Senior Banquet

Friday night, Feb. 26, was a very important occasion for the Seniors of Hedley High. The occasion was the annual banquet sponsored by the W M U of the First Baptist Church and honoring the Seniors. The time was 8:30 and the place was the Baptist church. We were met at the door by Mrs. Simmons, who conducted us to Mrs. Martin, who presented us with a corsage of sweet peas.

Since Washington's birthday was only two days distant, it was the theme of the banquet. It was reflected in the place cards which were white with cherry decoration in the corner. The centerpiece was a small log supporting a miniature hatchet and lying on a bed of leaves. The menu included chicken, dressing, English peas, potatoes au gratin, tomato aspic salad, rolls and butter. A novel idea was used for the dessert. It was individual pie abelis filled with cherries. Miniature enamel hatchets were placed on each to carry out the Washington motif.

One of the most interesting parts of the program was a talk delivered by Mr. Bradshaw. He compared life to a game with the people of the world as the players. Whether it is the game of life or any other game you might participate in, if you play it fair and square with an underhand deal behind the referee's back, you will always come out victorious. This might not be true from another person's point of view, but you have the satisfaction of knowing that it really is right.

Two other enjoyable features of the evening were a piano solo "Gumworm" by Mrs. Watkins and two poems by Mrs. Martin. The theme of her poems was that a person can do anything he wants to be tried hard enough.

We Seniors of '42 consider ourselves honored and indeed fortunate to have been remembered in such a manner. To each member of the W M U we say, "Thank you for a most enjoyable evening." For in the many years to come it will have a place in our treasure chest of memories. Especially we would like to thank Mesdames Bains, Hall, Qilsberry and Payne of the Social Committee.

Those who shared in the pleasure of this occasion were: hostess, Mrs. Dishman, Mrs. Sims, president of the W M U, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Watkins. Other guests were Miss Hawkins, Mrs. Pitecock, Miss Shearer, Mrs. Snowden, Miss Bishop, Mr. Payne and Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw.

The Seniors who attended were Jane Rath Hall, Camilla Doherty, Golden Baker, Chancy Beth Key, June Kirkpatrick, Peggy Nell Everett, Lottie Mae Randall, Margaret Beaud, Adell Myers, Warren Baker, Willy Bridges, their sponsor, Mr. Buckner, and their room-mother, Mrs. Bridges. Camilla Doherty.

Father-Son Banquet

The Father-Son Banquet given at the Methodist Church basement Wednesday night, Feb. 25, was an outstanding success. The basement was well filled, as were the plates. The men and boys enjoyed the good food, and the fellowship was fine. The program which followed seemed to be enjoyed by all present. The sons were introduced, a number of whom were adopted for the evening. Two fine quartets were rendered, Mr. Bob Watkins being responsible for their presentation. Special recognition was given to the oldest father and son also the youngest father and son. The small recognitions were defense stamps. T. E. Mereman and son Ray received the recognition for the two oldest, and T. J. Hansard and Richard Vallance Jr. received the recognition for the youngest two. Mrs. J. B. Masterson spoke a word of appreciation for the fine response given by the men. Rev. E. L. Yeats brought a most thought-provoking talk on the general subject of turk. Rev. Yeats is Methodist pastor at Memphis.

It was suggested by some of the men that we make it an annual affair, and after consultation with the W S S ladies who sponsored the banquet, it was put to a vote, and the men and boys voted unanimously that it become an annual affair. It will be looked forward to from year to year, no doubt.

Takes Flying Course

Stephenville, March 2—V. A. Hansard Jr. of Hedley, a student at John Tarleton Agricultural College, is taking a course in Civilian Pilot Training. This course has recently been approved by the Government inspectors and will offer 4 hours of College credit to the students. In addition to the ground school class room work, which consists of classes in Meteorology, Navigation, Civil Aeronautics Regulations and General service of air craft, the pilot will receive a Private Pilot's license after completing his class work and flying 35 hours. 8 of these hours must be solo flying.

METHODIST CHURCH

Last Sunday was to have been observed as Young People's Day, but since it was not possible to carry out the program as planned this Sunday will be used instead. The Young People have been invited to teach the Sunday School classes and will have charge of the evening service. This will be an interesting day, and we hope that these services will be well attended.

Wifadasos Club

The Wifadasos Club met Feb. 10 with Miss Ole and Ben Card with 12 present. Each brought something to do.

The house was called to order by president. The club prayer led by Mrs. Newman. Each one answered roll call with Bible verse. Our next meeting will be with Mrs. D. K. Hall, next Tuesday March 16.

The most ferocious female warriors in history were the 5,000 Amazons who formed a part of the army of Dahomey, West Africa, in the 1880s, says Collins. Eventually, they grew to be so tough and quarrelsome that the king had to make them wear bellows so that civilians would be warned of their approach.

U-Boat Shells West Coast Oil Field In First Assault on U. S. Mainland; Japanese Consolidate New Positions As Battle for East Indies Continues

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

The three-man planning committee which acts in an advisory capacity to Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board, at a meeting in Washington, D. C. Left to right: Thomas C. Blaisdell, assistant director of the national researches planning board; Fred Searles, consultant on ordnance, ammunition division, United States Army, and Robert Nathan, assistant director of progress reports, War Production board.

SHELLS: On West Coast

The West coast had been waiting for enemy shell fire since the day the Japs launched their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor but when these first shots came, they came from the sea and not from the air as most persons had believed they would.

In the Pacific twilight, as the President addressed the nation over the radio on the progress and course of the war an enemy submarine appeared off Santa Barbara, Calif., and fired from 15 to 25 shells into the Elwood oil fields near that city. Oil wells in the area are located right on the beach. No casualties and only slight damage to the oil fields were first reported.

Radio stations carrying the President's speech did not go off the air until he had finished speaking and then a blackout of the entire area was ordered.

ROOSEVELT: Progress Report

Revealing that thousands of United States troops already are in the southwestern Pacific, President Roosevelt, in his latest fireside chat, told the world that soon the United Nations "and not our enemies, will have the offensive; we, not they, will win the final battles, and we, not they, will make the final peace."

While enemy shells were landing on the California coast, the President promised to carry the war to the Axis enemy in distant lands and far-flung waters—wherever he can be found. America, he said, will harness its unequalled production facilities to the war effort and produce totals of guns, planes, tanks and ships formerly deemed impossible.

BURMA: Defense Stiffens

The addition of well-trained Chinese troops to the northern flank of the British in the Burma battle had found Chiang Kai-shek's men able to take, at least temporarily, the offensive.

Japs holding an important river near Chiengmai were driven back, and the China troops took up offensive positions, some believed within the borders of Thailand.

Additional R.A.F. planes were added to the Tiger Squadron of the volunteer American forces assigned to protect the Burma road, and although the port of Rangoon had been made useless, Chiang was thought already to have opened new sources of supply by other ports.

Churchill was believed to be "seeing the light" that empire was going to have to relax its firm hand on the natives, and eventually to give over to them much of the work of freeing themselves from the attacking Japanese, in India.

Changes in the British cabinet had seemed to indicate this, at any rate, and many observers felt that all the disastrous outcomes of the early battles could only be overcome, in the last analysis, by letting the natives get into the fight in a big way, instead of leaving them to be made into fifth columnists by the advancing Japs.

These observers pointed out that Java's population of 40,000,000 persons would be hard to conquer.

MISCELLANY:

Uvalde, Texas: John Nance Garner, former vice president, in a rare interview, said, "There is no lack of morale, no complacency among the people."

Washington, D. C.: Senator Gillette charged that huge interests had been deliberately blocking agriculture's effort to provide grain alcohol from which synthetic rubber could be manufactured.

CHURCHILL: Heeds Critics

Winston Churchill, heeding the sharp criticism that followed Singapore and the "channel escape" of the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prince Eugen to Helgoland Bight, streamlined his cabinet.

Out went Lord Beaverbrook, because of ill-health, and his retirement was followed by a statement that he might come to the United States in liaison work.

Chief burden on Churchill had been his frequent appearances before the house of commons—meeting his critics with bursts of oratory that won him one parliamentary ry battle after another—but at what cost to his vitality and accomplishments could readily be imagined.

Sir Stafford Cripps and Lord Beaverbrook

Into this breach Churchill fired the "man of the hour." Sir Stafford Cripps, fresh from his triumphs in diplomacy in Russia, a man who had the confidence of the "man in the street," and who was to take over the job of being the government's man before commons.

There were other changes, but these were most vital. The cabinet was reduced to seven men, and some action of this type had been vigorously demanded.

JAVA: Mighty Battle

From the narrow waters to the east and west of Java had come reports of mighty air and naval engagements, proving that the last stronghold of the Dutch in the East Indies was not going to be given up without a bitter struggle, also that the Japs were not going to "by-pass" Java without at least a major try to capture it.

American and Dutch warships had come to grips with the invasion force attempting to take glamorous Bali from the "blind side," hoping to swarm over the 100-mile-wide island and thus overlook their quarry Java from a vantage point separated from the mainland only by a mile-wide strait.

First reports had been highly optimistic, reminiscent of the American-Dutch resistance to the Japanese landing forces in the Straits of Macassar. Eighteen enemy warships and transports had been sunk or damaged—four planes shot down, with a loss to the Allies of two destroyers and four planes.

Most significant in the battle, however, were the reports that the newest types of dive-bombers (presumably navy planes) were being used, and with telling effect.

For once it seemed that the Allies had a considerable air force in action, whether based on an aircraft carrier or on Sourabaya could only be guessed at.

As to the word from Tokyo, the Japanese admitted that a strong naval battle was in progress, but asserted that the Allied ships "ran off" with severe losses, and denied any serious losses to themselves.

Just how well Java, with its 40 millions of population, could be defended, still remained to be seen, with the Japs pretty well ensconced on Sumatra.

AUSSIES: 'Give Us Guns And We'll All Fight'

The eastern end of the huge Japanese pincers unquestionably was being aimed at Australia, and bombings of Port Darwin already had been carried out, with considerable damage and casualties, proving to the Australians that the enemy was indeed at her gates.

Instant response of the 7,000,000 population, only a few generations removed from hardiest pioneers, and with a long record of providing some of the strongest fighting men in warfare's history, was "give us guns and we'll all fight."

It was evident that help already had arrived from the United States in this area and that more was on the way. Australia, most strategists felt, was considered the real hop-off point for any Allied offensive in the Far East.

It also was clear that, insofar as it was within the Australian government's power, its manhood would be given to the cause.

Only a few felt that the Jap attacks on Port Darwin were of a "divertive character" designed to keep the Aussies from sending any considerable aid to Java.

Most believed with newsman W. W. Chaplin that the Battle for Australia would begin even before the fall (if fall there should be) of the Megint line of the East Indies, the strong and exceedingly populous island of Java.

An actual invasion attempt was believed a not distant certainty, either at Port Darwin or at Cape York, the spearhead of the eastern coastal plain of the continent "down under"—the only really populated section.

On this plain lies Sydney, and the city of Melbourne and all towns of any consequence.

And toward this objective the main force of Japanese blitz was believed heading.

SPRING: Whose Offensive?

Some experts in studying the public reflexes to war talk felt that the constant worry and guesswork about "Hitler's spring offensive" was chatter along the wrong psychological lines.

Some hints of different thinking than this had come out of the White House. President Roosevelt had dropped more than a few words to indicate that the spring offensive might not be Hitler's at all.

Here were a couple of his statements:

"We must search out the enemy and hit him—and hit him hard."
"It is quite possible, and at no far distant time, that Alaska and New York might be bombed."

These were not defensive utterances, since the latter was coupled with the President's thought that a "house to house" defense of our coastlines was neither possible nor the proper way to consider fighting a war. It was not "searching the enemy out" to do this.

From this many gained the impression that the looked-for (and feared) Hitler spring offensive might not be of so much consequence as the spring offensive of the Allied powers.

One observer pointed out that we had sent troops to Ireland, to Burma, to Australia, to Java, to Iceland, to Aruba—to countless spots of importance in the scheme of the war, and that these movements, few of them, could be regarded as defensive in character.

They felt that it was quite in order, in fact of better public psychology to think in terms of a bold and well-timed offensive of our own than to speculate and fear a Nazi action.

Warrior in Bataan

Commandant of the 16th naval district, Rear Adm. Francis W. Rockwell is the senior naval officer fighting with General MacArthur on Bataan peninsula. Admiral Rockwell's men are using artillery and other equipment salvaged from the Cavite naval base before abandonment.

ECONOMIC: 'Fat Wonderland'

Though it was the current Washington slogan that we "must fight our way to victory, we cannot produce our way to it," the production curves were moving rapidly upward on the heels of congressional appropriations upward of 71 billions of dollars for war purposes.

One returned war correspondent said coming back to America was like returning to a "fat wonderland of food and furs and frills."

Household Hints

When using a double boiler, the food will cook more quickly if the water in the outer vessel is salted in the proportion of a fourth of a cup of salt to one quart of water.

A tablespoon of granulated sugar mixed with the fat or meat drippings of a pot roast gives the roast a brown color and adds flavor to the stock and gravy.

Leftover stock from cooked vegetables contains valuable minerals and vitamins. Save it to use in soups, stews, and sauces.

Always keep perfume in a dark place. Daylight will affect every odor differently, according to its formula. In extreme cases perfume turns bright red as soon as it has been exposed to the sun.

And So It Closes

The 1941-42 basketball season was very successful. Our leader in this campaign was Coach J. D. Buckner. Our captains were: for the girls, Nellie Baker, Nellie Rae Stallings; boys, Billis Bridges, Truell Hoffman and J. M. Dickson. The girls' sponsor was Mrs. L. M. Piscook.

The season opened with our first game with Quail. On the occasion, the Hedley girls vs. the Quail girls played volleyball. Three games were played with Hedley victorious every time. The girls were defeated after a hard game vs. the Quail boys, with a score of 27-21. But our tussle with Quail was not yet over. Still with high hopes, we returned the games with Quail. Arriving at Quail with high spirits on Oct. 29, 1941, the girls (this time in basketball) and boys did their best, but Quail proved to have the best team with a victorious score of girls: 31-7; boys: 25-20.

Did we let this start discourage us? Well, I should say not. On Dec. 15 we traveled with Goodnight. That night we made the boys of Hedley High School sit up and take notice. We moved them down with a score of girls: 24 to 12 and boys, 35 to 26. It was the good old spirit that still makes us step on Dec. 6 when we played Lella Lake. The game was evenly matched, but that night we gave basketball a new meaning and the moment was bowed down; girls, 27 to 17 and boys, 31 to 7.

Maybe Goodnight set out to get revenge on us Dec. 11, or maybe we just didn't get warmed up soon enough; anyway both boys and girls lost; girls, 25 to 19 boys, 26 to 24.

Determined to try to make up for the last game lost we matched Lella Lake on Dec. 15. The boys and girls, weary but victorious, went home to sing their victory of girls 29 to 24 and boys 33 to 14.

On Jan. 9 we went to Lella Lake to play the first conference game of the season. The girls team beat the boys 3 of its star players lost 30 to 20. The boys played perhaps too hard in this first game because 3 were fouled out. The game was forfeited to Hedley however by Lella Lake's playing of an ineligible man.

We had 2 more games with Lakeview. The girls were jubilant both times with scores of 2 to 26 and 5 to 22. The boys with some of their star players absent played "winning-losing" games. The scores: 27 to 16 and 30 to 29.

Between the 2 Lakeview games we played Lella Lake again to settle for best team and we came out best; girls 20 to 16 boys, 33 to 21.

The boys canceled the last game with Goodnight boys, but the girls won 18 to 15.

Alasreed and Hedley have played twice, the Hedley boys' team proving better than their opponents' with scores of 29 to 27 and 24 to 21. It is still undecided which girls team is best, for first the Alasreed girls lost 31 to 29 but the next time Alasreed was victorious 31 to 27.

A lot of us were pretty excited about our chief enemy, Groom, and turned out to see the battle. Groom won the first game 25 to 15. Our last game of the season was on Friday 13. The second of the boys played an exciting game but lost 10 to 13. When the first of the girls game out, it was evident that this was the show down between Hedley and Groom. Neither team had time to lose in that game and it will be a long member. The score was 20 to 19.

So on Friday, Feb. 13 ends one of the happiest and most successful seasons of our career. Ma, the teams to be of Hedley enjoy the sport of basketball as much as we, and in Hedley High School let the ratters ring and keep the home crowds roaring.
Colleen Bauer

Assembly

Brother Smith conducted our devotional for Friday Feb. 27 reading the first three verses from first Psalms. He spoke to us emphasizing the fact that we should submit our bodies as living sacrifices. Grade seven had charge of the Color ceremony. These participating were Artie Pierce, Gloria Palmer, Joyce Tipson, Fay Nell Eppers, Joy Blankenship and Dorothy Dishman.

Grade eight had charge of the main part of the program. They entertained us with group singing, Remember Pearl Harbor, and The Marine's Hymn. They gave a coral reading of "The Gettysburg Address." Johnny Everett was leader of a Dr. I. Q. Program. They concluded their part of the program with R. L. Beach playing the harmonica, The Eyes of Texas and the school song, accompanied by Mrs. Snowden.

To conclude the program the Junior Class presented a skit of their play "Tall I Easy."

The Chatter Box

We Wonder:

If Mr. Bradshaw really likes to go fishing.

If the girls in the eighth will some day be beauty operators.

I. R. L. is really the true Romeo instead of Carter or Truell. When Dorothy Dishman really likes.

If Carter will ever be as good a basketball player as his brother Truell.

If Wayne would like to be back over here again.

If all the boys in the school are afraid of him.

What Harold and Joel had a dispute about.

If Jo Ann was really lost Sunday night.

Who Wins it.

If Gwyneth really had a black-eye Monday.

If Albert and Mable have the bug again.

What all the commotion was about Tuesday noon.

Why Adell is kidding Mr. Clyde Bridges.

If that Groom gossip on Miss Hawkins is true after all.

Revival

The Revival at the Methodist church has been set for the 10th of April to continue for 10 days. Keep this date in mind as we will have something further to announce before that time.

End of the Trail

WHEN Capt. James H. Cook died recently on his 15,000-acre Agate Springs ranch in Sioux county, Neb., the passing of this 84-year-old Westerner broke one of the present and that era in American history epitomized in the phrase "the Wild West." For "Captain Jim" was an authentic frontiersman—a cowboy who trailed Texas ionghorns north to the roaring cow towns of Kansas and Nebraska, a guide and big game hunter, a scout for the United States army in the last of the Indian wars and a pioneer ranchman in the heart of the Indian country in western Nebraska.

A descendant of Captain James Cook, the famous English explorer, the future frontiersman was born in southern Michigan August 26, 1857. His father was a seafaring man but young Cook did not choose to follow in his sire's footsteps. "I think the spirit of the hunter was in me at birth," he once said and, as a boy, he became an expert marksman with the rifle.

By the time he was 17, the call of adventure had taken him west—to Kansas, where he found a job as a herder near old Fort Harker. Then he went to Texas with some cowboys who had brought a herd up the trail from the Lone Star state. In San Antonio he became acquainted with the redoubtable "Big Foot" Wallace who liked the "shorthorn" kid so much that he gave young Cook one of the best of his three-year-old colts. But Cook didn't remain a tenderfoot long. Within a year he was working as a cowboy for the famous Ben Slaughter and during the next four or five years he became one of the most expert "brushpoppers" in the cattle country. During this time also he helped trail many a herd north to the Indian agencies in Nebraska and the Dakotas, became acquainted with such famous chiefs as old Red Cloud, Young Man Afraid of His Horses, Little Wound and American Horse.

At Fort Laramie he met Baptiste Garnier, famous on the frontier as "Little Bat," hunter and army scout. Under the tutelage of "Little Bat," young Cook became a skilled big game hunter and, in 1878 he made his last trip up the trail as a cow waddie. At Cheyenne, Wyo., he fell in with "Wild Horse Charlie" Alexander, renowned for his skill in capturing wild mustangs. The two men became partners in supplying game for the markets in Cheyenne and other towns along the Union Pacific railroad.

During the next four years Cook served as a guide for many a hunting party of Easterners and Englishmen in the wilds of Wyoming and this led directly to his being employed by one of them—Harold C. Wilson of Cheltenham, England—to take charge of the ranch which Wilson purchased in southwestern New Mexico. Cook was manager of the "W S" ranch until 1887 and during that time he won his greatest fame as a scout by serving with the United States troops in running down the Apache leader, Geronimo, after his last outbreak in 1885-6.

In the meantime Cook had purchased the ranch in western Nebraska which was to be his home for the next 50 years. At the time of the Ghost Dance excitement among the Sioux in 1890-91 he performed valuable service for the army because he was one of the few white men whom the Indians trusted. Ever afterwards they were frequent visitors at his Agate Springs ranch and when he died on January 27, 1942, there was sadness among the Oglala Sioux for they had lost their good friend, "Little Eagle."

In 1923 his autobiography was published by the Yale University Press under the title of "Fifty Years on the Old Frontier" and the introduction to that volume was written by Gen. Charles King, who served as a lieutenant and adjutant of the "Fighting Fifth" cavalry in the Sioux and Apache wars. In it General King paid tribute to "the scouts of the Plains, men famous in song and story, of whom Kit Carson and Jim Bridger in the early days and 'Buffalo Bill' Cody and, later still, 'Captain Jim' Cook were the shining lights."
