Lions Club News

The Lions Clubs have adopted the following pledge:

"We pledge that we shall continue with unabated vigor all of the tasks at home which we may do to assist you in your efforts on the battle fronts.

We pledge that we shall do our utmost to make your duties less hazardous and to enable you to complete them in the shortest possible time.

We pledge to you that when you return home we shall remember what you have done; and shall not shirk the duties which you expect of us and which we have promised to do.

We pledge as Lions we shall assist in every possible way to show our appreciation of the service you have rendered to your country and ours.

We pledge these things in a solemnity, and upon our honor as Lions. We shall maintain this pledge."

This pledge is something we should all think of, and it would be good for all of us to adopt. We should think more of the boys returning home and the town they are returning to. One of the best things we could do is to do everything we can toward building our town. One of the best things toward building a town is to trade at home as much as possible. The more we trade at home the bigger and better our town will be and the more jobs and openings for business there will be for ourselves and the boys who are returning home soon.

This week local Lions are visiting the Lakeview Lions Club and will furnish the program. Next week is regular Lion Club meeting night. Lions Walter Johnson, Gene Moss and C. E. Johnson have charge of the program and it should be a good one.

Food Demonstration

On Sept. 14, Mrs. Zeman Emergency War Food Assistant, came to the Home Making room of the High School building to demonstrate how to prepare fruits, vegetables and meats for the frozen food locker.

Mrs. Zeman used peaches to demonstrate fruits. First she washed them and pitted them, then she cut them into slices. She made a syrup of water and sugar, and after she packed them in the paper container she poured this syrup over them. She left 1/4 of an inch to keep them from being too full.

For the vegetables she used corn. After the corn was shucked and silked she put the ears of corn in a sack and held it in boiling water for three minutes. When it was taken out of the boiling water it was put in cold water to cool. Then it was put in a drainer to drain the water out of it. After it had drained she cut it off the cob and packed it in a container and poured a brine over it.

For meat she used a chicken. Mr. Reid, the County Agent of Donley County, killed the chicken. He took a clothes hanger and bent it together, then he bent the ends where the chicken couldn't get its feet free. He put the chicken's feet in this hanger, with its head down. He bent the neck of the hanger around a string he had stretched up. He let the chicken's head hang down and took his fingers and pulled the skin tight around its neck. Then he took a sharp knife and cut the throat. Mrs. Zeman picked it and singed it. Then she washed it with soda, and washed it with clear water. Then she dressed it, cut it up and packed it into the container.

Everyone enjoyed the demonstration. They also benefited by it.

News Of The Rationing Board

Because there is a critical shortage of popular brand cigarettes, some dealers and street vendors throughout the district have been reported to have increased their selling prices. This is a direct violation of OPA regulations, for the ceiling price has not been raised. Many of those selling at excessive prices do not have state licenses to retail cigarettes. Some localities report that they believe hoarding is to blame for the shortage and that if consumers will buy in moderation when cigarettes are available the situation will ease up. If you are "approached" with the opportunity to buy cigarettes at more than the ceiling price, please report it to your local Price Panel.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Invasion of Yugoslavia Poses Another Threat to Reich; Plan for Small Standing Army

Released by Western Newspaper Union. (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Entering Chambois, France, the Allies found abandoned, wrecked and burned German equipment, common sights along the enemy's battered retreat route to the Reich.

EUROPE:

New Front

For the little man with the clipped mustache, there seemed to be no end of trouble.

Although his broken armies in the west were reorganizing for a stiffer stand against the U. S. and British onslaught, and although his battered Russians in the east were slowing the Russians from the Black sea to the Carpathians, the Allies posed still another threat to his narrowing defensive circle by an invasion of Yugoslavia.

As Russian troops tore across Romania onto the eastern Yugoslav border near the capital of Belgrade, U. S. and British forces landed on the western coast for a drive inland. As the two Allied armies worked forward for a junction, Marshal Josp Tito's Partisans were active in harassing German troops and sabotaging communication lines. The twin offensive in Yugoslavia doubly imperiled the harried legions of Adolf Hitler.

Stiffen at Border

Bleated the German radio to fanatical Nazi rearguards resisting the U. S. and British drives to the Reich's western frontier:

"Every day gained now amounts to a reinforcement of our national strength for the defense of the Reich itself. . . . Partly because of such resistance, partly because the fast-moving Allied armies had outrun their lengthening supply lines, the U. S. and British thrusts in the Lowlands and France temporarily lost their whirling momentum.

Fighting was particularly heavy in northeastern Belgium before the fortress city of Liege and, directly to the east of Paris, where American troops drew up along the Moselle river for an assault on Nazi defenses guarding the rich industrial Saar basin.

Mounded thickly in the precipitous, wooded heights east of the Moselle, the German artillery maintained a steady drumfire against doughty U. S. troops seeking to establish firm bridgeheads across the river.

Farther to the south, Lieut. Gen. Alexander Patch's Seventh army, driving up from the Mediterranean for a juncture with Lieut. Gen. George Patton's Third army along the Moselle, drove on the Belfort gap, the low-lying plane between the Vosges mountains of France and Swiss border leading into Germany.

Costly Fighting

Reflecting the strong pressure the Russians were exerting to the northeast of Warsaw, the Germans acknowledged their withdrawal across the Narwey river, ". . . to avoid the danger of a Russian breakthrough on the southern border of East Prussia."

In withdrawing across the Narwey, the Nazis continued their policy of economizing their forces by giving ground when the superior weight of their opponent promised to grind down their manpower.

Because of the proximity of the Russians to German soil, however, the Nazis no longer were free to make wholesale withdrawals, but now faced bloody front-line fighting.

MISCELLANY

OF VIOLATIONS: In the first half of this year, formal enforcement of Office of Price Administration regulations was necessary in 42,000 cases involving violations of price ceilings, rationing quotas, and rent levels. Action included revocations of 20,654 consumer gasoline rations, 4,255 suits for injunctions, 1,158 triple damage suits, and 2,191 criminal prosecutions.

CIVILIAN GOODS:

Postwar Formula

Manufacture of civilian goods will begin in earnest with the fall of Germany, with war output due to drop about 40 per cent, and 4,000,000 workers freed for other jobs, the War Production board revealed.

At the present time, a limited reorganization program has been instituted, with emphasis placed upon preparation for the eventual resumption of civilian production.

Under current regulations, manufacturers are permitted to develop working postwar models and order machinery for civilian output. In allowing these manufacturers not engaged in war work to start turning out civilian lines after the Nazis' downfall, the WPB will maintain priorities for military production alone and will relax most of its controls over materials.

Under the army's plans for releasing surplus men, each of the first four mentioned factors will be worth a certain number of points, with release going to doughboys with the highest ratings. However, it was pointed out, men with qualifications needed for the war in the Pacific will be transferred to the Far East regardless of their status.

DEMobilIZATION:

Discharge Plans

Total length of service, time served overseas, combat record and dependency will govern the demobilization of soldiers following the defeat of Germany, the army announced.

Under the army's plans for releasing surplus men, each of the first four mentioned factors will be worth a certain number of points, with release going to doughboys with the highest ratings.

Because of the war in the Pacific will receive first call on shipping, it may take many months for men eligible for demobilization to return to this country, the army said. Since men in camps here are expected to have the lowest priority ratings, they will constitute the principal pool for replacements.

Since the U. S.'s full seapower will be needed in the all-out war against Japan, there will be no demobilization of the navy when Germany falls.

Future Army

Declaring that ". . . a large standing army has no place among the institutions of a modern democratic state," Gen. George C. Marshall told officers planning military organization to work on a small, efficient force with a reserve of well-trained citizens.

In issuing his directive, General Marshall assumed that congress would pass legislation requiring every able-bodied American youth to undergo training before placement in the reserves.

By advocating a small, efficient force with a large pool of reservists, General Marshall said that there was more opportunity for advancement in such an organization than there was in a big standing army, where the size made it necessary to maintain a large, professional officers' cast at all times.

HELP WANTED

A shortage of 200,000 workers exists in the principal industrial regions of the country, and it can be remedied only by shifting men and women from areas where there is less stringency, the War Manpower commission declares. Heavy war industries in New England, North Atlantic, Middle West and the Pacific Coast are being hampered by lack of skilled help. Only in the South and Southwest is there an approximately adequate labor supply.

PACIFIC:

Tougher Goings

With U. S. forces edging closer to the Philippines and Japan itself through intensive operations against the Bonins lying 600 miles from Tokyo, Navy Secretary James Forrestal warned the country that the going would become increasingly tougher as the enemy concentrated his forces for a fight on a shorter front.

In speaking of the enemy's air force, Forrestal said: "The Japs have obviously been saving their planes for the engagement to come. Except for the battle of the eastern Philippines, they have not risked a big aerial battle for months."

In addition to concentrating numbers, the Japs have also been improving the quality of their planes, Forrestal revealed. Said he: "Jap planes of every type . . . now have greater fire power, armament, speed, range and load capacity. United States navy planes have been improved, too, but we don't now have as big technical advantages . . . as a year ago."

CANNED FOODS:

Remove Rationing

Because War Food Administrator Marvin Jones advised that available and prospective supplies justified the step, the government removed from rationing all canned and processed jams, jellies, fruit butters, asparagus, lima beans, corn, peas, pumpkins, squash, mixed vegetables, baked beans, tomato sauce and puree and all varieties of soups and baby foods.

At the same time, a WFA spokesman declared that heavy runs of cattle may permit the removal of commercial grade beefsteaks and roasts from rationing in October or November. At present, sizable marketings of grass-fed stock have resulted in ample point-free supplies of utility grade meats. Lighter runs of prime cattle, on the other hand, will make continued rationing of top cuts necessary.

Charts Quake

Using a cross-sectional model of the globe, Rev. Joseph Lynch, director of the observatory of Fordham university, charts course of recent earthquake which shook northeast corner of U. S. and extended as far southwest as Wisconsin. According to Reverend Lynch, disturbance centered near eastern end of Lake Ontario.

CATTLE:

War Prices

As the war entered its sixth year this month, price levels of meat animals were from 45 to 105 per cent higher than they were in September, 1939.

On the Chicago market, cattle that brought $12 per hundredweight six years ago sold at $18.35. Steers that averaged $10.30 then drew $15.85.

The rise was equally marked in hogs, with head under 240 pounds, which brought $8 per hundredweight six years ago, selling for the $14.75 ceiling. As a whole, the average of $7 of 1939 was far below the 1944 figure of $14.55.

Against the top of $10 in 1939, lambs drew $14.65 per hundredweight, with the $9.50 average of six years ago below this month's mark of $14.25.

FURLOUGHS:

Shipping Factor

As a demand was made in congress for an investigation of the war department's handling of furloughs, especially in the Pacific, a letter from Gen. Douglas MacArthur stated that the scarcity of shipping hindered a more liberalized policy.

Citing the shipping shortage, General MacArthur said: "The return to the United States without replacement of all men who have served a specified length of time would, of course, halt our offensive against Japan and might indefinitely prolong the war."

While the demand was made for the investigation, Rep. Carl Hinshaw (Calif.) urged that soldiers stationed in Alaska be rotated by units to other posts.

SURPLUS GOODS:

Release Vehicles Excess stocks of war materials are being declared surplus at the rate of 100 million dollars worth a month. Goods "declared surplus" can be sold off as rapidly as possible. Eighty-five per cent of the materials are from the war department at present, and consist of airplanes, motor vehicles, medical supplies and radio equipment. So far, goods sold have brought $3.8 per cent of original cost.

School Lunchbox Gets Zip With Citrus

A LUNCHBOX can be as full of zip as the tangerine or orange tucked in. Marjorie Griffin, Home Editor of Capper's Farmer, advises mothers faced with the daily problem of making their school-age youngsters' noon lunch zestful.

"It can be just as refreshing as the thermos of grapefruit juice," she writes in the Country Cooking section of the magazine read by 1,250,000 farm families. "Citrus fruit supplies vitamin C as well as interest to the lunchbox."

Another citrus delicacy that can perform the twofold assignment of providing a tempting dessert for home meals or a toothsome addition to the lunchbox, is Orange Bread. It is simple to make and quickly becomes a family favorite.

This bread requires only 1/2 cup of sugar and may be served with or without frosting.

Orange Bread.

- 1 large orange
- Hot water
- Raisins
- 1/2 cup nuts
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup white sugar
- 2 cups flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Squeeze juice from orange and add hot water to make 1 cup. Put rind and pulp of orange through food chopper and add raisins to make 1 cup. Combine liquid, fruit, nuts and melted shortening. Add eggs and flavoring. Add sifted dry ingredients in 3 portions. Mix only enough to dampen flour. Bake in a moderate oven (350-F) from 50 to 60 minutes.

This recipe for Orange Bread was selected from hundreds sent in by readers of the Country Cooking department of the farm magazine, which invites homemakers to submit practical, wartime recipes each month.

'Make Hay' in School, 'Teen-Agers Advised

EVEN though school is in full swing, it seems pretty early to think about graduation, especially if that great day is going to be several years coming, says Holly Miller, whose column in Capper's Farmer is a popular feature among boy and girl readers of the nationally circulated farm magazine.

"However, a diploma won't automatically turn you into the intelligent, educated, efficient young whatever-you-want-to-be," she counsels, "unless you've laid a good foundation through the years of good old golden rule days."

"Come graduation, your class poet probably will dream up a fancy peak into the future lives of your classmates, all in rather free verse. For instance:

"A word engineer is our George Arnold White— He designs big machines of great strength and much might."

"Are you making hay while the state is paying for your education, or are you etting bright boys like George White get a running start? George probably studied his math and physics while he was in School. A basic background of information is not a luxury in this day and age. It's a necessity for Getting Ahead, because a fair percentage of the millions of your contemporaries are going to school to learn—not just to pass. Playing through school fits you for practically nothing but playing through life."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"The war sure has made a lot of changes in this old world of ours, hasn't it, Judge?"
 "Plenty of them, John. One that few people realize is that the rubber producing center of the world is now right here in the United States."
 "When the Japs conquered the big natural rubber producing centers of the world they thought they had us licked. But in two short years, thanks to American industry, we are now producing synthetic rubber enough to supply all our military and essential civilian needs."

"Our rubber experts knew how to make it but the problem was to get the huge amounts of industrial alcohol needed. Almost overnight the country's beverage distillers stopped making whiskey and converted 100% to the production of this vital ingredient. A high government official said recently this was 'an almost unparalleled example of the overnight conversion of an entire industry from peace to war.'"
 "Come to think of it, Judge, it was a mighty fortunate thing the beverage distilling industry was in existence, wasn't it?"

A long-handled dustpan saves homemakers lots of back-tiring stooping. If none is available in the stores, have your husband fashion one from an old mop handle, and your regular dustpan, suggests the Home Editor of Capper's Farmer, whose advice on household matters is read by 1,250,000 farm families. Cleaning bedsprings is a tedious job normally, she adds, but when you use a long-handled dish mop which has been treated with furniture oil, the dust disappears like magic. Moreover, you save time, disposition and many a backache.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB

of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

War Food Administration officials figure that the maximum number of milk cows for which there will be feed and other facilities should be reached by the end of this year. At the same time, a lot of heifers calved in 1942 and 1943 will be coming into production.

This situation may make it possible for the dairy farmer to change the make-up of his herd so that he can keep the same number of cows and produce more milk than his present herd is giving, or cut down the number of cows and still keep milk volume to this year's level.

The extension services and experimental stations have proved conclusively that high producing cows use feed and labor to better advantage than do low producers. If you can get rid of a low producer and replace it with a well-bred heifer, you may cut your cost of production and at the same time supply more milk for the war food program.

One of the studies on this subject which I ran across recently was from the University of Idaho. The figures showed that, at the time of the test, a cow producing 150 lbs. of fat had a feed cost of 30.6c per pound. The cost of getting a pound of fat from a cow giving 450 pounds of fat was 16.6c.

Putting it another way, the Idaho figures showed that the low producer brought in $1.59 for every dollar's worth of feed consumed, while the high producer returned $2.80 for every feed dollar.

Point Five of the 8-Point Dairy Program is "keep as many cows as feed and labor permit". It is vitally important that milk production be held at the best possible level in future months. But it is equally important that feed be used most efficiently.

Feed and labor are the limiting factors in dairy production, the University of California says, and such feed and labor must be used to best advantage. I suggest a talk with your county agent, for advice on your herd, whether you can and should cull on a basis of replacing a low producer with a well-bred heifer.

Two cows looked over a drought stricken pasture. "This is a time to put a heifer on your appetite," said one. "No, this is a time to put a bit in your mouth," said the other.

Once before, in this column, I mentioned the fact that cows, the same as people, work best in pleasant surroundings. You do a better job when you've had a good rest in a good bed. Cows, too, need proper bedding.

Bedding for cows serves several purposes—keeping the cow clean and thus helping in the sanitation program and making it easier to clean out the barn. Farmers' Bulletin No. 1470 from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., gives some sound ideas on proper bedding. It is free.

It suggests wheat or oat straw or corn stover as good bedding material, with shredded or cut corn stover first in liquid holding capacity and greatest in fertilizer value. Straw, however, is probably the easiest to get in your area. Soy bean straw is being used in a lot of places.

The USDA says about four pounds of wheat straw per day gives a suitable bed and keeps the cow clean, but eight pounds does a better job of absorbing liquid.

The Minnesota Extension Service, in Extension Folder 106, cautions not to handle bedding in the barn for several hours before milking time, because it raises dust. This leaflet has some good pointers on other subjects too. You can get it by writing the Extension Service, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn.*

Doing a job right, such as producing clean milk, is pretty much a matter of establishing good habits. When a day-to-day job is set up the right way, it becomes a habit which is easy to follow. The Producers' Edition of the Kraftman, for September, has a detailed discussion of good habits in handling milk and cleaning and storing utensils. A copy will be sent you free if you'll drop a note to Uncle Bob, Kraft Cheese Company, 560 Peabody Court, Chicago, Ill.

Some months ago we mentioned a University of Missouri Extension bulletin on how to build your own stock tank heater. This seems a good time to bring up the subject again, since before long you'll have to figure out some way to take the chill off water your cows drink, if they are to be kept in top production.

Missouri says a cow's production can be increased from 25% to 100% by giving her water the temperature of which is 50 to 60 degrees, instead of icy water. Cold water causes a reduction in milk flow, reduces the cow's water intake and causes it to eat more grain, in order to warm up again.

The bulletin shows how to build a heater out of a milk can, simply and easily and at very slight cost in money or labor. If you do not have one, I suggest you write the Extension Service, Columbia, Missouri, and get a copy of Circular 484.*

First though, I want to warn you not to let engine acids do their worst damage, when you can easily outsmart them by getting your engine's insides OIL-PLATED. Listen, right on a can of Conoco Nth motor oil you'll read about Nth oil's modern synthetic. It works something like magnetism. That's how it makes metal surfaces keep hold of OIL-PLATING. Then what if the engine explosions produce deadly corrosive acids, as every expert and his brother will tell you? Those acids still wouldn't gnaw direct at fine steel that's shielded by OIL-PLATING—a real acid-fighter! It fights for your car. While waiting for new ones—who knows how long?—don't delay switching to Conoco Nth oil.

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL

With Ernie Pyle at the Front

Front Line Infantryman Learns How to Kill Enemy

Not a Killer at Heart, These Boys Soon Develop Accuracy

By Ernie Pyle

ON THE WESTERN FRONT (Delayed).—Soldiers are made out of the strangest people.

I've recently made a new friend—just a plain old Hoosier—who is so quiet and humble you would hardly know he was around. Yet in our few weeks of invasion he has killed four of the enemy, and he has learned war's wise little ways of destroying life and preserving your own.

He hasn't become the "killer" type that war makes of some soldiers; he has merely become adjusted to an obligatory new profession.

Ernie Pyle

His name is George Thomas Clayton. Back home he is known as Tommy. In the army he is sometimes called George, but usually just Clayton.

He is from Evansville, where he lived with his sister. He is a front-line infantryman of a rifle company in the 29th division.

By the time this is printed he will be back in the lines. Right now he is out of combat for a brief rest. He spent a few days in an "Exhaustion camp," then was assigned briefly to the camp where I work from—a camp for correspondents. That's how we got acquainted.

Clayton is a private first class. He operates a Browning automatic rifle. He has turned down two chances to become a buck sergeant and squad leader, simply because he would rather keep his powerful B. A. R. than have stripes and less personal protection.

He landed in Normandy on D-day, on the toughest of the beaches, and was in the line for 37 days without rest. He has had innumerable narrow escapes.

Twice, 88s hit within a couple of arms' lengths of him. But both times the funnel of the concussion was away from him and he didn't get a scratch, though the explosions covered him and his rifle with dirt.

Then a third one hit about 10 feet away, and made him deaf in his right ear. He had always had trouble with that ear anyway—ear aches and things as a child. Even in the army back in America he had to beg the doctors to waive the ear defect in order to come overseas. He is still a little hard of hearing in that ear from the shell burst, but it's gradually coming back.

When Tommy finally left the lines he was pretty well done up and his sergeant wanted to send him to a hospital, but he begged not to go for fear he wouldn't get back to his old company, so they let him go to a rest camp instead. And now after a couple of weeks with us (provided the correspondents don't drive him frantic), he will return to the lines with his old outfit.

Clayton has worked at all kinds of things back in that other world of civilian life. He has been a farm hand, a cook and a bartender. Just before he joined the army he was a gauge-honer in the Chrysler Ordnance plant at Evansville.

When the war is over he wants to go into business for himself for the first time in his life. He'll probably set up a small restaurant in Evansville. He said his brother-in-law would back him.

Tommy was shipped overseas after only two months in the army, and now has been out of America for 18 months. He is medium-sized, dark-haired, has a little mustache and the funniest-looking head of hair you ever saw this side of Buffalo Bill's show.

While his division was killing time in the last few days before leaving England, he and three others decided to have their hair cut Indian fashion. They had their heads clipped down to the skin all except for a two-inch ridge starting at the forehead and running clear to the back of the neck. It makes them look more comical than ferocious, as they had intended. Two of the four have been wounded and evacuated to England.

I chatted off and on with Clayton for several days before he told me how old he was. I was amazed; so much so that I asked several other people to guess at his age and they all guessed about the same as I did—about 26.

Actually he is 37, and that's pretty well along in years to be a front-line infantryman. It's harder on a man at that age.

As Clayton himself says, "When you pass that 30 mark you begin to slow up a little."

It's harder for you to take the hard ground and the rain and the sleeplessness and the unending wracking of it all. And yet at 37 he elected to go back.

The ways of an invasion turned out to be all very new to Tommy Clayton.

It was new to thousands of others also, for they hadn't been trained in hedgerow fighting. So they had to learn it the way a dog learns to swim. They learned.

This Tommy Clayton, the mildest of men, has killed four of the enemy for sure, and probably dozens of unseen ones. He wears an expert rifleman's badge and soon will have the proud badge of combat infantryman, worn only by those who have been through the mill.

Three of his four victims he got in one long blast of his Browning automatic rifle. He was stationed in the bushes at a bend in a gravel road, covering a crossroad about 80 yards ahead of him.

Suddenly three German soldiers came out a side road and foolishly stopped to talk right in the middle of the crossroads. The B. A. R. has 20 bullets in a clip. Clayton held her down for the whole clip. The three Germans went down, never to get up.

His fourth one he thought was a Jap when he killed him. In the early days of the invasion lots of soldiers thought they were fighting Japs, scattered in with the German troops. They were actually Mongolian Russians, with strong Oriental features, who resembled Japs to the untraveled Americans.

On this fourth killing, Clayton was covering an infantry squad as it worked forward along a hedgerow. There were ships in the trees in front. Clayton spotted one and sprayed the tree with his automatic rifle, and out tumbled this man he thought was a Jap.

To show how little anyone who hasn't been through war can know about it—do you want to know how Clayton located his sniper?

Here's how—When a bullet passes smack over your head it doesn't ping; it pops the same as a rifle when it goes off. That's because the bullet's rapid passage creates a vacuum behind it, and the air rushes back with such force to fill this vacuum that it collides with itself, and makes a resounding "pop."

Clayton didn't know what caused this, and I tried to explain. "You know what a vacuum is," I said. "We learned that in high school."

And Tommy said, "Ernie, I never went past the third grade."

But Tommy is intelligent and his sensitivities are fine. You don't have to know the reasons in war, you only have to know what things indicate when they happen.

Well, Clayton had learned that the pop of a bullet over his head preceded the actual rifle report by a fraction of a second, because the sound of the rifle explosion had to travel some distance before hitting his ear. So the "pop" became his warning signal to listen for the crack of a sniper's rifle a moment later.

Through much practice he had learned to gauge the direction of the sound almost exactly. And so out of this animal-like system of hunting, he had the knowledge to shoot into the right tree—and out tumbled his "Jap" sniper.

In a long drive an infantry company may go for a couple of days without letting up. Ammunition is carried up to it by hand, and occasionally by jeep. The soldiers sometimes eat only one K ration a day. They may run clear out of water. Their strength is gradually whittled down by wounds, exhaustion, cases and straggling.

Finally they will get an order to sit where they are and dig in.

Air Force Mistake Only Natural

There is one more thing I want to say before we follow the ground troops on deeper into France in the great push you've been reading about now for days.

I'm sure that back in England that night other men—bomber crews—almost wept, and maybe they did really, in the awful knowledge that they had killed our own American troops. But I want to say this to them. The chaos and the bitterness there in the orchards and between the hedgerows that afternoon have passed. After the bitterness came the sober remembrance that the air corps is the strong right arm in front of us. Not only at the beginning, but ceaselessly and everlastingly, every moment of the faintest daylight, the air corps is up there banging away ahead of us,

Household Hints

When setting posts, dig the hole a foot deeper and fill the bottom with rocks. This gives ground water a chance to drain away from the post, thereby helping to preserve it.

Slip an oiled-silk bowl cover over the hand wheel of a sewing machine. Keeps small children from getting their fingers and hands caught when it's turning.

If you have an old windshield wiper, it may be used when washing the windows of your home.

You can boil a cracked egg in the following way: Put a tablespoonful of salt into the water for boiling. Rub common salt thickly on the crack and put at once into the water, which should be boiling fast. You will find that the white will not bubble out and be wasted.

If you have a piece of furniture with a dent in it this is how it can be removed. You need a thick pad of brown paper which should be soaked thoroughly in water. Put this on the dent and a hot iron on top of it, pressing well until the paper is dry. This raises the sunken wood, but you may have to repeat the process before the wood is quite level again. Don't use on highly polished or veneered surfaces.

Should the cane seat of a chair sag, wash it with hot water, then set it out in the air (not in the sun) to dry. The cane tightens as it dries.

Clean stained bronze ornaments with hot vinegar or hot buttermilk rubbed on with a soft brush or cloth. Rinse in warm water and wash in hot water and soapsuds. Wipe dry with soft cloth.
