INTERNATIONAL:

Holy Week Europe was filled with shenani-gans on St. Patrick's day. As Holy Week got underway the dictators sheathed their swords and tried to look righteous. The imaginary axis running from Berlin southward through the Brenner pass to Rome became a well-trodden highway as bigwigs of Naziism and Fascism hastened hither and yon. There was mystery in the air, and it made the allies shiver.

The last Finnish bullet had hardly thudded into a Russian breast when Moscow, Berlin and Rome began concentrating their diplomacy in the Balkans, lately an allied stronghold. To Germany fell the task of mediating between two friends who are themselves enemies, for both Italy and Russia have interests in the Balkans. Probable outcome would be a three-cornered deal with Hungary and Rumania in the mid-Both Russia and Hungary would agree to conclude non-aggression pacts with Rumania, then the Soviet would come to terms with Italy. Their peace (if not their independence) guaranteed, the Balkans would thus keep producing oil and foodstuffs for Germany. The allies would be frozen out.

This conclusion made sense in the light of at least three important de-

Iron Guardists

At Bucharest, Rumania's King Carol anddenly received a pledge of loyalty from 250 leaders of the suppressed Nazi Iron Guard, many of whose members had either been imprisoned or had fled to Germany. Only possible explanation for such an about-face was that Carol had begun co-operating with the Reich.

At Brennero Benito Mussolini sped to a rendezvous at Brennero, a tiny town on the Italo-German frontier. While the world waited expectantly, high Nazis in Berlin nodded knowingly and dropped strong hints that Italy was about to reaffirm emphatically her allegiance to the Rome-Berlin axis. Observers expected some announcement of German-Italo-Russian collaboration in the Balkans and elsewhere. and elsewhere.

For Mr. Welles

Better informed on this skullduggery than any allied or neutral chancellor was Sumner Welles, U. S. undersecretary of state whom President Roosevelt sent to Europe in search of a meeting ground for peace. Far from gullible, Mr. Welles was nevertheless being played by the dictators for all he was worth. Observers recalled that he had no sooner ended his first visits to Rome and Berlin than Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop scurried down to Italy, scurried back to Berlin, then scurried to Brennero with Adolf Hitler just as Mr. Welles was ending his visits in Paris and London. This indicated that the dictators were hastening to patch up a peace plan which Mr. Welles could file in his brief case. Since the allies had refused to talk peace, a gesture from the dictators might woo the U.S.

But if Mr. Welles got any such plan after Brennero, observers were pretty sure it featured a definitely victorious peace for the dictators. Probable alternative: A Moscow-Rome-Berlin triangle.

HOUSING: Farm Project

United States Housing authority now has a loan power of $800,000,-000, of which $626,636 has been advanced for USHA's major activities, slum clearance and urban low rent housing projects. Now before congress is the Wagner-Steagall bill (passed by the senate) which would double USHA's loan power and include $200,000,000 for one phase of housing thus far ignored by the U. S., namely, the farm.

Whether or not the WagnerSteagall bill passes, Franklin Roosevelt decided recently to get his rural housing program started. USHA was authorized to lend $2,522,000 for financing 1,300 new farm houses in six states. (Location of projects shown on map). The plan:

Owner-operators, tenants, sharecroppers and farm hands will be eligible, leasing new homes through a county housing authority. (The Wagner-Steagall act would let them buy the homes, paying like rent.) Average cost: $1,682, including wiring, kitchen sink, outside sealed well and sanitary privy. Average size: Living room, dining space, kitcheh and from three to five bedrooms.

BUSINESS: Tax Time Indices

In mid-March John Q. Public Without warning Adolf Hitler and | could procrastinate no longer. To meet the first quarter U.S. income tax deadline he filed some 8,000,000 individual and corporation returns, mostly at the last minute.

Though treasury officials could only guess, they figured March collections from this source would be $605,000,000 compared with $505,000,-000 last year. Watched even closer, however, were results from three changes in the law:

(1) State and local government employees are paying this year for the first time. Early estimates placed this "take" at $16,000,000 from 2,600,000 persons; the treasury expects much more. (2) For the first time since 1936 corporations are free of the controversial undistributed profits tax,

(3) Large corporations, formerly assessed 16½ to 19 per cent, depending on amount of profits distributed to stockholders, are paying a flat 13 per cent this year.

Though bigger income taxes looked like business was improving, Cleveland's Col. Leonard P. Ayres picked this time to wonder if the opposite weren't true. Said he, in his monthly business review: There are two reasons for thinking another depression may be on the way. Wang Ching-wei will establish this First: We have never had a decline like the present, following Loyalist Spain, was captured by ond: "Perhaps the soundest reason prison three years, returned to the a good deal further is the fact that U. 'Round 'n 'Round the Payroll Dollar Goes!

The payrolls of this Company and associated Companies contributing to the delivery of Natural Gas to the cities and towns in the territory served amount to more than $4,500,000 a year. Stable and continuing payrolls are the lifeblood of any growing community. We are proud of what we have been able to do in creating permanent jobs for the folks at home.

Maintaining Dependable Natural Gas Service to local distributing companies and to industry is no small job. To take the Gas out of the ground, prepare it for use, and deliver it at proper pressure through the pipe lines keeps several thousand employes regularly at work.

These employes—some of them your friends and fellow citizens—average more than six years of service with our Companies. That means many thousands of years of experience stands back of your Dependable Natural Gas Service.

This Company has long been a substantial employer in your state. You, your neighbor-almost everybody in this great Gulf South region has been benefited by our payrolls.

DEPENDABLE NATURAL GAS SERVICE DOESN'T JUST HAPPEN!

done his work well. Within 24 hours Moscow had invited Finnish Premier Risto Ryti and three aides to visit the Kremlin and talk peace. That Germany's hand was behind all this none doubted, for Naziland would like to have Russia at peace, thereby making Soviet war materials available to the Reich.

Up north, Scandinavia cheered; a Russo-Finnish peace would relieve the terrific pressure Sweden and Norway have felt from France and Britain on the one side, and Russia and Germany on the other. The allies had sent Finland only a smattering of help, leaving friendly Scandinavia exposed should Russia win. But if Scandinavia worked for peace via the dictator nations, an early and safe peace might be

British Gesture

Off to Rome went Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to capitalize on an Italian peeve. Several days earlier Britain had clamped a blockade on Italian coal imports from Germany, hailing 16 of Il Duce's freighters into port. Angered, Rome dispatched threatening notes. Obviously von Ribbentrop hoped to win Italian sympathy against Britain, but the Englishmen acted too fast. Without warning, London suddenly released all 16 Italian freighters and won an Italian promise to ship no more German coal by

DOMESTIC: Farmers' Congress

"It is more than ever important to have a government . . . that can act to protect the interests of our farmers as well as our business men when foreign trade conditions are upset.

Thus did Franklin Roosevelt address 500,000 farmers in 24 states assembled at 50 and 75-cent dinners to celebrate AAA's seventh anniversary. For the President and the farmer, things were looking up. A few hours before Mr. Roosevelt spoke, the senate finance committee approved a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade program, already okayed by the house. Chairman Pat Harrison of that committee was pretty sure the measure would pass.

Meanwhile another senate committee was even out-doing the President to help farmers. An appropriations sub-committee upped the house-approved $749,561,000 agricultural appropriations bill to $958,000,-000 (the President had recommended only $788,929,519). Chief boost was a $212,000,000 fund for parity payments. In addition, the subcommittee directed that RFC should lend $100,000,000 additional to farm agencies (thus avoiding new appropriations) and that $60,000,000 of benefit payments be shifted to this year's funds from next year. This brought the total to more than a billion dollars.

Gloom fell over the house, which had previously clipped some $300,-000,000 from budget estimates on 10 different appropriations in the hope of saving enough to prevent new taxes or a boost in the national debt. When the senate appropriations committee okayed its subcommittee's action, and when senate leaders expressed certainty that the big farm bill would pass, the gloom became thicker. One salvation might be to make big cuts in relief and defense appropriations. Another, which President Roosevelt reportedly discussed with congressional leaders, was a revival of the new tax program.

Also in congress: Hatch Bill. Not sidetracked for the farm bill, as everyone expected, amendments to the Hatch "clean politics" act were pushed through the senate. Aim: Curb political ac-amendments to the Wagner act, as proposed by a special house committee, would practically repeal the law." It was a good bet that the house would kill all the amendments.

Welles Junket

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles continued marching through the chancellories of Europe in an attempt to dig out "the present phase of the European situation." Neither he nor anyone else could really dig it out, because the European situation was more perplexing than anything the world has seen in 20 years (see EUROPE).

Arriving in Paris after visits at Rome and Berlin, Mr. Welles lunched and dined with President Albert Lebrun, Premier Edouard Daladier and many a lesser states-man, receiving his baptism of fire when anti-aircraft batteries sounded off against a Nazi reconnaissance plane. He heard the same old terms: (1) No peace so long as Hitlerism reigns in Germany; (2) liberation of Poland and Czechoslovakia; (3) "guarantees for the security of peoples and the integrity of all nations." Next stop was London, where he was closeted with Foreign Minister Viscount Halifax. Expecting to discover nothing there, Mr. Welles nevertheless had important business: (1) to caution British leaders that war measures such as inter-ADOLF HITLER, speaking at Ger- ference with U. S. mails and shipmany's "memorial day," pledged ping were having an adverse effect on U. S. sympathy for the allies; JOHN D. M. HAMILTON, national (2) to buy six suits of clothes from G. O. LAGE SCREEN RADIO By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ON WILSON, the plump and genial radio announcer, has turned actor with a vengeance. He led up to it gently by using his veice, but not his poundage (he lips the scales at 300) in "Bu k Benny Rides Again." Again."

You'll see him in person in "The Round-Up," in the role of "Slim," made famous by the late Macklyn Arbuckle. And who knows, he may like acting so well that he'll never want to return to announcing.

The chief difficulty so far has been finding a horse that would hold him, but he's promised to take care of that by producing one that he rides frequentlyseems that, though hefty, he's an expert horseman.

Right off the griddle is the report that Professor Quiz is all set to sign a deal with one of the major movie companies for a series of shorts centering around the Professor's radio specialty of questions and answers. Perhaps he's been inspired to do it by the success of those "Information Please" shorts.

Janice Logan looked so attractive in the brief costume that she wore when working in "Dr. Cyclops," the forthcoming Paramount technicolor picture, that the Art Students league voted her "The Best Undressed Woman of the Year." (That's the

According to Joan Bennett, one of the greatest predicaments welldressed women fear is putting on a new outfit and then finding someone else wearing one just like it. That's what happened to her not long ago when she appeared to take part in a Bing Crosby broadcast. She was wearing a nifty new hat. She glanced around, and saw one exactly like it on the head of Sabu, the young Indian movie actor-he'd just put on his native turban.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels, and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderfulstomachcomfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative, Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative - Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

(Consolidated Features-WNU Service.) NEW YORK.—This war, so far, has lacked bands and banners and all other such traditional excitements and John Masefield has not even writ-Official Artist ten a poem about it. In Of Present War

Has Experience however, British traditionalism again prevails. Sir Muirhead Bone, official artist of the World war, is again officially appointed as the artist of the navy, and it is understood that he also will render the graphic records of the conflict on land as well.

Sir Muirhead, 64 years old, of Scottish birth, is one of the world's most distinguished etchers. He is also a painter, but in the years between the big wars he has turned more to etching. That is, with the trend of the times, as a modern war is decidedly an etcher's war. Skeleton trees on a blasted hillside, zig-zag trenches, the splintered chaos of peasants' huts, the angular dynamics of war machinery, all lend themselves to Sir Muirhead's superlative drypoint. There isn't much of the painter's mass and color in an up-to-date war-no gay plumes, bright uniforms and snorting black horses. There are instead the sullen monochromes of desolation, the inert black and white of sharply graven ruin.

There were plenty of bands playing when Sir Muirhead was appointed official war artist in 1916. He painted boldly or etched deeply his pictures for the war museum, for which he later became trustee. Much was made, not only of the importance of a minutely observed pictorial record of the war, but of the availability of so great an artist to render its full aesthetic values. This time, there is a perfunctory announcement, only a few lines, of Sir Muirhead's appointment. Not even in the graphic arts is war getting its accustomed fanfare.

This writer remembers well Sir Muirhead's masterful drawings in the "international studio" of an earlier and happier day-mellow architectural studies, or placid landscape in English byways where no airraid siren ever sounded. He was the son of a Glasgow journalist, studying art at a night school. It was in 1901 that he went to England, to become an honorary doctor of letters at Oxford and one of the most famous artists of England. He has exhibited in New York several times and has an enthusiastic following among critics and the American art public.

IN 1937, Rep. John E. Miller of Arkansas made his campaign for the United States senatorship against the "New Deal patronage Arkansas Senator machine."
His backers Is Ardent Foe of charged that Revised Hatch Act his opponent,

Gov. Carl E. Bailey, had the active support of his "organization of 5,000 state em-ployees," and of various members of the New Deal cabinet. Representative Miller, running as an in-dependent against "machine politicians," achieved a sensational victory, as he won the seat of the late Joe T. Robinson. He was the first independent elected to a major political office in Arkansas since the early reconstruction days. His success was acclaimed as a triumph over patronage politics.

Today, by one of those curious reversals of political form which make news, Senator Miller is the most conspicuous opponent of the extension and strengthening of the Hatch law, directed against political job-holders mixing in politics. He would not only block its extension to cover state job-holders supported in part by federal funds, but he would repeal section nine which bars governmental employees from political activity.

The lean, bespectacled Senator Miller is somewhat professorial in appearance, and, incidentally, was graduated from Cape Girardeau Teachers' college, in Valparaiso, Ind. However, he later turned to the law and has been a practicing attorney in Searcy, Ark., since 1912. He was prosecuting attorney and county judge before his election to: the house in 1930. He is a native of Stoddard County, Mo.

The All-American College Queen, chosen from 462 colleges from the Atlantic to the Pacific, will be picked by Paramount in a national contest inaugurated in connection with the world premiere of "Those Were the Days," to be held in Galesburg, Ill., on May 21. College girls who have beauty and dramatic talent will be selected by the individual colleges; photographs of all entrants will be sent to New York, and from the 48 chosen for the semifinals, (one for each state) 12 will be picked to go to Galesburg. The winner will go to Hollywood.

When you see "Diamonds Are Dangerous," (with Isa Miranda and George Brent in the leading roles), it's probable that you'll try to remember where you've seen one of the girls who plays a minor role. The girl plays the part of a young lady who is having an extremely good time in a night club. She is very pretty, with blonde hair and blue eyes and a lovely smile. Now that Dinah Shore has become the songstress star of the Ben Bernie program via Columbia, the boys at NBC who handled her publicity must be thinking that radio is a queer business. For a year now these lads have been giving Dinah a terrific buildup. They must have spent thousands of dollars on special photographs, stunts, and writers' time to publicize her name and talent. And what is the fruit of their efforts? Her first commercial program lands her on a rival network!

Benay Venuta, the vivacious singing star of the George Jessel program, has been telling friends this story. It occurred during rehearsal of the program on which John Barrymore was guest star. A photographer hovered about, anxious to get some shots of the actor, but fearful that he might object, as he was considerably annoyed with cameramen in general at that time.

Finally the photographer got up enough courage to approach the Great Lover. "Would you mind posing for pictures, Mr. Barrymore?" he asked. "Mind?" cried Barrymore. Then, leaning over, he whispered loudly, "Would you mind kissing Madeleine Carroll?"
