MAY 1941 BRING---

New Happiness to you and to those you love. May it be a happiness above material things, a joyous strengthening of old ties and associations, and a happy gain in the number of those you count as friends. May it bring you peace and prosperity. May it mean an abundance of comfort, a new freedom from care. May it bring you good health and a new zest for living.

May it give us an opportunity to again be of service to you, and to show you that we appreciate deeply your friendship and loyalty that we name among our great assets.

May 1941 be in every way a Happy New Year, and the dawn of a new and better day.

Parent-Teacher Ass'n.

The December meeting of the parents and teachers was held on Thursday evening at seven o'clock. The body assembled for a short business meeting in Room III before the program in the auditorium.

Mrs. H. H. Hall read the minutes of the November meeting. As there was no unfinished business, Mrs. Hall read the recommendations submitted by the special committee as to how the money raised by the Carnival might be best placed to meet the needs of the school. Those who served on the special committee were Charles Rains, chairman, W. C. Payne, Mesdames H. H. Hall, Ray Moreman, Myrtle Tinsley and Lula B. Owen. After some discussion of these recommendations, the president tabled their report until the January meeting, which will be on the evening of January 9, at seven o'clock. Every member who wishes a voice in how this money is spent should be present.

The sixth grade had the best representation of parents present; consequently they won the dollar, and will keep the flag another month.

After adjournment, the members and visitors went into the auditorium to enjoy a beautiful cantata, "Spreading the Christmas Spirit," presented by the first six grades.

J. P. Alexander III

We are very sorry to learn that J. P. Alexander of McLean, who lived in Hedley many years, has suffered another severe stroke and is very seriously ill at his home there.

Home for Holidays

Among the college students home for the holidays are Carmen Adamson, Ralph Alwine, Theresa Bain, Von Bates, Mary Kaina Bridges, Inell Biffle, Ethna Davis, Doris Merle Everett, Jerry Hunt, Craig Johnson, Janimerie Pickett, Clay Plunk, Clarence and Calvin Reed, James Smith, Thelma Tate, Iena Wall and Virginia Watt.

Mrs. Truman Caldwell and son Gene Wilson of Brownwood are visiting here.

Gleaners Class

The Gleaner class met Friday the 15th in Mrs. Marshall's beautifully decorated home with Mrs. Pyle as hostess. Mrs. Pyle read the devotional, Luke 2:8-11. After Mrs. Kendall led in prayer, Mrs. Todd read a lovely Christmas story, "The Son of David." A song, Silent Night was followed by the reading of a Christmas card from Mrs. McEwen by Mrs. Kendall. We joined in wishing each other a Merry Christmas and sang "Blessed Be The Tie That Binds." Then we said our motto. Lovely refreshments in Christmas colors was served to Mesdames Kendall, Masterson, Todd, M. G. Whitfield Killingsworth, Hall, Gaur, H. L. Whitfield, Marshall and the hostess and four children. We left saying how much we enjoyed our Christmas tree, to meet with Mrs. Biggs Jan 16 our first meeting of the year 1941. Everyone come and let's start the New Year right.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—This writer happened to be down in Elizabethton, Tenn., in 1928 when Edward F. McGrady was kidnaped from his hotel in the middle of the night, put down in the wilderness and told to keep going. He was an A. F. of L. representative, organizing the rayon mill workers. He walked straight back to town, met his assailants, and explained to them there had been a mistake. Always dapper, smiling a wry smile, he never so much as lost the crease in his trousers in this adventure. The vigilantes bought him a drink.

Nobody knows the trouble he's seen, but he's straightened out a lot of it, too, and now at 68, he becomes the special labor aide to the army as special labor consultant to Secretary Stimson. He has held down many a sizzling-hot lid of labor strife and, respected by ownership for wise counsel and fair-dealing, he is equally respected by labor as a hard-hitting contender for its rights.

It was in September, 1937, that he was upped 53 stories to a mahogany and mono-metal office and, a salary of $25,000 a year as director of labor relations for the Radio Corporation of America. His singular success as a labor conciliator during the preceding five years, while assistant secretary of labor, lay in keeping the friendship of both sides. But no one ever called him a yes man. He is hard-headed and tough-minded.

He was a newsboy in one of the sleaziest of Boston slums. He became a newspaper pressman, and a union organizer. Samuel Gompers sent him to Washington, where he remained 14 years as the legislative agent of the A. F. of L.

His habits of speech, never bookish or turning to double-talk, have had much to do with his success in clearing up what he calls "misunderstandings." In short, hard-hitting words, he has coached the responsibility of labor to co-operate and produce, as well as bargain, along with the responsibility of ownership to give the worker a fair break. He was assistant administrator of the NRA under Gen. Hugh Johnson. In his new post, he serves without salary, having been partially released from his duties by President David Saroff of the R. C. A.

PORTUGAL'S austere, ascetic little $2,500-a-year dictator, Dr. Antonio Oliveira Salazar, is the shrewdest man in the business, when it comes to keeping out of bad trouble, and making a general showing of solvency and peace. Just now, reports from Europe that he is putting out peace feelers are interesting if not important. He is on middle ground. With his co-dictators, he has assailed democracy, but his country has been for centuries more or less in British leading strings, and he is charged with none of the brutal excesses of the other Continental tyrannies. It was in May of last year that he made a sharp break with Italy and Germany and swung into the British orbit.

In 1928, when Gen. Antonio Carmona seized power, he summoned the acidulous, little, bespectacled professor to take a hand in the government. Dr. Salazar said it would be all or nothing. With the understanding that England would continue its benign mandate over Portugal, he took over as premier.

He dislikes uniforms and never wore one, and dislikes oratory even more. He has made four short speeches in the 12 years of his premiership. By cutting out all social reforms, and curtailing expenditures for public health and education, and by developing a guild system of his own devising, he has conserved resources and cut down the external debt. There is a disagreement as to what has happened to the internal debt. His critics say it has risen sharply and that real wages and the standard of living of his people have been lowered.

Right at the start of his regime, there were complaints from tourists that Portuguese hotels were infested with fleas. Dr. Salazar, a recluse with no fear of detection, tried out one of the hosteries and didn't get much sleep. The next day, there was an official decree, with ribbons, a wax seal and everything, fixing a $25 fine on hotel keeps for each flea caught. This decree, like all his others, was signed, "Professor of Finance in the Law Faculty of Coimbra University." He is a non-smoker, a teetotaler, and a vegetarian.

UNREST:
French Version

Britain was getting little comfort, according to her own sources, from France's governmental upheaval which sent Pierre Laval, pro-Fascist foreign minister, flying out of the Petain cabinet presumably into confinement, and put Flandin, pro-Nazi, into his place.

In fact, British circles frankly doubted the authenticity of any internal disturbance to amount to anything, and laid the whole change to orders direct from Hitler.

However, it was a notable occurrence, and accompanied by a scurrying about the streets of Vichy, and presumably Paris of a body of GPM—France's new Gestapo or GPU. In Italy they were calling them "action squads," but they are all the same sort of strong-arm governmental police.

France called them "Groupe de protection," hence the GP on the arm-band. It was a GP band that

DEBACLE:
Italian Version

Unquestioned is the fact that Italy had been sheared out of the British, French, together with the allies such as Polish, Czech and other hands that had joined the Battle of Greece and the Battle of Egypt.

The invader, who stepped briefly into the war just as the moment of France's collapse, shot forces along the Mediterranean coast from the border of Libya to Sidi Barrani, and who sailed across mountains from Athens from an Albanian take-off, had become the invader on both fronts.

As the British and Greeks summed up huge supplies of war materials captured, and enormous inventories of prisoners in hand and still coming in, the Vesuvian rumbles began sounding through various parts of Italy, but more particularly in the north, and about the industrial cities of Turin and Milan.

Despite all efforts of censorship to keep the true situation from becoming generally known, the debacle was too enormous to be hidden longer, and Mussolini's aides had to take to the radio and to the Italian press to prevent a spread of the disaster to home fronts.

Dismissal of leaders, disaffection in the Dodecanese islands, riots in the streets of the two big factory towns had leaked out, and then the Fascist party line editors and commentators began dishing out orders to the populace from the high-ups, at the same time issuing warnings to Britain and the Hellenes as to what they might expect from the Italian troops when "they get really mad."

PRESIDENT:
And Flying Duke

President Roosevelt returned to his White House desk to face tremendous problems, behind him a 4,000-mile trip on U. S. S. Tuscaloosa which was shrouded in secrecy before it began, turned out just what had been predicted—a junket throughout prospective naval-air bases in the Antilles—and wound up in a blaze of front-page articles when the duke of Windsor flew out to sea to confer with the Chief Executive.

It all began when Duchess Wallis, who had to have an infected tooth out (translated in royal language into a "major dental operation") decided to have the surgery performed in a Miami hospital. She and the duke went thither in the yacht of a Swedish friend who oddly was a pal of Goering's.

The day after the death of Lord Lothian, the operation was safely over, with the duchess convalescing beautifully, and the duke with a considerable amount of time on his hands. Suddenly it was announced that President Roosevelt wanted to talk to him.

A navy bomber soared down onto the blue Biscayne waters, a motor-boat met the duke, and off he went, shrouded with more secrecy than the President himself had been when he started out. He was back the same day, and the next day the Tuscaloosa came in and the cruise was over.

The public, prepared by all this for something monumental, had to satisfy itself with the story that the duke and the President had talked about the unsuitability of a naval-air base, and asking the duke if he couldn't arrange a better one.

It was the biggest anticlimax in months.

SIX DAYS:
Shalt Thou Labor

Pointing toward the six-day, perhaps seven-day week in defense industry, Defense Council Chairman Knudsen rebuffed American industry for lagging, and declared the United States was "not getting the spirit" of defense work.

Knudsen told the manufacturers many things, but one of these was outstanding, and had to do with airplane manufacture.

U. S. goal, declared Knudsen, had been 1,000 warplanes a month by January 1. He said at the rate things were going, we'll be lucky if we are getting 650 a month by that time.

The reason for the lag is lack of comprehension by manufacturer, by laborer, of the meaning of the national defense program. U. S. is supposed to be getting ready to protect the nation in case of aggression and to help England hold things in status quo until that time.

Knudsen pulled no punches and told the manufacturers that they were spending too much time figuring what to do with their profits and earnings, and not enough getting out the material. This was a double-barreled blow at the employers for temporizing with employees' demands for higher pay, and with employees for threatening and carrying out strikes.

He introduced the longer work-week idea by stating that employers should find a way to use machines on Saturdays and Sundays, making the obvious point that use of these two days on a full-time schedule would automatically speed up production about 30 per cent, or the amount it is lagging.

In advance he answered the manufacturers' plaint that they lacked the trained men to do this. Knudsen told them to get more men and train more men. He told them to "stagger" their trained men through the extra shifts, thus swiftly training the less-able to catch up to full-time production.

His address to the manufacturers was an air-cleaver, like the first lightning flashes before a storm that he hopes will gain airplanes and other defense material.

As to his prediction of the end of the war in 1942, and with Britain victor, it was met with keen interest and perhaps added power because it was to all practical purposes, his dying utterance.

REMEMBER that beloved book of your childhood days, "Little Men," by Louisa May Alcott? Well, imagine what it might be like with the addition of two new characters, to wit, Major Burdell, a fast-talking, amiable swindler who sacrifices everything for the love of his adopted son, and Willie the Fox, "a lovable, amusing 'living corpse,'" according to information from RKO. When you've finished this little picture puzzle, go to see the picture.

It's been turned out as adult entertainment, yet it's still a story for young folks. Kay Francis, George Bancroft and Jack Oakie head the cast, which includes Jimmy Lyon, Richard Nichols, Sammy McKim and Elsie, the glamour cow.

Ruth Hussey's work in Metro's "Flight Command," with Robert Taylor, and in "The Philadelphia Story," with Katharine Hepburn, James Stewart and Cary Grant, have won her a new long-term contract. Incidentally, "Philadelphia Story" is the picture that Cary Grant made for the Red Cross—he accepted the assignment with the idea of turning over his salary to them—$125,000.

Place of Music

Music, like a true coin, rings best on the domestic hearthstone. The essence of it no more belongs to the concert-room than reverently let it be said—does religion to the church. It must needs be an everyday matter, entering the hearts and homes of the people, otherwise its true functions remain unfulfilled.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

Baltimore.—The new Martin B-26, latest American medium bomber, underwent test flights, made around 400 miles an hour, landed at 125 miles, and was able to stop on the field O. K. Army pilots hailed it as a "bomber's dream." One said that if its brakes were shot away it would roll more than two miles against the wind before it would stop.

Joboken.—Fire destroyed a million-dollar defense plant, engaged in making unreported appliances needed by U. S. naval vessels.

Washington.—The government sought $500,000,000 at the lowest rate of interest ever to be paid on a loan. On the first day, it was oversubscribed eight times, more than $4,000,000,000 being offered for the certificates.

ODDS AND ENDS.—The University of California has engaged Rudy Vallee for a series of lectures before the radio class—he'll give practical advice on broadcasting and radio showmanship. . . . Kenny Baker has flown back and forth across the country so often, usually at night, that he declares he's travelled more and seen less than anybody else. . . . Mary Martin would like to leave that air show so that she can concentrate on motion picture work. . . . Bill Stern, director of "Sports Newsreel of the Air," has been offered a lecturing post in a radio announcing course, by a prominent university. He'll accept if he can find time.
