A. O. England

A. O. England, 54, chief engineer at the senior high school at Greenville, Texas, died Sunday morning as the result of a gas explosion in the boiler room at the school early Saturday. Fire department and gas company officials, who conducted an investigation, said the explosion was probably caused by a leaky valve which allowed gas to escape into the fire box of the boiler. Mr. England was attempting to light the boiler at the time of the blast.

Funeral services were held at the Central Christian Church there Monday at 4 p. m.

Surviving are the widow; a daughter, Mrs. Emma Gunn of Spearman; and two sons, Leon of Fort Worth and L. G. of Longview.

City Election

In the city election Tuesday, J. E. Johnson was reelected mayor for the coming year. The five aldermen elected included Earl Tollett, O. S. Barnett, Leon Reeves, Ross Adamson and Tom McDougal.

Stewart Withdraws from Race for County Supt.

Hedley Informer
 Hedley, Texas
 Dear Sir:

I have decided not to make the race for County Superintendent, and I am taking this means of informing the public of my intentions. I am not withdrawing because of any other candidate, or at the suggestion of anyone, but because I have a good job and don't want to give it up.

I want to thank all voters that would have supported me, and if I can ever help any of you in any way I will be glad to do so.

Sincerely,
 Ralph Stewart

Morris Sheppard Writes

Following is a letter recently written by Senator Morris Sheppard to Wm. M. Thornton, Dallas News staff correspondent at Austin:

"I note your statement in the Dallas News of February 8 to the effect that it is felt by some that Morris Sheppard might be willing to step down in 1942, after having reached the age of 67 years and having seen 80 years service in the Senate. In order to dispel this illusion let me say that I shall be a candidate for re-election in 1942. I have an ambition while continuing to serve the people with the best energies I possess to break the all American record for length of service in Congress. Another election will enable me to do this. There are still five men, none living, who have served in Congress consecutively longer than I have but after another term my record will exceed the record of each of these.

"With cordial good wishes, I am,

Truly your friend,
 Morris Sheppard

CONGRESS:
Morgenthau's Misery

Clad in an expensive new Easter suit, the 1940-41 farm appropriation bill was sent back to the house. Only a few weeks earlier, dressed in threadbare tatters, the house had sent it to a big-hearted senate. At that time it stood at $714,000,000, well under Franklin Roosevelt's "bed rock" figure. Now it was $923,000,000, including $200,000,000 for parity payments, and there was an additional $90,000,000 for agricultural loans.

Blown to kingdom come was the self-righteous economy program which featured congress' earlier weeks. The house was certain to okay most of the enlarged farm bill, nor was there much chance that defense and relief appropriations would be slashed substantially. Like pink elephants in a nightmare,

TREASURER MORGENTHAU

"... the time may come ..."
the ogre of too much spending appeared simultaneously before congress and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau. Anxious to spend, but not anxious to raise the debt limit or levy new taxes in an election year, many a legislator turned covetous eyes on the treasury's surpluses.

One possibility was the $2,000,000,000 currency stabilization fund. Hearing about this, Treasurer Morgenthau protested: "... the time may come when we will get down on our knees and give thanks that it's still there."

Another possibility was to take the $300,000,000 farm bill increase out of the treasury's working balance. Treasurer Morgenthau shuddered at this, pointing out that the working balance by next June will be only $500,000,000.

Frankly worried, Treasurer Morgenthau protested again when congressmen hinted that the 31.2 percent gain in income tax collections might preclude new taxes. Next day, showing that he was disgusted with the nation's fiscal carelessness, he ordered that baby bonds could henceforth be sold only to private individuals. Reason: To hold sales at a minimum, thus keeping the debt from mounting too rapidly.

While Treasurer Morgenthau sweated, the senate, which had wreaked all this havoc, began discussing the reciprocal trade treaty bill and headed for a close vote.

EUROPE:
Haymakers

Late March found neither European belligerent paying much attention to actual warfare. The terrific North sea aerial attacks of a week earlier had settled into an allied blockade of Scandinavian shores, aimed at stopping shipments to Germany in spite of Norwegian and Swedish neutrality protests. Britain and France were busy setting their houses in order. The dictators were busy making hay in the Balkans.

NAMES
in the news ...

At Gibraltar, British authorities stopped the Conte di Savoia bearing Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles home from Europe. Reason: To look for Hjalmar Schacht, Nazi economic expert, thought to be aboard.
At Paris died Dr. Edouard Branly, 96, credited by many with discovering the principles of wireless telegraphy.
From Baltimore to his winter home at Miami Beach sped ex-Gangster Al Capone. A physician said he was "considerably weakened" by the trip.
At Tokyo, Jap authorities convicted James E. Young, U. S. writer, on charge of "spreading false rumors." A six-month sentence was suspended.
At Berlin another son was born to Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, and the former Russian Grand Duchess Kira, daughter of the late Czarist pretender.

NEW YORK.—When young "Red" Phillips played guard on the University of Oklahoma football team, in 1915, he was scaled down to a mere 260 pounds, but in spite of that managed to root through the line like a high-powered snowshovel. Sometimes he wouldn't stop when the whistle blew and they had a hard time to keep him inside the state lines. Today, as Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma, he weighs in at 290 and is even more abandoned in his roottin' tootin' guard play. He orders out the National Guard to repulse the invasion of the federals, trying to build a $20,000,000 dam on the Grand river in his state.

This, one of his many scrimmages, is part of his waxing battle for state rights against what he considers the illegal encroachment of the federal government. He is an apostate New Dealer, having defeated the similarly belligerent "Alfalfa Bill" Murray on the issue of New Deal adherence in the 1938 Democratic primary.

Now he has switched teams. With a big cigar protruding from his lips at a cocky angle, biting it to shreds when he gets steamed up, he says the New Deal is a social service outfit, and social workers are "sorority sisters." Like the "Fiery and Snuffy" of the Oklahoma cowboy song, he's "rarin' to go and he sends word to the war department that he won't let any invader set foot on Oklahoma soil."

He started to be a preacher, but switched to the law. Born 50 years ago in Grant county, Missouri, along the covered wagon trail, he was taken to Oklahoma at the age of two and grew up in the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indian country. He attended Epworth university one year, studying, presumably militant, Christianity, and then entered the law school of the University of Oklahoma. His fame as "Red" Phillips, the bone-crushing, man-eating football player, gave him a fast running start in politics, and he soon landed in the state legislature. He made his campaign for the governorship on an economy platform, sweeping the state. The citizens still know him as "Red," and the "Yea Red!" yell of his college days serves for his political campaigns.

DEFENSE:
Warplane Tempest

Ever since World War II began last fall isolationists have argued that sale of U. S. warplanes abroad is (1) blocking expansion of our own airforce; (2) exposing U. S. military secrets to the highest bidder; (3) boosting aircraft prices because of the rush of foreign orders.

By late March this tempest seemed headed for a showdown. Both house and senate military affairs committees planned hearings on the subject. President Roosevelt injected his two-bits worth by denouncing the military secrets charge. He advocated mass sale of U. S. planes abroad to build up production channels. Next day an allied purchasing commission offered to place a billion-dollar plane order if secret mechanism were included. Shortly thereafter the war department

JUGGERNAUT'S TAIL

Europe and back, nonstop! ment brought down congressional wrath by permitting foreign sale of some 500 new 400 m. p. pursuit ships.

Meanwhile, the army had answers to the two other charges:
(1) It was maintained that sales abroad have helped development of newer and better planes for the U. S.
(2) Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson denied that prices were being boosted. Example: The Aluminum Company of America (which cut its input price from 20 cents to 19 cents a pound) notified him that mass production has resulted in a saving of 5 per cent on aluminum. On one unspecified bomber the price would drop $300.

To army air experts, more exciting than this argument was their purchase of the world's largest airplane (see cut), a 70-ton juggernaut capable of carrying 28 tons of bombs non-stop to Europe and back. Double the size of the famous "flying fortress," it will have a 210-foot wingspread and fly more than 200 m. p. h. The first will cost $1,000,000; subsequent ships, in mass production, will cost about $350,000 each.

JAPAN:
Eyes Abroad

For the nonce Japan's problems in China were settled. Gen. Chiang Kai-shek still had 2,000,000 men in the field but Nippon had made considerable progress. Puppet Wang Ching-wei planned to establish his Tokyo-dominated government at Nanking about the first of April, bigheartedly granting "autonomy" to vast and rich north China which thus came closer within Japan's

WHEN I KNEW DEATH VALLEY

SCOTTY and his dog "Goldbug," around Goldfield, Rhyolite and Windy Gap, there was a story that the dog had made a great fuss over a stranger at Casey's hotel, and a theory that this stranger must have been Scotty's mysterious backer. The visitor, however, was just passing through and was never identified, and Scotty, even in moments of abandon in Tex Rickard's place, continued to insist that he had a "chimney," or "blow-out" of gold nuggets, samples of which he carried in his overalls pocket. It was not until years later that the man who financed the Death Valley Scotty saga, just for his own amusement it would seem, was A. M. Johnson, the head of a big insurance firm in Chicago.

As Scotty and his backer round out 40 years of a beautiful friendship, Scotty informs the federal tax collectors that he has $100,000 in gold certificates buried somewhere in the Panamint mountains, and that the source of his mysterious wealth has unfailingly been Mr. Johnson. From the same source came the $3,000,000 Spanish castle which Scotty built in the heart of Death valley several years ago, according to his previous admissions.

The unique partnership opened with a $2,500 grubstake. He not only wrote a check, but followed Scotty to Death valley. The first mine didn't pan out, but Mr. Johnson was having fun. They fought bandits, got clubby with the Piute Indians and roamed around in old prospect holes. Thereafter came Scotty's famous train ride and the deepening mystery of his treasure cache. They kept their secret until about 1930. The pooch, "Goldbug" and Scotty's extraordinarily intelligent white mule both died of old age. But the original partnership still goes on.

Mr. Johnson, now 68 years old, is cut somewhat on the same lines as Henry Ford, but with an Achilles' Heel of Romance. He was born and grew up in a small town in Ohio, went to Cornell university, did a jolt of railroading in Arkansas and engaged in mining lead and zinc near Joplin, Mo. In Chicago he augmented an inherited fortune in the insurance business. He belongs to a string of good clubs in Chicago, is a sagacious and conservative citizen, and, from all accounts, has bankrolled Scotty just for the fun of it.

Your Lamp Shades

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS
A CHANGE of lamp shades gives any room a lift, and here is a smart, new transformation trick. You start with a plain parchment paper or bristol board shade, preferably white; then you make a full skirt of some exciting fabric to cover it. By sewing snaps inside and also to the top of the shade, it is easy to remove these for laundering or cleaning. Taffeta, lawn, net, organdy, swiss, gingham—all are used and the imagination runs riot in trimmings. Frills or double ruchings at the top and bottom are favorites. Edges are pinked or machine stitched in heavy contrasting thread. Contrasting shirring holds the fullness at the top; and color is added by means of fancy braids, ribbons or bias tape, according to type. Sewing Book 1 and 4, contain directions for making a foundation frame, or you may use a shade that you already have.

NOTE: Each of the four booklets Mrs. Spears has prepared for our readers contains an assortment of 32 pages of curtains; slip covers; rag rugs; toys; gifts and novelties for bazaars. Books are 10 cents each—please order by number—No. 1, 2, 3, and 4—With your order for four books, you will receive a FREE set of three Quilt Block Patterns of Mrs. Spears' Favorite Early American Quilts. Constipation Relief
That Also
Pepsin-izes Stomach
When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is low pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. THE HOOT

Assembly

The weekly assembly Thursday morning, was begun with the singing of a group of songs by the members of the Sixth Grade. The songs were "Voice, Home Sweet Home and Johann Strauss Beautiful Blue Danube Waltz and Oredie Song.

The third in a series of planned book reviews was presented by Mrs. Frank Kendall. Mrs. Kendall reviewed the Book of Esther from the most priceless of all literature, the Bible. Mrs. Kendall is an excellent speaker and Bible teacher. The entire assembly was charmed by her excellent speaking ability and story.

Junior Play

The Juniors of '40 have selected their play and are in the first week of their practice. "Down on Abbie's Farm" is the name of the play and it is a hilarious comedy.

The members of the cast are Loeva Adamson, Geraldine Land, Josie Plunk, Ida Lou Johnson, Mattie Irene Strickland, Peggy Debert, V. A. Hansard, J. B. Long, Billie Mae Biffle, Keith Bain, O. L. McQueen, and Billy C. Johnson.

Mrs. Owen has kindly consented to direct the play and as she is going to be assisted by Mr. Ballard, the play will be as good if not better than the Seniors. The play will come off as scheduled April 26, and everyone is urged to attend.

It's Play Time Again!

Let's play again! If you remember the friends you saw, the neighbors you visited with and the laughs you had last fall when the school sponsored Play Nights That is just what you will have again next Friday night, April 5, at 7:30 in the high school building.

If you like to see who's here, play dominoes, bridge, checkers, horse shoes, shuffle board, basketball, or watch exciting boxing matches, don't miss this opportunity. There will be fun for the little folks too.

All this fun you can have for the small sum of ten cents to all. Then in addition there will be pie and coffee for fifteen cents, that will please a king. If you don't believe the mothers of the senior class can cook any their pies Friday night.

This good time is sponsored by the Senior Class, who wish to raise more funds for their anticipated trip. If you will come you will help an eager class, and in return will give you your money's worth of fun.

New Books

Several new books have been bought for the library. We appreciate the help of the PTA in their willingness to help the library. The students of Hedley High School enjoy their new books and they wish to be possible for them to be read. The new books are "Year of Grace, How to Live up to Your Four a Day, Be a Good Citizen, The Ranch of San Luis, and The Yearling." The Yearling

SAUCE MUST COMPLEMENT THE FOOD

'Sauce for the Goose'

The function of a sauce may be either to accent or to soften a flavor; it may be used to enrich a food, or to moisten it; the sauce may be sweet or savory; it may be hot or cold. Whatever its purpose or classification, the sauce must be smooth in flavor as well as smooth in consistency. It should, in addition, offer contrast in color, flavor, in texture, or in temperature.

Sauces are "sweet" or "savory," depending upon whether they are used for desserts, or are served with meat, vegetables, egg dishes or macaroni.

French cooks, to whom sauces are sacred, use two basic recipes or "mother sauces" from which all their savory sauces are developed; no simple white sauce or sauce merely thickened with browned flour, for them!

To serve its purpose, a sauce must complement the food—rather than disguising it. That means subtle seasoning, and just the right consistency.

Plain white sauce—the standby of so many cooks—should seldom be served "as is." It's a foundation, really, which is quite likely to be flat in flavor, and very much too thick! Judiciously seasoned, it can be used in dozens of different ways. Flavor it with sharp, grated cheese, or add condensed tomato soup to it, for character; use a drop or two of Worcestershire or a half teaspoon of prepared mustard; or—and this is a secret we might well borrow from our French cousins—substitute soup stock for part of the milk, in making the sauce.

Orange Sauce.
¼ cup sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
¼ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon orange rind
1 tablespoon butter

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add boiling water slowly to this dry mixture, stirring constantly. Place in saucepan and cook over low flame until mixture is clear. Remove from fire and add orange juice, lemon juice, orange rind and butter.

Delicious Sauce.
½ cup heavy cream (whipped)
1 egg
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla extract
Beat white and yolk of egg separately. Add sugar to beaten yolk, then add beaten egg white. Last of all add whipped cream and vanilla extract. Serve at once.

Italian Tomato Sauce.
Into a deep frying pan place a No. 2½ can of tomatoes, 1 green pepper chopped fine, 1 large onion chopped fine, ½ lb. ground round steak, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon tabasco sauce, ¼ teaspoon ground allspice, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese and 2 cups water. Cook slowly for approximately 2 hours. Cover cooked spaghetti with sauce and sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

Easy-to-Make Hollandaise Sauce.
Into top of double boiler place the juice of 1 lemon, 4 egg yolks, ½ cup butter and a dash of paprika. Beat constantly over boiling water until thick.

Barbecue Sauce.
1 large onion
1 clove garlic
½ cup catsup
½ cup Worcestershire sauce
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup vinegar
Red pepper, black pepper, salt and mustard—to taste

Cut the onion and garlic into fine pieces. Strain the tomatoes and add one can of water. Add the other ingredients and bring to a boil. Serve over any meat. This is also good for any fowl or game.

Cheese Souffle With Tomato Cream Sauce.
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1¼ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ pound sharp cheese
4 eggs

Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the flour and cook until frothy. Then add the milk and cook together until the sauce has thickened. Measure out ½ cup of cream sauce and set aside to use in the sauce. To the remaining cream sauce in the pan add salt, dry mustard and cheese and heat until the cheese is melted. Add beaten egg yolks. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into mixture. Pour into a casserole (about 8 inches in diameter) and bake 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes in a very moderate (310-degree) oven. Serve at once and put a spoonful of tomato cream sauce over each portion.

Tomato Cream Sauce.
1 can condensed tomato soup
½ cup cream sauce (saved from first part of recipe)
Combine the tomato soup and cream sauce and heat, but do not boil.

Hot Butterscotch Sauce.
2 cups light brown sugar
½ cup coffee cream
¼ cup light corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt

Blend all the above ingredients and place in saucepan. Cook slowly, stirring at frequent intervals, until mixture reaches the soft ball stage (235 degrees). Serve very hot over ice cream.

Are You Planning Your Spring Cleaning?

Before the housecleaning season arrives (and it's just around the corner!) be sure you send for a copy of "Household Hints." You'll find it a handy reference book when you begin to clean and polish and renovate the house. Just send 10 cents in coin to "Household Hints" care of Eleanor Howe, 919 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, and get your copy of this useful book, now.

'Busy-Day Meals.'
Are there busy days in your household, when there's very little time for preparing and serving meals? If there are, you'll be interested in what Eleanor Howe has to tell you about "Busy-Day Meals." Watch for her column next week—and for the menus and tested recipes you'll find in it.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

'Magic' Butter Rolls
Speaking of "busy-day" meals, here's a recipe that will make one and one-half dozen "magic" butter rolls in a hurry. This is what you need:

3 cups general purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
¼ cup evaporated milk
¼ cup water
2 cakes yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup sugar
1 cup nuts (cut fine)

To 1½ cups flour add salt and shortening, combining as for pie crust. Combine milk and hot water. When lukewarm add the yeast and 1 tablespoon sugar, blend well and then stir into the first mixture, beating until very smooth. Cover and let stand 20 minutes. Then add the eggs and beat vigorously. Beat in the vanilla and remaining 1½ cups flour. Stir until smooth. The dough will be stiff but slightly sticky. Tie the dough loosely in a square of cheesecloth and drop it into a pail of cool water (70 to 80 degrees). In about an hour the dough will rise to the top of the water. When it does, remove it from the pail. Knead lightly. Cut into small pieces, roll in sugar and chopped nuts. Twist pieces as desired and let stand for 5 minutes. Bake in hot oven about 20 minutes.

RAY MILLAND would like to keep a controlling hand on the scripts of all pictures in which he appears from now on. Truth came far too close to fiction to suit him a while ago, and he hasn't quite recovered yet.

He'd finished work in "Untamed" and gone to Sun Valley for a week's rest. Mrs. Milland stayed in Hollywood, as they were expecting the arrival of their first child some weeks later. Then he received word that he'd have to race the stork if he wanted to be in Hollywood when it appeared. He started for Boise, Idaho, in a car, also in a blizzard. At Boise he chartered the only plane available, and was grounded at Salt Lake City. He telephoned the hospital, in Hollywood, and learned that he had a son.

In "Untamed" he'd braved a blizzard to reach the bedside of a sick sweetheart. If it's all the same to the scenario writers, he'd rather have less harrowing experiences.

Hollywood's most famous mixed foursome—Paulette Goddard, Ruby Keeler, Bing Crosby and Bob Hope—will probably have difficulty in sticking to picture-making if they all find themselves in the cast of "Follow Through." They played together in a charity match last autumn, and it was then that the idea of teaming them in a picture was suggested. They're all experts, and if they can resist staging a match that the script doesn't call for they'll be doing well.

Announcer Del Sharbutt intended to be a musician, but instead has become widely known as announcer for such programs as "Myrt and Marge," "Ask-It-Basket" and "Lanny Ross." The musician in him has come out at last, though; he's written two songs of Hit Parade proportions within a few weeks—"The Kitten With the Big Green Eyes," and "I'd Love To."

Ginger Rogers, who has millions of fans now, had only one in 1929; he was John L. Cass, who recorded the sound of "Primrose Path," in which she co-stars with Joel McCrea. About 10 years ago RCA made a two-reel called "Campus Sweethearts," in New York, to try out a new wide-film process. Two movie unknowns, Ginger Rogers and Rudy Vallee, were featured.

The director didn't care for the song that Ginger had been rehearsing, but Cass insisted on recording it. "She had everything, including a swell mike voice," he says. "I knew she was star dust—and how!"

Want to see what happens to winners of beauty contests? Claire James, who was runner-up in the Miss America contest last year, is playing a bit in Paramount's "The Ghost Breakers"; she appears in a restaurant scene, wearing a floor-length dinner dress.

Ben Bernie and his lads and lassies, including Dinah Shore and Lew Lehr, are moving. After 60 weeks of Sunday broadcasts they're setting up shop in a Wednesday evening half-hour, beginning April 10. Want to bet that for the first few weeks at least half of the troupe will dash to the studio on Sundays?

Cecil B. DeMille is back in character again. Now that he is directing "The Northwest Mounted Police" and goes straight from the movie studio to the radio one where he does his Radio Theater broadcasts, he shows up in his "shooting" outfit—high boots, riding breeches, and headgear ranging from sombrero to pith helmet.

If you have a harpsichord that you don't want, get in touch with Alec Templeton. Collecting unusual musical instruments is his hobby, and he has no harpsichord and he wants one. There are only 10 of these ancient instruments in the United States, four of them owned by friends of Templeton's in Chicago. They urged him to try one not long ago, he played his favorite satire, "Bach Goes to Town"—and now his life won't be perfect until he is presented with a harpsichord of his own.

THIS charming little frock has such a beguilingly flattering figure-line, and it looks so crisply tailored, that you can appropriately make it up in spun rayon or thin wool for runabout, as well as in gingham or tulle for round-the-house. Its quaint simplicity looks especially attractive in gay prints and high shades, punctuated by buttons and braid. This is a particularly easy dress to make. Try it, if you haven't done much sewing, and have been wistfully wishing you could. You

United Gas Pipe Line Company Advertisises Gulf South

United Gas Pipe Line Company, which launched a national advertising program last year to encourage the location of industries in the territory it serves, last week announced plans for the continuation of this activity.

Industrial development in the Gulf South is of vital interest to every person residing in this area. It is a known fact that new wealth and prosperity for any area follows sound industrial development by the expansion of existing industries and establishment of new industries.

Working toward the development of a greater Gulf South the Company's Industrial Development Program includes advertising in national publications. The plan also covers direct mailings to selected industries and personal contacts with heads of industrial organizations. A parallel activity of the Company's Industrial Development Department is the compiling and use of data and information essential to industry in connection with plant location problems.

Because the Company's operations are conducted in portions of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida, a region largely bordering on the Gulf of Mexico, the campaign has introduced the term "Gulf South" as descriptive of the territory served. Thus the industrial development activity has come to be known as the "Gulf South Program."

United Gas Pipe Line Company has a very definite place in this industrial development in which it has taken the lead in attempting to attract new industries to this area. In addition to its regular advertising in newspapers in the Gulf South, the Company is now advertising in national publications the industrial advantages of the Gulf South. These include an abundant supply of Natural Gas, varied raw materials and basic crops, swiftly growing markets, good transportation, native intelligent labor, good schools, plentiful land and a mild climate the year 'round are being stressed in this campaign.

It is doubtful if any other area in the nation offers more advantages to industries than the Gulf South and United Gas Pipe Line Company has taken the opportunity of serving the people of this area in an unusually constructive manner.
