SYNOPSIS

Barbara Sentry, seeking to sober up her escort, Johnnie Boyd, on the way home from a party, slaps him, and attracts the attention of a policeman, whom the boy knocks down. As he arrests him, Professor Brace of Harvard comes to the rescue and drives Barbara home. On the way they see Barbara home. On the way they see Barbara's father driving from the direction of his office at 12:45, but when he gets home he tells his wife it is 11:15 and that he's been playing bridge at the club. Next morning, while Barbara is telling her mother about her adventure, an urgent phone call comes from Mr. Sentry's office after his departure. Arriving home in the late afternoon, Sentry reports his office has been robbed and a Miss Wines, former temporary employee, killed. The evening papers luridly confirm the story, and Sentry takes it hard. Mary, elder daughter, is in love with Neil Ray, young interne at the hospital where she works.

Barbara was called to the telephone, and Endle arrived and came in to speak to them while Mary friend. made last preparations. Mrs. Loran's brother, Endle, had somehow made a fortune in the last four or five years, owned a blatantly large motor yacht on which scandalous parties were reported to occur, was perfectly sure of his welcome everywhere; and he clapped Mr. Sentry on the shoulder and said jocosely

"Well, Sentry, a lot of free advertising, eh? Headlines! Produce House Murder! You and Gus ought to have a flock of sightseers tomorrow. Better lay in a stock of bananas, eh? Sell 'em to people to take home as souvenirs!"

Mary, in the hall, called, "I'm ready, Mr. Endle." They departed. Mrs. Sentry said icily, "He and Mrs. Loran are alike, aren't they?' And as Barbara returned from the telephone, "Who was it, Barbara?"

"Johnny Boyd!" Barbara was indignant. "He thought last night was a joke, and he thought all this was funny! I shan't ever give him a date again!

"I suppose it will strike a lot of people as a joke on us," Mr. Sentry agreed, "I'm glad father isn't alive. He was strong on the dignity of the firm." And he reflected: "I'd better run in and reassure mother. Care to come, Ellen?" Old Mrs. Sentry lived in solitary dignity in one of the Back Bay hotels.

"I think not," Mrs. Sentry decided, but when Mrs. Furness phoned presently to ask whether she could bring Miss Glen over-"She's so anxious to talk to Mr. Sentry about this terrible crime!"-Mrs. Sentry said: "I'm sorry. We're going out!" Others would be telephoning. She and Mr. Sentry presently departed in the limousine for town.

Barbara stayed at home. She was reading the story in the paper again when the doorbell rang. Nellie came to say that a young man wished to see her. "He asked for Mr. Sen-try," she explained, "and I told him you were the only one at home."

Barbara went into the hall. The young man said, "Miss Sentry?" "I'm Miss Barbara."

"I'm Dan Fisher," he explained, watching her appreciatively. "I'm a reporter. My editor sent me out to -well, to see if your father had any ideas about this murder. And to get some pictures and so on." He added, "I'm sorry to bother you." And then he grinned and said, "If I were you, I wouldn't even talk to Barbara liked him. "You're a and when Fritz returned to the funny reporter," she protested. "I in mid-forenoon he pulled the bed clothes violently off Phil.

"You're thinking of plain-clothes men, policemen," he suggested, chuckling; and he added, surprisingly: "I met you once. You don't remember? You were with Joe Dane in New Haven after the Princeton game two years ago. Joe introduced

"Oh! Were you reporting the

"No, I'd been helping coach the Princeton ends. Used to play a little, myself. That was before I went into the newspaper game."

She said courteously: "Why, then we're really old friends! Will you come in? There's no one at home, but father and mother will be back

He hesitated, shook his head.
"Thanks," he said, "I don't think
I will." And he confessed, a little amused at his own scruples: "Probably a real red-hot reporter would get some pictures out of you, and an interview. If your father were here—I'll tell you, I may come back

She nodded, understanding his forbearance, grateful, "I shouldn't know what to say," she admitted.

"If I were you, I wouldn't say anything to reporters," he advised. "Just refer them to your father. "I don't mean for any of you to be mysterious about it, of course. That would only make it worse." And he said: "Thanks a lot. Good-night."

Barbara was almost sorry he departed. Her thoughts were terrifying company. But when she heard her father and mother return she met them smilingly.
"Well, you missed it!" she an-

"Oh, he was rather nice! His name's Dan Fisher, and he went to Princeton, and knows Joe Dane." Joe was Linda's brother, at Yale. He and Phil Sentry were classmates there. "But he wanted to see fa-ther," Barbara explained, and she added mischievously, "I tried to get But he did read him to come in and talk to me."

Mrs. Sentry said in sardonic reproach, "Weren't you—unnecessari-ly hospitable?"

CHAPTER III

Miss Wines was found dead in the hall outside Mr. Sentry's office at about eight o'clock Friday morning; a Friday in October. The after-noon papers cried the news; the morning papers on Saturday spread the tale over three or four pages.

Phil Sentry, a junior at Yale, would have slept late that morning. There was to be a football game in the afternoon, and the pre-game celebration the night before had in his case risen to a somewhat fevered pitch. He had no early class; but Fritz Rush, his roommate, had;

"Wake up, Phil!" he shouted. 'You've got your name in the pa-

Phil blinked sleepily. "What? What's happened? We didn't start anything last night, did we?"

"Read 'em and weep!" Fritz insisted. "All about the murder in high life! Pretty stenographer foul-ly slain! Here, have a look!"

Phil sat up and peered, blinking, at the headlines; he turned the pages and saw photographs of the dead girl, of his father, of Mr. Loran, and of Sentry and Loran's old brick building in the market dis-trict. The history of the firm, found-ed by Phil's great-grand ather, was related; and his father's clubs were listed, and his mother's charities.

The names of Loran and Sentry, even though the connection was slight, lent a certain importance to this murder of a pretty stenographer; yet an old newspaper man, though the names might have been meaningless to him, would have guessed from the extent of the spread that there was more to come, that there was a whisper of sensation in the air. Even Phil sensed this faintly as he glanced through the pages; but before he had finished, two or three fellows came in to jest at his expense. Was Agnes Wines one of his conquesis, they demanded. What was this power he had over women?

Where did he bury his dead? He grinned, and then swore.
"Cut the comedy," he said harshly. "Haven't you guys any sense of decency? She looks like a nice kid." "Where were you, Mr. Bones," Joe Dane demanded in inquisitorial then backstitched in white from the right side with three strands of six-strand mercerized embroidery cotton. She wanted the arrangement of the snow crystals to be helter-skelter-just as they would fall; so she took a handful of coins and tossed them onto the linen. There was a 50-cent piece; a quarter; some dimes, nickels and pennies. After several tosses she drew around each coin where it fell.

Snow Crystals to Embroider on Linen

Still using three strands of the white cotton she took four stitches cross the marked circle and the brought the needle out in the cer ter, as shown here in step 2, rea to take a tiny stitch to bind th long stitches together. Junior Screeches

The Junior class met Tuesday evening Sept 18 for the purpose of electing a sponsor and class officers Our last year's prestdent. Den Hickey, took charge and the following people were elected Mr Gregg, speasor; Lamar Adamson, president; Eu tha Davis, vice president; Glenn Richerson, secretary and treasurer and Della McLaughlin, re-

Summer was fun, but with ing We're leeking ferward to starting a new school year, with new studies and new friends. Some of us may be aiming at the boner rell, the basketball team, or an office of the class But accomplish these and the one little work is WORK Come on Juniors and let's say.

Are we in it? Well I guess, Juniors, Juniors, yes, yes, yes

Freshman Peaps

Mr Payne called the first year high school students together Tuesday afterneon for the pur pose of organizing our class for this year. We elected Mrs. Owen sponsor, Willis Long president, Collegn Abarnathy vice president Jane Ruth Hall secretary, Camilla Doberty reporter

We may be fresh and green in the ways of high school felks, we can boast One of them is Mr. and Mrs Jamar wish to ther. The following were elected numbers. We are three times as large as the Senior class, twice Herman Smith, vice president as large as the Juniors and one and two thirds larger than the Sophemores The other classes might remember that Northern Armies won the Civil War in One point in our favor, in spite numbers The second thing is Ferrell and Mrs Bess Osben of all our indescretions, is that grit We are going to be among we do not skip steps, there being the students who do things be cause we are already as busy as

Later on we will have some fun

We are grateful to the upper classmen for helping us find our way around We will soon feel that we are at home in high sebool.
