realize that the public remembers it, too.

Therein lies a headache—not only for Congress but for all other officers of government, whether national, state or local, who have spent the people's money at such amazing speed during recent years.

The trouble is that in proportion to public expenditures, there are fewer earnings for the tax-collectors to levy
on than there were, let's say, a decade ago.

Recently - published figures have brought this fact dramatically to the taxpayer's attention. They show, for example, that whereas in 1929, taxes
took one-eighth of the national income (which means the earnings of all the people), by 1932, they took one-sixth,
and by 1935 more than one-fifth.

Or put it another way! In 1928, the average American labored one day out of every eight to pay the costs of national, state and local government; in 1932 he labored one day out of every six for the same purpose, and in 1935, one day (and a few hours over) out of every five.

Yet even that didn't meet the whole cost. If government last year had paid all its bills in cash, nearly one-third of all the money earned by the American people would have been required to balance the account. Instead, government borrowed, which means that the bill must be paid out of future earnings of the workers or their children—still in the sweat of the man who labors.

Today the politicians are searching feverishly for a method of producing taxes without the inevitable sweat. They find it a difficult job. Perhaps they are approaching it at the wrong end. If they want to make things easier for the people, who ultimately pay the bills, why not turn their thoughts to the problem of spending fewer billions, rather than to the question of how to collect more?

Adventure Is Coming In The American Boy

Readers who like the lure of
far places will find plenty to please them in coming issues of
The American Boy Magazine.
They'll read, for instance, of sea-
men and sabotage and San Francisco waterfront trouble; of
daring adventure in the world of
pseudoscience, and of a feud
aboard a plunging, rolling battle-
ship.

They'll read, too, of excitement
aboard a transport plane blaring
over jungled Mexican mountains,
and of stranger planes that are
not bound to earth but swing
through the noiselessness of space. Readers can follow a
young ex Mountie as he searches
for clues in the wild northlands,
and Tierney, the pie eating detective, on the trail of city criminals.

A new feature in The American Boy is picture pages that tell stories. Pictures, for instance, that vividly show a day
in the life of a coast guardsman,
and how an Eskimo husky sled
dog does his work. They trans-
mit the thrill of battling a hundred pound, water churning tar-
pon. Tips on how it's done are also given pictorially—ranging
from how to run a broken field
to how to be correct in a ballroom.

Note: Subscription prices of The American Boy will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00.
Foreign subscriptions 50c a year
extra. Send your name, address and remittance to The American Boy 7430 Second Blvd.
Detroit, Mich. On newsstands
the price is 15c a copy.

Oscar Culwell and family have returned from a visit to Wheeler,
Laverne, Okla and other points.

NOTICE

There is a city ordinance pre-hibiting chickens running at large. There have been several complaints made that the neighbor's chickens are destroying flower beds and gardens. Those who have chickens will please keep them on their own premises
By order of the City Council
