VOL. 34

HEDLEY, DONLEY COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY

NO. 52

COMMENTS

By County Agent Charles Reed

The last straw that broke the camel's back is a familiar fable to all of us.

The compresses in this area are requesting the cotton farmers and gins to co-operate with the compress to reduce the number of large bales being sent to compress. Compress machinery was designed for 500 lbs. which is U. S. standard weight. Compress machinery can handle bales ranging in weight from 400 lbs. to 600 lbs. but prefer the 500 lb. average bale.

Last year due to many causes the cotton farmers gained a larger number of bales that weighed over 600 lbs. The bales caused compress many headaches, trouble break downs and delays. Again this year the compresses have been receiving a large number of bales weighing over 600 lbs. with more breakdowns.

To reduce the number of breakdowns and delays caused by bales weighing over 600 lbs. the compresses are requesting cotton producers and ginners to co-operate with them to help keep bales under 600 lbs.

Talk this over with your neighbors and gin managers.

Canning Sugar

Sugar for home canning will continue to be issued eligible applicants in the 71 counties of the Lubbock OPA District until Dec. 1. Food Rationing Officer Opal L. Wood has announced in reply to many inquiries.

The second period for issuance of home canning sugar was designated to run through November because of late fall fruits in many parts of this district. The original plan is to be continued to provide sugar for canning fall fruits, she pointed out.

Many local boards have reported an influx of applications for home canning sugar following a recent report that October 31 was the application deadline in some districts in Texas.

Dec. 1 Gift Mail Deadline

December 1 is the deadline requested by the Post Office Department for mailing Christmas gifts inside the United States. Every citizen who is playing Santa Claus for loved ones and friends in other towns is urged to get that present in the mails by that date to assure proper delivery. The reason, say postal officials, is that Americans are expected to mail domestically 25 percent more gifts than a year ago—and at a time when the Post Office has fewer employees and less well trained holiday help than ever before. In addition, the fact that more people have moved to different addresses to do war work is expected to mean that the average distance traveled by each gift will be greater than before the war.

Scattered Shots

A glance at the date line of this paper shows Volume 34, No. 52, making the final issue of the Informer's 34th year in Hedley. J. Claude Wells, present publisher of the Memphis Democrat, established the Informer in 1910 and operated it until it was sold to Ed C. Boliver in 1917. Except for a two-months recess last year, the Informer has been operated by the Boliver family since that time.

Many changes have taken place in Hedley since the Informer was founded, many good citizens have passed away and others have moved to far places, yet Hedley's greatest asset through the years has always been a people who kept the pioneer traditions of friendliness and a helping hand. Perhaps there are other people in the world as good as Hedley people, but don't know where they are.

On this anniversary, we express our appreciation to the merchants and citizens for their support they have always given the Informer.

We have had many ups and downs, with the "downs" prominent in the majority, yet we managed to hang on for 34 years and with the good will of the community, may yet make it another 34.

The Wise Old Owl appears to be hibernating this week.

The duck season opened with bang last Thursday, the only trouble being about three hunters to each duck.

Our good friend Hershel Comb who has been mechanical superintendent of the Wellington Leader for years, has moved to Memphis where he is employed on the Democrat. Editor J. Claude Wells looking a little more cheerful, sit Herschel is one of the best printers in this section.

The only event to compare with the Oklahoma land rush is Hedley "cigarette rush" event Tuesday.

EUROPE:

Clearing Holland

Pushed back in France and Belgium, the Germans were being shoved out of their last holdings in Holland by Canadian and British troops applying a double squeeze on some 60,000 Nazis in the southwestern part of the country.

Only in Holland was there major action on the western front, with rain and snow bogging U. S. drives about Aachen, Metz and the Vosges mountains.

Even though the British 2nd army had overrun the entire eastern section of Holland in a drive that the Nazis only stopped at the gateway to their important Ruhr valley, the Germans held their ground in the western part of the country for the purpose of denying the Allies use of the great North Sea ports for the supply of their crushing armies.

Principal port denied the Allies was Antwerp, which the Nazis blocked off by occupying both sides of the Schelde river leading inland to the city. Dotting one side of the Schelde are the Walcheren and South Beveland islands, connected to the mainland by a causeway below Bergen Op Zoom.

In attempting to knock the Germans out of their strategic positions along both sides of the Schelde, Canadian troops cut into the enemy's defenses on the south bank of the river, and fought to capture the causeway below Bergen Op Zoom and cut off inland communications with the mainland.

Meanwhile, British troops smashed through Nazi defenses to the north, with the aim of racing toward the

PACIFIC:

Save Communications

Long in hiding, Japan's imperial navy came out for battle in an effort to smash the American supply line to General Douglas MacArthur's forces in the Philippines, and limped off in defeat as the U. S. 3rd and 7th fleets shattered the attack.

The Japs' attack took the form of a three-pronged assault on enemy force coming in from the narrow Surigao strait, Leyte; the second drive was toward the San Bernardino strait, Leyte, and the third toward the Formosa strait.

Apprised of the Japs' alert U. S. carrier planes, Thomas C. Kinkaid divided his numbered 7th fleet into two groups, with the aid of carrier planes dealt the enemy a telling blow. He could fully develop his attack. Meanwhile, Adm. William F. Halsey's 3rd fleet, made up of warships, carriers and subs, caught the Japs sailing down from Formosa.

After the smoke of battle had cleared, two Jap carriers, two battleships, five cruisers and three destroyers were sunk, with three more warships probably sunk and a dozen damaged. For their part, the Japs claimed to have primarily struck transports and landing craft.

As the crippled Jap fleet limped homeward licking its wounds, General MacArthur's ground forces consolidated their hold on Leyte island despite mounting enemy resistance and also strengthened their grip on Samar island just across the Sag Janico straits.

HOME FRONT:

Needs for Consumers

On the home-front, consumers heard this news: There will be less meat for civilians in November but more of the better grades. There will be less cheese but the same amount of butter as in October.

Approximately 800 plants were authorized to produce 152 million dollars of civilian goods during the next year.

Infants' and children's clothes were expected to be in greater supply next January. February and March. Cotton textile controls will be maintained after Germany's defeat.

Possessing available facilities and labor, the 800 plants will be permitted to manufacture vacuum cleaners, bed springs and innerspring mattresses, automotive parts, building materials, plumbing and heating items, household aluminum ware, electric irons, lamps, lawn mowers, furniture, sporting goods, fountain pens and church goods.

Because of pent-up demand, made even more formidable by swollen purchasing power, the amount of goods authorized represents virtually a drop in the bucket.

To assure production of more infants' and children's wear for the first three months of 1945, the War Production board moved to release sufficient material for 30,000,000 garments, and also laid down specifications for the type of goods and workmanship to be employed.

The WPB hurried the program even as its chairman, J. A. Krug, announced that because of drops in output of cotton textiles due to labor difficulties, controls will be extended after Germany's downfall to prevent acute shortages.

BRITISH LAND

Steele clear of any political battle between conservatives and liberals that might upset the present coalition government. Britain's house of commons passed a bill for postwar reconstruction.

Passage was aimed at avoiding all-out war between the two sides. The bill's passage is only by a narrow margin.

ROAD BUILDING:

Huge Program

With urgent highway construction in the early postwar years exceeding 10 billion dollars, the vast quantities of labor, material and equipment needed for carrying on the program should act as a stabilizing factor in the future economy, the American Road Builders association's engineer-director, Charles M. Upham, declared.

By next October, the states will have drawn up plans for one billion dollars of highway construction deferred because of the war, and city, county and local projects will amount to another billion.

"Postwar plans for road and distribution of funds will carry greater weight than ever," Upham said.

Infant son of a Yank aviator killed in action, and of a mother who died in giving him birth, tiny Kenneth Maloney was taken by maternal grandparents, who were later killed by robot bomb in London.

Army then flew six-month-old Kenneth to paternal grandmother in Grand Rapids, Mich., who is shown putting him to bed while 22-month-old cousin Terry looks on.

BIG DEAL:

$161,000,000 Check

Wall street gave way to LaSalle street when the Commonwealth Edison company refinanced 180 million dollars' worth of bonds in the biggest private financing operation in the nation's history.

Featuring the deal was the purchase of new bonds by the big Chicago investment house of Halsey, Stuart & company, which with Otis & company of Cleveland, Ohio, has been backing the great Wall street banking firms.

In completing the transaction, Halsey, Stuart's representative handed Commonwealth's representative a check for 161 million dollars, also covering interest due on the bonds and the premium paid for getting the business.

In addition to the 155 million dollars refunded with new bonds, Commonwealth retired an additional 23 million dollars of securities with its own cash.

RAIL RATES:

Wants Boosts

Supporting their petition for continuance of the 10 per cent increase in passenger fares, and immediate application of the 4 1/2 per cent freight rate boost, railroad representatives declared the carriers faced decreasing revenues when war traffic subsided.

Previously, federal agricultural agencies opposed the freight rate increases on the strength of continued high farm traffic for at least two years after the war.

Unless rail revenue is bolstered by rate increases, said Vice President Walter S. Franklin of the Pennsylvania railroad, the financial structure of the carriers will be seriously impaired in the postwar years, with the result being "... a very much less effective operation, and a serious impairment of the railroads' ability... to be ready to do their part in meeting the employment problem after the war."

BRITISH LAND

Steele clear of any political battle between conservatives and liberals that might upset the present coalition government. Britain's house of commons passed a bill for postwar reconstruction.

Passage was aimed at avoiding all-out war between the two sides. The bill's passage is only by a narrow margin.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Progress of our Pacific war program and the growing possibilities of reasonably quick recapture of some rubber areas in the Far East have made men who know the rubber industry best emphasize the need for sound policies to deal with the economic and political problems which the gradual return of natural rubber will raise.

Mexico has its own way of conserving tires. Mexican motorists are required, by government regulation, to keep their cars idle one day a week. Car owners select their "motorless day" and then must display on their windshields a sticker of a color designated for that day of the week.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Now that you mention it, Judge, I can see this really has been a 'war of jobs'."
 "Yes it has, Fred, and the biggest job of all is the one being done by our armed forces across the sea... the actual physical fighting that is bringing victory closer day by day."
 "And here at home, Judge, our job has been to supply our men abroad with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. And to provide the money to buy these supplies through our purchase of War Bonds. By and large, I think we've taken our job seriously, too."

 "You're right, Fred, we have. But there's one more big job we've got to do for our men over there. That is to abide by their wishes that this country should be kept the same way it was when they left it... not changed around while they're away and can't express their opinion."
 "In all fairness, Judge, that's a simple request no one can afford to disregard."

and he'll have his job back—

"We hope it won't be long before Daddy comes home. Wouldn't that be good news? But to Daddy the best news will be that he'll get his old job back when he comes home. Then we'll all be happily united again."

Yes... every one of our men and women on leave with our fighting forces can come back to us. And that can't be too soon for us. It will be a happy day when they rejoin our organization, again helping to serve the peacetime natural gas needs of the Gulf South.

ARMISTICE DAY

On this, the 26th Anniversary of the Armistice, a grateful nation pauses to honor its soldiers both living and dead. We are again locked in conflict but if the present war will put an end to dictatorship and international outlawry for all time—if it will bring us lasting peace—then the sacrifice of human life and treasure so keenly realized this Armistice Day will not have been in vain.

Closed all day Armistice Day, Saturday, November 11th.

Dec. 1 Gift Mail

December 1 is the deadline requested by the Post Office Department for mailing Christmas gifts inside the United States. Every citizen who is playing Santa Claus for loved ones and friends in other towns is urged to get that present in the mails by that date to assure proper delivery. The reason, say postal officials, is that Americans are expected to mail domestically 25 percent more gifts than a year ago—and at a time when the Post Office has fewer employees and less well trained holiday help than ever before. In addition, the fact that more people have moved to different addresses to do war work is expected to mean that the average distance traveled by each gift will be greater than before the war.
