LIBERTY

163 Years of It!

Americans are mighty particular about their freedom. No less than 6 times has our sons fought to fight for "We, the People."

And they still like to fight for personal liberties. Right here in Hedley over 800 customers of our bank are struggling for independence in old age. That same grim determination will win as it has always won since those eventful days when our country was founded in 1776.

The Better Way to Correct Constipation
One way to treat constipation is to endure it first and cure it afterward. The other way is to avoid having it by getting at its cause. So why not save yourself those dull headache days, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can do it by a simple common-sense "ounce of prevention"?
If your trouble, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, "the better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal has just the "bulk" you need. THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must bespeak the prevalence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that fact. The sane physician of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under the most exacting laboratory conditions.
These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good direct treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.
During, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer ringing ears, aches, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes - feel weak, nervous, all played out.
Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

When You Observe the Fourth of July, You Are Celebrating Freedom to Serve

FREEDOM, regulated by justice, dates back to July 4, 1776—the Birthday of America. This nation was founded on, and consecrated to, the idea of liberty, free-a nation, but to the individual in his daily life.

The Electric Industry, asking only freedom to serve efficiently and economically, contributes much to that priceless gift: more liberty and ever-greater freedom. Through Elec-thousands of tedious, nerve-racking, exhausting tasks both in the home and in other industries.

Solving a Difficult Slipcover Problem

By RUTH WYETH SPARS
 "DEAR MRS. SPEARS: Your books have shown me how to do so many things that I am turning to you for help. I want to make slipcovers for the living-room furniture because the three young ones the upholstery is soon going to be ruined. The job completely baffles me. I am enclosing a rough sketch of one of the chairs. Can you suggest any way that a removable cover can be made for it? B. A."

Use bindings or facings to finish edges where seat and back covers are cut around arms and supports. Where there are so many openings of different lengths, snap fasteners are generally more satisfactory than zippers. If snap fastener tape is obtainable it saves time to whip it to the long ends. The narrow frill for this chair covers a curved line across the front and carving at the top of the front legs.

You can make slipcovers, all types of curtains and many other things for your home with the help of Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator. Just follow the pictures, and you learn to make the lovely things you have been waiting for your home. Book 2 is for those who enjoy fancy work on useful articles for the home; and useful novelties, to be made in spare time. Books are 25 cents each; don't forget to ask for the free leaflet on patchwork quilts, when you order both books; the leaflet is FREE with the books. Address: Mrs. Spears, 282 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Syrup to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative because its Syrup Pepsin helps you get that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Test the power of Pepsin to dissolve the clumps of undigested protein food which linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how Pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve such distress. At the same time the medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste the pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today! (Adv.)

Emphasis Is on Dainty Sheers For 1939 Graduation Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN THE story of fabrics for the gowns spring-summer graduates will wear, the word "sheer" is most important. Whether the material be one of the new exquisite cottons or whether it be a silk weave, the favor for sheers remains the same. The flare for crisp thin cottons of exquisite weave and texture foretells a banner year for the lovely swiss organdies that are shown in versatile types and which make up into ideal graduation frocks. Among the choicest versions in organdy are the delicate shadow prints that come in beguiling tones and tints. Then there are the beautiful cloque organdies which are in such subtle patternings they breathe the breath and freshness of spring and of youth. A wide call for dotted swisses is also recording in the realm of exquisite cotton sheers. Dotted nets are also good this year, some of the most attractive graduate dresses brought out this season being made of point d'esprit net.

In the realm of silk weaves the call for fine sheers is as insistent as it is among cottons. This year's silk sheers highlight especially the daintiest of silk organdies, nets also and as for silk marquisette it is a first choice. Along with the thought of crisp and lovely sheers for the graduate's gown comes up the question of color versus white. There need never be a doubt as to white always holding its own for both graduates and brides. However, for several seasons there has been a disposition of brides-to-be to break away from tradition and choose a delicate tone or tint for the wedding dress. As is the tendency toward color with brides so is it with prospective graduates this season, who are selecting in many instances delectable pastel tones in place of white for their graduation wardrobe. For a dress that will prove an inspiration and a joy on her graduation day and the whole summer through, the little graduate-to-be seated in the picture chooses daintiest of mousseline de soie in a delectable shade of pale pink. The simplicity of its styling adds infinitely to its "young" charm. It is made ankle length, with the new square neckline. Of course there should be frills, for everything is frilled and frilled this year. The frilling for this pretty frock extends across the neckline giving the effect of a yoke.

In the charming gown worn by the girl graduate standing, the claim of high-style prestige for cottons is verified. Here we see a most lovely youthful frock which after graduation will become her favorite gown for summer party wear. It is interesting to know that the exquisite organdy that fashions it is in an entrancing cool-looking pale green, with a formal wallpaper floral motif in delicate shadowprint. Note the brief pique mess jacket which speaks an added triumph for cottons worn in a formal way. The importance of pique in the evening mode is recognized by leading designers. Some of the smartest party dresses are made of pique with full skirts that are topped with cunning basque bodices that have low-cut square décolletage and sprightly short puffed sleeves. Speaking of the dress pictured the addition of the jacket makes this a very practical costume. For greater formality, the bodice underneath tines in with a flattering deep-cut décolletage.

Youthful Fixings Give Pretty Touch

Pile on all the devastatingly pretty furbelows you crave to wear, indulge in all the utterly frivolous and adorable style idiosyncrasies that you can find in the store displays, for the decree has gone forth from fashion headquarters that the fair sex must be deliberately pretty and young looking this season. The "teens" will fill this big order wearing "little girl" dresses that have short swing skirts that audaciously flaunt glimpses of petticoat frills. They will wear demure bonnets tied under the chin or wide-brimmed breton sailors that abruptly dash upward in conspicuous off-the-face manner.

Those older in years, but not in spirit, will drink of fashion's fountain of youth, satisfying their thirst with billowy masses of gay-colored veils that do away, as if by magic, with telltale signs of approaching age. They will wear flowers on their hats and their costumes. Skirts will be pleated to slenderize at the hip-line, yet give ample swing movement to the hemline. Silk prints will fatter and fatter. Gloves will add color to the picture. Yes, indeed, it is a "young" season throughout every phase of fashion planned for spring and summer, whether we be "sweet sixteen" or at the "life begins at forty" period.

Elegant Old-Time Fabrics Are Back

There is a notable use of bengaline being made by designers, who are creating many of their smartest suits and coats of this handsome silk such as was the proud boast of ladies of fashion in the long ago. Along with this revival of handsome bengaline comes the return to favor of crisp rustling taffeta, also heavy quality-kind faille silks.

Adds Style Touch

To browse about in neckwear sections this season gives one a sort of Alice-in-Wonderland feeling, for there's a thrill of new and fascinating discovery at every turn of the eye. The interesting thing about modern neckwear departments is that they include so much more than just neck "fixings" and furbelows. One of the charming, likewise smart and practical items to be found in current neckwear showings is the striped "backet" as pictured. It may be worn as a plastron as you here see or simply by reversing (the back to the front) and you have a topper with an ascot, perfect over a plain wool dress or ideal to wear under your jacket with the new suit.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

With Approach of Warm Weather, C. Houston Goudiss Advises Extra Care in Storing Foods in the Home

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

IT IS the proud distinction of America's food industries that notwithstanding the infinite variety of perishable foods which are constantly available, and regardless of the distances they have been transported, even the most delicate foods are delivered to the consumer in a fresh, wholesome condition, with all their fine flavor unimpaired.

The secret of this modern miracle is refrigeration. Vast sums of money have been invested in long trains of refrigerated cars, thousands upon thousands of refrigerated trucks, refrigerated warehouses and refrigeration equipment in stores. All this has been done for a single purpose: to keep food fresh and at its best until it reaches the home.

At this point the responsibility shifts to the homemaker. And if she falls down on her job, then all previous efforts to keep food free from spoilage have been in vain.

Homemaker's Responsibility

As guardian of her family's health, one of the homemaker's most important tasks is to see to it that all food is safeguarded against contamination until it reaches her table. This means that perishable foods must continue to be refrigerated properly in the home. For only in this way can they be protected from the ravages of micro-organisms which are always ready to attack foods when conditions are favorable for their growth.

Two essentials are necessary for satisfactory food preservation in the home. First, perishable foods must be stored at a temperature of from 40 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit—never at a temperature higher than 50 degrees. Second, the right degree of humidity must be maintained. Too much moisture will encourage the growth of bacteria; too little will dehydrate fruits and vegetables and make them unfit for consumption.

Home Care of Foods

Both requirements are met by a good household refrigerator; and the homemaker who appreciates the importance of keeping foods sound and wholesome will regard an efficient refrigerator as an investment in good health. It is especially necessary that the food supply be properly refrigerated during the warmer weather of spring and summer, in order to prevent the consumption of dishes that may have become contaminated without any marked alteration in appearance, taste or odor.

Highly Perishable Foods

Milk is often regarded as the most perishable of all foods, because it is an ideal medium for the growth of bacteria. It is, therefore, essential that this splendid food be kept at low temperatures at all times. It should be put into the refrigerator as soon as possible after it is delivered, and kept there until the moment it is to be used. Milk should never be allowed to stand at room temperature for any length of time. For it has been demonstrated that when it is held at 40 degrees—an ideal temperature—before delivery, then allowed to stand at a room temperature of 75 degrees for an hour and a half, and again refrigerated, a rapid increase in bacteria occurs.

Other types of protein foods also present a favorable medium for bacterial growth when they are held at temperatures higher than 50 degrees. These include meat, fish, meat broths, gelatin, custards and creamed foods. It is advisa-boiling. They are retarded by the dry circulating air of an efficient refrigerator. It is to allow for air circulation that berries should be stored uncovered—if possible, spread out so that the air can reach more than just the top layer.

Frequent inspection of all food supplies, including those in the bread box, and the prompt elimination of any items showing signs of mold, will help to keep it from spreading.

Constant vigilance on the part of the homemaker in caring for foods on hand will avoid a needless drain on the food budget and will safeguard the health of every member of the family.

Questions Answered

Mrs. L. E. S.—It is a fallacy to believe that spinach is in a class by itself as a source of iron. It's a splendid vegetable, but as a source of iron, it is practically equalled by kale, and exceeded by a number of other greens including beet tops, dandelion greens, chard, parsley, watercress and turnip tops.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. You won't have to endure constipation, you can avoid it. Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

"Is Rab—dead?" Lissa asked pleadingly.
 "Rab?" Miss Moss echoed. "You mean Asa?"
 Lissa straightened, quick hope in her eyes. "No, no," she protested. "Rab is mine! Is he all right?"
 Miss Moss tried to collect her wits. "Rab is hurt, but he will get well," she said then, and she felt new life flow into this girl. "But Asa is dead."
 "Oh, I'm glad! I'm glad!" Lissa cried; and she demanded to know what had happened. Miss Moss told her swiftly as much as she knew; and having done so, she ventured a question in her turn. So Lissa, clinging close to the older woman, poured out all her story.

"Rab and I were married over a year ago," she confessed. "Father and Mother knew; but we didn't tell anyone else, because Rab's people would disown him."
 "I knew Asa too, and he used to make love to me. So finally, to make him stop, I told him Rab and I were married. But it didn't do any good. He kept after me just the same, and when I threatened to tell Rab, he said if I did, he'd tell old Mrs. Bowden we were married. So I didn't tell Rab; but last night Asa kissed me, and Rab saw him, and was furious with me, so I had to tell him. Then he was wild at Asa."

She broke off, for they were come suddenly to the top of Kenesaw Hill, to the Taine house. Inspector Tope hurried across the lawn.

Miss Moss saw how tired he was, and held him hard for a moment. "There," she whispered, "dear man!" And she asked: "Where is Clint?"

"He pointed to the Bowden house a little way off, where there was a lighted window on the second floor. "They're asleep up there. Miss Leaford is in bed with a blanket over her; Clint in a chair beside her, holding her hand."

There was a deep exhilaration in her; then turning to Tope she said: "So it was Asa? You know, I picked Rab, all the time."

Tope shook his head. "He was in Providence last night, when the fire started," he reminded her.

"I thought he might have gone down there and registered, and then come back to set the fire, raced back to Providence again. There was time."

"No, he'd put his car up for the night," Tope insisted. "He was there, all right." He added awkwardly: "I didn't tell you, but he had a girl with him. They registered as man and wife."

She remembered, suddenly, Lissa Thayer, and turned back to the car.

Lissa and her father were no longer there; so Tope and Miss Moss went toward the house. They met Doctor Cabler with Mrs. Taine in the hall. Doctor Cabler explained: "I'm sending Mrs. Taine to bed. She must rest."

Mrs. Taine protested wearily: "Rab needs me."

"He's all right," the Doctor assured her. "His wife is with him."

And he and Mrs. Taine went on upstairs.

"His wife?" Tope echoed incredulously.
 "Of course—Lissa. She was the one with him in Providence," she whispered.

Tope and Miss Moss withdrew unnoticed. They went out on the front porch together, and Tope sat down. He shook his head helplessly. "Well, that's one on me," he confessed. "I guess I'm getting old. I was sure she was married to Asa."

"So was I," she admitted, eager to comfort him now. "Till she told me the truth, on the way up here. . . . Now tell me about tonight."

And she listened while he recited the tale. "I blame myself," he declared at last, "for holding off, waiting to be sure." And he said in a somber tone: "Asa was mad, drunk with killing. He had a ladder ready over there. He must have meant to come back tonight, climb to June's room, kill her and old Mr. Hurder too." And he explained: "Mrs. Taine gave June milk tonight. I think Asa had drugged that; but I spilled it, like a clumsy fool."

"Cabler says Rab can talk now," Heale told them a little later. Rab had a twisted frown between his eyes. Lissa bent over him, and Miss Moss saw his fingers tighten on her hand.

"Where's Mother? I don't want her to hear."
 "Asleep," Doctor Cabler assured him.

The hurt man nodded. "Where's Asa?" he asked then. No one answered him, but he seemed not to notice this neglect. "It was about Lissa," he repeated. "You see, she and I were married. We kept it secret, because Asa and June and I weren't supposed to get married without permission. It was in Grandpa Bowden's will, and Grandpa Hurder's too—that if any of us married without Grandma Bowden's consent, we were outcasts, disinherited."

And he said: "But Asa was—making love to Lissa whenever he caught her alone. I didn't know it, till I saw him kiss her, last night. She'd been in Providence with me. We used to go away together whenever I had business out of town."
 He looked up at the girl beside him with a deep fondness. "I saw him kiss her," he explained. "And she slipped away, and I found her crying, in the woods behind the barn. He'd hurt her, his hands on her arms. So she told me how he'd persecuted her for months, and I came back to—do something to him."

His eyes met Inspector Heale's. "And then you told me someone had killed Aunt Kitty, and set that fire, and I forgot about Asa for a moment. . . . He proved tonight that he was insanely ready to kill, that he had murdered in him. He tried to kill Rab, and he'd made his plans to kill June and Mr. Hurder too. Asa convicted himself tonight." He added sternly: "And—executed himself too. Saved you the trouble, Heale."

Heale stood silent awhile; the day brightened, and the sun began to burn away the clouds. The man said at last: "You know, I kind of hate this. I'm sorry for these folks up here. Four of them dead, in less than a month. They've had about enough, it looks to me."

Tope smiled faintly. "Yes," he agreed; and he said gravely: "Outside of a few people who won't talk, this thing tonight might pass as an accident, Inspector. Cars have smashed into trees before."

As Heale considered this, Tope added: "You've never charged Mr. Leaford, have you? Nothing in the newspapers?"

"No, just held him," Heale replied. "He was willing to stand for that, wait till something happened."

Tope nodded; and then he looked toward the road and chuckled. A car had stopped in front of the house; young Doctor Derrie swung to the ground and came briskly toward them across the lawn.

The Medical Examiner greeted them cheerfully.
 "What's wrong, Heale?" he asked.
 "More trouble up here?"
 Heale hesitated. "Why, they had a smash-up—car piled into a tree," he explained. "Asa Taine's dead, and Rab got a crack in the head."

Derrie nodded. "Bad," he said gravely. Then he looked at Tope and grinned. "I suppose you're trying to make a murder out of this too," he suggested in amused derision.

But Tope shook his head. "Why, no, Doc," he said mildly. No, it was an accident, I guess. Matter of fact," he added, "I've come around to your way of thinking on Mrs. Leaford too. Guess you were right. Guess it was an accident, just the way you said."

The young doctor chuckled. "Sure," he agreed triumphantly. "I told you so. You've been seeing goblins in the dark, old man." He said: "Well, I'll go in and take a look at them."

He turned into the house, and Inspector Heale looked at Tope.
 "What do you aim to do now?" Heale asked; and Tope hesitated, but Miss Moss said cheerfully:

"Why, I think we'll wake Clint and June, and go down and get her father out of your jail, and go home."

Heale chuckled. "I'll telephone down, fix that for you about Mr. Leaford," he agreed. He went into the house to do so.

Tope stood still, suddenly tired. But Miss Moss hugged tight to his arm, and she smiled proudly up at him, and her eyes were shining.

"You know, my dear," she said, "you're a grand man!"

He grinned uncomfortably, wiped his mouth with his hand; and she rose on tiptoe to kiss him. Then they went together across the lawn to rouse Clint and June.

to the kitchen for a glass of water. "And he had a chance to dope the milk the Hurders drank, too. He came for a cup of tea, in the kitchen, that night—got himself some milk out of the bottle, could have drugged the milk then."

"I don't know whether he did that or not. It doesn't matter. But I know he started the fire. He was alone on the ground floor of the Bowden house, his mother and Mrs. Bowden upstairs. He slipped out and came over here. There's an electric light above the Taines' back door. You'll find the bulb is broken and the edge of the socket is fused. Asa made a short-circuit there, and then he raced back and got into the Bowden dining-room again before Mrs. Taine came downstairs."

"And he proved tonight that he was insanely ready to kill, that he had murdered in him. He tried to kill Rab, and he'd made his plans to kill June and Mr. Hurder too. Asa convicted himself tonight." He added sternly: "And—executed himself too. Saved you the trouble, Heale."

FARM TOPICS

SUGGESTS SEEDING TOMATOES IN FIELD

Lower Cost With Offset Smaller Yields.

By W. A. HUEBNER

Seeding tomatoes directly in the field thus eliminating the expense of transplanting has considerable commercial promise, according to the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana.

Experiments conducted by the agricultural college last year comparing direct seeding with transplanting in the usual way showed only a slight increase in yields in favor of the transplanted tomatoes. However, this advantage is more than compensated by the lower cost of direct seeding.

Interplanting tomatoes with field corn is another new and novel method of growing tomatoes, a method that protects the tomato fruits from sun scald. In experiments conducted at Urbana by the college of agriculture, tomatoes planted the usual way in 1939 produced a total of 7.6 tons an acre. The interplanted tomatoes produced 4.7 tons of tomatoes and 53 bushels of shelled corn an acre. The acre income was $87.60 for the tomatoes planted in the usual way and $81.50 for the interplanted acre, valuing corn at 45 cents a bushel.

Additional tests indicate the importance of early planting. Tomatoes planted on May 12 produced 10 tons an acre, but when planting was delayed until June 5, the yields dropped to four and one-half tons an acre. Still later plantings reduced the yields further.

Good Roughage Is Aid In Developing Rations

Roughage of good quality helps to build good rations for all kinds of stock. Pasture and good legume hay are roughages providing practical and economical sources of vitamins and protein to improve grain rations.

A study made recently by the United States department of agriculture showed that pastures averaged nearly one-third of the nutrients consumed by milk cows during the year, whereas the cost of the pasture was only one-seventh of the total feed cost.

Legumes make the most nourishing pasture and also the most nutritious hay. Most farmers had a generous supply of legume hay for winter feeding and livestock is reported to have thrived unusually well. On many farms the brood sows have had the alfalfa hay which they need to put pep in their calves. Calves have been wintered cheaply and with good gains largely because good legume hay was a big part of the feed. Pleasant pasture favors continued success with the stock.

Watch Sleeping Sickness Among Horses, Is Advice

The division of animal pathology and hygiene at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, Urbana, offers this advice for protecting horses and mules from sleeping sickness:

In infested areas, keep the animals in screened stables.
 Use burlap or muslin fly covers on animals at work and spray them with an insect repellent.

Keep stables clean.
 Vaccinate animals early, so they will develop a strong immunity.

Staff members of the division said only about one of every four animals in an exposed area develops the disease and about eighty per cent of infested horses can be saved with prompt treatment.

The disease is seasonal, appearing in July or August and continuing until the first killing frost. It is believed to be carried by mosquitoes, although biting flies also are suspected of transmitting it.

Farm Facts

Turkeys, to make the most economical gains, must have a constant supply of clean, fresh water.

American agriculture is now said to use more machinery than any other industry in this country.

Feeding experiments indicate that beef heifers fatten faster than steers in a feeding period of less than 150 days.

Sales of wheat and flour for export totaled approximately 91,000,000 bushels from Jan. 1, 1938, to March 18, 1939, of which about 77,000,000 bushels have been exported.

Strains of tomatoes that do well in greenhouses will usually do well outside if trained on a trellis, according to Professor George B. Snyder, head of the Massachusetts State college vegetable gardening department.

There are over 20,000 milk goats in the United States, about 4 per cent of the number of cows. Goats find their use as the "poor man's cow" and also as a source of easily digested milk for infant feeding.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how Pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!
