Charles Gideon Cowan 3119 Bales Ginned Here

Funeral services Charles Gideon Cowan, who passed away Dec. 25 after a lengthy illness, were held Saturday from the Methodist Church here by Rev. I. E. Siggs of Granger assisted by Rev. O. R. Le Mond.

Palbearers were Frank Kendall, E. W. Seales, W. C. Johnson, John Nash, Hobart Moffitt, and John Koeninger.

Interment was made in an Amarillo cemetery with Womack Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. Cowan was a native Texan, and had lived in the Panhandle many years. He moved here about two years ago.

He is survived by his wife and 13 children.

The Informer extends sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

Notice to Car Owners

Sheriff Guy Wright is asking all citizens to take care of their cars as much as possible, putting them in the garage when they are not in use, in order to discourage tire thefts. The restrictions on tire sales will probably create an increase in tire stealing, and most car owners could not afford to lose their tires in the present situation.

We have our new 1942 wall paper.

Baptist Church Notes

"Taking a Church Inventory" No. 111 was the pastor's subject Sunday morning. The attendance and offering were not as large as usual. But the reports reveal a healthy growth over this time last year. "Look and Live" (Jan. 48:22) was the subject for discussion Sunday at the evening service. We were happy to see a fine young lady "walk the aisle" for Jesus and unite with our church by baptism; and also, our hearts were filled with joy to have a mother join our church by statement. That was a fine way to close the last Sunday service of last year. May the Lord lead many souls of the Hedley community to forsake sin, receive Him as Savior during 1942 in our prayer.

The Old Year with its blessings, responsibilities and opportunities is gone. The New Year is here. We do not know what this year will bring us, but we do know that we will find happiness only as we seek to make others happy.

The pastor and his family had a very enjoyable Christmas. All of the family was well. Mrs. Teaff's mother, Mrs. J. M. Eaton and brother Alvin of Abilene spent Christmas in Hedley with the Teaffs. Besides all of this, they are grateful for the many remembrances: cards, telephone calls, visits, personal gifts, and for the nice rug and chest of silver ware. To be remembered means so much. May the Lord richly bless all those who helped to make the Christmas season so enjoyable!

And, now as we face the New Year, may we face it together with the Lord. If so, we will finish the New Year with many great and wonderful victories for Him.

"Let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith." Heb. 12:1b. 2a.
Pastor, A. L. Teaff

The three Hedley gins have ginned a total of 3119 bales of cotton this year, up to Tuesday noon.

Family Reunion

A very happy family group gathered together Christmas Eve night at the old home place to enjoy the Yuletide spirit. Santa Claus stopped in a few minutes and left several bags of gifts to be handed out to those who were present: Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cowan of Wellington, Pete Land and son Billy Jack of Ashtola, Mr. and Mrs. Jiggs Land and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Land, Jackie Dell and Patricia Ruth of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Finis Hill of Clarendon, and the following all of Hedley: Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Land and Dorothy, Mrs. Eddie Mae Tidrow and son Jerry Bee, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bill Wiggins, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Seales and daughter Mary Sue, Mr. and Mrs. Simore Bailey and family Stanley, Jess and Terry, and the hostesses Zebbie, Ellen Faye and Millie Land. All of the family were present except Mrs. Alvin South and son Bobbie Frank of Lawton, Okla. On Christmas day we enjoyed a fine dinner with all the good things which one could possibly wish for to eat. After shooting firecrackers and singing Christmas carols we departed again with the hope that all may be together next year.

Church of Christ

Subject Sunday 11 A. M.: The Cost of Discipleship
Matt. 16:24 Jesus said unto his disciples, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." To the disciples of Christ belong the greatest privileges, but, in order to be a disciple of the Lord, and enjoy these privileges, a certain price must be paid, this does not mean that one should torture his body, or refuse life's joys, and pleasures. It does mean to curb the lower self, or flesh; cross bearing. There are three words that express the darker experience of life: Burden, thorn, cross, every man must bear his own burden, feel his own thorn, the cross can be escaped, it is for others.

What Does "For" in Acts 2:38 Mean?

If I had a lot of money
That I wished to give away;
I think upon my preacher friends
A little test I'd lay.
I'd call them all together
And explain to them a plan,
Whereby a thousand dollars
Would be given to each man.
The plan it would be simple,
Anyone could get it straight;
The language would be a paraphrase
Of Acts two thirty-eight.
They'd ask me, "what shall we do?"
I'd answer them as follows:
Be baptized each one of you
For a thousand silver dollars.
My friend would shed his coat
And chase his "because of" prattle;
He'd know the meaning of this "for"
When he heard the silver rattle.
All my friends without a doubt
This "for" could understand,
If the understanding meant for him
A thousand smackers in his hand.
Not a one of them would argue back,
And you can write it down;
Within thirty minutes there'd not be
A dry friend of mine in the town.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK. Commentators and war correspondents are now recalling the famous "Memorial to the Emperor," supposedly written by Baron Giap "Mein Kampf" Ichi Tanaka

Baron Tanaka died September 29, 1929, a few weeks after the fall of his cabinet, his premiership having lasted about two years.

This department is supposed to deal only with the living, but breaks pace today to use the possibly historic significance of the baron and his document and the life story of the suave little man who died of high blood pressure, at 66, after many years of deep absorption in "sword romance," the Japanese equivalent of the blood and thunder pulp thrillers of our country.

History may give him a nod in view of the fact that his document ticked off the later steps of Japanese aggression as neatly as a pool player calling his shots. The Japanese repeatedly have denounced it as a forgery. Whatever it was, it jumped the clock and led "the shape of things to come."

The first reference to the document in this country, so far as this reporter could discover, was in published quotations from the Russian newspaper, Pravda, of November 5, 1931. Pravda did not reveal how it had obtained its copy of the "Memorial," but it fared it out as "a startling revelation of the Japanese carefully prepared plan for world conquest."

"Japan's aggressive tendencies will not end in China," said the Pravda article. "She has designs on the Philippines, the Malayan archipelago, Guam, Tahiti, Samoa and Australia. It envisages a fight for a new division of the world, for it is inseparably linked with conflict among imperialist nations for control of the Pacific."

"If we intend to gain control over China, we must first crush the United States. To capture China, we must also crush Manchuria and Mongolia. In order to conquer the world, we must first conquer China. If we succeed in conquering China, the rest of the Asiatic countries and the South Sea countries will fear us and surrender to us."

For understandable reasons, the Pravda story got scant attention in the American press. Tanaka Memorial, in view of Japs March On! many previous propaganda stories issuing from this source and was, for the most part editorially dismissed as an effort to "cause dissension among friendly capitalistic nations."

"We judge the full authenticity of this document and we plead with you to understand that Japan has begun a program of world aggression which inevitably must involve the United States."

So far as we can learn, news of this incident was not published in this country until after the Pravda story. However, is not certain. It may have appeared in some American newspapers. This writer remembers a long article in a British newspaper of five or six years ago, the Manchester Guardian, if memory serves, in which was cited documentary evidence of the validity of the document and pleaded for a re-stating of British policy in the Far East and the strengthening of the naval base at Singapore.

On April 23, 1946, Rear Admiral J. C. Tammig, retired, appeared before the senate committee on naval affairs and insisted on the validity of the Tanaka Memorial. He begged for a consideration of Japanese relations in this light, but the navy, however, repudiated his testimony. Pierre Van Panssens, in his recently published book, "This Day Alone," reviews the history of the document, defends its authenticity and launches indignation against the civilized world for failing to heed it.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Hitler Takes Over Personal Command Of German Army as Russia Continues To Push Invaders Back on All Fronts; Far East Battle Centers in Philippines

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

HITLER: Inner Voice Explaining that he was answering an "inner call," Adolf Hitler took over sole command of the Nazi army because, he said, the Russian war had "exceeded all past notions."

This meant that the former commander-in-chief, Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, was out, as Hitler put it, because of "the vastness of the theater of war" and the manner in which military operations, economic and political war aims were linked.

Berlin circles discounted theories from other world capitals that Von Brauchitsch was dismissed because of the tie-up resulting from the Russian campaign. But Hitler did say that "the present war is now entering upon a new and favorable stage for us. We are now facing a decision of world-wide importance."

EVIDENCE: On Russian Front

Both returning American newspaper observers and dispatches from Berlin itself began to hurl the heavy weight of evidence back of the facts that Russia had been informing the world about the inroads the weather was making on German strength and ability to fight and as to the defeat the Nazi armies were suffering.

Two Berlin dispatches had told, first in the Volkischer Beobachter, Hitler's own newspaper, that the "Russians are equal to us as fighters and under some conditions superior"; and, second, that the German soldiers were suffering terribly from the cold.

The second instance was given to the world by Goebbels himself, in opening a campaign, "house to house and apartment to apartment" to collect warm clothing, particularly furs, for the men on the Russian front.

Goebbels had said, in part: "We have done all to equip the army for winter. But winter came too early. Our soldiers will still lack much."

"We must prevent German soldiers from suffering the winter in Norway, Russia or elsewhere. "The front wants everything the Fatherland can give for defense against this winter which set in so early, earlier than usual."

The American newsmen told of watching the German retreat, of the abandonment of materials, including tanks and guns as the Nazis fled from their advanced Russian positions back over the snow-packed roads. There had seemed to be no diminution of the Russian claims as they added division after division to the list of "those annihilated."

LIBYA: Bright Spot

Another bright spot in the war reports had been the British North African campaign, which had suddenly gone into high gear, and there began to be a repetition of the previous British campaign, which swept across Cyrenaica almost to the doors of Tripoli, and resulted in the taking of an estimated 100,000 prisoners.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

Washington: The United States has more than 90 monitoring radio stations listening constantly for signals that might be endangering the country's war effort, it was revealed. Sackett's Harbor, N. Y.: The USO opened a radio station "broadcasting to soldiers for soldiers"—first in the country. It was predicted that they would be opened at all camps.

This time it was not the Italians, but the Germans, who were fleeing across the desert North African plains along the coast, with the British in hot pursuit.

General Rommel's famous tank divisions, battered and broken, were jamming the roads toward Bengasi, chief German-Italian landing spot for supplies, having abandoned Derina and all the hard-fought-over territory close to the borders of Egypt.

MANILA: Major Thrust

The good news from Russia and Libya had been rather offset by the discouragements and losses of the Far Eastern campaign; and it had become evident that the Japanese attack on the Philippines had been slowly but steadily growing in intensity.

Then came the report that 80 transports of Japanese troops had been sighted off the coast between the port of Lingayen and Manila. These thousands of soldiers meant that the long-expected invasion of the Philippines was under way.

U. S. land, sea and air forces then began their defense against this major battle force of Japan.

Lingayen was called by military experts the "gateway to Manila" and because of this a strong defensive force was thrown into action to defend it. First reports told of the United States forces "holding their own." One unconfirmed report told of the sinking of at least one Japanese troop transport.

A landing on Davao made the fourth spot in the islands on which the Japanese had gained at least a temporary foothold.

The Davao landing became the potentially greatest menace against Manila, because it was on the nearby island of Mindanao, largely inhabited by Japanese and Japanese sympathizers.

A hotbed of fifth-columnist activity, Davao had been editorially called Davachukuo before the outbreak of the war, because Luzon dwellers regarded it as the chief fifth-column threat.

The landing there was believed to have been engineered with the aid of treachery from within. The American troops gave battle to the invaders, but no claims of immediate victory were made, and the landing was said to have been "in considerable force."

AIRMAN: Heads Navy

After a week which had seen rapid shifting about of the American naval and army high command in Hawaii, Washington had made a sudden move which made the supreme commander of the U. S. Navy Admiral Ernest J. King, an air officer.

Previously the command of the Pacific and Asiatic fleets had been placed in the hands of ship-minded officers, and the air arm had been believed to feel slightly "out of it."

Jubilant reigned in the air force of the navy when Admiral King was placed in supreme command. The appointment had completed the shakeup and a rapid prosecution of the war in the Pacific under Admirals Hart and Nimitz was expected.

As a matter of fact, many observers wondered if the appointment did not place Chief of Operations Admiral Stark "on the shelf" for what duties remained to him were unspecified. Formerly he had been regarded as the navy's supreme commander.

Washington: The FBI cautioned auto owners to protect their cars better against thieves since the tire shortage had made them more attractive as booty.

London: One hundred thousand bomb and shell fillers in ordnance factories in Britain sent birthday greetings to Josef Stalin of Russia on his sixty-second birthday, according to official news sources.

WILLKIE: To Fore Again?

WENDELL WILLKIE Out in Front?

The President, attempting to run the cabinet again with an augmented cabinet which contained no less than 15 persons, was said to be contemplating a supreme war council which would sit with him and under him prosecute the war.

And the reports had been that Wendell Willkie, his 1940 opponent, might be a member of the group. This had been speculation since Willkie lunched with the President, and since a couple of other jobs that were open were not tendered to him.

Those closest to the President believed he had a most prominent place reserved in his mind for Willkie.

In fact, informants as to the President's plans named the following as probable members of a five-man board which would plan the war effort: Willkie.

Rear Admiral Leahy, minister to Vichy, former head of the navy, former governor of Puerto Rico.

Vice President Wallace, now also head of the SPAB which runs priorities.

Philip Murray, head of the C.I.O.

SHORTAGES: Shooting in U. S.

In addition to the tire rationing which was imminent, and the prohibition which preceded it, the government saw other shortages looming in 1942.

Among them, it was said, would be a shortage of electric power. Such a lack, it was declared, "seemed practically certain in 1942 and 1943" in some sections of the country, including the Southeast, the Southwest, the Pacific coast and part of the Middle West.

Householders were warned to be parsimonious in their use of electricity.

Blackouts of all non-essential lighting, including many store signs, were predicted.

HONGKONG: 'Sacrificial'

A band of British and Hindu and Canadian defenders of Hongkong were termed a "sacrificial garrison" in dispatches telling of the last-ditch fight to hold the island stronghold at the north end of the China sea.

Chief hope of the defenders rested on the Chinese, and oddly enough the Chinese were the chief menace to the defenders.

Bearing out the former statement, the Chinese soldiers were driving southward from the East river, past Tamshui and Pingshan, within a few miles of the rear of the Japanese who had occupied Taipo and Kowloon on the Hongkong mainland side.

That this attack would be successful and divert enough Japanese power from the Hongkong front to change defeat into victory for the British was the chief hope of the defenders.

Bearing out the second statement was the fact that several hundred thousand Chinese refugees from the mainland, having no other direction in which to flee, had gone over the half-mile of water to Hongkong, where they were jamming the already crowded island and seriously menacing supplies of food, water and shelter.

These refugees were regarded as almost equal in endangering the defending garrison as were the Japanese guns and bayonets.

SUBMARINES: Versus Submarines

Almost simultaneously with reports from our navy of the sinking of at least two Japanese vessels by our own submarines, and the expressed belief that the navy was beginning the long process of blockading Japanese shipping came reports of attacks by Jap submarines on our shipping along the California coast.

Japs Have Exceeded Germans in Inflicting Naval Losses . . . Will Nazis Use Mass Plane Attacks on British Fleet?

WASHINGTON.—Naturally there was grim satisfaction in Berlin, especially at the offices of the admiralty, over the naval losses suffered by the United States and Britain in the actions at Pearl Harbor and near Singapore. But there must have been also dismay over what must have seemed lost opportunities to the German admirals.

For the Germans have been unable to do nearly as much damage to the British navy as have the Japs to the British and U. S. combined fleets. In a few days the Japs have done more to whittle down the superiority of the U. S.-British fleets than the Germans have done in more than two years!

At the outset of the war, it will be remembered, a German submarine managed to get inside Scapa Flow and sank the British battleship Royal Oak. This was an old battleship, but a battle wagon is a battle wagon when it comes to a real sea battle. Within a few weeks the Germans sank one of Britain's crack aircraft carriers.

That was quite a start on the whittling down process, always remembering that whatever may have been the ideas of the German army, the plan of the navy was to get the British fleet down to a size which would justify the risk of a major naval battle. This is not a new idea. It has been told in these dispatches before, right after the bombing of the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau by the R.A.F. at Brest.

It was claimed by the British to have put those old battleships out of commission for the remainder of the war.

The idea is based on several talks the writer had with high German naval officers several years prior to the outbreak of this war. The Germans claimed, and with some logic, that their ships would shoot better than the British, not because their marksmen were any better, man for man, but because their optical glass was better.

Vital in Big Battle

In a big battle between fleets, of course, this is vital, since the distance between them normally would be such as to make personal marksmanship almost unimportant. The men working the guns probably never see the ships they are trying to sink.

Moreover this German brag about their better optical glass seems to have been justified both at Jutland and Dogger Bank in the last war.

However, since those earlier successes—the Royal Oak and the aircraft carrier—the Germans have paid virtually ship for ship for their attempted whittling down of the British fleet. In the case of the Hood and the Bismarck the Germans suffered a distinct loss. The Hood was a battle cruiser, not a battleship, and was a bit on the old side, whereas the Bismarck was beyond doubt as she demonstrated in her last fight, a stronger battleship than any single ship in the British fleet.

Naval experts admit now that she was better, and therefore the Tirpitz is probably better, than even the latest U. S. battleship, the North Carolina.

What the Germans have been building meanwhile is not known. But the British have been busy, and so has the United States.

Did the Nazis Miss a Bet?

What the German admiralty is really sick about since the Japanese destruction of U. S. and British capital ships at the outbreak of the Pacific war, is that they did not attempt the same sort of air blitz on the British navy, before the British admiralty learned its first bitter lesson at Scapa Flow.

They must be thinking, that if instead of sending one Nazi U-boat on a "suicide" raid into Scapa Flow—the one which sank the Royal Oak and escaped—they had sent several subs and several hundred bombers, they might have so smashed the British grand fleet that they could have risked a big sea battle in that first winter of the war.

Interesting in this connection is the belief by experts here that the Japanese naval operations in the Pacific were planned by the Germans. Indeed our experts believe the planes which did so much damage at Pearl Harbor and Hickam field were not Japanese planes at all, but four Nazi bomber planes. Further, it is not believed these big planes were brought by carrier, as has been generally assumed, but that they were flown from the Marshall Islands.

But naval knowledge has increased enormously in the last little while. It was the argument of the old admirals, in our navy and the British particularly, that battleships could not be sunk by airplanes. We know now that it is easier, as a matter of fact, to sink a battleship by airplanes than by gunfire!

FHT Club

The F. H. T. club meeting was called to order Dec. 17 by Gwyneth Davis. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll. Then we sang "O Little Town of Bethlehem." After the song Dorothy Jo Reeves gave a reading, "A Christmas Story." Then a demonstration on wrapping presents was given by Jeanette Tipton. Next was a story, Christmas in Other Lands by Lavonia Grimsley. Last of all we exchanged gifts.

Assembly

Our program for Friday Dec 19 consisted of Christmas numbers. It was entirely different from any that we have had for all of the students in school participated. The fourth grade had charge of the color ceremony. Jerry Banister and Wanda Shaw were the bearers with Delbert Langford and Julian Hunsucker as the escorts. Martha Jo Alexander gave the pledge and Jimmy Owens was leader in singing Star Spangled Banner, Texas Our Texas and Victory March. First on the program were the seventh and eighth grades who gave the scripture version of the birth of Christ found in St. Luke. Then the primary grades, dressed in red robes, sang some songs and played the rhythm band. Next came the intermediates who sang songs about Christmas. Last of all came the high school who sang three songs.

We were happy to greet so many parents and visitors, and we were especially happy to greet our superintendent's mother and father.

Jo Ann Shaw

Thank You

It was obvious that the presentation of the colors went off more smoothly and gracefully in assembly on Dec. 19 than usual. This was because of the new flag stands which were presented by Security State Bank and Thompson Brothers Hardware. The entire student body and the faculty wish to express their thanks for this Christmas gift.

Junior Class Party

Mrs. Pitcock, our sponsor, and Mrs. Martin, our room mother, honored the Juniors with a Christmas party Monday night Dec 15. First we played a number of enjoyable games in the Home Economics Room. Then we feasted on tuna fish sandwiches, cranberry salad which was placed on a lettuce leaf, and lemonade. Those who enjoyed these refreshments were Ila Faye Ried, Lois Rhogee, Jess Murdoch, Lois Cowan, Margie Burdine, Teddy Joe Myers, Paul Dishman, Albert Martin, Joel Pionk, Kenneth Brinson, Travis Bailey, Harold Oulton, Z-bbie Lee Land, Foy Langford and Lewis Marshall.

And last but not least we exchanged gifts and ended it a very entertaining evening.

"Johnny,

where'd you GET your gun?"

From the supply sergeant, of course. He got it from the Ordnance Department—and they got it from a factory. It's the finest Army rifle in the world.

But before one factory wheel could turn—for the first model or the finished job—there had to be power—and most of it is electric. Electric power helped put your Garand in your hands, Johnny.

It takes a tremendous lot of power to make all the guns, tanks, planes and ships we need—but America has a lot. Power reserves, built up in advance by the business men who manage America's electric companies, have been able to meet almost every defense demand overnight.

Requirements keep increasing, of course—and the electric companies are working day and night to keep ahead of the nation's needs. In 1941, they built and installed almost 2,000,000 more horsepower in Democracy's busy arsenal!

You have the hardest part of the job, Johnny, but we're glad we can help by doing our share. We're glad to pledge our co-operation with you, the government, and other industries—to make America so strong it can remain forever free and unafraid.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL PARTON (Consolidated Features-WNU Service.) NEW YORK—Of the bestowal end of the Maria Moors Cabot Latin-American Journalism award, recently presented to the 80-year-old Dr. Godfrey Lowell Cabot of Boston, also a generous contributor to democratic enterprise. For many years, he has been a steady ground-sweeper against the disturbers and trouble-makers, not a political theorist, but in his activities in the field of science and the humanities. He has won bankrolls progress, but he has not over the burden by his own resourcefulness and inventiveness — the true Yankee genius here.

South America ought to be particularly interested in Dr. Cabot's new successful and working scheme to bottle sunshine and keep it in the cellar, like jelly or preserves. His 1937 grant of $416,773 at Harvard university was a great help in storing solar energy and today, in Florida and other southern states, household hot-water rigs, fuelled by trapped sunshine are almost as common as oil burners up north.

The next year, Dr. Cabot gave a similar amount to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for the same purpose. Many contributions to the use of arts of peace, including his enthusiastic co-operation with aviation may well be put down as an anti-war effort.

He attended I.T. two years, finished at Harvard in 1882 and, after laying the foundation of his fortune manufacturing lamp black in Washington, Pa., branched out in brass and carbides. He has always insisted that democracy to survive, must plow a way of its gains back into the business—which he steadily does. The Latin-American Journalism awards are in honor of his life work.

IN 1913, Carlos Davila covered murders and fires for El Mercurio of Santiago de Chile. He was a good reporter and told what happened, rather than thought. He thought militant democracy ought to happen. Later, as president of Chile and ambassador to Washington, he maintained much of this same detachment.

One thing that he observed in 1936 was that the world was going to hell in a hand-basket unless there could be a successful collective "organization of peace." He also observed that it would be foolish to think that treaties would be an effective stopgap against the oncoming apocalypse. He was away out in front in urging bold affirmations and aggressive action, instead of pacific negotiations as the survival technique of democracy—in which he is a fervent believer.

One of the Latin-American recipients of the Maria Moors Cabot prize in journalism, Dr. Davila has exemplified his faith in a militant and crusading democracy, which faith he expounded in the public functions attending the prize award. As editor of the Editors Press service, he is possibly the most important journalistic liaison in the new cultural and, to a degree, political entente between North and South America.

After becoming editor-in-chief of La Nacion he came to Washington as ambassador, in 1925 at the age of 34. He became president of Chile in 1932, in a period of political upheaval, helped leading his country to its present liberal trend and landed back in the United States where his daughters were educated and he considers the world's hope for democratic leadership. It is doubtful whether any U. S. citizen who can match Dr. Davila's penetration of the mind and institutions of another country.

Living in New York off and on for quite a few years now, he mixes around casually, knows a lot of people, speaks a lot of our idiom and demonstrates hemisphere solidarity in a small, compact, alert person. A few North or South Americans have ever done. Bombs and bullets were sometimes an obstacle to his rapid rise in Chilean citizenship. He helped build the Chilean state and knows that democracy is not easily come by. He says he was soft, but are toughening up and getting back our "crusading spirit and stoic fiber."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Drive of British Troops Into Libya Forces Axis to Fight on Two Fronts; Peace Comes Again to U. S. Coal Fields As Miners Accept Plan for Mediation

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

BRITISH: Open Second Front

The long-awaited, bitterly demanded "second front" in North Africa has finally been opened by the British with a surprise attack of surprising power and terrific impact upon the combined German-Italian forces in Libya.

The severity of the military blow drew for a time all interest from the magnificent stand the Russians were making, and presented Hitler's generals with the difficult problem of either conceding the Royal Air force complete mastery of the African skies or the withdrawal of many hundreds of planes from Germany or from the Russian front.

Rapidly the British drive went 50, 60, 80 miles into Libya, and a glance at the maps had been sufficient to show that the typical Nazi blitz tactic was being employed.

Instead of a frontal attack against the Axis forces the British moved to the south and shoved tank spearheads in an enveloping action which reached Tobruk's garrison, that had rushed out into a sortie and were practically able to join hands with their advancing comrades in arms from the south.

This trapped what the British reckoned as half the German tank forces, (reckoned at two divisions) in a triangular space bounded by Tobruk, Bardia and the Mediterranean coast.

On this triangle the British were pouring all their fire, by land, sea and air, and battles were developing which might turn out to be the forced surrender of all the Axis forces in the trap, or a debacle similar to those which Germany had forced on weaker opponents.

That it could be another Dux-queque was impossible, for the Axis forces had no possibility of escape by sea. It was stand and fight against forces at least equal to their own.

Of especial interest to Americans were the reports which told of feats performed by American-made equipment, particularly airplanes and tanks. One-fourth of the British tanks were said to have been built either in the U. S. or in Canada.

Objectives of the British attack in North Africa were twofold—the destruction of every Axis weapon of war in the territory; the knocking of Italy out of the war.

The first of these, Churchill said, would be half accomplished when the battle of the Tobruk triangle had resulted in a British victory. The second half would follow immediately, he added, indicating that there would be no slowing down of the drive.

As to the second objective, it was not so obvious what the British plans were. Some felt certain that the British, once in undisputed possession of all North Africa save French territory, would launch an expeditionary invasion against Sicily, and then use it as a base for further invasion.

Others felt sure that Britain's only idea was to hold its gains, and with the Mediterranean free of menace, to launch air attacks on all of Italy from the nearest points in Libya and Tripoli, and so to discourage Italians with the war that they would rise against it.

The British felt sure that this would cause the Germans to attack Italy, just as the Germans turned against Russia, and that thus another problem of occupying a hostile country would arise to plague the Nazis.

ROSTOV: Berlin Claim

The important and strategic city of Rostov on the Don river was claimed as a German capture in dispatches from Berlin, and on the same day the Russians admitted that the Nazi advance had been resumed.

TOKYO: Tinder Box

Oddest of all the potential volcanoes in the world had been the Far East situation, with Tokyo hard pressed by the Nazis to plunge actively into the war on the theory that it would create a new front for the British and American navies to cope with.

But Kurusu had found Secretary Hull not at all frightened at the prospect, and with the exploratory talks quite in their midst, the head of the American state department had called a conference of the ABCD nations' (American, British, Chinese and Dutch) representatives from which the Chinese ambassador had emerged with a broad smile.

Coincidentally the British had renewed their blunt warnings to Japan not to plunge another area of the world into a "blood-bath," but to reflect that the personnel of the British navy had expanded 300 per cent, and that the navy now was in position to divert considerable of its forces to the Pacific.

At the same time it was evident that Tokyo itself was preparing its people for the worst. That Japanese leaders were badly frightened over the spot they were in was evident, yet few of them could see a way out without war.

ALIEN HANDS: Helping Nazis

A Berlin dispatch, hence authorized, declared that the labor problem in Nazi war industries, now that most of the manpower was engaged in war with Russia, was being solved by the use of alien labor.

Aliens from occupied countries, largely Poles, had been recruited outside Germany and put into the factories, with Storm Trooper managers, and a plentiful sprinkling of police through the plants to discourage breaking of time rules and sabotage of other types.

Czechs and other nationalities believed friendly to Germany also are manning many plants, and are reported to be getting better food, pay, living conditions, etc., than the Poles, who get the least of all.

The Polish workers have yellow-bordered black "P's" on their left arms. Polish and Belgian men are quartered in dormitories, while those of so-called "friendly" nations are permitted to live in suburbs near their work.

RUSSIA: Saves Machines

A Walter Kerr dispatch from Kuibyshev had been enlightening on the subject of what Russia's losses had been in the area occupied by German troops.

S. A. Lovsky, Soviet spokesman, had declared that Russian factory equipment had been almost entirely evacuated from the occupied area.

Kerr, checking on this statement, wrote that he had made a 2,280-mile railroad trip from Archangel through the Soviet Union, and that machinery was being moved, and in quantities that would astonish most Americans.

His trip took 16 days because his passenger train was sidetracked often to permit trains carrying machinery and workers eastward were given preference.

Day after day he saw an endless procession of freight trains of from 30 to 40 cars, drawn by one to two locomotives, carrying machinery, machine tools and skilled workmen.

PETAINE: On Spot

MARSHAL HENRI PETAINE How much would he promise?

Marshal Petain, head of the Vichy government, had been reliably reported as on his way to a conference with, first, Hitler and then Mussolini as the hour drew near when the French would have to decide definitely whether to join the Axis as full partner or not.

The conference, according to the Rome radio, was "to be held soon somewhere in occupied France."

The increased pressure on France was seen as a sequel to the British offensive in Africa, and the sudden resignation of Marshal Weygand as commander of France in Africa was seen as part and parcel of the same reaction.

Germany, observers said, was prepared to offer Petain a full peace instead of an armistice, based entirely on how much increased aid the old marshal was willing to promise, thus making France an Axis ally in truth if not in name.

Even in Washington a presidential source said that Germany was planning a general European conference in December or January, and that following it would probably come some "high-sounding scheme" for economic rehabilitation in the name of peace and order.

Two reports were current—one of them that the French had been asked to give naval convoy to Italian supply ships moving to north Africa and had refused; the other was that Germany was asking France for 300,000 soldiers to take over the policing of areas in occupied Russia in the spring.

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

"D.R. BROADWAY" opens with a scene on a narrow ledge, supposedly 40 feet above the real Broadway. A girl, played by Jean Phillips, is pretending to be crazy, and is about to commit suicide. A man, played by Macdonald Carey, pretends that he also is crazy, in order to get her off the ledge. In the middle of the scene each discovers that the other is sane. And when Miss Phillips and Mr. Carey met for the first time, on the ledge, with cameras pointed at them, they discovered that they both hail from Sioux City, Iowa.

The story of the men in the army air service who operate the secret bomb sights and actually drop the bombs on targets from giant planes will be filmed by RKO Radio, with the co-operation of the United States army, it will be called "Bombardier."

Like the elephant, Richard Arlen never forgets. About five years ago he and Mary Carlisle made pictures together, and took daily turns buying the entire cast and crew ice cream. The other day they began work with Jean Parker and Phil Terry in "Torpedo Boat," at Paramount. When the ice cream man came around Arlen tapped Mary on the shoulder. "It's your turn to buy," said he. "Remember, I bought the last time, five years ago." And Mary remembered, and treated.

Thanks to Barbara Stanwyck, Gene Krupa and his orchestra are featured in Samuel Goldwyn's "Ball of Fire." The Krupa band is her favorite one, so when she was asked to select one for her night club singing sequences, Krupa got the vote.

Ever wonder where film companies get their ideas for shorts? Hal Peary, who's radio's "The Great Gildersleeve," did a hicough routine in a recent broadcast. A Columbia Pictures executive heard him, liked the stunt—and it will be a "Screen Snapshot."

Betty Hutton went to Hollywood, fresh from Broadway's "Panama Hattie," to make her screen debut in "The Fleet's In." Bob Hope booked her for a guest appearance on his radio program—probably you heard it—and first thing she knew, she was on it for keeps!

Rudy Vallee will have the second male lead in "The Palm Beach Story," the Preston Sturges picture starring Claudette Colbert and Joel McCrea, with no singing for Vallee.

New Orleans is certainly having its day in the movies! "Flame of New Orleans," "Lady From Louisiana," "Birth of the Blues," "Blues in the Night," "Louisiana Purchase"—and before long Edna Ferber's new story, "Saratoga Trunk!"

One of the war-time campaigns that has spread like wildfire is the "Shaves for the Boys" drive to obtain free minor necessities for the boys in the defense training camps. Constance Bennett is head of the movie stars' committee, which includes Dorothy Lamour, Joan Fontaine, Maureen O'Hara, Joan Blondell, Claire Trevor, Joan Bennett, Linda Darnell and Brenda Joyce.

Don Gordon, "Tom Mix Straight Shooters" announcer, says that the greatest compliment ever paid him came from an old couple who sent him $4,000 to invest for them because he sounded so honest over the air. Back went the money, but he treasures the compliment.

ODDS AND ENDS—Connie Bonwell has asked for her release from that Thursday night radio program, but will stick through 1941. . . . Bobb Ruth will play himself in the film of Lou Gehrig's life. . . . Mothers of 200 Americans in the RAY will be Warner's guests when "Captains of the Clouds" is released. . . . Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THANKS to the war, Errol Flynn lost his chance to be Prince Charming at a huge debutante party in New York. Picture the scene as it was planned. According to announcements, he was to be seated in a silver coach, which at midnight would rise from the orchestra pit. But the debutante cancelled the party, feeling that it was not fitting to go through with it in war time.

Hollywood's station wagon battalion, formed a few weeks ago to meet emergencies in time of war, is now being put through its paces, according to the Fibber McGee and Molly program. They are listed among the 200 members of the battalion.

Ginger Rogers will star in "The Major and the Minor," a romantic comedy, as her first picture under her recently signed agreement with Paramount. It ought to be a swell picture; its authors wrote "Hold Back the Dawn," "Ninotchka" and "Ball of Fire."

Incidentally, Ginger has spent six years attempting to gain six pounds, and has finally achieved that goal.

With practically all the other girls in Hollywood going in for very short hair, Claudette Colbert, who has worn hers fairly short, will have the longest bob she's ever worn in "The Palm Beach Story." Her hair will fall to her shoulders, but she'll keep her famous bangs. It's a Preston Sturges picture, this new one, and Joel McCrea plays opposite her.

Once again Director Norman Taurog is looking for a baby. He's the man who, eight years ago, conducted the search for an infant who could mimic Maurice Chevalier's out-thrust lower lip—a search that brought Baby Le Roy to the screen. Later he was responsible for the casting of Jackie Cooper in "Skippy." Now he seeks a year-old child who resembles Ray Milland, for "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat."

As soon as the first word of Japan's attack on Hawaii reached the United States the March of Time began preparing as its next release a comprehensive film story of how this country, in the last war, came through to final victory. Titled "Our America at War," it ends by showing that, as America won the last war through co-ordinated effort, so she will win this one.

One night not so long ago Mickey Rooney was called to the telephone. It was Carmen Miranda — she'd heard that he was going to do an impersonation of her in "Babes on Broadway." To make sure that it would be a good one, she arranged to coach him, and the result is the very funny burlesque of her that he does in the picture.

Cary Grant's main idea, when he finished working in "Suspicion," with Joan Fontaine, was to catch up on sleep. Said he hadn't had a day or evening to himself since he started work in "My Favorite Wife," more than a year ago; "Suspicion" was his fifth picture in a row without a good long vacation. Maybe all those extra-curricular activities that we heard about were just rumors.

Joan Blaine, who soon starts doubling between two air serials for a total of three broadcasts a day, vastly prefers radio to any other branch of show business. "Stage and film stars are so visibly beautiful," says she. "Their waists are thin, their eyelashes sweep alarmingly. Their slips never show. But—the radio actress is just folks to her audience."

ODDS AND ENDS—Paula Winslow was brought in to do Shirley Temple's screams in the little star's first radio series; the first time she yelled Shirley herself jumped in alarm. . . . Two young players, Anna Rutherford and Robert Sterling, got breaks in Metro's "Just Between Us"—they have leading roles. . . . Kato Smith now does her mid-day broadcasts from the CBS newsroom. . . . Robert Montgomery, got home from England, for a vacation, just in time to be called into service here. . . . John Scott Trotter is making the most of his fair for good food; he's preparing a cook book, which he ought to dedicate to Bing Crosby.

LYNN SAYS:

When planning your luncheon dessert parties, be sure to use this season's rich color schemes on your tables and favors and placecards. White with silver, gold, blue, red are tops right now.

If you like three color combinations, there's green, white and gold, blue, white and gold, or white, red and green.

For an elaborate color scheme use the rich tones of violet, emerald, gold, blue and red. This is especially good in a centerpiece.

Bridge placecards may be made out of paper chrysanthemums in your favorite color with the card tilting out of the flower. The white cards may also be decorated with painted flowers, or candy-shaped flowers pasted in the corner. Evergreen, holly, mistletoe, bright berries, pine cones, used alone or with a silver ornament such as a bell on the place card are sure to bring delighted murmurs from your bridge guests.

Young Man's Need

It is not book learning young men need, nor instruction about this or that, but a stiffening of the vertebrae which will cause them to be loyal to a trust, to act promptly, concentrate their energies, do a thing—"carry a message to Garcia."—Elbert Hubbard.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

It is not the greatness of a man's means that makes him independent, so much as the smallness of his wants.—Cobbett.

YES, a dress to admire for its very fresh approach to the problem of looking slim and stately when your figure is too heavy! Pattern No. 1482-B happily overcomes your figure difficulties with a vestee effect through the top, extending as a slim waist treatment. The softly gathered side pieces permit easy roominess through the bodice, the low pointed neckline is youthful and flattering to the face.

Household Hints
Grapefruit and oranges will peel more easily if you soak them three minutes in boiling water to cover. That will make the membrane come off along with the skin. Then chill the fruit for use in salads, cocktails, or desserts.

If doors and drawers swell so much that they won't close, sandpaper or plane the edges, and then varnish the surface to prevent further swelling or shrinking.

If your vacuum cleaner has several attachments, make the best use of them. They come in handy for cleaning behind radiators, book cases and the refrigerator.

Here's one way to use leftover biscuits, muffins or rolls: Scoop out the insides, butter the case well and fill in with a thick cream vegetable meat or chicken. For a creole version, spread the insides with chili sauce blended with butter. Quickly fill with piquant creamed shrimp or salmon. Bake 10 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Try dipping the knife in boiling water before cutting cake or pie.

The white part of orange and lemon rinds is usually bitter. So when grating use only the outside yellow part.
